TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN The Tugwell Examination

In the matter of the Tugwell hearing the prize for downright horse sense should be awarded to the Republican Senators who did not attend it. A simple-minded citizen would have expected to see them there in force and prepared to demonstrate by ruthless cross-examination that Mr. Tugwell is the omniscient and omnipotent revolutionary leader they have taught so many good people to think he is.

But, apart from Senator Norris, who does not count as a Republican, there were no Republican Senators on hand to prove to the American public what a menace there is in their midst. The great opportunity to confront him, vivisection him, and destroy him has come and gone, and not a real Republican was present.

Released By Convict

Here are the three victims of Joe Palmer, fugitive Texas convict, who kidnaped them at Davenport, Iowa, and released them eighteen hours later at St. Joseph, Mo., after a 700-mile zig-zag drive during most of which Elmer Schlemmer, Davenport policeman (at top) was forced to ride in the suffocating rear compartment of a stolen coupe.

Mr. Tugwell's answers on the witness stand were correct enough, they would in a more sympathetic atmosphere have been somewhat different. I think he would have said that while he has never been a communist or a socialist who believed in the doctrine of the class struggle, he was until rather recently what used to be called a Fabian Socialist, that is to say, a believer in the conduct of the vital business of the nation as public services. He would then have gone on to say, I think, that experience in public affairs has caused him to see difficulties that he had not realized before and that his service under President Roosevelt has made him interested in a loaf of real bread rather than in the whole loaf of theoretical bread.

make a higher yield in very dry times when planted in rows, rather than drilled or sown broadcast. Corn of course is almost universally planted in rows. Because of seed shortage, very little of the forage sorghums or Sudan grass will be planted for late forage crops, but if sufficient rain comes the seed which is available, planted in rows, will produce a much greater quantity of forage than if the same amount of seed is broadcast or drilled. Furthermore, when forage crops are drilled or sown broadcast, weeds are difficult to control. These forage crops often give a

Cotton Checks Expected This Week By Howard Farmers

Other Counties In West Texas Get Payments

Nolan County Checks Received Last Week Amount To $38,000

County Agent O. P. Griffin said Tuesday morning that he expected cotton acreage reduction benefit payment checks for Howard county farmers here the latter part of this week.

Mitchell, Nolan and Glascock counties in this same section have already received checks. Nolan county's first payment netted farmers $38,000.

Programs and plans for the agent's office are being held in abeyance pending reception of forms necessary for land measuring and the cotton production control under the Bankhead act.

"We have two months of feverish work to be done by August 1," said Griffin, "and we have no forms to do it with." He said he was apprehensive about planning any set schedule lest the forms arrive and he would necessarily have to cancel engagements.

With the entire top floor of the old city hall building vacant, with the exception of his office, Griffin and aides are looking to plans for more spacious office quarters. This could be easily arranged were it not for the fact that the highway department, which has required quite a bit of room before completing its job here, will have to move in again when highway work under drought relief appropriations opens

Cotton Contract Land In South Texas Being Checked

COLLEGE STATION—The measurement of corn and cotton land on farms under contract with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration is under way in Extension Service District No. 5 in South Texas where contract compliance must be checked earlier than in the rest of Texas. The measuring method used in that section may be adopted later for the entire state, depending on results obtained and on the final settlement of certain debated details, the Texas A and M College Extension Service reports.

A community committee is being employed for every 50 to 100 farms, and farmers are helping in the measurement. The acres in growing cotton are being measured, and the rented acres also if there is any doubt. If more acres of cotton are growing than the contract allows the farmer must plow up the excess. In addition a check is up. More space will be required for an agent's office when the new home demonstration agent joins the local staff.

Contour lines and terracing is the gospel which Griffin preaches to farmers during this drought. He can point honestly at several instances where the abundant moisture acquired here in 1933 is still being used to raise good crops.

He is also expounding contour lines as the means by which slopes in this country may be made much more productive. Contour lines were run this year on the R. C. Oliver place near Luther, a place that had been none too productive in the past. Now it is up to a good stand and doing pretty well while surrounding farms are barren.

made of the crops growing on the rented acres, and the uses for which they were planted. A count is also made of the number of tenants and day laborers this year and last year.

In making the measurements it is suggested that 100-foot No. 14 wire be used with a 25 or 50 foot cloth tape provided to measure fractions of wire length. The supervising committee also has 11 wire stakes for helping keep count of the wire lengths per side. Angles are not being measured but the shape of the field, unless of unusual character is drawn in on a map of the farm.

By these methods the Extension Service has found in tests in Goliad county that land can be measured and checked for compliance with contract at a cost not to exceed three cents per acre. This includes the cost of employing one committee man to stay in the office and check the calculations of the field supervising committee. Later a man will be sent to each county to measure and check the work of a fair sample of the farms to make sure that everything has been done correctly.

Whether this system will be used throughout Texas in exactly this way will depend on results in South Texas, and no further rulings of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Charles W. Corley, manager of Firestone Service Stores, Inc., left Tuesday afternoon for Abilene, where he will attend a district sales meeting of Firestone dealers. Mr. Leach, general sales manager of Akron, will be present at the meeting, and will make an address.

FARM TALK

Written For The Daily Herald

Cotton planted after heavy rains and hailstorms a fortnight ago is dying. Other cotton seems to be holding up remarkably well under the strain of prolonged drought.

Wednesday and Thursday of last week were particularly hard on crops. Velocity of wind intensified and temperatures increased, cutting down young plants and sapping moisture at an alarming rate.

Droughts come and droughts go, but man can't do anything about it. That's the attitude of most of us. But it is being proven that something can be done about it.

For example, take two farms in the northwest part of the county, adjacent to each other, similar soil, similar weather conditions. One made 2 bushels of wheat per acre, the other yielded 14 bushels per acre.

Was it all luck? Hardly. One farm had never had a contour line run on it or any terracing done. The other had been systematically contoured and terraced for a period of years and produced 700 per cent more than the adjoining field.

E. B. and R. L. Gillean shipped a carload of yearlings from here Saturday. They drove them in from their pasture in Glascock county Saturday morning.

Here are a few lines that will make you realize how dry it is getting in some parts. Ben Whitaker, near Vincent, is hauling stock water, Bud Brannon, in the same area, is hauling 5 loads of stock water every day.

Buck Griffin, who ranches in Borden county, is having to buy stock feed and is finding it plenty hard to get. "Those who have it are holding on to it. These horses may get tired of eating mesquite beans," they tell him.

Lem Joiner says that the last shower he got did him no harm and no good. Before he could get it to plant, the moisture was gone.

Crops from Luther to town look pretty good. From Coahoma to Burkhead hill on the north they are as fine as anywhere in the county and are looking good. In other parts of the county they are spotted like a crazy quilt.

