A QUICK READ OF THE NEWS

Police vs. doughnut shop

Two police officers were in such a hurry to get to a doughnut shop that their cars collided, but it was no laughing matter.

While police may be the butt of jokes because of their supposed affinity for doughnuts, the two Panama City, Fla., officers weren't responding to hunger pangs but to an armed robbery.

Officers Andrew Tallichet, 29, and Kevin Morris, 32, were sent to the scene. The collision occurred when Morris changed lanes in front of Tallichet, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

The crash caused an estimated $40,000 in damage to the two cruisers, and both officers suffered minor injuries. The robber got away with an undisclosed amount of money.

Death to swearers?

The Hendersonville (Tenn.) High School student handbook declares more than zero-tolerance for profanity.

"Profane language will not be tolerated," it reads. "Stern discipline will be death to any student guilty of this conduct."

Principal Paul Decker said Wednesday the word "death" in the sentence was incorrectly replaced with the word "death." The school distributed the books on the first day of classes Friday, and students were notified of the mistake.

"Most folks know that it was a misprint," Decker said.

Nursing home bid opening could come in October

By RONN SMITH
 Editor

The bid opening on the proposed new nursing home for Muleshoe could come in October if the project continues on schedule, hospital administrator Jim Bone said Thursday night.

Bone told members of the hospital district board that he anticipates the documents will be ready for bidding in roughly another month.

After that, the bidding process normally takes about 30 days, he added, so that would lead up to an October bid opening.

Board member Mike Miller asked, "Do you think that in 60 days we'll have this where we know for sure whether we're going to do this or not?"

Bone added that the financing institution (First Southwest) wants to wait to act until after the bidding process in order to establish exactly how much money will be needed.

While Bone emphasized that the project will have to come in close to budget if the funds are going to be adequate, he did say that he feels like small amounts of grant money will be available to help cover specific expenses once the project advances further.

"Once we have the plans and everything in place, I think there's a likelihood we can find grants for

Muleshoe student creates special postal cancellation

By RONN SMITH
 Editor

Muleshoe High School student Bret Clements has done something that's never been done before in his hometown: He's created a special postal cancellation design honoring Muleshoe and it has been accepted by the U.S. Postal Service.

In fact, the design will be used to postmark mail during the upcoming Rotary-sponsored Labor Day roping event and for 30 days thereafter if postal customers request it.

There also will be a reception honoring Clements at 9 a.m. Sept. 3 in the lobby at the local post office.

St. Clair plays football in Germany

While some high school seniors dream of a senior trip to Europe, for Lazbuddie's Adam St. Clair, the vacation came with a purpose.

St. Clair was one of 44 players from Texas high schools selected to compete in an all-star football exhibition in Germany. The "Team Texas All-Stars" were chosen from schools in Class AA to six-man.

The son of Tommy and Jana St. Clair, the 6-3, 215-pound St. Clair played tailback and linebacker for Lazbuddie's 7-3 team in 1998. But he played tight end and on all special teams for Team Texas, which spent a week in Germany prior to the game, played June 5 in Russelsheim.

The event was organized by veteran Stanton coach Woody Caffey and Mike Wyatt, the former head coach at Oklahoma Panhandle State University in Goodwell.

Wyatt is now the head coach of the Russelsheim Razorbacks of the German Football League.

Team Texas took on the Darmstadt Diamonds, the 1998 German Junior runners-up. A second American all-star team played the Vienna Vikings, the Austrian Junior Champions. In the third game of the day, the Russelsheim Razorbacks took on Millsaps College of Mississippi.

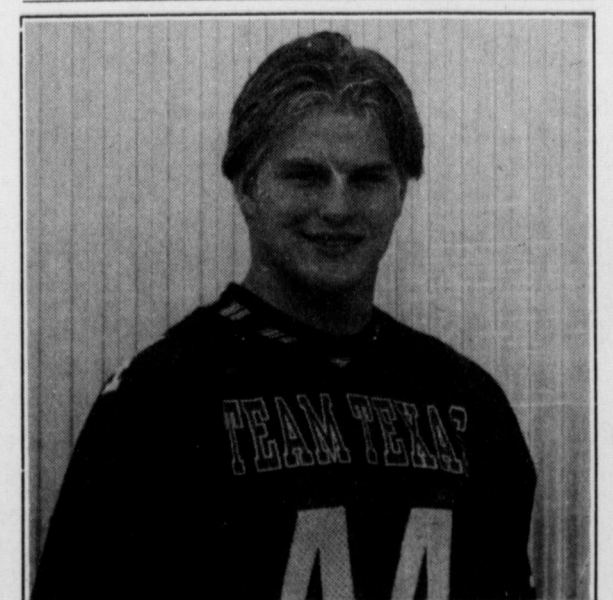

With only the week's preparation, Team Texas hammered Darmstadt 58-6. The shutout was ruined only after the Americans fumbled a punt snap in their own end zone.

