

Al Capone Cleared Of Vagrancy Charges

HOME TOWN TALK

A good example of lack of interest on the part of the citizenship in the school affairs of Big Spring is shown in the fact that the four present school board members, after waiting until a day before election day, were called on to become candidates for re-election or let the offices go begging.

The present board has worked faithfully and well and is efficient. Although the fact that the four whose terms expire will be unopposed for another term assures a good board for the year lack of interest in school affairs is signified by the fact that few people have even thought of the school board election.

People who serve in these important, often troublesome, and always non-remunerative positions deserve the cooperation and thanks of the public. The places are hard to fill, for one cannot please everybody. Friendly slaps on the back rather than blind kicks at the least provocation are always in order.

The same goes for members of the city commission.

Big Spring is doing itself proud by the manner in which the campaign for selection of two commissioners is being conducted.

Discussion of public affairs in a straight-from-the-shoulder manner is always healthful. But any community suffers irreparably from any campaign waged on personalities. We have had some of the latter type. Now we're having one of a much better kind—something that should raise our community's self respect in the eyes of its citizens as well as other communities.

The movement initiated by the Chamber of Commerce and the board of city commissioners to replace "irrity with jobs" is one of the most constructive the community has seen in months.

The family that is in need of necessities of life because of economic conditions beyond its control deserves to be given food and relief.

Any community that neglects its needy is not self-respecting.

However, it is far better for all concerned to provide employment for needy ones than to carry them through with gifts. The man that is worthy of employment or of charity will jump at the chance to work.

With E. F. Robbins, who naturally made himself constantly subject to appointment at the head of important civic committees when he made such success of the 1929 clean-up campaign and Seenic Drive improvement, as head of the steering committee for local employment relief, it is pretty safe to say the movement is going to reach its goal.

Spring Flower Show At Ribble's Attracts Many Visitors On First Day

Three-Inch Carnations; Dollar-Size Sweeps; Easter Lilies; Horn-Fed Geraniums Interest Flower-Lovers

A stream of about 1500 flower-lovers poured into the show rooms of Ribble's, the Florist, yesterday afternoon from 3 o'clock to after midnight, to see the beautiful showing of Easter lilies and spring flowers.

The flowering Catalina orchid, conspicuously placed on the mantelpiece, easily attracted more attention than the other flowers. Next to it in popularity were the yellow calla lilies, yellow as rich country butter; the big blue hydrangea plants, the rosy Scotch heather, the fragrant white Easter lilies, the delicate pink azalea, the plummy white spirea—and a dozen or more other potted plants, many of which were shown in Big Spring for the first time.

German iris, the unbarbed iris, which have never raised in this country, were on display in the refrigerator with other cut flowers.

The greenhouse where the cut flowers are grown, interested garden-lovers as much as the potted plants, because they saw there what could be done with this West Texas soil. Snapdragons of all colors were growing in a bed of soil taken from the grounds south of the shop. They had spikes of blooms eight inches long.

The average carnation in the greenhouse measured three inches across and many of them measured half an inch more. They were grown in all the favorite shades—red and white, pink, and the pink and white crossed which is named the Hilda. They grow nine months out of the year.

The sweetpeas were especially lovely. They were planted, Mr. Ribble said, in a trench four feet deep fertilized from the bottom up. They are easily six feet high with flowers on them large enough to cover a silver dollar.

This is the second flower crop from the greenhouse, which was built a year ago in December. Mr. Ribble plans to extend it later to the street, making it 117 feet long when completed.

South of the display rooms the five lots owned by this nurseryman reveal his plans for the coming summer. On those five lots he will grow 10,000 gladioli, 400 different kinds of roses especially adapted to this climate, 1000 dahlias and 2000 of the handsome large chrysanthemums for fall blooming.

In the room adjoining the greenhouse where most of the potted plants are on display, the same varieties are shown in an earlier stage. Little geraniums are growing lustily on a diet of powdered sheep and goat horns. Small hydrangea, primroses, and other plants are kept in this room until the flowering stage.

About 1000 contestants are trying for the Ribble Word prizes, said Mr. Ribble. The winners will be announced Saturday night. The flower show will close at midnight.

roduced by Val St. Cyr, a London designer.

Paris started dinner pajamas, St. Cyr points out, and he merely carried the idea to its logical conclusion.

Most striking of the suit's details is the dress coat, a replica of the "swallowtail" except that it drops to the ankles. The material is black broadcloth, the design, pockets, are the same.

With the coat is worn a vest of white satin, also designed as is the man's dress waistcoat, and daintily décollete. It has pockets and even a strap and buckle in the back.

The trousers are heavy white satin pajamas, extremely wide at the hem which gives them the effect of a dress at times. These have side pockets and are belted under the waistcoat. There isn't, however, any "boiled shirt" with this outfit.

"We tried to make it as feminine as possible," St. Cyr says, "and I think it's surprisingly how graceful the long coat is on a woman. The suit would excite comment, but not ridicule."

Many smart women with limited clothes budgets are ripping fur collars from suits and replacing them with scarves of plaid wool. A bunny hunt and bag matching plaid added to the ensemble, make the old suit look like new.

Watch Sleevelessness

BY DIANA MERWIN (Associated Press Fashion Editor)
PARIS (UP)—Dressy coats for fashionable femininity will be known by their sleevelessness this spring. The wraps which smart women will wear to informal evening functions and formal afternoon affairs have sleeves of varying from short cape-like designs to wrist-length models—with wide draped cuffs.

Some of the dressy coats have shoulder caps attached to long semi-tight sleeves, while others accent the arm by having no sleeves at all. Dark fabrics, both shiny and dull, designed in wrap-around lines with hoods combined with white or light colors, are favorites.

Full-length black crepe de chine coats with elbow length cape sleeves will be worn with short-sleeved frocks and long black suede gloves. Three-quarter length black satin coats, designed with shirred shawl collars of white satin, will accompany black satin frocks with increased bodies of white satin.

Wraps of black faille with wide deeply-cuffed sleeves of white or chartreuse green faille will be seen with light frocks which match the color of the sleeves.

Full-length dressy wool coats are designed with sleeves puffed at the elbow or richly furled at the cuff. Black, brown, green and marine blue holly-wool coats with semi-fitted waistlines are the favorites. Many of these models have cowl collars lined with light monotone or dark shadow plaid silk, while others have deep collars banded in lynx or silver fox.

CROCHETED YOKE IS NOVELTY NOTE

WASHINGTON, April 1 (UP)—A yoke and puff sleeves of crochet to match the color of the dress are a novel touch in a sports costume which Miss Sylvia Carmel took to Palm Beach with her. Nile green crepe de chine fashions the pleated skirt and blouse which is finished with a papium.

BRIDE'S BOUQUET OF IVORY ORCHIDS
WASHINGTON (UP)—A shower bouquet of ivory color orchids and lilies of the valley was carried by Miss Betty Riddsdale when she became the bride of Donald McCall. Her dress was of ivory antique satin fashioned on close-fitting lines and made with a square-cut train. Her tulle veil was held with a cluster of orange blossoms.

MEXICAN SOMBREROS FOR BEACH WEAR
PARIS (UP)—Mexican sombreros are due for a vogue on summer beaches. Gay colored beach pajamas will be worn or bright hues of white or bright blue straw designed like the hats of Mexican peons.

Albie Booth, captain of the Yale football team, set a record for the school during his freshman year when he was elected leader of the varsity grid, basketball and baseball teams.

A Versatile Fast Day Dish By CAROLINE B. KING

In my household we rather welcome the Lenten season, for it affords us so many opportunities to make use of some of the good things we are apt to neglect in our every day menus. I find that milk is one of the best meat substitutes I can use, and I make it the base of any number of most popular dishes.

Deep Sea Newburg is an especial favorite with my family. It is an easy dish to prepare and with some variations is as appropriate for a company occasion as it is inexpensive and convenient for every day dinners.

Two and one-half cups of milk, 3 tablespoons of flour, 3 tablespoons of butter, with salt, pepper and paprika as desired, form the foundation. The butter and flour are stirred together over the fire to a smooth paste, then the milk is added and the mixture cooked over hot water until it is smooth and thick as rich cream—the seasoning is added last.

Now for a company dinner, I turn in a half pound can each of crab meat, and lobster flaked in good sized pieces, and a can of shrimps which may be halved or left whole. If the affair is a very special one I add also a small can of mushrooms and allow the fish, to cook in the sauce until thoroughly heated. Sometimes just before removing the saucepan from the fire I fold in a well beaten egg and a tablespoon of cherry flavor. The Newburg is served on a platter with a diamond puff border—the diamond puffs being merely a very light baking powder biscuit dough cut in diamonds and baked a nut brown.

