Control Of Atom Bomb Is Urgent

It is difficult to know-and indeed we may not for some time to come-if the timing of the news item on another atomic bomb test fits into the pattern of international maneu-

But regardless of whether it does, and regardless of what it revealed to military and scientific minds, it is apparent that we still are a long way from an answer on what to do about the atom bomb.

Every attempt to reconcile the differences between Russia and the U. S. on control of the bomb has met with failure. In the U. S. we like to think it is because Russia steadfastly has refused to uncurbed international inspection. Certainly, any sort of control which left this out would be pure mockery. Too, it would be unthinkable to destroy our atomic stock pile. On the other hand, Russia has some reasonable grounds for suspicioning that she would be at serious disadvantage in parliamentary stages of control, being member of a minority block which would be out-voted Moreover, Russia hopes to have its own A-bomb some of these days. Secretary of Defense Forrestal says the Soviets already know how The scientists have been saying that for months and months, and now the military finally admits it. It will be, however, quite some time-perhaps several years - before Russia can make a bomb.

Let us hope that in the meantime some means for sensibly settling on effective means of its control will have been found. We're far ahead and likely will stay that way for many years. But results of using atom bombs are too fearful to contemplate. Control is much

North Oil News Biggest In Years

Considerable excitement has been generated here by the showing of the Seaboard Oil Company of Deleware No. 1 Dora Campbell, northern Howard county outpost to the discovery well of the Vealmoor pool. And jus-

Having seen explorations come and go for vicinity, it is natural for a newspaper to be a little cautious-perhaps overly cautious at times-in reporting discoveries. Seasoned reporters and oilmen alike know that there is a vast difference often times between what farmers and side-walk geologists circulate after driving by a derrick or listening to some of the crew shoot the breeze and what actually is an established fact. Many a gossip gusher has never turned into a producer. But there is little doubt that Seaboard's second well in Vealmoor area is a big thing. For one thing, it tends to prove that there is a producing area and not a freakish pocket picked up in the original test. For another, it establishes a substantial thickness of soft and productive lime. For still another, it has demonstrated flowing production-a rarity in this vicinity except for isolated cases of following shots-and at a volume that makes the field look far more prolific than anything ever tapped in the Howard-Glasscock, Iatan-East Howard, Snyder, Morita, Moore, or any other pool in this vicinity.

On the basis of its showing thus far, the Seaboard test definitely is the biggest oil news here in 20 years.

The Nation Today

Expansion By Russians

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, UP- To the coldly professional eye of the military planner, communism is just a new weapon in the hands of a nation with expansionist ambitions ten centuries old.

The generals and admirals, whose job it is to defend the United States, leave the arguments about ideologies and political philosophies to others when they hold council room sessions on Russia. Their interest narrows to these questions:

1. What impels the Soviet military ambitions and what geographical direction will they take? 2. How would they be carried

The thinking goes something like

What is now modern Russia started out a thousand years ago as a small principality surrounding the present site of Moscow. The history of expansion began almost immediately.

The growth of Russia from a principality to an empire extending from middle Europe to the shores of the Pacific resulted from wars and annexations. Some times the program halted. But its growth was steady.

Beginning about 1800, the trend and tempo gained new significance. The pressure was through Finland to the Baltic, westward through Poland, along the western coast of the Black Sea and south toward the Caspian. The advantages of the Pacific Coast were recognized, and the Siberian boundary was pushed eastward and southward to Vladivostok. There the interests of Russia encountered those of Japan. Russia fought and lost.

Then Moscow's attention again turned westward-to warm water ports and a secure exit to the Mediterranean. Hitler, with expansionist ideas of his own, challenged Russia's westward move. But the overriding idea was to surround Russia with space which meant military security. This was the foreign policy of the czars.

For Lenin and the planners in the Kremlin the space-meanssecurity idea was inadequate. The only true security for Communist Russia would be world domina-

When military men draw maps now of possible future Soviet moves, they trace prongs forking out toward Gibraltar; down across the Dardenelles into the oil-rich Middle East; up across Scandinavia to the Arctic island of Spitzbergen and to Greenland: outward from Siberia across Alaska. down into China, - and, of course, westward to the Atlantic coast of Originally the czars and, until the last decade, the Soviets too had only one instrument to use in their expansionist program armed force.

Buth the Russian government of today has a new and powerful weapon, the world-wide activities of the Communist Party as directed by Moscow.

Applied as a military device, communism is used to paralyze the ability of another nation to resist by force.

