DRAW IMPEACHMENT CHARGES

HOME TOWN TALK

By Beddy

We'll soon have an opportunity to help provide the improved water service and sewer collection facilities which we all recognize are sadly needed. We'll also vote on a bond issue to pay the city's share of the Benton street viaduct cost, an integral part of the Texas & Pacific's local improvement program.

The city hall and fire station problems are ones that need considerable study. When the city commission decided not to submit bond issues covering those projects we felt it might have made a mistake. A petition of citizens had been presented. It asked submission of the water, sewer, viaduct, city hall and fire station issues. The last two were left off. Our impression was that failure to submit all might injure the chances of the others of being adopted by dividing the support of the others.

However, our conclusion is that the citizenship is so thoroughly familiar with the needs the three issues submitted would meet they will not allow any unimportant and entirely irrelevant issues to steer them from a course that will mean adoption of all three issues.

We all recognize that a central fire station, as well as one or two sub stations are badly needed; and that there is perhaps not another city our size in the state with such inadequate, crowded, cramped and dilapidated quarters for city offices. Not knocking your town and mine, just facing facts.

Sweetwater is a pretty good town; it's about the size of ours. Let's compare its fire department with ours. We have three paid firemen. We have one fire station. We have two pieces of usable equipment and the fire station cannot accommodate any more.

Sweetwater has five pieces of fire-fighting equipment; a chief's car with chemical tank and hose, four pumps including two of 500-gallon capacity, one of 600 gallon variety and a 700-gallon-per-minute pump with 135 feet of ladders. Hose carried on the four totals 4,750 feet. Sweetwater has five regular men and 18 volunteers, so that five men live on duty 24 hours in the day, four volunteers sleeping at night in the central station and the others subject to call. The volunteer fire company receives an annual appropriation of $2,500.

Our neighbor has two fire stations, a central and a suburban station, with one piece of apparatus in the latter. The Sweetwater city charter provides for levying a 20-cent tax and the department works on its own budget. The key rate there has been lowered for the past three years.

We learn that 90 per cent of all taxes levied by the city of Big Spring have been paid, according to the 1929 rolls. Total property valuations for tax purposes for 1929 were $6,442,442, with a total rate of $1.30 calling for payment of a total of $83,753.26.

Examination of the rolls discloses 60 farms and individuals own $2,372,334, or about one-third of the property and that the highest done farms and individuals own property rendered at a total of $967,347.

HILLSBORO MAN HELD FOR DEATH

Trails Wife And Sends Bullets Into Body Of Farmer

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 8. (AP)—A. L. Gilmore, 46, Hillsboro, Tex., church sexton, was held in jail on a charge of murder tonight following the fatal shooting of Joe Warren, 50, a farmer of the Hillsboro community, in an apartment house here early this morning.

Charges against Gilmore will be presented to the grand jury Monday, without an examining trial. Six bullets from a .38 calibre pistol took effect in Warren's body. He died almost instantly, while still seated in a chair he had occupied when Gilmore entered the room.

Both Gilmore and Mrs. Gilmore, who said she came here to stay with her sister, Mrs. G. W. Slocum, at the apartment house, were said to have made signed statements to authorities.

In the alleged statement, Gilmore was quoted as saying he discovered his wife's whereabouts Friday and telephoned her brother, L. J. McGuire, at Fort Worth. McGuire drove to Hillsboro, according to the statement, picked up Gilmore, and they drove to the rooming house where the shooting occurred.

Ater, who has been engaged successfully in the restaurant business here for the past six years announced Saturday he had purchased the Douglass Coffee Shop, one of the city's most popular eating places, from J. E. Harris and that he had closed the Bankhead Cafe, directly across East Third street.

He said it was one of the best equipped cafes in West Texas, with machinery which sends every dish to the table thoroughly sterilized.

Independents At House Session On Pending Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Although faced with a statement by Chairman Hawley that they were being heard "only as a matter of courtesy," 300 independent oil producers from the midcontinent area urged the house ways and means committee today to impose a tariff of $1 a barrel on crude petroleum.

Led by Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America, the oil men warned that some protection must be granted or they would be "exterminated." Franklin explained that the tariff was not being advanced as a "panacea for all the ills of the industry," but as a necessary adjunct to the oil conservation policy initiated by President Hoover.

This policy has been adhered to by domestic producers, he added, but the importers have "not kept faith" and were steadily increasing their importations and causing depression throughout the industry.

"We have proved we can curtail production, but the imports must also be cut down if the industry is to live," he said.

Hawley Heard

Chairman Hawley opened the session with the explanation that the committee had no intention of reporting on the Hastings bill which would provide a duty of $1 on crude petroleum, but would use the testimony in conference on the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill, if the senate should amend it and remove petroleum from the free list. At the conclusion of the hearing, he announced the committee would hold an executive session on the measure Monday.

LaFOLLETTE CHIDES OLD GUARD SAYING HOOVER HAS FAILED TO REMEDY UNEMPLOYMENT

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The drive of the Democrats and Republicans to slash existing industrial tariffs fired the Republican Old Guard to renewed opposition in the senate today and brought on a general flare-up over business conditions and the administration's policy regarding unemployment.

Senator Goff, Republican, West Virginia, resumed the attack on the coalition's rate-cutting program by asserting no justification existed for reducing industrial levies where the producers were not heard. He contended such action would hurt business at a time when many persons already were out of work.

HES TYLER ARRESTED BY SHERIFF

Mob Violence Feared In Hall County Capital

A quiet "man hunt" that started Thursday night, Jan. 30, when Bryant Nall was shot through the abdomen in his place of business near Memphis, Texas, and which was intensified last Thursday when the gun-shot victim died, ended in Coahoma Saturday when Sheriff Jess Slaughter of Howard arrested a man giving the name of Hes Tyler.

When notified of the capture, Sheriff G. C. Baskerville of Hall county informed Sheriff Slaughter that mob violence is feared if Tyler is returned to Memphis immediately and asked Howard county officers to hold the prisoner in Big Spring for the present time. Sheriff Baskerville said the feeling in Memphis is bitter against the man suspected of the crime and that return of Tyler with citizens in the present frames of mind would precipitate trouble.

Fatally Wounded

Bryant Nall, manager of a general merchandise establishment, a filling station and gin in the Ely community seven miles southwest of Memphis, was shot Thursday night, about 10:45, Jan. 30 when he offered resistance to a supposed hijacker. When Nall was shot he fell to the floor as if dead and the bandit fled. Nall then grabbed the pistol dropped by his assailant and fired after the fleeing car. The automobile in which the bandit started his flight was abandoned approximately 300 to 400 yards from the scene of the shooting, according to the story told The Herald by Sheriff Baskerville over long distance.

HOUSE OKS CHANGE IN PRO WORK

Justice Department May Have Full Control Of Enforcement

By CECIL DICKSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The first of President Hoover's proposals to bolster dry law enforcement, by placing the responsibility with the attorney general was sent to the senate today by the house. The house passed the Williamson bill to transfer the prohibition bureau from the treasury to the justice department, and Senator Wheeler, democrat, Montana, prepared a resolution to call for an investigation of the enforcement service.

The Montanan proposes to have the senate judiciary committee inquire into the situation when it begins consideration of the transfer bill. He desires to determine whether "an honest effort" has been made for enforcement. If the dry law cannot be enforced, he said, it should be repealed.

Little Opposition

There was no substantial opposition to the transfer in the house. Unsuccessful efforts were made by wets and drys of both parties, however, to change several important provisions sponsored by President Hoover.

11-1 KNOT HOLDS; NINE FOR DEATH

Foreman Cause Of Mistrial; Seek Venue Change

COURT ROOM, AUSTIN, Feb. 8. (AP)—A jury, which in almost four days and nights, was unable to agree on a verdict in John W. Brady's murder trial, was discharged and turned wearily homeward late today while Brady walked back to his cell to await another trial.

The jurors stood 11 to 1 for conviction and it was through the one, Foreman J. R. Keltner, that a mistrial was declared.

"I did everything I could to get together with them," Keltner said, "but I could not give up my convictions. My conscience is clear."

Called Down

When the jury was called down just before noon to be questioned concerning its request to be released, Judge J. D. Moore directed Keltner to tell him the numerical standing only.

"We stand 11 to 1 for conviction," he answered.

Judge Moore did not hear the last two words, he said later, and when Dayton Moses, member of the defense staff, called it to his attention and filed a motion for a mistrial on that basis, the judge had the jurors brought down again explained that he did not believe it would be proper for them to continue with the case, and sent them away. Moses, meanwhile, withdrew his motion.

District Attorney Henry Brooks, who headed the prosecution of the 59-year-old former civil appeals court judge, submitted a request to be acted on Monday, that the case be transferred to Georgetown.

How They Stood

Nine men stood for the death penalty, two for a life sentence and Keltner for acquittal, Juror Paul Hoglund said.

When the judge asked him: "Is it agreeable to the defendant if the jury is discharged?" he replied "Yes."

As the last act of his trial was completed, a newspaperman wanted to know if he had a statement to make.

"No, in all courtesy, I have none," and he was gone to his jail, his wife and his usual escort of deputies with him.

