

Foreign Insurance Buying To Reduce Taxes Is Revealed

Six New Yorkers Listed By Treasury Official In Testimony Before Congressional Committee

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—A senate-house inquiry committee received testimony today that six New Yorkers bought big insurance policies in a Bahamas company in an effort to reduce income tax payments between 1932 and 1936.

Mason B. Leming, a treasury attorney, testifying at the congressional investigation into tax evasion and avoidance, explained what he termed "the device of foreign insurance companies" for escaping tax payments.

By this method, he said, taxpayers paid single premiums for large policies, then borrowed on the policies and took interest deductions on the loans.

The six New Yorkers were listed by Leming as follows:

Richard E. Dwight, attorney, with a $4,000,000 policy.

Winfield Ayres, a doctor, $400,000 policy.

Henry W. Lowe, insurance broker, $2,500,000 policy.

Lawrence Marx, cotton broker, one $2,500,000 policy in 1934, and another $2,500,000 policy in 1936.

Jacob W. Schwab, cotton broker, one $1,500,000 and one $1,000,000 policy.

George Thoms, attorney, $875,000 policy.

Leming said the policies all were taken out with the Standard Life Insurance Company, Ltd., of the Bahamas.

Tax Bill Reduced

Leming told the committee Dwight reduced his 1932 income taxes by $53,448.45.

Dwight was described by the treasury spokesman, Mason B. Leming, as a member of the New York law firm of Huges, Schurman and Dwight, of which Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., son of the chief justice of the United States, was also a member.

Before going into the Dwight case, Leming said that in 1931 a Walter C. Baber of New York City, whom he described as a citizen of Great Britain, was instrumental in organizing at Nassau, Bahamas Islands, a firm known as the Standard Life Insurance Company, Ltd. The company was incorporated, he said, with 5,000 shares of $10 par value each, of which 10 shares were subscribed for but not paid.

Baber, he said, took five shares. Stock transfer.

Before Leming started testifying, members of the committee wrangled heatedly over methods used by the treasury in selecting for public disclosure names of persons accused of tax-dodging.

Representative Treadway (R-Mass) asked Undersecretary Roswell Magill of the treasury how names were being selected to illustrate means of tax evasion and avoidance, and then asserted he did not believe the treasury had discovered revenue loopholes only last March.

Magill replied that "most of these matters are not particularly new."

Eden Proposes That All Foreign Fighters Be Called From Spain

LONDON, June 22 (AP)—Four power negotiations over German demands for a display of naval strength to the Spanish central government broke down late today.

The break came after Great Britain had rejected flatly the German demand for joint retaliation against the Spanish central government because of an alleged attempt to torpedo the German cruiser Leipzig.

The rupture was disclosed in a communique issued after another talk with the British government among Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary; Italian ambassador Count Dino Grandi, German ambassador Joachim Von Ribbentrop and French ambassador Charles Corbin.

"Unfortunately it was found impossible to reach an agreement on measures which should be adopted in this case," the communique said.

Germany had demanded that an "immediate naval demonstration be held showing the flag of the four powers on the Spanish coast off Valencia, temporary seat of the Spanish central government. Eden had countered with a proposal that Europe begin the immediate recall of all foreign fighters from Spain.

Members of the house of commons cheered Eden as he went on to declare that the British government feels the principal source of trouble in Spain is the presence of foreign fighters, and that the government wants these fighters removed immediately.

"His majesty's government," said the young foreign secretary, "are most dissatisfied with the present state of affairs."

Eden explained a new convention calls for an immediate start on the recall of some foreign fighters from Spain, even before a full program is put into force.

The argument advanced by the mouthpiece of the German foreign office in Berlin that "the guilty means of further attacks led to immediate speculation the reich had threatened independent action unless the Valencia government was ordered to hand over all its submarines."

SENATE OK'S RELIEF BILL

WASHINGTON, June 22 (AP)—The senate approved the administration's $1,500,000,000 relief bill today, winding up six days of heated controversy.

A few minutes before with shouts of "noes" a majority defeated an amendment to cut the $1,500,000,000 relief bill to $1,000,000,000. The proposal was made by Senator Bridges (R-NH).

Efforts yesterday to require specified contributions from communities for relief projects likewise were defeated.

The vote on the Bridges amendment came after Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) told the senate that "indefinitely continued deficits pile up the raw materials of suicidal inflation."

STEEL OFFICIALS CALLED BY BOARD IN EFFORT TO REACH PEACE

OVER ROOF OF WORLD TO THE UNITED STATES

Sixty-three hours and 17 minutes out of Moscow, three Russian fliers are shown above as they landed at Vancouver, Wash., after a non-stop, 5,425-mile aerial conquest of the poles and icy mist of the North Pole region. Left to right: Alexander Bellakoff, Valeri Chkaloff and Georgi Bukoff.

Steel officials were called by the board in an effort to reach a settlement. The board's decision was announced today.

With the so-called walkout in "status quo" through the intervention of the president and the Ohio national guard, Chairman Charles P. Taft of the mediation board expressed optimism as to the board's chances of bringing a settlement.

Taft said the steel executives, before they left their first meeting with the board yesterday, had told him of their willingness to come back at the board's request. A spokesman for the steel men had said previously they had no intention of returning voluntarily.

Taft said the decision of Youngstown Sheet & Tube and Republic to reopen their Youngstown plants this morning also contributed to the chances for a settlement.

Lewis said he would return by plane to Washington, but would return to Cleveland at the board's request.

Unionists Cheered

The steel men invited to meet with the board again were Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic Steel; Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel; Frank Furnell, president of Youngstown Sheet and Tube; and Wilfred Sykes, assistant to the president of Inland Steel.

In the hills of the Mahoning valley unionists chanted "We've won the strike!" as police dispersed hundreds of men who sought to work in the plants.

Scheduled reopenings of one Republic Steel plant in Youngstown and three Youngstown Sheet & Tube company plants in the same city, moved Gov. Martin L. Davey to order 4,800 Ohio national guardsmen into the troubled areas today.

"There will be butchery, and bloodshed, if the mill gates open, frankly union leaders had wired the president and the governor."

First, the governor talked with the president who approved, said Davey. Charles P. Taft, chairman of the mediator board, added his plea.

State Responsible

The steel companies, adamant, said the state must be responsible for keeping non-strikers from their jobs.

So the troops moved in and peace came to the Mahoning valley, most troubled area of the great strike which has made 100,000 idle in seven states, over refusal of independent steel concerns to sign labor contracts with the C. I. O.

Now the spotlight was back to Cleveland and the mediation board. Lewis and several of his aides met the board twice yesterday. The board, in a formal statement, said it had proposed a new formula for an agreement and that Lewis had this formula under consideration when the steel men packed their bags and left town.

The collapse of yesterday's negotiations and the failure of the federal or state government to do anything to stop the plant reopening at that time enraged the bushy browed Lewis.

He called reporters to his hotel suite and told them the peace board had been "arrogantly flouted by the steel companies." He said he had called both Secretary Perkins and Governor Davey by long distance telephone to demand they stop the companies' "contemplated butchery."

"The CIO will carry on this strike to a successful conclusion," he roared. "The United Mine Workers today appropriated $100,000 for emergency strike relief. Other CIO unions will increase this fund."