J. P. Anderson won't make as much off his wheat crop this year as in the past. During the winter he let his stock into the pasture for grazing. Now he is confronted with a dry season. He has 150 acres planted to wheat.

Attention is being focused on Ackerly. There will be a traditional celebration there June 27 with a rodeo, barbecue, "horse racing" and other entertainment features. If similar occasions in the past may be taken as a measuring rod, this year's celebration will be well attended and genuinely enjoyed.

And while we're talking about Ackerly, the speed record of Andy Brown (who is Ackerly's No. 1 citizen) deserves mention. Due to get a long distance telephone call at his home at Ackerly in half an hour's time, Brown left here in a hurry. Next day he was back in town to say that he followed the reported No. 9 north at better than a mile a minute and got there with minutes to spare. When topping is put on that new road, it will be only a forty-five minute drive for a good automobile and driver to Lamesa.

Co-Op Gin had an auspicious opening here Saturday. There was a large crowd milling around the new headquarters all day long, admiring the structure, enjoying the luncheon served and listening to good music.

Farmers know that arsenic will route grasshoppers. Now they are wondering, if properly applied, whether it will rid them of the candidate plague.

Vincent dedicated her renovated Baptist church Sunday. It's a good community that refuses to let its spiritual life come last.

Cotton acreage reduction benefit payment checks are expected here the latter part of this week.

Women of the county are to get a break on this agent business. The county commissioners' court voted last week to hire a home demonstration agent. She will go to work around July 1. Addition of the new agent will have the effect of costing the man who owns a quarter section of $5 per acre land only 8 cents per year. That seems reasonable enough.

So successful was the huge beef canning program for relief purposes last winter in Texas that the Extension Service has been asked to help national relief leaders work out the same program for the entire drought area in the United States. Miss Mildred Horton, state home demonstration agent, has been helping with details in Washington. The re-opened canning plant in Amarillo is to be visited by workers from other states for guidance.

Relief agencies spent about $500,000 on the entire beef canning relief program in Texas last winter, including cost of cattle and all labor and material charges. A product worth $776,936 was obtained, value being determined by the lowest competitive commercial bid received in a cost investigation.

Texas farmers and ranchers sold 21,320 cutter cows for an average of about $5 per head above market quotations, and 9439 unemployed persons were given wages of $12 per week. An average of about 3000 people were employed steadily for 26 days.

Each worker in the relief canning turned out an average of 40 cans of beef per day. Labor cost per day was $2, material cost per person $4.50, and value of output $8.44 per person per day. The net gain or saving to the public was about $1.94 per person per day.

With hundreds of thousands of starving cattle in drought regions, it is not surprising, in view of the remarkable success of the Texas experiment in killing, cutting and

Cotton Tag Applications To Be Received After June 15th

The Agricultural Adjustment Administration announced that applications for identification tags for cotton ginned prior to June 1, 1934, which is exempt from the tax provisions of the Bankhead control act, will be received after June 15. In a previous announcement, holders of old cotton were asked to make these applications prior to June 15. Applications may be made by letter or on the government form.

County agents are being instructed to hold all applications received by them and deliver them to agents as they go into the field to tag the old cotton. Old cotton, under a special regulation of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, is permitted to move untagged in the channels of the trade through the month of June.

These instructions are issued as a result of numerous inquiries by telegraph and telephone in order to assure persons interested in the cotton business that all old cotton will be tagged as soon as it is physically possible to accomplish the task and that agents will act on applications even though the applications are filed after June 15 and are not on Government forms. In making application, holders of old cotton should state the number of bales ginned prior to June 1 and their location.

THE NEW Firestone HIGH SPEED TIRE FOR 1934 Gives You

- WIDER TREAD OF FLATTER CONTOUR
- MORE TOUGHER RUBBER
- GUM-DIPPED HIGH STRETCH CORDS
- DEEPER NON-SKID
- MORE THAN 50% LONGER NON-SKID MILEAGE

SAFEST TIRE FIRESTONE EVER BUILT

THE New Firestone High Speed Tire for 1934 was built to give you the same dependable service it provided for the 33 drivers who started in the torturous 500-mile grind at Indianapolis last 30.

This new tire has a wider tread of flatter contour, deeper non-skid, more and tougher rubber, giving you more than 50% longer non-skid mileage.

Besides being Safety Protected on the outside it is Safety Protected on the inside. Eight additional pounds of pure rubber are absorbed by every one hundred pounds of cords.

This additional rubber is so placed that it surrounds every cotton fiber inside every cord in every ply. This is accomplished by soaking the cords in liquid rubber by a Firestone patented process. This patented process, Gum-Dipping, is not used in any other tire built.

Heat caused by internal friction of cotton fibers destroys tires—causes separation and blowouts.

Gum-Dipping counteracts friction and heat—provides greater adhesion and binds the cotton and rubber together into one cohesive unit of greater strength, assuring car owners of the greatest Safety, Protection and Economy that it is possible for human ingenuity to build into a tire.

The most amazing proof of this extra strength, safety and dependability is the fact that everyone of the 33 drivers at Indianapolis chose and bought Firestone High Speed Tires. Race drivers KNOW tire construction—they will risk their lives or chance of victory on any other than Firestone.

At terrific speeds the cars plunge into the treacherous turns—tires are braced against the scorching brick track—so hot the tires fairly smoke at times—they give—yield and stretch—every conceivable force works to tear the tire to pieces, yet Firestone High Speed Tires "come back" on the straightaways. Not once during the entire race did a tire fail.

Surely this is the most amazing proof ever known of Extra Strength, SAFETY and dependability. Call on the Firestone Service Dealer or Service Store nearest you TODAY. Equip your car with New Firestone High Speed Tires for 1934.

rouge will seem like child's play.

Bee—A number of political observers are convinced that Governor Paul V. McNutt of Indiana has a definite presidential bid in his bones. When he put Sherman Minton over for the Democratic senatorial nomination against his arch-foe Earl C. Peters, the handsome governor unmistakably demonstrated his strength.

But what has everyone guessing is how McNutt plans to keep that bee buzzing. His term expires in January 1937. Indiana law forbids his running to succeed himself. There will not be another Indiana senatorial contest after this year until 1938.

President Roosevelt at this writing appears to be a safe bet for the national nomination in 1936. There is every reason to expect Jack Garner again will be his running mate.

The former national commander of the American Legion is headed for two years of political retirement at the end of his gubernatorial term—unless he has some trick up his sleeve to get himself an important appointive job that will keep him in the limelight until 1940.

Taft—On the other side of the fence also the boys are indulging in long-range speculation. Shrewd Republican observers express the opinion that Charles P. Taft, a son of the former president, might emerge as G. O. P. compromise candidate in 1936. His participation in settling the Toledo strike recently, plus the fact his home state is Ohio, inspires this thought.