For every day occasion I make the Newburg in just the same way substituting canned salmon and tuna fish for the more expensive crab, lobster and shrimp. The mushrooms are omitted, but the egg may be added if desired. A teaspoonful of lemon juice added after the saucepan is removed from the fire makes a tasty change, and the diamond puff border is always present. My Deep Sea Newburg makes a tempting and very substantial Lenten dish.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. McKinley, of Hobbs, N. Mex., were present.

COOKING CROQUETTES AND ROASTING COFFEE HAVE MUCH IN COMMON

Success Depends Upon the Rule—A Little at a Time

Careful cooks do not crowd too many croquettes into the hot fat because they lower the temperature and then absorb grease. Cooking a few at a time prevents this. In roasting coffee there is similar difficulty when too much is roasted at once. It is impossible to control the heat and often, as a result, part of the batch is overdone and part underdone. This causes variation in flavor.

Hills Bros., following the rule in the croquette recipe, roast only a few pounds of coffee at a time by the patented, continuous process—Controlled Roasting. There is no variation in the roast because there is accurate control of the heat, also of the flow of coffee through the roasters. A rare, uniform flavor is developed such as no other coffee has.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee in vacuum cans that keep it fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed from the cans when they are packed, and kept out. Ordinary cans, even if air-tight, do not keep coffee fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can. Hills Bros. Coffee, Inc., Kansas City, Missouri.

SYNOPSIS: John Wayne uses his knowledge of Dr. Charters' criminal past to force his admittance to his nursing home and gain an alibi for the "Spider" Schultz murder. Previously the physician had stolen the entire load from the St. Clair diamond haul, tricking his confederates, Schultz and Chink Dorson. Charters plans to have Wayne's seeming madness certified as insanity so as to remove him. Wayne acts quietly when he meets Marjorie Lauderell, inexplicably ill in the home, where she has been placed by her aunt, Mrs. Lauderdell, former elderly associate of Charters. Dr.
MacAdoo is told by Wayne to ask Charters for a half share of the "Lauderdell 10,000 pounds." Leaving the astounded MacAdoo, whose evil past he knows, Wayne consults the reputedly able Dr.
Studley and later calls on Charters' confidant, Mr. James.

CHAPTER 10
IS WAYNE INSANE?

THE face of Mr. James did not betray his surprise, but its expression, so far as it had an expression at all, was one of concentration.
And that of John Wayne was not dissimilar in expression. The gentle and admirable Dr. Studley would hardly have recognized him as the agreeable visitor of that afternoon.
Mr. James, remaining seated and staring hard, waited for Wayne to speak.

So did John Wayne; and the silence grew more and more uncomfortable.
"Enough it grew unbearable," for Mr. James; and he spoke.
"Well, Mister Mysterious Wayne,"
he growled harshly.
"John Wayne, and Mr. James' ejaculatory reply was uttered, perhaps fortunately, beneath his breath, and respected citizen of New York has only changed the tools of his trade. The march of progress, eh?
A far cry from Hinky Dink's honk-at-onk to the Monastery!"

Mr. James rose from his seat in an unthought gleam in his cold blue eyes.
"You," he snarled, and at the beginning of the word his hands were empty; at the end of it a pistol was thrust half against John Wayne's stomach.
"Tools of my trade, did I say?"
he growled ferociously. "Got any things against this tool?"

"No, you've got it against me," replied John Wayne calmly. "But you haven't got it, Gunman Capite, children are your game."
"Put 'em an' quick!" growled Mr.
James. "Quick I said!"
"I heard you," replied John Wayne. "If I take my hands out of my pockets, it won't be to hold 'em."
replied Wayne, slowly raising his hands. "And besides, I've always thought—when I've seen it done on the stage or in the picture, and indeed in real life—that this class of 'handgun' business is extremely shabby and theatrical, because as near victim beats or pretends to beat the villain, he's only got to go on."

And John Wayne's right hand seized that of Mr. James, knocking it aside as it did so, Wayne twisted the summer's writ with powerful violence. James uttered a swiping cry of pain, and the pistol fell to the ground. As Wayne's left hand closed on his assailant's throat,
"John Wayne," cried Nurse Jones,
"some scum!" he growled, shaking him as a terrier shakes a rat.
"Put I mustn't lose my temper and get rough," he added, as he lifted Mr. James and flung him with crashing force against the wall.

Mr. James gasped, shook his head, and swiftly stooped to where his pistol lay.
Stooping he snatched it and, as he turned, received so terrible a blow beneath his outstretched arm that, with a groan, he collapsed and lay inanimate.
Crossing to the electric bell,
John Wayne pressed it. A minute later a maid entered.
"Will you kindly tell Dr. Charters to come at once to Mr. James' room. He has been taken ill."

Without the formality of a knock, a nurse hurried into the room.
"Mr. James is dead," she said.
"Was he?" asked Nurse Jones,
and seeing the prostrate form of Mr.
James, hurried to where he lay upon his face.
"Was he?" she asked.
"John Wayne regarded the face of Nurse Jones from which the fantasy something had peered out.
"Was she a little less impersonal and detached than well-trained nurses usually are? Or was it merely that she took the very proper view that it was the best sickness and duty of Fate to justify herself, accidents, fits and general affliction only upon inmates of the Monastery and not upon members of the staff?"

"What's happened?" replied Wayne. "Oh, he had a seizure—the throat. As for help, I think Dr. Charters is the proper person to diagnose the case."

Nurse Jones' eye fell upon the automatic pistol she had succeeded in turning the body of Mr. James "secured."
"Mr. God!" she whispered and "secured" accordingly at Mr. Wayne, who, slipping, slipped on the pistol.
"Your mother's best!"
Replied John Wayne, shook his head.
"Not yet," he said, pleasantly and, as he spoke, the door opened and Dr. Charters strode in.
"What's 'his'?" he demanded.
"Jimmy's not . . . and as his presence flashed from the pistol in John Wayne's hand to the motionless form of Mr. James, beside whom the nurse knelt, the mask of "scrutability fell from Dr. Char-

Bad Stomach Cause of Bad Skin
You can't expect to have a good clear fresh-looking complexion if your stomach is weak and disordered.
Undigested food sends poisons through your whole body, pimples appear in your face, skin grows sallow and muddy and loses its color. Your tongue becomes coated, breath most unpleasant. But these troubles will end quickly and skin clear up if you will start today taking that simple herbal compound known to druggists as Tanlac.

Tanlac contains nothing but herbs, barks and roots which have a cleansing, healing effect on a poor upset stomach. Just a tablespoonful before each meal stimulates the digestion naturally so that you can eat what you want without fear of distress.
And when your stomach is in good shape again see how much keener your appetite is—watch how quickly skin begins to grow free of disfiguring eruptions. The cost of Tanlac is less than a cent a dose. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you.

Danger Near Dies
WITHIN a week the nation has been shocked by two spectacular but none the less horrible catastrophes.

Both occurred in the course of regular operation of transportation systems.
Five children were frozen and a dozen of their companions in a school bus were perhaps fatally affected after 36 hours of waiting in a zero Colorado blizzard when their buses stalled.

Eight men died when a large passenger and mail airplane fell in Kansas. This accident was especially shocking because Knute Rockne, a noted man, was among the victims.

These accidents cause us to realize that, no matter how much improvement may be made in vehicles of land and sea and air danger never dies.

We may fly thousands of miles without mishap and then fall off the back stop and be killed.

Reports from the latest aviation transportation concerns the day following the Kansas crash indicated no effect was visible upon airplane.

Most all of us have traveled many miles in automobiles and aircraft but few have been injured.
Yet accidents occur to passengers on highways and rails, too.

Tomorrow—Comforting the Sick

HOLLYWOOD — Producers are actively gambling when they consider the accolade of stardom on unknowns before the public has passed judgment on them, but the odds are by no means against the newcomers if history chooses to repeat itself.

Marlene Diet-rich's success with her first picture in Hollywood was not necessarily the reward of a gamble. As she had proved her worth abroad before how the American fans would receive her was far from certain.

The same was true of Maurice Chevalier, who, although favorably known in France, was a stranger even in the studio which immediately upon his arrival began to sing loudly of his fame.

ENTRIED STARS
The name of Sylvia Sydney as yet means nothing to movie fans, and what measure of fame she has is derived from her stage work. But her studio is going ahead with trumpets and verbal brass-bands, acclaiming her as its special discovery and heralding her as a new star.

And Carmel Barnes, the girl who was persuaded to turn from writing to acting, is in the same position—a studio "star" absolutely unknown to screen fans, whose fate will be decided when her first starring picture is released.

