HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

E. V. McCright, the home-town boy who is building Big Spring's new hotel for Mr. and Mrs. Settles, said last night that, given an even break by the weather man, his men will surprise the town by the speed they'll show from now on in piling up a 15-story structure of concrete and steel.

R. E. McKee's boys, under Superintendent Gimarc, are busy laying off locations of the thirteen buildings and pouring a total of 2,800 concrete pillars upon which various units of the new T & P terminal will be built.

Safeway Lines, one of the southwest's greatest commercial aviation concerns, confirms its intention of extending westward from Sweetwater to the Pacific coast. Whether the big tri-motor ships stop at Big Spring airport will depend on the amount of business Big Spring would give the company and the quality of service obtainable at the airport.

We are not dubious of the quality of service for this young gent, Charles Smoot, who has been placed in charge by S. A. T. in working mightily energetically at the job of pleasing the flying public. His efforts are bearing fruit, ably assisted by his company's recent act of reducing fares to 5 1/2 cents per mile.

The Airport Log, appearing just below this bit, shows that every ship on the S. A. T. line now is carrying a capacity load. What's much better, Big Spring is furnishing its quota of the business.

Informed fellows declare one major oil company may yet be expected to build a huge refinery somewhere in West Texas—and they point pretty straight at The Texas Company.

If anybody has a good site for sale and is willing to let it go to a major oil company at the same price he'd sell it to anyone else, it might not be a bad idea to get to work. However, many a town has been beaten out of big things because some land owned decided his land had become twice valuable overnight when a "big outfit that's got the money anyway," showed an inclination to buy.

And, a pretty good rule to follow in voting for city commissioners is to watch the fellow, if any, who tears his shirt to get in the race and then tears his shirt and tries to tear the other fellow's.

PLAN VISIT TO AIRPORT NEXT WEEK

Halliburton's Line May Be Extended West To Coast

Southwest Air Fast Express, Inc., plans extending its St. Louis-Sweetwater line to El Paso and the Pacific coast about May 1, Larry G. Fritz, general operations manager of the Safeway Lines told The Herald Wednesday from the concern's offices in Tulsa, Indefinite

Plans for stops between Sweetwater and El Paso are indefinite, said Fritz. He said a group of Safeway officials would make an inspection trip of the proposed extension route sometime next week.

Fritz assured The Herald he would stop at the local airport if at all possible and that if the party did stop local persons interested in aviation would be notified in time for a conference at the airport.

Safeway's line now operates from St. Louis to Kansas City, thence to Tulsa, Oklahoma City, Wichita Falls, Abilene and Sweetwater. Passengers destined for El Paso or further west are now being transferred at Sweetwater to the Sunshine Special, crack Texas & Pacific train, for the over-night trip to El Paso.

The extended line would be the longest all-plane passenger operation in the United States.

Fritz intimated the schedule of the longer line might be arranged to provide a non-stop trip from Abilene or Sweetwater to El Paso.

He added, however, that stops in cities between Sweetwater and El Paso would depend upon the amount of business we could expect from those cities.

Halliburton
The Southwest Air Fast Express, Inc., of which Erle P. Halliburton of Duncan, Okla., wealthy oil well cementing pump manufacturer who has become a leading figure in American aviation with a group of the leading capitalists of the middle west as his associates, operates but one type of ship—Ford all-steel tri-motor monoplanes, carrying fourteen passengers and crew of two or three.

Told of Safeway's plan, Charles Smoot, manager of the Big Spring airport for Southern Air Transport, lauded, said that his company would be very anxious to have the port designated as a stop, and added, "we've got to get that air mail stop here, too."

Moody Tells Officials Fifth Called Session Imminent; Sulphur, Gas Tax Necessary For School

By RAYMOND BROOKS
Austin Correspondent
AUSTIN, Feb. 5.—Two developments of legislative import came out of Gov. Dan Moody's conference with public officials pressing emergency money and other legislation.

One is that Gov. Moody told officials, they said, another special session will be required immediately after this one ends Feb. 12, to dispose of matters now pending.

The other is that Gov. Moody said the $1,770,000 emergency aid asked by the University of Texas and higher educational institutions can be met only by a new tax measure, and that the officials present in the conference with him pledged themselves to support a new production tax on natural gas and sulphur, at one of the two sessions.

A Texas official said he was among those who promised to support and sponsor the sulphur and gas taxes. This tax bill was forecast as a result of Gov. Moody's

DECISION IN LAND CASE REVERSED

Highly Controversial Bill, Important To West, Wins

AUSTIN, Feb. 5 (AP).—The so-called Small river bed bill, passed by the legislature over veto of Governor Moody, was upheld by the third court of civil appeals today.

The court reversed and remanded the case of the state vs. C. W. Bradford and Others, the suit involving title to valuable river bed land on the north fork of the Red river, on grounds that the trial court erred in sustaining the general demurrers and holding that the petition alleged insufficient facts to constitute the river beds in question a navigable stream or water course, but held constitutional and valid the Small bill which validated or granted the appellees right or interest in the area in controversy.

Validated This
The Small bill validated title to land in the stream beds where the surveys cross streams that are not navigable but which are more than 30 feet in width. The original statute classed these streams as navigable and forbade surveys to include them.

Governor Moody vetoed the bill on grounds that it was unconstitutional. A large delegation appeared in Austin to urge the legislature to enact the law over the executive disapproval and both houses did this.