"If Taft lies low he should be the first-class man of the younger flight, from a first-class state, who could win with a far-western vice-presidential running mate," muse these prophets. A Roosevelt-Taft campaign might stir more than memories.

Of course a lot of things can happen between now and June 1936.

Notes—Another purchase of foreign silver is on foot. China has asked Washington not to boost silver in making foreign purchases. Russia and Japan rank next to the United States in total highway mileage. Both are using our road-making machinery. Little tractors and one-man combines "made in U. S. A." are finding ready markets abroad. Oil Dictator Jekes rules that 37,303,000 barrels of gasoline may be produced in July, an increase of 2,600,000 barrels over June, to take care of picknicking motorists. French embassy officials hope to use champagne for partial debt payments. They privately advocate debt settlement for political reasons.

NEW YORK
BY JAME McMULLIN

Assurances—Business men who figure the time has come to tell the president he must steer their course if he wants recovery are preparing a polite ultimatum for his benefit. Apart from urging him to put labor in its place they want specific assurance from him on five points.

(1) That he will forcefully and publicly declare that profits are legitimate and by all means to be encouraged. His previous utterances on the subject don't satisfy. They want something of a stop-press nature.

(2) That the government meddling with industry and finance will diminish rather than increase from now on.

(3) That the tax burden on business will not be enlarged at any time and will be cut down as rapidly as practicable.

(4) That trade negotiations under the president's new authority will not impair tariff protection to American business.

(5) That there shall be no further monetary experiments. Not all the industrial leaders involved agree on this one but the majority favor it.

Diet—The informed understand that recommendations emanating from the Hot Springs conference of business big shots will hew closely to these lines although they may not be made public. The sales argument will be that private initiative can't possibly be expected to function properly unless these assurances are given—and that it must function if recovery is to carry on.

Keen observers comment that business is asking a laissez faire prescription that would have done credit to Warren Harding. They add that a doctor may do his best to humor a patient convalescing from acute indigestion but doesn't usually grant him a lobster diet on demand—even though the patient threatens to have a relapse if he doesn't get it.

Pill—Those who should know say that Richard Whitney never swallowed a more bitter pill than when he publicly pledged exchange cooperation with the federal regulating commission and admitted the new law wasn't so terrible after all. Even Wall Street admits the effort at face-saving was pretty feeble. His hand was forced. The curb for once had beaten the big board

Supplies—Wheat circles see more than the failure of crops in Russia's sudden entry into the world market as a buyer. Insiders believe the marked increase over normal consumption of wheat in the Vladivostok region indicates a large number of troops held in that vicinity since the Russo-Japanese friction began. Large quantities of cement, cereals and such have also been shipped from Black Sea ports to Vladivostok.

American wheat farmers should soon benefit by direct exportation to Russia.

Weather

Local experts question the thunderstorm explanation of the Catekill airliner crash. They say weather map indications of soft flying conditions along the regular Hudson valley route are supported by the reports of pilots who came through at about the time of the crash. A check-up with observers in the vicinity of Last Chance Peak showed no electrical disturbances at the time.

A source close to the picture suggests the airliner didn't go off course to avoid weather but was simply taking an unauthorized shortcut.

Outs

New York insiders say the reason General Motors hurriedly announced reorganization plans for its airlines (T. & W. Eastern Air, Western Air Express) was to kill off a news story on its rough handling of "minority" interests in the lines. The point is that GM hasn't majority holdings—in T. & W. its equity boils down to 11%—but it has kicked out the others and runs the show single-handed. The outs expected big things of the publicity that was killed. They're disappointed but not through trying.

Olympic

Experts are certain the government will win its case against the Olympic for sinking the Nantucket lightship—even though it's tried in a British court. International law specifically states that a vessel which bears a foghorn and can't locate it definitely must immediately stop its engines. The Olympic failed to do so by its own captain's evidence. A local official of International Mercantile Marine told a friend: "I guess we're sunk. Nobody ever got away with slugging a cop—on land or sea."

Invitation

The stock exchange crowd is in a quandary. They are anxious to invite the exchange regulating commission to inspect their operations before the commission invites itself to do the same thing. But they can't extend the invitation until the commission is named and they're afraid Washington will somehow beat them to the jump. It's a terrific problem in etiquette—to say nothing of public relations.

Sidelights

The next major labor dispute is likely to arise in the tire industry. Oil strikes report growing unrest in Mexican oil fields and look for strikes this month. Mussolini has restricted currency experts and put the crews on lire speculators. The Germans are trying to naffify the Baltic states—Estonia, Finland, Latvia, Lithuania and Memel. It's cheaper than war if it works.

Lehman

Governor Lehman believes in the early bird motto. He held a private conference with Democratic leaders recently to map his re-election campaign. He achieved a miracle by getting Recovery Party leaders and McCooey followers to sit at the same table without heaving rocks at each other. Lehman plans to fire his opening guns before the Republicans have even named his opponent. He won't make a direct bid for Washington endorsement but it won't hurt his feelings if it is given voluntarily.

Harmony

The naming of Henry Fletcher as Republican National Chairman brought Owen Mills and Charles D. Hillis closer together. These two potent state leaders have been at loggerheads for some time. Their combine spells bad news for Kingland Macy's reform movement—which in turn may have an effect on national party policies. The Republican candidate for New York governor is lik. y to be someone you never heard of before. Inner party councils have about decided the best strategy is to name a man without enemies and make their campaign anti-Democratic rather than pre-anything.

Figures

The airlines are plenty worried about public reaction to the sensational Catekill crash—but they fear the American Mercury article that presents insurance actuarial figures to prove flying is 66 times more dangerous than normal ground pursuits may cut even deeper. The author—unkindest cut of all—is a member of the family, a one-time pilot.

In self-defense the transport boys are doing some mathematical magic of their own. Starting with last year's figures of 25 million passengers miles per fatality they work it out that you'd have to ride day and night for 28 years before you'd be a good bet to get killed. They say: "If staying on the ground is 66 times safer you can expect to live 1,948 years."

Sidelights—Local aircraft circles hear that Ford has a 90 horsepower Lycoming engine to sell as low as $230 that may be aimed at the 25 light planes wanted for the Department of Commerce. Builders profess to be unimpressed—but this may be an act. They know what glatted markets are like. The oil people are trying to encourage Diesel engine experiments for railroads.

Bobby Ray Scott Is Honored With Birthday Party

Bobby Ray Scott celebrated his sixth birthday anniversary with a lovely party at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Scott, when a merry group of kiddies participated in games and contests. A wealth of multi-colored balloons decorated the house appropriately for the juvenile party.

Prizes in the games went to Georgia Pearl Kirk and Frank Lee Birch.

The large white cake which centered the dining table was cut and served with ice cream. Small baskets filled with assorted candies were given as favors. Lola Mae Hall led the children in singing a birthday song as the guests were assembled about the table.