Governor Intervenes In Response To Appeals From Unionists

CLEVELAND, June 22 (AP)—President Roosevelt's steel mediation board held a second conference with John L. Lewis today and called the executives of four strike-affected companies to another meeting tomorrow.

Interest centered Tuesday on the Moore Bros. Corp., No. 1 J. B. Harding, outpost well three quarters of a mile west of the producing Continental No. 1 Harding seven miles southwest of Big Spring, as operators waited for seven-inch string to set.

The test, 2,310 feet from the north and 330 feet from the west line of the section, is bottomed at 3,229 feet with 400 feet of fluid reported in the hole before cementing.

It is one of a series of three wells the Moore Bros. Corp. has spudded to test the area south and west of the Harding well. Plugs may be drilled in two or three days and a test run to determine the extent of production.

Nine miles to the southwest, the Moore Bros. Corp. No. 1 F. A. King, in the center of the northwest quarter of section 43-35-1a, T&P, northwest Glascock county wildcat, was past 800 feet in redrock.

Taylor, a diagonal southwest offset 330 feet out of the northeast corner of section 18-33-3a, T&P.

After topping pay at 2,643 feet, the test deepened to 2,646 where it had a showing estimated from 5 to 10 barrels daily. It was running seven-inch string to 2,540 for a test.

Murder - Suicide Verdict Returned In Shooting At Electra

ELECTRA, June 22 (AP)—An inquest verdict of murder and suicide was returned in the death of Jodie Crawford, 27, and his wife, Nelaine, 22, here this morning.

Mrs. Crawford was shot three times, Crawford once, at the home of her father, W. C. Spawn, and stepmother. They died instantly. There were no witnesses.

Mrs. Spawn, washing on the back porch with her daughter, Mildred, 19, and neighbors went into the house after the shooting.

Divorce proceedings had been filed in district court at Wichita Falls this month by Mrs. Crawford. Her husband, from whom she had separated in March, had returned from Galveston late Monday afternoon.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

The Crawfords had one child, June Lanelle, six months old.

Crawford killed his wife in the bathroom of the residence, and then went into a bedroom adjoining, turning the pistol on himself, Justice Gibson said.

Crawford's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Crawford, live at Talco. Two sisters also survive.

Mrs. Crawford, who married Crawford in 1931, was born in Oklahoma. She was reared here. She is also survived by a brother, Herbert Spawn of California, and a halfbrother, Billy Joe Spawn of Electra.

LOUIS, BRADDOCK WILL ENTER RING AT ABOUT SAME WEIGHT

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP)—James J. Braddock, the defending champion, scaled 197 pounds, and Joe Louis, the negro challenger, 197 1/4 pounds, shortly after noon today as they weighed in officially for their 15 round heavyweight championship match at Comiskey park tonight.

The principals in the big flat show, expected to draw upwards of 60,000 fans and a "gate" in the neighborhood of $700,000, weighed in at the Auditorium theatre.

Louis, who continued a 5 to 2 favorite in light wagering on the first mixed heavyweight title fight in 22 years, came to town directly from his camp at Kenosha, Wis., this morning.

The negro scaled exactly six pounds under his weight for the fight in which he barely outpointed Bob Foster in New York five months ago. This indicated observers that the erstwhile

John And Elaine Reconciled

'I Love Only John,' Says She; 'We're Very, Very Happy,' Says He

LOS ANGELES, June 22 (AP)—John Barrymore and Elaine Barrie, after an ardent exchange of kisses at a railroad station today, announced they are reconciled again and that she would dismiss her interlocutory decree of divorce.

"I love only John," the dark-eyed New Yorker said.

"We are very, very happy," added Barrymore.

Miss Barrie, born Elaine Jacobs, returned today from a personal appearance tour. After she won her divorce, last April 23, she went on the stage in a short-lived play in San Francisco. She also had a brief career in the movies.

She was smartly dressed as she left the train today, her attire contrasting sharply with that of Barrymore, who was wearing a rumpled business suit, and lacked a necktie.

She said her first move would be to set aside her decree, which would not become final for another 10 months.

"We are going home with mama, and then we are going house hunting. We won't live in the Towle Road home anymore."

Her mother, Mrs. Edna Jacobs, was at the station, too. She came to Hollywood with Barrymore. For the time being, Barrymore said, Elaine will live with Mrs. Jacobs in her mother's apartment.

Elaine made the customary announcement that she would go on the radio and in pictures with Barrymore.

Controversial Topics Are Dropped As Session Nears End

AUSTIN, June 22 (AP)—The house cleared its decks today of controversial proposals having little chance of passage in order to give members opportunity to push through a multitude of local bills in the last four days of the session.

The house referred to committee a resolution designed to force competitive bidding in the sale of property and to bring about a study of the feasibility of the state's "YANGTZE SKIPPER," by Thomas Woodroffe; (Sheridan House; $2.20). There is more than a suspicion in what passes for the mind of this department that the author of "Yangtze Skipper" was partly responsible for that notorious, and ridiculous, broadcast of the English nightingale which the BBC perpetrated. You must have heard it—the announcer hopping hopefully about the thicket, microphone in hand; the patter provided to fill the silences; the twirl of some disturbed bird, and then the end.

LIQUOR CANNOT STAND THE LIGHT OF TRUTH

ONE CHICAGO SIGN Whose hat is not off to the W. C. T. U. as it sets up its campaign for one million dollars for more intensive and extensive teaching of youth concerning the evils and the wreck of strong drink? I, for one, wish the goal were ten millions instead of one for such a worthy cause. What temperance lover who looks at that tragic sign in Chicago—FATHER AND SON TAVERN—or who hears of it doesn't agree with this wish of mine? How these words "Father and Son Tavern," are burned in my memory from a life object lesson that began when I was a young man! Every Saturday night about 10 o'clock (that was a very late hour for rural folks then) a horse and a one-seated buggy would pass our home in a southern Pennsylvania town. The conveyance was headed for a hamlet five miles to the north of us. In it were a drunken father and a drunken son who was not yet in his twenties. The horse knew the straightaway road well and many times took them home without any guidance of the human will. Both were likable men, but the drink habit was already fixed in both. It took the father to an untimely grave. It marred the college career of the son, and for two decades his life story was that of successive changes of his professional jobs. And for many years forgettable and unspeakable sorrow was spread around the lonely life of a mother and sister. The end of their hopes for a happy and successful life for this son and brother, who had many fine natural talents, came almost before his grown-up life was begun. And now again in this sign in immoral during the invitation to hundreds (God forbid that it be more) of fathers and sons to repeat the life story I have just noted briefly.

FATHER AND SON TAVERN! And everywhere, everywhere in our land countless other signs of ruin for sale, and especially with an appeal for the young of both sexes to buy. And this will remain as it is until there is such a genuine awakening of our national Christian conscience that everywhere we will instantly translate these signs to read: "RUIN FOR SALE. SOUL AND BODY RUIN GUARANTEED WITHIN."—Norman C. Schlichter in Front Rank. (Submitted by the local W. C. T. U.)

Midland Downs 8-Day Meet Opens Friday

By HANK HART

AN EIGHT-day race meet, the vast to be staged at Midland Downs and perhaps the last meet to be staged in Texas before the pari-mutuel wagering repeal takes effect, will get underway on Friday, June 25, and will close on Saturday afternoon, July 3, the race meet being staged by Ford Corran and associates who have leased the race track from Midland Fair, Inc. Corran, who has been identified with most of the minor meets staged in Texas during the past three years, assumes full liability for purses and expenses, according to Midland Fair association.