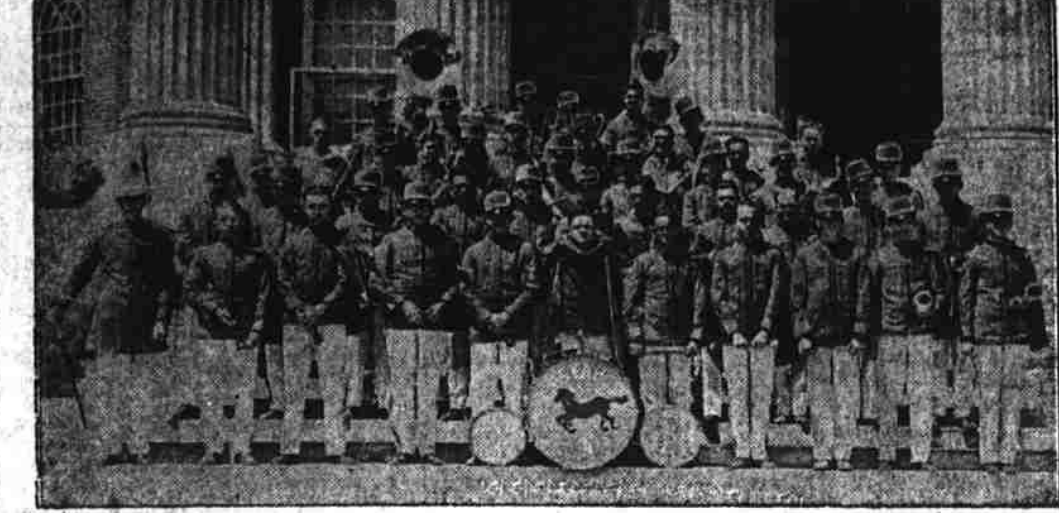

Referring to the state's claim that the Small bill is repugnant to the public uses authorized by the conservation amendment of 1917 in the area in controversy, the court, through the opinion written by Associate Justice M. B. Blair, held:

"The contention cannot be sustained because the act either expressly or by a necessary and reasonable inference excepts from the operation of the statute all public, riparian and other uses to which the beds of statutory navigable streams or water courses had been theretofore reserved under the public policy and laws of this state. In other words we interpret the Small bill to validate or grant only such right of possession and use of the surface of the area in controversy as is not repugnant to the public uses to which said river bed had been heretofore reserved under the Conservation act of 1917.

Southern Methodist University Band Plays Here Thursday

Under auspices of the Kiwanis Club and for benefit of the Cemetery Association, the S. M. U. Mustang Band, renowned "dispensers of Peruna," which set the eastern football world agog during the Army-Mustang game of 1928 and is always a major attraction at any public appearance will present its three-act band showmanship of the director, V. Cyrus Barcus, is largely responsible for this band's unusual success. It is now on an extended tour through West Texas.

There will be no reserved seats. Tickets are being sold by Kiwanians and will be available at the auditorium Thursday evening. Arrangements were completed Wednesday afternoon for a special matinee at 3:30 p. m. Thursday at the high school for school children. Admission will be 25 cents for the matinee, and at night 75 cents for adults and 15 cents for school children.

3 Counties May Be Released From Worm Area; Jones Asks For Reimbursement

CAGE MEET IS PLANNED

Trophies Offered By Chamber Of Commerce

Plans to entertain basketball champions of seven counties which will compete in the western division tournament of district eight to be held in Big Spring, Feb. 14 and 15, progressed steadily as little more than one week remained to complete details.

The publicity division of the Chamber of Commerce has agreed to purchase trophies for the tournament winners and for the team that finished in runner-up position. Awards will consist of mounted metal basketballs labeled with suitable inscriptions.

To reduce expenses of the tournament, local citizens will probably be solicited to accommodate visiting players in private homes. However, this particular detail has not been entirely settled by school officials in charge of the meet and a definite announcement will not be made for several days.

If plans meet approval of E. H. McClain, superintendent of school in Sweetwater and director of district interscholastic league play, the teams entering the tournament will be bracketed for play Friday afternoon, Saturday morning and the championship tussle Saturday night. Team representatives will draw for places in the tourney with one club, number seven, drawing a by in the first round. Teams numbers one and two will open the fireworks Friday afternoon at 2:30. Teams numbers three and four will tangle at 7 o'clock Friday evening followed immediately by teams numbers five and six.

Play will be resumed Saturday morning at 9 o'clock with team number seven meeting the winner of the first contest, and the winners of Friday night's two contests will tangle Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Winners of the semi-final matches will meet Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock to decide the winning combination of the western division of district eight. Trophies will be presented and other awards made immediately after the final contest.

Pest Can No Longer Exist Here, Committee Is Told

Prospects for early liberation of Howard, Dawson and Martin counties from the pink bollworm restricted area and regulations attached thereto are considered good by C. T. Watson, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, who has been in close touch with officials at Austin and Washington.

Mr. Watson based his opinion, expressed late Tuesday, upon excellent cooperation given by farmers of those counties to those enforcing the regulations, and the fact that no additional infestation has been discovered since the restrictions were made effective.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP).—Representative Marvin Jones of Amarillo today urged the house agriculture committee to approve his resolution to allot $300,000 to compensate farmers of seven West Texas counties for enforced pink bollworm eradication work.

The Jones resolution would repay farmers half of the cost of fumigating cottonseed and lint in Andrews, Dawson, Ector, Martin, Midland, Glasscock and Howard counties. The Texas congressman quoted department of agriculture officials as stating that the pest could no longer thrive in those counties.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP).—A resolution to appropriate $587,000 for clean up work in non-cotton zones established in Arizona in a campaign against the pink bollworm, was adopted unanimously today by the house and sent to the senate.

HOOVER VISITS TAFT
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP).—President Hoover will visit former Chief Justice Taft at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (AP).—Physicians attending William Howard Taft issued a bulletin at 11:30 a. m. today saying the former Chief Justice of the United States was "slightly better than yesterday."

HEADLESS BODY FOUND
WACO, Tex., Feb. 5 (AP).—The headless body of Frank Valaska, father of near Abbott, was found today by neighbors in a barn on the Valaska farm.

TWO NAMED IN CHARGES

Personal Injuries Suit On Trial In Court Here

Two men, Joe Pain and E. W. Willis, were charged with forgery in indictments returned by the Howard county grand jury late Tuesday afternoon. The men were said to be in the Howard county jail and probably will be placed on trial next week when the criminal docket is called in district court.

