HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

Many of the larger cities in West Texas could take courage and be inspired by this courageous and progressive neighboring city of ours, Stanton, and the whole of Martin county for that matter.

Last spring Stanton decided to try for a powdered milk plant. An engineering firm offered to build it provided Stanton raised $100,000, a sum that can't be raised in Big Spring or other cities even larger every month in the year to say the least. But Stanton raised that $100,000. The loyal people of Martin county were even then disappointed because certain conditions, including lack of sufficient dairy cows in the territory, finally prevented them from getting the milk plant.

Stanton's failure to get the plant did not mean, not by any means, that the tremendous effort expended was wasted. On the other hand, that effort gave the community just the exercise, the opportunity, to test itself that was necessary to prove that it could get what it went after wholeheartedly.

We have always believed Martin county one of the most important counties in West Texas because of its vast agricultural resources and its adaptability to dairying, stock raising and poultry farming. Tens of thousands of acres have not yet been put under the plow. And they are fertile acres—acres that will raise more stuff on less rainfall at less cost than most any land you could find in Texas.

Once more we congratulate Stanton and Martin county not alone for their progressiveness, but also for the wisdom shown in that progressiveness.

The southern portion of Jones county, including Anson, which in October, 1928, voted bonds to finance its share of paving state highways faces perhaps years of delay in obtaining the paving because citizens of two communities decided they would be ruined if the route of No. 30 between Abilene and Anson should be changed. They have decided that they'd rather pave around in the mud than have a road that instead of leading within a mile or two of their villages would miss three or four miles. In other words, they'd rather do without entirely and see the rest of the county and the entire state for that matter does without an important stretch of paving than to see the road go nearer another community.

They forget that where they are miles and miles from paving now and entirely without a paved route to their principal markets, they would be less than five miles from it if the highway engineer's plans were allotted to go forward without court action.

The most fatal thing, under existing laws, for any county to do is to vote road bonds with the idea that the county itself can dictate the route of the state designed highways.

Why can they not do this? Simply because as long as the state pays dollar for dollar, and the federal government an additional dollar when the road happens to be in the federal system, the state and federal road departments are going to have something to say about where the road goes.

However, those agencies recognize that the state and federal road departments are going to have something to say about where the road goes.

CONDITION INCLUDED IN ORDER

Fredericksburg To Angelo Route May Be Built

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15 (AP)—Authorization for the Gulf and West Texas Railway to construct a line in Gillespie, Mason, McCulloch, Concho and Tom Green counties, Texas, was given conditionally today by the interstate commerce commission.

113 Miles
The proposed road would extend 113 miles from Fredericksburg, to Brady and from Eden to San Angelo. Permission to build the line from Eden to San Angelo was given, however, upon the condition that the Gulf and West Texas file an appropriate application to operate under trackage rights over the existing line of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe between Brady and Eden.

The commission also ordered that the line from Fredericksburg to Brady should be commenced before July 1, 1930, and be completed by June 30, 1932.

The Gulf and West Texas also was permitted to retain for a ten year period excess earnings of the line from Fredericksburg to Brady.

Two Lines
As approved, the Gulf and West Texas would construct two separate lines, with a break between Brady and Eden.

The Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe has indicated, the commission said in its report, that it would agree to permitting trackage rights over its lines between those points, but no agreement has been consummated.

The commission would not permit the construction from Eden to San Angelo, therefore, until it had received and approved such an agreement, or until the Gulf and West Texas had asked and received permission to construct its own line between the towns.

This case strongly suggests the advisability of the two carriers getting together and arranging a track agreement in the near future," the commission said, adding that "it is also desirable that the applicant reach an early agreement with the Fredericksburg and Northern to acquire by purchase its lines between Fredericksburg and Fredericksburg Junction, and with the Aransas Pass to operate under trackage rights over its line between the latter point and San Antonio.

Future Submission
"These matters, as well as those pertaining to that part of the proposed line between Brady and Eden must be duly submitted for our final determination before the applicant's project, as a whole, can be consummated."

The complete line as proposed would have connections at San Antonio with the Missouri Pacific, the Southern Pacific, the Missouri-Kansas-Texas and the Aransas Pass Lines.

Between San Antonio and Fredericksburg Junction, the Gulf and West Texas would operate under trackage rights over the line of the Aransas Pass, now leased to and

EXHIBITION OF POULTRY TO BE LARGE

NUMEROUS REQUESTS ARE RECEIVED BY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Indications that Big Spring's second annual poultry school and show to be held Friday and Saturday will far surpass last year's show are being augmented daily by numerous requests for information reaching the Chamber of Commerce office.

One or two exhibitors from Mitchell county will send entries here for the show which opens in the B. Reagan building at the corner of Fourth and Gregg streets Friday morning, according to information from Colorado.

C. T. Watson, manager of the chamber of commerce and J. V. Bush, county agent, are working on final details for the show and school that is to be conducted by men experienced in poultry raising and care.

BOY'S BODY IDENTIFIED

Earl Guy Gotchy, 21, Was Brother Of Local Woman

The decapitated, dismembered body of a young man found on the T & P tracks just east of Barstow Dec. 4, has been identified by L. H. Gillilan of Big Spring, as his brother-in-law, Earl Guy Gotchy, 21.

Mr. Gillilan said Gotchy, who had been living with him for the past nine months, left the house saying he had prospects of a job in a dairy farm near Big Spring. Thinking he had gone to work the Big Spring people thought nothing of it when he did not return that night, but when he failed to return for his clothes, became worried.

Local funeral homes have not received the body and definite funeral arrangements are not known.

Young Gotchy, whose father has been dead nine years, and whose mother was killed in a cyclone seven years ago, was at the time of his death awaiting a check from his guardian at Minneapolis to purchase a ticket back there.

His sister, Mrs. Gillilan, said she knew of no reason why her brother should have been traveling west at the time, but that she believed he had been riding a freight train and fell under the wheels.

High School-Rotary Election Is Held

Four representative high school students, one from each class, were elected Tuesday in response to a request from the Big Spring Rotary club, which is placing a code of ethics before the student body.

Reta Debenport was elected in the senior class, Ted Phillips of the juniors, Fred Martin from the sophomores and R. V. Jones from the freshman class.

CUT MADE BY BUYERS IN THIS CITY

Humble Leads New Downward Drive Of Market

Cosden Pipe Line Company and Big Spring Pipe Line Company followed the lead of Humble Oil & Refining Company's crude oil price slash announced Wednesday morning and posted a new schedule reducing the value of Howard and Glasscock counties' crude oil from 8 to 18 cents per barrel. The drop became effective at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning.

18 Cents
All production between 30 and 35.9 gravity was cut 18 cents per barrel and the low gravity oil 25 gravity and below was cut 15 cents per barrel.

At noon Wednesday Humble, Big Spring Pipe Line Company and Cosden were the only purchasers of Howard and Glasscock counties crude oil that announced the new posted prices. Shell Pipe Line Company at McCallie reported no

DONT LIKE IT
FORT WORTH, Jan. 15 (AP)—Recentment at the crude oil price cut initiated today figured in private discussion of royalty owners from all parts of Texas gathered here for the annual meeting of the Texas division, Midcontinent Royalty Owners' Association. Members charged the penalty for unfavorable winter markets is being arbitrarily charged to the producing divisions of the industry, whereas the fault largely lay with major refiners, who set the crude prices through buying divisions.

new list had been received at that office, but the general opinion among oil men was that all purchasers will meet the new figures.

