Big Spring Forward Movement To Begin Tuesday, Nov. 20

Workers To Start Canvas Early Tuesday

Breakfast at Crawford Hotel, Start in Motion Machinery For Drive

The Big Spring Forward Movement is reaching its final organization stages, with all the participants set to go through the last few days to a whirlwind finish. Last instructions will be given at 9 o'clock, a. m. Tuesday at the Settler Hotel to the army of workers who will call upon Big Spring to do its part through the chamber of commerce with a definite plan to make Big Spring a bigger and better city.

Breakfast at 7:30 Wednesday at the Crawford Hotel, will set in motion the sturdy machinery that has been set up to insure the success of this effort. The old saying, "the early bird catches the worm" has been dusted off for the occasion brought down from the shelf, so to speak, and a new order exists—Royal Order of Early Birds. All the members of the campaign organization are on its roster. It is an early hour but a challenge to rise and greet the rosy fingered dawn of a better day. The five great leaders have issued this brief but potent statement: "We are all set to go over the top for Big Spring." This message is endorsed by D. W. Webber, M. H. Bennett, P. W. Malone, Jess Hall and Clyde E. Thomas.

Personnel of the organization leaders enlisted to date is as follows:

Adolphe Menjou, more or less officially rated the best-dressed man in the movies, named these four women in his own list of the "ten best-dressed women in the world." Left to right: Mme. ## Burr Manager Endorses Big Spring Drive

Says Forward Movement Will Place Big Spring On High Level

B. B. Boyd, local manager, L. C. Burr company endorses the Big Spring Forward Movement and believes that it will be instrumental in placing Big Spring on a higher plane of business. In commenting on the movement Boyd said: "We have been very fortunate in getting a little more out of Big Spring than we wanted to put into it. Big Spring has one of the largest trade territories in Texas according to its size and has received a reasonable share of business without any concentrated efforts upon the citizenship whatsoever. "The progress of our city means much to each individual, regardless of what occupation or profession that individual may be pursuing. Big Spring is one of the few towns in the State of Texas that is not overbuilt. Many towns must grow a lot before more build-

"The old name suggested a more formal composition than the rules of the contest contemplate, and hence it has been deemed wise to change the name to make it conform more closely to the composition that is required. ## HOLC Loans Terminated In B'Spring

143 Loans Closed In Local Office Before Order Given To Close

Since Sept. 1, 1933 at which time the HOLC Act became operative and begin to function in Howard county there has been closed in the office of the HOLC of Big Spring, 143 loans and there are now pending in the office of Garland A. Woodward, in charge twelve loans for final disposition, according to Garland A. Woodward. There is an estimated forty or fifty other applications pending upon which appraisals have been made that will likely be finally closed. Mr. Woodward stated that he had received instructions that the district appraiser's office in Amarillo was being discontinued, the effect of which would be the elimination and rejection of all applications now pending in Amarillo, upon which appraisals have not been made and that those applicants whose property has not been appraised can not expect a consummation of their loan through HOLC channels. The HOLC in Washington has advised that pending approved applications be closed and that the business of the corporation be brought to a close because the president believed recovery is now here to the extent that private lending agencies can take care of community loans. Mr. Woodward further stated that only one loan has been closed outside of Big Spring in Howard county. The Federal Housing Act now effective permits renovating improving, reconditioning and out right construction through local banking institutions, payment for which is over a period of one to five years at 5 per cent interest.

Indians Hunt Shrine Stone

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (UP)—Indians have launched a new search for a mystic stone which legend says brought victory to the Blackfeet in a battle near here long ago. Assiniboines the Crees were battling the Blackfeet, Bloods and Pelgans with the latter getting the worst of the fight when a large, pinkish stone suddenly hurtled from the skies. From that moment, the Blackfeet and their allies gained the upper hand. It was made a shrine. In time, the stone was covered with earth and its story almost forgotten. Local historians and Indians are planning to unearth and mark the old-time shrine. The Porcelain tower of Nanjing, erected in the fifteenth century, is the most famous Chinese pagoda.