WARD GETS PRODUCER
IN ROBERTS

Well Pumps 816 Bbls.
During Initial Test
From Deep Horizon

Completion of a first class producing well by Ward Oil Company in the old Roberts pool of southern Howard county, which admittedly indicates the field is far from a dead issue in development history of this section, divided interest of the oil men in this locality with a half-dozen other events effecting various pools and areas of Howard and Glascock counties during the past week.

Ward Oil Company's No. 20 Dora
Roberts, 1,770 feet from the south line and 2,190 feet from the west line of section 137, block 29, W & N W Ry. Co. survey, is the important producer developed during the past week in the old field of southern Howard county. Pay was topped at 2,987 feet after five and three-sixteenths inch casing was set at 2,964 feet. The well was drilled to a total depth of 3,000 feet and there produced 816 barrels of oil initially but rated a production potential of 1,644 barrels. The producer is considered good for the area that has been drained for more than two years by constant pumping.

Important Well

Of possibly more for reaching importance to the oil industry of this section was completion of Schermerhorn Oil Company's No. 2 Kish, Runney and Abrahams which linked the western extension field of Howard county with the Coffee-Phillips field of Glascock county and which pumped 60 barrels of oil per hour for 13 hours before operators were forced to shut down and erect additional storage. Pay was topped at 2,117 feet in No. 2 Kish and continued at frequent intervals to a total depth of 2,539 feet. It a three hour swabbing test before the well was placed on the pump, 432 barrels was produced.

Glascock Brothers' No. 1 Edwards, 1,650 feet from the east line and 330 feet from the south line of section 18, block 33, township 2 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey, and three miles west of the Coffee-Phillips pool, proved the most disappointing individual well of the week when sulphur water was encountered at 2,411 to 2,499 feet and operators started plugging back to an upper pay. It will be remembered that Glascock Brothers' No. 1 Edwards produced at the average daily rate of 100 barrels from a pay topped at 2,277 feet and drilled to 2,299 feet, but operators decided to continue the test with he above results. A first sulphur water horizon was encountered at 2,375 and continued to 2,432 feet.

F. H. E. Oil Company, one of the pioneer organizations in drilling Howard county oil property and which sold out its holdings for an impressive figure, has reentered the territory and is now moving materials to a location on the Cox ranch, one mile north of Glascock Brothers' No. 1 Edwards. F. H. E. Oil Company's No. 1 Cox is located 330 feet from the south line and 2,310 feet from the west line of section
8, block 33, township 2 south, T&P
Ry. Co. survey and when started will become an even more important well than No. 1 Edwards has proven.

Disappointment

Another disappointment was registered during the past week in World Oil Company's No. C-2 Mc-Dowell, 1,650 feet from the north line and 2,310 feet from the north line of section 21, block 34, township 3 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey, which is the second well drilled in the old original World pool of northern Glascock county that has even indicated commercial production.
No. C-2 McDowell topped the regular pay at 2,435 feet and after drilling to a total depth of 2,450 feet, the well produced 82.5 barrels of oil during the first 19-hour pumping test and then settled down to the average rate of three barrels hourly after the head had been pumped off. One report reaching Big Spring stated production from No. C-1 Mc-Dowell, the original producer, dropped from 75 barrels daily to 40 barrels daily when No. C-2 was placed on the pump while another report stated production dropped from 45 barrels to 27 barrels daily in the same well. Regardless of which report is true, it is evident that the pool in that particular section of Glascock county will never be exceedingly productive or extensive.

T. & P. Asks Bids
On Trinity Bridge

Request has been made for bids on steel work on the new bridge to be built across the Trinity River here by the Texas & Pacific Railway. E. F. Mitchell, chief engineer for the road, announced Thursday.
Contract for concrete work on the structure was let a few days ago.
The bridge, to be 2,000 feet long, will cost about $900,000. It will be built beside the present crossing and will be constructed of steel, resting on concrete piers.

Glider Launched From Flying Dirigible

These pictures prove, according to naval aeronautical experts, that the motorless glider can play an important part in safe operation of huge dirigibles. In the aerial view above you see how a tiny glider, piloted by Lieut. Ralph S. Barnaby, was launched from the Los Angeles high above the air station at Lakehurst, N. J. The arrows show how he dived almost vertically after releasing the craft from its fastenings under the hull of the dirigible. Twelve minutes later, as pictured below, he landed safely on the field.

Continental Has Two Wells Standing In Lime Top

Continental Oil Company which has two wells on the Overton tract between the Henshaw or Settles pool and the western extension field of southern Howard county marked time during the week and left both wells standing with eight and one-quarter inch casing cemented in lime while drilling crews continued work of standardizing to continue into expected pay.

Continental's No. 2 Overton, 1-650 feet from the north line and 2,310 feet from the east line of section 5, block 32, township 2 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey, was rigging up cable tools after cementing pipe at 2,148 feet.

Continental's No. 3 Overton 990
feet from the north line and 330 feet from the east line of section 5, block 32, township 2 south, T&P Ry.
Co. survey, set and cemented casing at 2,055 feet and shut down to shift from rotary equipment to standard tools.

One new well in the Coffee-Phillips pool in northern Glascock county indicated commercial production during the week and another was given an official production test. Simms Oil Company's No.

2 Coffee, 1,650 feet from the north line and 330 feet from the east line of section 22, block 33, township 2 south, T&P Ry. Co. survey, and west offset to Kirby et al's No. 3 Baker, topped pay at 2,175-85 feet and was last reported drilling at a total depth of 2,215 feet in line with 500 feet of oil standing in the hole. An increase will probably be encountered immediately below the last reported total depth if the well checks favorably with its offset.

Kirby et al's No. 3 Baker, 1,350 feet from the north line and 1,650
feet from the west line of section
23, block 33, township 2 south, T&P
Ry. Co. survey, topped pay at 2-164 feet to 2,174 feet, encountered an increase at 2,245-56 feet and completed the well at a total depth of 2,275 feet. The well officially pumped 621 barrels of oil in 19 hours, slow motion.

Other completions or semi-completions reported during the week included the following:

Amerada Petroleum Corporation's No. 14 Dora Roberts, 350 feet from the north line and 1,155 feet from the east line of section 137, block 29, W & N W Ry. Co. survey which topped pay at 2,432 feet and drilled to a total depth of 2,535 feet.
After a 170 quart shot in pay from 2,432 feet to 2,500 feet, 700 feet of oil was standing in the hole and operators were cleaning out the test preparatory to pumping.

Ward Oil Company's No. 21 Dora
Roberts, 2,310 feet from the south line and 990 feet from the west line of section 137, block 29 W & N W Ry. Co. survey which topped pay at 2,520 feet to 2,575 feet, and then drilled to a total depth of 2,575 feet before shooting with 200 quarts from 2,520-75 feet. At last reports 600 feet of fluid was standing in the hole of which a part was reported to be water.

American Maracibo staked a new location in the older section of Howard county. The well is D-2 W.
R. Settles, 2,310 feet from the west line and 330 feet from the south line of section 135, block 29, W &
N W Ry. Co. survey.

SPORTS ON PARADE

By STANLEY NORMAN

MISSED VOTE

We had to rush off from the rural school basketball tournament and see about a slaying or two and so consequently did not get a chance to vote on the all-county teams as printed elsewhere on this page. However, we believe our selections would just about jibe with those officially made excepting one position. Had we cast a ballot, we would have voted for Hopper, Coahoma, at center and Neel, Coahoma, as the forward running mate for Ledbetter of Lomax. Neither the first or second team centers selected by the judges were particularly impressive.

SOME CREW

With such a scoring combination as Neel, Ledbetter, Hopper and W. Wood, a club composed of those men and M. Richards at the other guard, could deal plenty of misery to all comers. Hopper, of course would lose some of his effectiveness under the basket against a club with a couple of lengthy guards, but when the big Coahoma forward had the advantage of reach and height, he was downright poison to the opposition. Neel and Ledbetter lack the physical qualifications of Hopper, but they are more accurate on shots from the foul circle and are better floor men.

HEAVY WEEK

The Steers have a heavy week coming with two games Monday and Tuesday nights with Lamesa and Coahoma, respectively, and the district tourney Friday and Saturday nights, providing Coahoma does not slip up on the blind side and kick the Steers' sitting quarters. Lamesa has thumped the Big Spring crew in a game played in Dawson county and the sting of defeat is smarting the Steers' hides.

PLEA URGENT

The plea for rooms in which to house visiting basketball players during the district tournament next Friday and Saturday is growing urgent. Large rooms, small rooms, bath rooms, dining rooms, breakfast rooms, servants' rooms, just about anything will do, but volunteers must rush things up a bit and file their names with the Chamber of Commerce or with W. C. Blankenship, superintendent of schools. Let's put Big Spring over with our visitors so strong and so convincingly next Friday and Saturday that coaches and players from all six surrounding counties will want to return here for future district tournaments.

SMALL FEE

Admission prices for district tournament games were left to the discretion of school officials in host cities. Big Spring's school authorities have adopted a set of prices that will appeal to the general public. The basis will be 25 cents per game up to the championship struggle next Saturday night. For example, 50 cents will be charged any afternoon or morning in which two games are to be played, and 25 cents will be charged any afternoon or morning during the tournament, excepting the championship struggle, in which only one game is to be played.

