A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Wallaby wanted to be free

A pet wallaby who hopped to freedom two months ago shall roam the Arkansas outback no more.

Sharon Wewers of Jonesboro said she received word Monday that her year-old, 2-foot-tall marsupial named Buddy had been spotted at a home less than two miles from hers.

She was able to snatch him by the tail. In his time on the lam, Buddy regularly startled motorists on a nearby highway. Authorities received numerous calls reporting a loose kangaroo.

She also said Buddy's condition was a little worse for wear. "Right now, when you grab him, he's just bony," Wewers said.

She also said he's demonstrating real personality. "He's still mad at me for pulling his tail when I caught him," she said.

Cocaine in crotch turns to bust

A suspected drug trafficker was arrested Saturday in Astoria, Ore., when the cocaine he had stashed down his pants was burning his crotch so much he had to ask police to remove it, police said.

Police pulled over the car in which Roberto Valiente-Martínez, 28, was riding because the driver had parked inside a crosswalk.

After a few minutes, Valiente-Martínez pleaded with Officer William Barnes to remove a bag of cocaine hidden down his pants because it hurt so bad, police said.

Valiente-Martínez was arrested and charged with drug dealing and possession.

Police said he was also carrying heroin.

Muleshoe's emergency sirens to get here early

By RONN SMITH
Editor

Muleshoe's emergency warning system apparently will be in place much sooner than originally expected.

The alarms, which had been anticipated for late winter or early spring delivery, could be here in eight to 10 weeks, according to City Manager Rick Hanna.

The proposal includes a siren to serve the west and southwest parts of town, another to serve the east side and a third for the north side.

Hanna told the city council on Tuesday that the schedule change came about because the same company will be installing sirens in Roswell, N.M., and will combine the jobs while the company's workers are in this part of the country.

In a related development, Todd Ellis, Bailey County's emergency management director, thinks he has found a worthy successor for the job and is ready to hand off the baton.

His choice is Chance Coberly, who retired in Muleshoe after 27 years with the Amarillo Police Department.

The two have already visited a city council meeting to introduce Coberly.

"Chance and I have been talking about him helping with emergency management here in the county," Ellis told council members. "With all my different jobs, I just think I need to turn it over to somebody who has more time to spend on it."

Ellis said he will recommend to County Judge

Grasshoppers infest much of Texas, but crops mostly OK

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

COLLEGE STATION — Producers in some parts of Texas are hopping mad about the high numbers of grasshoppers in their fields and crops, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service reports.

Cherilyn Riley, entomologist for Bailey and Parmer counties, did not return a telephone call seeking comment about the apparently very light grasshopper population this year in the area.

Dr. Cliff Hoelscher, Extension entomologist in College Station, said the grasshopper problem started in early spring and will continue through the summer.

"We have about 63 counties (out of 254) that have very abundant grasshopper populations," Hoelscher said.

But he said that in Southeast Texas, one of the hard-hit areas, forage loss in pastures has not been severe because of the good rainfall the area has had.

"Last year was dry and the grasshoppers ate all the forage," Hoelscher said. "This year the grass is growing quickly and is replacing itself."

He said the real problem is the migration of adult grasshoppers into crops such as corn, sorghum and cotton and into home gardens.

"Homeowners and home gardeners in rural areas have experienced difficulty in achieving control because of migration of the adult grasshoppers," Hoelscher said.

He added that it is easy to kill grasshoppers in a given area, but the mature hoppers simply move back in.

New crop insurance bill to be finished Tuesday

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The Agricultural Risk Protection Act of 1999, which improves producer coverage and flexibility in the federal crop insurance program, is scheduled to be finalized in the U.S. House Agriculture Committee on July 27.

The measure, H.R. 2559, was approved by voice vote Tuesday afternoon by the Subcommittee on Risk Management.

Subcommittee Chairman Tom Ewing, R-Ill., predicted the U.S. House of Representatives would pass the bill in early August.

Ewing also praised the leadership of Committee Chairman Larry Combest, R-Texas, and the contributions of members of the subcommittee and its ranking member, Gary Condit, D-Calif.