Guests were: Georgia Pearl Kirk, Wynonne Hall, Coleta Bell, Billie Louise and Robbie Jean Hawkins, Louise Hall, Darleen and Helen Mae Montgomery, Mary Ellen and Betty Farrar, Lorena Payne, Frank Lee Birch, Jean Johnson, Doris Lou Stuteville, Lucille West, Patty Rose and Rose Ann Henderson, Mattie Nell and Bunny Eden, Dorothy and Donald J. Woods, Dorothy and Clarence Yates, Mack Jackson, Mary Frances Hale and the honor guest.

Gifts were sent by Mrs. Baban Wood, Jesse and Jack Clay, Robert and Jeanne Dickerson, Richard Stripling, and Roy Summers.

Mothers attending the party included Mrs. Emmet Hall, N. H. Payne and Bill Hawkins. Those assisting Mrs. Scott in serving were: Lola Mae Hall and Maurine Montgomery.

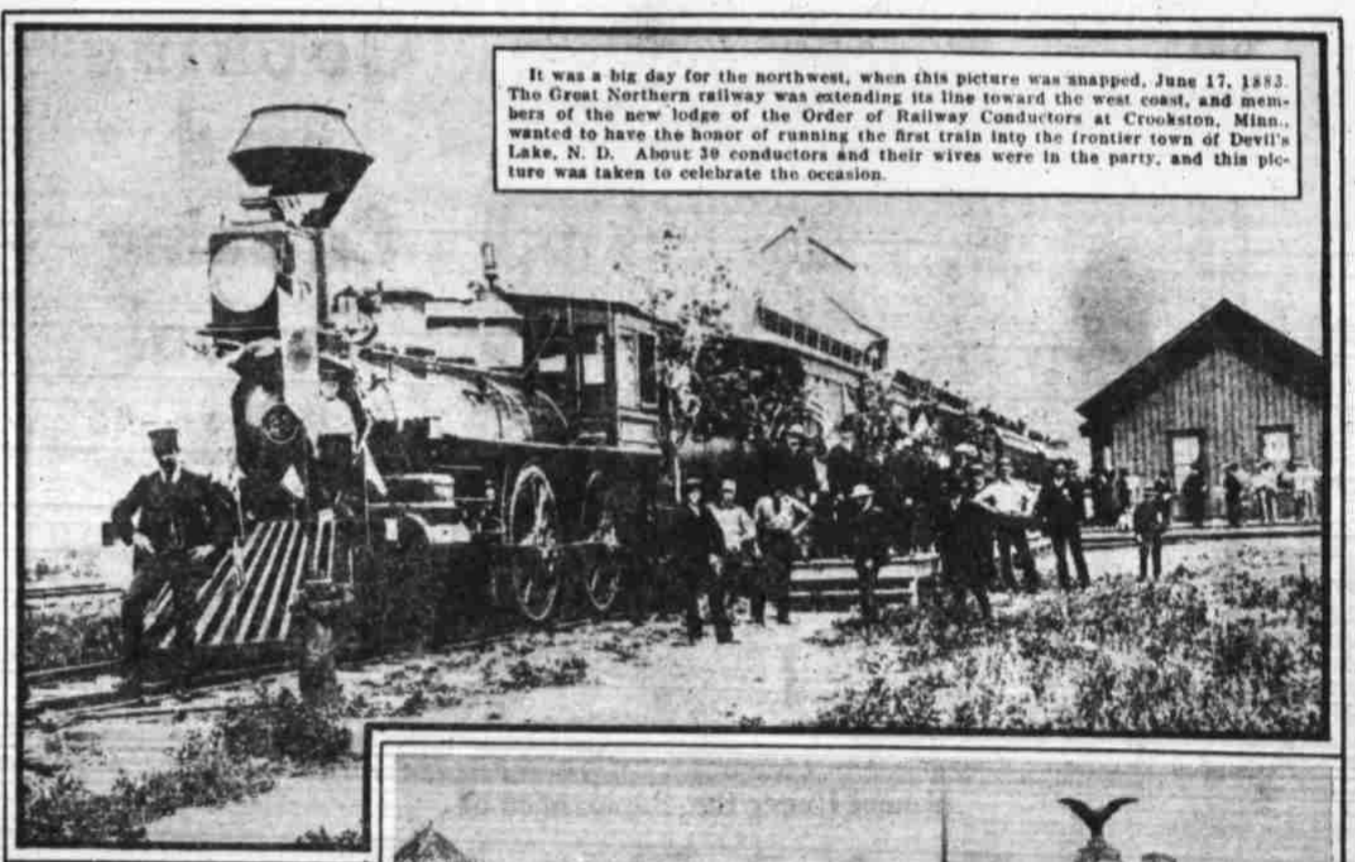

Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Swartz are in Los Angeles, California, where they are purchasing summer and autumn stocks for the Hollywood Shop.

HORSE AND BUGGY DAYS

One Lady in Very Fancy Dress, and Another In a Khaki Army Shirt

A fancy dress ball was a fancy dress ball in the old days as today. Here we have Mrs. Oliver H. P. Belmont (she was Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt then) costumed for a fancy dress ball which she gave in March of 1893.

