Most Of The Cash Is Supplied By Uncle Sam

Congress has just voted another billion odd dollars for unemployment relief. Since it costs most, relief is America's most pressing problem of government. This article, the second of three, tells what the costs are and what kind of a run the tax-payers and the unemployed are getting for the money.

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
AP Feature Service Writer

WASHINGTON—To a destitute family, a relief check may be manna from heaven—or it may represent a life without hope.

To a politician, the relief check may be a perplexing problem in government—or it may provide visions of votes.

Those things are debatable. But there is no question that to the treasuries of the United States and its subdivisions, the relief check is a pain in the neck.

For the relief check is more than the public budgets can chew. It is red ink on the public books—red ink that's going to stay on the books for a long time to come.

Cost $4,000 A Minute

In seven years, relief of the unemployed has cost at least thirteen and one-half billion dollars. First cities, counties, and states started spending. Then in 1932 Uncle Sam jumped in. Since then the federal government has far outdistanced the states and cities—forking over ten billions, while the states have chipped in three and a half billions.

Thirteen and a half billions is a lot of money. In the kind of money anybody can count, relief is costing nearly $4,000 a minute. And the rate of spending is going up.

That $4,000 a minute includes some forms of so-called permanent relief—such as CCC, farm security payments, old age pensions and unemployment insurance.

On Relief, With Variations

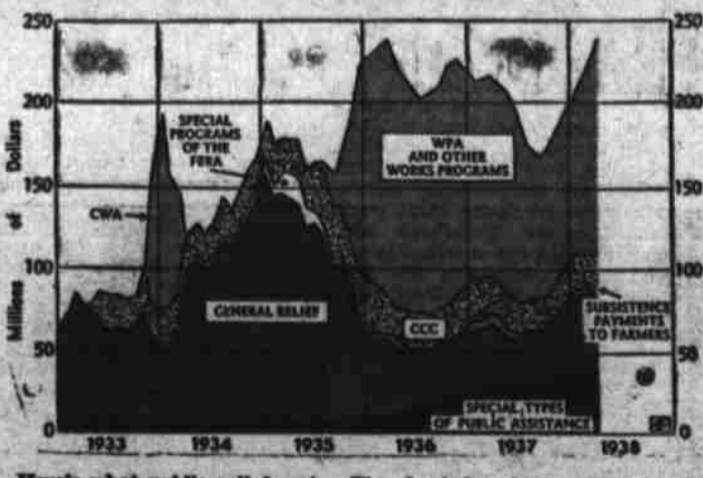

It does NOT count federal pump priming. Throw that in, and the cost of relief since 1931 approaches the astronomical sum of 20 billions of dollars.

Relief, as such, costs big money because each one of the millions requiring relief cannot be dismissed with a handout of a dollar or two a month. At the minimum, he's got to have enough, or what passes for enough, to eat.

Relief people do not receive

They Are Hungry
Their family cut off from city relief when funds ran low, these girls depend on neighbors for food. This time it's spaghetti.

Here's what public relief costs. The chart, based on one prepared by Social Security Board, includes live expense. It shows monthly totals. Cost for March, 1936, for instance, was about $241,900,000.

equal treatment. They receive checks, cash, or groceries and rent in varying amounts, depending on the type of relief they get, the county and state they live in, and the standard of living on which a given kind of relief is based.

First, let's look at federal relief pay — the aristocratic pay in relief society. It is wages received for work especially designed for a destitute citizen can feel he has a job, and say he is "working for the government." Just now there are about 2,600,000 of these people in the United States, or about half the registered relief cases. These are the ones the WPA has chosen as "employables." That is, persons who can do a regular day's work at their trades or professions.

It's Uncle Sam Who Pays

These federal relief workers receive an average of $53 a month. It costs the taxpayers $62 a month to give each one of these workers a job. Here's where the money goes:

Wages of WPA workers.....	$53.00
Material and equipment.....	22.30
Special labor hired locally.....	3.70
Administrative cost.....	2.20
Supervision of work.....	.80
Total .....	$82.00

The administrative cost is the money it costs to see that everybody gets his check, that projects are approved, etc., including generally the cost of managing the business. The special labor item is the labor cost of a WPA project assumed by the city or state sponsoring the project.