While the grand jury continued its investigations into felony cases, the civil machinery continued grinding out divorces and Wednesday morning was in the act of untangling a personal injury suit brought by H. C. Logan against E. C. Gilliam and Mrs. J. O. Gilliam.

In the petition filed by the plaintiff, Mr. Logan alleges he received personal injury to the middle finger

Four Miles Of New Pipeline For Additional Gas Supply Finished; Feb. 25 May Be Completion Date

Four miles of the new eight inch pipe line to connect the gas distributing system of Big Spring with the South Plains Pipe Line Company's main from the Panhandle fields had been completed Tuesday night when the contracting company finished its second day of pipe line laying.

Ten miles of line has been placed along the right-of-way which terminates in Martin county. Eight miles of ditch has been opened and welders were following the ditch at a rapid rate connecting the joints of pipe.

Unless unforeseen difficulty is encountered, or inclement weather retards progress, the new 37 mile line will be completed and connected at both ends by Feb. 25. One and one-half miles of line was laid and welded Tuesday, but the rate is to be increased when the job is in full progress, said Gil Cotton, manager of the Big Spring Public Service Company, which owns the distributing system in this city. F. G. Hoffman and Company of Dallas is the contractor and the line connecting to the distributing system here is owned by the Consumers Natural Gas and Power Company.

STIFF PENALTY SOUGHT BY MAJORITY; TWO SEEK FREEDOM FOR BRADY

Strenuous Deliberations Reflected In Faces Of Twelve Men Who Heard Testimony

COURTROOM, AUSTIN, Feb. 5 (AP).—Ten jurors held firmly this afternoon that John W. Brady should be convicted of the murder of Miss Lehlia Highsmith and assessed a heavy penalty, but two others held out against them, it was learned from a source deemed thoroughly reliable.

The jury went back to its arguments after spending only a little more than 30 minutes at luncheon. This morning it had reported a "hopeless" deadlock, and Judge J. D. Moore, though refusing publicly to commit himself, had indicated the men would be kept a longer time.

Meanwhile, A. G. B. Highsmith of Baytown, father of the slain girl, and his wife issued a statement thanking the "good citizens of Austin for courtesies shown us during two weeks' stay in the city" and especially expressing gratitude to the prosecutors for their "able" work.

CLUB BOYS RECOGNIZED

Luncheon Program Is Marked By Address Of Morrison

Recognition and encouragement of achievement was the keynote of the program of the Business Men's Luncheon club Wednesday noon in the dining room of the Methodist church. Three boys of county clubs who made outstanding records in 4-H club work, and their parents as well as the county agents under whose supervision the boys worked, were honor guests at the luncheon and were presented to the membership.

Judge M. H. Morrison gave a talk on the duty of the luncheon club toward the worthwhile activities of the city. He designated the duty of the club the backing of those individuals and organizations which are achieving things which make for a better city and community life.

The speaker lauded the builder who boosts his town or city, and flayed the knocker whose adverse criticism of the activities of civic groups caused discouragement and discontent.

Citizens who have the backbone to condemn things that are wrong and stand behind those that are right, are the type of citizens the city needs, Morrison told his hearers.

Members of the 4-H clubs present at the luncheon were introduced by Mrs. Alice Phillips of the chamber of commerce, who also presented them each with a $10 check from the chamber of commerce as recognition of accomplishment. The boys were Oale Bailey, 11 years old, first ranking 4-H club boy; Henry King, 16, and Milton Kidwell, 15. Other visitors were: Mrs. Bailey, Mrs. Kidwell, Mrs. C. T. Watson, Mrs. Louelle Aligood, county home demonstration agent, and J. V. Bush, county agricultural agent.

Curtis G. Condra, immediate past president of the club, was present and gave a brief talk, expressing

One-Third Less Cotton Acreage In Texas Necessary If State Stays Clear Of Disaster, Williams Warns

AUSTIN, Feb. 5.—Texas farmers must cut cotton acreage this year at least one-third under the 12,000,000 acres of last year, to do their part in escaping national farm disaster, Carl Williams, cotton member of the federal farm board, told a joint session of the Texas legislature Monday.

Bankers, landlords and farmers will have to join hands to make the farmer self-sustaining aside from cotton; and farmers need to use the facilities of the new farm aid law in marketing their product, to restore economic independence to the farmers, he said.

As the close of his talk before the session, Mr. Williams answered questions of legislators, admitting he considers the price of cotton too low now; explaining the new super-cooperative marketing agency and the all-Texas agency will not function until this year's crop is produced.

Regulate Exchanges
To Rep. Penrose Metcalf, he said his personal opinion is that cotton futures exchanges should be practically regulated.

Mr. Williams said the powers of no new super-cooperative will be unlimited, as to buying and "stabilizing." It will be able to buy as much non-member cotton as it receives from members, and in times of price stress, can take the limit off. It can and will have power to hedge and protect its market, he said.

The federal government cannot require farmers to plant less cotton or regulate the division of crops, Mr. Williams said. He doubts whether states can do so.

He appealed to the legislature to encourage the growing of better staple cotton, saying Texas now produces 40 per cent. untenderable cotton, as compared with 5 per cent. 10 years ago.

He blamed "average lot" buying for this result, and said farmers should outlaw the practice that penalizes the farmer who grows good cotton.

Mr. Williams said the movement he urged of standard high-grade cotton, properly classed and graded, would bring the farmers $15 to $20 a bale more on the same base price than they are getting now.

Visits Salons
Mr. Williams was introduced by Gov. Dan Moody to the joint session, as a man from a neighborhood, "who speaks our language."

It was Williams' second visit in a few weeks, he having met Gov. Moody's state cooperative committee here in January.

The government, Mr. Williams said, is trying a new experiment never before undertaken by any government, in peace times, of taking public money to devote to the aid of a particular group or class. When a group, such as the farmers, have proven unable to remedy their own troubles, it is a job for all the people, he said.

The principle of the farm board is to deal with farmers by commodity groups, Mr. Williams said. He found there are 8,800,000 farmers, and 30,000,000 farm people affected by the bill.