OUR OBLIGATION

School officials of Big Spring invited the western half of District No. 8 to play in this city. With the invitation went the obligation of paying visitors' expenses while in the city. If Big Spring citizens answer the plea for rooms, the expenses will consist of meals only, but anyone familiar with boys and especially with a band of maniacs whetting their appetites on two or three fast games of basketball, realize just how heavy the board bill may become. Not only is it necessary for Big Spring to house its visitors, but it's necessary for us to turn out for the games. Fans will see the cream of basketball teams from seven counties and some snappy brands of cage sport are bound to result.

LET'S GO

Let's all get to work on this basketball tournament and put the thing over with a bang. It's not often we have an opportunity to show off before select company, so let's not pass up the opportunity we'll have next Friday and Saturday.

C. Of C. Committee Meetings Scheduled

Meetings of standing committees of the Chamber of Commerce scheduled for Monday include the following: Agriculture committee, with manager of the Snowflake Creameries, 2 p. m. Joint meeting of membership and publicity committees, 4:15 p. m., Monday.

A special committee composed of Meadames L. L. Freeman, W. R. Doughlas, Homer McNew, Calvin Boykin, R. J. Michael and Ira Driver will meet at 1:30 p. m. to make plans for entertaining visiting players and school officials to the sectional interscholastic league basketball tournament to be held at Big Spring high school next Friday and Saturday.

PARDUE AND BELL SHINE FOR LOSERS

Jack Smith Rings The Hoop For Mayhew's Men At Rapid Pace

ABILENE, Feb. 8.—The Big Spring Steers, favorites in district No. 8, until a host of recent setbacks dimmed their brilliance, proved easy prey for the rapidly improving Abilene Eagles here tonight. The Howard county delegation dropped a 27 to 10 count that was probably a more severe drubbing than the score indicates.

Buster Bell, forward and Elmer Pardue, center, were the only Steers that proved dangerous at any stage of the contest. However, Jack Smith's left handed hooks more than offset the combined work of Pardue and Bell. Tommy Hutto, elongated forward on the Big Spring quintet, failed to connect for a single point, which is truly an unusual record for the sharpshooter.

Mayhew's charges had little difficulty in working the ball through the Steer defense for close shots at the basket while the Stevens coached five from Big Spring attempted most of its shots from distant corners of the court. The Steer offense broke slowly and the men had difficulty picking the proper target for their passes.

train connections, the new line provides expedited service to and from New York, Boston, Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Houston, San Antonio, Shreveport, Little Rock, Memphis, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Omaha, Detroit, and numerous other important cities.

Details of operation plans were announced in a telegram to Grima from James F. Hamilton, president of The American Airways, Inc. Fokker F-10 tri-motored monoplanes will operate all the way from Dallas to Cleveland. At Tulsa, Oklahoma, the line will split, one plane going to Chicago via Kansas City, and another going to the Illinois point via St. Louis. At Chicago the lines will converge and continue to Cleveland over a single route.

American Airways, Inc. is a newly formed organization, which has taken over all the air transportation activities of the subsidiaries and will continue to operate, in addition to the through line, lines operated by the various subsidiaries before the formation of the new operating company. Local services operated by the Universal division from Kansas City to Tulsa via Wichita, Kansas, and by the southern division from Tulsa to Houston via Oklahoma City, Wichita Falls, Ft. Worth, Dallas and Waco, will not be affected by the inauguration of the new line.

All passenger lines formerly operated by the Southern Air Transport, including the line from Dallas and Ft. Worth to El Paso, are now a part of the one system operated by The American Airways, Inc.

Other companies whose air transport activities were taken over by the new company were Universal Aviation Corporation, Colonial Airways Corporation and Interstate Airlines, Inc., all subsidiaries of The Aviation Corporation.

Under the new company the largest airline system in the United States is divided into three large divisions: Universal Division with headquarters in St. Louis; Southern Division with headquarters in Ft. Worth and Colonial Division with headquarters in New York. The Universal and Southern Divisions will operate the through air line from Dallas to Cleveland.

BIG SPRING FINISHES THIRD IN LAMESA BASKETBALL MEET

Second String Steers Bring Home Team Trophy For Advancing To Semi-Final Match Among 22 Schools Entered In Tourney

LAMESA, Feb. 8.—After winning three consecutive games in the invitational tournament staged here this week-end, the Big Spring quintet, composed of second string men, bowed to Lamesa's eagles by a 19 to 7 count, but despite the loss, finished third among 22 schools.

Meadow, a school from the far western limits of Texas, won the invitational tournament, defeating Lamesa in the final game Saturday night 26 to 18. Meadow has captured one other tournament this season and its showing in the early round stamped it as a contender from the start.

By virtue of finishing third among 22 competing teams, Big Spring left for home in possession of a metal trophy picturing a silver athlete holding a basketball. The championship club received a team trophy and individual gold basketball. Lamesa received a team trophy and individual silver basketball for finishing second. Coahoma, member of the McCarty school team, was voted the most valuable man. Woody, a Dawson county rural school, was awarded the consolation trophy.

Big Spring played its first game Friday night and defeated T-Bar. The second victim was Hancock and Liberty fell by the wayside due to the Steer second stringers' playing before Lamesa finally toppled the crew in charge of George Brown, assistant coach.

LaFollette

edge that a powerful enough force existed in the senate to lower any industrial rate it saw fit was enough to "grip the country with uncertainty." He held that lowering of existing duties would disturb business, while to raise them would cause to alarm to industries. The fact that a certain industry is prosperous is no reason why the duty on its product should be reduced, he said.

Upward revision, it was argued by Senators Borah, republican independent, Idaho, and Glass, democrat, Virginia, always had a serious effect upon consumers who were bound to be disturbed until they knew the full extent of the rate changes.

Senator Barkley, democrat, Kentucky, insisted the democrats were not proposing anything that would hurt business. All rate reductions offered thus far, he said, had been of chemical products, the imports of which had been practically nil. LaFollette asserted no steps had been taken by the administration to obtain adequate statistics on unemployment. He was not surprised at Goff's arguments, he said, because the West Virginian was one of those "reactionary republicans" who regarded the "interests of property superior to the interests of humanity."

FOR COMPTROLLER

WICHITA FALLS, Tex., Feb. 8 (AP)—Guy C. Raley, Wichita county tax collector for nearly eight years, said today he expected to make formal announcement as a candidate for the democratic nomination for state comptroller soon.

Raley said he would confer with officials and friends who have known of his aspirations for the office.

GOAL SHOT AFTER TIME WINS GAME

Simmons Cowboys Nose Out Southwestern By Fraction

GEORGETOWN, Tex., Feb. 8 (AP)—A field goal thrown after the timekeeper said time was up, but before the final gun was sounded, put Simmons ahead of Southwestern here tonight in a closely fought basketball game. The final score was Simmons 35; Southwestern 34.

The Southwestern representative at the watch told Referee Shorty Alderson after the throw that he was trying to get the Simmons representative to check with him on the time before the throw, and delayed the gun until he would look. Then the score had been made.

Alderson refused to rule the points out.

It was proposed the two teams play an extra period to prevent a dispute and each was willing. Simmons wanted to start from the 35 to 34 score, and Southwestern from 34 to 33. They could not agree and Coach Lefty Edens of Southwestern said he would appeal to the Texas conference president.

tance telephone Saturday afternoon.

Before Nall died Thursday morning at 5 o'clock, Feb. 6, he named Hes Tyler, who was known to the victim, as the man who did the shooting. A rescription of the hunted man was broadcast to sheriffs throughout the state, but until Sheriff Slaughter made the arrest no trace of Tyler had been found.

Tyler was removed from his Howard county jail cell Saturday night and grilled by officers, but staunchly denied any knowledge of the crime. He admitted he had been in Memphis, and told questioners that he had left that city at 11 o'clock one morning late in January, but could not recall the exact day. After leaving Memphis Tyler went direct to Wichita Falls and Dallas, and then worked west landing in Coahoma just 40 minutes before he was arrested by Sheriff Slaughter, according to his story. Tyler said he was reared near Denton and that he had been in several scrapes there. He admitted serving sentences in jail for theft of an automobile casing and for misdemeanors.

No Effect

The suggestion that a frank, open statement often impressed a jury when considering punishment had no effect whatever on Tyler. He was strictly non-committal. Tyler went to Memphis about four or five months ago with a carnival, he said. He has an uncle living in Memphis and left the show at that place. Until about six or seven weeks ago he was employed in a cotton oil mill and as a stock hand feeding cattle for the mill interest, he added.

Tyler is a young man, about 24 years old, he told officers. His mother died when he was seven years old and his father has been dead several years. He is about five feet eight or nine inches in height and weighs 140 or 145 pounds.

Rewards totaling $600 or $700 have been posted in Memphis for the capture of Hes Tyler. Bryant Nall's father, who has been living in the "Elly" community for years, posted $500 and the Farmers Union Gin Company by which young Nall was employed when the shooting occurred, has posted $100. A private subscription reward for Tyler's capture had been started, but its proportions were unknown to Sheriff Baskerville.