Knott School Has Many Improvements, Enthusiasm High

Knott school which opened October 8 began with a great deal of enthusiasm. The opening day program, which was well attended, featured speeches by patrons as well as teachers. No little of the enthusiasm which has been displayed is due to the following improvements in the school: (1) the buildings were painted inside and out; (2) an improved system of electric bells was installed; (3) the desks were secured to the floor; (4) a new library was established, and new books were purchased for it; (5) a tennis court was provided; (6) the floors were oiled; (7) four new teachers were employed; (8) a well was drilled, and a windmill was erected; (9) and last but not least the heating system was changed from the old coal burning stoves to oil burners. The patrons and teachers have met and organized an active P.T.A. Officers are: president, Mrs. Sam Johnson; vice-president, Floy Castle; secretary, Mrs. George Sinclair; treasurer, Mrs. Earl Castle. Three meetings have been held, and two programs have been given. Patrons, trustees, and teachers are united in the opinion that the Knott school is headed for its most successful year. Virgil W. Jackson is superintendent and John Anderson is president of the board of trustees. The other teachers are: Floy McGregor, Mrs. Merle Newton, Pauline Haynes and Clyde W. James.

OUR LIBERTIES AT STAKE: In one of his books, the late ex-President Wilson said: "I do not want to live under a philanthropy. I do not want to be taken care of by the government. . . I want only to have right and justice prevail so far as I am concerned. Give me right and justice and I will undertake to take care of myself. I will not live under trustees if I can help it. I do not care how wise, how patriotic, the trustees may be. I have never heard of any group of men in whose hands I am willing to trust the liberties of the American people."

Woodrow Wilson, before he became President, was a distinguished educator and historian, and in that statement he ably reflects the true American spirit—the spirit that won our independence, wrote our Constitution, and gave us democratic government. That spirit is the direct antithesis of paternalism. Its base is in the solid rock of individual self-reliance. Its image is the typical American who, like the War President, wants no one to determine his destiny, and wants only, under fair conditions, to carve out his own future.