There were 13,000 individual cooperatives, which could not be dealt with individually, so large elements, embracing numerous units are being formed, headed up by the national $30,000,000 super-coop, whose headquarters temporarily are in Texas. This agency will handle marketing alone, he explained.

Cotton was the worst national problem met under the farm act, worse than wheat or any of the others, he said.

Up to this time, 62 per cent of the farm board's loans have been made on cotton and in the South, Mr. Williams said.

The Southern cotton farmers have failed to keep pace in world competition, by letting their product run down in quality, Mr. Williams said. Acreage has increased, production has increased, but the type of cotton grown has deteriorated to a point where it is a severe penalty upon the whole industry.

Half And Half
The practice of growing "half and half" or short staple cotton has done more to break prices and ruin the farmer than anything else," he declared.

Farmers, business men, bankers, and the industry as a whole should clean house and break up the growing of untenderable cotton, within five years, Mr. Williams told the legislature.

Three requirements were set up by the farm board, member whose disregard by bankers, landlords and farmers will be "a fatal mistake." These were: That farmers shall grow enough feed and foodstuffs to support his family, aside from cotton.

That not one pound of cotton shall be planted on land that has failed to return an average net profit on cotton during the past five years.

That acreage should be cut one-third.

Texas proved too large for any single cooperative agency, so that the new super-coop will recognize each unit within the State market, an agency that puts together 100,000 bales, Mr. Williams said.

Government classers will be furnished to assure the farmers getting full prices, in every local unit that puts together 10,000 bales of cotton.

Mr. Williams commended the state agency plan worked out by Mr. T. O. Walton and members of Gov. Moody's state committee, which resulted in broadening out the Texas Farm Bureau association as the nucleus for a statewide group of 100,000-bale units.

"Texas is the key state in cotton production of the world," Mr. Williams declared, "and there is a responsibility on the people of Texas to see that good cotton is grown; that not too much is planted; and that it is marketed wisely."

"There is a partnership in this farm and matter, of the United States government, the States of Texas and the farmers."

Oil, Not On Troubled Political Waters, Almost Dan's Lot

AUSTIN, Feb. 5.—Dan Moody, youthful oil multi-millionaire. This fair picture seemingly has been blotted out only by the arduous duties of being governor.

It has just been learned that for 15 years Gov. Moody held oil leases on land in Williamson county where now valuable oil wells have been brought in.

Since he became governor he was too busy to fool with the leases, and let the last of them expire only a short time before the first big producer in the same area would have made them tremendously valuable.

"What a life," he sighed, as he received his monthly pay check of $333.33.

ECTOR COUNTY PRODUCER HAS SET NEW PEAK

Cosden's University Producer Deepened, Flows 100 Bbls.

Conversation of the oil fraternity revolved around Ector county where Cosden Oil Company's No. B-1 University definitely established the Jenkins area of that county as one of the most important producing areas discovered in the past several months by flowing at the average rate of 100 barrels hourly when deepened from 3,630 to 3,878 feet, still in pay.

The generally accepted report from Ector county gave the well's production at 520 barrels during five hours ending Tuesday morning at 1 o'clock.

Deepening began late Monday evening and the well showed a gradual increase from 3,640-78 feet. A full 24-hour test of the well will probably be made when operators complete sufficient storage to care for the large expected production.

By increasing to more than 100 barrels hourly, Cosden Oil Company's No. B-1 University became the biggest producer in Ector county's second and best field, 14 miles west of Odessa. Its yield is more than double the output from any of the other three producing wells.

Cosden's No. B-1 University is a south offset to Landreth Production Corporation's No. S-1 University which extended the pool a quarter mile southwest onto University and is 1,650 feet from the north line and 440 feet from the east line of section 2, block 35. The first pay was encountered more than one week ago at 3,568-74 feet, with some gas. The next and better pay was encountered from 3,586-90 feet where the well producing 573 barrels the first 21 hours. Upon deepening last Wednesday, the well encountered its second increase from 3,616-26 feet and flowed 1,035 barrels in 24 hours.

Landreth Production Company's No. S-1 University topped the first pay 3,568 feet and had an increase to 3,630-33 feet and was completed at 3,662 feet with an initial production of 100 barrels daily.

Cosden's No. A-1 University, three-quarters of a mile north of Landreth's No. S-1 University and 2,310 feet from the north line and 440 feet from the east line of section 1, block 35, had drilled to a total depth of 3,376 feet in line. Six and five-eighths inch casing was set at 3,290 feet.

Man Arrested In Fort Worth Wanted For Abilene Killing

FORT WORTH, Feb. 5.—(AP)—Albert Oglesby, wounded by a motorcycle officer here Monday, was identified today as Cole Oglesby, wanted in Taylor county on a charge of murder.

He was identified by Chief of Police Ingram of Ranger and Sheriff O'Bar of Abilene, who had a warrant for his arrest on the murder charge. Oglesby is alleged to have killed a man by the name of Johnson on the Abilene highway in 1928.

Welding equipment found in the automobile in which Oglesby and Joe Newton were hiding was identified as being stolen last week from the welding shed of the Magnolia Petroleum company at Oiden.

Local People Return From Funeral Service

The Rev. W. G. Bailey and Mrs. Bailey returned Tuesday from Strawn where funeral services for F. W. (Swedie) Cromwell, who died from injuries received in an automobile crash near Colorado last Saturday morning, were held Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The party of local people attending last rites for the popular oil man included Fred V. Olmstead, Bill Lemmons, Mr. and Mrs. Al Wilson, Ruby Barnett and the deceased's wife, Mrs. F. W. Cromwell and a niece, Margaret Heaves, who had lived with Mr. and Mrs. Cromwell for several years.

Strawn was the home of Mrs. Cromwell before she was married Oct. 16, 1915, John Cromwell, father of the deceased, and Harry Cromwell, a brother, both of Best Texas, attended the funeral services with another brother, Carl Cromwell of San Angelo.

