Let's Elect A Woman President

Editor's note: (The following article, composed by Mrs. A. L. Oder, appeared in the magazine made up by the local Home Demonstration Club. The magazine was completed in May, and the Club requested the News to publish this article, to comply with a part of their club work. The article does not necessarily express the views of the Santa Anna News or any of its employees.)

BY MRS. A. L. ODER
Many people are clamoring for a change of occupants in the White House. Some think we need a change in party.

I propose an all out change. Let's elect a woman for President. Why Not?

If a change is necessary, let's make it a big one.

The Scripture says, "Prove all things (which means try all things) and hold fast to that which is good."

We have never tried a woman President, so why not do so? If it doesn't work, it need not be repeated.

The status of woman has been undergoing a change for several decades and they have invaded almost every field of endeavor and have made good at each effort, even to Governors and Congresswomen. Women made a great contribution to the war effort by faithful labors in the munition plants, army posts, hospitals and where ever they were needed. Many of the same ones and countless others are giving good accounts of themselves in the present emergency.

All known efficient work of women in the field of education, industry, science, medicine, law, journalism, and other fields which were one time considered man's domain.

The United States has several women serving as government secretaries and ambassadors to other lands. They seem to be serving well.

We are told women do 35% of the buying for members of their families, as well as pay more taxes and own more property than men.

They know how to handle money. Many of them look well to the way of their household and live within their incomes. They know how to use it. They wear it out, or make it do. That type of women, if elected President, could and would, I believe, cut down on the unnecessary spending and reduce the burden of debt we have bequeathed to our children and grandchildren.

Women have helped their husbands with inventions. They were the power behind the throne as husbands advanced to fame. Yet, they were content to shine in the reflected glory of the husband.

Why not give them an honor all their own?

There are restrictions against women serving as President, but they could be removed.

It may continue to be true, "The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world". Let us find some good capable capable woman who has finished her cradle rocking and give her the greatest honor we can bestow, and the opportunity to serve the greatest nation as its Chief Executive.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Mulroy went to Huntsville Saturday to bring their daughter, Evangeline, and Annabelle Price home. The two girls had been attending a cheer leaders school at Sam Houston State Teachers College for the last week. On their return home, the group went to Dobbin, Texas, for a visit with Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Byrne, former school teachers in Santa Anna.

Mrs. J. T. Oakes Gives Another Old Newspaper

Mrs. J. T. Oakes presented the Santa Anna News with another Old newspaper to add to our files last Saturday. The paper, a Santa Anna News dated Friday, March 25, 1910, has been well preserved over the years, and we thank Mrs. Oakes for it.

The paper contains a complete account of the death of Mrs. Oakes' grandmother, Mrs. P. H. Turner, who died as the result of her home being destroyed by fire.

The paper also carried an interesting story on the oil development in Coleman County. It pictures a new discovery of oil in the Trickham area, and F. W. Turner, of the Santa Anna Industrial Co., said the well was flowing about 100 gallons per hour of the finest oil ever discovered in the state.

G. W. Faulkner was the editor of the News at the time and he and Will Mills were the owners. An interesting item also noted was that the telephone number was the same as it is today - 45.

The paper mentions a meeting of the Coleman County Farmers Institute, in the Shield Opra House on Saturday, April 9. This meeting was for the study and advancement of farming.

These old newspapers are appreciated by the News, and they will be added to our valuable keepsake files.

J. D. Dunn Receives Two Honors July 27

Fort Eustis, Va. - Cadet J. D. Dunn, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Dunn, who reside in Santa Anna, Texas, was doubly honored July 27 by successfully completing the fifth annual Transportation Corps Reserve Officer Training Camp and being tendered a commission as Second Lieutenant in the organized Reserve Corps.

A student at the University of Texas, he was one of more than fifteen hundred cadets from thirty-seven colleges and universities throughout the country who attended the six-week summer training camp at the Transportation Center and Fort Eustis, Virginia.