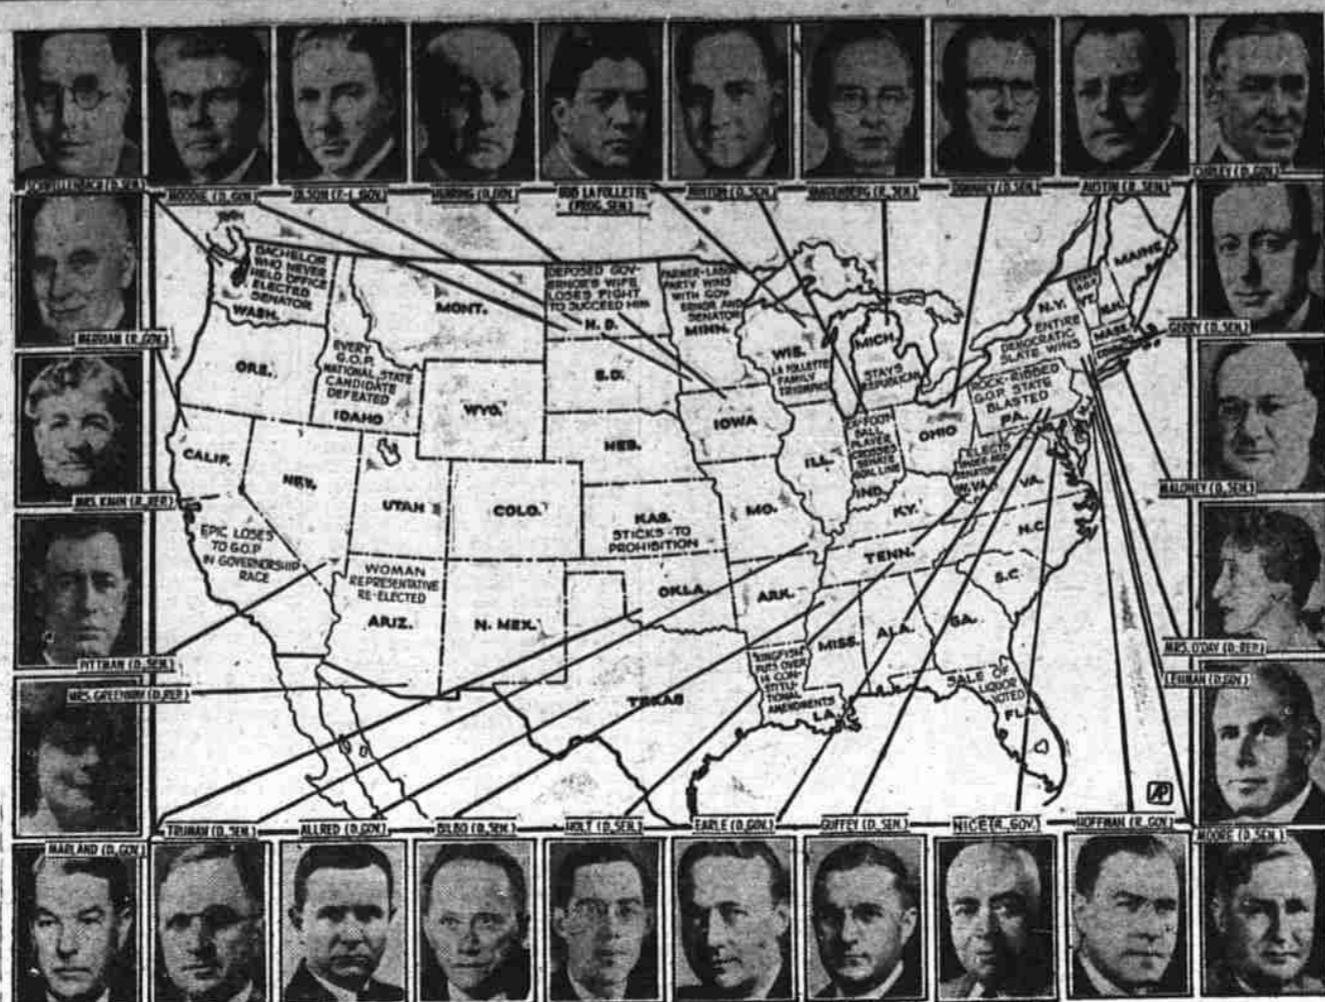

OUR SENTIMENTS: "Town Quack" in the Midland Reporter-Telegram, Thursday came out with the following comments, which express our sentiments exactly. We reproduce them here-with: "Journalism is a state of hell, made so by irate subscribers, advertising moochers, propagandists, complainers and the like."

HOW THE DAY STARTED: Thanksgiving has a history and a recent writer gives its background, saying: "Thanksgiving Day, now a national holiday, originated in New England, and is closely linked with America's early history. 'After the first harvest of the New England colonists in 1621, Governor Bradford made provisions for a day of thanksgiving and prayer. In 1623 a day of fasting and prayer in the midst of drought was changed into thanksgiving by the coming of rain during the prayers; gradually the custom prevailed of appointing thanksgiving annually after harvest. These appointments were by proclamation of the governors of the several New England colonies. 'During the revolution a day of national thanksgiving was annually recommended by congress."