On the other side of the picture may be noted Betty Bronson, who achieved stardom overnight as "Peter Pan," but failed to register again.

Also Ruth Taylor, who was heralded as the blond preferred by gentlemen, but whose brief stay on the screen indicated either that the producer was mistaken or that movie fans are no gentlemen.

Take Black-Draught To Help Throw Out the Poisons Attending Constipation.

"I have used Theford's Black-Draught off and on for twenty-five years, and have found it to be a good medicine," writes Mr. Dave Stewart, of 1912 East Second Street, Austin, Texas. This medicine, he adds, had been used in his father's home for many years and was "our general family medicine."

"My health was always good.
About all I ever took I used for constipation and bilious, sick headaches.

"It is a fine medicine to take when a man gets up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish. After a course of it, I feel fine. It seems to rid the system of poisons which come from constipation."

A somewhat similar experience is described by Mr. M. T. Sandies, of 119 Williams Street, Columbia,
S. C., who says:

"About all the medicine I need is a laxative for constipation. When I get bilious or constipated, I suffer from sick headache, and feel dull, tired and stupid. Then I take a dose of Black-Draught and get relief. It is splendid to cleanse the system."

Dallas Steers Likely To Become Huge Factor In Coming Scramble If Two Problems Can Be Solved

By GEORGE WHITE
Sports Editor, Dallas News
DALLAS, Texas, April 3.—Given a popular new manager, who has been adopted as a son of the city, and assured one of the finest lighting plants in the country for night play, interest in the Dallas baseball club is coming back and the Steers hope to cut a figure in the 1931 Texas League pennant race. What their chances will be depends mainly upon the solution of two big problems, shortstop and one outfield berth. If Happ Morse, who came here from St. Paul in 1926 to be the spare-plug of Dallas' only Dixie champions to date and stayed long enough to be promoted to the managership last winter, can find a capable short fielder and a fly-chaser who can do some consistent long distance hitting, the Steers is likely to become a factor in the coming scramble.

Happ Popular
Hopes of the Steers for an improvement last year are based on Morse's popularity, the added help he will put into the club, an improvement in pitching, and added strength Third-baseman Ernie Holman and Second-baseman Cecil Stewart will provide. Happ has got away to a good start and veteran players say he is handling the team like a boss. Morse has been a manager for ten years. Enthusiasm in the ranks of the athletes is exceedingly high, which is usually the case in the spring when they are fighting for jobs. The nucleus is there for a nine that can be dangerous but in order to put down too much optimism for the Steers, a consistent 1930 outfit may not be out of order. The Steers ran sixth in the second half race last season, thirteen and one half games behind the winning Fort Worth Cats. Starting with the catching department, the best that can be hoped for is the same receiving Dallas got in the last lap last season. Frank Tolbin and Bernie Tomer were here and still are. One may have to be dispensed in order to get a non-class man, Alfred Todd, acquired from Beaumont in a trade for Ernie Lorber, on the roster, in which this department will not be strengthened.

As for the pitching, three of last year's dependables will form the nucleus for the staff, Grady Adams, Lee Meadows and George Murray, all veteran right-handers. Morse plans to carry these along with Southpaw Oscar Fahr, bought from the New Orleans team, where he had been a consistent winner. The main strength added in the firing brigade, however, lies in the crop of non-class men. Dallas this year has the best bunch of young chumpkins in its history and Happ intends to pick three from the lot. Most promising are Ralph Erickson, a rascally pitcher who was with the Pittsburgh Pirates most of last season, and Lou Garland, an immense right-hander, who belonged to the Chicago White Sox but spent 1930 on a farm club. In addition to these, Ralph Stewart, a right-hander from the Southeastern league; Jimmy Minogue, a southpaw, and Maurice Main, a right-hander from the Central league; and Lester Rouprik, a New Orleans sandlotter, look the best.

Half of the infield probably will be the same as last year with Leo Cotter on first and Nick Urban on short, although the latter has competition in the form of a couple of Central League graduates, Dick Harrell and Francis Kelly. Only Kelly is a non-class man and here is where Morse main problem lies. So far Kelly hasn't measured up to requirements and Urban's experience likely will win him the job over Harrell, who has had too much time in the Eastern League to be still rated a rookie. Cecil Stewart and Holman will be at second and third, giving rise to the question how much improvement they can show over Happ Morse and Ralph Michaels of 1930—with such Williams in reserve. Certainly there is no batting threat

TEACH FLYING
COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (INS)—High school students in Colorado Springs are being taught to fly. A glider club recently organized among the students will provide them with instruction in the theory of flight, aerodynamics and construction. A ground training machine is being constructed for practice sessions. The class meets three times a week.

THE WATER BOUNTY

Marcus J. Williamson, who does two things well, namely and to-wit: handle his Boy Scout business and raise a nice crop of mousetraps, tells the story of the Pecos preacher that shot nine holes of golf in one less than nothing. That, at first, sounds very much like Mr. Williamson has been running around with two persons too much. Either he has been hobnobbing with R. C. Hankins, the Midland asset, and Dr. Wofford E. Hardy, his Big Spring cohort, or else he has been going off on mental tangents. Yet, he offers a very logical explanation of the statement. It seems the Pecos preacher never played golf before and they needed him for a tournament. On the par 25 course they gave him a handicap of 35 strokes. Picking up his clubs and his glistening white shirt, he marched forward and shot a 34, two strokes below par, one stroke below his handicap. When he had finished he had one stroke of his 35 handicap left. That, according to the mathematical deductions as handed down by Mr. Williamson, is that. Personally, it's a good thing the Pecos preacher was a preacher.

Another thing regarding the fellow with the dandruffless mousetraps—he is open for offers as a catcher in the city league. He is good, so he says.

The House of David Baseball Club, topped by Grover Cleveland Alexander, who went up and stayed up, and who has come down and is staying down, will play here between the fifth and tenth of May beneath a Texas moon. The tilt will be played at night at Duffy Diamond. According to an epistle received here Thursday night by this department from Roy L. Doan, the manager of the club, the bewhiskered gentlemen with their $20,000 light plant will gallop into this haven for a night game at that time. The City League will sponsor the affair.

The local City League should get underway in fast fashion in another week's time. The first real meeting of the organization is set for Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting will be held at the headquarters of the City League, 1015 E. Tenth. Representatives of the Tigers, the Bankers and Cosmo are asked to attend the parley, elect officers and get the thing started. At that time plans for the night game will be worked out. With these preliminaries over, the work on Duffy Diamond can get started, and things worked into shape in general.

Bruce E. Nesbitt and this department inspected the tottering ball garden yesterday afternoon. We found that nature's original lawnmower, the grass and weeds cropped to a fine edge. There was hardly enough grass near the grandstand for us to flop and rest. A few boards here, a piece of wire over there, a broom all over the grandstand, and Duffy Diamond will assume its playing hue of bygone days. Jim Ellis was solicited to finance the league this year, whereupon he guffawed loudly and announced he was a party of the first part in financing another baseball league once. Which he was.

Those caring for fast track competition might pop in at Steer Stadium this afternoon and see athletes—4 hundred of them, maybe—participate in Big Spring's invitational track and field meet. The events start at 3 o'clock and continue until shortly after 6 p. m. Which means about 6 p. m. or thereabouts.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, Office of the secretary, Washington, D. C. March 6, 1931.—Proposals are hereby solicited, to be opened in the office of the supervising architect, treasury department, Washington, D. C. at 9 o'clock, a. m., on April 10, 1931, for the sale or donation to the United States of preferably a corner lot containing approximately 31,500 square feet, with a dimension of approximately 170 lineal feet, on the more important of the two street frontages, centrally and conveniently located and suitable for a federal building site at Big Spring, Texas. Upon application, the postmaster will supply prospective bidders with a circular giving particulars as to requirements and instructions for preparation of bids and data to accompany same. D. S. Lowman, Assistant Secretary.

The Brownwood scribe continued to deflate this department. Poor fellow. He insists that Brownwood is perfectly capable of supporting a football team, that there never has existed a deficit. But we know better. Last year Big Spring had to go to Brownwood for a football conflict. The game had to be moved to Big Spring because of financial entanglements. He points out that although Brownwood teams have never been much to shout about, they have always been good enough to neck Big Spring aggregations. Still they are not good. Even the Colorado Wolves whammed the Steers all over Howard County last year. There is not a comparison. We maintain—we would—that the Lions belong in the Oil Belt district, and not in this newly carved outfit a thousand or so miles from the Brownwood contingent.