The commission was presented by Colonel John H. Bell, Jr., of Camp Cooke, and a Captain, Professor of Military Science and Tactics at the University of Tennessee, during the colorful ceremony that concluded the graduation exercises of the summer camp.

Former Rockwood Man Speaks To McKinney Lions

Quoting from an excerpt from a McKinney News paper: "President Frank W. Smith presided over the weekly luncheon meeting of the Lions Club held in the dining room of the First Methodist Church. R. T. King an employee of the Texas Power and Light Company was presented as the speaker. Mr. King's topic of discussion was 'The Effects of Agriculture on Business'. He was well versed on the subject and an interesting speaker, and gave several practical illustrations showing whereby business can help in a large measure in the marketing of farm products. Mr. King is of the opinion that business men can help in marketing inasmuch as the present-day farmer is well versed in the field of production."

Mr. King is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. King, of Rockwood, and is a graduate of A & M College.

W. P. West went to Houston last week to visit his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Pearce and their new daughter.

New Telephone Directories Being Distributed Now

The new telephone directories are off the press and are this week being distributed to telephone subscribers.

The new directories are similar to the old ones, other than some of the street addresses. In the past some folks have been calling the house number listed under a name, and have not been getting the number they wanted.

It is hoped that the number in which the street numbers are printed that subscribers will not have this trouble any more. You can be sure that you get the number you want by calling the operator the number that is printed at the very end of the line following the name. The street numbers are printed between the name and the telephone numbers.

If you have any suggestions to make your telephone directory a better one, the telephone company would appreciate your suggestions. The directory is for your convenience, and if you use it properly, your telephone service will be all you expect it to be.

Health Talks

The foods outlined as basic for the body needs are those which each part of the body requires to perform its special task or tasks. If some part of the body fails to get the kind of things it needs for proper functioning, that part cannot operate at its best. Every part of the body seems to have marvelous powers of overcompensating against it, and though the essential ingredients may be lacking in a diet, the body usually manages to keep performing its duties for a long period, despite the abuse.

Without the proper vitamins and minerals, however, some part of the body is not functioning up to par. And such is the inter-relationship of the body, that when one part fails to function at its best, sooner or later by chain reaction, other parts of the body, too, will have to change their function, either to carry the load for the original source of trouble or because the other parts are not receiving the material they need.

It is not quite true that all people do not have the same needs of foods. Some are born with organs that have not the capacity for proper functioning, and others develop some sort of illness that changes the function of the organ. But even at that, the basic requirements which are called the "seven basic foods" make up the normal, adequate diet and any change in the diet that is made by the doctor is made with that diet in mind, as it must be applied to each individual.

Two people can eat the same foods, the same amounts of the same foods, and one will grow fat on the diet while the other will remain underweight. That is proof that it is not the intake of food alone which governs the size of a person. Consumption of the seven basis foods is essential to good health; after consumption comes combustion, the way in which the body uses those essential foods it is given.

Through the years when you eat what you want without any thought except for your pleasure in food that tastes good, you probably do not give your body all the things that are considered essential. And through those years some parts of your body are probably not receiving the ingredients that keep it in full working order; after years of abuse you can see that some part of your body may be slightly out of whack, not completely disabled but enough off the track to keep you from feeling your best.

Overeating or putting on excess weight overworks many organs of the body. Those organs have adjusted themselves as well as possible to the strain you've put on them. If you suddenly change the diet completely, by picking up some fat-reducing diet, you can see further that such a drastic change in diet will affect the whole body and not just the digestive system.

That is why your doctor and all his fellow-workers repeat again and again not to take up some wild diet that is guaranteed to take off a pound a day or even five pounds a week. Unless an emergency exists, the most weight that should be reduced is two-and-a-half pounds a week. Since 15 to 20 pounds above normal weight for your age and height is considered overweight, you can see that a reducing diet should be a 7 to 10 week affair, never a 30-day wonder.

The only way to reduce your weight without a threat to your health is to eat less of the 7 basic foods, including some fat, though that is what you will eat the most. For all purposes you must eat less of those foods that you have been eating until you get down to the proper weight, and then, though you may eat a little more than you were while reducing, you must eat less than you did while you were putting on extra weight.

