Let us here at the Progress, wish you and yours the very best at this Thanksgiving season. Let's all remember what this holiday is all about and give thanks to our Heavenly Father who has made all of our many blessings possible and the one who will always take care of our needs here on earth. Let's all be so very thankful for our blessings of family and friends. I believe this is the most important blessing that we can receive from God. Some time we take our family and friends and their love and fellowship for granted. But folks, with the blinking of the eye we can lose one of our family or friends and this leaves a void that can never be filled again. So let me remind you to thank God for your family and friends, and of course all the other blessings that He sends our way every day.

May God bless you and yours at this Thanksgiving season and may you enjoy this time with your family and loved ones. God bless!

We stayed with the regular printing schedule for the Progress this week because of the set up we have for printing the Progress. We know that some of you out on the routes did not receive your paper until the day after Thanksgiving. For that we apologize. But sometime things just can't be accomplished. Sorry if your paper was delayed.

It looks as though the peanut farmers are really getting after the peanuts that have not been harvested as yet. It's fantastic how everyone pitches in when things look the worst to help their fellow man out. There have been a lot of empty trailers loaned to folks who needed them, along with helping to combine peanuts, etc. Thank the Good Lord for friends and neighbors.

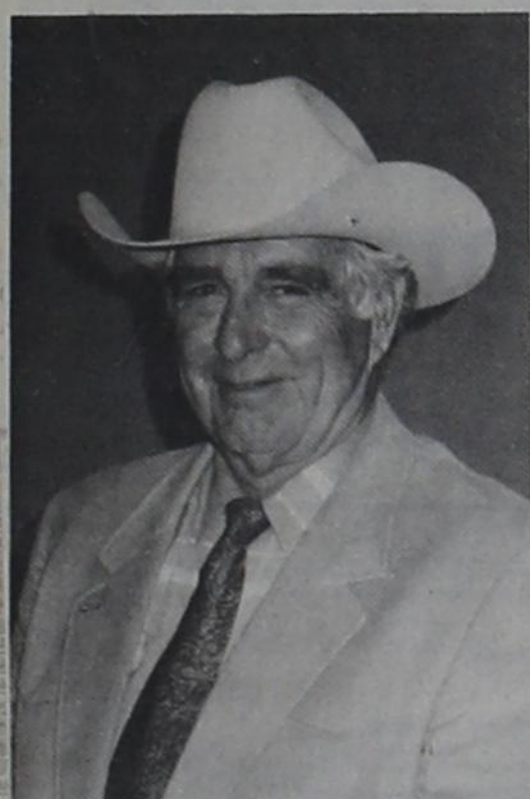

There are quite a few frozen peanuts this year that will hurt the overall picture as the harvest comes down to the end. But I think all in all that the peanut crop this year has been a pretty good one for most folks.

Happy Turkey -- and remember to smile -- because God Loves You!

Chamber Of Commerce Business Spotlight of Month Southwestern Peanut Growers Association

Southwestern Peanut Growers' Association was organized and chartered in August 1937 by the State of Texas.

SWPGA board of directors is administered by seven-elected peanut producers - Charter Members were D. B. Warren and the late Bedford Butler of Gorman, E. E. Blackwell of Ranger and Oscar Schafer of Rising Star.

Ross Wilson has served as Manager of the Association since 1956. He along with the board of directors have been instrumental in providing leadership in the peanut growing areas of Texas, New Mexico, small parts of Arizona, Arkansas and Louisiana to help protect growers interests, and is a solid leader in Washington activities for peanut growers. Also helping keep growers interests united and the peanut program strong. However, non of SWPGA's accomplishments would not have occurred without understanding and support of the grower membership through the years.

SWPGA has served peanut growers well and Gorman is fortunate to have the headquarters located here.

The Association employs 16 people regularly and some 200 at peak season. One on One - SWPGA office personnel devote as much time as necessary in discussions with growers who make telephone inquiries relating to Association pools, farm quota, marketing phases and a variety of other matters.

Grower Meetings - The Association Manager normally participates in winter peanut meetings held by local, county and state associations throughout the Southwest. Aggregate attendance at these meetings is substantial and is representative of the area's leadership.