A 'BIG GUN' OF THE CUBS

Hazen "Kiki" Cuyler, shown at his occupation of "fly trap" at the Chicago Cubs training camp on Catalina Island. Cuyler, always a dangerous hitter, batted .255 last year and hopes to keep it up for Manager Hornsby this season.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan Gould

There may be some debate as to just where and how professional wrestling fits into the sporting scheme of things. There is no question, however, that it has struck boom days at a time when many professional as well as amateur sports are feeling the pinch of the times at the box-offices.

Do the crowds literally jam their way into the arenas to see the ponderous fellows grapple and groan and roar, merely because it's all an entertaining show, a hippodrome with some hocus-pocus on the side?

Not if you would believe the earnest assertions of dark-haired, earnestly-built Jim London, the Groco-American who holds the world's heavyweight catch-as-catch-can championship, at least, a major interest in it.

Jim proudly displays the gem-studded and gold-plated belts emblematic of recognition by the National Boxing association and the New York State Athletic commission. He goes to the opera and swims in the best company.

He regards his profession as an art, to be cultivated and lived to a higher plane. He is painfully disturbed by any suggestion he stoop to talking things over with any opponent on the mat, beforehand, or that his manager would resort to such an artifice.

ED GEORGE? HA!
"I tell every man I wrestle if he can throw me, well and good. For a time, yes I may, as you say, 'carry him' if he is not so good. But what good would it do me to take any chances? I work hard to reach the top of my profession. I am recognized as champion. Ed George? I am willing to wrestle him any time. I can beat him, but he will not meet me."

George, the Michigan collegian, is a rival title champion as a result of having thrown Gus Sonnenberg, the Dartmouth alumnus, who won championship honors from Strangler Lewis.

George is recognized in some scattered parts, including California. He has declared his eagerness to wrestle London, to settle all disputes, but the wrestling business is such that it is extremely difficult not impossible to get the rival cliques together for business purposes.

Meanwhile old John Fan, so long as he gets the entertainment and variety he likes, seems undisturbed by any other factors that may enter into the grappling game.

"PA" HOPEFUL
Despite the financial misfortunes attending the heavyweight fistie festivals at Miami this winter, "Pa" Stribling is hopeful that the artistic success of his Walker-Risko show will enable him, with better times, to make a comeback in the Florida sport next winter.

This Game of GOLF

By O. B. Keeler

Almost as soon as Bobby Jones reached California, he and Leo Diegel became involved in a debate concerning the new ball. It was distinctly interesting to listen to these eminent practitioners. It went something like this:

"This new ball," said Bobby, "ought to suit your game fine, Leo. That old favorite cut-pon shot up to the hole should be duck-soup for you now."

"Funny thing about that, Bob," said Leo. "I've practically given up the cut-pon; you don't need to cut the new ball to make it sit down. I've got back on my drive, which I lost for awhile and my long irons are not bad at all. My trouble now is the pitches from 80 to 100 yards—the half-pitches, with the mashie-niblick, that you need to control."

NEW BALL LAZY
"But that's just where I thought the new ball was easiest," replied Bobby. "I can stop the darned thing so promptly and with so little application of control that it really has simplified that part of the game for me."

"That's just it, Bob," was the rejoinder. "You know, with the old ball, I was accustomed to smack it up there on a short pitch, allowing for that one big hop with the old ball always took, before the backspin took hold of the green, and stopped it. This new ball doesn't hop; it just sits down, like a poached egg. And I'm consistently short."

They agreed that the man who administers a lot of backspin to the short pitch should bang the new ball right at the pin.

NICE TO BOBBY
Bobby then recounted an experience recently at East Lake, which, he asserted positively, could not have happened with the old ball.

He was playing with Bill Warren and Herbie Moore Jr., one of the crack kid-golfers of Atlanta, and missed his second shot woefully for the thirteenth green—the winter green, a flat affair sloping to the left, and some distance from the regular green. Indeed, Bobby's ball was in a bunker by the old green, lying close to the sand.

"The green was hard and fast and sloping away from me," said Bobby, "and Berrie had just laid his third shot a foot from the pin. I took a niblick, cut the legs-out from under the ball, and it shot out of that bunker, landed no more than ten inches in front of the hole—and stopped within that distance, about two inches from the hole. The same shot, with the old ball, must inevitably have trickled yards past the flag."

BUILDS AIRSHIP LIKE DUCK
SOUTHGATE, Calif. (INS).—A "duck" plane, invented here is the latest contribution to aviation in Southern California. The queer ship was invented by Earl E. McClary of this city who had spent several years experimenting with airplanes. It resembles a duck. The motor is located in the rear of the fuselage. It is a four passenger cabin plane of monoplane type. The inventor claimed he could land his craft at a speed of thirty miles an hour.

Somehow in the Carolinas, whether or not they found gold, they remained close friends, hence the selection of a name for the younger Dudley.

It is pronounced as though spelled "Clyse" if anybody outside the family cares about all this detail.

After some research, it has been discovered where Clise Dudley, the handsome ex-Brooklyn flinger now with the Phillies, acquired his unusual first name.

Tom Shriver of the Philadelphia Record is authority for the story that Dudley's father and a partner named Clise, prospected for gold in California.

VIENNA CANCER SPECIALISTS DISPUTE NATURE OF SCOURGE

By ALFRED TYRNAUER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

VIENNA, April 3 (AP)—The leading cancer specialists, surgeons, physicians and bacteriologists of Vienna are engaged in one of the most spirited controversies of modern times over the nature of cancer, or possibility of a cure.

Professor J. Hochneegg, Director of the Surgical Clinic of the Vienna University, fired the opening gun in the "cancer war" with the announcement of his conclusion that constant irritation of certain tissues produces cancer cells.

The cancerous cells thus produced by irritation of the tissues are consequently diseased cells of the body organism, and are not strange parasites, the Professor claims. These diseased cells, in turn, poison the tissues and create other diseased cells from healthy ones.

Transmission of cancer cells from one person to another might also be affected, if certain predisposing conditions exist, Hochneegg asserts. Hochneegg's findings are supported by a recent publication by Dr. R. Friedrich, who is Hochneegg's assistant on the subject of transmission of cancer.

One of Friedrich's patients was a man who had a carcinoma of the lip. The carcinoma was in the very corner of the mouth, where patient had his pipe hanging for almost thirty years. A year after this diagnosis was made, the father of the patient came with exactly the same carcinoma in the corner of his underlip. He admitted that he used the pipe of his son, and cut his lip with the razor of his son.

In spite of such evidence, Professor Hochneegg and Dr. Friedrich's views were contradicted by Professor K. Glaesner, chief physician of the Vienna Rainer Hospital for Internal Diseases. He admits that predisposing conditions might exist, and even surmises that cancer disposition might be hereditary. But he holds rather opposing views as to the origin of the cancer. The cause of carcinoma is the abnormal functioning of the digestive organs or more precisely of the glands of the stomach, according to Professor Glaesner.

The pepsin producing glands of the stomach are not only aiding digestion, but produce a fluid, called hormone, which is pumped directly into the blood circulation. This hormone circulating throughout the entire body, has a controlling effect on the growth of certain tissues, and the cessation of its supply is the real causative factor in all cancerous diseases. This fact explains why civilized nations and aged persons are leading in cancer statistics. The "civilized" irrational nourishment, or the old, worn out glands are the ultimate cause of ulcer and cancer.

Professor Glaesner advocates internal treatment of the cancer. He prescribes a strict diet and administers in regular intervals a pepsin extract won from calves' liver, to replace the falling hormone. The two surgeons, Professor Hochneegg and Dr. Friedrich, favor surgical methods, believing that a timely operation is the best and only method to secure permanent results.

Both methods are more or less refuted by the Austrian "cancer specialist," Dr. E. Salzborn. He is a former country practitioner, and claims to have found a specific medicine for cancer. Scientists view his "secret medicine" with contempt, and are inclined to call him a quack, but he has a tremendous following. Thousands of patients believe in him, and in his medicine.

Dr. Salzborn maintains that a person afflicted with a cancerous disease is thoroughly intoxicated. Every cell in his body is bathed in fluids containing poisons, and the normal resistance of all organs is gravely prejudiced. Therefore a general antiseptic treatment in the form of a hunger cure combined with his specific medicine, is the true salvation.

In contradiction to all these theories, Professor Gustav Klein, a noted botanist and biologist, found that cancer shows the characteristics of a contagious disease produced by microorganism.

By a special selective breeding of cells from cancerous human tissue, Professor Klein succeeded in developing spores, which when injected into animals or plants, produce there tumors similar to cancerous tumors in the human body. He claims that this process might also be reversed. After having demonstrated that human cancer can be transmitted to plants, Prof. Klein claims actually to have succeeded in transmitting plant tumors into frogs.