There is no short cut to reducing without an accompanying threat to your health. A reducing program means a change in the amount of food you will consume from that time forward. You need some exercise while reducing not only to help a little in using up the stored fat but mainly to keep your body from getting flabby when the fat is taken off parts of the anatomy. You need vitamins in the food you eat, which you get in the seven basic foods; if some of those foods must be eliminated from your diet, you will need supplementary vitamins to keep your body in proper order during the reducing regime.

And you must have sufficient bulk of food in your diet to keep you from getting constipated. The last item is the one most often overlooked in the popular "dieting" diets, accounting for months and years of discomfort when the excess weight may no longer be a problem.

The only one of the seven basic foods which is usually excluded from an authorized reducing diet is cereal. All sweets will normally be cut out, including candy and sugars, carbonated beverages and sweetened drinks, with saccharin used to sweeten. Though bread will be included, hot breads, coffee cakes, hot cakes, sweet rolls and waffles will be excluded, along with cakes, cookies, pastries, puddings and all rich desserts.

Avocado and dried fruit are not part of a reducing diet nor are fried meats and such fatty meats as goose, pork and sausage or fish canned in oil. Cream soups and thickened soups won't help you take off weight and dried beans and dried peas are not considered slimming. Catsup, chili sauce, cream sauce, gravy, nuts, olives, pickles, relish and alcohol are taboo when an honest attempt at taking the pounds off are undertaken.

There are a few other broad general omissions in the reducing diet, but those listed are the essentials. If you have just omitted those foods and kept on with your regular diet you'd probably find yourself losing some excess pounds as time goes by. That would probably be the least painful method but would take a little more time than others.

Bob Lilly Named Field Representative For Farm Bureau

BOB A. LILLY

Bob A. Lilly has been named field representative for the Texas Farm Bureau Federation and will serve 23 counties in this area. It has been announced by Emzy Brown, president of the Coleman County Farm Bureau. Coleman County will be included in Lilly's District.

In announcing the fieldman's assignment to this area, Mr. Brown said he would be able to give Coleman County needed assistance in organization work and program and planning activities throughout the year, which will expedite the Farm Bureau program in this county and area. Lilly, formerly county agent in Calhoun County, assumed duties with the Farm Bureau on July 15 and is presently meeting with the boards of directors in 36 counties of his area. Lilly will make his headquarters at Zephyr, in Brown County.

Marvin Carter, director of organization for Texas Farm Bureau

Federation, in assigning Lilly to this area, stated that the organization was adding four additional fieldmen to its staff this month. The state will be divided into seven areas. Lilly's territory has 25 organized counties, with a membership last year of 9,944. The 36 counties comprising his area are:

Announcement that the wage freeze has been relaxed to permit merit raises for the nation's workers certainly warranted big type. Imagine a government that has been encouraging non-production through shorter hours, and equal pay to all workers regardless of ability, finally recognizing MERIT.

WOMEN MEDICS IN DEMAND

The Army needs women medical specialists. This week another call was issued for dietitians, physical therapists, and occupational therapists. And to get them, the minimum tour of active duty has been reduced from 21 to 12 months. Women interested may apply to any Army Headquarters or write to the Surgeon General, Department of the Army, Washington 25, D. C.

A RECENT SURVEY REVEALS THAT THE MAJORITY OF AIR RESERVE AND AIR GUARD OFFICERS recalled to service the first nine months of the Korean action, would welcome indefinite active duty. 67 per cent of the officers would like to remain indefinitely; 14 per cent are agreeable to a shorter period of further duty, ranging from 1 year to no more than 2 years; while only 15 per cent indicated they want out as soon as possible. One out of 5 airmen would remain on active duty indefinitely. See you in the papers, Sarge.