Longhorns Rally To Defeat Frogs After Bad First Period

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 8 (AP)—After being soundly outplayed in the opening period, the Texas University dribblers came back strong in the second half to take a 35-21 verdict from T. C. U. on the Horned Frogs court Saturday night. The Purple made an impressive showing in chalking up an advantage of 18-9 at the intermission, but the Longhorns hit their real stride after resumption of play and flashed a whirlwind attack that bewildered the Frogs.

As a result of the victory, the Orange five stars in the running for the conference championship slightly behind the leaders from Arkansas.

W. B. Sneed Is Candidate For Another Term

W. B. Sneed, county commissioner of precinct No. 4, announced Saturday he will be a candidate for reelection. Mr. Sneed has lived in Howard county 23 years and believes he is thoroughly familiar with the duties of a county commissioner.

Mr. Smith came to Texas 54 years ago and came to Howard county two years after becoming a resident of this state. He stated Saturday that he feels confident his past experience in the administration of county affairs will enable him to more capably fill the position of a commissioner. He is positive that a new comer will be forced to use half or more of his term becoming familiar with the duties and that there is work ahead demanding attention of an experienced man.

"People of Howard county have been good to me, and I have faithfully attempted to be worthy of the trust they have shown. It is needless to say that I am seeking reelection with the firm conviction that I will carry out duties of my office to the best of my ability at all times," said Mr. Sneed.

Arkansas Razorbacks Take Another Game From Oklahomans

HOUSTON, Feb. 8 (AP)—Coach "Pug" Daugherty's Rice Owl basketballers here Saturday night limited the Texas Aggies to five field goals and trounced them, 26 to 17. Captain Zuber and "Red" Thomas played great ball under the basket to figure prominently in the Owls' third straight Southwest conference triumph.

STILLWATER, Okla., Feb. 8 (AP)—The University of Arkansas basketball team repeated its triumph of Friday night over Oklahoma A. & M. college by winning here Saturday night, 30 to 23.

AUSTIN, Tex., Feb. 8 (AP)—In a close basketball game here tonight Howard Payne University defeated St. Edwards University, 44 to 42. The Saints staged a belated rally which fell one point short of knocking the count as the final gun cracked.

Heron, of the Saints, was high point man with 17. Mareček led Howard Payne with 14.

Espinosa Leads Houston Match

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 8 (AP)—Al Espinosa of Chicago here Saturday turned in an artistic exhibition of approaching to tally a total of 130, and led a classy field in the first 36 holes of the Houston open over the tricky Rio Rico Country Club course.

In the morning Espinosa, 1929 runner-up in the national open and P. G. A. tourneys, scored a par 72, but in the afternoon he sailed around in 67, five under par. Espinosa's approach shots for the most part were dead to the pin during the afternoon round, leaving little difficult work for his putter.

Three topnotchers at 143 trailed Espinosa by four strokes. They were Harry Cooper of Buffalo, N. Y., with a 70-73; John Golden, Paterson, N. J., 74-69, and Bobby Cruikshank, 70-78.

Construction started on Flatons' link of Highway No. 109.

LELAND LOSES INDOOR RACES

Two Canadians Win Major Portion Of Millrose Sprints

NEW YORK, Feb. 8 (AP)—Two crack Canadian sprinters finished on two against a star collection of American speedsters, including Jack Elder and Cy Leland, the sprinting halfbacks, in the Millrose A. A. games tonight, but the United States earned its share of international glory, thanks to Fred Velt, former New York University half miler and Paul Rakers of Penn State College.

Velt trimmed Dr. Paul Martin of Switzerland, veteran of three Olympic games, in a thrilling half mile finished and Rakers out sprinted the Polish conqueror of Paavo Nurmi, Stanislaw Petkiewicz, in the two-mile race and out event.

Ray Conger's repeat victory in the Rodman Wanamaker mile shared the spotlight with these amazing and unexpected triumphs as Eddie won the classic Millrose 600 and three world's records were broken. Except for the sprinting setback, the United States turned back Canada's challenge in a series of international events marked by the brilliant of Stella Walsh, hitherto unheralded Cleveland girl in the feminine dashes.

Sprinting honors went to crack Canadians, Leigh Miller and John Fitzpatrick, both of whom beat out Jack Elder, Notre Dame's famous half back, in the 50-yard final. Miller was first in 5 8-10 seconds and Fitzpatrick was second.

Elder, who in a previous heat at 90 yards had taken the measure of Cy Leland of Texas' Christian University's track and football teams in the Texan's first race on a board floor, was noted out by the comparatively unheralded thunderbolts from Canada in a blanket finish. Jimmy Daley of Holy Cross, national and intercollegiate indoor sprint champ, was fourth as the Dominion representatives ran one-two.

In the 90 yard affair Elder got away to a fast start to lead all the way. Leland who came all the way from the Lone Star State to match strides with Knute Rockne's climber, finished five feet behind Elder and failed by inches to beat out Fitzpatrick for the place that would have given him another shot at Elder in the final 50 yards. Leland, Boyle of the University of Pennsylvania, was fourth.

Elder's time of 6 3-10 was the same as Jimmy Daley of Holy Cross college made in winning the other heat.

Oil Men—

Earl Calloway, Adairville, Tex. producer, told the committee that, under a rigid curtailment agreement, Texas was producing 650,000 barrels of oil daily at an average price of $1.03 a barrel, "and if it were not for the distressed condition of the oil industry due to the importation of foreign oil, the value of such production would be worth at least twice its present value."

Other witnesses included Russell Brown, Oklahoma operator; J. Barry King, attorney general of Oklahoma; and J. H. Gardner, Texas geologist and producer.

Jail Men—

"Virtually all of the games produced one or more thrills, but it was the final test between Lomax and Coahoma that held a fair sized gallery breathless during the closing minutes of play as the Hornets strove desperately to overturn the Coahoma crew. At the end of the first quarter Coahoma had pulled far ahead at Lomax, largely through the work of Hopper, who seemed poison under the basket. Ledbetter, Lilly and O. Wood started lifting the hoop occasionally and at the half had counted ten points as against Coahoma's total of 16. Thereafter, it was a dog fight with Lomax trailing by one or two points until McClellan began sneaking behind Lomax's defensive men for short shots that enabled his club to keep just a jump ahead of the fast moving Hornets.

In the rural school championship game played Saturday night, Lomax had fully recovered from the bad case of nerves that helped give Coahoma the earlier victory and stamped a 21 to 12 defeat on Vincent, rated the third best club in the tournament. Ledbetter, probably the best forward in the tournament, scored 23 of his team's points.

BOSTON WOOL
BOSTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The feature in the wool market during the past week has been the general improvement in markets abroad. This has not, however, stimulated much increase in buying here. Trading was a little broader than during the previous week, but sales were moderate in volume.

While there was a gain in progress toward confidence in current wool values as a result of turn abroad, the upward trend of prices has not gone far enough to encourage the anticipation of needs for raw materials.

WOODCARVING GENIUS' WORK Members Review Works Of Texas Poets AT HYPERION CLUB'S EXHIBIT

Another of those distinctive events that have punctuated the long and useful history of The Hyperion Club of Big Spring was the annual art exhibit, held Saturday afternoon with Mrs. Seth Parsons as hostess and leader.

Meeting in the Parsons home on Lancaster street, the members participated in a program that very skillfully combined study of Texas poetry and poets and a Texas whose works in a comparatively neglected type of art are nationally recognized.

Chief of the program's features were exhibits of the work of Peter Mansbendel of Austin, renowned Swiss-American woodcarver. The exhibits were sent here for the occasion with Mr. Mansbendel's compliments through the good offices of his close friend, Jim Schmidt, who is connected with a local tire concern. Mr. Schmidt, a fellow countryman of Mansbendel's is himself a painter of fine ability and an accomplished linguist.

With three interesting pieces which he sent for the club's exhibit Mr. Mansbendel sent his personal album, containing scores of photographs of his products.

Large Panel

One of the objects shown here was a large panel, showing a festoon of fruit and flowers carved out of one piece of white pine three inches thick, fastened on a walnut panel. This piece was designed according to the "Grindling Gibbon" (English) period, which was so extensively used in most castles in England during the time of Sir Christopher Wren, the architect who designed St. Paul's Cathedral in London.

A portrait made for Newman Hall of Cardinal Newman, the man who wrote, "Lad Kindly Light," was another of the exhibits sent by the Austin genius.

The third, a small Spanish Trunk box, carved all around and imitated in the antique finish, contained his personal album and a lecture which he held a year ago. This object shined largely in the interest of the Hyperion members.

Mrs. Shifne Phillips gave the club an interesting report of her recent trip to Austin. She went as honor guest at the state funeral of her great-uncle, Peter Hanborough Bell, fourth governor of Texas, who was reburied in Arlington of Texas state cemetery. Her reports of visits to the Elizabeth Ney museum and other interesting places in the state capital were very enjoyable.

Papers Read

Mrs. V. H. Flewellen read a paper on "The Texas Poetry Society" which reflected careful preparation based on ready knowledge of her subject.

A review of Lexie Dean Robertson's "Red Heels" was the theme of Miss Verbona Barnes.

Mrs. B. Reagan gave an interesting review of Grace Noll Crowell's "White Fire."

Mrs. Parsons brought the club an interesting review of the career of Mr. Mansbendel.