State Battles 'Highlight' Election Map

Few off-year elections have created the excitement and interest of the one just past. Widely interpreted as a test of "new deal" sentiment, the election revealed a democratic landslide throughout the nation, with few exceptions. Vermont stayed republican. . . as did Michigan. Minnesota approved its farmer-labor governor and senator by re-electing them. Rock-ribbed republican Pennsylvania was blasted wide open by the democrats with senate and gubernatorial wins. Highlights included the clean democratic sweep in New York state and Tammany's capture of the New York city comptrollership. . . re-election of Mrs. Isabella Greenway, Arizona democrat, to the House of Representatives. . . California's repudiation of Upton Sinclair's EPIC program by electing Frank F. Merriam, republican, governor. In Connecticut a democratic representative was promoted to the senate. Florida voted for repeal. . . as did West Virginia, Idaho, Nebraska and South Dakota. . . Kansas voted to retain its prohibition laws. . . In Idaho, despite Republican Senator Borah's campaigning, every G. O. P. candidate for national and state office was defeated. . . In Indiana, Sherman Sinton, democrat, once a football player at Indiana university, defeated Senator Arthur Robinson, Jr., arch critic of the "new deal." . . Louisiana's "kingfish," Huey Long, put over 14 constitutional amendments and talked about making his state a Utopia—and seceding. . . Maryland chose Harry W. Nice, republican, as governor, rejecting A. C. Ritchie. . . Democrat J. M. Curley, three times mayor of Boston, won the Massachusetts governorship. . . New Hampshire elected a republican governor. . . New Jersey voted former Governor A. Harry Moore, democrat, into the senate, but gave a republican the gubernatorial office. . . North Dakota elected a democratic governor in a race uninvited by the campaign of Mrs. William Langer, republican, seeking her re-elected husband's gubernatorial office. . . Another arch critic of the "new deal," Senator Fess of Ohio, was defeated by former Governor Vie Donahue, democrat. . . A descendant of a signer of the Declaration of Independence, Peter Goolbsy, wealthy Rhode Island newspaper publisher, won a senate seat from Republican Senator Herbert. . . In Washington, a 40-year-old bachelor who has never held office was elected to the senate on the democratic ticket. He succeeds retiring Senator Dill, once his teacher in prep school. . . The La Follette brothers' progressive party triumphed in the election of Robert to the senate and Philip to the governorship. . . The winners in some of the more important contests are shown here.

JAPAN VS. ROOSEVELT

Texas Exports of Scrap Iron, Cotton and Oil Effected By London Naval Dispute and Jap War Scare

The Associated Press from Galveston reports: "Shipments of scrap metal from Texas ports to Japan in October were nearly three times as large as in October, 1933.

"Figures compiled here showed that shipments in October, 1934, amounted to 20,473,231 pounds, as compared with 7,993,870 in October of last year."

The death of a relatively obscure archduke by assassination in 1914 was printed by many American newspapers in just about such a manner. The buying of three times a usual amount of scrap iron by Japan and shipping it through Texas ports may mean that there is prosperity in the making of plowshares in Japan. They are making battleships and guns.

TWO WEEKS AGO Japan announced her practical confiscation of all oil fields in her sphere of influence in China. She also announced that no oil company could continue business in Japan without carrying a two years' supply of oil in Japan available to the Japanese government by seizure at its own price.

Japan is getting ready to have all of the oil and the steel needed for a prolonged war. And she is paying for the same in a country almost agonizing in its effort to escape bankruptcy.

THE LONDON NAVAL CONFERENCE under which Japan is demanding the right to build as many ships as either England or the United States is now on. The American position is that the United States should have equal naval power in the Pacific waters with Japan. The Japanese position is that she should be supreme in the Pacific and that any boats the United States needs in the Atlantic should be deducted from her Pacific ocean necessities.

America will not yield. Japan has said that if America does not yield she will break the naval treaty signed eight years ago. And those who know predict that President Roosevelt will tell Japan to do exactly as she pleases and that America must be governed by what Japan does.

MUCH MORE SCRAP IRON should go to Japan from Texas ports during the next few months. Japan has become an increasing factor in cotton purchases. Cotton makes army clothes and nitro-glycerin as well as shirts for field workers.

It is inconceivable that nearly bankrupt Japan will push her bluff further than she can carry it. Japan has been told by her diplomat reporters in America and England that neither of these countries will go to war under any circumstances. She has been told by her foreign observers that she has a monopoly on war during the next 10 years and can do as she pleases in the Pacific.

The condition is not unlike that of the German government in 1912 and 1913. The people and the government were sold on the value of war as a benefit to national greatness.

Japan has been sold the same philosophy by her relatively small victories over Korea and China and her victory over Russia of 30 years ago. Japan as yet has lost no war since she opened her gates to the whites. Until she loses a war she may not be satisfied to promote and to keep world peace.

PENNANTS ARE WON in December

Editor's Note: This is the fourth and last of a series on Tom Yawkey's attempt to buy the Boston Red Sox back to the heights in the American League. By H. J. NEVLAND (Associated Press Sports Writer) SAN FRANCISCO, (AP)—Joe Cronin will talk to you about the weather or the stupidity of golf, or the American league in general, but "please don't ask me about the Red Sox," he says. "All I know is I'm going to get in several long prayers that Lefty Grove's arm is in shape when the season opens. "Detroit will find the 1935 race considerably harder than last season, I believe," Cronin says. "Philadelphia in such matters. They have a delphia, particularly, should be a dangerous club. They have young pitchers developing who should come through in real fashion next year."