Christian's Spending

Lesson for August 12, 1951

ONCE upon a time, so they say, a Scotchman opened his pocketbook in December, and a June-bug flew out. That story belongs to the class of stories that sound funny because they are impossible, like the Paul Bunyan stories, or the one about the fly that fell off a marble and broke his back. No man is so stingy that he could go from June to December without opening his pocketbook to spend a single cent. Spending is something all of us do, all the time.

Dr. Foreman

Is Your Money Yours? IT'S my money and I can do what I please with it. That is the average man's attitude toward his money. But it's not the Christian attitude.

In the first place, Jesus' parable of the talents reminds us that all the conditions, and all the energy, and everything else that makes earning money possible, are in the long run the gifts of God. It is he that hath made us and not we ourselves. It is just as true now as it ever was.

God, it is who gave us life in the first place, who has preserved us, and endowed us with whatever gifts and capacities we have. We are not our own, we are bought with a price, as Paul puts it.

However, we earn our living, whether as farmers, business or professional people, if it had not been for the blessings of God we could have earned nothing at all. One bedrock principle of the Old Testament is that the earth is the Lord's. Put that together with the New Testament principle that the Christian belongs to God, and you have arrived at the great principle of "stewardship."

Profits or Profit? THE earliest Christians of Jerusalem pooled all their resources and dealt them out to all, in proportion to their individual needs. This experiment in sharing the wealth failed, and one main reason for the failure was that they paid all their attention to consumption and none at all to production.

No matter how smoothly you distribute the wealth, if some one is not producing, the whole pile will vanish in time.

Nevertheless, those earliest Christians did have a firm grasp of a real truth; namely, that when a Christian spends money he ought to have the needs of the community first in mind, and not his own profits. Does this sound too idealistic? Well, even the law, slanted though it may seem toward the protection

WILLIAM NORMAN MARRON

William Norman Marron, also known as Bill Norman who was indicted by a Federal Grand Jury at New York, New York, on June 10, 1951, on a charge of conspiracy to advocate the violent overthrow of the government is the subject of a nationwide hunt by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. The FBI described Marron as an Organizational Secretary of the New York Communist Party. A description of Marron is as follows:

Age: 40 born December 10, 1901 at Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Height: 5'7" weight: 150 pounds. Build: medium. Hair: black eyes: blue complexion: fair. Heavy beard: face: white; nationality: American.

He is the son of his father, who was arrested in Flushing Long Island, N. Y. He became naturalized through his father in 1919, attended the New York City public schools and was at one time a professional basketball player, being known as "Wee Willie Marron."

Any person having information which may assist in locating William Norman Marron is requested to immediately notify the nearest FBI office.

Success doesn't depend so much on lying awake nights as it does staying awake days.

The best way to forget the pain of living is to live so it's worth it.

Scientists are seeking a substitute for gasoline. The surest one we know of is a pair of shoes.

Most of us find it much easier to talk ourselves into trouble than out of it.

Having too much money not only gets to a woman's head but finds its way to her back.

The best way to get rid of work is to do it.

of wealth, puts limits on the ways a man can spend his money. If it can be shown that what he pays his good money for is harmful to the community, the law will clamp down on him, in many places. You can't keep a skunk farm on Broadway. It may be your money, and your skunks, but it's not your Broadway.

To take another angle: down in Atlanta (Georgia) a highly successful industrialist, when he died, left the stock in his company to his employees. They had helped him earn his fortune, he said; they should share in the proceeds.

Does not our community help us earn whatever we do earn? And doesn't the community deserve consideration in the spending?

The Money-God

NO temples on our main streets are labeled "To the God Mammon." But money is often a god, all the same. On Mammon's altar how many things and men are sacrificed! What will men not do to "make a fast buck," to turn a neat profit? Honor, decency, truthfulness, health, even life itself, will be given up before consenting to cut the profits down.

Every great entrenched evil—gambling, prostitution, corrupt courts, liquor traffic—is as hard to dislodge as the silversmiths of Ephesus, and for the same reason: The people who stand to make money out of sin never care what happens to the sinners.

But let us watch ourselves. Do we smalltimers criticize the paunchy big-shots because we really hate the way they sacrifice everything to greed, or is it because we are envious?