Medical experts, disagreeing as to the nature and cause of cancer, seem to agree only upon the advisability of X-ray and Radium treatment. Surgeons prescribe it after the operation while internists

United States has increased more than 10 per cent each year until 1930, when the increase amounted to only 0.26 per cent, and that the production of "straight-run" gasoline also increased by large percentages each year until 1930, when it decreased 8 per cent. Production of "cracked" gasoline increased 14.7 per cent in 1930.

The Goal

"The fuller utilization of the unit barrel of oil, has been the goal of the refining industry for years," Mapes explained, "and each additional improvement and method of gasoline recovery has automatically reduced the volume of crude oil required to be run to stills to produce a given amount of gasoline."

He estimated between 4,500,000 and 5,000,000 barrels of crude oil would be required daily if the present gasoline demand had to be met by the use of the "straight-run" refining process alone. He said use of the "cracking" process was displaying approximately 2,000,000 barrels of crude oil daily.

The "cracking" process is based on distillation as is "straight-run" refining but involves a chemical change in addition. High temperatures and pressures are used to "crack" the wax or fuel oil left after the "straight-run" gasoline has been removed.

Killing Near Here Figures In Civil Suit

Insurance Firm Seeks To Set Aside Award To Widow and Child

The playing of LaVelle Gipson, 22, by Jim Martin, 56-year-old teamster, was injected into the courts again today with a civil suit filed by the Maryland Casualty Company against Mrs. Connie Gipson and Marion Dolores Gipson, widow and daughter of the youth.

Gipson was shot October 20, 1930, while in the employ of the American Maracaibo Co. on its lease near Fortson. He died three days later in a local hospital.

Martin was convicted of the slaying and given a 99-year sentence in the state penitentiary. His case is now on appeal to the higher court.

The insurance company filed suit in district court to set aside the award of the Industrial Accident Board, which gave to Mrs. Gipson and the baby daughter the sum of $19,040 per week for 360 weeks, or $6,854.40.

One half of the sum goes to Mrs. Gipson, the other half to the daughter, after deduction of attorneys' fees. It must be paid weekly and not in a lump sum, the board held.

The declaration was given following hearing of the suit of LaVelle Gipson, deceased, against the American Maracaibo Oil Co., employer, and the Maryland Casualty Co., insurer.

It is contended that Gipson's slaying was the outgrowth of an argument over company business. There were no eye witnesses to the fatal shooting.

The insurance given by the accident board has accrued since October 20, the date the youth was shot.

The truck had been registered with a 20,000 capacity.

Development of City Government Topic of Classification Speech Before Kiwanians by V. R. Smitham

Kiwanians, in their weekly luncheon Thursday at the Crawford hotel heard a classification talk by V. R. Smitham on evolution of municipal government in the United States; selected Calvin Boykin treasurer for the remainder of the year and indulged in a singing contest.

H. C. Timmons was program chairman of the day. A committee was directed to draft resolutions of condolence to a fellow member, Victor Mellinger, whose mother recently died in Czechoslovakia.

Table No. 5 won the singing contest, presenting "Sweet Adeline," and receiving a brand new horse collar pad as a prize.

Mr. Smitham traced changes in municipal government, beginning in 1816, when New York as an example was controlled by elected officials who handled affairs under the spoils system, with party patronage distributed under orders of politicians.

He spoke, in part, as follows: By 1840 all cities had committed themselves to the three distinctive American contributions to government; a system of checks and balances with the mayor holding veto power; fusion of state and city politics and the spoils system.

After the civil war cities grew so rapidly that municipal institutions and services failed to keep pace. This condition brought about necessity of overcoming independence and corruption in municipal office and of securing a

Prison Blaze Blame Traced To 4 Convicts

One a Suicide, Second Tries to Hang Self After Mate Dies

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 2 (UP)—Four convicts, propelled by an insatiable desire for freedom, started the fire in Ohio penitentiary here last April 21, in which 322 prisoners burned or smothered to death, the United Press learned today from an unimpeachable source.

Of the plotters, one is dead, a suicide who was driven to the verge of insanity by the soul tearing results of the plan.

A second attempted suicide by hanging but was cut down before life was extinct. A third, has finally broken and confessed, and the fourth has supplied fragmentary details that have enabled the United Press to present a vivid picture of the actual setting of the fire.

Complete details of the plot and events preceding the holocaust are in the hands of County Prosecutor Donald J. Hoskins and indictments, naming the principals, will be voted by the county grand jury tomorrow or Friday.

The names of the men associated with the plot, it was learned, are Clinton Grate, known to local convicts as "Cotton"; Huston Gibbons, Gibson, Ohio, known as "The Jew"; Jimmy Maloney, whose actual part in the plot has not been entirely clarified, and James Raymond, 30, Akron burglar.

Raymond hanged himself in the "hole" in the penitentiary August 31, last year. He was placed in solitary at his own request, fearing other convicts who believed he would squeal, would kill him.

His death instrument was a rope improvised from strips torn from his cell mattress.

Raymond's three co-plotters all have made damaging admissions, the United Press learned. They assigned two motives for the conspiracy first that they were determined to escape, possibly by seizing the ladders of city firemen as they came inside the prison walls and second, because they objected to the building of new cell blocks to imprison more convicts.

The fire broke out in these new cell blocks—J and K—which were being constructed just north of blocks G and H where the 322 victims died like caged animals.

The conspirators did not intend to cause the death of their fellow convicts and it was their promise, the United Press was told, that added materially in solving the mystery.

Bridge Parties Not To Be Disturbed Say Officials of City

Following publication Wednesday of an account of an incident at a cafe in the Mexican quarter Tuesday evening, when a regular party of a bridge club was stopped by a city officer, who told players cards could not be dealt in public, city officials Thursday issued a statement for the purpose of answering questions created by the officer's action.

It is not the intention of the city to interfere with card games at parties in cafes and hotels or other places where they are played according to the law, it was declared.

Reason for the Tuesday night action was an indirect outgrowth of several complaints from citizens in various parts of town of disturbing parties indulged in by young people, it was added, which had no connection with the bridge club that happened to be meeting in the cafe.

ORDEAL OF 36 HOURS Ships Fly in Relays To Get Pneumonia Victims To Hospital

TOWNER, Colo., March 28 (AP)—Racing against time, darkness and death, two cabin monopolians were on a frantic mission of mercy late today as they carried pneumonia-stricken child survivors of Towner's bus tragedy in relay flights to a hospital at Lamar, Colo.

Five children died from freezing and exposure and others who survived the 36-hour ordeal in the howling blizzard of Thursday and Friday that hit Southeastern Colorado are suffering with pneumonia and severe frost bite.

Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. But tonight I found out a lot of things without reading em. Bill, our oldest White Hope had a friend that had just come back from some expedition over in China with some College Boys, from Pomona College, of Pomona, Cal. And say, by the way that is one of the best Colleges in this whole Country, they are constantly grooming it for "The Oxford of America."

Well those boys had taken a "Mowies" of their trip and he just brought em up to the Ranch to night and run them, and he told us a lot about China. Well China was having some Liquor Pains, and they decided that the trouble with the Country was that the Officials of the Government was doing too much drinking. So they passed em an Amendment, just exactly the same as the Volstead act. So they passed it to keep the Officials from drinking, then nobody would be an Official, they would rather have the drink than the job.

So they not having a Democratic and Republican Party that was both afraid to say where they stood, in those days you stood where you stood. So they started in having trouble. That old Confucius, in those of that, and here we thought we had the original Bootlegger problem.

Well along came the "Progressives" and held a Convention and decided to amend the Constitution, and put Liquor back with Rice as a National Commodity. So China really had all this fuss that we are having away back before Confucius time. That old Confucius must have been quite a fellow, he was so smart they are just now figuring out what he really meant. But he didn't get so far in his day he had to die to make the Boys believe it. It don't do a fellow much good to be too far ahead of his time. Its better that he be a little Dumber and stay along with the times.

He showed us Movies of that great Chinese wall. It was a good deal like the ones the Republicans erected last year by the Architects Hawley and Reed Smoot. China wanted to keep out her enemies, and Smoot and Hawley wanted to keep out our friends, and also keep out the Chinese.

We keep out everything, unless it is owned by some rich Americans that want to bring it in, then the tariff don't hold. Take oil for instance. You can't bring in wheat, corn, cotton, or any of those in competition with our own, but Oil you can. You can bring it in from Venezuela or any other place that has the first League of Nations, had China was a lot of small Nations and that they formed an exact League of Nations like the one that had the 14 points, and Lodge didn't like any of em. Well they decided that that would be a good way to prevent war, they first got the two biggest ones to it, saying they would fight each other. But they didn't say that they would join together and fight somebody else, so they scared the little ones till they thought they had to join for protection, and they all met and made out a Covenant, and it worked for a little while till they all got back on their feet from the last war and got armaments for the next one, then some Lawyer found a flaw in it, and his country, which was one of the original signers, and the big one, they went out and defended their honor against some small ones, till they took em over, and the breaking up of the League of Chinese Nations was the start of the Chinese Empire. The League worked fine till they found out that the only way you can annex more territory is not by purchase, but by war.