Price Support Activity - Commodity Credit Corporation contracts each year with the SWPGA to provide price support and supervision functions for CCC. SWPGA contracts without over 100 warehousemen throughout the several peanut producing states. Under the storage contract warehousemen receive, store and deliver the peanuts out of the storage facility as instructed by the Association. By securing warehouses over the entire Southwest production area, growers are assured that the SWPGA price support loan is available at a marketing location convenient to them. That availability of price support is a principal factor in making the peanut program effective for growers.

SWPGA assumes all record keeping and sales accounting for the entire inventory of loan peanuts. The Association also carries out physical supervision on inventory movement and processing wherever applicable. In addition, the Association supervises the delivery, shelling and export/crushing of additional peanuts contracted by shellers.

SWPGA FUNCTIONS

- Making peanut price support loans to growers in all peanut production areas west of the Mississippi River.
- Coordinating farmers stock marketing activities between growers and handlers to maintain commercial markets at not less than the support level.
- Working to maintain an acceptable support level for all producers.
- Working on legislative matters at both the state and national level; also working with USDA to streamline administrative, operating and marketing procedures.
- Working to secure increased state and federal funding for peanut research and extension activity.
- Publication of the Southwestern Peanut Growers' "News" quarterly and continual review with county and local grower groups to provide the latest marketing, legislative and research information.

Christmas Trees Grown Next Door

It must be a dream. As I wonder through acres and acres I look upon trees. Pine trees. Virginia Pines ready to cut myself and take home to decorate and enjoy all season long - It's not a dream.

Gerry and Kathy Enzerink had a dream and have made it a reality for our holiday pleasure. Just 5 miles north of De Leon, Evergreen Acres C.T.F. displays several acres of sheared, long-needle Christmas Trees just waiting to bring holiday pleasure into your home.

Gerry says "you choose the tree, ranging from table top to lobby size, and you cut it with the bow saw provided and we'll be happy to cut it for you."

The Enzerinks planted 2500 seed-

Rain, Freeze Slows Peanut Harvest

Continuing rains and the early freeze are having their adverse effects on this year's peanut harvest according to David Martin, County Executive Director of the Eastland County ASCS office. "The freeze, which occurred about two weeks earlier than normal, is causing many loads of peanuts to grade segregation 2," Martin said. Records transmitted to the Eastland County ASCS office reflect 141 loads of peanuts in the county have graded segregation 2 due to freeze. Good quality peanuts grade segregation 1 and one-half of one percent freeze damage is sufficient for peanuts to be classified as segregation 2. Peanuts that grade segregation 2 must be sold as additional loan peanuts which bring a return of about a fourth of the return on good peanuts.

Martin continued, "The overall grading system is an effort to allow only good quality peanuts to end up in the food trade, but the results can be devastating for individual producers."

Rain has kept many farmers out of wet fields. "The time factor is becoming increasingly critical as stems on dead peanut vines deteriorate. Estimates are that from 10 to 15 days after a killing freeze, peanut vines begin to deteriorate to the point that substantial losses can occur by not having sufficient vine

The meal consisted of turkey and dressing with all the trimmings, even to mince pecan and pumpkin pies.

Those attending were Glenn and Bertha Asher of Morton Valley; Merle Smith of Eastland; Jo Anne Miller and David Hatcher of Fort Worth; Carolyn, Michelle, Chris, Angie and Phillip Johnston of Burleson; Betty Pile of Fort Worth; and Roger Webb of Joshua.

Martin estimated that the harvest was 65 percent complete and records at his office reflect 2,941 loads of peanuts weighing over 26 million pounds have been sold. "Records from peanut buying points to ASCS offices usually lag about a week behind," Martin concluded.

The Eastland County peanut crop production summary as of November 20th with harvest at 65 percent completion showed a total of 2,941 loads, with total poundage at 26,414,852. The pounds per acre sold was 963, with an estimated dollar value of $8,109,123.

Jerry Harris, Chairman of the Texas State ASC Committee, says peanut marketing cards should be returned as soon as possible after marketings are completed for the farm, but no later than November 30, 1991.

Price support on 1991-crop quota or additional peanuts will be available through warehouse-stored and farm-stored loans from harvest time through January 31, 1992. Availability of farm-stored loans on quota peanuts will continue through March 31, 1992.