The objectives are two-fold: to cripple the mustering of military forces and the operations of government; and to seize control of industry that would support the military by supplying munitions. These objectives are the tasks of Communist agents infiltrated into

British No Hanging Law

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

England, after a mighty struggle with her conscience over long generations, finally has decided through the medium of her House of Commons to abolish capital punishment for murder during a trial period of five years.

The vote for this notable experiment-245 to 222-came after a dramatic seven-hour debate over the question of whether to hang or not to hang-a penalty which has been exacted for some 800 years. The verdict represented a defeat for government views, though it wasn't a political reverse, since the Labor (Socialist) government had given the rank and file of its party the privilege of voting as they saw fit, and even permitted members with minor ministerial posts to abstain.

The Conservatives, whose leaders were against abolishment, also split and thus the issue became non-partisan, with Socialists and Conservatives voting according to their personal leanings. It was a remarkable event. The measure still must go through other stages in Commons and must pass the House of Lords, but the government already has accepted it as law by reprieving two men who were about to go to the gallows for murder. They have received life sentences. In the debate the government fought the measure on the grounds Island, United Nations delegates SUBSCRIPTION RATES—By carrier, one year, $13: that it was essential for the pro-tection of society and that abolish

Army Backward In Air Mindedness

WASHINGTON. -Apropos the Forces and the Army-Navy, it is interesting to recall that in 1940 the Army asked congress for only six flying fortresses. This was one year after war broke in Europe, yet the Army still didn't see the need of planes.

And had it not been for Congressman Ross Collins of Mississippi who demanded more planes, the Army would have been worse prepared than it was.

Today, President Truman - an eex-artilleryman-is siding with Secretary Forrestal's Navy and Ground Forces, while Congressas in 1940-is siding with the Air

Backstage battling between Forrestal and Air Secretary Symington has been even more vitiolic than most people realize. Here is part of the repartee during a locked-door session of the Senate Armed Services Committee between the Air Secretary and the man who is supposed to be his SYMINGTON - "Supposing you take this figure of $15,000,000,000 more if the three services get everything they want. That is the figure that went around. It would not be $15,000,000,000, it would be a lot more with the mobilization plan.

FORRESTAL-"We do not accept that."

SYMINGTON-"The Army does. They are talking mobilization. We are not. We are talking peacetime

Air Force in the being." FORRESTAL-"They are talking a little bit higher than they need talk." SYMINGTON -"The Air Ferce for three years has said it needed the 70-group program in peacetime and it has never deviated because of the strategic aspect of the 70 groups. We asked this year what we asked for in 1947 and 1948." FORRESTAL-"You have to exercise some judgment between extremes. There is a middle ground for judgment which, as I say, I have to rely on the joint chiefs of staff to furnish me with, and they are going to have a very hard wrestling match to do it."

TOTAL AIR STRENGTH

In addition to the 70 regular groups, the Air Force is asking for 27 groups for Air National Guard, 34 groups for Air Reserve, 22 squadrons for such activities as reconnaissance, air weather and air communications. The increase from 55 to 70 groups will mean a corrsponding increase from 364,-000 to 453,000 men by the end of

If the 70-group program is approved, the Air Force plans on adding 1.512 airplanes in fiscal year 1949. The big increase would be in bomber strength. Under the 55-group program, the Air Force would be limited to 480 bombers: under the 70-group program, this would be increased to 720 bomb-

The original range was 3,938 miles, the present range is 4 100 miles and the expected range is 6.945 miles. However, the B-29 already has been flown more than 5,000 statute miles with 10,000 pounds of bombs, Symington disclosed.

How he does it with Romanian currency under strict control is a mystery. Nevertheless, U. N. delegates are never without champagne and shashlik when they visit Palla's home.

Previously Dr. Palla was Romanian minister to Switzerland for the fascist Antonescu government which declared war on the U. S. A. It was this same Antonescu government which slaughtered 300,000 Jews, sent many of their bodies to the I. G. Farben soap factories.

However. Palla now serves the the Communist government of Romania, is reported to be close to Anna Pauker, Red boss of Romania. Despite this background, Palla obtained a visa to visit the U. S. A., and believe it or not. is consulted by State Department officials on legal problems. Furthermore, he is the man believed to have engineered the sudden U. S. shift of policy regarding genocide-the massacre of human beings because of race, religion or culture.