The races will start at 2 o'clock each afternoon, at least eight races being carded for each session. Excellent purses are being offered.

Race horses started arriving the first of this week, approximately 300 of the finest race horses of the Southwest being expected for the eight-day meet. Between 150 and 200 horses were sent in from Panama where Corran concluded a race meet last Saturday. He is very enthusiastic over the meet and the type of horses that will participate.

Midland has the only three-quarter mile track in Texas, three race meets having been held there since its construction two years ago. The three previous meets attracted some of the outstanding horses of the South. Sables sufficient to accommodate 200 horses and a steel grandstand with a seating capacity of 5,500 persons makes the $60,000 plant of Midland Fair, Inc. one of the best equipped in the Southwest.

THE CHICAGO Cubs are one of the most interesting teams in baseball. They haven't the dashing, do-or-die spirit of the Cardinals but all-in-all, on and off the field, they have a group of the most intriguing athletes in the game.

Here are a few random notes on the Cubs as gathered by a United Press scout:
Gabby Hartnett—Big, blatant lovable who can drink as much beer as any player in the league, holler as loud and long, and keep a team on its toes and fighting to the last ditch. He's one of the best hitters, but his average doesn't show it because he's slow to a big truck climbing a hill. A great story teller, a good amateur magician and an expert card player.

Larry French—One of the most energetic players in baseball. Always doing something, on and off the diamond. Knows perhaps more people than any player in the majors. Lives in Beverly Hills among the movie stars. An accomplished speaker. One of the best dressers and most handsome players in the league.

Roy Parmelee—The Giants worried him, and the Cards harassed him. The Cubs let him alone and he found himself. One of the strongest players in baseball. Easy going. Walks in sleep. Curt Davis—One of the saddest and quietest players in league. Seldom ever says anything.

Stanley Hack—Left a bank check to become a baseball star. Always smiling, even when things are going tough for him. Was an amateur airplane pilot until Cubs made him give it up. One of the best eyes in baseball. Won't go for a pitch that's a whisker off the plate.

Rip Collins — Funny man. Always up to some monkey shins. Good wise-cracker.
Angie Galan — Another prankster. Rooms with Jurges and they lay awake nights thinking up gags to pull on other players.
Phil Cavaretta—One of young easy players in league. Only 20 now with three years of service with Cubs behind him.

Billy Herman—A strategist who knows what's going on all the time on the field. Seldom makes a "rock" slang for boner. Rated one of the greatest natural hitters in the league.

UNTESTED CHAMP IS UNDERDOG IN TITLE DEFENSE

FIGHT IS SCHEDULED 15 ROUNDS

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO, June 22 (AP)

Joe Louis, sleepy-eyed son of an Alabama cotton picker, gets his greatest opportunity tonight.

In a flood-lighted ring, pitched over second base at Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox, Louis battles James J. Braddock, untested heavyweight champion of the world. Watching them will be a crowd that may be as high as 60,000, with gate receipts that may reach $750,000.

It will be the first time a negro has had the opportunity of winning

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP)—The pre-battle statements of Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock, Challenger Joe Louis and their respective managers.

Braddock: "I have never felt better in my life. My legs are good, my breathing apparatus all right, and I have no mental worries. I predict I will knock out Louis in eight rounds."

Louis: "I'm going in there to win and win as quickly as I can. I'm not predicting I will knock out Braddock in any particular round. I simply must win this one."

Joe Gould, Braddock's manager—"Jim is going into the ring champion and he'll come out champion. People who regard Louis as a killer are in for a surprise."

Jullan Black and John Roxborough, Louis' co-pilots: "Joe is in the best condition he's ever been in since he fought Max Baer. He's really ready for this one and will have no excuses to offer if he is beaten."

The world heavyweight championship since Jack Johnson in 1910 battered the shell of James J. Jeffries.

It also will be the first "mixed match" involving the title since Jess Willard defeated Johnson in Havana 22 years ago.

Well Polled
The fight will be held in the heart of Chicago's black belt populated by a quarter million negroes. One thousand policemen will be on guard, 400 within the arena and 600 outside the park walls. Reserves will be held in readiness at nearby police stations.

For the first time, the heavyweight challenger goes into action the favorite, Louis, on the strength of his dynamite-laden fists, is held 5 to 2 over Braddock. Despite his defeat by Max Schmeling and his unfavorable showing against Bob Fitzsimmons, Louis holds the interest through the knockout power in his fists.

The fight is scheduled to go 15 rounds. It may start any time between 7 and 9 p. m., central standard time, depending on weather, forecast fair. If rain threatens, the fight can start any time after 7 o'clock with the probable start between 8:30 and 9 p. m.

The champion and challenger, ways smiling, even when things are going tough for him. Was an amateur airplane pilot until Cubs made him give it up. One of the best eyes in baseball. Won't go for a pitch that's a whisker off the plate.

Rip Collins — Funny man. Always up to some monkey shins. Good wise-cracker.
Angie Galan — Another prankster. Rooms with Jurges and they lay awake nights thinking up gags to pull on other players.
Phil Cavaretta—One of young easy players in league. Only 20 now with three years of service with Cubs behind him.

Billy Herman—A strategist who knows what's going on all the time on the field. Seldom makes a "rock" slang for boner. Rated one of the greatest natural hitters in the league.

Low Scores Tacked Up As Golfers Practice For Tournament

SHEIK OF THE ORIENT, BEN ALI MAR-ALLAH, TANGLES WITH LOUISIANA LUMBERJACK

The Sheik of the Orient—Ben Ali Mar-Allah—who won any number of championships in his home country (Persia) before starting the long journey to America nine years ago, will make his second appearance in the wrestling arena of the Big Spring Athletic Club tonight, opposing the very rugged and rough Louisiana Lumberjack—Jack Hagen.

Hagen, a fair slugger and more than a little mean when the going gets rough, may find the ordinarily scientific grappling Mar-Allah all he can handle. In his debut here several weeks ago, the bronzed Sheik demonstrated that he could swing a powerful flat as well as wrestle.

From a strictly scientific point of view, the semi-final, a thirty minute one fall match, will be the best bout of the evening. It brings together Victor Webber, strong Dutchman, and Tony Pitino, speedy, quick-thinking flash from Italy.

Scowling Joe Kopecky and stocky Tex Hager will open hostilities at 8:30 in a one-fall twenty-minute match.

DOUG JONES IS MUNY MEDALIST

Doug Jones, who barely missed par in scoring a 33-38-76 for his qualifying score in the Municipal golf tournament, won medal honors.

Doug meets D. Cornellison in the first round this week.

Fourteen golfers are entered, paired in two flights.

Sinclair Oilers Have Busy Weekend

The Sinclair Oilers of Forman, Sand Belt league baseball club, have a busy weekend in prospect.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock they meet the peppery Cosden Oil aggregation on the Coahoma diamond, and wind up the day's work in a game with Continental on the Coahoma field.

fighting on percentage, also will share in the $50,000 paid for the radio rights and $25,000 for motion picture contracts. Braddock will get 50 per cent of the total gate after taxes have been deducted and Louis-47 1-2 per cent.