In a closer battle, the second American All-Star team took a 20-0 victory over the Austrians, a team that had not been beaten in more than two years.

St. Clair compared the Darmstadt club to a "good JV" team.

"They had good size and when they showed up, I expected a tough game," St. Clair said. "They're headed in the right direction, and they have good equipment and everything. But the big difference is that they weren't real physical. Our defense just dominated them."

Early interaction critical to child's brain

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

NACOGDOCHES—Early interactions determine how a toddler's brain is wired, and "you are so vital to this stage of a child's development," Dr. Dorothy James told child-care providers at the 14th annual Child Care Conference in Nacogdoches.

Parents may be away from their children nine to 10 hours a day, and it is essential that day-care workers provide a stimulating environment for the children in their care, said James in a presentation on brain development in infants and toddlers.

Current research has disproved many myths about early brain development.

For instance, it is now known that early childhood experiences, particularly those prior to age 3, have a critical effect on how the child's brain develops, according to James, who is a family life specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

It was once thought, for example, that a toddler has little brain activity. Now it is known that in terms of activity, a 3-year-old's brain is twice as active as his pediatrician's, she said. Similarly, it was once thought that brain development is linear, that is, a person's capacity for learning grows at a steady pace.

Instead, research has proven that prime learning stages exist for different skills and knowledge.

So many basic skills are developed at the toddler age, James said, that day-care workers may make the difference whether a child enters school ready to learn or not.

"This is a prime learning time. Parents are the child's No. 1 teachers, but you (child-care workers) may be 1A," she said.

To encourage brain development and to learn and grow, child-care workers need to consider each child a "real person," James said.

Other suggestions she offered were:

- Understand that each child is different and special;
- Keep routines and help the child know what to expect;
- Encourage play and provide stimulating toys;
- Learn to listen to each child; and
- Hold and comfort children

Care-giving often part of lasting marriages

SPECIAL TO THE JOURNAL

"In sickness and in health, 'til death do us part" is a harsh reality for a spouse who must attach the role of care-giver to that of a lifetime partner.

Communication and support from family and friends can make the transition more manageable, said Dr. Nancy Wilson, an assistant professor of medicine at the Huffington Center on Aging at Baylor College of Medicine.

"When one partner becomes chronically ill or disabled, the relationship between the couple changes. Knowing what to expect can help ease that change," Wilson said.

The couple is fortunate if they have a long history of problem solving.

"If possible, they can renegotiate their roles in marriage," Wilson said. "Feelings of sadness and frustration can make changing roles more difficult, but new skills can provide a feeling of accomplishment for both."

Instead of criticism, Wilson encourages the ill or disabled partner to offer praise and encouragement if the care-giving spouse makes mistakes while learning to drive, balancing the checkbook, cooking or doing laundry. She said it is equally important that the care-giver expresses appreciation for contributions the ill partner is able to make.

Many care-givers find that they harbor strong feelings of resentment or guilt.

"Unresolved issues and hostilities tend to surface in care-giving roles," Wilson said. Sometimes these feelings lead to excessive caregiving, which might promote dependency and even prevent the ill person from making progress in recovery.

"Feelings of anger, guilt and frustration are normal," Wilson said. "Care-giving doesn't make you a saint."

Wilson also warns of over-exposure. "A lot of people forget they ever had their own space and activities. Try not to let both worlds become too narrow," she said.

If possible, the care-giver should encourage the ill or disabled spouse to continue lifelong interests, invite family members to share simple activities or talk about the day's events. Being around other people will help lessen feelings of isolation.

Care-givers should "refuel" by pursuing their own activities, spending time with friends and family or participating in a support group.

"Care-givers should let other people into their lives to share physical tasks and emotional burdens. They don't have to do everything themselves," Wilson said.

Remember that there are two victims, she said. Both people can expect to go through transitions, not only in roles but also in emotional states.

Both partners can have feelings of helplessness, loss of dignity and loss of identity. Both might grieve the loss of the relationship as it was.

"As healthy spouses, we should look ahead for ourselves, in the eventuality that something will happen. We need to face the possibilities head-on and discuss how we would like to handle these challenges," she said.