The world has seen some ghastly massacres even in modern times, among them the Turkish massacre of the Armenians and Hitler's slaughter of the Jews. Now the United Nations proposes making future mass destruction an international crime. But suddenly the United States switched its position. Instead of backing a genocide convention with teeth, last week U. S. Delegate John Maktos received new instructions-namely to confine the crime of genocide to governments. This would make the treaty unenforceable, since any government can claim that rioters who massacred Jews, Aremenians or Moslems were irresponsible criminals uncontrolled by government. This sudden switch hasn't received the publicity given to our

States on the Queen Elizabeth with switch on Palestine, but it's fust mysterious.

If Congress investigated, it might find some interesting backstage factors behind the operations of Romania's Dr. Vespasien Palla. U. S. CITIES AND A-BOMB

Healthy development in the Army-officers have been instructed to get acquainted with the U. S. A. Atomic-bombing makes it essential.

To this end, officers training for 'M-Day" have been ordered to study Robert S. Allen's "Our Fair City." A spokesman for the Defense Department's Advisory Committee on Community Relations

"In the last war there were sporadic salvage drives for tin cans, scrap rubber, copper and other scarce materials. That was kid stuff compared to what will face us in the future. The military ought to know the blunt facts about city administration and political rule and what to do if all hell breaks loose.

"'Our Fair City' is the perfect reference volume because it pulls no punches. It was written by working newspapermen who analyzed and dissected their home towns with the kind of candor that military men should see.

"We now are in contact with people in 500 communities. They are civil leaders who operate behind the scenes. They have to receive as much information from us as we receive from them.

"For example, we will have to let the people know more about the role of the National Security Resources Board. The board favors decentralization of U.S. industry, for national safety in time of emergency. We have to show why. We have to explain what raw materials are in short supply and what allocations will be necessary to maintain a war economy, if there is to be one.' Sound advice if carried out

Today And Tomorrow—Walter Lippmann

Pentagon Is Divided

tors have been reporting the hopes and the doubts of officials in the State Department who are thinking about the President's promise that "the United States will, by appropriate means, extend" to the free nations of Europe the military support which they need in order "to protect themselves." But while these officials are thinking about what to propose, the Congress is about to dispose of the mattercertainly for the next crucial months-as soon as it has settled the dispute between Secretary Forrestal and Secretary Symington.

For once the new military program is adopted, it will be set, unless war breaks out, at least until there is a new Administration next winter. Yet neither the Forrestal nor the Symington program is designed to provide "appropriate means" by which the Western Union nations can protect themselves." The Pentagon, however, divided on the relative size of the Air Force, the ground Army, and the Navy, is proposing no program which takes into account the fact that the State Department promoted the Brussels Alliance and that the President and Secretary Marshall have committed the country to support it.

The Brussels pact is a defensive alliance to resist the invastion and occupation of western Europe. American military policy - the

is not designed to defend particular countries against invasion; it is designed to deter aggression against any country by the threat of a crushing reprisal against the centers of the Soviet Union itself. Until these two military conceptions have been reconciled inside the Administration, we shall not be moving toward an understanding with the Western Union but toward a most dangerous misunderstanding. The Burssels pact is to prevent invasion. The Pentagon policy is to defeat Russia eventually. In 1939 Britain and France went to war when Poland was attacked. But they did not defend Poland. In 1941 the United States went to war with Japan. But it was unable to defend the Philippines.

The question, therefore, is not whether the United States will by treaty or joint resolution formally promise to go to war if the Western Union is attacked. It is whether it can and will adopt military measures which enable Great Britain, the United States, France, and the Benelux nations to oppose effectively an advance by the Red Army into western Europe.

The essence of the problem is what will happen to France, Belgium, the Netherlands-and Luxembourg if our strategic Air Force is not a sufficient deterrent against all aggression, if indeed, while it is being built up, the Soviet Union decides to occupy western Europe Texas Today

Women Take Holiday To Bowling

Dallas is toaged with giggles and groans and hysteria and ham acting. The Women's International Bowling Congress is there in force from April 8 to May 10.

Between those dates, 7,280 women are having their fling at the alleys and so far about 97.6 per cent have worn slacks and sweaters. Another 2 per cent favor those terrible droopy-looking pants that hang forlornly a little below the knees and are known to the trade as pedal pushers. That leaves 4 of one per cent to wear dresses. We didn't see any women bowlers in dresses the afternoon we visited the alleys but the man who ran the joint said there are such things.