Below is a table showing the new prices for Howard and Glasscock counties crude oil by gravity, new price and the old price:

Gravity	New Price	Old Price
25 and below	55 cents	70 cents
26 to 25.9	58 cents	74 cents
27 to 26.9	61 cents	78 cents
28 to 27.9	64 cents	82 cents
29 to 28.9	67 cents	86 cents
30 to 29.9	70 cents	90 cents
31 to 30.9	73 cents	94 cents
32 to 31.9	76 cents	98 cents
33 to 32.9	79 cents	102 cents
34 to 33.9	82 cents	106 cents
35 to 34.9	85 cents	110 cents
36 and above	88 cents	114 cents

HOUSTON, Tex., Jan. 15 (AP)—A sharp reduction in posted prices of Texas crude oil was announced today by the Humble Oil and Refining Company. The cuts ranged from 15 to 41 cents per barrel.

The reductions were made, the company said, to "fairly adjust" crude oil prices with prices of petroleum products.

CONDRA QUILTS CLUB OFFICE

Curtis G. Condra tendered his resignation as president of the Business Men's Luncheon Club at its weekly luncheon Wednesday. He is planning to leave the city, he said. A dozen business men of Martin county were guests of the day. They were welcomed in an address by Mayor C. W. Cunningham. Talks were made by C. T. Watson, and Mr. Condra and were furnished by the members of the Fern Hall stage band, which opened a four-day engagement at the Big Spring

Mrs. Irene Schroeder of Benwood, Pa., wanted for the murder of a state trooper and the wounding of another last month, was captured in Arizona mountains late yesterday. Mrs. Schroeder is said to have had her small son, Donnie, in the car with her when bullet fired from it fatally wounded Corporal Brady Paul. A story of the child's reactions to his mother's predicament appears on page 3.

TRIO PUTS UP FIGHT BEFORE BEING TAKEN

PHOENIX, Ariz., Jan. 15 (AP)—Chasing a "wild west" career punctuated by a kidnaping and two gun fights, Mrs. Irene Schroeder of Benwood, W. Va., and two men believed to be Joe F. Wells, Texas convict, and M. Glen Dague, husband of Mrs. Schroeder, were in jail here today.

The trio had been the object of a nation-wide search since the slaying last December of Corporal Brady Paul of the Pennsylvania state highway police and the wounding of Private Ernest Moore, near Newcastle, Pa.

They were surrounded and captured by a posse in the mountains near Laveen, Ariz., after they had barricaded themselves behind rocks and fired upon the searchers. No one was hurt in the battle, and the beleaguered fugitives surrendered when a horseman, upon whom they first had opened fire, obtained reinforcements from a posse.

The chase started Monday night, when Deputy Sheriff Joe Chapman was kidnaped from Florence, Ariz., as he attempted to arrest Mrs. Schroeder after she had refused to produce ownership papers for a car.

Chapman was forced into the automobile by the two men, whom he had not seen when he approached the woman. The car sped away to Chandler, Ariz., where Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright was shot as he and other officers attempted to halt it. Chapman, apparently shot by his captors during the ride, was thrown out.

Belief that one of the arrested men was T. R. Crawford, brother of Mrs. Schroeder, apparently was dispelled when Deputy Tex Walker identified him as Wells. Walker said he in times past had arrested Wells four times in Texas. Wells said he was released from the Texas penitentiary on Christmas day.

Schermerhorn Tops Pays At 1,342 In Roberts No. A-7

Pay was topped in Schermerhorn Oil Company's No. A-7 Roberts at 1,342 feet and drilled to a total depth of 1,342 feet, according to information received in Big Spring Wednesday.

Pipe was set above 1,342 feet and operators are now removing rotary drilling equipment and rigging up cable tools preparatory to bailing the hole full of mud.

No. A-7 Roberts is 2,490 feet from the north east east line of section 21, block 22, W. & N. W. Ry. Co. survey and is a companion well to two other producers now pumping from the 2,500 feet and 2,600 feet producing horizons.

BANKER IS KILLED BY WATCHMAN

New Employee, Reading Paper, Taken For Robber

WEATHERFORD, Tex., Jan. 15 (AP)—Morris Booles, 27, was shot and fatally wounded last night in the lobby of the National Bank at Lipan, 25 miles southwest of here. A charge from a shot gun struck him in the chest, and he died almost instantly.

Booles had recently gone to Lipan to take the place of an employe who was ill. Sitting in the bank office reading, because his hotel room was cold, Booles was hailed by the night watchman, who did not know him.

Arising and walking toward the door, he was struck by the charge of buckshot, fired through the plate glass door. The night watchman then ran to the home of the bank cashier and told him a bank robber had been killed.

The body was brought here to await funeral arrangements.

Booles was the son of J. P. Booles, oil field operator in Eastland county for many years. He was formerly bookkeeper in the Citizens National bank here.

Two unmasked men today held up the Commercial bank, private institution in the heart of Wichita's business district, and escaped with approximately $5,000.

Entering the bank shortly before noon, the men, described as middle-aged, forced Jake McCall, cashier, and Dell Crozer, garage-man, to enter the vault.

The victims were released a few minutes after the robbers had escaped by a bank employe.

S M U BAND DATE FIXED

Noted Organization To Be Under Kiwanis Auspices

The Southern Methodist University Mustang band, which flashed into widespread prominence in 1928 on its trip east with the Mustang football team when it started the grid world by playing Army on even terms, losing by a single point, will appear in concert here the evening of Thursday, February 8, under auspices of the Kiwanis club.

A message from Fiske Miles, band manager, to a Kiwanis committee appointed several months ago to handle details of the local concert, informs it that arrangements are being made for an outstanding musical treat for audiences in West Texas cities to be visited on the tour.

The place for the concert here has not been determined definitely. The Kiwanians are to bring this band here as a musical feature for the entire community, as there is no regular series of such programs offered.

COMMUNITY TEAMWORK OF 1929 POINTS TOWARD RENEWED DEVELOPMENT

By Staff Correspondent
STANTON, Jan. 15.—With a round of brief addresses of felicitation and encouragement to this city and the county of which it is the seat, more than 100 persons last night listened to reports of community teamwork which beyond doubt stand at the pinnacle in the 1929 galaxy of West Texas towns grown wideawake to their own potentialities.

The annual banquet of the Martin County Chamber of Commerce held in the magnificent new house of worship erected by the Methodist congregation here proved a delightful occasion not only for several score of Martin county people but for a large group of visitors as well.

The report of Secretary Claude Holley, an address by Mayor R. E. Thomason of El Paso, introduction of the 1930 president, Robert Hamilton, and presentation of the new board of directors were among the high spots of the program.

BANKS HOLD MEETINGS

Few Personnel Changes Made In Annual Conferences

Few changes in officers and directors of Big Spring banks were made in the annual meeting of directors and stockholders Tuesday evening, according to reports submitted by bank officials.

Ira L. Thurman was made assistant cashier in the West Texas National Bank, and V. O. Hennen was elevated to a similar position among officers and directors of the First National Bank, raising the number of assistant cashiers to three in each bank. No changes were reported by the State National Bank.

The following officers and directors were re-elected by the State National Bank: William B. Currie, president; Temp S. Currie, active vice president; Ira Driver, assistant vice president; Ben Carpenter, cashier; Miss Edith Hatcher, Robert W. Currie and Lee Porter, assistant cashiers; A. C. Walker, Bernard Fisher and W. R. Dawes, other directors.

Officers and directors re-elected by the First National Bank were as follows: L. S. McDowell, president; R. C. Sanderson, vice president; R. L. Price, vice president and cashier; H. H. Hurt, E. O. Price, assistant cashiers, and A. E. Pool, director. V. O. Hennen was added to the list of officers and directors with the position of assistant cashier.

E. Reagan was re-elected president of the West Texas National Bank, as were the following other officers: Robert T. Piner, active vice president; R. V. Middleton, cashier; Edmund Noteatine and Buel T. Cardwell, assistant cashiers. Ira L. Thurman was made assistant cashier.

Directors re-elected were as follows: B. Reagan, Mrs. Dora Roberts, Robert T. Piner, J. B. Harding and Leo Nall.

