DALLAS, Aug. 26—(Copyright 1934 by Texas Election Bureau, Inc)—James V. Alfred of Wichita Falls won the Democratic nomination for governor over Tom F. Hunter, also of Wichita Falls, in Saturday's democratic run-off primary, according to unofficial returns tabulated by Texas Election Bureau tonight. His lead is 46,000. The bureau estimates that the un-reported vote is 86,000. To overcome Alfred's lead Hunter would have to get approximately three to one of the outstanding vote. The vote cast in counties reported complete in proportion to the number of poll receipts issued in these counties was used in estimating the complete vote of the state.

Cecil C. Collings appeared to be winner in the district attorney's race of the 70th judicial district when all votes except not more than 80 had been counted. Collings held a 57 vote lead over his opponent, Robert W. Hamilton, incumbent by appointment.

Returns from Flower Grove, one of two boxes out in Martin county, clinched the district attorney's race for Cecil Collings at 3:30 a. m. Sunday. Hamilton received 36 votes in the box and Collings got 13, giving him a 35 vote margin with not more than 15 votes out in the Earl Bryant box of Martin county. Total vote for Collings was 3573. Hamilton received 3540. With an unreported vote estimated at not more than 80 votes, Cecil C. Collings, Big Spring, held a 57 vote lead over Robert W. Hamilton, Stanton, in the race for district attorney of the 70th judicial district at 1:30 a. m. Sunday. Two boxes in Martin county held the only votes out. They were Earl Bryant and Flower Grove and polled an aggregate of 71 votes in the first primary.

The total vote at 1:30 a. m. stood: Collings 3,573. Hamilton 3,502. Collings carried Howard county with a heavy majority, 2464 to 1268. Hamilton carried the other counties in the district by varying margins. In Midland county he received 835 votes to 311 for Collings. (CONTINUED ON PAGE 8)

President Roosevelt's super-coordinators have been trying to coordinate all the other coordinators holding forth in the alphabetically-dizzy National Capital. They are interesting because solutions are going to be so difficult.

Complete returns from the 15 boxes of Howard county showed Saturday night that J. S. Garlington, Vincent, had been elected county judge; Miss Anne Martin, county superintendent; E. G. Towler, county treasurer. Precinct No. 1 re-elected Frank Hodnett, No. 2 elected A. W. Thompson, No. 3 elected J. M. Winslow, and No. 4 named W. M. Fletcher as his own successor. J. H. Hefley was elected justice of the peace. County and precinct races were characterized by an unusual closeness. Incumbents suffered surprising reverses in several races and had hard sledding in others. Approximately 2,750 votes were cast in Saturday's run-off primary, hardly 250 less than in the first primary. J. S. Garlington, Vincent, defeated Judge H. R. Debenport, incumbent for county judge of Howard county by a vote of 2,008 to 1,731. Miss Anne Martin, who ran second in the first primary, sprinted ahead to defeat Miss Sarah Phillips, 2,032 to 1,701 votes for county superintendent. E. G. Towler was re-elected county treasurer over Anderson Bailey by 1,982 to 1,721 votes. J. S. Winslow beat George White, incumbent, in the race for commissioner of precinct No. 3 by a vote of 760 to 629. The vote was much closer in No. 2 where A. W. Thompson of Coahoma nosed out Pete Johnson, incumbent, by a vote of 522 to 493. Frank Hodnett, commissioner of Precinct No. 1, retained his post by a 280 to 225 vote over Reece N. Adams of Soash. W. M. Fletcher, commissioner of Precinct No. 4, also retained his office by defeating W. B. Sneed, R-Bar, 428 to 399. E. J. Hefley won the justice of peace office over G. E. McNew, 1509 to 1044.

Message from George Mahon: "I feel under everlasting obligations to the people of the 19th congressional district for the vote given me Saturday. I feel myself incapable of fully expressing my appreciation, in the great task that is set before me I solicit the support and good will of all our people throughout the district." Reports from 22 of the 25 counties of the district, seven counties complete, gave Mahon 31,684 votes to 17,170 for Mullican. The vote by counties: Mahon Mullican

Red Cross Membership 3,802,384; 100,000 Increase Over Last Year; Continued Public Support Sought

WASHINGTON—Chairman John Barton Payne of the American Red Cross today announced that the membership enrollment in the national Red Cross for the year ending June 30, 1934 was 3,802,384 for the United States and its possessions. This enrollment showed an increase of 100,000 members over the roll call for the previous year.