On her return to Big Spring, Mrs. Cromwell requested that her friends who were considerate of the grief-stricken family be thanked and that individuals and organizations offering floral tributes accept her appreciation.

Angelo Baker Glad That It Came His Way

ORGATONE BEATS ANY MEDICINE HE EVER SAW FOR TROUBLES LIKE HIS, HE SAYS

"I am certainly glad Orgatone came my way," says Ed L. Cole, a well-known baker employed at Herring Brothers Bakery and Grocery, residing at 117 N. Main Street, San Angelo, Texas, in an interview recently.

"My health had been broken down and bad for two years," continued Mr. Cole, "my stomach was all up-set, my food would sour and about two months ago I got poisoned from some food or other and I was in what I might call an awful fix. I had sharp shooting pains through my left and right side, especially at night, and I want to tell you I suffered intense agony. I was in a miserable shape and got to where I almost had to quit work."

"I began to pick up in just a day or so after I began taking Orgatone and I have been gradually improving ever since. My stomach feels stronger and I can eat and digest many things now that I couldn't eat before without suffering afterwards. I'm not constipated like I was, my headaches are broken up and my appetite is enormous. My side is feeling all right now, my general health has greatly improved and I'm getting better right along. I have suffered a long time and have tried many different kinds of medicines but Orgatone beats them all. I could never get the right relief until I began taking it, therefore I have the best there is."

Merchant Here 30 Years Ago, Back On Visit

W. H. Brennan, of El Paso, a merchant in Big Spring thirty years ago, arrived in the city Tuesday evening to visit with his wife's sister, Mrs. V. Van Gieson and to transact business here.

Back in 1898 Mr. Brennan purchased an interest in the Fisher store at the corner of First and Main streets and then resold the property to the Fisher interest in 1900. After leaving behind an active business life in Big Spring Mr. Brennan constructed the large brick house on Lancaster street which still stands as a landmark in that section of the city. Old timers recall how the house was considered hopelessly in the country at the time it was constructed.

Mr. Brennan is regarded as one of the shrewdest business men of Big Spring's early history. His activity in civic and commercial enterprises is still referred to by many seeking a model.

George White Announces For Another Term

George G. White, county commissioner of precinct three, announced Wednesday morning he will be a candidate for reelection in the April primaries.

Mr. White has been a resident of Howard county for more than 15 years and is owner of extensive property in this territory. He has been interested in the mining and farming business and other agricultural activities of this region since coming to the county.

Despite his manifold activities in the private business field, Mr. White is recognized by constituents as an able commissioner and a man that is in position to concentrate his efforts on county affairs. He has extensive experience in administering county affairs and has formed a host of personal friends through his lifetime efforts.

Mr. White announced his candidacy for reelection on the platform of conservative progressiveness. He holds the belief that the county and communities therein should be alertly ready to take advantage of all opportunities, but that the progressive influence should not overshadow the necessity of economic soundness and the value of resources. Mr. White has often expressed his sincere confidence in Howard county's future both in agricultural development and other natural resources.

THE BIG SHOT
by Frank L. Packard.

SYNOPSIS: To effect the capture of the Big Shot, unknown ruler of New York underworld, whose identity has baffled police, is the crowning ambition of Phil Martin, reporter for the New York Herald-Star. Martin starts on the trail of the Big Shot, seeking his greatest scoop, through information supplied by Shive Frank. Martin's only distraction is Enid Howard, 26-year-old Canadian seeking atmosphere for a book she is writing. They meet in the Gondola restaurant, an East Side resort, and Martin tells Enid of his quest. Enid refuses to permit Martin to accompany her home, her own self-reliance enhanced by a pistol she carries. As she walks home through dark streets she suddenly realizes she is being followed.

Chapter 3
SHIVE FRANK'S MISSION

For a moment the knowledge she was being followed dismayed Enid Howard as she surveyed her dismal surroundings. On the dimly-lighted, desolate street there was no one to whom she could turn for help.

She had told Phil Martin she could take care of herself and she found new courage as she took the menacing pistol from her pocket and gripped it tightly in her right hand. Then she broke into a run.

"Aw, can de marathon stuff," a male voice called in a hoarse and slightly breathless tone from behind her. "I ain't goin' to hurt youse, Miss Howard. I just got a message for youse."

The sound of her name both startled her and brought her relief. She stopped abruptly and whirled around; but, still on her guard, she made no attempt to disguise the fact that a very serviceable little automatic was clasped in her right hand. And then, as the other came up to her, she recognized the man even in the still meagre light of the street lamp.

"Shive Frank!" she exclaimed.

"Sarc!" he answered. His eyes fastened on the automatic in her hand, and a grin spread over his face. "Say, wot d'youse know about dat! A skit wid a rod! Yousee some baby, ain't youse?"

Relief fled. His tones were as offensive as his words. His grin was repulsive. She drew back a step.

"What do you want?" she demanded sharply.

"How d'youse get high-hat, dat way?" he retorted. "I'm doin' dis for a friend of yers." He pulled from his pocket what looked like a piece of torn wrapping paper, folded flat with an elastic band around it. "Dis is for Phil Martin."

"Then you had better give it to him yourself," she said crisply.

"Say listen!" his voice was suddenly urgent. "I promised him, dis tonight, but I didn't dare go near him. Dey knows him. He's been battin' around a lot wid me. An' I got a tip-off tonight dat I was spotted. See? I'm duckin' me 'til right now for a few days on me country estate."

She shook her head. "I do not care to have anything to do with it but, even if I did, I have no idea when I shall see Mr. Martin again."

"Dat's all right!" I ain't askin' youse to take it to him—"the unlovely grin spread itself again over Shive Frank's features—"I'll phone him dat I slipped it to youse. He knows where youse lives, an' though dere ain't no particular rush about him gettin' it, I guess mebbe wid dat excuse for a call he'll hop to it fast enough. Here, take it!"

Enid's dark eyes flashed angrily. "I'll do nothing of the sort!" she said vehemently.