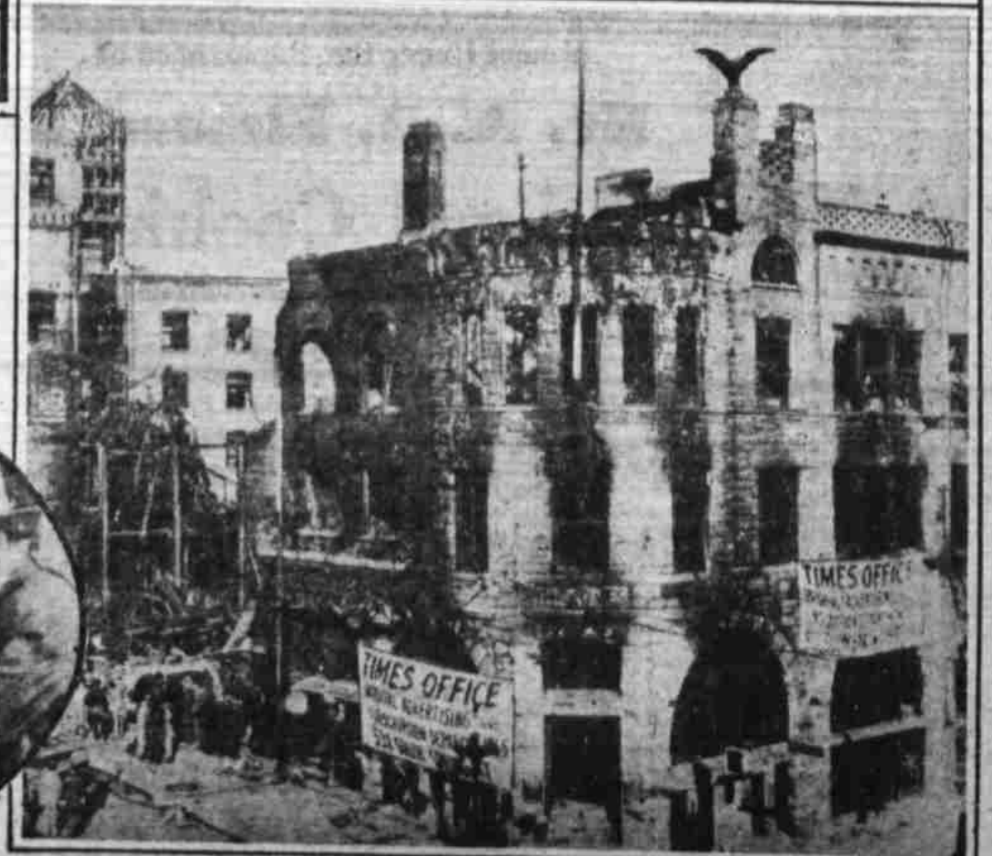

It was a big day for the northwest, when this picture was snapped, June 17, 1883. The Great Northern railway was extending its line toward the west coast, and members of the new lodge of the Order of Railway Conductors at Crookston, Minn., wanted to have the honor of running the first train into the frontier town of Devil's Lake, N. D. About 30 conductors and their wives were in the party, and this picture was taken to celebrate the occasion.

This man got famous just by walking—and if his name isn't familiar to you, your dad would probably recall it. He's Edward Payson Weston, once famous as walking champion, and the picture was taken in England in 1879.

The west was really wild when this picture was taken. It shows a faro game at Deadwood, S. D., way back when—and the gent on the far side of the table, wearing a campaign hat and chewing a cigar, isn't a man at all, but is the famous "Poker Alice," of wild western fame. The chap at the left has his six-gun out just to make it more interesting for the photographer—for the wild west, in those days, was just a little bit proud of its toughness.

Public horror at the dynamiting of the Los Angeles Times building spread across the nation in 1910, when 21 deaths and heavy damage followed this desperate deed of the McNamara brothers and several conspirators. Grocerymen Win League Tilt 19-9

By HANK HART

Sweeping onward toward the first half championship, the Robinson soft ball contingent defeated the Men's Bible Class 19-9 Monday night, after trailing the Methodist's during the first three innings.

After the Church representatives had taken an early inning lead, the Robinsonites broke through in the fifth and sixth inning with a 10 run rally which the Methodists had little hope of overcoming.

H. Hart and Hammond led the victors' attack with four hits apiece, while Cordill came through with three hits to lead the Methodists.

O. Hart, J. Forrester, and Hammond connected with home runs for the league leaders. Hammond's circuit smash coming with the bases loaded.

Cordill came through with a four bagger with one aboard in the sixth.

The Grocerymen led off with two runs in the first for a short lead. H. Hart and Rogers hit in succession and Coots brought them home with an outfield fly.

The Church boys were quick in scoring when the first four men up binged and each succeeded in making the round for a two run lead.

The Robinsonites tied the score in the second when O. Hart hit for the circuit with Coots on base, but the Methodist's again went into the lead when Fitzgerald scored in the third.

The lead changed in the next inning, this time when Hammond and L. Forrester tallied on outfield flies.

The Robinsonites tightened in the fourth when they held the Bible Class scoreless and came into their big fifth inning to score six runs and ice the game. Rogers, Digby, Coots, Underwood, Hammond, and O. Hart succeeded in crossing the plate.

Getting stronger as the game progressed, the Grocerymen tallied four times in the sixth and three in the seventh to run their score to nineteen. Digby, Coots, Underwood, and Hammond tallied in the fifth, while J. Forrester, H. Hart, and Rogers reached pay dirt in the seventh.

For the Classmen, Fitzgerald scored in the fifth, Storm and Cordill in the sixth, and Baker tallied in the final frame.

Lloyd Forrester settled down after the first few innings to pitch a masterful game for the Grocerymen.

The victory firmly entrenched the Robinsonites in the top slot, while the beaten Methodist's seemed destined to rest deep in the second division during the first half.

The Bankers tabbed two runs in the initial frame but missed five innings before chalking up another run. Most of the runs were made on errors.

Middleton, Cosden twirler, struck out ten Banker batsmen.

In Sunday's Sand Belt golf matches at Colorado, Fred Stephens lost his match on the 17th hole when his opponent's pellet took a lucky bounce. The two golfers were playing against a strong side wind, and Stephens' ball veered into a lake—which cost him two strokes. The Colorado linkman drove a long one down the alley but it went into a creek which crossed the fairway. Suddenly, as if tossed out by some unseen hand, the ball bounded over the creek bank and safely down the fairway. That's the way with this game called golf.

It seems hard to believe but there are 252 players registered in the Big Spring Soft Ball association.

First round play in the Municipal golf tournament got under way to a good start Monday.

Two matches, each going eighteen holes, were played yesterday in the championship flight. W. D. Cornelson, the smooth stroking golfing tailor, defeated young Ford Sturdivant 1 up. Cornelson was forced to play a top-notch game to beat Sturdivant after being three down at the end of the first nine.

Guy C. Rainey of Foran, who once made the nine hole course in even par, eliminated Dr. M. H. Bennett in the championship flight 3-2.

In the first flight, the diminutive Ben Childress swamped Carl Blomshield in an easy 3-7 rout.

The feature match thus far was the Beale-Rogers tilt in the second flight. Beale eliminated Rogers 1 up 20 holes. E. V. Spence ousted Lee Meiner 3-2 in another second flight match.

THE TOUGHEST TEST A MOTOR OIL COULD TAKE

DARING TEST! New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil outdistanced five worthy rivals, thanks to the extraordinary film strength and penetrativeness our recently patented process gives it. Five quarts of this remarkable new motor oil lubricated a car for the almost unbelievable distance of 4,729 miles before the motor was wrecked.

Five other oils, all nationally known and widely advertised, competed under identical conditions with New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil in this test.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil went more than 3,000 miles farther than the first oil to fail, and over 1,400 miles farther than the best of its competitors.

The results of this test should guide your next oil purchase. A tremendously greater motor protection and remarkably lower consumption await you at Red Triangle Stations. Drive in today.

New and Improved Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil winner in terrific "destruction" test of the Indianapolis motor speedway—supervised by the Contest Board, American Automobile Association.

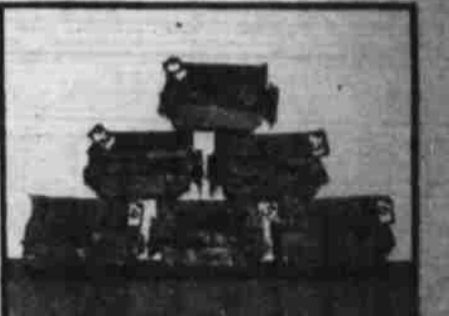

Mileage and all final details were checked by these two AAA officials. Electrical timing instruments were used.