"This bipartisan effort to address strengthening of the producer safety net has been admirable," Ewing said. "Our work on this bill will now be evaluated by the full committee in terms of budget costs and producer priorities."

Combest noted the supportive contributions of subcommittee members in their acceptance of the legislation.

Staff training continues in weevil fight

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

Extensive employee training continues in all new boll weevil eradication zones, including the Northwest Plains.

Texas Boll Weevil Eradication Foundation employees are already taking their previous and newly acquired knowledge to the fields.

The ongoing training provides growers who fund their boll-weevil eradication program with knowledgeable and qualified program personnel.

"The training process helps all employees develop and sharpen skills and competencies in a number of different arenas," Program Director Osama El-Lissy said.

"These areas include training in entomology, agronomy,

AROUND MULESHOE

County unemployment at 6 percent

Bailey County's June unemployment rate was 6 percent, according to figures from the Texas Workforce Commission. That compares with a statewide figure of 5.4 percent for the same month, according to the commission.

Bailey County's rate translates to 226 unemployed people in the county, while there were 3,548 reported as having jobs.

Among neighboring counties, Parmer County was reported as having a 3 percent unemployment rate, Castro County 5.3 percent, Cochran County 8.1 percent and Lamb County 8.3 percent.

The commission also reported income figures by county. Bailey and Lamb counties were reported as having per capita incomes of $19,000 to $20,999 per year.

Parmer, Castro and Cochran counties had per capita incomes of $21,000 or more, the highest reporting category.

Meals on Wheels seeks helpers

Berta Combs of Muleshoe's Meals on Wheels program said last week that the program need volunteers to help deliver meals.

Volunteers usually spend an hour weekly; meals are delivered between 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Meals are available to anyone over age 60 who is unable to prepare food for themselves and have no one else to do it for them.

The Muleshoe program serves an average of 808 meals per month, according to Combs.

Five Area promotes two

Five Area Telephone Cooperative has named Mark Washington plant manager and James Byers assistant plant manager.

Washington succeeds Alton Carpenter, who retired after 25 years with Five Area.

He is a Muleshoe native and 1978 Muleshoe High School graduate who joined Five Area shortly after its separation from Bailey County Electric in 1980. His wife is the former Lynda Bell; they have two sons, Eric and Cooper. His parents are George (Coach) and Lois Washington of Muleshoe.

Byers is a native of Abernathy and was employed by GTE for 19 years. He came to Five Area in October 1995 after the cooperative acquired GTE's Muleshoe facilities.

He and his wife, Terry, have two sons, Riley and Russell, both attending Tarleton State University in Stephenville, Texas.

Cheerleading seminar scheduled

Young people interested in learning about cheerleading are invited to participate in the Mini-Mule camp planned by Muleshoe High School cheerleaders on Aug. 9.

During the event, varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders will work with younger potential cheerleaders, who will learn a yell.

The camp is scheduled for 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Muleshoe High School gym, and the deadline for participants to sign up is July 27. The cost is $25; participants should bring a sack lunch.

The deadline for items to appear in Around Muleshoe is 5 p.m. Monday for Thursday's edition and 5 p.m. Thursday for Sunday's edition. Items may be brought to the office at 304 W. Second, mailed to P.O. Box 449, called in to 272-4536 or faxed to 272-3567.

Artworks on exhibit in Clovis

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

Ink and graphite drawings on watercolor paper will be featured through Aug. 31 in an exhibit in the Eula Mae Edwards Museum at Clovis Community College.

The works are by Coral Carson, who has degrees in fine art from West Texas A&M University and the University of Southern Colorado.

A public reception honoring Carson is scheduled for 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. (Mountain time) Aug. 31 in the museum.

"Whether drawings are done in ink or graphite, the process is very similar," Carson says in her artist statement that accompanies the exhibition.

"Lines are layered atop another to illustrate the many layers of the human spirit," she continues. "The lines are connected to each other and eventually give rise to images of what is felt in my heart. ... These ... must be shared with an audience in order to have ... value."

More information about the reception or the exhibit is available by calling Beth DeFoor at (505) 769-4115.

INSURANCE

"We have made a good beginning from today's subcommittee work. Producers will have noticeable improvements to their crop insurance in time for the coverage of the fall crop," Combs said.