Six-Inch Pipe Set In Baker 3

Six inch casing was set Tuesday in Kirby Oil Company and others' No. 3 Baker at a total depth of 2,130 feet in lime, according to information reaching Big Spring. The main line was topped at 2,065 feet, samples show, but the pipe was carried deeper into the lime than in most Coffee-Phillips pool wells to test the theory that water appearing in several wells, is perhaps resulting from poor cement jobs on top of the lime.

Kirby et al's No. 3 Baker will be allowed to stand two or three days before drilling into the pay, which seemed to be showing slightly in the last sample obtained from the well. It is located 1,650 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the west line of section 23, block 33, township 7 south, T. & P. Ry. Co. survey.

Total receipts, including $500 on hand January 1, 1929 were $5,053.13 and on January 1, 1930 the balance on hand was $24,236. (Midland-Big Spring)

T.E.L. Class Guests In Home of Mrs. Squires

The T. E. L. Sunday school class of The First Baptist church met Tuesday afternoon in the lovely new home of Mrs. H. H. Squires at 506 Douglas street for the monthly social and business meeting.

A song by the group and a devotional by Mrs. W. W. Grant opened the meeting while Mrs. J. A. Boykin closed the meeting with prayer, following disposal of routine business.

During the social hour which followed, a box of candied fruits sent from California by Mrs. A. E. King, former member, was enjoyed by the ladies. Names of "Sunshine Sisters" were revealed and given out again. Among interesting numbers on the entertainment program was a game the questions of which were answered by names of class members. Mrs. Horace Jenkins was chairman of the program committee.

Assisting Mrs. Squires in entertaining and serving were the following co-hostesses: Mrs. W. T. Bolt, Mrs. L. S. Patterson and Mrs. R. Lay.

Present were: Mesdames K. S. Beckett, C. E. Carter, Clyde Hutchins, J. S. Austin, Horace Jenkins, Coleman, Joe Lewis, C. C. Coffey, J. R. Wright, L. A. Wright, E. F. Robbins, R. A. Parker, J. A. Boykin, Roy Jones, Ralph, W. W. Grant, Beasley and M. H. Cravens.

Mrs. Stripling Is Hostess To Study Club Meeting

Mrs. Fox Stripling entertained the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority Tuesday evening in her home in Cedar Crest. After a short business session at which the dates of meetings were changed to the first and third Thursdays in each month, Miss Georgia Kirk Davis, educational director, took charge of the meeting.

Subjects for the evening were "Tolstoi" and "Socrates." Miss Elizabeth Owen and Mrs. Frank Ritter discussed the life and works of Tolstoi in an interesting and instructive manner. Miss Clara Cox, out of her training in social science and philosophy made Socrates seem more than just a name out of the dead past. Miss Frances Melton added some interesting sidelights in his life with an apt analogy of the greatest Teacher of them all, Christ.

The next meeting will be held in the home of Miss Clara Cox Thursday, January 23. Those on the program for the next meeting will be Mrs. Fox Stripling, Miss Vallia True, and Mrs. Alta Eldredge. The subjects for the evening will be George Eliot and her works, also some great American leaders in the field of literature. At the end of the hour there will be a roll call and each member will answer with a question pertinent to the subjects discussed.

Mrs. Stripling and Miss Melton were appointed to arrange for a permanent meeting place and will report at the next meeting.

At the end of the hour the hostess served a delicious plate luncheon.

A PRETTY DRESS FOR MOTHER'S GIRL

6569. Wool crepe was chosen for this model. One could use velvet, silk and wool tweed or jersey or crepe de chine. Bolero portions embellish the upper part of the front. Flare skirt sections lengthen the front and back at the sides and form pleat folds over the centre. A neat collar and tie trimming finish the neck edge. The sleeve is a fitted model.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. To make the Dress for a 10 year size will require 3 yards of 35 inch material. For collar and tie of contrasting material 3-5 yard is required.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps by The Herald.

Send 15c in silver or stamps for our up-to-date fall and winter 1929-1930 book of fashions.

Dogs In Window Attract Passersby

Dogs! A whole window full of them! A large assortment of German Police pups, a few weeks old is a novelty display for a drug store window.

The Clyde Fox Drug store is bringing in the post holiday season with an attractive display of German Police dogs. The pups are evidently enjoying the novelty of being a part of a window display, and they stayed cozy in the window all night Tuesday.

The pups are the property of Miss Star of Forsan who is selling them. Several of the group have already been sold to Big Spring persons.

Fame Of Sargon Spreading Over The Entire World

People of This Country Sending Famous Medicine to Relatives and Friends in England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Canal Zone, Norway, Sweden, Cuba and Many Other Distant Lands.

If you had found a medicine that was of such benefit to you that you would go to the trouble of sending it to relatives and friends in distant countries, you would have to be convinced in your own mind that it possessed real merit wouldn't you?

That's just what thousands of people throughout the United States have been doing with Sargon.

From all over America and wherever Sargon has been introduced, thousands of letters have been received from grateful users, telling of the gratifying results that have been accomplished by this celebrated medicine.

THOUSANDS EXPRESS GRATITUDE

On November 27th, a letter dated November 23rd, was received at the Sargon offices advising that in one week one drug firm alone had received orders for Sargon to be shipped to Cavite, Philippine Islands; Caca-Solo, Canal Zone; Belbrook, Ireland; and Paris, France.

Only recently a well-known resident of Denver, Colorado, who had been restored to health by Sargon sent a full treatment to London, England, to his sister, who is the wife of an executive of one of the greatest retail drug firms in the British Empire.

During the past month there appeared in the Toronto papers the statement of a well-known World War veteran whose health had been greatly impaired while in the service, who stated among other things, that he owed his restoration to health to two bottles of Sargon sent him by a friend in Minneapolis.

LETTERS RECEIVED FROM THE NORTHWEST

From the Northwest, many letters of this kind have been received advising that users of Sargon are sending it to relatives back in their old countries of Norway and Sweden.

Many such letters and endorsements have been received from men of prominence, including former governors, business and professional men, mayors, state and county officials, and even Ministers of the Gospel have deemed it their duty to come forward and tell what Sargon has done for them.

These are only a few of thousands of such cases and not a day nor a week passes that does not bring hundreds of statements from the people concerning the good this medicine is doing, and reciting case after case that would convince the most skeptical.

Sargon's fame is built on actual results—not empty promises, and only those who have put it to the test know its real powers.

Sargon's aim is not mere temporary relief, but new and abundant health. No wonder it is now called the medicine with a million friends. Cunningham and Phillips, Agents.

Fight Against Bootleg Boxers Starts In N. Y.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15 (AP)—Death of a participant in an unsanctioned bout at Ocean, N. Y., has resulted in pleas for legislation to outlaw "bootleg boxing."

Commenting on the death of Evon Gustafson of Mount Jewett, Pa., in a bout at St. Bonaventure College Monday night, James A. Farley, chairman of the New York Athletic Commission, pointed out that the commission was powerless to act in the case.

"The death of Gustafson is regrettable," said Farley, "but it is to be hoped the incident will bring to the public a realization of the need for proper legislation that would permit the wiping out of bootleg boxing, unsanctioned shows, anywhere in the state."

Nine University Students Suspended On Cheating Charge

AUSTIN, Tex., Jan. 13. (AP)—"Cheating" still was going on recently among students of the University of Texas. Nine cases involving scholastic dishonesty were handled by the discipline committee in the past six weeks. There were six convictions and suspensions from the University. One case involved plagiarism, in which it was claimed the student had "lifted" passages from a popular magazine and incorporated them into a theme, V. I. Moore, dean of student life, stated. "In several of the cases of copying it was clearly apparent that students do not yet understand that notebooks should not be taken into the examination room or to quizzes, Dean Moore said. "The discipline committee is frequently charged with 'kicking' students out of school. This committee has perhaps the hardest task of any assigned to faculty members. The men and women who compose it study each case carefully and with due regard to the interest of the individual, as well as of the institution and the other students in it." One year ago the Students' Assembly abolished the "honor system." Since then instructors have been responsible for all examinations given to their respective classes. Now it is contended this scheme for supervising examinations has few, if any, merits over the abolished honor system. Some are urging the inauguration of a proctor system with "teeth in it."