Five quarts of each brand of oil of the same S. A. E. grade from measures checked by the Bureau of Weights and Measures, State of Indiana, were carefully put in the cars by AAA officials.

The official sealing of crankcases after fill of five quarts was put in. No addition of oil was permitted in this "destruction" test.

These six new strictly stock cars were used in the "destruction" test. AAA officials assigned the brand of oil each carried by drawing of lot numbers. Only AAA officials know which oil was in any car.

Here are the representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association who supervised every detail of the test and attested to the records made.

Here is the winner—the car that outdied 4,729 miles at 64 mph on an hour's run with five quarts of New and Improved CONOCO Germ Processed Motor Oil.

MURDER AT MOCKING HOUSE

BY WALTER C. BROWN

Chapter 34 BANGING DOOR

"Next, the murderer rinsed and dried the second liquor glass and put it back in the cabinet," explained Harper. "The dead man's pockets and clothing were emptied of anything that might establish his identity. But the killer over-reached himself there by making too thorough a job of that. A couple of keys, a pen or pencil, two or three things like that would have created a more normal appearance. By means unknown to us, the murderer have come until the Whitmores entered this room. That might have been some time today, perhaps not until tomorrow. But that would not do. The killer wanted it known that the deed was done early last evening. Why, unless he had prepared a protecting alibi?"

Lafferty was interested. "That sounds as if you were aiming at Dufresne. He certainly has the closest alibi of the lot."

"Yes, he was practically a pris-

The door was supposed to draw attention.

er then made his escape." "But what about the banging door?" Lafferty insisted. "The killer took a big chance there. It might have drawn some one's attention while the murderer was in the middle of all those details."

"I've got an answer for that, too. The lock-bar was let down just before the get-away. There was a purpose behind that banging door. It was supposed to draw attention to the crime!"

"The murderer wanted the bodies discovered right away?" "Exactly."

"But why was it so important to have the bodies discovered at once?"

"There can be only one answer to that—the murderer had a good alibi and he didn't want to waste it. Had these bodies been lying here all night, discovery would not one, under lock and key. But, aside from his ironical alibi, the fact that the gun was left in his drawer, uncleaned and not reloaded, seems to point to his innocence. A guilty man would not have been so careless."

"It's pretty hard to feel sure about anything so long as we have no idea of the motive behind the killing," Lafferty commented.

"That makes it difficult," Harper agreed. "And if we go back a little in point of time, we're up against some erratic behavior. The earliest event of which we have any knowledge shows us the masquerader buying his disguise in October, while the Dufresnes were still away. Why did he do that? Why did he want to look like Dufresne? We don't know and it's an important factor."

"Perhaps he counted on being taken for Dufresne," Lafferty hazarded, "in case some one saw him prowling around the house. The resemblance was remarkable, although without the disguise there was practically no similarity."

"That may be the reason, but if so whom did he meet here? The Dufresnes, Andrews and Donaghy were at Moose Head Lodge. The maid, Ellen Becker, had been sent away months before. The Whitmores, knowing Dufresne was in Maine, wouldn't have been fooled for more than ten seconds, unless this man came here to meet them. Which only substitutes one set of absurdities for another. Besides, I am quite convinced that the Whitmore can be dropped from our calculations. "The next real mystery concerns the threatening letters. What was their object, if action was really contemplated? The letters really meant business, as the ambush proved."

Lafferty thought it over. "You can't dodge the inference that there was a conspiracy afoot to do away with Dufresne. Those letters made no demands for money. Just the threat to kill. That backs up my theory—Mrs. Dufresne teamed up with some one to get rid of her husband. The letters were sent first, as a blind to give us a false lead to work on."

"If Mrs. Dufresne teamed up with some one here in the house, where does our dead man enter the picture? And if not, then who hid the gun this morning? Certainly she did not."

"Just the same, I'm holding out for my theory. She's back of it, and her husband is foolishly trying to cover up for her. We don't know what's been going on in their private lives."

"But, Jack, have I pointed out that there's a break in the link between the dead man and the crank letters? I don't say he didn't write them, but we can't prove that he did and the fact remains that none of his fingerprints appear on any of the letter sheets."

"Dufresne himself smeared over some of the early letters, but later he was more careful in his handling of them. There is a pretty fair thumb mark on the left margin of No. 3 letter, but we've combed our own files and submitted it to the U. S. Bureau, with no result. That thumb is not down in the archives nor is our unknown visitor. Which is not very surprising, for from the start it did not seem to be the work of habitual criminals. We'll have to read those letters over and over and try to deduce something from the contents as our knowledge of the case expands."

Harper was interrupted by the entrance of Andrews, who announced that luncheon would be served, if they were ready. Behind him came John Whitmore carrying a small table, which he set up. The butler spread a snowy cloth and silver handed him by his docile assistant.

Sergeant Harper and Lafferty lingered silently by the fireplace while these preparations were going on. Andrews drew up chairs for them and when they were seated Whitmore lumbered in with the silver-plated platters on a tray. The butler arranged the various dishes, then retired noiselessly. "Service de luxe," remarked Lafferty, peering interestedly under the silver covers. "Um. That looks good." He had uncovered a dish of creamed chicken with mushrooms, in a ring of currant jelly. "And hot biscuits, all snug in a blanket. Steve you must have a drag with our host. I thought a little snack in the servant's quarters might be the peak of his generosity. He has to tolerate us, but he is not obliged to do so well. He must be trying to soften our hearts."

Food Handlers Are Required To Have Health Certificate

AUSTIN—Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, while discussing the spread of disease, asserted that servants in the homes were responsible for transmitting many diseases. There is a state law requiring food handlers in public places to have a health certificate, but this does not include domestics. This is the responsibility of the employer.

Many persons of all races are employed as cooks, nurse-maids, laundresses, etc. As such they come in intimate contact with the grown-ups and children in the family. If these servants are harboring any communicable disease the employing family is very liable to contract it.

Some of the diseases that may be and are transmitted in such a manner are: venereal diseases, tuberculosis, typhoid fever, and other acute contagious diseases. A typhoid carrier can easily infect an entire family. Recently a nurse-maid was discovered to have syphilis and she had charge of two small children. Another family discovered that their servant had active tuberculosis.

The state department of health recommends that employers have their servants from time to time to eliminate any danger of contracting any of the diseases men-know that every candidate for that office at the present time is my personal friend. I can and will cooperate with whoever you, the common people of this state, elect to that high office. I know the functions of the various departments and institutions. I will not interfere with the judiciary or with the legislative branches of our state government if you elect me attorney-general, because as attorney-general I will be in the executive branch along with whoever you elect governor.