"I am much more interested in rewarding production and basing coverage on the productive capability of farmers and ranchers, not on bureaucratic formulas. As we address the outcome of the markets and production on this year's harvest, today's crop insurance improvements will offer producers better risk management choices for the coming crop year."

The crop insurance measure noticeably improves the current risk management structure with better coverage for both production and revenue in the next crop year:

- Affordable coverage at every level, with strong incentives to purchase higher levels of protection, and new flexibility for producers to choose the level of coverage that best meets their needs;

- More affordable policies to protect farmers against price and income loss, in addition to production loss;

- Encouragement of greater flexibility and diversity of coverage by expanding policy development and providing incentives for the creation of new policies;

- Insurance levels better reflected in production capacity by limiting reductions in production history and permitting all farmers the opportunity to drop one to two years of low yields;

- Introduction of a livestock pilot program to test the effectiveness of risk management tools to protect livestock producers;

- Strong compliance and enforcement provisions against fraud, waste and abuse through substantial sanctions for violations, providing monitoring by the Farm Service Agency

EMERGENCY

Marilyn Cox that Coberly be appointed to the position.

Coberly and his wife moved to Muleshoe because she got a job offer at the hospital here.

He said Friday that he had been to Muleshoe about 30 years ago, but that his wife was completely unfamiliar with this area.

Now, he said, she loves her job and the town.

Ellis said Friday that Coberly's experience in dealing with various kinds of emergency situations will make him a big asset for the area. "And with my federal emergency job, and the justice of the peace position, and then here

(at the family business, Ellis Funeral Homes), I just don't think I can do justice to it," he added.

Besides, there is another reason to be considering the switch.

Coberly, a 30-year veteran of law enforcement, told the city council, "My wife mostly got me into this because she doesn't want me hanging around the house."

Teen charged in 2-year-old's death

A 13-year-old Clovis boy has been charged with beating to death his 2-year-old cousin in Hunt County, Texas.

At a detention hearing Monday in Greenville, a judge ordered the boy jailed until a July 29 court date. The suspect's name was not released because of his age.

Officials said the teen-ager was apparently caring for the 2-year-old and a 4-year-old at the time of the incident. The toddler, Darren Daniels, was pronounced dead at Presbyterian Hospital of Greenville when he was taken there Thursday. Preliminary autopsy results indicate that he died of blunt force trauma.

Officials said the teen could face up to 40 years in custody.

Family members say they think other people who were in the house at the time were responsible for the death.

Girlstown sculpture unveiled

Cochran County sculptor Paul Wylie and a crowd of about 500 people were present at Girlstown USA on July 17 for the unveiling of Wylie's sculpture, "Girls Just Take Time."

The statue honors Girlstown's 50th anniversary.

Clovis police chief negotiating

Clovis Police Chief Harry Boden, who has notified the city that he plans to sue the mayor and city manager for $1 million, met Tuesday with representatives of the Hartford Insurance Co., the city's main insurance carrier.

Boden's lawsuit would allege that his civil rights were violated through an attempt to improperly fire him and when he was ordered not to talk to city commissioners about staffing cuts that he opposed.

After Boden's letter to the city became public, 10 of the 13 supervisors in the police department signed a letter of their own saying they had been trying for months to meet with city officials concerning leadership problems they were having with Boden.

Negotiations over Boden's future with the city will continue, City Manager Rodger Bennett said.

County asks state to view finances

The Roosevelt County Commission has passed a resolution calling operation of the county treasurer's office "deficient and not in compliance with state law."

The commissioners asked that the state Department of Finance and Administration conduct an investigation of Treasurer Arla Hitson's operation of the office and temporarily take over day-to-day functions of the office.

Hitson took office Jan. 1, 1997. Three new commissioners took office in January of this year, and tension has been mounting since then.

Commissioner David McDermid has said the commission does not receive monthly reports from the treasurer and the county's school districts are not receiving their disbursements from the treasurer's office.

Hitson has acknowledged that $1.351 million in county money was improperly invested with Edward D. Jones and Co., but she says the state allowed the money to be left there until the investment matured, so the county would not incur any penalties.