Many were surprisingly competent at bowling and even those who weren't so good exhibited so much dash and eagerness that it made the game colorful and interesting to watch. One woman from California yelled "yippyhoo" and did a high kick whenever she scored a strike; another danced a little Charleston step; the victory flourish of a third was to pat herself on the back with both hands at once.

Many of the women were elderly-you had a feeling they properly could have stayed home to complain of rheumatism. The oldest was 83. Roma Scott from Anchorage, Alaska, who flew in with a flourish and at tremendous expense to have a try at the prizes.

We watched Mable a long time. Mable Swanson was her name, a telephone girl from Grants Pass. Oregon who plunged $1,000 on an air trip to Texas, her first visit to the Southwest

Mable was a hefty girl of 32, hazel-eyed and copper-haired, who could really bowl. She ran up a long series of strikes. Mable would roll that ball down the alley and by the time it crashed into the pins, she would be prancing away, her back to the flying clubs, quite a figure in her yellow sweater and brown slacks. Then her teammates would yell happily and Mable would look up at them with feigned surprise and smiling mod-

Her first two games were so good that she needed only a 216 to go to the top of the singles list. This was not too much to expect of Mable, since once she had scored a 279. But the pressure was too great. She still pranced away from the alley, but the pins nger flew the way they had . . and she resorted more and more to wiping her hands nervously on the towel. She didn't get the 216 or anything like it.

But she was a sport about it afterwards. "I've had a lot of fun and there'll be other tournaments," she said Then she headed for another bowling alley, nearby, to get in some practice.

Returning War Dead

BROOKLYN ARMY BASE April 20. (P)-The task of returning American war dead will be completed in half the expected time. Originally the Army thought it would take five years and $200 million. This estimate was based on the belief that next - of-kin would request the return for reburial in this country of about 80 percent of the men who died over-

Today the Quartermaster Corps hopes to complete the program in about two years. Survivors of only 69 percent of the combat dead of World War II have asked they be returned from the lands where

An interesting sidelight: Of 243,398 letters dispatched by last February to next-of-kin asking their wishes, some 54,656 have not even been answered.

What does this figure mean? It means that one out of every five persons hasn't taken the trouble to notify the government what he wants done with the body of a man who when alive listed him as his nearest or dearest relative. A charitable interpretation of this inaction is that the 20 percent who didn't reply merely took this means of indicating that they wanted their war dead to remain where they are. In 10,189 other cases the letters of inquiry were returned as undeliverable. The next-of-kin no longer could be found.

Of some 115,637 reply forms returned and now classified, 79, 754-or 69 percent-requested the serviceman be returned here for burial in a private or national A majority of the war dead pass through the New York Port of Embarkation on the way to one of the 15 distribution centers throughout the country, where military escorts are assigned to accompany them to their final resting place.

The task is carried on with sint ple dignity. Each transport is met by 300 to 400 survivors, representatives of veterans groups, and a Protestant, Catholic' and Jewish chaplain. A short memorial service is held.

The dead are listed individually on the transport's passenger roster. After each name is the notation-(deceased).

"One mother who came down to meet the ship bore up well until she saw her boy listed as a passen-Division. "Then she wept."

Around The Rim—By The Herald Staff

It has always been a mystery to me just why vacations for schools come as they do, especially the Christmas vacations, if the two weeks that students and teachers are off could be called a vacation.

These two weeks come, if my memory of school days serves me correct at the peak of the last six weeks of the first semester. The first week after the students return, is spent in relearning what was scheduled for the last two weeks before the holidays excitement of the anticipation of the holidays are always hindrances to study, or so I learned.

I held those two weeks as a cure to all evils, while a student. It began early in the term, if I found one task particularly unpleasant, one that had to be completed before the end of the semester I scheduled it for the Christmas holidays, knowing full well that all the work that I had on the slate during the last Christmas holidays was as near completion at the end of them as at the begins

As the holidays neared, more and more things were to be done during that time offtwo whole weeks, with nothing being assigned during that time, why goodness me, I'd devote one day to that geography notebook, one to that English notebook and before I knew it, it would all be done, so why worry about it now-but every day the dreadful notebook came before my mind's eye. I'd plan all over again to do it Christmas.

Teachers are not immune to putting things off to the Christmas holidays also-they always noticed that they must have a theme in a certain course... Christmas was a good time for the students to do it, so about three days before the holidays, here would come the assignment of a 1000 or 2000 word theme due at the end of the holidays.