"But I will cooperate with the administration because I am going into the attorney-general's office a free lance, without special interests to serve and without enemies to punish. A great many of the political leaders who have been on the other side against me on numerous occasions are now out actively supporting me. I will name a few of them—Senator T. H. McGregor and Ed Husson of the Ferguson field. They are strong leaders in the Ferguson camp, but they are actively and openly working to elect me as the next attorney-general."

Senator Woodward shook hands with several hundred admirers after his speech here. His loudspeaker car accompanied the party northward, expecting to reach Amarillo Saturday for the opening of his Panhandle campaign. The Coleman candidate is vigorous, extremely effective in his address and one of the most active campaigners now out for state office.

Miss Camille Koberg and Miss Nancy Bell Phillips have left for Lubbock to represent the local Episcopal church in the summer conference of the church for young people. Most of the conference will be held in Seaman hall.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Connally Heads Congressional Committee To Determine Amount To Be Spent At Texas Centennial

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Special congressional committee, directed by Senator Connally, to investigate the extent to which the federal government should participate financially in the Texas Centennial Celebration in 1936, held its first meeting Tuesday, selecting Senator Connally as chairman. Connally said the committee would come to Texas in the autumn, probably to hold meetings in Houston, San Antonio and perhaps other cities of Texas.

Senator Connally To Return To Texas After Congress Adjourns To Personally Handle Campaign

SEN. TOM CONNALLY

DALLAS, (Special)—United States Senator Tom Connally will return to Texas immediately after the adjournment of congress, and will take personal charge of his campaign for reelection for a second term in the senate. J. P. Rice, of Dallas, recently appointed state-wide campaign manager for the Texas junior senator announced here today. Connally will deliver half a dozen or more addresses, one or more in each section of the state, in which he will review his record in the senate and give an accounting of his official actions to his constituents in Texas, Rice said. "In the meanwhile," said Rice, "Senator Connally will remain in Washington, doing his duty, representing the people of Texas. Since the Roosevelt administration took office, the senator has been one of the president's close counselors, and one of the leading sponsors entrusted by Mr. Roosevelt with the task of plotting administration legislation through the upper house. In his absence from the state, the senator's interests are being looked after by his friends, and he has asked me to publicly thank the thousands of loyal friends and constituents who are actively campaigning in his behalf from one end of Texas to the other."

"I have just returned from a motor trip of 8,000 miles made during the past few weeks into every section of the state. I find the sentiment for Senator Connally so overwhelming that there can be no doubt that the people of Texas are unwilling that he should be penalized for remaining at his post of duty, loyally supporting the President of the United States and aiding in the perfection of the New Deal, instead of leaving his constituency unrepresented in order to further his personal political fortunes."

"My contacts with thousands of Texas citizens in every walk of life during my recent state-wide tour have convinced me thoroughly that the people of Texas are overwhelmingly supporting President Roosevelt and his great program for the recovery of our nation from depression. The part which Senator Connally has had in this great program—well known to Texas generally—convinces me that he will be re-nominated by a tremendously large majority in the July 25 primary, the people of Texas thereby evidencing their continued support of and faith in the administration which has done so much to lift Texas and the nation out of the depths of the depression."

Highway Office Here Abandoned

Its current task completed, the Big Spring highway office force Tuesday had abandoned its quarters in the old city hall building. Disintegration of the staff here has been underway for a period of weeks as the job of drafting re-routed highways neared completion.

Plans and specifications for the road projects in this county have been sent to the Austin office and need of the local office ceased.

M. E. Savage, who has been stationed here as resident engineer, said that a staff would be set up here again when actual construction work was announced.

It is not likely that so large a force will return here since work in the future will be largely inspection.

Meanwhile, the chamber of commerce and county commissioners court were taking steps to expedite topping of highways No. 9 and No. 1 across the county.

Plans were formulated to dispatch a delegation to Austin during the next meeting of the highway commission in an effort to have the local projects opened for bids.

Dawson county, although satisfied that topping of No. 9 in that county was assured as soon as funds are made available, let it be known Tuesday morning through its County Judge Philip Young that it would cooperate with Howard county in the latter's efforts.

Garland Woodward Accompanies Sen. Woodward On Tour

He will be with his brother until the West Texas swing is completed and will return here June 26. Early in July he will be in charge of that campaign office until the July 28 primary. He will return here each week end, he said.

Helen Hicks Is America's First 'Business Golfer'

NEW YORK, (AP)—Helen Hicks, former national women's golf champion, Tuesday announced a decision to become America's first "business woman golfer."

She signed a five-year contract with a Chicago concern as adviser in its golf department.

SPORT SLANTS

By ALAN GOULD

"I read of the Ferrell brother set in Boston and of the time that Rick nearly spoiled Brother Wesley's no-hit game against the St. Louis Browns in 1931 and my mind goes back to a similar affair at the White Sox park in Chicago in the days of Fielder Jones and his 'hitless wonders' days when I was scoring American League games for the A. P. in Chicago," recalls our own Mel Coleman.

"Probably the most 'hitless' that wonder team was Lee Tannehill, shortstop. He got so few safeties in the course of a season that Mrs. T. promised him his favorite dish, fried chicken, for dinner for each and every one, but at that she didn't have to disrupt the family budget by buying choice fowls.

However, the cry "chicken for dinner" went up from the press box whenever Lee came up.

"Come the day when Boston was in town for one of those crucial series. The visitors, allowing as how the ox liked southpaw even less than right handed, called upon their stouter and veteran port side, Jess Tannehill, to twist it. It was a close game, for the White Sox, pitchers—Nick Altrock, Doc White, Big Ed Walsh and Roy Patterson—always managed to limit opponents to a few, if not fewer hits, than their teammates could garner.

The Sox generally won by shenanigans on the base paths after a walk or some similar slip in the opponents' defense.

A PENNANT-WINNING FOKE "Thu in the ninth that day the home team had managed to work a runner, I think it was Frank Ibell, to second with the score tied and two out. It was Lee's turn to bat. Why not a pinch hitter? There wasn't such an animal in the whole Sox camp.

Old Jess sort of smiled, Mrs. Lee screamed 'chicken' in a voice that reached the center field bleachers and Lee swung twice futilely.

"Come another pitch, 'way down around his knees. He cricketed it down third base way and every home fan groaned, for Jimm Collins was there. But wonder of wonders, the ball flashed an inch past Jimmy's stabbing glove, rolled gently into left field and Frank Ibell's gleaming bald knob (he always grabbed off his cap when he had to sprint), charged safely home with the winning run.

"Later by Sanborn, whose speciality was reckoning 'breaks' of the game, figured that this rare feat of Lee Tannehill was responsible for the White Sox winning the pennant."

