Thoughts

OF A COUNTRY EDITOR

BY JOHN C. GREGG

ON OUR TRIP

Unless some unforeseen difficulties arise between the time this is being written and Tuesday at noon, your editor and family will be on a short trip by the time you get your News this week. We plan to go to visit Mrs. Gregg's father in Joaquin, Texas and perhaps spend a little time on the Sabine River.

Since we announced this in last week's paper we have had a large number of our friends wish us well on our little trip and for these kind words we wish to express our gratitude.

We also wish to express our thanks for all who have been so cooperative in helping us to get the paper out early. Without your cooperation, it would be impossible for us to take the few days vacation. We assure you it is greatly appreciated.

MULROY WEDDING

Miss Evangeline Mulroy and Mr. Wayne Horton were united in marriage at the local Methodist Church Sunday night. A complete account of the wedding will be carried in next week's News. Due to the shortage of time this week, we are unable to get engravings made on pictures and the story complete.

Ralph T. Fisher To Be In Coleman Tuesday, June 24th

Mr. Ralph T. Fisher, Manager of the Abilene office of the Social Security Administration, will be at the Department of Public Welfare in Coleman at 1:00 p. m., on Tuesday, June 24th. Persons wishing to file retirement claims or survivor's claims under the Social Security Act are invited to call at that time.

Fisher in a statement made today, called attention to the importance of the social security card and stated that it is each worker's responsibility to keep possession of his card. Getting a duplicate is simple but it takes about a week or 10 days to verify the number and issue a duplicate. If the job seeker has lost his card, he may miss a chance to go to work during this week or 10 days.

Over 100 million cards have been issued nationally since social security began 15 years ago. Another five million will be issued this year, including those going to self-employed persons and persons in other recently covered groups.

Young people starting on their careers or vacation jobs will need cards soon. Mr. Fisher suggests that these young folks might follow the example set by workers now reaching retirement age. They have carried cards for about 15 years, and many of them still have their original cards. They recognized that their cards had a definite value to them, and now in their older years it is paying off.

Applications for social security cards may be obtained at the local Post Office. Completed applications should be mailed to the Social Security Administration, Post Office Building, Abilene, Texas.

Mrs. Sloan Wells took her G. A. Girls to Trickham last Thursday afternoon, where they visited with Mrs. Stearns and Mrs. Gifford.

THE PUBLIC BACKYARD

Sometimes some of us forget that roads and roadsides belong to the people who use them and that each of us has some small obligation, personally, to help keep them attractive and clean. A country road can be a scenic delight, or an ugly blight.

We can help this particular cause by remembering that this highway is ours, paid for with our tax dollars, coursing through public lands that belong to all the people; and so, with some justifiable pride in the possession, a motorist somewhere may become less inclined to toss his trash into the public parlor.

Mrs. Henry Goodwin, Jr., and little daughter, Sandra Kay, left for their home at Valley Mills on Thursday of last week, after a months visit with her husband's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Goodwin. L. A. Welch Resigns From City Council

L. A. Welch, a member of the City Council since April, 1951, offered his resignation to the other members of the council Thursday of last week. His resignation was to be effective as of that day.

Welch stated it took all of his time to keep his business operating, working from 12 to 16 hours a day and that he did not have time to adequately take care of his duties as a member of the council. He said he had given the matter a lot of thought and could not see any reason for remaining on the City Council any longer.

Welch's resignation leaves only four members on the council. About a year ago, Jesse K. Barton resigned as mayor. The council is supposed to be composed of a mayor and five aldermen. The four Aldermen remaining are: C. E. Flint, acting in the position as Mayor and Vernon Parker, Cliff Herndon, and Harry Crews.

Public Hearing On Atmospheric Pollution In Houston June 25-26

Austin. — A public hearing on atmospheric pollution, the first of its kind ever held in Texas, is scheduled for June 25-26, in Houston at 9:00 a. m., the State Department of Health has announced.

The hearing, to be held in the Baylor University School of Medicine auditorium, is for the purpose of allowing industrial plant managers and the public to see what can be worked out on pollution abatement.