To show for this, the taxpayer

Plan Revision Of The Bible

Committee Will Issue New Version In Next Few Years

DALLAS, July 21 (UP)—Dr. Frederick C. Grant, president of Seminary-Western Theological Seminary, announces a revision of the Bible will be attempted by a committee of ten and be published between 1942 and 1944.

Dr. Grant, a member of the faculty of the Texas pastors' school opened at Southern Methodist university, said the revision would be made from the Greek and Hebrew, and King James version of 1881 and the version of 1881-1885. Effort would be made, he said, to recapture the rhythm and style of the older Bibles and at the same time keep the translation in harmony with present-day rules and usage of English.

"The translation," Dr. Grant said, "will attempt to keep the flavor of the old Bible, yet eliminate words, meanings of which have changed and also to omit the characteristics of the revised version that have been criticized. Some believe the revised version too literal, others that needless changes were made in the translation to retain the same translation for a Greek word wherever it appeared."

The committee, appointed by the international council of religious education, has agreed to use the term "the Lord" instead of Jehovah, Dr. Grant explained. "Whatever" will be substituted for "whatsoever," "doe" for "doth" and

"say" for "sayeth."

The passage that reads "Behold, my mother and my brethren" in St. Mark, Dr. Grant, said, will probably read "My mother and my brothers."

At present Dr. Grant is translating the gospel of St. Mark, while other members of the committee are working on the other gospels. The trouble will begin, he said, when the committee gets to the epistles of Paul, which is more difficult Greek and contains possibility of various meanings.

Brisk Demand Continues, U. S. Due To Dominate World Corn Market

CHICAGO, July 21 (UP)—The farm belt's flourishing business in corn with the rest of the world approached all-time record proportions today as the new 1936 crop, with an estimated market value of almost $1,500,000,000, neared tassel stage under generally favorable growing conditions.

Board of trade experts, measuring the steady flow of corn from lake front elevators to seaboard ports for export overseas, said the United States probably would dominate the world market until next spring, and may take international trade away from Argentina, its major competitor, for months to come.

They said the brisk foreign demand has helped to keep corn prices from slipping to the lowest point in four years and promised to be a stabilizing influence during marketing of the 1936 crop. Argentina's crop, harvested a few months ago, was 46 per cent below average and the smallest in 25 years. Farmers of that country will not harvest another crop until early next year. Since April 1 Argentine exports have amounted to only 21,000,000 bushels compared with 215,000,000 during the same period last year. Argentina normally is the world's greatest corn exporting nation.

Since last October more than 105,000,000 bushels of United States wheat have been exported, grain experts said, adding that exports probably would total 140,000,000 to 150,000,000 bushels for the crop year which has three months to go. The record export for a crop year was 166,000,000 bushels in 1922.

American farmers can deliver corn at Liverpool, the principal world import market, about 4 cents cheaper than their Argentine competitors. No. 2 yellow is quoted around 77 cents there compared with 60 cents in Chicago, the difference representing transportation and handling charges.

Ancient Greek City Is Found In France

AVIGNON, France (UP)—The discovery of a 2300-year-old Greek city, in Southern France, recently startled French archeologists.

This section of France is dotted with Roman ruins but this is the first intimation that the Greeks, also, had settled there at least two hundred years before Christ.

Excavations which are proceeding under the direction of Jules Furmege of the French Ministry of Fine Arts showed that life in the ancient city had been luxurious, prosperous and attractive. Many Greek coins which had been minted at nearby Marseilles were also found.

Dear Fellow-Citizen:

We hope you will give your personal support and influence to Col. Ernest O. Thompson for Governor.

We make this appeal because we know him to be a high type Christian gentleman. In him you will find no insincerity—no hypocrisy.

In the World War, and as Mayor of Amarillo, and as Railroad Commissioner, he has served faithfully, honestly and efficiently. Let us call him to a wider field of usefulness. Texas needs him!

Faithfully yours,
J. B. Tidwell, Waco
J. T. Harrington, Waco
J. L. Ward, Decatur
E. G. Gardner, Dallas.

In order to vote for Thompson for governor, draw a line through all the other names on the ballot under the heading 'For Governor.' There is a sample ballot at the right in which all the names are marked out with the exception of Ernest O. Thompson.