Both men were ready to weigh in at noon today at the auditorium theater, and then hide out to await time to go to the battle ground. They must be there at 7 p. m. Braddock figures to scale 197, with Louis about 199.

Braddock, idle since he defeated Max Baer for the championship in 1935, is strictly the "underdog." Experts said either Louis would win by a quick knockout or Braddock would take down the decision, with a few rating him chances for a knockout victory.

The titleholder is conceded a better boxer than Louis. The chances are he'll keep out of the way of Louis' famous right, just as he circled away from Baer's Sunday punch.

Louis, 23, is the youngest challenger in heavyweight history. Jack Dempsey was 24 when he battered Willard in 1919.

There is no hope of a million dollar gate.

What is left of the gate receipts after Braddock and Louis get their share and expenses have been paid, will go to Mike Jacobs, the New York promoter, who with the assistance of Joe Foley of Chicago, made possible the title fight.

Ticket scalpers bemoaned a lack of demand for choice seats—even at regular prices.

The greater proportion of tonight's crowd will be from outside Chicago, the largest to see a title fight since the first Shawkey-Schmeling match in 1930 at New York.

Two members of President Roosevelt's cabinet—Postmaster James A. Farley and Attorney General Homer Cummings—will attend.

The referee will be named by the Illinois state athletic commission just before the two principals enter into the ring. Two judges will be named at the same time. The best guess is that "Little Phil" Collins, with no political affiliations and with a reputation for honesty and ability, will be the third man in the ring. There will be a "no foul" rule, which means that the battle cannot be won or lost on a foul.

Gravin Hurls Panthers Into Third Place

Jim Gravin, rookie right-hander, had pitched the Fort Worth Cats into third place in the hectic Texas league race today as Tulsa's Oilers, unable to stand prosperly, dropped back to the edge of the second division after a sensational spurt.

The Cats passed both Tulsa and the skidding San Antonio Missions when they downed the Padres 2-0 in a game where only Bejma and Mazera could solve the puzzling slants of the Panther hurler.

Oklahoma City, meanwhile, moved farther away from the field in first place with a 7-4 win over Galveston. Beaumont again failed to keep the pace, losing to the lowly Dallas Steers, 5-4.

The Indians smashed out four hits in the sixth frame to come from behind to beat Galveston. Manager Jim Keasey of the Redskins tripled to start the drive, two hits and a walk brought in two runs, Vernon Mackie doubled to send in another and pitcher Howell drove in the fourth tally.

Great pitching in a relief role by Curt Fullerton enabled the Dallas Steers to nose out Beaumont. He relieved Chief Euel Moore in the fifth and set the Shippers back to hold the Dallas lead.

Houston defeated Tulsa in a wild 13-11 contest. It was an old-fashioned slugfest and snapped the Tulsa winning streak at six games.

Many Stars In Field For Trans-Miss

Todd, Kingsley And Defending Champion Dawson Are Top-Notch

DENVER, June 22 (AP)—Favorites are in the water hazards at the Cherry Hills course for the 37th renewal of the Trans-Mississippi golf tournament.

Most of the railbirds feel you could drop the names of 20 or more contenders in a hat and stand a chance to pull out the name of the 1937 champion at a single draw.

In today's 12-hole qualifying shooting, the starting field of close to 220 had 64 places in the championship bracket at which to aim.

Match play—18 holes for the first three rounds, 36 thereafter—will begin tomorrow.

Johnny Dawson, Chicago veteran who won the "Transmiss" at Wichita last year, is the first to admit the present race looks as wide open as any in this amateur event in years.

Sentiment also leaned toward two youngsters—Harry Todd, 20-year-old Texas Open champion from Dallas, and Ed C. Kingsley, 22-year-old Magna, Utah, sharpshooter.

Leland Hamman of Paris, Texas, Reynolds, Smith, Walker Cup linksmen from Dallas, and Jack Munger, Dallas, had their backers.

THIXTON BACK FROM 'GYPSY TOURS' EVENT
Ceel Thixton, back from San Angelo where he and 30 other registered members of the Lone Star Motorcycle club represented Big Spring in the Gypsy Tours events, will sail that the meet be held here next year.

D. W. Rigby, Big Spring, suffered a leg injury at San Angelo when his machine slipped out from under him. Dutch McIntosh of Big Spring placed second in balloon bursting.

33 Enter 4th Round

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 22 (AP)—Thirty-three players, who remained from 132 starters, entered the fourth round today in the fast pace toward a new national intercollegiate lawn tennis championship.

Owen Anderson of the University of California at Los Angeles, seeded No. 8, lost 3-6, 3-6, to Howard Stephens, of Yale.

Cubs, Giants Open Crucial Series Today

Tangle To Decide Which Way Pennant Chase Is Headed

By SID FEDER
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Loaded for bear," the Cubs and the Giants go to work on each other today in the National league's first "crucial" series of the season. The tangle will decide, for the time being at least, just which way the pennant chase is headed.

Pending the results of the current club-wrecking by the Cardinals the series begins the jockeying for position for the start of the last half pennant drive.

The Cubs, sporting a one-game lead, figure to put themselves in a nice spot for the start of the campaign's after-July 4 run by taking the series. Their pitching is head and shoulders over that of the Giants, and their hitting tops the New Yorkers' like a tent.

But New York is primed. Not only are the Giants anxious to keep the Cubs in sight, but they must get ready for the Cardinals. In third by a half game now, it won't do any good if they wind up with less than an even break with the Cubs and Gas House Gang.

Hubbell's slump makes a sorry sight of the Giant pitching, while the Cubs feature a flinging force that has gone the route in 14 of 21 contests. Only Clyde Castleman has been a consistent performer for the Terry troupe and seems certain of one win over the Cubs in the series, since he has beaten them three times already this season.

By the same token, Charley Grimm is throwing young Clyde Shoun at the Giants today, because Clyde has topped the Terry territory on three occasions so far, and should best Harry Gumbert today. The two clubs have split eight games to date.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by EDDIE BRIETZ

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP)—Joe Louis may beat Jimmy Braddock, but he'll have to do it early. Records show Joe isn't a strong finisher. Maybe that's because he's seldom had to be. But in his past bouts which went the limit he's gotten worse toward the end instead of better. Unless he can tag the Irishman in the first five rounds, this corner believes Braddock will go on to win, possibly just as decisively as Max Schmeling.

Anyway, Braddock is a darned good long shot, and just a whole lot of the experts who picked out Louis in the Sunday papers would give their right eye if they could shift.

Too bad you can't go to the Giant-Cub game this afternoon, then get back to Comiskey Park before the big rush. The fight has the town in such a frenzy the arrival of the Giants yesterday was scarcely noticed. Hotels are jammed to the rafters. You can't get into a night joint. Everybody and his brother is raking in the dough. Not likely the gate will gross more than $700,000 but even at that figure everybody stands to come out on top. So many newspapermen here you have to have a card of admission to get into the weighing in.