PRETTY PONIES WASHINGTON.—General Jun Christian Smith has a five-volume set of 400 plates of American wild flowers painted in natural colors. The gift, made possible by John A. Roebling of Trenton, N. J., was presented at the Smithsonian Institution. RIVERTHEAD, N. Y.—Because County Judge George H. Furman had almost the same telephone number in his home as that in the roadhouse operated by Mr. and Mrs. Herman Kramer at Bellport, the couple will be confined a year in jail. He fined a dozen other roadhouse proprietors. But as to the Kramers he said: "A lot of people kept getting me on the telephone when they wanted the roadhouse. I learned what their business was." DONNIE PLAYS ON, THOUGH HIS TESTIMONY MAY SEND MOTHER TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

By NEA Service. NEW CASTLE, Pa.—Donnie Schroeder, who'll be 5 his next birthday, plays about as happily as any child you could find, without a thing in the world to worry him. For Donnie, being so young, can't realize that the things he said to the policeman who came in to chat with him the other day may send his mother to the electric chair as a murderer. Donnie's mother is Mrs. Irene Schroeder of Benwood, W. Va., sought through half a dozen states as the "blond gunman" who, with two male companions, shot Corporal Brady Paul of the Pennsylvania state police to death near here a matter of ten days ago. Donnie was with her at the time. He was in the stolen car that Corporal Brady Paul and Private Ernest Moore ordered to halt on the highway; was in it when the woman and two men drew their guns and shot the policemen down. A night or so later Donnie's mother left him at the home of his grandfather, Joseph Crawford. She kissed him goodby and said, "I'll see you New Year's Day." But she hasn't been back. And Donnie doesn't realize why. The police found him and took him to the detention home here. They asked him a lot of questions, and Donnie answered readily enough—weaving a terrific web of evidence about his mother and her companions. The youngster is cheerful enough in his confinement. He has a big white rabbit for a pet. "See! He's strong," says Donnie. "But I'll handle him. Lookee!" He crawls toward the rabbit's hutch and says "Boo!" The pet jumps back, and Donnie crows. "Ho—I'll get you!" he chortles. A newspaper photographer asks for his picture, and Donnie poses readily enough. He shrinks back, however, when he sees the photographer fixing his flashlight gun. "Hey! None o' that there stuff," he says. "It's fire. I don't like it. Yes, it will hurt me, too. It makes me scared." The rabbit, curled up in his lap, lends him courage, and he faces the camera. Puff! goes the flashlight, and Donnie jumps out of his chair. "I told you not to do that," he complains. But Donnie soon forgets his fright, and returns to his play. The police, fearing an attempt to rescue the lad, are keeping a close watch on him. They are hoping that his mother will come back to her boy—and then they will arrest her and try to send her to the electric chair.

NEW BACHELOR SENATORS DELIGHT DEBBIES AND WIDOWS IN CAPITAL

By YANNER ALEXANDER Central Press Writer WASHINGTON—Washington society, or at least the unmarried feminine part, is vastly pleased with the two most recent additions to the United States senate—David Baird, Jr., of New Jersey, and Joseph Grundy of Pennsylvania. And the delight is common to debbies and their widowed grandmothers. The secret has nothing to do with politics, nor is it concerned with the Republicanism and protectionism shared by the two newcomers. It is simply that the list of senate bachelors has been increased to eight, and as a consequence at least two more dinner parties have a chance of success on any particular night. Greatest Attraction The greatest attraction in Washington, outside of an occasional foreign potentate or his emissary, is an unwedded senator. When he has money, ability and intelligence, so much the better. The presence of one of these fortunate beings can make all the difference to any gathering in which women share. And the women share in most of them away from the very cloakrooms of congress. The welcome of Baird and Grundy was made doubly warm because of their varied ages. Baird is young as senators go. He appeals to the debutantes and their elder sisters. The sprightly widows and soon-to-be-widows already are finding out his likes and dislikes, preparatory to the first time he becomes a dinner partner. Grundy, well groomed man of 37, has the quiet forcefulness that comes only with years of unquestioned power, and that is very effective with the ladies who have forgotten the year of their bow. The mature contingent is hopeful that Grundy, an appointee, may be successful in the Pennsylvania primaries and election so that he may continue in office, as none of his political rivals who might succeed him is a wealthy bachelor. At the same time, hostesses and their fair guests-to-be are hoping that Ambassador Morrow stays in London for the armistice party just so long as possible, because when he returns he is slated to succeed Baird. The other senate bachelors, if we are to take first the youngest and the "cutest," begin with Robert M. LaFollette of Wisconsin. "Young Bob," as he is called in several spheres, gives so much of his time to his family that he is believed to be prepared to be a home-loving husband. And he is sought all the more therefore. "Bobby," like Baird, is a junior whose father served in the senate before him. Bronson M. Cutting of New Mexico, is from the New York Cuttings with a background of Harvard and newspaper work as publisher and editor in the southwest; interrupted by a wartime episode as military attache at our London embassy. He is just 41. Frederick Hale of Maine, chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, is another son-of-a-senator. In His Uniform—Well! Millard E. Tydings, senior senator from Maryland, but the young Democrat in the upper house, only 36, is especially attractive when he wears his uniform. The distinguished World war hero brought him enough medals to shine with the most decorated diplomats. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts has devoted his time, with success, to his state's politics and capital society. Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee is regarded as almost a hopeless celibate after three terms here, but the girls are still on his trail. Byrd Is Heard By Russian Operator MOSCOW, Jan. 13. (AP)—A wireless triumph over time and space was achieved on December 1 by Ivan Krenkel, chief Russian radio operator in Franz Josef Land, where he talked by radio for more than an hour with Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd at the South Pole. Krenkel, the man at the top of the world, says he communicated with Rear Admiral Byrd, at the bottom of it, on a short wave length of 41 meters over a distance of nearly 15,000 miles. The wireless station in Franz Josef Land is the northernmost radio outpost in the world, lying far north of the Arctic circle. In a message today to the news-

Farmers Seek Game Statute Revisions FREDERICKSBURG, Tex., Jan. 13. (AP)—Four hundred landowners and sportsmen of Gillespie and neighboring counties have drafted a petition to Gov. Moody, seeking changes in the present game laws. The petition, drawn up at a meeting attended by Representative Alfred Petch and A. E. Wood, Will Tucker and Gus Schreiner of the game commission, proposes the following revisions: Permission for landowners to charge hunters $5 per day or 30 cents per acre for hunting leases, provided that this law shall not apply to owners or tracts of one section or less; provision for hunting licenses for all hunters of over 17 years of age, regardless of protected game hunted, these licenses to be sold at $2 per annum. A proposal to limit the bag of deer to bucks of not less than six points was defeated after spirited arguments. Delegates to the meeting also voted to seek transfer of deer to other sections of the state from the hill country, since the female deer are devastating crops in this region. A committee, composed of representatives from each of the counties taking part in the meeting, was named to devise additional reforms in the game laws. The committee is composed of Julius Real of Kerr county; Hy Cowan of Kendall county; Elgin O. Rothmann of Mason county; Jim Crowmover of Burnet county; Bailey Jones of Comal county; D. P. Smith of Llano county; Kurt Martin of McCulloch county; H. A. Ries of Gillespie county and Gould Davis of Blanco county. Sum of $70,000,000 to be expended in 1930 by utility companies in Texas, according to announcement made by Texas Public Service Interior to bucks of not less than six

HOW DISEASE CHANGES HISTORY

Usually we think of sickness as an individual matter; a thing that causes suffering and loss to the individual that does not have any very profound effect on the destinies of whole nations.

