Stage Set For Offensive, Smuts Tells Parliament

France Faces A Crisis Over Labor Draft

Laval Has Until November 1 With Volunteer Methods
BERN, Switzerland, Oct. 21. (AP) France entered today her most critical period since she signed the 1940 armistice...

The period to Nov. 1, private advices from unoccupied France said, represents the extension of time set by Berlin for fulfillment of its labor demands for 150,000 volunteer workers.

It also is the period, informed French observers said they believed, which will demonstrate whether Laval could hope to cling to his position as chief of government in the face of persistent, although thus far scattered, opposition.

These observers, who would not permit their names to be used, said that popular resentment over work conscription, increasing agitation in axis quarters over the question of whether Dakar would be involved in an African offensive and revival of discussions of the dangers of the new allied landings along the channel all combined to make Laval's position difficult.

In his radio speech last night, in which he renewed his appeal for Frenchmen to go to work for the Germans, he announced an agreement for a levy upon each factory "which will be obliged to furnish a certain number of workmen."

This levy, he said, had been agreed upon by his government "out of apprehension lest measures of constraint be applied to France." He referred to but did not specify the Lyon strikes with a declaration that his government would not tolerate individual resistance, group agitation or resistance of those "remaining dead" to his order.

Girl Violinist Will Appear With Grainger

Virginia Ellis, 16-year-old violinist who will appear Thursday at 8:15 p. m. in the city auditorium in joint concert with Percy Grainger, already has a career that would credit a concert musician twice her age.

She made her debut at the age of seven with the Atlantic Symphony orchestra and has been going steadily stronger since. In addition to making more concert and radio appearances than she can count, Virginia also has appeared in eight motion pictures, and fans remember her particularly for her part as a concert mistress of the orchestra in "They Shall Have Music."

In Virginia Ellis is a person to match the famed Grainger as an artist and the people of "deplorable wide acclaim she has remained unspooled and a typical American girl.

Grainger, while one of the most talented pianists of the day as well as an outstanding composer and a versatile conductor, is so possessed of good humor and so lacking in sophistication that he has been termed the "fired business man's favorite musician." This, not so much because his bushy hair makes him look like the traditional musician, but because if he likes a tune, he plays it "ripplingly," whether it came from some country green or from the pen of a master.

The program will be the second in a series of eight sponsored by the Lions club. While single admissions will be available (soldiers for 50 cents), club leaders said it would be far more economical to secure season tickets.

School Board Wins Tax Levy Suit

AUSTIN, Oct. 21. (AP)—The Beaumont school board today won its suit against the city of Beaumont for authority to levy a 68-cent school tax rate for 1942.

The supreme court declined to review for want of merit a suit in which the Beaumont civil appeals court held with the school board. The litigation began after the city council refused to grant the board authority to requisition a 68-cent rate and then levied a 64-cent rate which the board declared was insufficient to support schools. The board won a mandamus and injunction in district court and the appellate court affirmed the judgment.

Famed South African Leader Urges Immediate Action To Aid Russia

LONDON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Field Marshal Jan Christiaan Smuts, prime minister of the Union of South Africa, told a joint meeting of the houses of commons and lords today that the allies have arrived at "the offensive phase of the war."

The German army is "bleeding to death" in Russia and "the stage is set for the last, the offensive phase of the war for the United Nations," Smuts declared.

He said the "appalling blood-letting which is necessary for Hitler's ultimate defeat is being administered by the Russians."

Russia, Smuts said, is "bearing more than her share of the common burden" and he urged that "whatever help in whatever form we can give to Russia to sustain her in her colossal effort should be given in the fullest measure and with utmost speed."

In reference to the second front, Smuts said the defense phase of the war for the United Nations had ended.

"The final alignments both of allies and of our enemies have been made," he said. "Resources have been developed and mobilized on a very large scale. Ours are still on the increase, those of the enemy are on the decline. Our manpower is still growing, that of the enemy is getting depleted, while he makes ever heavier drafts on his suffering vassal peoples."

"The spectre of want, hunger and starvation are beginning to stalk through the subject countries and the spirit of unrest is heating and rising. The explosive limits of endurance are nearing. We are approaching the point when both on the war fronts and on the home fronts in the enemy countries, the situation is ripening for far-reaching developments."

Smuts said that "in spite of heavy setbacks and many disappointments, we have had the necessary time to prepare, to parry sudden blows and to assemble and consolidate the forces and resources on which we rely for Allied victory."

"Once the time has come to take the offensive and to strike while the iron is hot," he said, "it would be folly to delay, to over-prepare and perhaps miss our opportunity. Nor are we likely to do so."

Correspondent Is Killed By Accident In New Guinea

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Oct. 21. (AP)—Byron Barton, 44-year-old war correspondent of the New York Times, was killed accidentally Sunday in New Guinea, military authorities disclosed today.