Chairman Payne pointed out that during the five years of the depression the Red Cross membership had shown a decrease of only 7.8 per cent for the entire period, and during the past year the roll call showed an increase of 2.72 over the previous year.

"I am gratified to be able to report this fine showing on Red Cross membership," Chairman Payne said. "It not only shows that the Red Cross did not suffer a serious loss at any time during the period of stress, but that such small decline in membership as was inevitable is now being erased, and the response to our roll call is new on the upgrade."

"This fine enrollment" of men and women in the Red Cross is evidence that the country realizes the vital work the Red Cross has done and its increasing responsibilities of the past several years.

"An important activity of the national Red Cross and its 3,700 Chapters during the past year has been cooperation with the Government agencies for relief. The Red Cross trained approximately 75,000 Civil Works Administration workers in first aid methods, thereby materially cutting the rate of accidental deaths and injuries.

"Red Cross chapters have disseminated information on government relief measures in their communities. Many nurses and other 'white collar' workers, placed on Civil Works Administration rolls, had their activities directed through Red Cross chapters. Enrollment of boys and war veterans for Civilian Conservation Corps camps was handled by Red Cross chapters in many places.

"Chapters and Emergency Relief units have worked together for the common good of our citizens."

Immediately upon President Roosevelt's taking office in March, 1933 the Red Cross pledged him its support and use of all its facilities.

"Because of our membership and continued public support, the Red Cross is enabled to maintain every one of its services at maximum efficiency. It has responded this year to calls for help in 88 disaster-stricken communities. More than 250,000 ex-service men and their dependents have been aided. Increased support by the national organization for public health nursing services has been forthcoming because we have realized the strain upon the health, especially of our mothers and children during the prolonged period of unemployment."

"We have placed great stress upon our instruction courses in home hygiene and care of the sick in order to further safeguard the public health. First aid and life saving instruction has reached a greater number of persons than in any year before in its history. Voluntary activities in sewing in community relief through training volunteers in social work, in organizing motor corps to assist all agencies, in hospital hostesses and recreation work—all have revealed a greater public interest and feeling of responsibility for communi-

Under The Dome At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEPHERD

AUSTIN (UP)—September 1 will be the New Year's Day for state departments. To most of them it will become available. Few will have any balance on hand at midnight, Aug. 31, when the old year ends. Adjutant General Henry Hutchins expects to turn back an appropriation for martial law, unless some emergency occurs between now and then.

The state fiscal year has varied from the calendar year since 1857. An act of that year directed all state departments to close their accounts Aug. 31. Then, the regular sessions of the legislature were held in November. The act presumably was intended to give the legislators information about the departments, for the directing heads were ordered to prepare reports and submit them to legislators—ten copies to each legislator. Apparently the date has been continued as a matter of convenience as legislatures now hold their regular sessions in January.

During the recent repainting of the state capitol interior, white spots of wallscrapings, railings and other objects difficult to remove. Among the objects so protected was the marble bust of Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson.

It so happens that the Ferguson Forum at this time was warning against candidates who might still have the "taint of Ku Klux fanaticism." A wag, discovering the sheet-covered sculpture of the governor, started the report: "Gov. Ferguson's joined the Klan." When disbelief was announced, he pointed to the capitol lobby and said: "Well, she's wearing a white sheet, isn't she?"

Texas rice, sheep and goats soon will begin to swell the government's stores to offset the needs in other parts of the country. Large purchases of rice are to be made to supplement food supplies. Buying will begin as soon as final instructions come from Washington to C. Z. Crain, Texas director of surplus commodities. Goats and sheep also are to begin moving to federal pens. When will depend upon receipt of quotas.

The Texas Relief Commission has just one more year of life after Sunday. The act creating the relief commission specified that it should cease to exist on Aug. 29, 1935. The act also provided that any uncollected relief bonds on hand at that time shall be burned.