Dr. Edward J. Menge, head of the department of zoology, at Marquette University, points out, however, that diseases quite frequently change the course of history.

Dr. Menge cites a few examples. France and the rest of Europe, for instance, have been profoundly affected by the fact that doctors three centuries ago did not know how to combat infections.

De Luynes, French prime minister, died of an infection and the great Richelieu came to power. Richelieu changed the map of Europe, checked the Holy Roman Empire in its advance and made it possible for the Protestant powers of the north to survive.

Frederick Wilhelm of Germany, father of Wilhelm the Second, died of cancer 90 days after he had ascended the throne. If modern knowledge about cancer had been available then his life could have been prolonged for years, his son would not have been an inexperienced strippling when he came to the throne, and many things that have happened would have happened otherwise.

Those are just a few examples. Many more could be collected; but these are ample to prove Dr. Menge's point.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

THE REPORT ON THE FEE SYSTEM

Wichita Daily Times. Drastic changes in the laws fixing compensation of county officials are recommended in the report of the legislative committee which has been making an investigation of the workings of the fee system.

The committee, headed by Senator Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock, visited a number of counties, interviewed a number of the fee system's beneficiaries, and made a comprehensive study of the system. Its report goes as far as the most earnest opponent of the fee system could wish.

There probably will not be time to consider the recommendations at the approaching special session, which means that the proposed legislation must wait a year. We would like to feel hopeful that something will be done about it then, but we know better.

The fee system's beneficiaries are strongly entrenched, and their ranks include some very astute politicians. They have a powerful ally in public indifference. Nearly three years ago the voters had the opportunity to virtually instruct the legislature to do away with the fee system.

Sooner or later the fee system will disappear, but that will not happen until the general public is awakened to how big a bill it is paying.

Hollywood Sights

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 14.—Many stage stars have come to Hollywood to appear successfully in one or more talkies and then returned directly to the lights of Broadway.

The idea is suggested by the local presentation of "Oh, Susanna," a stage musical comedy which it is planned to take bodily to Broadway after its run here, and ultimately to produce as a talkie, should its success justify that.

The cast is composed largely of players who, before or since the arrival of talkies, have been associated with the screen as well as the stage.

Carlotta King

Stared in Carlotta King, who came from the stage to sing opposite John Boles in the talkie version of "The Desert Song" and remained as a contract player for a movie company. Now, through the stage again, he probably will go to Broadway.

In a leading role, also, is Wallace MacDonald, originally from stock, who in silent movies became a well-known leading man and director but for some reason fared not so well in talkies, most probably for lack of opportunity, for his singing voice is most pleasing and his speech is excellent.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer. WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—It is so important to President Hoover, to Premier MacDonald and the world itself that something substantial be achieved at the London naval limitation conference that there is a good chance that the conference will administer a coup de grace to all big battleships.

In a few years the largest effective fighting ships afloat may be mere cruisers, limited to 10,000 tons, instead of the giant dreadnaughts which now eat up nearly half the tonnage and much of the expense of the British and American fleets.

Cruisers, destroyers and submarines may be limited. Maximum figures in these classes of ships may be agreed upon, more or less similar to existing building programs, beyond which none of the five principal naval powers may build.

No Cut in Cruisers. But because of individual national demands based on all sorts of complicated geographical and other factors there is not going to be any particular reduction and in the immediate future nations will continue to strengthen their fleets of cruisers, submarines or destroyers according to what they consider their needs.

Originally this meeting shaped up virtually as a cruiser conference, because cruisers figured in the British-American naval race. Then battleships were dragged into the agenda along with other classes. Under the Washington treaty a 10-year holiday on battleships is in effect, ending in 1931.

Our delegation at London will propose extension of the holiday for five more years and it may be that someone will propose abolishing capital ships altogether. Although this conference is not expected to effect any such abolition it may well lead to that. Once the chief naval powers have gone for 15 years without building any of the things it ought to be easy by 1936 to dissuade themselves from entering on most expansive programs of replacements.

Both the United States and Great Britain are stronger in capital ships than Japan, France and Italy combined. Britain has 20, we have 15. France has nine, Japan eight and Italy four, but the American and British navies have the newest and best types and neither France or Italy has commissioned any since 1915.

There is plenty of argument as to the relative value of capital ships in naval warfare. Japan, France and Italy have all failed to build up to their quota in this class. For one thing those big battleships make beautiful targets for airplane attacks.

But a more modern thought is that they are so frightfully expensive, costing up to $35,000,000 apiece to build. It will undoubtedly be suggested at the conference that to get rid of all these ships eventually would save plenty of money, which all the conferring nations want to do, and still not hurt anybody's navy. If, in the future, fighting ships should be limited to 10,000 tons, the displacement of the present large cruisers, relative naval strengths could still be maintained by compensating with cruisers the nations which gave up the most capital ships.

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Frances Shelley, musical star, has been robbed of her jewels—Honest—and the guy who pawned them has actually been arrested.

What's the profession coming to? A WISE INJUNCTION An astute American publisher visited London some time ago for the purpose of closing a contract with a well-known British scribbler. The word juggler submitted four plots and the one she liked the least the Big Book and Blurb Man accepted.

As Jarvis was handing him his hat, stick and gloves, the publisher uttered a final injunction. "And remember," he said, "when you write the story, keep constantly in mind the spirit of great Middle West America. Achieve that hazzard and you're a success. I've been doing it for years and it has earned me many millions of dollars."

The editor was Willie Hearst. The scribbler was Rebecca West.

THREE DOORS When you call upon Lee Shubert at his place of business you are ushered into a little square room containing three doors. One of the doors is that by which you enter. The second opens into the hallway of the building; the third admits you to the Eminent One's office.

Few achieve the distinction of passing through the third door. Others agree that it is a solemn and substantial thing to think you're being ushered into the private office and the next minute find yourself in the corridor on the way out.

OLD YARN COMES TO LIGHT AGAIN The newest story is the one that is longest forgotten. They're giggling on Longacre Square today over the wheeze of the clothing salesman who tried to unload a suit on the Siamese Twins on the strength of the fact that it had two pairs of pants.

READING THE STARS The line of demarcation between Park avenue and Hell's Kitchen may be deep; but it isn't very wide. Both respond to the same old human motivation. Both cling to the present, because they know it. Both sigh over the past. Both dread the future and every little while try to peer through the knothole in the high-board fence that divides the immediate from the Ultimate.

When the Duchess of Twinchina wishes to pry into the future she chug-chugs across to the Carnegie Hall studio of Evangeline Adams and satisfies her yearning with a dose of astrology.

When Mrs. Clendennin McSwat, of Ninth avenue, is beset by dim forebodings concerning tomorrow she journeys to the nearby establishment of Mme. La Paque, who, for two bits, will tear aside the portals of the future by means of tea leaves, coffee grounds, cards or phenology.

You have no idea what a slant on the future a Tenement Town phenologist affords her client, nor what an army of them there are playing their gentle calling among the more modest levels of the Big Town.

A PROCESS SERVER'S CONSCIENCE Tony writes advertising copy. Mrs. Tony illustrates it. They live in a studio over on 11th street and everybody likes them. They're young, good-looking, happy, just married, talented, popular, impetuous and all that sort of thing.

A young Englishman called at the studio the other afternoon in quest of Tony. Her husband would be home directly, said Mrs. Tony and meantime would he park in the big wicker chair by the fire and while away the time with a highball and a cigarette? He would and did. Pretty soon Tony came breezing in, whereupon the visitor rose lazily from his place by the fire and served him with a summons.

"But you'll have one highball with me before you depart," said Tony. "Merely a little gesture to act, even in the least of its manifold guises."

The process server shrugged. "Yes," he said, "I'll have another drink, on one condition: That you give me back that summons I just handed you. I, too, make obeisance to ari!"

A good title for this yarn would be: A Process Server's Conscience.