The outcome was that the work that I had planned and the work the teachers put off until Christmas was too much for me to think about doing-why it would take all of my time, and this was a vacation. I'd get it done some time or other, I always did, but what amount of worry was connected with those holidays!

It seems to me that all the rules of education are opposite to this sort of set up. .. The student has to spend so much of the allotted time to reviewing what should not have to be reviewed, when he could be taking up something new, and then the idea of a vacation is to be free from worry and how can one forget en school with the examinations so soon upon returning, even if his study habits were better than mine. Since changing the date of Christmas would involve so much work and controversy, seems to me that the date of beginning school could be set up and then the vacation could come at Christmas after the first semester has ended and the new semester could begin at the end of the holidays. That would be a real vacation. Probably sounds impossible to those who know all about those things and to the readers, it probably sounds like a peculiar season to discuss the topic...but the Parent-Teacher Association is having a district conference in the near future and I'm sure that I am not the only one who has pondered over educational eccentricities and wondered why they are so. Then too, anything has to be planned before it can be carried out.-BILLIE BUR-

NEW YORK-Picture of a former Pollo. Reporter Scratching His Head: Wonder what ever happened to the delicate, lovely, lonely old lady who hopped out a twelfth-story window up on 101st Street years ago and got up and walked away. . She'd been brooding over the death of her husband, was discouraged because of an inability to learn English at her advanced age, and decided to take the dry-jump way out when her money started to ebb.

She'd come from Europe, had suffered a stretch in a Hitler concentration camp and somehow had managed to get to New York. . . Just when things started looking bright after her years of cruel oppression, they got black over on this side. . . When she climbed out the window of her apartment house, she hadn's taken into consideration a deep fall of snow, or a high chicken wire fence in the churchyard which backed up against her apartment house, where kids played ball all summer. . . She leaped, struck the wire fence, fell into deep snow and got up and walked away, looking for a doctor. She suffered a cracked hip, and possibly a pelvis injury, but the doctor in the clinic into which she wandered, and where I subsequently talked to her through an interpreter. said she'd be up on her feet in a month or so. . I've wondered many times what happened to her, if she resolved her fears and troubles, and if she's any better off today. or whether she tried the leap again. . .

She was a sweet, soft-voiced little lady of quiet culture and restrained refinement, whose story undoubtedly never will have a finale in my memory, just one of a hundred, maybe a thousand, little mysteries which piled up in the hurly-burly of a New York reporter's hysterical workaday world.

Then there was a short, red-faced, curlytopped lad named Bobby Stapt, who had run away from home so many times that a juvenile court judge took him into his chambers and had a real Judge Hardy man-to-man joust with him. . . He turned up a strange insistence on a seagoing career, and with the best judicial intelligence made arrangements for the boy, well under the entrance age, to attend a Merchant Marine Academy

WENTZ SAYS EPPLER-SCOTT BOUT WILL BE LULU

Mark Wentz, who is ramroding the Big Spring Athletic association's drive to bring amateur boxing back here, says he expects the Jimmy Eppler-Billy Scott battle on the April 30 show to be one of the best simon-pure scraps ever staged in Texas.

Scott, the reigning TAAF middleweight champion, shaded Eppler in a furious battle at Odessa some time back but Jimmy's backers four places. Following is a box score of the insist he wasn't in shape. Trainer Burt Gannon and others are seeing Coahoma-Knott Tri-County baseball to it that Eppler attains the "pink" this time out.

Jimmy is slightly the taller of the two boys and weighs perhaps Sunday and won by the resident two or three pounds more than the classy Odessan. He's counting on using that to excellent advantage when they square away again.

> DON THOMPSON READY TO MEET ANY HEAVYWEIGHT Wentz, by the way, may bring in an out-of-town heavyweight to handle Billy Wooster's dreadnaught, Don Thompson, figuring that the big boys are what will attract the fans. Thompson, who played football on Odessa's crackerjack team in the 3AA wars last fall and who won the heavyweight title of the Odessa Golden Gloves regional tournament, is aching for action.

EVERYBODY GOT INTO ACTION AT COAHOMA SUNDAY Behind the junkyard in right field was about the safest place at the Coahoma-Knott baseball game last Sunday. Athletes and spectators alike fell like ten-pins for a while. Emergency first aid was given to three players and an onlooker, before the party broke up. Two of the injured wound up in local hospitals. Red Stamps, a fan, was felled by a passed ball and suffered a groin injury. He watched the remainder of the game and then reported to the hospital. The Baker brothers, Rube and Alvin, were struck by pitched ball