Louis has bet a sports writer friend a plate of fried chicken Braddock will not hit him with a right all evening. Before leaving for Chicago, Braddock was cheered by a telegram from home that his oldest son, Jay, has been promoted in school. On the way down from Grand Beach, a moth flew into the champion's car. "Oh, oh," shouted manager-chauffeur Joe Gould, narrowly missing a truck, "we're in. When moths come to see you they bring luck. A guy told me that last night." Five hundred orphans from a South Bend institution will see the fight as guests of the E'nal Brith—and from $10.50 seats, too.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stephens, Rozelle Stephens, Cornelia Douglas and Julius Neel returned Sunday evening from a vacation trip to Galveston, Dallas, New Orleans, Gulfport, Miss., and Florida, returning by way of Dallas, where they attended the Pan American exposition.

Surprise Package

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP)—An hour before Joe Louis left Kenosha, Wis., for Chicago and his battle tonight with Champion Jim Braddock, he received a package by special messenger at his training quarters.

Joe and his handlers crowded around as Trainer Jack Blackburn unwrapped the parcel. It was a photograph record entitled, "You Can't Take That Away From Me," and on a card was the name: "James J. Braddock."

Riggs in Record Book

CHICAGO, June 22 (AP)—The name of Bobby Riggs of Los Angeles went down in tennis record books today alongside those of big Bill Tilden and Bryan Grant, the Atlanta Atom.

Riggs won his second consecutive national clay courts tennis singles championship yesterday, defeating a fellow lawnman, Joe Hunt, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4, to retain the crown he won in 1936. He thus became the third player in the history of the 27-year-old meet to win the title two or more times in successive years.

Mrs. Constance McEntire, who has been visiting with relatives in Jacksonville, is spending a few days of this week in Austin.

Ira Powell is in Tahoka for a two weeks' stay, where he is conducting the singing of a revival meeting in that city.

New Mexico Champ Tours Course In 77

The country club course was the scene of a great deal of activity this morning as the leading women golfers of West Texas got the "feel" of the eighteen holes and green course in preparation for qualifying tomorrow in the second annual invitation tournament of the Big Spring Women's Golf association.

Elinor Jones, New Mexico champion, played a practice round yesterday, turning in a 40 on the front nine and a 27 on the back side. Long and accurate off the tee, and playing a wonderful iron game, Miss Jones' only trouble was an occasional slip near the greens.

Defending champion Mrs. Theresa Hicks scored an 80 and Mrs. Gordon Phillips gained favor with a snappy 78.

Also on hand Monday were two crack golfers from Clovis, N. M., Mrs. Hugh Skiles and Mrs. Chester Worrell.

From Lubbock came Mrs. Guy McEae, veteran tournament player, Mrs. Henry, Mrs. Dean and Mrs. Chas. Akery, wife of the Lubbock country club pro.

Mrs. Ben Harrison came in from Austin and Mrs. Will O'Connell of San Angelo arrived to take part in an exhibition match this afternoon with Miss Jones, Obble Bristow and John Edmonson, Lubbock.

A dutch lunch was on the program this evening at 8 o'clock. Eighteen hole qualifying play starts in the morning at 9 o'clock.

CONSISTENT PLAY AMONG 3RD BASEMEN

(Editor's note: This is the fourth in a series on prospects for the Texas league's all-star game at Houston, July 17.)

DALLAS, June 22 (AP)—Capable and consistent play among the Texas league's third basemen—without a single conspicuous star—makes it hard for balloting fans to choose third sackers for the North and South teams of the league's all-star game at Houston, July 17.

Oklahoma City has Jim Stroner and Billgere, but Stroner, a choice last year, has been kept out of the league's third base race. Greenberg at Fort Worth is a great run driver, but Wobly on the defense. Mickey of Dallas is really a utility man and Florio of Tulsa, although an in-and-out performer, is the best hitter of the lot.

Recent injuries will handicap Treadway of Beaumont in the southern division. Scharen of San Antonio was an all-star utility man last year but quite likely to be named a regular this season. Keane, at Houston, is a great infielder but a mediocre hitter. G. J. Veston's Valente has played consistent ball but has been weak at the plate.

Third base choices appear to be the most difficult confronting fans.

OPEN LOUISIANA TRACK

BACK TO THE WALL

Affairs are not in a very creditable state when a thriving, prosperous, ambitious city permits the very keystone to its growth and development—its public school system—to remain in the position of continuously having its back to the wall.

But we'll be permitting that, in Big Spring, unless the necessary provision is made for additional tax revenues. The voters of the independent school district can act in behalf of school improvement next Saturday in balloting to authorize a maximum tax rate of $1.50, instead of the present $1.

The district's total receipts for 1935-36 were $148,593.65; the estimated total for 1936-37 is $147,681. Total disbursements for 1935-36 were $144,335.75. Of this sum, the largest items were $23,784.45 for debt service, a charge that cannot be altered; and $88,172.94 for instructional service, a figure that is shamefully low when it is considered that the average pay for teachers in the Big Spring schools is $932.67.

With revenues placed this year put at $147,000-odd for training 3,320 scholastics and for paying on an eight-plant system, it seems to The Herald that school authorities are making what they have got pretty far. Members of the board of trustees are representative citizens, men interested in the welfare of individuals in the community as well as in the development of our schools. We believe they have operated the system efficiently. We believe they would not be calling for the means to raise additional revenue unless they—closer to the school situation than the rest of us—sincerely believe that an adequate school system for Big Spring requires more money than is now in sight. The officials are endeavoring to wipe out a big tax delinquency total; but the collection of that entire sum would mean only a temporary solution to the problem. There must be continuous income sufficient to carry our schools.

If the district receives its estimated $147,000 for this year, it can manage, no doubt. But the same crowded conditions will exist; needed repairs will have to be put off until they become more and more costly; teachers carrying a bigger training load than makes for efficiency will have to be sought at an average salary figure that now puts Big Spring eighteenth in a list of 22 Texas comparable cities.

Oh, the school system would get along, with its back to the wall. Is it good community business to permit that?

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—One of the better known younger novelists was telling a luncheon club how the editor of a magazine, by wielding the blue-pencil, had abused his brain effort. The story, when it appeared, was so raggedly edited that he was trying to make up his mind to sue. "What I would like to do," he concluded bitterly, "is punch his jaw."

Just then a quiet-spoken fellow stood up and nodded agreeably. "Any time you say, old man." The editor, it seems, had wandered into the club just in time to hear the blast.

There used to be a marionette in a Broadway show-window that captivated everybody who saw it, but I haven't seen it in nearly a year. The doll drew pictures of well-known celebrities, and if you stood there long enough it was apt to sketch your own likeness.

The way it worked? An artist concealed beneath the window had a perfect view of the crowd through a trick mirror. That is, he could see you but you couldn't see him. All he did was make sketches on a pad, and a mechanical device, transmitted through a pencil in the doll's hand, reproduced the sketches on a large sheet in the windows. It was all very exciting to see for the first time.

The huge drills and trip-hammers which disturb the night over on the east side are leaving a fine lot of insomnias in the apartment houses along that sector. They're working on a tunnel and night gives them an opportunity to make rapid headway to say nothing of headaches. Visitors and guests find it almost impossible to slumber, but the long-time residents say you get used to it after awhile. "Why let it get on your nerves?" they say. "There is just as much noise in the day time. Only, then, you aren't conscious of it."

