55 MPH National Speed Limit Repealed

The speed limit will rise to 70 mph on about 8,000 miles of Texas highways as the state takes advantage of the elimination of the 55-mph federal speed limit, which has been in effect for more than 20 years.

U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, supported the repeal of the 55-mile-per-hour national speed limit. Gramm had argued that the Texas Legislature is fully capable of setting appropriate speed limits for Texans.

"It's illogical for politicians in Washington to impose the same speed limit regardless of whether its on a 100-mile stretch of the Texas Panhandle of a crowded urban freeway," the senator said.

The federal speed cap comes off on Dec. 8 ending limits that began in 1974. Texas law provides for the 70-mph speed limit to take effect when the federal law is repealed.

Speed limits are only one part of the legislation that designates 160, 955-miles of roads across the country -- primarily interstates and main highways -- as National Highway System and provides $13 billion over two years to upgrade these roads, Gramm said.

Roughly $440 million from the Highway Trust Fund will be spent in each of 1996 and 1997 to help improve and maintain Texas roads, the senator noted.

PARENTING CORNER

Did you know that the average time 10th graders spend each week on five "out-of-school" activities included the following as reported in the Education Week Journal:

- Television . . . 18.34 hours
- Employment . . . 10.65 hours
- Homework . . . 4.25 hours
- Extra Curricular Activities . . . 3.34 hours
- Outside Reading . . . 2.28 hours

During the holidays when kids are out of school, why not do some activities as a family. Instead of watching TV, do:

- *put a puzzle together
- *play table games
- *put all the family pictures in an album and label
- *start a scrapbook for each child which includes their school year and special activities
- *read a book together as a family . . . read a chapter a night out loud. This will be a lot more fun for everyone!

MAMMOGRAPHY CAN SAVE YOUR LIFE!!!

If you are a healthy woman over 40 who never has had a mammogram, the American Cancer Society recommends that you have this simple life-saving procedure now. Since one woman in 10 develops breast cancer at some point in her lifetime, the urgency is real.

A screening mammogram is an x-ray of the breast using extremely low dosages of radiation (usually comparable to dental x-rays) and is designed to find very early cancers.

A female technologist who is highly trained in mammography will perform the examination. These images are then interpreted by a Board Certified Radiologist, and a report is sent to your own doctor. It takes only a few minutes, and can detect incipient breast cancer as small as the period at the end of this sentence.

Early detection (18 months sooner than a lump can be felt) not only permits treatment before the problem becomes serious, but the cure rate is over 90 percent. Mammography cannot only save your life, but help you avoid the need for disfiguring surgery, too.

You don't need to have been a previous patient of ours to receive this screening, but you do need to make an appointment at a time convenient to you.