Two Changes Made In Pink Bollworm Regulations

Austin—During the past week the Texas Commissioner of Agriculture made two changes in the Pink Bollworm regulations for Texas. One of the changes widely expands the designated heavily infested Pink Bollworm Area of the State. The other change greatly eases the movement of cotton seed originating in the heavily infested area.

Formerly, only the counties of Willacy, Cameron, Hidalgo, and part of Starr in the Lower Rio Grande Valley were declared to be heavily infested with Pink Bollworm. Under the new regulation the heavily infested counties are thirty-nine in number, running from the Coastal Bend Area westward along the border to El Paso.

The other change which allows cotton seed to move more freely and still be under appropriate safeguards, provides that such seed may move more freely among counties in the heavily infested area with only one gin sterilization treatment instead of having to have two treatments. Also, if they are not going out of the heavily infested area to be used for planting seed, and are going to a sterilization treatment, only one such treatment is required before they leave the heavily infested area.

The Commissioner accredits the cotton industry and the federal agencies as being very helpful in assisting with the above revisions which may be obtained from the local gins and the inspectors.

If you want to keep a lemon indefinitely, marry him.

Building New Porch Steps
If YOUR porch has wooden steps that are in poor condition, it may pay you to replace them with new steps of concrete which last almost indefinitely and are a permanent improvement to a house. The simple illustration indicates how simple it is to construct forms for the steps.

Use either 1-inch or 2-inch lumber for forms. These should be so built that the vertical distance between steps is about 7 or 7 1/2 inches and the width of each tread is approximately 10 inches. The forms must be laid on ground that is firm and level.

Mixtures of concrete may vary with climates, so follow closely the recommendations of the cement manufacturer or dealer. You will want to produce concrete of a rather stiff consistency and containing sufficient mortar to make a smooth surface. When the concrete has hardened sufficiently in the forms to hold its shape, the forms may be removed. Uneven spots then can be filled and troweled smooth.

Echoes From The Alamo City

BY MRS. A. L. ODER MRS. ROBERT JONGEMA PHONES ME

I was pleasantly surprised this morning when Mrs. Robert Jongema (the former Reha Goodgoin of Santa Anna) called me over the phone, and we had quite a conflag. I am always so glad to talk to any one I have known in Santa Anna. Reading in the News-I had talked to Mrs. Vernon Watson, she called her and got my phone number.

The Jongemas have lived here since Christmas. He is stationed at Ft. Sam Houston. They have visited recently with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Goodgoin in Santa Anna and with his parents, in Kansas.

Robert will get his discharge August 22. They have not decided where they will locate. IN A DITHER

For many years the big church next door has been wanting my sisters home and now they are pressing the issue, as they need room for expansion. Have made some very good propositions, including moving us any where we would want to go. I don't feel equal to very much bother and confusion.

We have conferred with a proposition allowing them to build their educational rooms clear across the back of our lots, joining their property, Mrs. Miller to stay in her home until her death, or not to exceed three years, when they have full possession.

Don't know what will come of it all, but don't think we will move my sister, not soon anyway. And now a neighbor says he can get more from another party than the church has offered. He had better hurry.

Meantime, I am going around in circles, and have about all the confusion I can take. Hope the church comes across. Perfer they have the property. MY FOLKS VISIT ME

Myson, Javan and wife, of Amarillo, visited here several days last week, with us and her two sisters. Javan's wife, who suffered a nervous breakdown in the spring, is very much improved. They took their two youngest sons home with them, after they had stayed several weeks with their aunts here, and with Velma in Austin.

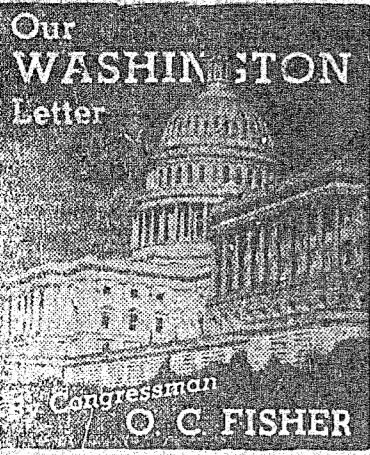

Others of the family who visited briefly with us last week were Harry and wife of Abilene, Floyd and Velma from Austin and Paul's wife from Corpus Christi.