"Dat's where you're wrong, den," smirked Shive Frank. "cause youse've got it now! See? Sorry I can't stay, but I told youse I was in a hurry. So-long, Bright Eyes!"

He was already several yards away, and walking rapidly down the street toward Second avenue. She gave a little gasp that mingled surprise and dismay, as she stared after him. He had merely dropped the folded piece of wrapping paper on the sidewalk at her feet. She had no choice now but to pick it up.

She restored her automatic to the handbag, and, picking up the paper, placed that also in the bag. She had no doubt that the brown paper wrapper contained the photograph of the Big Shot that Phil Martin had said Shive Frank was to give him tonight.

What should she do? Phil Martin was undoubtedly still at the Gondola. But she most certainly did not relish the idea of going back there to him now—to invite the gaze of every eye and the comment of every tongue.

It wasn't a matter of life or death she told herself. It wasn't anything that could not wait until tomorrow—Shive Frank had implied that much himself. She would mail it to Phil Martin in the morning. She did not, of course, know where he lived; he had the advantage of her in that particular—she smiled a little slyly—but the Herald-Star was his business address and mail would reach him there.

She started on down the street, but she walked slowly now, thinking her eyes on the figure of Shive

Frank, whom she could still see hurrying down the street ahead of her.

She turned her head suddenly. A car behind her had swung around the corner from Third avenue at a furious pace. It swept past her now with a roar, its headlights streaming down the street. She stared after it in a startled, fascinated way.

She followed it with her eyes. As it approached Second avenue it seemed to slow a little and swerved toward the curb; and, as it swerved, its headlights picked out a lone figure on the sidewalk. That would be Shive Frank, of course. Now he appeared to be running.

Mechanically, she could not have told why she began to hurry herself. And then, with a low, strangled cry, she stood still. Violent spurts of flame cut through the semi-darkness from the side of the car, and now she could hear the crackle of a fusillade of shots.

It seemed to have happened instantaneously—quicker than thought. The car had never stopped—and now it was tearing across Second avenue—and now she could no longer see it. Shive Frank! Intuitively she knew what had happened. The warning he had spoken of had reached him too late! (Copyright, Frank L. Packard)

But Shive Frank's last act strikes fear to the heart of Enid. Read tomorrow's installment.

Gambling With Gusto Conducted In Hall Over Old Wigwam Cafe

By CURT BISHOP Few in Big Spring know that the deserted room over what was once the Wigwam Cafe was formerly one of the largest gambling houses in the Southwest. The institution, founded in the latter part of the nineteenth century, was in full swing until less than a score of years ago, when the passage of the Homestead Act drove the cowboys westward, and thus destroyed their principle trade.

period made it possible to conduct such games of chance without unnecessary loss of life since everyone was honor bound to pay his debts. "A debt of honor" was a debt of honor instead to them. Another charming legend is the story of how a rodeo entertainer lost his gold medal that he won at Cheyenne to a western cowpuncher and committed suicide because he could no longer claim he was the champion bulldogger of the world. Bob Crosby, who just the other day maintained his world's title by defeating Allan Holder, was a visitor to the place, but he was never known to join the games.

Many and entertaining are the legends connected with the ancient southwestern Monte Carlo. Most of these are built around the person of "Slim" O'Conner, a tall handsome gambler who made his living through his dexterity with cards. It is said that a prominent rancher from Pecos, was driving over two thousand head of cattle to Abilene for shipment when he was attracted into a poker game with this "gentleman" gambler. The next morning the owner turned his face regretfully westward while O'Conner rode at the head of the herd to Abilene and a fortune.

Particularly does our informer dwell upon the coldness of this card shark. None knew anything definite of Slim, save that they all believed he could read every card in the deck. He roomed in a private residence on the outskirts of town, probably now somewhere in one of the twelve hundred blocks. He dressed quietly but nicely. He habitually wore a gun, though he was never forced to use it in spite of the danger of his profession. After his win from the Pecos man he was never seen again in the local hall.

When it was pay day on the ranches the hall was in its glory. Thousands of dollars changed hands across the tables. There was seldom a house player except at the roulette and dice tables, mostly the owner was content to rake in a few chips to pay for the use of his equipment.

And strange to say there is no record of any murder in the gambling den. Only once does our informant recall that a gun was fired, and this time the bullet embedded in the soft part of the other's shoulder. There had been a quarrel over the cards and a visiting cowboy had drawn his gun. He was quickly arrested.

Tom Fleming was the best liked of the proprietors that varied through the years. Fleming was a stout, smiling fellow who moved among the players with a word of sympathy for the losers. He was never known to play himself, and contrary to the custom of most owners did not urge his customers to throw the dice and roulette tables, where the house is considered more than an even bet to win, but seemed content to grow rich slowly but surely by simply allowing players to use his hall. Fleming remained in Big Spring two years and then he sold the place out to a Welshman and disappeared.

Money of course was the proverbial stake but frequently horses, saddles, harnesses, boots, chaps, cattle, sheep, and sometimes even ranches changed hands across the tables. A peculiar code of honor common to the westerners of that

Given Divorce, Also Invitation To Second Court

About the time a fellow forms the opinion he can end all his troubles by gaining freedom from marital bonds, he finds the storm clouds are just gathering. At least that was the predicament a man faced in district court Tuesday.

No sooner had the man pronounced his name before Judge Fritz R. Smith as applicant for a divorce, than an alert member of the sheriff's department started searching through a handful of complaints. When Judge Smith signed the order giving the individual his freedom he was arrested on a complaint from San Antonio charging child desertion. Officers had been carrying the warrant several days attempting to learn the accused's identity, but had been unsuccessful until the divorce suit was heard in the courtroom. The alleged child deserter produced satisfactory bond and went his way.

R. F. Robbins was chairman of the program committee and also talked briefly. Other members of the committee were Mr. Morrison and W. C. Blankenship. The program committee for next Wednesday will be Shine Phillips, Mrs. W. A. Earnest and Harvey L. Rix. The following Wednesday, these will serve: Carl S. Blomshild, John Wolcott and Willard Sullivan. SPORTS ON PARADE

COMING ACTION
There'll be plenty of action on the high school basketball floor Friday and Saturday.