State Will Try To Cut Fire Loss

AUSTIN, Jan. 15.—Efforts to cut down the million-dollar-a-month fire loss in Texas this year were announced by the state fire insurance commission in a statewide educational campaign in which help of all city fire marshals was enlisted.

Last year fire losses in cities which file reports with the state department exceeded $9,000,000 and other losses were believed to have carried the state toll to over a million dollars a month.

Suggestions made by the state commission to all city fire marshals included: Making of monthly inspections. Where owners fail to make corrections the state commission will increase the permit rate.

Report fire losses promptly each month. Failure to do this will inflict a 3-cent charge upon the city's key rate.

QUESTION of HONOR

by Ruth Cross

SYNOPSIS: Under an old impulse—the desire for a new male conquest—Anne Wilcox ignores her promise to forget Scott Glenn and seeks his mountain cabin. Caught in a thunderstorm she finds refuge in Glenn's home. The engineer surprises her. Succumbing momentarily to her charm, Glenn confides in her, but misinterprets Anne's repentant attitude for one of indifference and grows coldly aloof. They start back to the Lodge and find the trail washed out. Unknown to them, help is on the way. Apprehensive of Anne's absence, Morse interrupts his plotting against Glenn and his irrigation dam to start a hunt for her.

Chapter 15 PAYING TOLL

Anne strained her eyes, trying to fathom the bottom of the washout, which the swiftly falling darkness made every moment more threatening and fearful. She drew back a little farther from the edge, shivering in spite of herself. Some look in the eyes of the man beside her caused her to straighten up and stop shivering.

"What are we going to do?" she asked in her most practical matter of fact tone.

He hesitated. "I might leave you here and go back for Sheb," he suggested tentatively. "The two of us could probably patch up a bridge of some sort."

Anne glanced about her. The woods were bristling already with shadowy, terrifying shapes—Leon had said there were still a few wild animals, but she answered bravely. "That way I couldn't get back to the Lodge until long after dark," she said, shaking her head in negation.

"The only alternative," Glenn observed, looking not at her, but speculatively down into the washout, "is to jump. There's really no danger if you keep your nerve."

Anne peered over into the black rift again, looked back at him, and stiffened her backbone grimly. "We will jump," she said casually.

He looked at her skeptically. "See, my pulse is as steady as yours," she said, holding out a slim wrist.

"Not so bad," he said, after feeling her pulse. He stripped off his coat and flung it to the ground below. "I'll leap first—then I can catch you."

Without another word he jumped clearing the washout by a good yard. He planted one foot forward, swaying a little at the knees. "Steady now," he called back. "Measure your distance."

Anne did nothing of the sort. She simply shut her eyes, clenched her teeth fiercely together, away for one sickening instant on the edge and—jumped.

It was some moments before she realized she was being borne along with no effort of her own.

"Bravely done!" Glenn murmured approvingly in her ear. "You've got the stuff in you for a real mountaineer."

"It wasn't brave at all," Anne confessed, laughing rather shakily. "I was scared within an inch of my life."

"Why did you do it then?" he asked interestedly.

"She opened her eyes—they were very close to his. "I couldn't bear to have you think me a coward," she confessed.

"Oh— He swept her up a little higher in his arms and went striding along, apparently unweary. Darkness enveloped them, but Glenn made no move to put her down, and she lay gratefully in his arms.

She found herself suddenly wide awake. "How very dreadful of me," she laughed in her most casual and conventional manner. "I must have gone to sleep." She made a quick, decisive move to get to her feet.

He made no answer, but he did not let her go. Through the trees came the echo of a distant halloo—no doubt that was what had awakened her—and the faint glimmer of a lantern.

"That must be someone from the Lodge now," she added with a sigh of not unmixed relief. "Please—I mustn't impose on you any longer—I was tired."

Still he made no move to let her down. Suppose Leon should see her in her present, unexplainable predicament—? She made a more determined effort to get to her feet. Glenn said nothing, but abruptly caught her closer in his arms. Suddenly stinging kisses that were like blows fell on her face, her throat, her hair, her lips. Anne's smothered cry, her fierce wrench to free herself, went unnoted. She lay trembling with fury, but helpless. Finally, with a queer laugh, he set her on her feet.

She stumbled confusedly away from him. The growing brightness of the lanterns told her that help was near; she formed her lips to cry out, but no sound came.

Glenn was watching her curiously. "Well, you've paid toll to at least one man for your philandering," he said coolly, folding his arms across his chest. "And—you wanted me to kiss you, didn't you? No—you wanted me to want to—there is a difference."

Anne made no answer. She spread out her arms inertly against the tree trunk and went on staring at him as if she had been hypnotized. Her rescuers were very near.

"I knew that first morning at the spring," he went on slowly, "that

Anne paused a moment, then closed her eyes and jumped into Glenn's extended arms.

arm. "Leon, I was caught in the storm and Mr. Glenn very kindly brought me home—in safety."

The financier nodded curtly, looked again piercingly from one of them to the other, then turned on his heel without a word. Glenn lifted his hat gravely in the direction of Anne, who did not look at him. The next instant, he wheeled and started back up the trail.

Anne dejectedly followed Morse to the car—Jarvis and Douglas had already gone on ahead. She knew that there were two storms yet to weather on this unlucky day of tempests. Unless—

"Please," she said in a very small, pathetic voice, as Morse looked at her beside him with a stern question in his eyes, "don't let's talk about it now. I'm so tired and cold and—wobbly." She slipped her hand persuasively through his arm and gave him her most wistful and appealing glance.

Morse's stern disapproval melted a little and they rode home in silence.

Tibbett Coming To Angelo Soon

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 14 (AP)—The only Metropolitan Opera star to have appeared in the talkies and the first native American to become a leading baritone in Metropolitan circles—Lawrence Tibbett—is to make his only Texas appearance this season at San Angelo in the Municipal Auditorium the evening of Jan. 24. The appearance of the Metropolitan Opera Company baritone is to be the third number of the concert series sponsored by The Standard-Times.

This greatest baritone is the first person of grand opera fame to devote a part of his time to the movies, having recently completed the list of three motion pictures for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, "The Rogue Song," which is to appear in San Angelo at a later date.

Because of a number of special attractive features of the Tibbett concert, West Texas musical leaders are predicting that a capacity crowd will greet the opera-movie star. It is the first appearance of the popular baritone in West Texas and his stop in San Angelo is to break a jump from Tulsa to the Pacific coast. Through special arrangement, it was arranged for Tibbett to stop in San Angelo to take the place on the concert series which was to have been filled by Ignace Jan Paderewski, pianist who cancelled his American tour dates because of illness.

It will be pleasing to West Texans to know that Tibbett will feature both operatic and standard songs that are well known and beloved everywhere. He is a Victor artist and many of his records are in West Texas homes.

Bob Grove Is Most Effective Hurler

ZACHARY IS BETTER IN 12 GAMES

TOM FINISHES TENTH YEAR IN MAJORS BY HURLING DOZEN VICTORIES

CHICAGO, Jan. 15. (AP)—Bob Grove, the Philadelphia Athletics' southpaw, was acclaimed the leading pitcher of the American league in 1929, but old Tom Zachary, rounding out 10 years of major league service, was the mathematical champion, according to official figures.

Zachary, working for the New York Yankees, after terms with Washington and St. Louis, won an even dozen victories and was undefeated during the campaign. His earned run average, 2.47 per nine innings, also was best.

Short Duty Zachary, however, worked in but 120 innings, while Grove pitched 275, winning 20 and losing but six games. His earned run average was 2.82, second only to Zachary. Grove also was the strikeout champion with 170, giving him the title for a second year. Eddie Rommel, another Philadelphia hurler, won 12 games and lost two, being employed mostly as a relief hurler.