State Health Department engineers will moderate the discussion.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, said Texas has no specific anti-pollution laws, and "no standards to go by." The ultimate goal, he said, is to develop a control program.

"We'll need some enabling legislation to set up a program," Dr. Cox said. "The complicated problem in Texas will require a lot of support from both industry and the public."

He said industry has indicated just as great a desire to do something about the situation as has the public.

About 85 percent of all air pollution complaints coming to the State Health Department's attention come from the Houston ship channel area, which Dr. Cox tagged as the reason for having the first public hearing there.

This is the first in what health department engineers hope will be a series of public meetings on air pollution abatement. Potential pollution problems will increase with Texas industrialization, the health officer declared.

In addition to inviting industrial leaders and complainants from Houston, a representative from the governor's office and the attorney general's office have been asked to be on hand.

Army Celebrates 177th Birthday

The United States Army, the only element of the Armed Forces that has had a continuous active status from the Revolutionary War to the present day, celebrated its 177 birthday anniversary, Saturday, June 14.

The process of creating the first American Army, from scratch, was so strenuous that few men could be found that were certain it would observe a second birthday.

George Washington was chosen commander. He had never commanded any unit higher than a regiment of Virginia volunteers — but not a score of men could be found in the colonies who had done that much.

To feed and clothe the soldiers, quartermaster and commissary departments had to be set up from nothing by men who had never faced such problems before. Weapons had to be found somewhere, since the main supply had always come from England.

The soldiers had enlisted for 1775, and in '76 a majority of them went home. There was no appeal or authority, strong enough to make them stay, and several entire regiments marched out of the works around Boston, and left great gaps in the line where Washington was trying to keep the enemy penned up.

Although Texas was not identified with either the Revolution nor the war with the British in 1812, San Antonio and Texas were closely woven into the fabric of the War with Mexico in 1846-48; the War between the States, 1861-65; Spanish-American War, 1898; Border Disturbances, 1916-17; World War I, 1917-18; World War II, 1941-45; and the Korean conflict which began in 1950.

From 1775 until today this nation has never been without an Army. At times, it has been very small. It had 80 men immediately after the Revolution; during World War II its peak was 15 million. But small or large, in peace or in war, it has gone on building its unbroken tradition through 177 years of continuous service to the American people.

Southwest States Now Making Large Part Of "Fatigues"

Abilene. — The West Texas Chamber of Commerce joined in an effort that has just resulted in an OPS ruling that prevented diversion of defense garment contracts to New England "labor distress areas" from the south and southwest.

The Defense Production Act provides that such contracts be awarded the lowest acceptable bidder. Using the Secretary of Labor's designations of "labor distress areas," the organization labor leaders had sought for months to have defense contracts given New England manufacturers without taking of bids. Their plea was that surpluses of labor exist in the north and northeast.

The OPS decision was to abide by the bid-taking provisions of the law. Southern and southwestern manufacturers are now making 65 per cent of so-called "fatigue" garments for the Armed Forces because they have been able to under-bid the New England firms, they declare.

Among those who testified in a May 22 Washington hearing on the issue was A. B. Lankford of T. S. Lankford & Sons, Abilene. He reported that a CIO representative contended that that organization and the AFL should place the contracts "because they know the people with the equipment and the know-how to do the job."

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Morgan, Jr. of El Paso, came Saturday and are visiting her mother, Mrs. Nora James, and other members of the family. When they return home, after a weeks visit, Mrs. James and her granddaughter, Sandra James will accompany them for a visit.

Dixon - Wells

Miss Estle Dixon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hayes Dixon became the bride of Pfc. Billy Wells, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wells of Coleman, on Saturday, June 14th, at 6:30 p. m.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. S. R. Smith, former Baptist pastor of Santa Anna, at his home, 1708 12th Street, Brownwood.

The bride is a graduate of Santa Anna High School, and the groom attended Coleman schools.

The couple's only attendant was the bride's mother. She and the bride were dressed identically and wore matching pink carnation corsages.

The groom has been serving with the Marines at Oceanside, California, and after a few more days leave, will report for duties elsewhere.