He believes the real problem in running a club is found in the temperament of the players. To him it is a matter of convincing those under him that "individualism should be forgotten for the best interests of the team." While he does not smoke or drink, he says he is not "Furman" in such matters. He believes in the precept that "big league players should know what is best for them, otherwise they wouldn't be in the big leagues." Consequently he does not check up on what time the players go to bed, or question their habits, or off the field. "There are some players who naturally must be taken in hand for their own good. But the general run of them under-is one of the finest assets of your city and its proper development means much to the future happiness and comfort of your citizens making your city a much finer place to live in." I believe it is unfair to make the bonds come due in six to eight years as if the value of the bonds was only temporary. Why not let them come due at the city bonds? However I contend that it isn't necessary to issue bonds in order to provide the land, that the city can handle it out of the general fund with short time warrants if necessary. Let's build Big Spring by providing parks, playgrounds and amusements along with wholesome and retail growth. That's why I am voting for the bonds. FOX STRIPLIN.

H. Clay Read: "I am for the bond issue of $20,000 to purchase more adjoining land, to enlarge the state park, making the park contain 600 acres. Especially so, since they have paid in advance, about ten to one already; working 240 men there for several months. If you would drive out to this scenic drive and see the work that has already been planned, laid out, much of it completed, you would certainly say, that it is a grand investment for the city and county. If you have not been on this hill, and have not seen the scenic drive during the last four months, you certainly cannot realize what has been done there—then do not vote against this bond issue, but rather stay at home and do not vote. Within six months this great and substantial improvement will be completed, then you will be glad that you stayed at home. This improvement that is being done by those 240 men, is worth 1,000 percent to this city and county. Vote for the bond issue to enlarge this park."

T. C. Thomas: "Next Tuesday, Nov. 20th, I will vote 'yes' in favor of the issuing of bonds to purchase the needed additional 416 acres necessary for the full development of the Scenic mountain park. The Civilian conservation corps organized by President Roosevelt for the purpose of giving much needed employment to our young men and boys is the most worthy and outstanding act in the whole recovery program. It is in truth a new deal for the youth of our country, and President Roosevelt has stated that the Civilian conservation corps may become a permanent institution. There are over 1,000 of these camps caring for over 300,000 young men and these boys are getting wonderful physical training and discipline of the United States army officers and National Park Service executives. Over a thousand of the CCC camps and park projects are a success and the citizens of these towns are glad to have the benefits of the government money invested, and more than glad to thus aid the president in his program for recovery. Then why should the technical and legal staffs of the Big Spring city government criticize and go out of their way to muddy the waters and confuse the minds of voters in an effort to defeat the bond issue? Come on, let's show our confidence in the president's program for recovery by voting the bond issue."

"T. C. THOMAS." J. B. Pickle: "I am still heartily in favor of buying the land required to enlarge the state park. We should not allow anyone to confuse us about the statement by a federal official that no more land is required by the government. The fact is the federal government did not require any land. It is a state project and it is a problem for the state park board and the city of Big Spring as this same federal official stated. Another big opportunity to add a big asset to Big Spring is at our door. What should we say? As for me, I am for it and I hope the majority of our people feel the same way about it. Let's vote the bonds."

"No, Mr. McSwain," Lon answered. "I don't admit anything. I don't know, that is the whole truth."

"Then you'd better find out," the man retorted. He stood for a moment. "I'll see you in the morning. You'll come to work at the usual time and say nothing to anyone of this, understand?"

"It isn't a thing I'd want to discuss," Lon answered.

McSwain turned to go, then turned back to Marian and she read triumph in his face. "And you talk-low his natural inclinations. There's nothing about you that would impel you to do a thing like that."

"I don't know about that, either, Ian," he answered reaching for her hands and holding them in a tight grip. "I've wanted awfully to make you see I could hold down a man-sized job and make you see you were wrong. Maybe some place deep down in my subconscious mind I figured that bringing home a lot of money would do it."