East Texans Fail To Get Continuance

No Witnesses Introduced By Those Opposing Proration HUNTER IS HEARD

AUSTIN, March 28 (AP)—The railroad commission's oil proration hearing was concluded late today after a request for a continuance by east Texans opposing proration had been denied.

The hearing was on placing an initial curb on the production of the new east Texas pools as well as on setting an allowable production figure for the entire state. Today was the fifth day.

The anti-prorationists, whose counsel was headed by Dan Moody, former governor, did not put on a single witness. Moody, in asking for a continuance until April 8, stated there was some testimony he wanted to adduce but that it was at present unavailable.

The central proration committee, which had recommended a daily allowable for the state for the next six months of from 650,000 to 680,000 barrels and for the new east Texas area of from 59,000 to 70,000 barrels closed its case without argument of counsel.

Besides Moody, lawyers who spoke were W. Dewey Lawrence, former assistant attorney general, Tom Beauchamp of Paris, Pierre Allred of Henderson, brother of the present attorney general, and Charles F. Hart of Overton.

The five representatives of the East Texans stated the railroad commission neither should nor was it empowered to curb the flow of the new East Texas area.

Fords to the right; Fords to the left;—and one cut in half. That's in substance, is the free Ford show, which opened this morning in a tent located at the intersection of Fourth and Scurry Streets, on the grounds of the old Central ward school.

The show will continue through Wednesday. The tent will be open from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. each day.

The show arranged by Wolcott Motor Company, local dealer, in cooperation with the Dallas branch of the Ford Motor Company, is free. Officials with the traveling "Ford plant," urged Howard county residents to see the various displays.

A feature of the show is a talking picture which depicts the manufacture of a Ford automobile, from the production of raw material to delivery to the purchaser.

Cut in Half

Probably the most interesting part of the show, with the possible exception of the motion picture, is a new Tudor sedan which is cut in half. Every part of the car is so arranged as to reveal details of construction.

Besides the automobile, which is cut in half, there is a truck chassis so cut away as to reveal the working parts. Officials of the show are on hand to explain every conceivable part of a Ford automobile and truck.

Displays are interesting, and were attracting a great amount of attention when the show opened this morning.

One of the outstanding displays is that containing Johnson gauge blocks. The shiny metal pieces are used in the Ford plan and are made true to exact measurement within one millionth of one inch.

Shock Absorber

Another display is that of the Houdaille hydraulic shock absorber, with which the Ford automobile is equipped before it leaves the factory. The display is so arranged as to show the manner in which the equipment absorbs the shocks of the average road. It is standard equipment of the car.

There is a display of shatter-proof glass, showing the various degrees of break. The glass does not splinter, thereby removing the danger of injury from flying glass. All Ford cars are equipped with this safety measure.

Other exhibits include a board showing the stages in the manufacture of the crankshaft and camshaft, a steel spoke wheel showing its one piece construction, other showing standard accessories and parts, ball bearings, forgings. In a conspicuous place in a photograph of the Ford tri-motored plane, another Ford product.

Although the show is filled with features, probably never brought before the average automobile owner, another interesting phase of the exhibition is the present Ford automobile and truck.

All the body types are featured in the show. Officials courteously show visitors the different models, asking their inspection of the various parts. Truck owners will find the improved chassis interesting. Body types to meet every trucking requirement can be fitted to the Model AA truck.

Although bad weather existed this morning, large crowds were guests of the Ford Company on its opening day. Seats are provided for the picture show.

The exhibit will be open through Wednesday.

WACO THEATRE PANIC INJURES TEN CHILDREN

WACO, Texas, March 28 (AP)—Ten children were carried to hospitals here today after a panic in the Waco theatre during a children's matinee when a fire blew out and an excited woman shouted "fire."

Three of the children were badly injured. It was estimated that 50 were hurt.

The theatre was admitting children for two eggs each which were to be used in a city wide Easter egg hunt. Most of those injured were on a stairway leading to a balcony where they were crushed beneath the frantic mob of children.

The main body of the spectators in the theatre knew nothing about the panic. Those involved were a small number waiting on the mezzanine floor for admission, and another small number going up the west stairs from the first floor lobby. They met about half way up the first flight of stairs, these from above panic stricken by the cry of "fire" and those from below bewildered at the sudden onrush.

In a moment they were tangled in a mass of struggling small humanity, legs and arms wedged grotesquely, terror-stricken and crying out.

Men in the lobby rushed to extricate the youngsters, lifting them from the top of the stack and pulling from beneath, while others hurried up the east stairs and down behind the jam to pull the frightened children from the back of the stack.

The children were piled up four and five deep, according to A. E. Quich, one of those who helped in the work of rescue.

Big Spring Man Takes Bride In Sunday Rites

Miss Hazel Smyth and Horace Reagan Married

Miss Hazel Smyth of Lubbock and Horace Reagan of this city were united in marriage in a simple but lovely wedding ceremony Sunday afternoon at 5 o'clock in the First Baptist Church of Lubbock.

Before an improvised altar of calla lilies the ceremony was read by the Rev. R. C. Campbell, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The bride's attendant was Miss Grace Draper.

In the presence of few friends and relatives, the bride advanced on the arm of her brother, J. C. Smyth, to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" played by Miss Blanche Fann on the violin with Miss Hazel Kokanour at the piano.

Her costume was a gray ensemble with matching accessories. With it she carried a bride's bouquet of sweet peas in pastel shades.

The guests were Mrs. C. C. Smyth, of Fort Worth, mother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. E. Reagan, of Big Spring, parents of the groom; J. C. Smyth, of Snyder, brother of the bride, and Mrs. J. C. Smyth; and Misses Grace Draper, Blanche Fann and Hazel Kokanour.

Mrs. Horace Reagan, after attending Baylor University, was employed in Big Spring as technician for the Bivings and Barcus Hospital, where she and Mr. Reagan met. She has been laboratory technician at the Lubbock Sanitarium for the last two years. Mr. Reagan, a Big Spring boy, is an employee of the post office here.

Mr. and Mrs. Reagan left immediately after the ceremony for a honeymoon trip in New Mexico and points west.

They will make their home in Big Spring on East Fourteenth street where Horace Reagan is erecting a residence.

Although bad weather existed this morning, large crowds were guests of the Ford Company on its opening day. Seats are provided for the picture show.

The exhibit will be open through Wednesday.

Other Exhibits

Other exhibits include a board showing the stages in the manufacture of the crankshaft and camshaft, a steel spoke wheel showing its one piece construction, other showing standard accessories and parts, ball bearings, forgings. In a conspicuous place in a photograph of the Ford tri-motored plane, another Ford product.

Although the show is filled with features, probably never brought before the average automobile owner, another interesting phase of the exhibition is the present Ford automobile and truck.

All the body types are featured in the show. Officials courteously show visitors the different models, asking their inspection of the various parts. Truck owners will find the improved chassis interesting. Body types to meet every trucking requirement can be fitted to the Model AA truck.

WOMAN MEMBER BLOCKS VOTE ON PASSAGE OF BOLLWORM BILL

AUSTIN, March 27 (AP)—Passage of the bill to appropriate $300,000 to reimburse West Texas for losses incurred by the pink bollworm quarantine in 1929-30, was temporarily blocked in the house today when Mrs. Strong of Stoum asked time in which to prepare an amendment to appropriate money to repay east Texas for losses sustained because of tick quarantines.

The bill was pending before the house at noon recess.

First Meeting of City League Held, Another Scheduled for Monday Night

The 1931 City League got underway Thursday night, when a meeting of interested parties was held at the Herald office.

Nothing definite was done, although a tentative outline of teams was made.

Ira Thurman, West Texas National Bank, declared the Bankers will have a team this year. The Mexican Tigers will be in shape to participate also.

It is possible that the other two clubs will come from Concho and Corden Refinery, although it has not been definitely decided.

Another meeting of players and club officials will be held at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at the Herald office.

At that time a president and secretary-treasurer will be elected. The clubs will be organized and a schedule adopted.

Work of making an estimate of the cost of obtaining right-of-way in Howard county for the proposed Texas & Pacific Northern railway, from Big Spring to Vega, Lubbock and Amarillo, was started Saturday following a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce committee held Friday night.