An actor playing a bit in one of the summer dramas has to change clothes three times during the play. The other night his dinner jacket practically gave out and the manager advised him to get a new one. Not being in the chips, he hot-footed it over to one of the loan offices and pawned his watch for a few bucks and then looked about for a tax. He found one for $5, but when the manager glimpsed it he shook his head savagely and yelled, "Well, I'll lend you one, but you can't wear that thing." . . . The jacket the actor had obtained was of the 1890 variety. It's truth.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippman

THE LABOR TROUBLES

To the casual bystander the labor troubles in Ohio, Illinois, and Michigan may all look alike, but if he wishes to judge them fairly and usefully he will, I believe, fix his attention upon the fact that there are two radically different kinds of trouble in this region. The strike against the independent steel companies is led and organized by Mr. John Lewis and the C.I.O. The issue is whether the companies will recognize the union by signing a contract with it. But the strike which shut off electrical power in Flint and the Saginaw valley was not organized and led by Mr. John Lewis and the C.I.O. On the contrary, it was a strike against the terms of the contract which Mr. Lewis had negotiated and signed. In the steel strike, Mr. Lewis is trying to force the employers to sign the kind of contract which the electrical power company has signed with him; in the Saginaw valley, his task has been to force his own followers to accept and abide by such a contract.

In the one instance we see organized labor fighting for recognition, sealed by a formal agreement; in the other, we see organized labor struggling to impose discipline within its own ranks, which is necessary if recognition is to be effective. . . . Thus we may say that there are not two parties to this struggle in the Middle West. There are four parties. There are the employers who do not wish to make contracts with organized labor. There are the independent steel companies. As against them there are the employees, and the minor agitators, who do not wish to abide by contracts. These two groups of extremists are the real trouble-makers and each by its own irreconcilability incites the other to more and more extreme behavior.

Between them stand the employers who are willing to negotiate contracts, and the labor leaders who mean to enforce the contracts they sign. It is to these employers and the labor leaders that we must look for the solution of the problem, that is to say, for the development of an orderly procedure in making agreements which can be relied upon. . . . For this reason the position taken by the independent steel companies seems to me altogether shortsighted, capable only of embittering the industrial conflict and of delaying a constructive solution. The more they treat Mr. Lewis and the C.I.O. leaders as public enemies to be resisted at all costs, the more impossible they make it for Mr. Lewis to develop discipline and a sense of responsibility in the ranks of his young and inexperienced followers. The more they compel Mr. Lewis to lead strikes to obtain recognition for organized labor, the more they compel him to depend upon his most militant followers. The more they keep him occupied on the picket lines, the less time and energy and opportunity they leave him for training responsible lieutenants and developing discipline in the rank and file.

Now, of course, there are many who believe that Mr. Lewis is a revolutionist and that he has some far-reaching and sinister ambition. That is a matter of opinion. I do not believe it. What is more, I do not think that is the opinion of those who are best qualified to judge, and so far as I can see, the record does not bear out that opinion. Mr. Lewis has been a union leader for a long time, and those who have dealt with him testify that he tries to carry out in good faith the agreements he makes. One may not like the agreements that he asks for. But that is not the point. The question is whether he carries them out when he makes them, and I for one have never heard it charged that he has done otherwise. The United Mine Workers, active in bad faith; and I think it impressive and significant that in the automobile industry and Mr. Martin have tried as earnestly as they have tried to suppress unauthorized strikes.

If this is the truth, then it is not only unfair, but foolish to make charges out of Mr. Lewis and the C.I.O., to denounce them as communists or whatnot, and to fight it out with them in the streets. If Mr. Lewis's organization is one which means to make agreements and to abide by them, then it is not revolutionary. If it is not, then the only intelligent course is to make the agreements where he has a real following, and thus to encourage Mr. Lewis to use his leadership of labor to make the agreements effective. . . . It is no use for employers to say that they do not like Mr. Lewis. Likes and dislikes have nothing to do with the matter. Mr. Lewis is here. Unquestionably he is the most effective labor leader who has appeared on the American scene since Samuel Gompers. So far as any one can see ahead, he is here to stay, because he has behind him the masses of the workers that they do not have adequate representation in the management of business. . . . That is the important fact, and there is no use getting distracted and excited about the sensational episodes which are merely incidental to it. The big American employers, unlike any others in the world today, are used to dealing with unorganized labor. The HOLLYWOOD—As a full-fledged movie producer, William Anthony McGuire has little time to write. But he has time to talk about writers. "I'll say hello to a good producer," he says. "I'll saluam to a good writer." McGuire did that script on "The Great Ziegfeld" which won academy awards for a lot of people but not McGuire. He wasn't talking about a script when he said that a script was at least 80 per cent of a picture's success. He says the same thing about "The Girl of the Golden West," his first venture as a producer. And he isn't writing the "Girl" script.

He says he took the producer assignment just as a means to keep busy—and more prosperous, perhaps—and get ahead in the picture business as long as he was in it. Producing is no novelty to him, what with his stage shows and all. But his private opinion is he took the job just so he could give credit to writers, something he couldn't do when he was just a scribe.

The big problem on "The Girl of the Golden West" seems to be working up some interest in the hero. In the stage play you forgot about all the characters except Jack Rance and the girl. That was true when Ann Harding and Harry Banner made a talkie of it—with results that verged on burlesque. This time, for a Jeanette MacDonald musical, they're going to try to keep the dramatic hinges from breaking by striving for a "poetic feeling." McGuire hasn't decided yet how this will be attained—but he knows it will be in the script if anywhere.

The Life of Tarzan
Poor Glenn Morris has his life all mapped out for him since he became the screen's Tarzan. He can't be photographed—unless some candid camera sneaks up on him unawares—except in his leopard skin loincloth. He can't get a haircut. He must work out at least two hours daily. He has to get a bronze sunburn, and keep it. And he can't get himself mixed up in politics. At last reports his right to dunk his doughnuts was still his own, but that was about all.

CRASH FATAL TO TWO
TUPELO, Miss., June 21 (AP)—Gerald Burdine, 20, pilot instructor, and a 15-year-old student flier, Lyle Bowen, Jr., died in a plane crash near the Tupelo airport yesterday. Burdine's mother and a sister, Mrs. Gladys Noble, reside in Paris, Tex.

has come when they must learn to deal with organized labor, and, in my opinion, if they are wise, they will not think up plans for holding back the tide of history. They will negotiate with Mr. Lewis because Mr. Lewis has to be negotiated with, and, as they do that, they will perhaps find it pleasant to work with Mr. Lewis than to fight him. Russian Foresees Regular Flights Across Polar Area

SAN FRANCISCO, June 22 (AP)—The man who piloted Soviet Russia's trans-Polar plane the 6,800 miles from Moscow to Vancouver, Wash., says such flights will be regular occurrences "in one or two years—maybe three."

Return flight would be easier because we would have tail winds," said Pilot Valerio Chkaloff. Chkaloff and his two companions, welcomed by 5,000 persons who thronged Oakland airport last evening, said they next wanted to try a Moscow-New York flight via the Polar regions. Today they looked forward to viewing the country in which they landed Sunday after an epic, 63-hour flight from the Soviet capital. The big, single-motored monoplane in which Chkaloff, Co-pilot George Babukoff and Navigator Alexander Belskoff spanned the Arctic, will be dismantled at Van-cover and shipped back to Russia.