Use More Milk And Milk Products

June is official National Dairy Month. Every month might be dairy month because milk and dairy products play such an important part in our diets. Jimmie Nell Harris, foods and nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, points out that milk is nature's most nearly complete food. It has no equal among foods as a source of calcium, which is needed by everyone, and of protein.

Miss Harris says that milk is usually an expensive item in the food budget. But when you compare the cost to the food value obtained, it is a very good buy. Milk can be bought to fit the food budget the same as a car is bought to fit the income budget. The use of dried skim milk is recommended by the specialist for low cost diets. One pound retails for around 40 cents and when reconstituted will make 5 quarts. The food value is the same as fresh whole milk except for fat and vitamin A content.

Other forms of milk available include evaporated, condensed, dried whole and of course fresh milk. Markets now have butter-milk, pasteurized and homogenized milk and many have fresh skim milk. In homogenized milk the fat is broken down into tiny globules which are distributed throughout the liquid and therefore, has no cream line.

In most families there is someone who doesn't like milk and doesn't drink enough for a balanced diet. Miss Harris suggests that homemakers use foods that are made with milk. A few of these are cream soups, ice cream and frozen custard, baked or soft custard, cream or cheese sauces over vegetables and cereals cooked in milk instead of water.

There are other dairy products which are as important as milk in the daily diet. Wonderful cheese combinations are limited only by the imagination of the user. The specialist points out that cheese is a concentrated source of many nutrients of milk. Ten pounds of milk is required to make one pound of cheese and American cheese retains about four-fifths of the protein and calcium, two-thirds of the phosphorus and one-third of the riboflavin of the milk. Since most of the fat is retained, a high percentage of the vitamin A is left in American Cheese. From the standpoint of calcium, one ounce of cheese may be used as an alternate for one cup of milk.

What we eat has a lot to do with the way we feel. How we feel has a lot to do with how we act. Since milk and milk products are high on the list of foods we all should eat, Miss Harris warns that every adult should have at least a pint and children a quart of milk daily or its equivalent.

The Sin of Greed

Lesson for June 22, 1952

GREED is not modern. The only modern thing about it is its name. The Tenth Commandment is easy to dodge if you go by the bare words, like a shyster lawyer. Suppose your neighbor is a bachelor, lives in a rented apartment, has neither manservant nor maidservant, and no cattle of any description. Thinking you can cheat him, you say: "But wait a minute... It says here: 'Thou shalt not covet'—a coveting that is thy neighbor's." That covers everything he has. You can covet his reputation, his job, his girl; you can covet his insurance, his money in the bank, his water-works. "Anything" covers a great deal of territory. And any sort of coveting is still sin. Greed in the fourteenth century B.C. and the twentieth century A.D. are all the same thing at heart. And "at heart" is where greed begins.

Dr. Foreman

Something for Nothing
THE ESSENCE of greed, of covetousness, is wanting something that does not belong to you, without wanting to give anything in return. If I have eggs for sale and you buy a couple of dozen, you are not covetous for wanting the eggs and I am not greedy for wanting the money. It's a fair exchange.

Of course, if I charge you too much for the eggs, then I am covetous, to be sure. Or if you want to steal the eggs out of my henhouse before day, then you are covetous. But buying and selling are neither one sinful. If you have worked for a week and want your pay, that is not greed. If you have rented a house and the landlord wants his rent, he isn't greedy unless he is charging you too much.

The profit motive is not wrong of the man who takes the profit. The profit motive is dead wrong if all the profiteer thinks about is the profit, without ever a thought of service.

The gambler, the tax "fixer," the sports "fixer," are trying to get something for nothing, and that is the very essence of the sin of greed.

Selling What Ought Not To Be for Sale
SOMETIMES greed reaches the point where the greedy man will sell what ought never to be sold. There are things in this life that are priceless, literally; they can never be tagged with a price-mark. But the covetous spirit will eat out a man's sense of values till he begins to put price-marks on priceless things. There are always buyers, alas!

After the American Civil War, some business men came to Robert Lee, who had lost everything he had but his reputation, and offered him what was then a tremendous sum if he would just let them use his name as an officer of their company.

"You won't have to do any work," they said. "All we want is the use of your name." "It's not for sale," said Robert E. Lee.