When University of Texas students want a patron saint, they go to Peter Mansbendel; when architects of the South want a difficult frieze or original barge boards for a new home, they go to him; and when particular women of the Southwest want furniture of sure and lovely dignity, they, too, go to him, said Mrs. Parsons. He works in a small studio in the old Swedish Consulate in Austin. His woodcarving has done more than the work of any other single artist to turn the eyes of the country toward Texas, she added.

In Stark Home

H. J. Luther Stark, who plans to build a $250,000 English-style home in Austin in the near future has engaged Mr. Mansbendel to do woodcarving. Now the artist is engaged in doing several pieces for new buildings at Southern Methodist university.

Members attending the meeting were Miss Verbona Barnes, Mesdames J. D. Elles, James T. Brooks, C. W. Cunningham, W. F. Cushing, Albert M. Fisher, Bruce Frazier, Homer McNew, Shine Phillips, Robert T. Piner, V. H. Flewellen, Seth Parsons and B. Reagan.

The Hyperion club's history is unusual in ranks of women's literary organizations of West Texas. Organized in 1908 and affiliated that year with both the state and national Federations of Women's Clubs, it is one of the oldest local federated units in the state.

Charges—

"Expediency"

Petsch said the decision to prefer the charges instead of going further into the accusations was in the interest of "expediency," and that he believed the house could complete the taking of testimony within two days.

The resolution, pending when the house adjourned yesterday, recited 13 charges against Terrell, and 11 against Hatcher. The grievances against the comptroller were based on the auditor's statement that $60,000 in funds in the comptroller's office had not been "satisfactorily accounted for." Hatcher was accused of "inefficiency and incompetency."

"The embarrassing part of it, there is some question if the allegations against Hatcher are sufficient to warrant filing of impeachment charges, but we cannot very well bring them against Terrell based on information in the auditor's report, without including the treasurer," Petsch said.

Comptroller Terrell was not available for a statement. He was not in his office in the capitol, but was in conference downtown, his secretary said. Hatcher declared that he would welcome "an inquiry and demanded a full hearing."

As To Resolution

There was sentiment favorable to Petsch's original move—referring the auditor's complaints to a legislative committee for investigation and recommendations to the house.

Representative Stevenson, a member of the committee that investigated charges against the late Commissioner J. T. Robinson of the general land office, said he believed such procedure would be a waste of the people's money. The house failed to vote impeachment charges against Robinson.

"In the Robinson case, our committee worked many weeks and spent much state money and then when we filed our report before the house, that body demanded to hear the same testimony we had heard, and the same ground was gone over twice," Stevenson said. Personally, I believe we ought to base the charges on the auditor's report without hearing testimony, unless Mr. Terrell and Mr. Hatcher desire to produce some, and then vote whether to prefer impeachment charges or not."

Midway School Bonds Approved

Canvass of the Midway school bond issue in the sum of $15,000 has been approved by state officials and returned to Pauline Cantrell, county superintendent, for administration, according to information received Saturday.

The Midway school district trustees and Miss Cantrell have not definitely adopted plans, or set a date on which bids for construction of the building will be opened. However, details of the improvement program are now being studied and will be ready for release to prospective contractors within the next few days, Miss Cantrell said.

The committee amendment to authorize the attorney general and the secretary of the treasury jointly to regulate industrial alcohol permits was attacked from two quarters. A wet and dry combine led by Representative Cacus, democrat, South Carolina, a dry, sought to amend the measure to compel the attorney general to prescribe regulations under which the secretary of the treasury was to operate in order to secure closer supervision.

Another group led by Representative Cochran, democrat, Missouri, and Clancy, republican, Michigan, sought to keep the authority under the secretary of the treasury for the benefit of permittees who have protested the dual responsibility.

Amendment
Another amendment written into the measure by a wet and dry group in the expenditures committee, to compel the attorney general to disallow all prohibition employees who have violated the Volstead law, was retained after bitter debate.

The house accepted a committee amendment to place all employees in the bureau under the committee provision of the civil service law except the assistant director and such attorneys as may be needed.

If rejected, however, an amendment proposed by Representative Clancy to prevent the attorney general from investigating the permits for industrial alcohol withdrawals granted by the secretary of the treasury.

Wauclle is going to be a musician. Her mother desires that and the child takes to music like a duck to water. So there seems to be little help for it.

Wauclle's picture, on first glance, would suggest just that much. She is handling the playing in her hand with the nonchalant grace a musician handles his beloved instrument.

OLD STYLE VALENTINES MODERNIZED TO SUIT 1930 EDITION OF LOVERS

Varieties of 1930 valentines.

By Central Press.

NEW YORK—Where are the lace-paper valentines of yesterday? ask Grandmama as February 14 approaches. The answer is: "They're back again." At least they are reminiscent of the type.

These new versions of the valentines so popular in the days of the mauve decade retain many of the characteristics of their forebears of the gay nineties and earlier.

Shades of soft rose and lavender are favored, edged with occasional borderings of silver, as a background over which is laid white lace-paper in the approved "dolly" effect to frame a center design of a quaint old-fashioned nosegay or a demure maid in hoopskirts, either alone or cavalcaded by an attentive avain.

The current vogue for antiques finds still another manifestation in this year's valentines in the marked popularity of the simpler designs. These designs, reproduced in the familiar cross-stitch effect, are many of them sufficiently elaborate and decorative to justify framing. In fact, with a canny eye to just such an after-use, they usually come in booklet form, with the verse, also in cross-stitch lettering, on the inside page so that it can be cut off if the valentine is to be framed. Or they may convey their sentimental greetings on the face of the card as an integral part of the design, in line with the real sampler motifs.

Frank Sentiments
The Godey prints provide the antecedents for some of this season's newest and most original valentines. These are for the most part humorous in tone, and one, which is typical in manner, chides an ornately garbed dame in the voluminously billowing skirts of the Victorian era, with the incongruous verse:

"Your chatter is so endless,
So silly at its best,
That I often go to the talkies
Just to give myself a rest."

This notable revival of valentine misfires in the style of the crinolines days, however, finds the spirit of modernism undimmed. And to prove it, there are, for one thing, the animal cards. In previous years there have been occasional puppies and kittens on the semi-humorous valentines. This year, to a surprising extent, St. Valentine has turned animalophile. All kinds of animals appear, with the wording of the verse deftly adapted to the animal shown. For instance, a woolly lamb scoffs: "Forget You? Ba-a-ah!" An elephant being "very strong," brings "tons of love." A giraffe makes an offer of "If this giraffe should make you laugh, will you be my valentine?"

Another parodies a familiar sentiment and promises:

"Until cats bark
Until dogs mew,
I will keep on Loving you!"

The bantering camaraderie of modern youth sets the style for an increasing number of valentines expressive of a spirit of peppy fun without being keyed to the traditional comic valentine tone by any note of unfavorable criticism. One typical valentine in this manner bears the announcement from a pet miss to her boy friend that "I could feel awfully Big-Hearted about you." Another uses the twentieth-century simile: "You may not be a banker, but you hold my interest."

Mrs. and Mrs. Edmund Nostetne left Saturday evening for a week-end visit in El Paso.

Anniversary Program Is Held By South Ward P-T. A.

Featuring observance of the anniversary of the National Parent-Teacher movement, the South Ward P-T. A. held an interesting meeting Thursday afternoon with President Mrs. W. R. Douglass in the chair.

Opening prayer was offered by Mrs. J. C. Douglass. The program was in charge of Mrs. Beard of the teaching staff. Mrs. Keller read a paper on the "History of the Congress of Mothers." A large cake, the birthday cake of P-T. A. was lighted by four children. Mrs. Beard led in a prayer for success of the organization, which was following by a song joined in by the more than 50 members attending.

A report was made on work being done with funds derived from local sales of Christmas Seals, whereby under-weight children are being given milk at recess time each morning. Three hundred children, it was reported, had taken the Pledge of the Band of Mercy.

The organization voted to cooperate in the forthcoming Clean-Up Paint-Up Campaign and appointed a committee of nine to represent it.

A flag will be furnished each room, it was decided. During the meeting an offering was taken for extension work of the national organization, an anniversary custom.

Victor McLaglen In "Hot For Paris" Opens At Ritz Theatre

"Captain Flag" Adds Another To Film Sensations

The wide world has been a checker board in the adventurous career of Victor McLaglen—Farm Hand, Fighter, Life Guard, Wrestler, Gold Miner, Soldier and Medicine Show Man—who has brought to his film portrayals the reality that only actual experience can give. In "Hot For Paris," Fox Movietone laughing, all talking picture now playing at the Ritz, "Vic" has a rugged, riotous role as first mate of a wind-jammer plying between Australia and France. With El Brendel as a buddy, McLaglen sets out for a hot time in Pares, where he loses his heart to a piquant French enchantress, portrayed by Fifi Dorsay.

Londoner
Born in London, McLaglen spent his boyhood in South Africa where his father was a bishop. Victor, then fourteen, wanted to join the army but his family prevented him from fulfilling this intention. His kaleidoscopic series of adventures began in earnest when he fled to London and became a member of the Life Guards. Wanderlust next sent the youngster to Canada where pitching hay and milking cows, exchanging blows in the prize ring, medicine shows, mining silver and wrestling all came in his vaudeville constituted a life that most men would rate as colorful, but McLaglen pulled up stakes and started south.