While Ernest O. Thompson is fully aware of the needs of the entire state, he is a West Texan and knows its problems first hand! Among the things he has been able to do for West Texas is the special low drought freight rate which was of immeasurable benefit to the ranchmen of this area.

West Texans know that Ernest O. Thompson will make an outstanding and able governor. He is the type of man that every Texan can take pride in presenting as the "Governor of Texas." The kind of man that each one of us can truthfully say is my "Governor." That is why Texans generally, West Texans particularly, and all who know him, are for him.

Football Players Lowest In Classes Survey Discloses

DALLAS (AP)—John B. Windell, who examined the scholastic records of 1,287 athletes, reports that football players are the poorest students.

Windell studied the records of athletes of seven southwestern schools for information to incorporate in a thesis at Southern Methodist university.

He divided the athletes into those who took part only in football, basketball, baseball, track, tennis or golf and those who lettered in two, three, four or five sports.

For single sports, the tennis players had the highest average grades. The order for remaining sports was track, golf, baseball, basketball and football.

Windell decided that students participating in sports requiring individual effort outrank those who compete in sports involving team play.

The one man of the 1,287 who made letters in five sports made the highest grades of them all; but Windell did not consider this conclusive evidence that fire-sport men are the best athletes.

A Ticket To Paris?

Ships Like These Will Put Flights To Europe On A Business Basis

By The AP Feature Service. Next summer you may be able to step up to your travel agent and get an airplane ticket to Europe. Because long before Howard Hughes proved how fast you can get there, aviation companies were planning transatlantic hops on a paying basis.

Fifty or more survey flights are scheduled this summer and four countries are lining up contenders for the North Atlantic business. Here are some of the planes they are entering:

BRITAIN'S ENTRY is this famed pick-a-back combination of the Imperial Airways. The little plane, Mercury, is launched in mid-air from the big plane, Maia. Such a scheme lessens the danger a heavily-loaded plane faces on the take-off. The Mercury is designed to carry 2,500 pounds of mail or freight.

THE FRENCH are counting on this 64-passenger seaplane, Lieutenant de Vaiseau Paris. This is the ship that turned over in a squall off Florida two years ago, but it's been rebuilt. France, the only interested country that made no survey flights last year, has ordered two 66-ton seaplanes (the Lieutenant weighs 40) for passenger service to New York in 1940.

GERMANY usually launches its transatlantic boats by catapult. This is the 35-ton Nordwind, one of the planes with which the Luftthansa expects to conduct weekly experimental flights from Portugal to New York by way of the Azores.

THE UNITED STATES is likely to be less busy over the Atlantic this summer than other nations. For Pan American Airways completed survey flights last summer and is awaiting its new super-clippers, being built in Seattle. They'll be ready in the fall. Here's one of them during a test—it weighs 41 tons, has a maximum speed of 200 miles an hour, can fly 4,000 miles with a payload.

Survey Shows Most Doctors Are Opposed To Socialized Medicine MINNEAPOLIS, July 21 (AP)—Approximately two of every three doctors in the United States oppose reorganization of medical practice along lines of socialized medicine, it is reported in results of a physicians' referendum conducted by Modern Medicine, medical journal published here.

However, of the 14,711 doctors voting in the poll, 55 per cent voted "yes" on the question "do you think that the cost of providing adequate medical care for the medically indigent and the low income group (families with incomes below $1,500 a year) should be met with public funds?"

Eighty-four per cent of those voting favored the present policy of the American Medical Association in studying all plans for the wider distribution of a high standard of medical care with the view toward helping each community to solve the problem and administer a program for itself.

Ninety per cent answered "no" to the fourth question on the ballot, "do you know of any case in your community where an individual or a family, claiming inability to pay, has been refused whatever medical care a physician himself could provide?" Nine per cent of those reporting replied that they knew of such cases. The other one per cent did not answer the question.

The publication said that the vote shows "a definite trend of opinion among United States doctors away from socialized medicine."

Farmers Gather Eggs Deserted By Pheasants BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Boulder county farmers are trying to increase the supply of pheasants with the hope that soon there may be enough of the birds to justify an open season.

Eggs are gathered from abandoned pheasant nests in farm fields. These eggs are sent to a central hatchery and the hatched birds are released within the county. Farmers reported there has been a heavy loss of eggs because pheasant hens abandon their nests when frightened.