A brief announcement expressed the deep regret of General Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander of allied forces in the southwest Pacific. It contained no details of the accident.

"He served with gallantry and devotion at the front and fulfilled with distinction the important demands of his high office," the announcement said. "The army mourns him."

Funeral services and burial were to be held in New Guinea today. Barton, a World War veteran, had been with the Times eight years. For four years previously he was a cable editor and city editor of the New York bureau of the Associated Press.

It is expected that the board will begin to function early in November.

REDS STRENGTHEN THEIR POSITIONS; ALLIES SHOW AIR POWER IN PACIFIC

Enemy Bases Blasted Over A Wide Area

Jap Thrust At The Solomons Stalled For Time Being

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Allied domination of the skies in the vast Pacific battle front appeared growing mightier today as American bombers slugged Japanese invasion bases from the Aleutians to the Solomons.

The fury of the allied bombing of enemy troops and supply concentrations in the Solomons seemed thus far to have stalled, at least temporarily, the full force of a Japanese thrust to retake the American-held Guadalcanal airbase and win control of the Southwest Pacific.

While a large force of Japanese warships and auxiliary vessels in the Solomons and reinforced enemy troops on northwestern Guadalcanal still held an expected attack in leash, United States bombers dropped explosives on the embattled island's invaders on Oct. 18 and 19, and started fires at the Japanese Kokata bay base on Santa Isabel island, 150 miles to the northwest.

At that same time, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Australian command reported last night, allied bombers were believed to have inflicted extensive damage on the Japanese airbase and shipping at Buin, Bougainville island, about 310 miles northwest of Guadalcanal.

All allied planes, meeting no attempts at interception, returned safely from the Buin night raid, the communiqué said. The navy's report yesterday of the latest American assaults in the Solomons and Aleutians made no mention of any enemy planes rising to counterattack.

Possibility that the southwestern Pacific skies may soon become a hornet's nest of allied planes was seen yesterday in an assertion by Secretary of the Navy Knox that the number of navy landbased planes was "steadily increasing."

In the north Pacific, the navy announced that on Oct. 18 the army's heavy four-motored Liberator bombers smashed again at the island of Kiska, the last of three Aleutian bases once held by the Japanese.

Two tons of bombs were dropped on enemy shore installations and on a beached ship in the harbor. The explosives set fires in the camp area. The communiqué made no mention of any further aerial resistance, last encountered early this month.

Meantime, MacArthur's Australian troops further reduced the Japanese threat to the allied base at Buna in New Guinea by pushing the enemy back three miles in the Owen Stanley mountains.

500th Sub Victim Sent To Bottom

The battle of the Atlantic claimed its 500th announced submarine victim as the navy announced today the loss of a medium-sized United States merchantman in the north Atlantic.

The Associated Press tabulation showed that in the 500 announced sinkings of United and neutral nations' merchant ships since Pearl Harbor, 3,400 lives have been lost and more than 1,954 crew members and passengers are missing, most of whom may now be considered dead.