Other leaders were: Fred Harberry, Washington, 19 won, 12 lost, earned run average 3.06; Alphonse Thomas, Chicago, 14 won, 18 lost, earned run average 3.19; George Earnshaw, Philadelphia, 24 won, 8 lost, earned run average, 3.28; Willis Hudlin, Cleveland, 17 won, 15 lost, earned run average 3.34; J. Walter Miller, Cleveland, 14 won, 12 lost, earned run average 3.58; George Walberg, Philadelphia, 18 won, 11 lost, earned run average 3.59; Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland, 21 won, 10 lost, earned run average 3.59.

Gray Hard Worker Sam Gray of St. Louis put in the greatest number of innings, 305, and completed 23 of his 43 games. Thomas of Chicago, pitched 23 full games out of 36.

American League pitchers did not turn in a single no-hit game, but Urban Faber of Chicago, Walberg of Philadelphia, and Edwin Wells and George Pipgras of the Yankees, each pitched a one-hit contest.

Zachary's 12 straight was the best run, while Charlie Ruffing of Boston, made the same record in reverse, losing 12 in a row.

GROVE HAS WON BUT ONE GAME FROM THE WASHINGTON CLUB SINCE HE CAME TO THE MAJORS FROM BALTIMORE

United States' Tennis Laurels To Rest On Shoulders Of Boy Players

By JOSEPH W. WEAR, Chairman Davis Cup Committee United States Lawn Tennis Association.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 14. (AP)—Despite the fact that William T. Tilden and Francis T. Hunter, first two ranking players in the United States, will not be available for the Davis cup competition this year, we have implicit faith in the younger group, which will be "on its own" for the first time.

Tennis followers were impressed last year by the performances of Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn in winning the English doubles championship at Wimbledon and the Davis cup doubles in the challenge round at Paris.

Equally impressive was the showing of George M. Lott and John H. Doeg in capturing the United States national doubles championship.

Several more young men have their hearts set on earning places on the 1930 Davis cup team, and, if their 1929 records can be taken as a criterion, they will be in the running for the highest honors.

Much as we admire the skill and the will-to-win of our younger players we must not be deceived in regard to the strength of the Frenchmen. If Rene Lacoste joins Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra in the defense of the cup, our task will assume colossal proportions. With Lacoste and Cochet at their best, they will have only an outside chance of coming through.

We also must not minimize the strength of England, Australia and Japan, Germany, which met the United States in the inter-zone finals last year, will be handicapped by the loss of Hans Holdenhaus, whose untimely death is regretted by all tennis devotees.

The triumphs of Allison and Van Ryn in Europe last summer, after their discouraging start in their work-outs in Philadelphia, revealed their potentialities. They showed their metal under fire, and it is because they proved their worth under stress that we feel hopeful of success as we make preparation for the start of the 1930 Davis cup drive.

It was a tight fight in 1929, and the grouping promises to be even closer this time. Here is how they came under the wire, in the matter of population, 10 years ago: San Antonio, 161,379; Dallas, 138,979; Houston, 158,276, and Fort Worth, 106,452.

There will not be any putting off until tomorrow when the census man calls and curtness will not go for he who wantonly defies the census taker is liable to prosecution in the Federal courts.

Under the rules should a person die on April 1 before midnight he will be counted in the census as under 21, but if he dies after midnight the enumerator should add him.

SHUTE WINS GOLF PRIZE AT RIVIERA

Ohioan Shoots Near Perfect Round To Capture $3,500

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN Associated Press Sports Writer LOS ANGELES, Jan. 15. (AP)—Denmore Shute, who boasts of only two years in the ranks of professionals, today took his place among champions as the king of the Los Angeles $10,000 open golf tournament.

The 24-year-old Ohioan yesterday trudged from the final rainsoaked green with $3,500 first place money. Almost flawless play under trying conditions turned the trick.

A steady game enabled Shute to carve out a 73-74-75-74 record for the four rounds—a 296 total.

Next came Horton Smith and "Wee" Bobby Cruickshank of the Atlantic seaboard, tied with scores of 300. In fourth place finished the veteran Al Espinosa, Chicago, seven strokes behind the leader with 303, while Tommy Armour, Detroit, placed fifth with 305.

At the time the Cornell University football coaching situation was a live topic and Gil Doble's scold in some danger of being lifted, it seems several Cornell leaders privately sought the views of Pop Wagner. Pop has always had a warm spot for Cornell. He coached there and his brother, Bill Warner, was an All-American lineman while at Ithaca.

In effect Pop was asked whether he thought, as Doble claimed, that lack of man-power was the answer to Cornell's football decline.

"Absolutely," he replied, perhaps to the surprise of his listeners. "No matter how good a coach is, he will look bad if he doesn't have the material. Give Penn's materials to Cornell and vice versa and I think Doble would beat Penn two out of three without question."

Over at least three decades, Glenn Scooby Warner perhaps has coached consistently better material than any other gridiron mentor. At Stanford now, the Old Fox unquestionably is blessed with as remarkable talent, year-in-and-out, as any other coach in the business, with the possible exception of Knute Rockne at Notre Dame and whoever happens to be directing affairs at Yale.

Pop had a wonderful group of physical specimens to handle when he was directing the Carlisle Indians. He found the Aborigine, a plastic subject for his deceptive attacking scheme. Later, at Pittsburgh, Warner found rugged stock with which to mould winning teams again. Since then Pop has found the situation very pleasant on the coast.

Man-power was the chief answer to Stanford's overwhelming victory over the Army in 1928 and, with all due praise for Pop, it was the main factor in the crushing defeat of the Cadets, at Palo Alto during Christmas week.

Stanford, from its 1928 array, lost two great guards in Foot and Robeskey, as well as Hoffman, Lewis and Sims from the backfield cast. In addition, the star center, Walter Heinecke, was unable to play in the final game at Palo Alto, yet this 1929 Cardinal machine still had enough drive and power to strangle one of the best teams West Point has ever turned out.

The passing of Brig. Gen. Pierce from the leadership of the National Collegiate A. A. removes from the scene of action the last of the principals who figured in the long and sometimes bitter warfare between the college forces and the Amateur Athletic Union.

For fully a quarter century this conflict has been waged, with Pierce maneuvering first against "Jim" Sullivan and later "Bill" Prout, strong men of the A. A. U. The latter pair, triumphant in their time, now are both dead. Pierce survived to bring about a measure of peace with the new A. A. U. chief, Avery Brundage of Chicago, and the spirit of harmony now seems to prevail.

The N. C. A. A. and its allied forces lost one of their main strategists several years ago when Elwood Brown, a former U. M. C. A. secretary, died. Using Charley Padlock as a pawn in his far-flung battle plan, Brown thrust mightily at the governing power of the A. A. U.

At a dinner of the Philadelphia sport writers Association last night, he said: "I know that in most of my fights the majority of the people pay their money to see me licked. I don't mind that. When I walked down to the aisle to the ring in Boston to fight Spohrer the other night the raspberry they handed me was music to my ears."

"I got fat on that sort of thing. In Chicago, when I lost to Trafion, I was given a great hooting. But the next day I walked down to the Illinois Boxing Commission, and they handed me $3,000."

"The ring was the only needed money, saw a way to make it and went after it. I've been in trouble with the boxing commissions of several states. But I want to say this. In baseball I give everything I have, and when I'm in the ring I'm in there trying. I'll get in the ring with anybody who is as green about it as myself."

Leading Cities Of Texas View Census With Anticipation

By The Associated Press. One of the swiftest races Texas has ever witnessed will be on soon. It will be the decennial counting of noses by the United States government.

Four of Texas' fast-growing climbing and ambitious cities are contemporaries in the contest for leadership. The contest has been on since 1920, when the last Federal census was taken. Since then the contenders have been laying plans to out-number one another. Territory that was deep in the suburbs of the cities in 1920 has been incorporated in the corporate limits of the expanding municipalities.