The deadline for items to appear in Around Muleshoe is 5 p.m.

Monday for Thursday's edition and 5 p.m. Thursday for Sunday's edition. Items may be brought to the office at 304 W. Second, mailed to P.O. Box 449, called in to 272-4536 or faxed to 272-3567.

Design approved for WWII memorial

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

The proposed National World War II Memorial that will honor the sacrifice and achievement of America's World War II generation has survived the second round of a three-phase design approval process.

The National Capital Planning Commission recently approved Friedrich St. Florian's preliminary design. Earlier, the Commission of Fine Arts gave its approval, calling the design "an eloquent ... statement worthy of the subject and the site."

The design concept was approved last summer. The American Battle Monuments Commission hopes to return to the two commissions for final design approval by the end of this year.

"We are obviously pleased with these results," St. Florian said. "The design is still a work in progress, but it has achieved a greater sense of clarity and unity, and a greater degree of integration into the National Mall. It was gratifying to have that confirmed by the commission. We are eager now to move the design process forward to final approval."

The memorial will pay tribute to the 16 million Americans who served in uniform, the more than 400,000 who gave their lives and the millions more who supported the war effort from the homefront.

The design features a lowered plaza surrounding the Rainbow Pool; two 41-foot granite arches at the north and south ends of the plaza, within which bronze American eagles hold laurels memorializing the victory of the WW II generation; and 56 stone pillars that embrace the plaza.

Individually, the 17-foot pillars represent the states and territories that comprised the U.S. during World War II; collectively they are symbolic of the unity and strength of the nation.

A sacred area at the western side of the plaza will memorialize those Americans who gave their lives, commemorate the sacrifice of America's allies and all of humankind, and celebrate, with a light of freedom, the triumph of light over darkness.

Haydn Williams, chairman of the commission's site and design committee, called the design "a stronger and more powerful composition that respects and complements its historic surroundings."

The memorial will be built on the National Mall in Washington. The commission hopes to break ground for the memorial by Veterans Day 2000. More than $57 million of the $100 million needed to complete the project has been raised.

Information on how to help build the World War II Memorial can be obtained by visiting its web site at www.wwiimemorial.com or by calling the toll-free customer service line at (800) 639-4WW2.

West Texas A&M seeks migrant students for fall enrollments

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

West Texas A&M University is accepting applications from migrant and seasonal farm workers who graduated from high school recently and are interested in obtaining federal financial assistance to the University for the fall semester.

The College Assistance Migrant Program, which is being funded by the U.S. Department of Education, will enable 30 new students to enroll at WTAMU in each of the next five years.

Qualified applicants must have graduated from high school in the last two years and they or their parents must have spent a minimum of 75 documented days in migrant agriculture-related employment in the past 24 months.

Those accepted into the program will receive scholarships for the upcoming fall and spring semesters, monthly stipends, a 50-percent housing waiver, books and supplies and a variety of counseling services, including financial aid advisement and assistance with the application process.

"We're basically trying to provide migrant students with a way to pay for their entire first year of college so that they can live on campus and not have to work," Martin Lopez, University CAMP director, said. "We will try to develop their leadership as well as their academic skills."

CAMP will assist migrant students through their first year at WTAMU, then help them obtain financial aid for their subsequent college years, Lopez said. Participants will continue to receive counseling, tutoring and supplemental instruction as long as they remain at WTAMU. To request a CAMP application, contact Lopez at 806/651-2351 or write to CAMP, WTAMU Box 60094, Canyon, Texas 79016.

God Cares Deeply About Us All—Rich or Poor

Aaaaargh! I don't want to write this! Already way too much has been said, shown, and slathered upon us by the press regarding the "Kennedy tragedy." The whole thing seems to bring welling up within me a wad of cynicism, and that's not good, but here goes.

The plane crash deaths of John F. Kennedy, Jr., his wife, and her sister. The "Kennedy tragedy."

I don't know how to feel about it.

God sees and cares when anyone dies. I believe that. He sees when a sparrow falls. He cares. But as tragic as death is, I doubt that Heaven views the deaths of Kennedys as even a smidgeon more tragic than the deaths of anybody else.