Five committees, the members of which will confer with 37 land owners in Howard County, were appointed.

The committees are composed of Dr. G. T. Hall and L. S. Patterson; R. L. Price and Joseph Edwards; R. L. Cook and George White; R. T. Piner and Clyde E. Thomas; T. S. Currie and Ray Wilcox; and Garland Woodward.

The land owners along the proposed right-of-way will be seen by the committee members with reference to obtaining the 100 foot strip across the county.

The committee members will reconvene Tuesday, April 7, and make a report of conditions along the route.

Mrs. J. H. Rives Is Hostess To Her Club Friends

Mrs. J. H. Rives entertained a group of friends at Mrs. E. M. La Boff's home Friday afternoon with a lovely Easter party for her friends of the Bluebonnet Bridge Club.

The pastel colors of Easter were carried out in the tallies and refreshments. Four lovely prizes were presented during the afternoon.

Mrs. Baker made high score and was given a potted plant. Mrs. Miller cut high and was given a kitchen clock. Mrs. Shive made low score and was given a silver tomato server. Mrs. La Boff was presented with a set of silver tea spoons in token of her friendship for Mrs. Rives, who is leaving to make her home in Corpus Christi.

Mrs. Rives was presented by her friends with a box of lovely linen handkerchiefs on which was painted a beautiful bluebonnet scene.

The guests were: Meses. Sam Baker, Gus Pickle, Herman Pickle, W. D. McDonald, W. A. Gilmer, J. R. Hodges.

Coldest March Weather Since 1899 Registered At Amarillo; Drifted Snow Paralyzes Traffic

AMARILLO, Texas, March 27 (AP)—Swept last night and this morning by a severe blizzard that brought the lowest late March temperatures in 32 years, and snowfall that amounted to ten inches in Amarillo, the Panhandle was promised clear skies but still lower temperatures tonight.

Down to minimum of 7 degrees above zero last night, the mercury climbed to 13 at noon today, but will hover around the zero mark tonight, the weather man announced. The in was peeping through the storm clouds at brief intervals shortly after noon, and it was still snowing, but clear, cold weather was forecast.

Lashed by the most biting wind and blowing snow of the winter, Amarillo appeared a "ghost city" today. Office buildings were empty, many stores were closed, and the streets were deserted. Business men could not reach their shops nor professional men their offices.

About ten per cent of the school enrollment reached the school buildings, and teachers who braved the storm were holding pupils only long enough to arrange for their return home.

Two persons, a girl of 13 and a youth of 21 were reported lost in the storm near the city limits. Patrolmen and officers were searching for them.

No trains were moving over the Rock Island any direction from Amarillo. The west bound passenger train was snowbound at Shamrock, and the eastbound was held at Tucuman, N. M. rail officials saying it would be late tonight before traffic is resumed.

The north bound Fort Worth and Denver passenger train due here early this morning was blocked at Claude. It is expected to reach Amarillo shortly after noon. Trains were running over the Santa Fe, but were behind schedule.

Joy Riders Decide To Use Just Anybody's Car In Local Cases

Car thieves, now operating in Big Spring, are turning out to be merely joy-riders without an available vehicle.

A car stolen from T. J. Dostalik, from in front of his home, 604 Runnels Street, Saturday night, was found two hours later parked in front of the house on the opposite side of the house.

An automobile belonging to Miss Nell Hatch, stolen Tuesday night, was found the following afternoon where it had been abandoned in the southeast part of the city. Nothing was missing from the car.

The Dog and His Day

MORE THAN 2500 pedigreed dogs are barking hilariously at one another at America's biggest dog show in New York City. And not an Airdale or a collie among them realizes that they are really holding a dogs' rights convention.

The health commissions of New York city has predicted that dogs may be barred from that city within a few years. The population is growing rapidly. Quarters are close. And it is unhealthy to have the canine influence around.

It is probably a wise prediction. Especially for the dogs. For no dog should be shut up in a handbox of a room when there are meadows to roam and high green hills to climb. No dog should have to sniff at trails which he may never take. He belongs to the out-doors and he should have the privilege of his birthright.

Dogs miss so much when they live in cities. They can't have a lay sort of fellowship with the dog next door, or get a little honest pride out of sending somebody's kitten scurrying up a tree. There aren't any small boys with whom they can roam, wagging their tails at life in general. They have to let someone put a leather leash around their necks and lead them decorously down a paved street. And it's hard on a dog.

The canine fraternity is making its last stand in New York City, perhaps. Maybe outstanding members of the clan won't be called together after a while. And of course they miss the silver cups and blue ribbons which they admire.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Dreiser Exposes Himself

Kansas City Star: THEODORE DREISER deliberately adds to our disappointment in him. He does take note of the fact that Sinclair Lewis "has a reputation for being offensive," and confesses he does not know why Lewis "is that way," but he seems to have regrets about slapping "Red" for his offensiveness. In spite of the satisfaction he gave the country by his retaliation. He gives qualified praise to several of Lewis' books, and adds that he likes him, although "if he is a Christian, he is the most alcoholic Christian I ever saw."

Of course, this tame sequence to a dramatic incident might have been expected. Dreiser and Lewis have too much in common to hold enduring grudges against each other. Their chief bond is anti-American cynicism. Lewis gained his following by scorn and abuse, often scoffing at standards far superior to those he himself observes. Dreiser made headway more ploddingly, more deservingly, although concentrating on sordid realism. But whatever the verity of his expostions may be, he has mistaken the field of his study for the American social order. He has displayed a shortsightedness that is not uncommon to dredgers. He has reached the depth of cynicism in which he believes that every man has his price, from President to taxi driver. Disposed to regard communism as a relief from existing conditions, he admits that leaders of communism might sell out. Seeing that 80 per cent of our adult population "have 11-year minds," he seems not to get much satisfaction even out of the large sale of his own books. Yet he seems inclined to the noncommunist, capitalistic idea of enriching himself further by means of this mental shallowness. At least he is on his way to Los Angeles to help in a film dramatization of one of his works.

It was a rather peculiar state of mind that Mr. Dreiser revealed in his Kansas City interview. He was traveling by airplane, but found no happiness in the achievement of air travel. In fact, here is a man who had just seen the sordid so long powerful writer as to expose him as he now exposes himself.

HOW'S your HEALTH

Edited by Dr. Lago Goldston, Academy of Medicine

FANCY DIETS
The rustic who defined diet as meaning that we die from what we eat, was not entirely wrong. This definition would particularly hold in those cases where diet is based on "style" rather than on positive knowledge.

Positive knowledge, however, is but a small portion of our accepted food lore. As Dr. Eugene F. DuBois pointed out in a recent discussion of "Diet in Disease" our food habits are largely a matter of local custom.

"We are accustomed," he said, "to three meals a day at certain hours. The number of the meals and the hours are largely determined by chance, and, as every traveler knows, the number of meals and the hours vary widely in different countries."

"Primitive man probably got along very well with wide variations in his meal hours. Different races set along very well with enormous differences in food materials."

In recent years the diet situation has been highly complicated by the advent of high pressure salesmanship. Scores of claims are made on behalf of foods, some of which are only partially warranted and others of which are without any basis in fact.

Parallel with the agitation, and the general increased interest in diet, there has developed the idea that diets may be used as specific remedies.

Dr. Dubois quoted a book, "not a bad one," as he put it, which gives a nutritious diet for "an adult, male, stock-broker, under nerve strain"; a diet "for a traveling man who is liable to suffer from gastritis and chronic alcoholism."

A fattening diet for frail young mothers and still another for "spinster with impaired digestion" are listed.

Hollywood Sights

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Studies in their perpetual quest for new stellar material do not always force their discoveries, like hot-house blooms, upon the market immediately, to flourish according to their strength.

Every studio has had its flash-in-the-pan stars, its one-picture scintillations. They are victims of too great an expectation, who, had they served an apprenticeship of smaller roles, might have developed substantially and solidly.

One studio now has a school for the training of selected new talent, and occasionally a case is found like that of Yvonne Pelletier. She is regarded as one of her studio's best future prospects, although in her year under contract she has not appeared on the screen in a single scene.

INVESTMENTS
In a similar position until last year, was young Joe McCrea, athletic juvenile, who was under contract about a year before he received his first part in "The Silver Horde," which really began his career.

Yvonne Pelletier was 15 last November, and the studio considers it worth-while to pay her salary even with no parts for her now. They are confident of her future value—like investing in a gilt-edged security.

The child, as eager for a screen chance as though she were again an extra, is studying voice, dancing and foreign languages while awaiting her chance.

Her discovery, by the way, was the climax to another of Hollywood's Cinderella stories. A fruitless seeking for extra work, Yvonne was about to be sent away to boarding school so her mother could get a job, which was impossible while she had to escort the child on the studio rounds.