Chkaloff, who flew the same plane 5,000 miles across Siberia last year as a "training" gesture, said he considered the trans-Polar flight the "most interesting, most difficult and most useful of any of our hops."

POPE CONFERS WITH INSURGENT ENVOY

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, June 22 (AP)—Pope Pius today received Admiral Antonio Magas, envoy of the insurgent Spanish regime, in a long audience which prelates believed would materially influence the Vatican's attitude on the Spanish civil war. Generalissimo Francisco Franco's envoy was said to have given the pontiff an analysis of the military, political and economic situation in the civil war, particularly with regard to the insurgent capture of Bilbao.

ANITA GOES SARATOGA

CHAPTER XXIX

What could they do? That question was etched in despair on the faces of Fritzie and Kiffie when Duke joined them at the hotel. Kiffie was beyond words as well as thought. He could only moan. Fritzie, of the sharp mind and quick tongue, felt as if everything except her body was paralyzed. She held out her hands to Duke when he came in. He took them for a minute. He even laid his hand for a moment on the cooling Kiffie. But there was not a minute to lose. He fairly ran to the telephone. When Fritzie heard his first words, something like a sigh of hope came from her. "Of course," she said. "Hand-Riding Kelly!"

Kiffie stopped shaking his head and moaning. But it wasn't a clear track ahead. It was evident that Kelly was none too keen to ride. "Listen to me, Kelly," said Duke, determination in his voice. "You're talking like a fool. What do you mean—you can't ride!"

It was Fritzie who was moaning now. Kiffie could not look at her. Duke's face was hard in its desperate nand his voice was harsh in its firmness, as he listened. "Cut that stuff, Kelly," he said. "Where's your guts? Stop breaking in on me with your fool objections. So—Dixie fouled you in Kentucky and you've lost your nerve! I never thought to hear such words from you. You Hand-Riding Kelly, talking like a two-year-old!"

Fritzie stopped moaning and leaned forward eagerly. Kiffie's eyes were on Duke now and they were eager eyes. "Don't be a sap," Duke went on. "Scared to ride? Why, man, alive, can't you see you're playing right into Dixie's hands? Why do you suppose he was out to get you—why he fouled you? Because you were a threat to him. That's why. A dirty rat, you say? Sure! But what are you doing about it? Come on. Get in that race tomorrow. You can outride that skunk any day, if you just make up your mind to go." "Can?"

There was a moment when he did not speak, listening to Kelly. "OK," he said. Then he hung up. He turned to Fritzie. "Well, old girl, I guess we've got our jockey. And now, I think I'll call it a day. 'Night to both of you.' Fritzie's eyes were full of compassion as he went out the door. "Poor kid," she said, "it's a game as they come—but he's sure suffering."

"But darling," said Kiffie anxiously. "Kelly is a first-rate jockey, isn't he?" "Sure. He's great. Some say as great as Dixie himself. But I'm not talking about that—it's Carol, Duke's hurt—and hurt awfully bad."

Kiffie groaned and turned away. He was suffering, too. "I wonder just how it will all end?" mused Fritzie. "If Lightning wins, will Duke want to marry her, after what she's done? Will she marry him? If Lightning loses—well, one thing's sure—with the odds what they are, Duke spends the rest of his life paying off."

Hand-Riding Kelly, when he presented himself at the Saratoga paddock the next day, was nervous. That was evident. But there was something in addition to pathetic eagerness in his look and manner. There was a glint in his eye which told of grim determination. He winked back tears in his eyes as he spoke to Fritzie, just before the race.

"I can't thank you enough, Miss O'Malley," he said, "for giving me this chance—you and Duke Bradley. I'll sure do my best." "Show up Dixie and I ask. We know you can." She swept a caressing hand over Lightning's satin coat. "You'll win, won't you baby? If you won't do it for me do it for Duke. You must!"

The bugle called the field to the post. There were twelve entrants, but from the start, there were only three horses which really mattered—Lightning, Moon Ray and Sierra Cap.

Before they were off, Dixie had begun his tactics. He was as clever as he was unethical and he knew that Kelly's nerves were near the breaking point. He knew ways to hasten the breaking. As Lightning broke out of position several times, he began to jeer. "This isn't nothing yet, Kelly," he said. "Try and make the old gal behave later!" Kelly did not answer. He was not to be taunted into wasting any of his energy in angry retorts.

Carol was sitting in a box between Madison and his mother. There were friends of the Madisons from Newport with them. Carol looked at them and wondered how it was that she had ever wanted to be one of them. She felt she hated them all. But most of all she hated herself. She had to be gracious to them and she was. But it was the hardest thing she had ever done in her life. She was used to cry—she smiled, instead. She wanted to curse—she made gray replies to questions, instead. She wanted to rush to Duke, to pour out her remorse to him—she smiled at her fiance, instead.

It seemed to the thousands of spectators as if the field were at the post for hours, but in reality it was only a matter of minutes, until it suddenly broke away. Sierra Cap flashed ahead. Two lengths behind were Lightning and Moon Ray. Two lengths behind them, thundered the pack, every jockey fighting for position and watching the pace. Only the official caller could have determined which broke second—Lightning or Moon Ray. He gave it to Moon Ray, who held a slight edge for some distance.

Duke was watching from his betting booth, the faithful Tip beside him. Tip's body was taut as a wire, there seemed to be no color in his face. It was all eyes—eyes sick with fear. Duke appeared interested—but that was all. The hands, which held the glasses to his eyes, were as steady as they ever were. He might have had a dollar on the race, or nothing—instead of all his future.

Carol's glasses swept over to the booth and stopped a moment. Duke's calm hurt her more than she could have said. She knew what he stood to lose. She had known good sports in her life, but she had never seen the night before, when he had taken as he had, the knowledge that he had been double-crossed. It wasn't bravado she had seen—not all of it, at least. There had been real dignity in his manner and his words. She had reason for rating that quality high now. For Madison had shown himself, beneath all the polish of the man of the world, to have no stammins. His hands were wet and quivering now. She knew. Just a moment before, he had drawn her own, which he had seized in his excitement, away. They made her feel sick—as if she had come in contact with something unclean.

There was a loud roar from the stands. Moon Ray was drawing abreast of Sierra Cap. Lightning on the right, was only a nose behind. In a fraction of a second, Moon Ray was even with—then ahead of—Sierra Cap. Kelly's taut little body was crouched low, as Lightning moved up, leaving Sierra Cap third.

It was then that Dixie started his dirty work. He was maneuvering Moon Ray into position, to crowd his rival to the rail. But Kelly was not taken unawares, this time. "That dirty rat!" said Tip to Duke. "It's at it again!" He could see the expressions on the two jockey's faces, through his powerful glasses. He could see Kelly's lips move. "Cut it out, Dixie, or I'll murder you," were the words which Kelly said and nobody heard but Dixie. Dixie didn't bother to answer with words. Action was what was needed. He could talk later. He crowded Lightning closer.

Madison was screaming with joy and delight. He clutched at Carol's hand again. "He's going to win. He's got to win." Carol drew her hand away. He was so excited he did not notice it, nor the disdainful glance she gave him. Her eyes went back to Duke again. As she saw him, standing there so straight, so clean-cut, so calm, she thought that if Lightning did not win—if Duke was ruined—she would die.