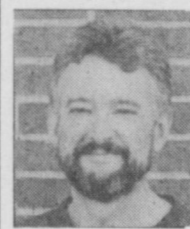

That sounds harsh, I know, and I will admit that I'm not a Kennedy fan and have little respect for the clan. I wouldn't vote for any of them. But, of course, I didn't want JFK to get shot. I do remember where I was when I heard about it. Yes, I did get emotional when little JFK, Jr. saluted. And, yes, I'm sorry the plane went down. But...

I don't want to be cynical. I don't want to betray jealousy (but we fallen humans might as well admit some) of filthy rich, powerful folks like Kennedys. But national mourning just seems a bit overdone.

Have the Kennedys had more than their share of tragedy? Maybe. But I think reality, and actuarial tables, would indicate that while being poor tends to be more unhealthy and dangerous than the alternatives, being very high-profile politically, very rich, and very famous also carries with it some attendant dangers. I'm not poor, but I'll betcha I'll not be dying by assassination (unless I preach a VERY awful sermon) or by crashing a $400,000 airplane.

Does God see and care deeply when celebrities die? Yes. Does God see and care deeply, every bit as much, when little people and "nobodies" die? Yes. You see, the truth, I believe, is not that God doesn't care about the rich; the point is that God's love is so rich and boundless that he cares deeply about us all.

Focus On Faith

Curtis Shelburne

Personally? As a Christian? As an American?

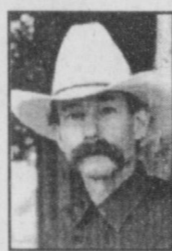

I'm tired of hearing about it. That I know. (I turned to the Weather Channel for, well, weather, and ended up getting an expert's view of how aircraft and other debris might be affected by tides, wind, etc.) As rapid and vacuous as TV all too often is, filling the void with overly sentimental slop from morning to night is not an improvement. If Princess Di's "tragedy" proved anything, aside from the fact that driving fast, recklessly, and sloshed is a very bad idea, it proved to me that media frenzies get old quickly.

Then there's that word. "Tragedy." Hmm.

I suppose the word could be applied to the death of anyone. But it's used more often when the death is sudden or unexpected, negatively spectacular or "untimely." Or if the decedent was famous.

The Renegade Cow

BAXTER BLACK
ON THE EDGE OF COMMON SENSE

Just bring'er on home, the foreman had said
That is, if I found her, of course,
In seventeen sections of canyons and brush
On the back of a nearly broke horse.

Why he even bothered, I'll never know.
She slipped through the gather each year.
I think he was hopin' that I'd up and quit.
To a smart man it would have been clear.

But I saddled up and made for the bluffs,
Think like a cow's how I think,
The creeks had quit runnin', most tanks had gone dry...
So I figgered she'd hunt up a drink.

It was hot as a dashboard in Phoenix in June
When the Yellow Man Spring came in view.
I was stripped to the skivies and knee deep in cool,
When the cow come a'amblin' through.

Whether she jumped the highest or if it was me
Don't matter 'cause she broke and ran.
I swung to the seat slingin' seaweed and moss
Thus exposing my hide to the sun.

She's pickin' a path while I'm building a loop.
I miss the first five that I throw.
But out on the flat on try number six
I catch as she's startin' to slow.

I lay on a trap and she plops to the ground.
I sideline her right front and rear.
I figger a soakin' will break her to drive.
My catch rope slips off past her ear.

When all of a sudden my piggin' string's loose!
She comes off the ground like a rocket.
For a second or two I'm a' straddle her head
Then she's blowin' her snot in my pocket!

She might've been tired but she plowed quite a while Usin' me to turn up the curl.
When she finally got tired of smashin' me flat,
She left me head first in the furrow.

That night at the rancho I told the foreman
I'd bucked off. The story was cleaner.
"That renegade cow?" he asked kinda snooty,
I just told him that I'd never seen her.

Bridal shower held for Rachel Givens

Rachel Givens, bride-elect of Tim Hill, was honored with a bridal shower July 11 in the home of Sandi Chitwood.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Warren and Jennifer Givens; the prospective bridegroom is the son of Rusty and Debbie Tunnell, all of Muleshoe.

cloth, with a fresh-cut sunflower centerpiece, and yellow, blue, and green candles, with decorative jelly jars for serving punch.