MODERN 'HITLESS WONDERS' The Giants were the 'hitless wonders' of 1933, only by comparison with the other clotting arrays in the National league rather than ment. For the time being she does not plan to become a playing "pro."

because of similarity with the old White Sox of the Fielder Jones era but they have begun to break out in a rash of base-hits this season, thanks to the freer ball and Manager Bill Terry's example.

The world's champions didn't begin hitting in any remarkable extent until their pitching staff lost Roy Parmelee and otherwise showed some signs of cranking. George Watkins, the ex-Cardinal was a big disappointment with the stick until recently but Terry and his leadoff man, Joe Moore, have clubbed their way up among the 250 hitters while Travis Jackson, Mel Ott and Lefty O'Doul, the San Francisco slugger, have delivered a timely share of base-knocks.

Even Elmer Ryan, the infidel lack-of-all trades, has caught the hitting fever and Hughey Critt, the midwest second baseman, has joined the home-run hitting class to the astonishment of one and all. After Hughey's round-tripper helped plaster the Boston Braves in a recent visit to the Polo Grounds, Manager Bill McGeehan remarked:

"Who said these fellows couldn't hit. Maybe they are getting some breaks now but we haven't been able to find any real 'soft spots' in the batting order of the Giants.

They still look like the club to beat in our league although it is going to be a hard-fought race right down to the finish and I expect the Braves to be in the middle of the scramble."

SUMMER is the season when the possibilities for enjoyment are multiplied about you. Under the wide and spreading sky there is room for much happiness.

You don't need great wealth, and you don't need to fasten all your hopes for happiness on a short vacation. Whether you live in the city, with all its modern means of tempering the climate to your needs, or in the country where the good earth responds so beautifully to your touch—there is much to do, pleasantly and happily.

But there is art in enjoyment. You should dress properly for each occasion. You should have within easy reach the things that make hospitality inviting and gracious. You should have the means of refreshing and beautifying your person and improving your sense of well-being. You should be comfortable.

It is not so hard to do all this. It is not accomplished in one frenzied and expensive effort. Comforts should grow about your home, as flowers and fruits blossom and ripen.

Read the advertisements, and acquire the things you need from what you learn there. Fresh light summer wear. Foods and beverages that keep crisp and cool in modern refrigerators. Gas and electricity that cook and brighten without heating your rooms. Electric fans, perhaps. Soaps, cosmetics, and heaps of fresh towels for frequent showers.

And read in the advertisements where to go and what to do in order to make Summer the golden season of your life.

Hurricanes Visit Texas Once In Every 2.1 Years, Statistics Show; Most Frequent In Fall

McALLEN, Texas, (UPI)—The hurricane season on the Gulf of Mexico has come again, with its annual threat of death, injuries, and property damage. Until November the destructive winds can be expected any time. Shippers keep an extra close check on weather predictions. Merchants and residents along the coast keep boards ready to put over windows. Farmers look anxiously every morning to see if storms are threatening their crops. September is the most dangerous month, although hurricanes occur any time from June to November. Last year's big storm, which killed 44 persons, injured 1,500, and caused property damage estimated at $12,000,000, took place in September. The 1899 hurricane, which swept over Haiti and Cuba, struck the Texas coast at Galveston and traversed the southeastern states, St. Lawrence valley, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Iceland, also was a September storm. Hurricanes, utterly uncontrollable, generally "run wild." A few characteristics are common, however, to all such hurricanes. All hurricanes are vast whirlwinds, circular in shape, which rotate counter-clockwise. In generally developed hurricanes there is an "eye" or center, usually from 5 to 25 miles across, in which there is absolute calm. Around this calm however, whirls a terrific wind which may develop a speed of 140 miles an hour. No storm is called a hurricane until the wind exceeds 75 miles an hour. While the winds are whirling about the center of the hurricane, the entire storm area progresses at a rate averaging around 12 miles an hour. Weather bureau records show Florida and Texas to be the chief victims of hurricanes, with Florida leading.

To the Dallas News: Have just read the letter from M. H. Duncan of Lubbock, Texas, in The News of May 27. It was fine and he makes out a strong case against "the philosophy that is destroying America today, socially, politically, industrially, and the leaders of American education are to blame for it." Yes, that is right. Our moral basis is false and we seem not to know it; pitiable. Now, then, who are our leaders in education? The press, the pulpit and schoolroom are undoubtedly our main leaders—that is, editors, preachers and teachers. But doctors and lawyers are likewise guilty. Why are all these leaders so guilty? Just because they get more money to do it that way. Those who control our money, it seems, are more willing to turn their money loose for that kind of teaching. Moneyed men usually want whisky, and the various vices to be free, because easy money is made by dealing in these vices. "Right," which is just another expression for "good morals" and God's law, is not in high esteem by these moneyed rulers. They want success in business, in politics and in parties, regardless of moral demands. They control the press, pulpit and school to accomplish these ends. The pulpit and school are intimidated from politics. They must teach only in the abstract and do nothing in the practical field. This leaves the press to mold all public policy in the minds of the people. Money literally owns and controls nearly all press propaganda, and it is all "private" money. If we had real public money, this could all be changed, but never as long as our money is furnished by pri-

STATE BAR ASSOCIATION TO MEET AT FT. WORTH JULY 5-7

The 53rd annual convention of the Texas Bar Association will be held at Fort Worth on July 5th, 6th, and 7th, with headquarters at the Blackstone hotel. An unusually interesting program has been arranged for the meeting. Hon. Earle W. Evans, the president of the American Bar Association, will be the principal speaker, and there will be other nationally prominent speakers. In addition to the routine business of the convention, addresses will be given by prominent members of the bar on subjects of particular interest to Texas lawyers.

In addition to the business matters, there will be an unusual series of entertainments provided for the visiting lawyers and their wives, including a barbecue and the annual banquet on the night of the 7th, at which Hon. Henry P. Burney, of San Antonio will be toastmaster.

One of the outstanding features of the program will be a luncheon on July 6th, at which all the lawyers of Texas, who have practiced fifty years or longer will be the honor guests. Personal invitations have been sent to all of these old-timers and it is hoped that a large part of the 150 or more eligible will attend. The largest attendance in years is expected to be present at this meeting, and the Tarrant county Bar Association is sparing no effort to make this a memorable meeting. Among Big Spring attorneys who intend to attend the meeting in Fort Worth are as follows: Thos. J. Coffey, G. A. Woodward, Clyde E. Thomas and Martelle McDonald.

Grady Bell Quits As Odessa Chamber Commerce Secretary

ODESSA—Grady Bell, secretary of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce for the past three years, tendered his resignation to that position to the board of directors of that organization, Wednesday evening of last week. After discussion the resignation was accepted by the board.

Mr. Bell has served as secretary of the chamber of commerce here during the most trying years in the history of the town, and has held together the organization, operating on an unbelievably small budget.