"Lon, dear, I've never doubted your ability. It wasn't that; it was just mistrust of McSwain. Lon, I wouldn't put it past McSwain to have had those men drug you, then change checks on you... no, don't protest; try now to remember the pay check as you received it from the paymaster Saturday."

Lon's head came up. "I do remember," he said suddenly. "Why, of course, I do. McSwain had said something about a raise and I looked to see, but it was the straight one hundred. I figured he'd been called out of town and hadn't notified the office. Ian, that proves it."

"No it doesn't, Lon, let's jump into the car and drive down to see Murphy. He'll be able to help us better than anyone else."

Half an hour later they were at the gas station. They waited until Murphy finished serving a customer, then called him to the car and questioned him.

"Let's see now," Murphy was duly impressed by their earnestness, "let's see... you drove up. You were at the wheel. I thought you acted sort of queer because you just missed the pumps and you're usually pretty careful and sure."

"You told me to fill her up and while I was doing that, you and the two men went inside the station, so as you would have something solid to endorse your checks on."

"You didn't happen to look on-

POISONED CANDY FATAL TO CHILD

POISONATED macerations they found in a Denver junk yard proved fatal to one child and resulted in serious illness for eight other youngsters, one of them believed to have little chance to recover. did you?" inquired Marian eagerly.

"No... no, not exactly, seems now I do remember seeing the three of them in sort of a huddle, yes, believe they were."

"And then," prompted Ian. "Then I got through with the car and went in and I asked them all to step outside so I could get into the safe without no one lookin' on... to be honest M. Casad I didn't like the looks of those men... and the three checks you see I couldn't pay out of the till, cause they came to a great amount."

"How... how much was mine for?" asked Lon.

"For two hundred dollars," answered Murphy promptly, "remember thinkin' it was a right smart bit of wage."

"Two hundred dollars," murmured Marian. She looked at Lon, his face was grey.

After he had locked the garage and entered the house he went to the divan and sat down. "Well Ian, that's that."

"That's what?" she asked.

"I did it. I raised the check... When I think of what that's going to mean... his voice broke and his head went down between his hands, arms propped on his knees.

"Lon, listen; listen Lon, don't feel that way, you did not raise-the check, nothing... no amount of circumstantial evidence, can make me believe it."

"Yes, but the courts won't be as prejudiced as you are. How can they help believing it when I do?" he asked in a strained voice.

Marian couldn't answer. Murphy's testimony alone would prove his guilt. He had been drinking. He came in, cashed his check, disappeared to return incapable of driving his own car.

"Let's not worry about the courts, if you return the money to McSwain he'll have no reason for prosecuting. I'm going to fix you a hot malted milk and then you go to bed and try to sleep. You're going to need strength tomorrow morning and you must have some rest. You're still weak from Saturday night."

He submitted to her ministrations in the docile manner of a sick child, allowing her to tuck him into bed. Then, as she sat on the edge of the bed stroking his head, he relaxed, responding unknowingly to the sedative she had slipped into the milk.

Satisfied he was asleep, Marian took Hero and went to the hill. Stars scintillated over head as though they had been washed and polished by the week-end storm. Diablo reared its placid bulk against the mosaic pattern they made in the night sky.

There was an answer to Lon's trouble. Marian knew it... perhaps if she could brush the cobwebs of worry from her mind and think clearly it would come to her. She must separate Lon from herself in her mind.

den City is planning to organize a troop there. There are several boys in town who have previously been in scouting. To supplement this group, there are many more of scout age who have expressed an interest in scouting.

Monday, 7:30 p. m. regular monthly board of review will be held in the basement of the First Baptist church, according to W. C. Blankenship, chairman.

It is about time for another district scouters meeting. Perhaps one of the most valuable things to scouting in this area are the scouters round table sessions.

Also conspicuous by its absence is a scouters training school. None has been held in this district since the camp leaders training session in early summer.

Troop No. 5 is making an attempt to encourage map making and reading, requirement on the first class test, by organizing weekly mapping parties.

Troop Meetings Troop No. 1—Instead of the weekly meeting the troop went on a hike to a cave known as "Lemon Cave." We met at Pickle's store and went on to the cave.