Miss Margie Neal, Garthage, only woman member of the Texas Senate, will seek a leave from her Washington duties and return, for the special session of the Texas legislature, fellow members of "the Senate" have been advised.

It will be Miss Neal's last appearance as a state senator. She has been a member of four Senates, beginning with the 40th, and the only woman ever to sit in the Senate. She did not seek re-election and her term expires this year.

Efforts are being made to have Gov. Ferguson ask the legislature for further remission of tax penalties against delinquents. The remission act of the last session specifically declared against further clemency of this sort. Section seven of the act recited that it was passed to aid collection of badly-

Million Mile Club Formed By AA Pilots

Pilots Having Total Of Ten Thousand Miles To Credit Are Eligible

Pilots of American Airlines who fly the huge Condor Sleeper planes over the southern transcontinental route, have organized a "million mile club" composed of pilots who have accrued a total of 10,000 hours in the air, according to Ray Fisher, station manager for the line. There are at present seven members who will shortly initiate six more fliers as they reach their ten thousand hour total within the next month. Following closely at the tails of these million mile birds are five additional pilots who will strike the ten thousand hour total by the end of the year, it was revealed.

Pilot Joe Glass, who is based at Los Angeles, is the presiding president of the veteran's club and bears the title of "Exalted Flying-fish" of the "odge." Glass has flown close to one million and a quarter miles, having more than 12,000 hours to his credit. Charles Pedley and Roy Mitchell, both based at Fort Worth, are the other ranking officers, with the next largest total of hours to their credit.

As an emblem of merit in having reached the coveted million mile rank, each new member, in being initiated into the "odge" by veteran members, is presented with a plaque comprising a pair of gold wings mounted on a background which closely resembles a "long gray beard."

Boy Scout News

Big Spring scouts did not fare as well this year as they did last year in the annual council water meet at Midland. They are looking forward to a new municipal natatorium in which to practice and declare that they will give a better account of themselves one year hence.

Court of Honor for a group of scouts, who met the board of review Monday evening and successfully backed up their previous work in advancement, will be held one week from Sunday. The exact time and place will be announced later by Chairman W. C. Blankenship.

Troop No. 1 is planning a trip to Carlsbad Caverns before school starts.

There is to be a flurry of overnight hikes before September 10th when scouts will again pick up their books.

John R. Hutto, scoutmaster, of Troop No. 7, is back in the saddle after spending the summer in Abilene.

TROOP MEETINGS

Troop No. 1—The troop's weekly meeting was held at Hillcrest pool with George Thomas in charge. Practice in water polo was the main feature of the meeting. Merl Ferguson or the Chaik patrol visited the practice. Eleven active scouts and one official were present. All the boys present planned to go to Midland for the water meet and to Carlsbad on our annual troop camp—Reported by Sam Atkins Jr.

Troop No. 5—James Ripps presided over the meeting in the absence of the scoutmaster. Twenty-needed funds. The section then continued: "But it shall not be understood from the enactment of this law that it is the policy of the legislature to continue to remit penalty and interest."

Lawyers were arguing volubly before District Judge Harry Dolan, Georgetown, whether the state railroad commission had notice of an application to enjoin enforcement of a commission order. As the argument went on, attorneys cited presence of "Col. Thompson" when they decided to make the application to Judge Dolan, in absence of an Austin judge. The colonel was mentioned several times. Finally Judge Dolan asked: "Who is Col. Thompson?" "Railroad Commissioner Ernest O. Thompson," lawyers hastened to explain.

"Oh," said Judge Dolan. He and the Colonel soldered together in France.

It's too late to help candidates for office this year, but they might file this away for the next campaign. When Tom F. Hunter was speaking at Austin in a park, playing children made so much noise they disturbed him. A supporter, with good understanding of children volunteered to stop the noise. He didn't tell the kids to keep quiet. He invited them to a nearby ice cream establishment. Hunter finished his speech undisturbed.

The Texas Railroad Commission's hearing on pipe line values, inventories and rates has been postponed so often that it nearly sets a record for something. It was called for: June 25; then August 7; then August 22, and now Sept. 4.

six scouts were present for the meeting. Camp cooking was the central theme of the patrol meetings. Plans for an overnight hike were discussed. The troop participated in several lively games. Jim Myers was announced as the new temporary patrol leader of the Buffalo Patrol. The Porcupine patrol had perfect attendance and order.