Hawaii, the Fiji Islands, Tahiti and Australia contributed their quota of excitement. Ceylon and Bombay beckoned and he was on his way. Then came the war; as a lieutenant in the Royal Fusiliers, McLaglen was sent to Mesopotamia. After facing Turks and Arabs he received a Captaincy. Later he was made provost marshal of Baghdad.

Back to England after the world war, his next move was as an actor in "The Glorious Adventure." His success in this picture led him to Hollywood where he appeared in many Fox Films, and finally won fame for his characterizations of "Flag" in "What Price Glory" and "The Cock Eyed World." Now he wanders only on the screen.

In "Hot For Paris," which was written and directed by Raoul Walsh, McLaglen is featured with Fifi Dorsay, El Brendel and Polly Moran. William K. Wells wrote the dialog for the production.

Evelyn Brent In Mystery Picture

"Darkened Rooms," a mystery-romance, starring Evelyn Brent, dynamic actress who, was recently seen in "East Company" and "Woman Trap," will be shown at the Lyric Friday and Saturday.

"Darkened Rooms" is Miss Brent's first starring picture. She was raised to stardom by Paramount because of her ever-increasing popularity and because of her masterful work in every picture in which she has appeared since joining the Hollywood forces of the company.

Among Miss Brent's more prominent successes have been "Love Em and Leave 'Em," "Underworld," "The Last Command," "Interference," "Why Bring That Up?" "East Company" and "Woman Trap." The first three pictures were silent films. The new medium of talking films has opened a new pathway to greater laurels for Miss Brent. She has a gift for reality in her portrayals which makes each type she enacts stand out like a solitary gem.

"Darkened Rooms" is a theme that ties in admirably with Miss Brent's dark beauty. She plays the role of a medium for Neil Hamilton, amateur conductor of mystery seances, whom she later manages to save from this life of falsity by a mystery trick of her own. This play is supercharged with drama, and nicely infiltrated with a charming love story.

Bush Plans To Reorganize 4-H Clubs In County

New clubs will be formed among all schools which will furnish 12 integrated active members for a 4-H club. New clubs will be formed where the greatest amount of enthusiasm is demonstrated, Mr. Bush said.

Norma Shearer's Admirers Afforded New Glimpse Of Beautiful Actress

NORMA SHEARER

There is nothing the movie-going public tires of so readily as seeing its favorite stars in the same type of roles. Consequently producing organizations whose every move is circumscribed by public taste and demand, keep a wary eye on the scenarios presented for the use of their leading players with the avowed purpose of making sure that each one is different from the last.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer gives every indication of having followed this golden rule in its selection of "Their Own Desire" as a vehicle for Norma Shearer's new all-talking picture which will open a two-day program Wednesday at the Ritz Theatre.

"Their Own Desire" was adapted to the screen by Frances Marion from the novel by Sarah Fuller, and was directed under the joint supervision of E. Mason Hopper and James Forbes. The picture gives Miss Shearer an opportunity to give another new characterization to the screen for her role of "Lily" is a far cry from that of the chorus girl of "The Trial of Mary Dugan," or the sophisticated woman of "The Last of Mrs. Cheney."

It was stated by executives of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer company that considerable expense was attached to the making of

Chatterton And Barrymore Star In "Madame X"

A stage play that has probably enthralled more audiences than any drama of modern times is the basis of the latest sensation of the talking screen, "Madame X," which comes Friday and Saturday to the Ritz theatre with Ruth Chatterton, celebrated stage star, as heroine, and directed by a stage celebrity of equal note—Lionel Barrymore. Barrymore, his introduced some thing new in talking screen technique and the result is engrossing entertainment, minus the imperfections of the earlier offerings of the audible screen.

Sarah Bernhardt created the role, in the first performance of the famous drama, in Paris. Today, almost twenty years later, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's talking version, first play to combine perfectly the technique of the silent screen and the lore of the stage, is a greater triumph than the original premiere of the stage drama in Paris.

"Madame X" started its career in the French language, under the title "La Femme X." Bernhardt used it for a season as a starring vehicle, alternating it with "L'Aiglon" and "Camille," and words of its success came across the Atlantic to New York.

In 1910 Henry W. Savage had it translated and brought it to New York, where it made its first appearance at the New Amsterdam Theatre.

ments had to be submerged under water. It is interesting to note that "Their Own Desire" established a record in the filming of exterior scenes, sixty per cent of the picture having been filmed out-of-doors.

WORLD'S FAMOUS ANIMAL, LEO, TRADEMARK LION OF METRO-GOLDWYN-MAYER, COMING HERE

What is no doubt the best known animal in the whole world is on his way to this city to visit the thousands of motion picture fans who have seen him hundreds of times on theatre screens. This animal is Leo, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lion who has become world-known as the trademark of the motion picture company on whose films he appears. Leo will be in front of the Ritz Theatre at 4:30 p. m. Thursday.

Leo has undertaken this unprecedented world tour in response to the demands of his millions of admirers who want to meet him in person. In each city in which he stops he will make a tour of the town in his magnificent motorcade caravan which will terminate before the outstanding motion picture theatre where Leo will perform a few of the antics that he has been called upon to do in his screen career. At the conclusion of an East to West and a West to East tour of the United States Leo will sail for Europe, where millions of motion picture fans are just as anxious to meet him as they are in this country. During his travels which will take him completely around the globe, he will visit Europe, Asia, Africa, Australia and South America.

It is expected that all the interesting and important personalities in the countries visited will pay a personal call on Leo and inspect the highly interesting equipment which comprises Leo's entourage. Kings and Queens, presidents and mayors are as enthusiastic over the prospects of his visit as are the movie fans.

In addition to the fact that Leo is so well known, another note of interest is to be found in the unique motorized caravan which has been especially designed for the purpose of this trip. The particular motor car in which Leo has his cage home is a combination of the most elaborate art and the last word in scientific construction. Its size alone is impressive being twenty-four feet long, 14 feet high and 7 1-2 feet wide.

STUDY CLUB TO MEET

The Big Spring Study club will meet Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock in the Episcopal parish house. Change from the regular meeting day, Tuesday, was made because of the P. T. A. council meeting on that day.

Flyer-Player Is Starred At Lyric In "Journey's End"

Twice severely wounded on the British front in France, gassed and a flyer attached to the Royal Aviation Forces in which service he crashed three times only to suffer a broken nose, Colin Keith-Johnston plays the featured villain's role in Morton Downey's Pathe dialogue and singing production "Journey's End," by Gene Markey, which will be on view at the Lyric theatre on Wednesday-Thursday. Mr. Keith-Johnston's splendid portrayal of the British army officer in "Journey's End," an English stage success which was presented with fluttering results at Henry Miller's theatre in New York for many months prompted Pathe to sign him for the important part of Captain Brian Filzroy in "Journey's End." Mr. Keith-Johnston makes his first appearance in a dialogue picture in this production, but two years ago he supported Fay Compton in "Somehow Good," photoplay, produced in England.

W. M. S. TO MEET

Members of the Women's Missionary society of the Methodist church will meet in the church parlors at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon for Bible study. All ladies are urged to be present.

ALLAMORE—Two cars of cattle shipped recently to Fort Worth market.

BONHAM—Architects employed to prepare plans for courthouse.

Clara Bow Here Monday, Tuesday

Clara Bow is coming to the all-talking screen at the Lyric Monday and Tuesday this time in the role of an ambitious and hard-working shop girl in a play of department store life, "The Saturday Night Kid."

She falls in love with a clerk in the store, James Hall, and dreams of the day when they will be married when a series of upsetting events force her to pose as a "Saturday Night Kid," namely a girl who has a date with a different "guy" on each succeeding Saturday night; in other words, a girl without a steady. But her reputation as a gay philanderer is dispelled later in the plot when the true test of real love comes.

One of the high spots of comedy in this hang-up, along-up laugh-romance is the pageant given by the employees for the Welfare Fund. Clara Bow is cast as Duty in the pageant. James Hall is Every-thing; Jean Arthur is Pleasure; Edna Dunn is Time, the dog; Leon Lane is Late Hours; Jean Harlow is Indolence and William Bow is made up in ghastly fashion to represent Corruption of the Flesh. The pageant, presumably, was written and directed by Edna May Oliver who is forewoman in the Binsberg store and who plays The Spirit of Ginsberg.

Ed S. Hughes of the Webb Motor company, Big Spring dealer for Buick-Marquette automobiles, has been advised that he has qualified, by reason of his ability as salesman, for membership in the newly organized Buick Master Salesmen's Club, according to J. L. Webb.

The Buick Master Salesmen's Club, according to Mr. Webb, was formed by the factory at Flint, Michigan, to "suitably recognize outstanding individual accomplishments." Continuing, he said: "We are glad, indeed, that Mr. Hughes qualified for this club, and congratulate him on this honor. All members of our organization, both used car, as well as new car, salesmen are keenly interested in qualifying, and we expect to shortly attain 100 per cent rank."

Identifying emblems, to be worn by members, will be soon sent to those men who have attained the rank of Buick Master Salesmen, and plans are well under way at the home office of the Buick Motor company to provide suitable awards and certain considerations to outstanding master salesmen.