Another thing that should never be put on sale is the simple doing of duty. True, honest work should be fairly paid. But that is not the point at the moment. Take this skipper Carlsen of the Flying Enterprise. When he came into port after that famous voyage in which he sank with his ship till the last hour before Davy Jones took it down, he was due a certain amount of salary, no doubt, and he had well earned it. If the company paid him a bonus besides, we should all be glad. But Captain Carlsen turned down offers totaling around $100,000, from radio and television people, just for letting them use him as advertising. No sir, said Carlsen in effect, what I have done, I did in the line of duty. I'm not selling myself.

So it is with convictions, or with honor. They should be priceless; when they are sold, they become worthless. Greed destroys their value.

Heart of the Heart
THE TENTH Commandment shows plainly what is true of both evil and good alike. Right and wrong do not combine simply in right and wrong actions. Back of the action is the attitude. Back of the act is the mind, the motive, the desire. Stealing begins in coveting; adultery begins in lust; murder begins in anger or in contempt. The laws of man can never reach beneath the surface. Even when motives are involved, they are exceedingly hard to prove. But God sees the heart. And he will finally judge us by what he sees there.

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

JURY GIVES TIPS ON JURY SERVICE

Thousands of Texans are called each year as prospective jurors in our many state and federal courts. When chosen to serve very few of these violate their oath with intentional misconduct. But honest mistakes have all too frequently brought the sincerity and ethics of an individual juror into question. Usually such errors arise from his misunderstanding of his function as a juror—for the jury is judge of the facts in the case before it.

Like Caesar's wife, the juror must not only avoid wrong, but must also avoid any appearance of wrong. Otherwise, his integrity and honor may be brought into question by actions which are actually innocent but appear censurable to those who view them. By observing the following simple suggestions, the juror may be sure he is maintaining the highest of ethics, in which no possible fault may be found by others:

Hold yourself aloof from all persons (except other jurors) in any way connected with the trial of the case. That means that you should not mingle with nor talk to the lawyers, witnesses, parties, nor the judge, even though the discussion is wholly unrelated to the trial.

Do not discuss the case nor permit others to mention it to you or in your presence during the trial. If anyone insists upon talking about the case after you have explained to him that you are a juror and must not listen, report the matter to the judge immediately.

Do not commence your deliberations until you have heard all the evidence from both sides, the argument of the lawyers, and the court's charge. You should not mention the case except in the jury room when all other jurors are present.

Do not become a private investigator. All properly admissible evidence will be brought before you. Do not try to search out additional facts you believe to have been omitted. Do not even guess or speculate about facts not in evidence.

Be attentive to the evidence as it is presented. If you are to properly aid the other jurors in settling the fact questions, it will be necessary to listen carefully to all evidence presented.

Do not guess at the judge's opinion of the facts. You are the judge of the facts. He is not allowed and will not try to invade your province. His rulings on admissibility of evidence reflect no ideas or opinions on any fact question.

You should not mention or discuss your own personal experiences, or any knowledge that you may have of similar transactions. If you should disclose such information to others serving on a jury, the court would have to grant a new trial.

Accept no favors from and bestow no favors upon any person interested in the trial. However innocent the conduct may be, it will raise doubts in otherwise undoubting minds, and may even be subject to more serious insinuations and charges.

When in court ask the judge. If you are in doubt about your rights or duties as a juror, you should not ask anyone but the judge for information.

(This column, based on Texas law, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

VETERAN TEXAN RECALLS GAME

Austin. — George Howard Walker of Lufkin, who is an active hunter and fisherman at 96, is the subject of an article—Tenacious Texan—in the forthcoming issue of Texas Game & Fish magazine.

He is a native Texan and remembers the early days when game was so abundant that there were no seasons or bag limits. He bagged his 96th deer last fall and estimated that:

"All the ducks I have killed couldn't be pulled by a team of horses."

The article states: "Uncle George, as he is known by everyone around Lufkin, was particularly sharp at hunting wild turkey. His poplar box call is considered one of the deadliest in the county."

"You had to call them close," he explained. "Did in my day, because black powder was too expensive to miss. Got them up close, so we could shoot off their heads."