Troop No. 7—Scoutmaster John R. Hutto has returned and the troop is again meeting regularly in the Mexican ward school. It will make its monthly report for September.

The troop Friday adopted a resolution of thanks to the Lions club, troop sponsor, and Marvin Hall for transportation to the water meet.

Mrs. Ralph Linn is spending the week with her sister in Breckenridge.

MILITARY CENSORSHIP

It is a strange new policy which that national guard officer has tried to promulgate in regard to freedom of the press in Minnesota.

After the national guard had been called out by Governor Floyd B. Olson to preserve the peace during a paralyzing strike, the adjutant general of the guard undertook to tell the city's editors how they should behave while under martial law.

It is hard to imagine a clearer perversion of the constitutional guaranty of a free press. It is bad enough to have a military censorship restricting press freedom in time of actual war; but to have a tin-battled millitiaman undertake to strait-jacket the press when nothing more than a strike is going on is intolerably insolent and unwarranted.

LET'S SETTLE QUICKLY

Importance of the debt negotiations now going on between Secretary of State Hull and Russian Ambassador Trojansky is shown by recent figures on Russian-American trade.

During the six months since recognition of the Soviets by the United States government, American exporters have sold to Russia goods worth $6,617,000.

ures for last year, it is only a small fraction of the trade expected to follow recognition — estimates of which ran as high as $100,000,000 a year.

The difficulty lies in the fact that Russia can not get credits here, because of the Johnson law, which prohibits advances to nations in default on their debt.

A FEW LUCKY FARMERS

Devastating as the effects of the drought have been, they will at least mean good fortune to a few — to those farmers who do not happen to occupy land in the sections where the destruction has been worst.

Consider the case of the farmer who raises corn, for instance.

The national corn crop this year is expected to total around 1,570,000 bushels—a tremendous drop from the 2,342,000,000 bushels of last year.

The farmer whose fields were missed by the drought, and who raised a corn crop of normal proportions, is going to cash in handsomely.

ALL EYES ON HITLER

The German situation has passed out of the headlines for the moment—but it will be wise to keep watch on it.

All European eyes are turned on Hitler, the iron-handed dictator. He recently made a speech in which he advocated international peace and understanding—but other governments still want to be shown. They know that Germany is embittered, that the Treaty of Versailles still rankles and they are preparing for any eventuality.

PROTECTION FOR THE WAGE EARNER

Recent statistics show that life insurance is maintaining the rate of improvement in sales which started at the beginning of the year.

sales are avoiding the seasonal declines that affects most businesses.

Of equal interest is the fact that the most notable increase, on a percentage basis, is being made in sales of policies of the annuity and investment type.

Life insurance fits the needs and means of the great bulk of American wage-earners whose incomes are in the middle and lower earning brackets.

CHAPTER 43 PAINFUL HOUR

"You, you don't hate me," Marsha dropped her arm, looked at him, "do you?"

"God knows I don't, Marsha!" he answered heavily, and he saw tears brim in her eyes. He pushed her heavy hair away from her forehead, running his hand over her forehead and across her hair.

"You're not going to worry about anything, Marsha, except the fact that I was brutal last night. I want you to know that it will never happen again. Can you believe me?"

"Yes, I've never once really doubted you."

"Quiet, dear."

He made no sign against the weeping of tenderness that filled his face.

She laughed unsteadily. "We're only going to have that worthy M.D. come in here to get you a pill and feel your pulse and tell you that a few days in bed will adjust the matter," she said.

"Y—yes—" she whimpered.

His touch had helped her, soothed her; he was helped by the fact that "breakfast next," he said, and against her hair, "understand? A real one, coal miner's steel Tea or coffee?"

She laughed a little unsteadily. She said, "Yes, I think, this morning."

Bob's mind whirled. He was brought back to present and reality by Hannah's tap upon the door. "Who is it?" Bob called.

"It's I, Mr. Robert. Hannah. I wondered whether I might, please,

"No one is going to bother you, Marsha."

and lovely, with her hair lying disheveled on the linen of her pillow.