Troop No. 2—Two new members were added to the troop in its regular weekly meeting. The troop has been inactive since school was out and has just resumed meetings the last two weeks.

thused and plan on making the troop one of the best in town.

Troop No. 3—The troop's meeting was held Tuesday night with Scoutmaster Jack Cummings present together with 21 boys.

Troop No. 4—The troop had a varied program Thursday evening. The meeting was opened by several songs and a "Roman Street Scene." A brief game of "Hot Hand" was also played.

Troop No. 7—The troop met Friday evening and a good number was present. Much time was spent in planning an all night hike for Monday night.

First Baptist Men's Bible Class To Meet Earlier This Morning

Members of the First Baptist Men's Bible class will assemble at the regular class room today, make out their reports and then go to the Methodist church for a joint meeting with the Methodist men.

J. B. Pickle, president of the Baptist class, urged a large attendance on the part of Baptist men. He asked that they arrive a little earlier than usual in order that reports can be quickly filled.

W. C. Blankenship will teach the lesson for the joint meeting. During the last fiscal year the Red Cross gave assistance in 103 disasters.

TRADE MARK REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.

COME QUICK, DOCTOR!

NEVER MIND, DOCTOR!

WHAT'S THE MATTER? DON'T YOU FEEL WELL?

NOT ESPECIALLY. I THINK MAYBE I'LL HAVE THE DOCTOR --- JUST AS A PRECAUTION

OH, I SEE --- WELL, WHEN HE COMES IN, JUST LEAVE WORD FOR HIM TO DROP AROUND --- THANKS --- THAT'S RIGHT

IT SEEMS SO SILLY TO HAVE THE DOCTOR WHEN I'M NOT ACTUALLY ILL. DID YOU CALL HIM UP?

YEP. HE WAS OUT, BUT I LEFT WORD

I WISH TO GOODNESS WE HADN'T CALLED HIM. I DON'T KNOW WHAT HE'LL THINK OF THIS ROOM

HE'S COMING TO SEE YOU, AIN'T HE? NOT THE ROOM

YES, BUT HE CAN'T HELP USING HIS EYES AND THIS BEDSPREAD IS SO WORN. I THINK I'LL PUT ANOTHER ONE ON

HE'LL NEVER KNOW THE DIFFERENCE

NOW WHAT'S THE ROW?

OH, THERE'S A TEAR IN THIS SPREAD, TOO! I'LL HAVE TO HIDE IT WITH A PILLOW

BUT IT'S SO FOOLISH --- JUST BECAUSE THE DOCTOR IS COMING

NEVER MIND. PLEASE DO AS I SAY. GO DOWN AND GET THE NEW LITTLE RUG FROM THE LIVING-ROOM TO PUT OVER THAT WORN SPACE IN THE CARPET

SAY DON'T YOU SUPPOSE THE DOCTOR GOES TO WORSE LOOKING DUMPS THAN THIS EVERY DAY OF HIS LIFE?

THAT HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH IT. I WISH I HAD SOME NEW THINGS FOR THE TOP OF THIS BUREAU

IF YOU DON'T TAKE CARE, YOU REALLY WILL NEED A DOCTOR --- THE WAY YOU'RE FUSSING AND WEARING YOURSELF OUT

THERE! I THINK THAT LOOKS A LITTLE BETTER, IF NOT MUCH

NOW, PLEASE, PUT AWAY YOUR OWN THINGS THAT ARE SCATTERED AROUND THE ROOM. HANG THAT COAT UP IN THE CLOSET

WANT ME TO GO OUT AND GET A SHAVE AND A HAIRCUT?

GOOD GRIEF! I HAVEN'T HAD MY HAIR DONE IN FIVE WEEKS! YOU'LL HAVE TO CALL HIM AGAIN. HE HAS OFFICE HOURS TOMORROW. I'LL STOP IN AFTER I'VE BEEN TO THE HAIRDRESSER'S

YOU MEAN IT? YOU --- DON'T WANT HIM?

OH, HE ISN'T IN YET? --- WELL, JUST LEAVE WORD THAT HE NEEDN'T BOTHER TO COME SEE MRS. GREEN --- YES, SHE'S BETTER