"Uncle George still stays close to nature and spends an occasional night camping on the Neches River with his fishing partner, his grandson, David Walker, 20."

The elder Howard likes to regale the present generation with descriptions of how he "made 67 crops all between the plow handles" and that he never bought a sack of livestock feed in his life.

On WASHINGTON Letter
By Congressman O. C. FISHER

STRANGELY ENOUGH, the big labor unions have for more than two years led the fight against production of food and fiber in Texas and the southwest. By opposing arrangements for Mexican labor to come across to tend the flocks, plant and harvest crops where there has been no local domestic labor available, the unions have fought a rear-guard action against production by the farmers and ranchmen in the southwest. Paradoxically, the same unions have yelled the loudest for price controls to hold down cost of living, ignoring the fact that production is the only real answer to high prices.

Those of us who have striven for a sensible labor agreement with Mexico, which would permit imported labor only in areas where the Secretary of Agriculture certifies there is a local shortage, have been vilified and castigated by the big labor papers for our efforts. Because I recently opposed the spending of nearly a million dollars to finance a gigantic airlift program, at Uncle Sam's expense, which would transport illegal aliens deep into Old Mexico — I was branded by a big labor paper as "chief spokesman for the 'Landlord Farmers' Lobby'. I figured they could be transported across the border without providing luxury airplane rides.

SPEAKING OF THE UNIONS, it must be remembered that the political heads of those organizations do not necessarily speak for the rank and file member — particularly of Texas members. Much of their tirades is to placate the left-wing elements found mostly in the North and East.

A good example is the recent CIO demand that President Truman's veto of our tidelands bill be upheld. A letter from the CIO, dated June 5, gave the usual line of half-truths and misrepresentation with respect to the tidelands issue. By way of contrast, on the same date the American Farm Bureau sent a letter urging the Congress to override the President's veto of the Tidelands bill.

"The issue involved is far broader than the question of ownership of the lands involved," said the Farm Bureau. "The broad issue, and one that is becoming more evident with each passing year, is whether control over our natural resources is to be further centralized in the Federal Government or is to be decentralized to the States".

This reasoning explains in a nutshell why most of the American people, as expressed several times by the Congress, favor the tidelands bill whether they happen to border the sea or not. They think of America, not just of themselves.

Stamp pads at the Santa Anna News office.

The Texas farmer, through no particular fault of his own, is losing many dollars annually because there is little coordination between agricultural production and industrial development in the state.

In one way, we Texans are like the country boy at the carnival. We swing away at that strength-testing contraption and ring the bell. But we're so busy setting crop production records that we don't notice the guy standing behind us with his hand in our pocket.

Most of the raw farm and ranch products are shipped out of the state. These are later processed by manufacturers in other parts of the country. Texas' return has been for the raw materials while someone else has received a much higher return and profit from the semi-finished and finished products.

One example is cotton — the king of Texas agriculture. This state is the nation's leading cotton producer, raising 1/4 to 1/3 of the United States crop. Only a small amount of cotton is processed by Texas mills.

Last year Texas produced over 4 million bales of cotton. About 240,000 of these bales remained in the state and the rest went to eastern domestic mills. Since it costs a minimum of $1.05 to ship 100 pounds of cotton from Galveston to the nearest eastern market, then the staggering sum of more than $17,687,000 was paid in freight charges alone. This money would have meant a lot to the Texas cotton farmer if the mills had been in the state.

Texas also leads the nation in dollar volume of annual farm sales. But it ranks low in per acre income. The rate in the last year of record was only $12.05 per acre as compared with the income of some states such as California, New York, Michigan and Illinois, which were in some cases as high as $47.67 per acre — or four times that of our own.

It is, after all, the per acre income that counts in profits. These states outrank Texas partly because the farmer is closer to the processor.

Perhaps the development of some particular industries in Texas would not be in line with the economic realities of the area. But to the extent that it is possible, the farm products of Texas should be made into finished products within the state. This kind of "regional industry", taking full advantages of our resources, would result in a well-rounded economy and help increase the income and standard of living of Texans.