The Webb Motor company stood high in rank on Buick-Marquette sales for the past five months, based on percentage of business secured in their territory, a comparison with the Dallas zone as a whole, according to information received from the zone office, located in Dallas.

R. H. Rowland is about his duties with the King Chevrolet company after a long illness.

H. L. Bohannon spent Thursday in Sweetwater transacting business.

W. G. Storey of Stanton will be associate dealer with Smith Brothers, Inc., in the distribution of DeSoto cars. Mr. Storey will operate in Stanton and vicinity. This is one of the new arrangements of Smith Brothers, Inc., in their new expansion work.

"A car is known by its radiator," said J. F. Wolcott, local Ford dealer, who is showing new bodies for the Model A Ford here.

"If your memory goes back to the cars of twenty years ago," he continued, "just think for a moment how the different makes of that day are identified in your mind. Isn't it by the radiator chiefly? If I mention any of the well known makes of today, doesn't the same identifying picture flash into your mind?"

Therefore when a car changes its radiator design, the step is one of importance. If it gains beauty and dignity, growth is shown. Gracious New Radiator. That is what has happened in the case of the new bodies for the Model A. Probably the first thing that your eye will take in will be the graceful new radiator design. And I am confident that however conscious you may be of other, perhaps more important improvements, this change will linger in your mind.

"While retaining the Ford individuality, the new radiator will be higher, narrower and designed along trim lines."

"The shell will be a highly polished rustless steel. The top will follow somewhat the lines of the old shell, with narrower lines down each side, which curve into a juncture at the starter opening in the center of the lower section."

"As a whole the contour of the new shell is exceedingly attractive blending beautifully with the new fender lines, a tie rod which arches gracefully across the front, and the head-lamp settings."

The Ford Medallion
"An oval medallion bearing the name 'Ford' in script, done in nickel on a blue enameled background, appears at the top center of the shell."

"In general I want to emphasize that the new bodies will not be mounted on a new model car. Mechanically Model A will remain essentially as it is. But great beauty will be added by the new bodies and colors."

"The Ford Model A will now have, including features it already possesses: new body lines and colors, rustless steel trimmings, sturdy steel construction, a fully enclosed silent six-brake system, four Houdaille hydraulic double-acting shock absorbers, Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, quick acceleration ease of control and 55 to 65 miles an hour, if wanted."

Woman Acquitted Of Slaying Officer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Altha Harbaugh was acquitted by a jury in district court today of a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting of Captain Charles Stevens, prohibition agent, last September.

The jury began deliberation at 4

p. m. yesterday.

Mrs. Harbaugh, with eight others, was indicted following the ambush killing of Captain Stevens, who, with two other prohibition officers, was returning from a raid in Atascosa county. The state contended the Harbaugh woman acted as decoy in stopping the prohibition officers just before the shooting took place.

Joe Hobercht, under indictment on the same charge, will go to trial Monday.

Lynn Stephens, the woman's brother, said to be the head of the rum ring responsible for Stevens' killing is a fugitive in Mexico.

New yet sixteen years old!
GENERAL MOTORS' lowest-priced eight

$1045 superior performance

The development of the New Oakland Eight in reality goes back sixteen years. Several of the engineers responsible for its design participated in the production of General Motors' first eight, in 1914. Their extensive knowledge of eight-cylinder engines has resulted in a car of remarkably sound basic design, as well as one which has many advanced features. Its 85-horsepower engine develops one horsepower for every 37 pounds of car weight. This explains why few cars are as fast—why few, if any, can climb hills so quickly or accelerate so swiftly in traffic. Those who have driven it know how well it merits the description, "the car with superior performance." The New Oakland's power plant is also exceptionally smooth. Its inherent eight-cylinder smoothness has been increased by a complete down-draft fuel system—new type cylinder heads insuring uniform combustion—laminated steel spring and rubber engine mountings. Considering its superior performance, exceptional smoothness and the beauty of its new Fisher bodies, the New Oakland Eight is very moderately priced. Thus many who have wanted to own a fine eight-cylinder automobile will find it a car of unusual appeal. Come in and drive it today.

MRS. BOYLES SAYS CON-

"I haven't had a pain since I began taking Orgatone several weeks ago," says Mrs. J. N. Boyles, residing at 1108 Ave. J, Cisco, Texas, the other day.

"I had a bad case of indigestion and stomach trouble that had worried me for the past several years," continued Mrs. Boyles, "and my nerves too, were in a mighty bad state. I had no appetite, and after eating anything my food would ferment in my stomach and cause gas to rise, and the pain was awful to bear—something like cramp colic and I got to be weak and nervous about my case, and I was badly constipated and could hardly take interest in my housework or look after it with any satisfaction.

"But it's quite different now. I took my first bottle of Orgatone several weeks ago and I got much relief from it. I kept on taking the medicine and my condition has improved so much I don't have the gas and swelling at my stomach like I did before, my nerves are much quieter and the constipation is overcome, and I am feeling stronger and more fit to look after things about the house than I was before I began using it."

Rum Runners Use Woman As Shield, Escape Patrolmen

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 8.—Three rum runners, using a woman as a shield, delayed border patrolmen from returning their gunfire long enough today to escape across the Rio Grande into Mexico.

The woman, with a large supply of liquor, was captured, and one of the smugglers wounded.

The skirmish occurred on the outskirts of El Paso. Officers finally managed to drive the smugglers into the Rio Grande where the woman was captured. The patrolmen then opened fire, and one of the men was wounded. His companion dragged him to safety on the Mexican side.

The officers said they believed the men were members of a band of liquor runners.
The woman gave her name as Luz Rodriguez. She was turned over to immigration authorities.

Miss Omega Harrison left Friday night to spend the week-end with her parents in Fort Worth.

NASH
"400"

TWIN-IGNITION MEANS...

SUPERIOR PERFORMANCE!

FOR a year and more motorists have been discovering that Nash Twin-Ignition performance is superior to the ordinary single-ignition type. Now, for 1930, Nash has introduced a new Twin-Ignition Straight Eight so superior to the other straight eights and V eights you will know it instantly—smoother, more vigorous, more delightful to handle, more easeful in riding qualities. Likewise the new Twin-Ignition Six proves by its performance the undisputed superiority of the Twin-Ignition principle. Other interesting new features of these new Nash cars are: built-in, automatic radiator shutters; cable-operated, self-energizing brakes; lifetime lubricated springs with flexible steel spring covers; improved steering design; Bijur centralized chassis lubrication; and Duplate non-shatterable plate glass in all windows, doors and windshields of the Twin-Ignition Eight.

THE BIG SHOT

by FRANK L. PACKARD

SYNOPSIS: It was an ambition to become a novelist that brought Enid to New York but chance acquainted her with Phil Martin, star reporter of the Herald-Star. Martin interested in the pretty girl, Enid, makes Enid his confidante, telling her of his adventure in attempting to capture the "Big Shot" unknown figure who directs wholesale criminal activities of the metropolis. Martin banks on Shive Frank to give him a photograph of the man he suspects. Frank instead gives it to Enid. Within earshot the gangster is assassinated. Enid recognizes the photograph as a likeness of her brother believed killed in the World War. Unbelieving, she determines to find him. Disguised in black she sets out for the Izy Myers' junk shop, supposed rendezvous of the Big Shot's gang.

Chapter 6

THE LAIR

First avenue was very quiet as Enid made her way toward her destination. There were not many pedestrians about, but Enid was twice obliged to pass the unlighted windows and closed front door of Izy Myers' junk shop before the way was clear to explore the lane or driveway, that, flanking one side of the junk shop, obviously led to the rear of the premises. Then, satisfied that there was no longer anyone near enough to observe her movements, she slipped quickly into the lane.

And, then, instinctively, she halted. Here, a few paces in from the street, it was as though she had been suddenly confronted with an impenetrable wall of blackness. She could see nothing, and the blackness was ugly. Her heart was beating furiously. She felt herself she was not very brave. The front of the junk shop was shut and dark.

Disappointed Enid turned toward the rear of the house. It was pitch black. To guide herself, she felt along the wall of the house with one hand. She walked cautiously striving to make no noise.

She came to an abrupt stop. She had reached the end of the wall and had mechanically turned the corner of the house. Someone was here. Her heart began to pound again, but it was with excitement now, not fear. She could see chunks of light from the shuttered windows on the ground floor.

She glanced swiftly around her. It was not so dark here as it had been in the lane. She was in an open space—the yard, of course—the junk yard. Voices reached her, muffled, the words indistinguishable. She drew the automatic from her bag.

Clutching the weapon tightly in her right hand she tiptoed to the window and peered in through the slats where they were out of alignment. There were five men inside there throwing dice against a raised board on a table. That was the rattling and thumping sound she had heard. Crap! Her education and gone that far—thanks, in this particular, to Phil Martin, who had explained the game to her.

The five men were in shirt sleeves, not a pleasant-looking crowd, though most of them were young. One of them had a thin and almost abnormally pasty-white face—a drug addict, she decided.

Her eyes swept around the room—what she could see of it. As a hangout it had the appearance of innocence itself. It was apparently nothing but a storeroom for junk.

There were two doors in the room, one at either end. Both were closed. The one at the lower end opened, of course, on the yard and, patently, the door at the upper end opened into an inner room.