One arrested in restaurant drive-by

A 19-year-old Clovis man has been arrested in connection with firing gunshots at a group of people outside a Mabry Drive restaurant Monday night, according to Clovis police.

Clifford Godfrey faces felony charges of shooting from a motor vehicle and shooting at an occupied dwelling. His bond was set at $20,000.

No injuries were reported in the incident, but a bullet went through a main window of Dave's Coffee Shop, which was open for business at the time.

Police seek missing woman

Police are searching for a 36-year-old Friona woman, Sonia Mejia, who was last seen Aug. 9.

She and her husband had traveled to Amarillo, where they had an argument. Her husband drove away and left her in a parking lot, but only went around the block and came back. She could not be located after that.

Authorities say Mejia is not known to have relatives in Amarillo but may have acquaintances there through her sales of lingerie to adult entertainment clubs.

At the time of her disappearance, she reportedly did not have her purse, identification or money.

ST. CLAIR

Team Texas kept things pretty simple, utilizing about 10-15 plays. For the most part, the Texans used an old-fashioned power-I attack with two tight ends and very few wrinkles.

"We had a 2-minute offense where we spread things out and threw it, but for the most part, we just pounded it down their throats," St. Clair said.

Game co-MVP Damien Jackson of Trinidad led the Texas offense. Jackson, a running back headed to Cisco Junior College, ran a kickoff back for one score and ran for two others. Linebacker Brad Legan, who is bound for Angelo State, was the co-MVP on the defensive side.

St. Clair had two passes thrown his direction during the contest. One was broken up and the second — which might have gone for a touchdown had it been on target — was underthrown.

During the week prior to the game, the players took daily trips into the German countryside to see the sights. They visited castles along the Rhine River and took a chilling tour of the Buchenwald concentration camp with its gas chambers and human incinerators.

After the contest, the two teams exchanged friendly handshakes and swapped souvenirs. The mood was not so rosy after the second game, as the Austrians didn't take their first loss in more than two years very well, St. Clair said.

"There was a big fight during the second game," he said. "The Austrians were pretty good, and you could tell they weren't used to getting beat."

St. Clair is now in Canyon, competing as a walk-on for a spot on the West Texas A&M football team. At WT he joins former Amherst nemesis Dwayne Miles, who led the Lone Star Conference in rushing last season for the Buffaloes, as well as Rico Aguirre and Dustin Cleavinger of Muleshoe. Aguirre is in his second year at WT, while Cleavinger is a freshman.

Facts About The BIBLE BY JOHN LEHTI

AMBUSH -- A HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL METHOD!

IN THE PRACTICE OF WAR THE ANCIENT ISRAELITES LEANED HEAVILY ON VARIOUS STRATAGEMS, SUCH AS SURPRISE, AMBUSH, PRETENDED RETREAT, AND SUCH CIRCUMVENTIONS AS WOULD KEEP THEIR ENEMIES IN A DISTRAUGHT STATE OF HELPLESSNESS. WE LEARN IN GENESIS 14 THAT WHEN AMBRAM WENT TO RESCUE HIS NEPHEW LOT, HE DIVIDED HIS FORCES, WHICH CERTAINLY SUGGESTS AMBUSH AND SUCCESSFULLY ATTACKED AND VANQUISHED THE ENEMY. ALSO NOTED IN THE BOOK OF JOSHUA, CHAPTER 8, ARE PLANS FOR A VERY SUCCESSFUL AMBUSH BY WHICH JOSHUA AND THE ISRAELITES HOPED TO DEFEAT THE SOLDIERS OF THE CITY OF AI. A MUCH USED FORM OF AMBUSH WAS TO DRAW THE OPPOSING FORCES INTO A LARGE GULLY OR RAVINE BY MAKING THEM BELIEVE THEY WERE PURSUING A SMALL NUMBER OF MEN. WHEN THE PREY WAS SUCCESSFULLY LURED INTO THE CHASM, THE MAJOR FORCE, HIDDEN UP ABOVE, WOULD THEN ATTACK -- MUCH TO THE ENEMY'S CHAGRIN!

Caldwell, Leal united in double-ring ceremony August 7

Abel Angel Leal and Marcie Ann Caldwell were married in a double-ring candlelight ceremony Aug. 7 at Cedar Ridge Evangelical Church in Duncanville, Texas. The Reverend Dale Barrett officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Phillip Bedford Caldwell of Duncanville. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Leal of Muleshoe.