Finds Site Where Bandits Buried Their Treasures

DALLAS, July 21 (AP)—Robert F. Cole of Dallas believes a farm home that stood near White Rock lake once was a hideout for bandits more infamous than the number one public enemies of modern days. He said the bandit gangs of Jesse James, Cole Younger and Sam Bass holed-up there between forays.

Cole pointed out an old excavation, now thickly overgrown with weeds and underbrush, as the spot where one of the last hauls of the James gang was buried.

Through the grapevine telegraph by which small boys hear the news of a neighborhood, Cole and his young playmates of more than 50 years ago learned of the treasure, reported to be $40,000 being dug up from the old farm yard long after it was buried, he said.

There had been so many strange goings-on at the old farm home that he and his playmates were fearful of the spot, but managed to get close enough to learn the news. A negro told the youngster he dug the hole when the treasure was buried.

"It was betwixt the smokehouse and the plum thicket, the old dorky was quoted as saying. Cole was uncertain which robbery they money cached at the old farm home represented, but said it was reliably reported that was a serious squabble about the division of the money when it was dug up.

Cole is the son of the late W. R. Cole, early-day surveyor in Dallas county and has lived many years on a farm a short distance from what he described as the hangout of the early-day outlaws.

Terrell's record includes such achievements as lowered freight rates on feed, stocker cattle and cotton, 'drought relief' freight rates which many West Texans have profited, conservation of oil and gas which has meant millions of dollars to the school children of Texas. Maybe the best thing I can do is write about cooking. The only literary work I ever did, aside from screen and stage writing, was to write a cook book.

"I never let a man down yet. Remember, though, that I'm just one puncher—not an army."

That criticism by the president would apply to a large majority of the candidates seeking state office, and salaries, in Texas at this time. For of all the crackpot schemes offered by candidates, Texas seems to have the greatest number.

That title of "Happy" was not given Chandler for nothing. He is back-slapping, manny-singing campaigner with a friendly way that charms even some of his political opponents.

Location Of The State Capital Was Burning Issue Of Campaign In

By ERNEST G. FISCHER Associated Press Writer

Where will the capital be, not "what I'll do when I go to the capital," was one of the principal issues 100 years ago when the Republic of Texas was in the throes of a campaign for the election of a president, all the representatives, and one-third of the senators. While there were personalities, the campaign was primarily a battle of the Colorado river vs. the Brazos river for the location of the permanent capital. There were contrasts to the present campaign for governor. There was the encouragement of immigration in place of the ban on alien labor. Candidates did verbal battle with the "Indians" instead of jostling with the monopoly octopus. Old-age assistance meant keeping one's scalp clear of the tomahawk. Orators "pointed with pride" to the westward tide of empire, but, like today, "viewed with alarm" the staggering debt—more than $1,000,000 for a population of fewer than 75,000 (not counting Indians, variously estimated up to 100,000). Towns ambitious to be the permanent seat of government caught the mud slinging full in the face. Houston had been named the temporary capital until 1840. What? No Corn? The Matagorda Bulletin objected to Houston because "every place was said to be crowded, and little or nothing to eat." One correspondent reported it was no unusual sight to see three or four corpses, victims of fever, picked up on the street. One of the meanest things a candidate could say about a town was there was no corn available. That struck a vital spot in man and beast. Someone buried mud like that in the direction of San Felipe de Austin, on the Brazos river. The Telegraph and Texas Register, then published in San Felipe de Austin, admitted there was a shortage of corn there, but assured the constituents that "within a day's ride there is an abundance of corn." "Nothing Beyond" The Houston Morning Star, a newspaper which came into being after the campaign but before the capital site was selected, objected to Austin because timber and water were reported scarce, because there was no navigable stream, because it was remote from the Gulf where ships might contest the outside world, and "because the town being at the end of the road, beyond which there is nothing to see." In April, 1838, Ellis's League, below the town of Lagrange, on the Colorado river, was selected by a commission as the capital site. President Sam Houston promptly vetoed the bill, explaining that the town of Houston had been made the capital until 1840, that forthcoming congresses might repeal the measure designating the Colorado river site, that the execution of the bill would require one-eighth of the republic's revenue, and that the matter should be left to a vote of the people. Mirabeau B. Lamar, who favored fighting the Indians and putting lively stables where wigwags stood, was elected overwhelmingly over the one surviving opponent. Lamar was inaugurated in December, after another commission to fix a capital site had been named. A place called Waterloo, on the Colorado, became the capital. They named it "Austin." Somehow or other, the lawmakers got some corn for their horses. CARD OF THANKS We wish to thank the many friends who showered us with kindness and sympathy in the death of our loved one. Large Part Of US Still Unmapped SALT LAKE CITY, July 21 (AP)—Men who map transits and steel taps learned today that map making work is far in arrears—that the United States "is the most poorly mapped of all the so-called progressive countries of the world." Addressing the 66th annual convention of the American Society of Civil Engineers, Dr. William Bowie, formerly chief of the division of Geodesy, U. S. coast and geodetic survey, of Washington, D. C., declared, "It is safe to say that not more than 15 per cent of our area is adequately mapped." Dr. Bowie, an international authority on mapping, maintained that lack of good maps hinders development of transportation, communication, flood control, power transmission—all branches of public works. Hartnett Now Chicub Head Grimm Seeks Other Connections After 6-Year Association