She nodded her head sharply. That was the other room through whose shuttered window she had also seen chunks of light. What was in there?

She moved stealthily along the side of the wall and reached the second window. Her view here was even less obstructed than before. This window also was open. Izy Myers himself? She had never seen him, but there was no mistaking the proprietor of the junk shop in the present surroundings. He was speaking, excitedly, into a telephone that stood on the same-streaked, the poorest desk at which he was seated.

Sure they are! Yes, both of 'em. Oh, he's not right, as worse than usual. What?

Then followed the sharp, sibilant sound of Izy Myers' breath being drawn greedily in through his bearded lips.

Enid stared in through the slats. She inspected the room—Izy Myers probably dignified it by the name of office. It was less littered than the other room, but equally dirty. It possessed two uninviting-looking chairs besides the one in which Izy Myers sat. There was a safe in one corner that had lost most of its paint.

She was studying Izy Myers himself now. In spite of the filth and disorder that were his background, and the dirty, ill-fitting clothes he wore, there was something incongruous about the man, which Enid readily pictured. Izy Myers going about his business as a fawning and obsequious peddler, but there was nothing about him to indicate anything of that sort now. As he sat there at the 'phone he was alert and tense.

There was cunning in his bearded face, but there was something more. Something that she could not quite define unless it were to say that he exuded a sort of ugly efficiency.

He at once replied and interested her. She was conscious of the feeling that he was no ordinary man, and that he and his junk shop camouflaged far more than a mere hangout for a few gangsters.

Neither did she think he was as old as that crooked back, those round, drooping shoulders, that unkempt shock of white hair, and that brown beard flecked with gray made him look.

He was still listening at the 'phone—listening eagerly. And he was smiling now—not mirthfully, but with a sort of oily rapaciousness. What was it about? It must be something of unusual importance. Of course it hadn't been as long as it had seemed, but—

He was suddenly speaking again—nodding his head vigorously at his unseen auditor as though to add emphasis to his words:

"I got you all the way! It's a killing! Sure, they'll both be there? I'll give 'em the dope. Anything else? No. All right! Good luck!"

He replaced the receiver on the hook, got up briskly from the desk, and opened the door connecting with the other room where the crap game was in progress.

"You, there, Skinny, and you, too, Maloch," he called, "cut that out, and come on in here! I want to see you."

Without waiting for a reply, he went back to the desk and sat down.

Held For Murder, Man Hangs Self

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex., Feb. 8 (AP).—Pedro Rendon, charged with slaying customs officer, William D. McCaleb at Alice, Tex., Jan. 7, was dead today. He hanged himself in the jail at Alice yesterday, where he awaited trial. A rope made of strips of the prisoner's blanket was used.

Rendon, who had been picked up by McCaleb and Buck West, a fellow officer, as a suspect, shot McCaleb through the back of the head. He had been placed in the rear seat of the officers' automobile. They neglected to search him. West went into a cafe for a cup of coffee. Hearing a shot, he rushed out to find McCaleb dead, and Rendon fleeing.

Rendon was identified by the sheriff as a fugitive from the Texas state penitentiary.

Investment Bank In Receivership

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 8 (AP).—Awaiting completion of a financial statement, affairs of J. E. Jarrett and Company of San Antonio, one of the largest investment banking houses in the southwest, today were in the hands of a receiver. The concern was capitalized at $1,250,000.

R. J. McMillan of Terrell, Davis, McMillan and Hall was appointed receiver yesterday by United States Judge Duval West upon application of one of the firm's own officers.

Legal action to protect interests of creditors and stockholders alike was prompted by inability of the firm to liquidate frozen assets at a time when financial conditions throughout the United States curtailed the market for its securities and impaired its credit, according to the petition filed and formal affidavits of John E. Jarrett, president, and W. W. West, one of the vice-presidents.

National Education Department Is Favored By School Veteran

A story telling of the value of the department of superintendence of the national educational association has been written for the benefit of school people by a person who has attended the association meetings. The organization was created in 1870 and has continued with increasing benefits and attendance since that time.

The article written by J. E. M. for the journal of the national education association, follows:

"The inspiration to devote my life to education came when I attended my first meeting of the department of superintendence in 1887," recently remarked a noted educator. "I had been working as superintendent in a small town without any real appreciation of importance of the school. At that meeting I met men bigger than any I had known before. Their fineness of spirit and the nobility of their minds were a challenge to my young life and from that day to this the meetings of the department have been my college of education." He then went on to speak of lives that had meant much to him—of the great lover of young men, William T. Harris; of the artist schoolmaster, Randall J. Condon; of the eloquent humanist, William M. Davidson; of the educational engineer administrator, George D. Strayer; and of a host of others. And so it has been with literally tens of thousands of men and women. The speaker went on to remark that he had just paid the first instalment of $50 toward his contribution of $250 toward the research fund which the department has created. "I want to do my bit," said he, "for the other boys who are coming on." Here is the living gospel of inspiration. To its cumulative force American schools owe the idealism and the devotion which has lifted them to a high place in American life and achievement.

Department's Origin
The department began its existence during those significant years following the civil war when the nation was binding up its wounds and laying the foundations for rapid expansion and rise to national greatness. From that day to this the department has met year after year, now in this city, now in that, under the guidance of able presidents, with programs that have drawn upon the finest talent in the nation, with opportunity for fellowship, and the cultivation of that harmony and singleness of outlook which are helping to make American schools the finest and best schools on earth.

Visitors from other lands are often surprised at the notable unity of educational ideals and practices in a vast nation where the control of education is vested in state and local authorities. The reason lies in our all-inclusive national associations and in the free movement of educational workers from one state to another. The best practice is magnified.

Last night I picked up the Proceedings of 1921 and read a speech

CAN'T GET A RED BIRD
By Dorothy Scarborough
(Harper and Bros.)

This is the long and eagerly awaited book. And it turned out to be a very pleasant surprise—at least the first part.

I had rumors of a thinly disguised essay on cotton. Until the hero, Johnny Carr, obtained the "red bird" he wanted to marry it treats cotton as only one of the factors of life, and a rather pleasant factor at times. It is book two, or the last hundred pages of the novel, in which cotton so dominates the story that one loses interest.

Johnny is the hero and cotton is the villain, with Johnny winning out in the long run. We see him as a small boy sacrificed to it; we see him as a young man afraid to propose to the girl he loves because he is a tenant farmer bound to a cotton farm. In the end he, having become a prosperous farmer, enlists his neighbors, finally most of the farmers in the state, in a cooperative association that makes them semi-independent of the curse of cotton.

Tyrannical

It is needless to repeat it; we all ought to understand that cotton is one of the most tyrannical crops in the world, because most cotton farmers plant nothing else. In the years when a crop is plentiful the market is glutted and prices fall; in other years the small production brings small returns, even though the price may be higher than average.

One has the feeling, however, that this book is written not for the cotton farmer, or particularly for Texas, but about the Texas farmer for other people. It details are those which outsiders would want. They are too familiar to Texans; everything is too clear-cut and exact. It is not a mirror in which we see a Texas situation reflected, but a story about ourselves which we are overhearing. If we are interested in this particular situation we cock our ears and get every word; if we are not—and Texas has so many interests—we don't find the situation of itself so compelling that our attention is held in spite of ourselves.

Frankly I wish Miss Scarborough would return to Texas. She feels strongly enough about the situations she puts in her stories but she has acquired also, the interest of the outsider. Sometimes that thrusts itself between her and her work, not to detract from her sympathy but from her skill. A story that would keep us awake all night reading about a plant we have practically grown up "on" would also keep the rest of the world awake....or I am sadly mistaken.

So I wish Miss Scarborough, who as a novelist represents Texas to practically the whole country, would come back here and live. There would then be a "feel" about her books that is in her heart but not yet in her pages.

THE KALEIDOSCOPE

pioneering which the editors of the Kaleidoscope are doing. To the editors themselves, even more than to their contributors I want to pay a tribute. They are doing a fine thing for the Southwest by their encouragement and their criticism. A poem in print is a different thing from a poem which has not achieved print. Some of the poets who see their work in print will learn better, surely, after seeing how their verses appear when the whole world looks on; others will be encouraged to continue on trying.

Of course I can not resist quoting from Grace Gaddis, who belonged for a short while to us. She had in this number a quatrain called "Immunity"

"So long it was I dwelt with Death
In his dark, friendly shade,
That Death and I are comrades now
And I am not afraid."

THE TEXAS MONTHLY

Mr. Molyneux opens the February issue with his own review of "A Vaquero in the Brush Country" which I and all others out here have been so enthusiastic over; maybe some will recall my recent review.

He pays as high a tribute as is in his power to Frank Dobie and assures us that "A Vaquero in the Brush Country" will someday become a classic. I heartily agree with him. The frontpiece is a photograph of Mr. Dobie. His hat hides part of a strong, interesting face. Those of us who know him only by reputation would like to request that he leave his hat at home the next time he goes to the photographers.

Those who pay summer visits to Madero Canyon will enjoy the article on "Phantom Lake Country," "Music in Early Southwest" continues the contributions to the cultural history of Texas concerning which most of us know too little.

Mr. MacIntosh has written his second article on "Better and Straighter Roads." It is a mighty good number.