That was when a gruff-spoken assistant casting director noticed her, and asked for her photograph. A short time later she received her first work.

Living Room Contests Under Way

Mrs. W. C. Rogers and Mrs. Dave Leatherwood Working To Win This Year's Prizes

Dear Club Members:
I wonder if all the living room contestants are working as hard as Mrs. W. C. Rogers and Mrs. Dave Leatherwood.

Mrs. Rogers had her dining room sheetrocked, so she could move her living room furniture in this room. Then she and Mr. Rogers papered it. She had a new floor put in the room. She purchased paint for the woodwork, and filler and varnish for the floor. She is defraying the expenses by sale of produce and home made cakes. When she decides she must have something she has not planned for, she starts using the telephone to get orders for more cakes and more pounds of butter. Last year her sales of milk, butter, poultry products and cooked foods paid for a new refrigerator, a large chicken house, built by a plan from A&M college, feed bills, groceries and car expense.

Mrs. Dave Leatherwood practiced hanging paper by papering her kitchen, and started in on her living room. She tore all the old paper off, and by the way, saved a sample of the old kitchen ceiling to compare with the new one. After covering the walls with new light paper she found it necessary to practise painting woodwork so there would not be a contrast between that in her kitchen, and her clean paper.

Both of these women are enlisting their husbands in the work. Mrs. Rogers and Mrs. Leatherwood are both working to win a prize but both say that the prize is a second priority, the first being improved living conditions.

Sincerely,
LOUCILE ALLGOOD.

regularly liquidated by issuance of bonds.

"There came a great emergency. The yearling was partially destroyed the city of Galveston, September 8, 1900. While the city lay prostrate its officials were wrangling over awarding of contracts for clearing away the ruins. The treasury was empty. Some of the leading business men, who had previously been ignored, stepped in.

"In place of a mayor and aldermen a commission of five members was set up. Originally this new charter provided for election of two by city voters and appointment of three by the governor. The gubernatorial power to appoint city officials was held unconstitutional and the charter was amended to allow the people of Galveston to elect all five.

Definite Departments
"Each of four commissioners were given definite departments; finance and revenue, water and sewerage, police and fire, streets and public works. One of the commissioners was placed at the head of the public works department.

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF BIG SPRING, TEXAS, PROHIBITING ALL PERSONS FROM GOING UPON OR ACROSS ANY PART OF THE LAWN OR GROUNDS OF HOWARD COUNTY COURT HOUSE, EXCEPT UPON ESTABLISHED WALKS; PROVIDING PENALTY FOR VIOLATIONS; AND DECLARING AN EMERGENCY.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE CITY COMMISSION OF THE CITY OF BIG SPRING, TEXAS:
Section 1. It shall hereafter be unlawful for any person to go upon or across any part of the lawn or grounds surrounding the Court House of Howard County, in City of Big Spring, Texas, save and except upon the established walks designed and intended for entering and leaving said Court House and traversing said grounds. Provided however, that this ordinance shall become effective only when suitable markers have been placed on said lawn and grounds warning the public to stay off of same, and this ordinance shall be effective only as to such parts of said grounds as are marked with intelligible warning signs so placed as to be easily seen by the public.

Section 2. Any person violating the preceding section of this ordinance shall, upon conviction, be punished by a fine not less than $100 and not more than $1000.

Section 3. The fact that Howard County is improving the Court House lawn, and trying to get grass set thereon, renders it necessary that the public refrain from walking upon such grounds, and creates and is hereby declared to be an emergency necessitating the suspension of the rule requiring ordinances to read at most than one meeting before passage, and such ordinance shall be effective from and after its passage and approval as required by law.

of each department and the fifth was named mayor and took no department, but was charged with the general supervision of the entire field of administration.

"This form proved to be such an improvement that it spread to cities all over the nation in a few years. Although the commission form was found to be much more satisfactory than any other had been up to that time it had its defects. The principal one was failure to effect a real concentration of administrative responsibility. The other disadvantage was that the commissioners at the head of departments had no special training for their work. The commission proved to be a five-headed municipal executive. It provided no apex of control and responsibility in administrative affairs.

"In 1908 the city of Staunton, Va., mindful of the commission form's defects, voted to elect five commissioners and allow to appoint a chief executive with authority over all administrative officers of the city. This form, called the commission-manager form, has spread to 452 cities in the United States and Canada.

"The relation of the city manager to the city commission is identical with that of a manager of a private corporation to the board of directors or the superintendent of the school board.

Duties
"Duties of the city manager, as provided in commission-manager charters are: (1) advisor to the city commission on all questions of municipal policy; (2) attendance upon all meetings of the city commission, taking part in discussion but not voting; (3) providing the commission with such data as it may need for reaching decisions; (4) to see that all laws and ordinances are enforced; (5) to appoint all heads of departments, subject to approval of the commission, with authority to discharge any city employe without recourse; (6)

Wife, Gas, Scare Man
In Dead of Night
"Overcome by stomach gas in the dead of night, I scared my husband badly. He got Adierika and it ended the gas."—Mrs. M. Owen.

Adierika relieves stomach gas in TEN minutes! Acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel, removing old poisonous waste you never knew was there. Don't fool with medicine which cleans only PART of bowels, but let Adierika give stomach and bowels a REAL cleaning and get rid of all gas! Cunningham & Phillips, druggists, and J. D. Biles—Adv.

to carry out policies adopted by the city commission; (7) to prepare a budget annually, subject to approval of the commission; (8) to instruct all heads of departments, securing proper interlocking of their functions, investigating complaints concerning their work and composing any differences which may arise among them.

"In conclusion, the purpose of the commission-manager form is to establish a real pivot of administrative authority and to place this under trained control.

"On the other hand it seeks to avoid the one-man government which was developed in mayor-and-council cities. The city manager has no right to settle any questions of general policy at his own discretion but the strong mayor form gave that officer possession of such authority over a wide range.

"It seems to encourage, although it cannot guarantee, reasonably secure tenure of office, thus making more practical the carrying out of projects extending over a term of years. It leaves the lines of responsibility unmistakably clear.

"It endeavors to establish, as between experts and laymen, the type of relationship which prevails in all well managed non-public enterprises.

"The provisions that the city manager shall have the right to be present at all meetings of the city commission promotes frankness and fair dealing.

"Being enthusiastic about the merits of the commission manager form of government has not caused me to overlook the fact that it has its disadvantages but it is a well recognized fact that no form of equal efficiency has ever been advanced.

A recommendation on his application for a renewal of license for station KGEF is expected within a few weeks and will provoke much discussion.

Shuler is accused of using his station to attack the courts, the bar association, the chamber of commerce, public officials, the community chest, religious denominations, Jews, the W.C.T.U., the Anti-Saloon League, and creating strife and turmoil by personal threats.

First Settles Dinner Dance, With Presentation Of Grissom-Robertson Styles, Staged In Setting Of Unusual Beauty Heartily Received By Diners

The first weekly dinner dance and styles presentation of the Settles hotel, in which Grissom-Robertson Styles joined, was featured Tuesday evening not by the individual brilliance of any performer, nor by the crowd in attendance, but—well, the whole show was a brilliant affair.

From the first course of the dinner through the final appearance of the models presenting Grissom-Robertson ready-to-wear in the latest creations, the affair aroused interest and appreciation of the diners.

An unexpected feature was furnished when cameramen of Combined Studios, Inc. in the city for a day and night awaiting automobile repairs, took motion pictures of various parts of the program.

Ted Leonard's ability as a showman was manifested upon every hand. The modernistic setting for the promenade, with Bob Turner's Settles hotel orchestra in background, coupled with the lighting effects and arrangement of other decorations, formed a pleasing scene.

Coat dresses for sport and street—three-piece creations in silk and sheer woollens were worn in Part Three. Several were featured by painted and embroidered coats, with transparent wool lace. One in black and white with startling accessories to match was particularly well received.

In Part Four, featured by Miss Dunn's songs, lounging pajamas and afternoon and dinner dress fashions were presented.

Two pajama numbers, worn by two graceful models, presented a sleek appearance. One was in egg shell satin trimmed in green, the other a brown and orange creation.

Eight creations for afternoon and dinner were seen. They afforded model execution of one of fashion's newest decrees—waistline hemline of slips, with resulting transparency to the knee.

Three of these dresses were in floral design crepes. A frock of gray linen lace was particularly interesting. Georgette and chiffon dresses were particularly dainty. Hairs of hair braid combined with baki synchronized with several of the dresses. Sport costumes seen during the evening were accompanied by bandeaus ingeniously posed and Panamasque hats.