"PEST" SIGNS
Pete Cawthon, the hard driving scrapper, who won his coaching spurs while at the helm of Austin College athletics in Sherman, was named athletic director at Texas Tech in Lubbock the same day.

LET 'ER DIE
A few "die-hards" insist that the West Texas League is not through. Prexy Anderson of Abilene fanned the flame for West Texas League baseball when Guy Airey dropped a syllable or two indicating that Wichita Falls is again ready to support a club in Anderson's home town.

HANDS OFF CROSS
The folks who witnessed the Stanton-Lomax game here last Monday evening probably remember the little left hander who alternated between a forward position and the pivot slot. Well that particular individual is Epley. Now the name alone probably doesn't mean much, but it happens to be long to one of the swiftest little quarterbacks this section developed last season.

HOLD THE CASH
Another European heavyweight, one of several hundred the far off hemisphere has sent to America to claim a portion of the rich purses offered, is feeling the power of the Illinois boxing commission. Primo Carnera, the man-mountain from Italy, brushed a few rights and lefts against Elzear Rioux in the Chicago stadium last Friday night and the Canadian seemed too eager to remain on the canvas.

Fourth Defeat Of Year For Domestic Quintet; Visit Abilene Next

LAMESA, Feb. 5.—Lamesa Golden Tornadoes bulldogged the Big Spring Steers here last night in one of the most skilled basketball exhibitions ever played on Lamesa high school gym floor.

The Steers came back from Lamesa Tuesday night scorched with their fourth defeat suffered during the current season. Coach Stevens did not request unusual effort from his squad in Lamesa because of the strenuous grind ahead and the climaxing event of the season, the district tournament which is to be played in Big Spring Feb. 14 and 15.

When the first half ended Big Spring was trailing the host quintet 20 to 4, but pulled up just 6 points shy of the Dawson county cagers when the final whistle sounded. Lamesa scored six points during the entire second half while Big Spring was adding 16 to its total.

Illinois Commission Decides Rioux Was Only Scared In Carnera Battle

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (AP)—Primo Carnera, Italy's fighting giant, has frightened Elzear Rioux, wood chopping heavyweight from Montreal, into an indefinite and involuntary retirement from Illinois rings.

Rioux went into his forced retirement yesterday at the order of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, which concluded after an investigation that fright alone was responsible for his unsatisfactory showing against the Italian man-mountain at the stadium Friday night.

In addition, the commission fined him $1,000 and revoked his license, the maximum penalty in this state. Carnera, who won the match by a knockout after just 47 seconds, was held blameless by the commission and enriched by approximately $16,000, his share of the gate which was held up pending the investigation.

DODGERS END SKIPPER ROW FOR 2 YEARS
Robinson Signs Two Year Contract But Resigns Presidency

By HERBERT W. BARKER Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Feb. 5 (AP)—The dove of peace finally hovers over the Brooklyn club of the National League. The long battle between Wilbert Robinson, president-manager-director of the club, and S. W. McKeever, director heading an opposition faction, was ended yesterday by official action of the National League, holding its spring meeting here.

Under the agreement, Robinson resigned as president and director and was re-engaged as manager for two years. Frank E. York, attorney for McKeever and members of the board, was elected president for two years. Robinson's successor as a director will be named by Joseph A. Gilleaudeau, secretary and member of the board who represents the heirs of the late Charles H. Ebbets. Still another member of the board will be named by John A. Heydler, president of the National League. The directors when the slate is completed thus will consist of McKeever, York, Gilleaudeau and the two appointees, one by Gilleaudeau and the other by Heydler.

The league also adopted the schedule, re-elected Barney Dreyfuss of Pittsburgh as vice-president and referred to the rules committee a suggestion by Emil Fuchs of the Boston Braves that the rules be amended to permit umpires to eject players from games for a specified number of innings instead of for the duration of the contest.

Coahoma Again Defeats Stanton

STANTON, Feb. 5.—Stanton cagers showed Coahoma to make a clean sweep of the series. Coahoma took the final game 30 to 25 last Thursday afternoon. Coahoma had administered a defeat of 26 to 12 the week preceding Thursday's game. Tall and rangy, the lads from Coahoma played a high game at a pace which was too much for the Jack-rabbit Irvin combination.

Half-Half Planting Seed Tabooed By Dawson Farmers

LAMESA, Feb. 5.—Believing that there is a greater demand for a longer staple cotton instead of the half and half type grown on the lower South Plains a number of prominent farmers, backed by two Dawson county gins, have started a movement here to banish the half and half staple and plant a better grade of long staple cotton in this section.

The agricultural department of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce is one of the sponsors of the move and County Agent W. W. Evans has been listed as a supporter. Better marketing prices for the annual cotton crop is one of the arguments being used by those interested in the change.

Dairying Progresses Rapidly In Martin As Beef Cattle Men Report Year's Prospects Good

STANTON, Feb. 5.—The farmers of Martin county are planning to diversify in 1930, getting away from the one crop system. They will of course plant much cotton, but will increase the feed acreage and raise chickens, dairy cows and hogs.