Special guests attending the shower were Wynona Myers, grandmother of the bride-elect; Kathy Myers, aunt of the bride-elect; Aurelia Sanders, a special friend of both families, all of the of Earth, Texas; and Debbie Roberts, aunt of the bride-elect of Plainview, Texas.

Hostesses for the shower were Hellen Adrian, Marjorie Precure, Pat Kirk, Gail Bruns, Diana Harrison, Brenda Black, Sandi Chitwood, Gail Wilcox, Kim Beard, Donna Green, Barbara Mutschler, Lanelle Skaggs, Gayla Toombs, Terry Bohler, Nancy Barrier and Lori Haseloff.

Hostess gifts were a barbecue grill, Members Mark cookware, and a stainless steel flatware service set for eight.

The couple married July 24 at Richland Hills Baptist Church of Muleshoe.

Treat for grub worms before August

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL
DALLAS — White grubs may be a less ferocious enemy of Texans striving for the picture-perfect yard this year.

Flights of the June beetle, the adult stage of the white grub, were both earlier and lighter than normal this year, according to Texas A&M entomologists.

"We had substantial flights following our rainy spell in early June," said Dr. Robert Crocker, research entomologist at the Texas A&M Research and Extension Center at Dallas. "But then they sort of fizzled out. Now's the time to treat before the end of July for best control of white grubs."

"This year is different because we have more time than usual to make our applications (because of the beetles' early emergence)," said Dr. Mike Merchant, urban entomologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "The grubs are still small. If people apply pesticides for grubs now, they'll have a better chance of success."

Merchant warns everyone not to spray for an insect they don't have: Make sure grubs are indeed a problem before spraying. Otherwise, pesticide applications are a waste of time and money, not to mention added potential environmental damage should it run off into sewers and streams.

The Extension Service recommends checking for grubs by digging small holes, 3 to 4 inches deep, in several parts of your yard.

"Grubs found now should be in the small stage, less than the length of your thumbnail, with a head about the size of a BB," Merchant said.

"Look for C-shaped, whitish, worm-like insects in the grass root zone. Treat if you have more than four or five grubs per square foot of turf."

"Not all brown spots in lawns are caused by insects. Lack of water and some turfgrass diseases also cause dead spots," he added.

To be sure, Merchant suggests tugging at the grass in the brown area. "If the grass pulls out with no roots attached, or if you can lift entire sections of turf from the soil, you may have grubs," he said.

White grubs hatch from the eggs of June beetles, which normally emerge — as might be expected — in June. About four to six weeks after the major mating flight is the best time to treat.

Gardeners who wait too long to treat — probably after Aug. 1 this year — risk battling the older and more pesticide-tolerant grubs.

A fact sheet on white grub control in turfgrass is available through the Internet at <http://entowww.tamu.edu/extension/lawn.html>.

Cattlemen's College being held in San Antonio

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

The Independent Cattlemen's Association will hold its first "Cattlemen's College" prior to the association's 25th annual trade show and convention Aug. 1-3 in San Antonio's Omni Hotel and Convention Center.

Pfizer Animal Health will co-sponsor the college, which is scheduled for Aug. 1 from 1 p.m. to 8:30 p.m.

The college's featured speakers will include Dr. Cary Bielamowicz of Pfizer, who will show producers how to generate more cash for their product through his class titled "Beef Quality Assurance"; Dr. Lew Hunnicutt of Southwest Texas State University, who will discuss "Efficiency Techniques Within Cow/Calf Production"; and Dr. Robert K. Lyons of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, who will teach a class on "Range Management Decisions."

After a break, speakers will be Ken Weidenfeller, chief pesticide inspector for the Texas Department of Agriculture, who will speak on "Laws and Regulations for Pesticide Control," and Dr. Buddy Faries, associate professor and Extension veterinarian, who will teach the attendees about "Diagnosis of Common Cattle Diseases."

The last two classes qualify for continuing education unit credits.

Advance registration is not required to attend, but producers who RSVP by July 26 are eligible for numerous awards to be given out during the program.