When Carol's eyes came back to the track, Sierra Cap was out of the race. The race lay between Lightning and Moon Ray. The thousands of men and women in the stands sensed this was no ordinary race. They did not know all that lay behind it—love and hatred, jealousy and hope, fortune or failure—but there was a hush of suspense as Kelly adroitly whipped Lightning out of the pocket and forged half a length ahead. Dixie was cursing. Kelly heard him. But over and above those curses, he heard the shouts from the stands.

The crowd was wild for Lightning, at that moment. The next, the shouting was for Moon Ray. Dixie, his whip snapping against his mount's heaving flanks, moved up neck and neck to the chestnut streak. "I don't have to crowd you!" he called to Kelly with a hateful laugh. "Goodbye, sucker!" He brought down the whip cruelly and Moon Ray shot ahead. The crowd was silent again. It seemed to be holding its breath for the final cheering as Moon Ray, first a nose, then half a length, then a length was out ahead. Carol had put her glasses aside. She did not need them now. The two horses were coming down the home stretch. She could not have held them any longer. Her eyes never left the horses. She did not waver. She did not cry out. But her hands were gripped together until they hurt. Moon Ray was still leading. It looked like the end of Lightning. But Kelly was not beaten yet. Perhaps something of what he was feeling he transmitted to his horse. Perhaps the thoroughbred in some strange way sensed that the little man riding him—a thoroughbred too, in his way—had to win the race. However, that may be, the horse, as well as the man, was putting up a fight to the finish. If they were beaten, it would be only at the end.

"Lightning was gaining!" She was up to Moon Ray! They neared the wire, side by side, neck by neck, hoof-beat matching hoof-beat. Now there was pandemonium in the stands. "Lightning!" "Moon Ray!" "Lightning!" "Moon Ray!" They were within an inch of the wire—together. Then they crossed it—together. The crowd gasped. There was a wait for the decision.

New Research To Raise Crop Values Begun

World's Most Modern Farm Lab Is Opened in Washington

WASHINGTON, June 22 (UP)—The most modern farm laboratory in the world has been opened by the Department of Agriculture in Washington in an effort to raise the standards of American farm products.

In an expensive building are all the latest devices for testing, grading and classification of cotton, grains, wool, hay and other agricultural products. Scientists of many years' experience are in charge.

Agriculture department officials described construction of the new Standardization Building as "another step on the long road of standardization and research that seeks to raise higher the quality of American products."

Bureaus Closely Coordinated

In the building are located the bureaus directing regulatory and marketing agencies dealing with the principal farm products. Technological and economic research scientists also are housed in the air-cooled building.

Cotton experts prepare standards for use in domestic and foreign trade. The appeal board of review examiners, the final authority in the interpretation of standards, has its classing rooms in the building.

Along with cotton standardization and classification work, the physical and chemical properties of cotton fibers, lint and seed will be studied, as a part of the expanded federal-state cotton research program.

All Processes Covered

These studies and tests will be related to practical problems in the principal branches of the cotton enterprise from the production of raw cotton through to the finished products of cotton manufacture.

The building contains a fire-proof cotton warehouse in which can be stored more than 1,000 bales of cotton to be used chiefly in preparation of copies of the official standards. It is the new headquarters for the Bureau of Agricultural Economics' south-wide cotton market news service. It also houses a modern hay-loft—a combination standardization research laboratory and warehouse—with glass north front and scientific devices for analyzing quality and factors in hay.

Fine Imposed Against Charles Owens For Assault

T. C. (Clyde) Miller was acquitted by a county court jury Tuesday morning on a charge of operating an open saloon.

He went to trial after motions by defense attorneys to continue the case and to quash the complaint were overruled by Judge Charles Sullivan. Miller and his employees testified they made no such drink sales as alleged by state liquor control board agents.

The jury was out only a short time.

Charles Owen entered a plea of guilty to a charge of aggravated assault and was fined $37.50 and costs.

Two complaints of swindling by bogus check against J. E. Terry were dismissed.

Cases continued included one against Martha Ringer for operating an open saloon, and Louise Brown, assisting in operating an open saloon.

The court overruled a motion to quash the complaint against H. T. Montgomery, charged with possession of distilled liquor by a holder of wine and beer permit. Case against T. H. Cullen for sale of wine without a permit was passed.

James Madding, Forsan youth charged with negligent homicide as an outgrowth of a crash which resulted in death to a Lamesa woman nine miles south of here a month ago, had his case set from June 25.

Gets 3 Years In Car Theft Case

C. L. Bruce, Midland, was convicted in the 70th district court at Midland Monday of car theft and sentenced to serve three years in prison.

He had entered a plea of not guilty and his counsel moved for dismissal on the grounds of insufficient evidence.

District Attorney Cecil Collings said here Tuesday that the murder case of Winfred Crow, charged with stabbing Raymond Webb to death on June 5, was to go to trial Monday.

In a statement Monday Crow admitted to the stabbing, the district attorney said, but claimed self-defense. Scott Stringer, indicted jointly with Crow, was granted a severance and may not be tried.

The stabbing occurred in front of a Midland dance hall.

Thursday the grand jury will hold its final session of the current Midland term.

RAILWAY WORKERS BALLOT ON STRIKE

CHICAGO, June 22 (UP)—Representatives of the five operating railroad brotherhoods cast ballots today on authorization of a strike vote to force railroad companies to negotiate demands for a 20 percent wage increase.

The strike vote will not necessarily mean a strike, J. A. Phillips of Cedar Rapids, Ia., said, but will be used to force railroads to begin negotiations.

Phillips, president of the order of railroad conductors, said if after a strike date were set the railroads still declined to negotiate the government could enter the dispute as mediator under terms of the railway act.

REPAIR WORK ON RODEO GROUNDS IS MAKING HEADWAY

Construction and repair work in the $10,000 rodeo plant in the southeast part of the city was the only activity of Big Spring's Fourth Annual Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo Tuesday as the complete program for the six shows July 4, 5 and 6 have already been arranged.

Verification of contracts were received Monday from Curly Seale, girl dare-devil rider who will send her mount through a blazing hoop of fire and over a burning automobile; and Bud Spillsbury, who will send his educated horse "Silver King," through a different trick routine in the arena this year.

The main entrance to the grounds is being re-built for this year's show. Cars will be parked west of the main grandstand in a separate enclosure and no spectator will be allowed in the rodeo grounds in an automobile. Parking space is provided free.

WILL SEEK FUNDS FOR COLORADO DAM

WASHINGTON, June 22 (UP)—Senator Tom Connally said today he will offer an amendment to the 1,500,000,000 relief bill to assure completion of the Marshall Ford dam on the Colorado river in Texas with relief funds.

Concerned whether funds could be allocated under the bill because of "work relief" provisions, Connally drafted an amendment which would make legal the granting of funds for the completion of flood control projects already begun and on which other relief money has heretofore been allocated.

He said the amendment also would assure legality of obtaining additional funds for the Brazos river projects.

PARIS, June 22 (UP)—Camille Chauvin, twice premier of France and seven times a cabinet member, sought today a promise of support from the socialist party before trying to form a new government.

The socialists' decision rested with the party's national council, summoned to meet this morning. Their leader, Leon Blum, quit the premiership yesterday when the senate refused to give him what is majority considered too great a power to the country's finances.