INSECTS SEEK WINTER HOMES

Unusually warm days are confusing the insects as well as most people. When the cold weather arrives to stay most insects will be seeking places to spend the winter.

Most of the insects are just looking for a place to overwinter and are not establishing permanent residences. These insects will be a nuisance and most of them do not present a great danger to the homeowner.

It is not uncommon for insects to enter attics and garages through cracks in foundation, open windows or spaces around doors.

Mechanical control is possible by caulking all cracks and weather stripping around doors to prevent insect entry. These measures will also make the structure more air-tight and should help lower heating costs. Homeowners should store fire-

The project's goal is to collect stuffed animals that will be distributed to area hospitals, fire departments, emergency medical units, etc. "Hug-A-Bears" will be given by emergency personnel to young victims of tragedy.

Please bring any new or used stuffed animals to the "Hug-A-Bear" collection box at the Citizens State Bank in Gorman. After the stuffed animals have been cleaned and sorted, they will be returned to the community from which they were collected.

We hope you'll help KTXS and your local emergency personnel by donating stuffed animals for the drive.

LOWER PECAN YIELDS EXPECTED TO KEEP PRICES HIGH

Consumers are facing high prices for quality pecans again this year. Supplies may even run short by next fall, given low yields this year and fewer pecans carried over from storage.

First projections placed the 1991 Texas crop at 65 million pounds - higher than last year's 60 million final, but that number keeps slipping due to weather, fungus and insects. The total crop could measure only 50 million pounds unless augmented by native pecans from nontraditional sources, said Dr. George McEachern Horticulturist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"A great deal of change has occurred in the last month in the Texas crop," McEachern said. "Late summer rains and pecan scab, as well as aphids, are reducing quality." Heat and drought over the last two months is slowing down shuck opening.

The latest estimates by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, issued September 10th, projected the nation's crop at 292 million pounds, up 42 percent from last year's production of 205 million pounds. McEachern, however, estimates that the size of the crop has since dropped to 220 million pounds.

"Fungus and insect problems related to heavy rainfall during the late summer reduced yields in East Texas, Louisiana and other eastern states," he said.

The pecan harvest in South Texas has wound down, but it is just getting underway in the rest of the state, McEachern said.

High opening price bids mean good news for the producer, but bad news for the consumer. Quality improved pecans were bringing $1.80 per pound, and natives were selling for $1.20 per pound at the farm level, according to Jose Pena of Uvalde, agricultural economist with the Extension Service.

"The buyers are rewarding quality in pecans," Pena said. "The high opening price bids appear related to extremely low pecan stocks (carried over from the previous year) and a questionable crop in Georgia."

In-shell pecans could bring from $2 to $3 per pound at retail sites such as roadside stands, farmer's markets and direct sales from producer to consumer, Pena said.

Native pecans could bolster the supply but reduce prices this year, said Dr. Sammy Helmers, Extension Horticulturist in El Paso. As many as 40 million pounds of native pecans could be sold on the Texas market this year because of good process.

"If the price holds, you'd be surprised how many natives show up from city parks, county parks, yards, and right-of-ways," Helmers said.

The possible shortage is related to several factors. The USDA's mid-summer estimate of in-shell pecans carried over from the previous year totaled 95.9 million pounds, the second lowest in 12 years and down 26 percent from a year ago, Pena said.

Additionally Georgia, which normally produces 30 percent to 40 percent of the total U. S. pecan crop, has had a difficult growing year.

"Parts of the pecan-growing belt in Georgia have received excessive rains recently," Pena said. "As a result, the size and quality of this year's crop is questionable." The September USDA estimate had placed that state's crop at 115 million pounds, up 77 percent from last year.

The Texas harvest and natural process of shuck opening has been slowed slightly by heat and drought, McEachern said.

"The pecan kernels are made, but the shucks are not opening. The pecans are going to come out - we just have to sit here and wait on them," she said.

South Texas producers were stalled somewhat by wet weather, but have completed their harvest. Quality was reported as good from many producers, but at least one saw his yields reduced by 75 percent.

The harvest is right on schedule for irrigated pecans in West Texas, Helmers said. Producers will soon begin harvesting about 9 million pounds of improved pecans, 65 percent of their normal.

The reduced yields reflect late spring freezes and the normal cycle of "on" and "off" years for pecan trees bearing alternate seasons, he said.