"Yes. And make it a good one, Hannah."

"I will, sir, thank you, sir," Marsha drew away. Bob rose.

"Now suppose," he suggested, "we prop you up with pillows and drape one of those things around you," he picked up a negligee of coral hue from the foot of the bed "and become attuned to soft-boiled eggs?"

She shuddered; she smiled down on her. "They have their place," she stated, thinking, with a wry twist of heart that, for her, he might be doing with nourishing uninteresting, cup-pieed froths from which the subject sometimes turn with loathing.

Barleton was highly spiced. Had Barleton's deflections a part in her being ill, or was it all a product of that which he saw as his "vile brutality?" A little time and he would know. There would have to be some degree of frankness between them in order that they might determine the best thing for them to do.

Hannah brought the tray; Marsha tried to eat, but after she had drunk a half cup of tea closed her eyes, shook her head.

"Hannah, take it away," she begged. "I don't know what the matter is, but I feel frightfully rough."

burraising for everyone if you don't in worry about."

"Um. Shall I go now? Could you sleep?"

"I don't think so. But I don't want to detain you."

"You're not detaining me." He dropped once more to the small chair that stood near her bed. "I feel," he went on, "that you would be better for talking this through."

"Yes, I believe so."

"I found my mother's note, Marsha, the one that has to do with us and her request. Did you know it was in her box?"

"Yes. She had shown me those things, all of them. You mustn't feel badly because I saw them first. It was only because I was here and she thought you loved me and that I would give you."

"She kept saying, 'I know Robert would want you to see those things' so you see, it is not a reflection on you."

"It doesn't hurt me, Marsha."

"It must not, because she thought it would please you; you see?"

"Yes, I see, I see clearly," he answered. And he did see his mother's feeling, and Marsha's wish to save him from jealousy, by making him understand quite clearly that she had seen the contents of the box only because of her connection with him.

"It was her way of showing them to you," Marsha went on.

"I understand, dear. It doesn't hurt me in any way."

"I don't want it to. The thought that it might was what kept me awake last night when you said—what you said—"

"I understand," he said heavily and he drew a deep sigh; oppressed again by all he had done to her; the traces of which were tragically clear!

He saw her stiffer; he heard, "She didn't hate me!"

"My child!" he muttered, leaning toward her, but she drew away.

"She put a note I wrote her in that box. I wrote her notes some days when the postman brought her nothing much. They amused her and she liked me so much that she put it in the box. She knew I was trying to be nice. She"

Her eyes were wells of resentment; he felt the look in them to be hate for him; he moved unwearyingly, touched, hurt, feeling he deserved the hurt.

Ags Threatened
At The End Posts

COLLEGE STATION—A potential weakness at the end posts looms larger and larger in the eyes of Texas Aggie supporters with the approach of Sept. 10, official date for Southwest Conference football practice. The Cadets rate their line from tackle to tackle as ribbed strongly with both weight and experience and their backfield as one that has bright possibilities, but their mathematics concerning the wig situation is clouded with the smudges of uncertainty.

Spring practice brought these facts to the fore, and little that has happened since has served much to change the situation that faces the Aggies' new gridiron coaching staff of Homer H. Norton as head coach, Hal Hubbard as line coach and Manning Smith and Ray Murray as assistant coaches. Scholarship ineligibility struck only lightly at the Cadets' pipeline prospects, but there will be a countering influence to this in that the Aggies

Centennial

HOUSTON, (UP)—Japan is tremendously interested in the coming Texas Centennial celebration and undoubtedly will have a big exhibit if the 1935 exposition is located in Houston. Noburo Kawai, commercial agent of the Japanese government, said today.

Kawai advised that if Houston is successful in obtaining the celebration it should send a representative to Japan. He added that he would return to Japan and introduce the representative.

The Japanese agent said he felt sure that the leading business and manufacturing associations there will enthusiastically join in a great Japanese exhibit.

Kawai said he believed Houston has an advantage over those northern cities in staging the exposition for two reasons: One was that the industrial north is getting tired of international fairs. This will be the first ever held in the south and it offers a grand opportunity for industrial development.