Food Poisoning Increases During Summer Months

Austin, Texas — Bacteria grow more readily in warm weather and this increases the danger of food poisoning, warns Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer. Since modern refrigeration public health has improved. However, cases of food poisoning do occur, in spite of the more healthful measures of storing food.

Sickness from food poisoning usually strikes quickly and explosively, and those who do not eat the infected food escape. Usually in one to four hours after eating contaminated food, victims feel ill. If it is a mild case of poisoning, recovery usually begins in eight to 12 hours, but victims may feel the ill effects for several days.

Another important safeguard to prevent food contamination is that the hands of the person who prepares food be scrupulously clean, and free from cuts and sores of any kind.

Usual symptoms of food poisoning are diarrhea, nausea, vomiting abdominal cramps, and weakness. Whenever you feel these symptoms, be sure to call your physician. Do not wait, hoping it will wear off; sometimes poisoning is fatal!

The staphylococcus organism grows best in foods which are slightly fatty, such as fat meats, salads with rich dressings, cream pies, cream puffs, or any food with custard fillings. So if anyone in your family takes his lunch to work during the coming hot months, be careful of the foods you put in the lunch, and don't include any of these foods.

H-S U Band To Have First Summer Concert

Abilene, — The National Junior Chamber of Commerce convention in Dallas, June 24-27, will be the scene of the first summer concert by the Hardin-Simmons University world-famous Cowboy Band, Director Marion B. McClure has announced.

The band and six white horses ridden by Sheriff Will Watson and five coeds bearing the six flags of Texas history will lead the official convention parade through downtown Dallas on June 25. They will finish out the day ballyhooing — a band term for going from hotel to hotel and from meeting to meeting for short concerts.

Enroute to Dallas, the band will stop at the Ray Woods Ranch, east of Fort Worth, for a performance at a chuck wagon supper and rodeo.

Three rodeos will use the band as a main attraction during July and August. The band will take part in the Stamford Rodeo July 1-4, and with the six white horses will head the kick-off parade and grand entry.

Parades and performances will occupy the band during the Coleman Rodeo, July 16-19, and it will play at the Big Spring Rodeo, August 6-9.

Shirley Lewellan spent Sunday night with Nancy Jo Haynes.

Randall R. Gilbert Named Chairman Of USO Drive

Dallas, Texas, — Randall R. Gilbert, president of the Federal Reserve Bank for the 11th District, today was named campaign chairman of the forthcoming $740,896 fund appeal for the USO in Texas.

Selection of Gilbert to head the state-wide campaign was announced by Ben H. Wooten, chairman of the Texas United Defense Fund Committee. The committee is made up of Community Chest executives of the state and prominent volunteer leaders.

The Texas goal of $740,896 is this state's pro rata share of the national goal of $17,244,585, the bulk of which goes to maintain the USO's morale services to the Armed Forces around the globe, Gilbert said.

"As long as Texas boys and girls in growing numbers serve their country in the Armed Forces, there will be a need for the wonderful home-tie services of the USO," Gilbert said. "The Military can go only so far in looking after the needs of these youngsters, and they do a splendid job, but it is up to us, the civilians at home, to keep alive the bonds between the boy and the girl in uniform and his home community. Realizing this, I think every citizen of Texas will want to contribute his share to this campaign to maintain the services of the USO."

Gilbert reported that a major portion of the fund last year was provided through local Community Chest campaigns, and that the Community Chests of the state this year will be asked again to assume their proportionate part of the goal.

U. S. Custom Inspectors Praised

Austin, — Members of the American Automobile Association returning from trips to Canada, Mexico or abroad during the past few months have reported receiving far more courteous treatment from United States Customs inspectors than in previous years, according to Paul R. Kulp, manager of the Texas Division of the Triple AAA. "Customs men, about the first Americans a traveler meets when he crosses the border and heads for home deserve a pat on the back for making that reception a friendly one," Kulp said. "There was a time when some of them were not as cordial. Our members, like all travelers, appreciate the current courtesy improvement."

Kulp added that the inspectors are evidently helping to ease the travelers' way on his return from a foreign trip.

"With more people than ever before traveling beyond the country's borders, the Customs men no doubt have a heavier work burden. Their helpfulness despite this has been a credit to the Customs service."