It was a tight fight in 1929, and the grouping promises to be even closer this time. Here is how they came under the wire, in the matter of population, 10 years ago: San Antonio, 161,379; Dallas, 138,979; Houston, 158,276, and Fort Worth, 106,452.

There will not be any putting off until tomorrow when the census man calls and curtness will not go for he who wantonly defies the census taker is liable to prosecution in the Federal courts.

Under the rules should a person die on April 1 before midnight he will be counted in the census as under 21, but if he dies after midnight the enumerator should add him.

NEW YORK—Mrs. Herbert C. Pell believes that if grandmothers were busy with their own careers they would be sought out by their children instead of being dreaded or patronized. And so at the age of 43 she is starting a career as a professional artist, having done little painting while bringing up her children. The proceeds of her painting are going into a sentimental fund for her grandchildren. She will use her maiden name, Olive Higgins. She is a granddaughter of John Bigelow, diplomat and editor.

They Disagree

If the pen is mightier than the bludgeon, Colonel Jake Ruppert, general owner of the Yankees, will sign Babe Ruth's salary check for the next two years under a figure of $75,000. The Bambino wants more—$85,000 for each of three years, to be exact—and won't put his signature to a contract at a nickel less, so he declares, setting out for Florida for a bit of golf while the colonel worries. Both are above.

SECOND WIN OF SEASON FOR LOCALS

Domestics Pile Up 12 Points In Last Period To Cop Game 24-3

In an exceptionally rough game Tuesday night, the Big Spring Steers snowed Sterling City's quintet under a 24-3 score and ran their consecutive victory string on the domestic court to eleven.

Captain Buren Edwards was hurt on the first play of the game, but his mates carried the fight to a willing Sterling City machine through the contest. Until the third quarter, the Steer defense was impenetrable, or rather Sterling City's shooting was decidedly off color.

Tom Hutto, lanky forward, looped four goals from the field and converted one free toss for high scoring honors. Despite Edwards' injured ankle, he was second with two field goals and one gratis toss. Welch, Sterling City's pivot man, dropped in a short shot for the only marker from the field for visitors. Munn, a substitute guard, who entered the game in the fourth quarter for Sterling City, accounted for the third tally with a free goal.

Slow Start The first two periods were scoreless so far as Sterling Tigers were concerned. The Steers did little better ringing two field goals in the first period and one in the second. Big Spring's superior attack started functioning in the third period and increased through to the end.

Sterling City was not so hopelessly outclassed as the score indicates. The Tigers passed remarkably well and displayed effects of expert coaching so far as their floor game was concerned. Possibly unfamiliarity with indoor baskets and playing under artificial light had something to do with the Tigers' inability to find the ring. Time after time the Sterling City five worked the ball deep into the Steers' territory only to miss "crisp" shots.

Four Eliminated Four men, three from Sterling City and one from Big Spring, were eliminated in the final quarter by the four personal foul route. Sterling City finished the last few minutes of the game with only four men on the court.

It was hard to tell much about the new overhead attack Steers have been practicing with Edwards on the bench, but Fardus, Hutto and Smith used their height to good advantage.

The next action for Big Spring's high school Steers comes Friday night when the Clyde cagers, coached by Roy Stevens, a brother of the domestic's mentor, open a two game series in the gymnasium.

SAN ANGELO HOUSEWIFE ENDORSES IT

SAYS ORGATONE HAS RELIEVED HER AFTER YEARS SUFFERING WITH INDIGESTION AND STOMACH TROUBLE.

"Orgatone has certainly benefited me" says Mrs. R. T. Williams residing at 38 W. 11th Street, San Angelo, Texas while in the Lone Star Drug Store for another bottle of Orgatone. Mrs. Williams' husband is with West Texas Utilities Co. having been citizens of San Angelo for several years.

"I had a very chronic case of stomach trouble," she continued, "everything I ate would sour and gas would form on my stomach which made me miserable for hours afterward. I had severe headaches and my back ached so at times I couldn't do my work at all. I had a severe case of constipation and was forced to take strong laxatives all the time. I was in a general run down condition and needed something to build me up. I saw where Orgatone was advertised and began taking it.

"I am certainly improved and feel much better. My back doesn't bother me any more. I have a better appetite than I had and gas doesn't form on my stomach any more. My head doesn't ache any more and that certainly means a lot to me. My general health has improved and my bowels are regulated and I am not bothered with constipation. Before taking Orgatone I was nervous and restless and couldn't sleep or rest at night at all, but now I sleep fine every night. Orgatone has certainly helped me and I know anyone who takes it will find that it will benefit them as it did me."

the "lay of the land" and the location of more thickly settled communities insofar as possible. The highway department's policy is to straighten cardinal highways wherever possible. It is economical to build roads straight. Economical as to initial cost of the paving itself. And economical when the traveling public uses that road. It is cheaper to drive 30 miles to reach a given point than to be forced to drive 25 miles if you stay on paving.

This writer, however, does not believe established towns should under anything like ordinary conditions, be thrown far away from a paved highway when they have been located on it until paving was started.

Consulate At Laredo Opened

LAREDO, Tex., Jan. 15 (AP).—Officials of the Mexican consulate, closed since December 18, were expected to return here today from San Antonio to prepare for reopening the consulate Friday. Business men were making preparations for resumption of international trade, virtually at a standstill since the threats of District Attorney John A. Vails to arrest former President Plutarco Elias Calles of Mexico on a charge of conspiracy to murder led to the closing of the consulate. Enrique Santibanes, Mexican consul general, in San Antonio yesterday announced the ministry of foreign relations of Mexico had instructed him to reopen the consulate with Consul Rafael De La Colina in charge. This action was taken, the consul general said, when the state department of Washington assured Mexico that Mexican residents and travelers in Webb county and its county seat, Laredo, would "enjoy the guarantees granted to them by law."

Reed Addresses P. T. A. Session

D. H. Reed, principal of the Junior high school, featured the program of the January meeting of the Parent-Teacher association of that school Tuesday afternoon in the school.

He told the parents of the grading system used in the school in order that parents and teachers might reach a plane of understanding regarding that phase of school work. He also told of the discipline in the classroom and the most approved methods of attaining and maintaining correct deportment during conduct of classes. Announcement was made by Mrs. B. N. Duff, chairman of the cafeteria committee, that luncheon would be served school children on Wednesday of each week. Proceeds will be used to purchase classroom necessities.

The association now has a total of $30 in the treasury, and it is expected that the weekly luncheons will add $5 weekly to the total.

Mrs. Baell Bess underwent a major operation in a local hospital Wednesday morning and is reported getting along nicely.

operated by the Texas and New Orleans. Between Fredericksburg Junction and Fredericksburg, operation would be over the line now owned by the Fredericksburg and Northern, which the Gulf and West Texas expects to buy. Between Brady and Eden operation would be under a trackage agreement with the Colorado and Santa Fe and new lines would be constructed between Fredericksburg and Brady, and Eden and San Angelo. This would form a continuous line from San Antonio to San Angelo, where connections would be made with the Santa Fe. There would also be connections at Brady with the line of the Frisco, which extends to Fort Worth and Dallas. The line as proposed would involve an estimated investment of $5,852,665, which includes $5,227,665 for construction, $325,000 for equipment and $300,000 working capital.

Expenditure Purchase of the Fredericksburg and Northern would involve an outlay of $275,000 and cost of reconditioning this road was estimated at $700,000. The Gulf and West Texas also expects to spend $347,953 to recondition the line of the Aransas Pass, and $175,928 to recondition the Colorado and Santa Fe. Proposal to finance the project thru issue of capital stock and mortgage bonds was made, but no definite plan has been suggested to the commission. The road contends, however, that it would have no difficulty in disposing of sufficient securities to procure necessary funds.

Barron Transferred To Local Gulf Office

Frank Barron of the Gulf Production company has been transferred to this West Texas territory from the Wichita Falls division headquarters. Mr. Barron is operating from Big Spring because of the more central location in the territory he is serving.