The maid of honor was Casie Caldwell, sister of the bride, of Dallas. The bridesmaids were Candi Hart of Dallas, Michelle Bracken of College Station and Christina Austin of Denver.

The best man was Sergio Leal, brother of the groom, of Muleshoe. Groomsman were Victor Leal, brother of the groom, of Muleshoe; Hector Leal, brother of the groom, of Plainview; and Jimmy Crowley of Lubbock.

The bride entered the church wearing a white imported satin sheath gown designed by Demetrios. The halter bodice was embroidered with tiny seed pearls that also banded the neck and princess-style waist.

Her cathedral-length train was bordered with matching seed pearls.

The fingertip veil of silk illusion fell from a pearl headband.

She carried a handkerchief belonging to her great-grandmother tucked into a bouquet of roses, orchids and stephanotis.

Marcie Caldwell-Leal poses at her August 7 wedding

The bridesmaids wore long black sheath gowns of satin-backed crepe, with the empire bodice of embroidered lace soutache over silk illusion with a bustle train of silk illusion flowing from the back of the waist.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with a white vest and the groomsmen wore black tuxedos.

In the tradition of something old, the bride carried her great-grandmother's handkerchief; something new was her dress; something borrowed was pearl earrings that belong to Sue Krayer; and something blue was her garter.

Ushers were Roscoe Woods, Eric Kolesar, Greg Dimmick, Brian Martin, Raymond Garcia and Peter Griffith.

Laura Leal, sister of the bridegroom, served as pianist. Soloists were David and Michelle Sepulveda, and a trumpet solo was played by Dr. Joe Krayer

The reception was held at the Tower Club on the 48th floor of the Thanksgiving Square Building overlooking the city lights of downtown Dallas.

Three hundred and fifty guests were greeted with a wine and champagne buffet and the music of the Jeff Taylor Band.

The bride's cake was a tone-on-tone Renaissance design of bows with apricot filling. The groom's cake was chocolate Kahlua fudge decorated with the Texas Tech seal and the scales of justice, with chocolate strawberries cascading down the sides.

The bride is a 1992 graduate of Duncanville High School, a 1996 graduate of Texas Tech University and a 1998 graduate of the Methodist School of Nursing. She is a registered nurse employed in the Medical Intensive Care Unit at Covenant Medical Center.

The groom is a 1990 graduate of the New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell and a 1996 graduate of Texas Tech University; he is a third-year law student at Texas Tech Law School.

After a honeymoon in the Cayman Islands, the couple will reside in Lubbock.

Jacob & Esau: A Tale of Two Brothers

The big, hairy, red-skinned man threw his arms around the neck of his brother and wept. He hadn't seen the man for over twenty years! The emotions welled up within him and overflowed.

His brother was emotional, too. He was scared spitless! The last time the one had spoken to the him a sharp knife for the task. Not now. He had grown beyond that.

And Jacob? Here was a changed man indeed! When Esau had last seen him, Jacob had been working hard to live up to his name. "Jacob." The "supplanter." The grabber. The lying, conniving cheat. He had cheated his brother. He had lied to his blind old father. He had not been much of a man.

But Jacob was no longer Jacob. Now he was Israel. A new man.

On the night before this meeting with his brother, Jacob had met a man who frightened him far more than Esau! He had met himself. As Jacob wrestled with the angel of God, he wrestled with himself. He decided that life without the blessing of God was not worth living. And he held on to the angel who could unmake him with a word. He took the chance, for once, in an unrigged game. And he was blessed. When he limped away from the battle, no longer was he Jacob the cheat. Now he was renamed by God himself—Israel, one who wrestles with God and wins His blessing.

Few of us wrestle with angels, but we all wrestle with ourselves. We all come to the place where we are faced with the same decision Jacob faced. Is God's blessing the most important thing in all of life? Is it worth more than life itself? No one can answer "Yes!" and remain unchanged.

Curtis Shelburne is minister of the 16th & Avenue D Church of Christ in Muleshoe.

Focus On Faith

other it had not been with loving words. In fact, Esau had threatened to throttle Jacob at the first opportunity!

What a change in the attitudes of the two men! And Esau noticed another change almost at once.

"Whose are all these, brother?" Esau asked, motioning toward Jacob's four wives, twelve kids and large flocks. Jacob had done well!

Esau hadn't done badly, either. Jacob noticed the four hundred armed men with his brother right off! Esau, too, was a wealthy man.

But the changes in the two men went much deeper than their balance sheets. Some men would have cut Jacob's throat. On sight. On site. (And not without some justification.) Years before, Esau would have. And he would have blessed any man who would hand