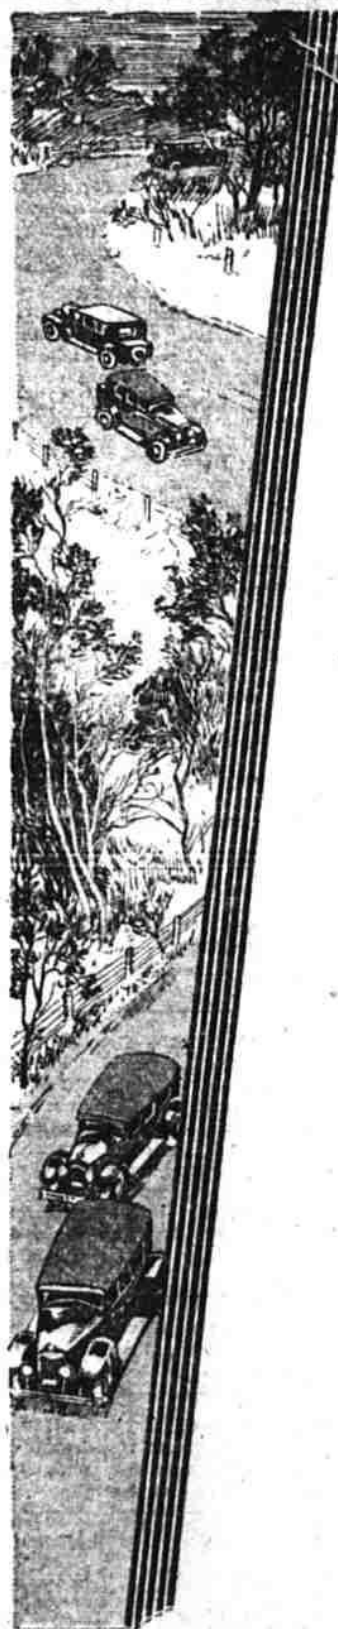

The poultry industry in this county will increase this year more than ever before it is predicted, M. E. Parker, local poultryman, has opened a custom hatchery here and has already been selling early baby chicks. This will encourage the poultry industry and give the farmers in this territory a better egg market.

The dairymen are assured of a market equally as good this year if they will meet the grade requirements of the State Health department, which many are in position to do at this time due to the fact that they have modern dairy barns and cooling equipment. Whole milk sold from the city will average approximately $200 per day and there are three sour cream stations in Stanton.

Moore Brothers United In Film Opening At Lyric

For the first time in nearly a quarter century of screen work, three brothers, each of whom has achieved success as an individual, are brought together in one picture—Radio Pictures' all-talking hit, "Side Street."

The trio is made up of the brothers Moore—Tom, Owen and Matt—and they are playing "brother" roles on the screen at the Lyric Theatre Wednesday and Thursday.

Although the Moore brothers won individual renown on the screen, it remained for William LeBaron, vice president in charge of RKO production, to bring them together in one picture. Though author George O'Hara refused to admit it, he wrote a talking picture that seemed made to order for the Moore family.

Critics wherever "Side Street" has been heard and seen are unanimous in the opinion that no better choice could have been made to fill the three featured roles—Tom as a conscientious Manhattan traffic cop, Matt as the police surgeon, and Owen as the king of racketeers, with Owen keeping his means of livelihood secret from his family.

Tom goes out to "get" the racketeer chief. When Owen realizes he has ordered his own brother "taken for a ride," he beats Tom to the rendezvous and pays with his own life.

Others members of the strong cast include Kathryn Perry, Emma Dunn, Frank Sheridan, Walter McNamara, Dan Wolheim and Heinie Conklin. Some scenes reveal scores of persons in which are many of the best known character players of the film world. Mal St. Clair directed.

R. M. Wheeler Makes Great Poultry Record

Another outstanding record in poultry has been attained by a Howard county poultryman, R. M. Wheeler of the Highway community, according to J. V. Bush, county agent.

Mr. Wheeler used the Big-Five Ration and has produced from a flock of 350 English White Leghorns, a total of 2292 dozens of eggs during the month of January. Feed for the flock cost him $30 leaving from his gross income of $121.40 a net profit of $91.40.

Taking his record on the Big-Five of devoting an hour daily to the care of his flock, it would mean that the farmer realized $3.27 per hour for his labor, and an estimated cost of a fraction over 10 cents a dozen for his eggs, according to Mr. Bush.

Mr. Wheeler has not culled his flock for 12 months and believes that after a careful culling, his flock will increase in egg production.

Contract Awarded For Fairview School

AMESA, Feb. 5.—Contract for new brick schoolhouse for the Fairview community, a few miles north of here, which is to replace one which was recently destroyed by fire, was awarded to J. W. Skipworth, a local contractor. Skipworth's bid was $6,131. The building will be constructed so that an annex may be added if it is needed and will have four class rooms, one work room and an office for the superintendent. Bids for the building ranged from $4,131 to $9,300, according to W. T. Webb, county school superintendent.

A BRAND-NEW ANTI-KNOCK GAS-400° END POINT NO EXTRA COST

THAT GOOD

GASOLINE
MADE BETTER

THAT GOOD GULF GASOLINE is now Anti-Knock quality—400° F. end point—at no extra cost. This Anti-Knock quality stops the knocks in the new high compression motors and greatly improves motor efficiency.

The 400° F. End Point gives instant and complete vaporization to the last drop—many motorists may not know what 400° F. End Point means but every motorist can tell the difference in his car between the new Good Gulf Gasoline and the ordinary gasoline with 437° F. End Point.

Ordinary motor gasoline may be loaded with Anti-Knock Chemicals, but the heavy non-burning ends remains to retard engine performance...

This combination of high anti-knock properties and volatility (the 400° F. End Point) makes the new Good Gulf Gasoline the equal of many premium gasolines and far superior to all non-premium fuels. There is but one better gas—GULF NO-NOX MOTOR FUEL AVIATION GRADE (374° F. End Point.)

Remember there is no extra cost for this new Good Gulf Gasoline.

A POPULAR STYLE FOR A SCHOOL DRESS

6755. Checked gingham in brown and white was selected for this model, with white plique for trimming. This design is also good for cotton prints, and for light weight woolens. A tab extension on the skirt holds, shirring on the long waist portion. The skirt flares, and is joined to the waist in pointed outline. A neat collar and tie form a pleasing finish at the neck. The sleeve is of the bishop type, finished with a band cuff.

This pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. To make the dress for a 12 year size will require 2 7/8 yards of 35 inch material. Collar, tie, and band cuffs of contrasting material will require 3-8 yard 35 inches wide, cut crosswise.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps by The Herald.