The second is that Japan largely is a purchaser of raw materials, and more than 90 per cent of the material bought is from the south probably will not profit much from the conference junior college graduates eligibility rule.

Acceptances Of Cotton Contracts,
Months Overdue, Received Here

Acceptances of current cotton production contracts, months overdue, were received here Saturday.

Reception of the 52 acceptances leaves only 22 of the original 815 contracts yet to be accepted by the government.

County Agent O. P. Griffin said that checks on the acceptances would probably arrive here Sunday.

First payment checks on the 52 contracts comes at a time when a majority of the contract signers are proving compliance in order to become eligible for an equal second payment.

Griffin said that he had received word that the Bankhead applications from this county had been checked and found to be correct with six exceptions. These applications with errors are supposed to be in the mails on their way here for correction.

When these corrections are made, exemptions under the Bankhead act will be forwarded here and distributed to cotton producers.

COLLEGE STATION—The fifth annual Texas Aggie coaching school, the most successful in the history of the college, closed Saturday morning after a week of intensive instruction which attracted 211 coaches and athletes from all sections of the state. Former attendance record for the school was 205 coaches who attended the 1933 session.

The school's curricula included instruction in football, track, baseball, basketball, physical education and athletic training. Speed Pilots
After Record

Eight Of World's Crack
Fliers To Enter Fast
Event

CLEVELAND (UP)—A new transcontinental airplane speed record will be one of the principal goals this year when the annual national air races open here August 31.

At least eight of the world's fastest airplanes, piloted by crack speed pilots, are expected to shoot at the Los Angeles-New York mark of 10 hours, 4 1/2 minutes, set last September by Roscoe Turner.

They will be participating in the Bendix trophy race, one of the main events of the national air classic which centers this year at municipal airport, Cleveland, and which will continue to September 8.

Winner Gets $4,500

The transcontinental race, weather permitting, will start at Los Angeles August 31 with Cleveland the first goal and New York the second. Pilots may refuel as many times as they wish, or make the flight non-stop.

The five with the shortest elapsed time between Los Angeles and Cleveland will divide $10,000 in prizes, with $4,500 going to the leader.

After passing the grandstand at Cleveland, the fliers who figure they have a chance of beating the transcontinental record may elect to fly on, without stopping, to New York. An additional prize of $2,500 awaits the flier there who beats Turner's record.

Other Records Targets

In addition to shooting at the Los Angeles-New York record, the racers will be aiming at the Los Angeles-Cleveland mark of 8:19:46 set in 1932 by James G. Halprip. Both Halprip and Turner are expected to be among the contestants.

A World's speed record for land planes—more than 305.33 miles an hour—will be the objective in two of the other main events of this year's races. These are the 100-mile

Trade Increase
At Laredo Port

LAREDO, (UP)—International trade through the port of Laredo increased sharply during July, 1934, according to E. E. Beletta, Frontier Commercial, official organ of the Mexican customs house at Nuevo Laredo, Mex., across the Rio Grande from here.

Imports from Mexico for the month were 330 per cent greater than for the same period in 1933. Exports gained 60 per cent.

The trade balance was only slightly in favor of the United States. Exports through the port for the month amounted to 414 carloads compared to 412 carloads of imported goods.

Lead headed the list of imported products, amounting to 303 carloads. Bananas were next, 40 carloads. Other importation items, all shipped in carload lots, included antimony, refined and unrefined arsenic, blamuth, bones, bran, corn, garlic, hides, palm tittle, lemon, pineapples and sesame.

Exportsations were headed by 71 carloads of lumber with scrapiron for Mexican foundries running second with 64 carloads. A multitude of other materials, fabricated and raw, and produce were included in the list of exportations, running the alphabet from apples to wire.

Inasmuch as the peak months have not yet arrived—they are September, October, November and December—it appears that old-time trade relations have been restored with increased business resulting.

With Bad Headache

BORGER, (UP)—A man who took office as was John Dillinger woke up in the city jail with a headache the next morning to find that he was still Chet Loving and facing charges of drunkenness.

While making the arrest, officers were told:

"Don't mess with me. You officers think John Dillinger is dead. Well, he isn't. You think that the federal officers killed old Johnny. Well, they didn't.

"I'm not saying who I am or