CHICAGO, July 21 (AP)—Gabby Hartnett went to work today on a job he had lost hope of getting—manager of Chicago's Cubs.

Steadily for years—until late yesterday when he announced Charlie Grimm's outright release—Owner P. K. Wrigley had said his next manager would not be chosen from the Cub roster...

Wrigley even had asserted a willingness to release the 37-year-old Charles Leo when the veteran catcher's name was mentioned prominently for manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Cincinnati Reds.

But Gaby, Wrigley now says, is the man "who could do the most for the club." The owner of the Cubs added that he had lost a lot of sleep over his athlete's misfortune...

Wrigley said Grimm "has done a great job" but that a change would be "best for the organization." Grimm will be paid until his contract expires December 31. Some what downcast, the jovial former first baseman left for his Missouri farm and hoped to make some connection with another major league club.

He succeeded Rogers Hornsby as manager August 2, 1932, and piloted the Cubs to pennants that year and in 1935. His only comment on his release was a brief "that's baseball." He had a broad grin and a slay on the back for his close friend Hartnett.

The ruddy-faced Gaby will finish out the year under his player-coach contract. No new one has been or will be offered, Wrigley said.

Both Wrigley and the supremely happy Hartnett said the much talked of "board of strategy" would remain unchanged with Tony Lazzeri, the ex-Yankee, remaining as coach and utility player, and Roy Johnson and John (Red) Corridan as coaches.

Farm Population In Texas Remains On Even Keel COLLEGE STATION, July 21 (AP) Farm population in Texas is shown by a survey recently completed by C. Horace Hamilton, economist in rural life, Texas agricultural experiment station, to have remained virtually stationary in 1937.

There was an increase amounting to approximately 1,900 persons but the number of farms operated decreased by more than 20,000. The total farm population Jan. 1, 1938, was found to be 2,291,000 compared to 2,290,000 a year earlier, and the number of farms fell from 498,000 to 478,000.

This decrease in the number of farms, Hamilton said, "is due largely to the increase in farm tractors and to the consequent consolidation of farms into larger units. In the last two years the number of tractors increased approximately 75 per cent."

The number of tractors in use on Texas farms in 1937 was estimated by farm implement news at 98,996. Increased farm births totaling 99,000 against 20,000 deaths gave farm population a gain of 39,000. However, migration from farm to city and city to farm showed a loss of 45,000 in favor of the cities. Movements from farms in other states to Texas farms and the reverse movement gave Texas a gain of 8,000 for a net increase of 1,000.

RE-ELECT C. V. TERRELL RAILROAD COMMISSIONER

(Democratic Primary July 23, 1938)

The need for continuing the services of an experienced, man on the Railroad Commission of Texas, should insure the re-election of C. V. TERRELL, its present Chairman.

His policy of oil and gas conservation has added millions of dollars to the permanent school funds, and should not be disturbed.

His successful efforts for lower freight rates on live stock, cotton, and other commodities have greatly benefited Texas. Thousands have profited from his orders lowering gas rates to the consumer.

His honesty and efficiency in office are unquestioned. His devotion to the cause of Texas education has characterized his entire public career. 100% in favor of organized labor.