The convention's business session opens Aug. 2 with seminars on animal nutrition and the use of dogs for hunting and herding.

U.S. Rep. Nick Lampson of Beaumont will open the first general session. He is to be followed by Leo McDonnell of the Rancher-Cattlemen Legal Action Fund and Dan Byfield of the American Land Foundation, who will discuss property-rights issues.

The keynote luncheon speaker is George Swan of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, followed by Lisa Williams of the Texas Beef Council.

The day will end with an ice-cream social and a comic presentation on "Leadership, Cowboy Style" by Tim Ryan.

Aug. 3 will feature another business session.

Texas Ranger ends nationwide hunt for suspected serial killer

Texas Ranger Drew Carter last week was credited with bringing Rafael Resendez-Ramirez to justice, ending a nationwide manhunt that began May 27.

Resendez-Ramirez, whose real name is Angel Maturino, is a suspect in nine murders committed in Harris, Colorado and Fayette counties, as well as in Lexington, Ky. Maturino surrendered to Sgt. Carter July 13 on the bridge between El Paso and Ciudad Juarez, Mexico.

Mike Cox, a spokesman for the Texas Department of Public Safety, said Maturino's sister "specifically said that he would surrender only to a Texas Ranger."

Manuela Maturino of Albuquerque, the suspect's sister, summoned Carter via cellular phone while he was fishing on a Texas beach. Carter, along with FBI agents and the U.S. Marshal's office, negotiated the surrender with Manuela Maturino and her minister.

TDH Joins Diabetes Effort

Texas Commissioner of Health William R. Archer, M.D., last week signed an agreement with the Bristol-Myers Squibb Company creating the Texas Diabetes Prevention and Control Initiative, a public-private partnership to prevent, detect and control diabetes in the state.

Bristol-Myers Squibb agreed to provide $1 million in funds and services to the two-year pilot project. Major components of the initiative include public screenings to detect diabetes, an education program for health-care providers and activities to alert the public to diabetes signs and symptoms and help those with diabetes manage their disease.

"Today some 1.6 million Texans have diabetes, but half of them don't know they have it," Archer said. "I'm confident this special partnership will reduce both these numbers in future years and lead to longer healthier lives for our citizens."

The initiative will supplement the health department's professional education, elementary school health, physical activity, prevention, disease management and annual eye examinations programs. The public screening component will be carried out by local agencies in several metropolitan and rural sites to be selected.

Agencies Form Compost Project

The Texas Natural Resource Conservation Commission and the Texas Department of Transportation have teamed up on a project to enrich soils and promote vegetation along some of Texas' 1.3 million acres of highway right-of-way.

The joint effort may expand the market for compost, cut highway maintenance costs and reduce water pollution associated with agricultural and highway pollutant runoff.

A just-completed demonstration project at a highway overpass near Big Spring has resulted in hearty grass cover on steep slopes that repeatedly had frustrated transportation department attempts to establish vegetation. Grass seed mixed with compost and mulch made from cotton gin burs, feedlot manure and city-collected yard trimmings were applied in mid-May at a depth of three-inches on soils at the highway overpass site. By mid-June grass was growing on soils that had laid barren since highway construction in 1968.

A primary goal of the new initiative is to give communities and operators of feedlots expanded local and regional markets for the compost, mulch and manure they generate.

Chancellor Search to Begin

University of Texas regents will begin the search for a new chancellor next month, involving a nationwide sweep for candidates, The Dallas Morning News reported last week. The regents will decide at their Aug. 13 meeting how to proceed with the search.

Chancellor William Cunningham has told the board he will stay in his post until Aug. 31, 2000, to give them ample opportunity to find his successor. He announced last month that he will resign to explore private opportunities or perhaps return to teaching.

The new chancellor will oversee the 15-campus UT system, a $4.88 billion annual budget and more than 76,000 faculty and staff members, as well as 140,000 students.

Other Highlights

Gov. George W. Bush said

high-ranking campaign aide David Beckwith resigned over "stylistic differences" last week. Beckwith left the Bush camp the day after he made disparaging comments about the value and credibility of the upcoming Aug. 14 Iowa straw poll.