MY SISTER SOMEWHAT IMPROVED My sister, who had a light stroke on June 18, seems to have overcome it, except for a weakness in the hips and a disinclination to try to walk. Hard to get in and out of bed. Eats quite heartily, has a good digestion, never complains, doesn't mind the heat, and sleeps soundly all night.

There are two ways to turn a man's head. Just rattle money, or rustle a skirt.

THE OVERWHELMING APPROVAL of the tidelands bill by the House with votes to spare to override a veto, barring an unexpected switch of votes, has left the militant opposition, a bit groggy but still counting heavy on President Truman to save the day with a veto. But one hears speculation that should the Senate add a strong approval the President may hesitate to again flaunt the will of the people thus expressed on several occasions.

One of the oddities of the anti-States' rights forces which opposed the tidelands measure was the claim that it was being pushed by the "lavishly financed Oil Lobby". That is a typical technique often employed by special interests in attempts to arouse prejudice and venom to take the place of merit and reason. It is reminiscent of the old Communist line, now used constantly in Pravda and the Daily Worker, which proves every anti-American point by simply describing it as a "Wall Street profiteering stunt" or as a product of "Wall Street war-mongers," etc.

Certain left-wing columnists use this technique all the time in their subtle attempts to play on prejudice and poison of the unsuspecting reader. For example, all during the fight for socialized housing everyone who dared oppose this British plan for America was described as a victim of the "Big Real Estate Lobby". And when an attempt was made to put some common sense into the meat control law and keep the supply of beef from being snarled by methods to curtail the production and distribution of beef, the howl of "Millionaire Cattle Baron Lobby" was repeated time and again. Socialized medicine is, of course, according to these sources, opposed only by those who surrender to the big "American Medical Association Lobby". And so it goes.

Getting back to Tidelands, the simple truth is, as everyone knows, that many of the oil companies favor Federal ownership, or else do not care one way or another. The oil companies will get about the same return about the same royalty interest in production whether the States or Uncle Sam happens to be the other contracting party.

The moral is, Beware of the arguments by those in the absence of facts to support their arguments, use the "Big Lobby" hoax when there actually may be no lobby at all involved other than the "Big Lobby" of which those who use that old time-worn technique are members.

SELECTED FROM TEXAS by the American Legion Auxiliary to represent our State in the "Citizens of Girls Nations", which met in Washington from July 27 to August 2, were Ernestine Woodward of San Angelo and Dinah Lee Van Zandt of Bellville. Each of them will enter their senior year of high school this fall. They were carefully chosen from all over the state to participate in the national program for developing good citizenship.

HEARINGS WERE HELD last week by the House Committee on Education and Labor on bills which would amend the Fair Labor Standards Act so as to permit migratory families to help harvest cotton crops in west Texas and elsewhere. Until last year the law provided that children under 16 could work in agriculture provided they met the school attendance laws in the various States. Many Latin-Americans were able to leave their homes in South Texas and follow the harvest seasons northward to the plains and into other states, then return home in time to fill in their required school year.

But when the law was amended in 1949, a "sleeper" was inserted in the Senate, offered by Senator Pepper, which prohibits children under 16 from working in the fields if a school is in session at the place where the work is being done - even though they comply with the annual attendance law of the state.

This provision has seriously interfered with the cotton picking in West Texas where the peak is reached during September and October. It has and will continue to prevent many families from earning their normal livelihood and provide food and clothing for the ensuing school year. Bills to amend the law were introduced earlier this year by myself, Mr. Mahon, Mr. Rogers, and several others. We all testified in behalf of the proposed amendment and were joined by several witnesses from the Plains area. Further hearings will be held before the Committee acts.

Fall Legumes Will Increase Yields Next Year

An increase in the acreage of fall planted legumes is needed in Texas if farmers are to maintain high production per acre of cotton and other cash crops.

According to the agronomists of the Texas A & M College System and Soil Conservation Service, legumes, when properly fertilized and inoculated, have very beneficial effects upon the soil, where they are grown. One of the most important effects is the influence legumes have in improving soil structure or conditions. The agronomists point out that this refers to the way small particles are held together in the soil. The soil structure should be crumbly or granular so as to allow for deep root and water penetration and air circulation within the soil. In some soils the particles "run together" to such an extent that little or no water or air can get into them. Planting deep rooted legumes, such as sweet clover and alfalfa on such soils will materially improve this condition. The use of legumes like vetch, winter peas, annual yellow sweet clover, and crimson clover add materially to the organic matter and nitrogen content of soils but do not necessarily open subsoils, say the agronomists.

Some soils have a poor plant-soil moisture relationship. That is, they have heavy dense subsoils at a shallow depth. These subsoils restrict the movement of air, water and plant roots which also limits the activity of life in the soil. Growing of deep rooted legumes or grasses will punch these heavy subsoils full of holes and cause better movement of air, water and plant roots through the soil.

Soil life, say the agronomists is made up of small animals and plants such as earth worms, bacteria and fungi. These organisms are a lot like plants for they, too, must have food, air, and water to grow. Their food comes from legumes and other plant residue that is plowed under, as well as from the roots of these plants. Since air is a necessity, these small organisms are much more active at greater depths in soils that have been punched full of holes by deep rooted legumes. Growing deep rooted legumes such as sweet clover not only improves the soil home for the small organisms, but also increases the water penetration as well as water holding capacity and aeration of the soil. All are needed to maintain and increase the productivity of cropland soils.

Legumes, especially when plowed under as a green manure crop, increase the organic matter in soil. This organic matter helps hold together the small soil particles and improves the soil structure by making it granular. Soils high in organic matter have better air circulation and air space and will absorb and hold water that is needed by the plants and soil life. Growing deep roots deep in the soil and thus improving soil conditions.

The agronomists urge farmers to make plans now for their fall legume planting. Soil samples should be taken from the fields where the legumes are to be planted and sent to the Soils Laboratory at College Station for analysis. The analysis will supply information on what kind and the amounts of fertilizers needed to make legumes growing more successful in the various soil-type areas of the state. The agronomists suggest that you see your local county agent or work unit conservationist for information on the legumes best adapted to your section of the state and on taking and mailing soil samples.

Be Sure You Are Protected Against Typhoid Fever

Austin — "Now that summer has come to Texas it is time for people who expect to enjoy camping and swimming during the warm weather to be sure that they are adequately protected against typhoid fever," according to Dr. Geo. W. Cox State Health Officer. "Although the public health strides of recent decades have practically eliminated typhoid fever as a threat to persons living in communities with approved water supplies and good sanitation, the disease remains a real danger to those who swim, camp or picnic in remote rural areas.

Typhoid fever is transmitted from one person to another by means of water, food or milk that has been contaminated by discharge of a person suffering with the disease or from an apparently well typhoid carrier. "Spectacular reductions" in typhoid fever cases and deaths as compared with those of a generation ago should not give the public a false sense of security. There has been 95 cases of typhoid and paratyphoid fever in Texas in 1951 — in spite of community efforts to improve sanitation isolate patients and supervise known carriers. This indicates that it is still highly desirable for individuals who may be exposed to unfavorable conditions to safeguard themselves by seeking protection at the beginning of the vacation season. "Immunization is a simple and safe procedure. Since this immunity lasts for only three years, anyone who has not been inoculated since 1948 should receive new protection this year. In addition, persons who have never in the past availed themselves of this prevention measure should by all means do so now if they plan to participate in outdoor pleasures. All persons who are due for immunization against typhoid fever in 1951 should go to their physicians without delay if they have not already received recommended inoculations.

Anyway, a man can still light a cigar without first offering one to a lady.