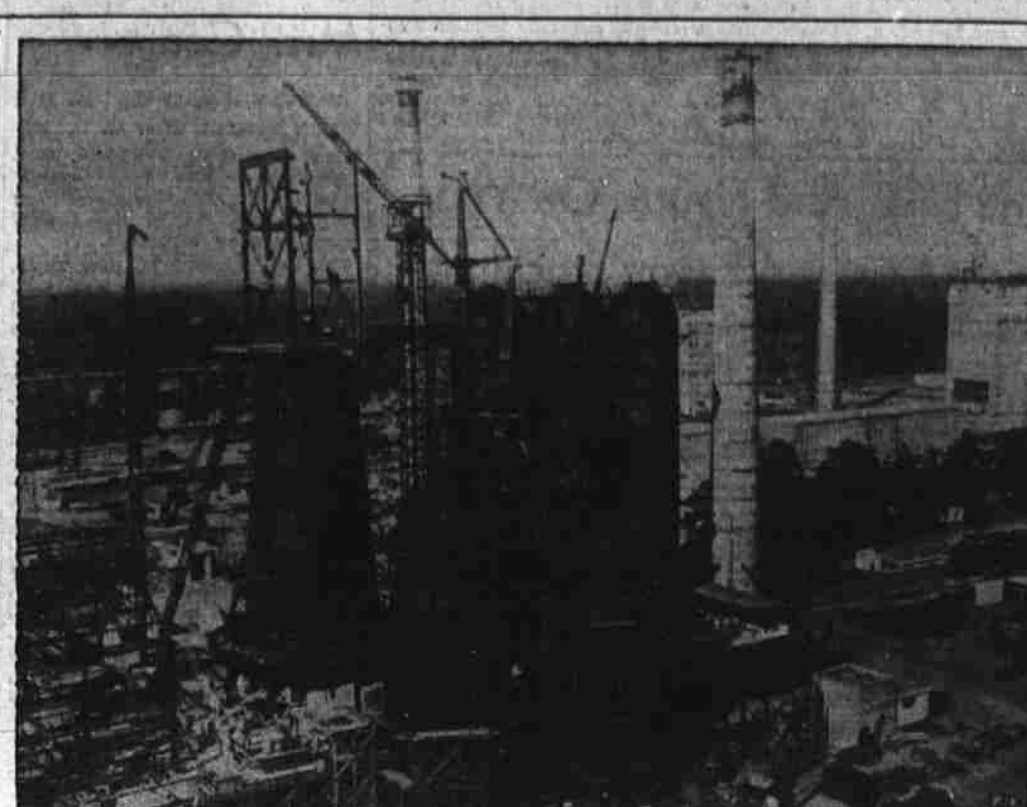

99-Year Sentence Is Reversed

AUSTIN, Oct. 21. (AP)—A trial error today caused the court of criminal appeals to reverse and remand the case of Philip Trammell, assessed 99 years imprisonment by a Nueces county jury in the death of J. M. (Scotty) Jetton.

The appellate court ruled the lower tribunal erred in rejecting certain testimony of Dr. O. S. Koepsel regarding a conversation with Trammell whom he treated for chest wounds.

Jetton, an employe of a construction company and the King ranch and also a state game warden was fatally wounded on Feb. 28, 1941 in an alleged gun battle. There were no witnesses to the shooting.

The criminal appeals court said in an opinion the facts were sufficient to authorize the jury's conclusion of guilt but the trial error—which was pointed out for the benefit of the lower court in the event of another trial—dictated a reversal.

Support For Liquor Curb Is Growing

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Mounting support was claimed by Senator Lee (D-Okla.) today in his fight to ban liquor from army and navy camps.

As both sides took advantage of a one-day recess to marshal forces for a possible showdown tomorrow on Lee's "bone dry" amendment to a bill lowering the draft age to 18, the Oklahoman told reporters that some of his senatorial supporters were "people who don't favor general prohibition."

"But," he declared, "they are for my amendment."

The author of the "bone dry" draft bill, Senator Gurney (R-S.D.), said for his part that he hoped no "controversial amendment" would slow up its passage. Opponents of Lee's amendment, which would bar the possession, sale, gift or use of any alcoholic beverage, including beer, in and around army and navy posts, viewed it as a possible entering wedge for a return to national prohibition. The dry zones around camps would be delineated by the secretary of war, and, opponents said, might embrace large population centers. The bill also would ban prostitutes from the designated areas.

"What possible objection could there be to the elimination of liquor in the army camps and the area around them?" Lee asked in an interview.

"Either they sell liquor in the camps or they don't. If it is sold, it should be eliminated in the interest of military efficiency."

Supplementary Questionnaires Still Going Out

Although new classification cards are not being mailed, supplementary questionnaires are being sent by the draft board to 3-A men to obtain information necessary in determining whether the men will be placed in category 3 or 4.

Those with children born before Sept. 8, 1942, will automatically be placed in category 4, those without children in 3.

No additional quotas will be filled in October, according to Margaret McDonald, chief clerk, but most of the early November call will be filled by married men, regardless of whether they married prior to Dec. 8.

Nazi Attacks Said To Be Weakening

Moscow Says Counterattacks Have Been Successful

By HENRY C. CASSIDY MOSCOW, Oct. 21. (AP) Red army men were reported strengthening their positions at Stalingrad today, working and fighting in a cold rain that drenched the ruins, while beating off successively weaker attacks in the week-old Nazi offensive.

Maintenance of Stalingrad's defense lines unbroken since Sunday was indicated by the noon communiqué and, coupled with this, were announcements of an improvement of Soviet positions in both the western and central Caucasus through counter attacks.

A battered power plant still supplied electricity while Stalingrad. A newspaper continued to publish.

Pravda said the southern suburbs were quieter than the northern sector, although bombs and shells fell occasionally.

The army newspaper Red Star said detachments guarding the northern factory section of the city liquidating an enemy breakthrough and covered the flanks in stockpiled, though still severe combat.

Russian estimates of German casualties dropped, indicating a marked reduction in the scale of the attacks.

Red Star said that in one sector the Nazis were thrust back from their front line, tried to regroup on the steppes, but were driven back to second line positions.

Seven successive German counterattacks in an attempt to regain lost ground in another sector were repulsed, the army newspaper said, and the Russians continued to improve the positions from which the Nazi drive into Stalingrad is menaced sharply.

(The strength of Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's relief assault from the north was indicated in the German high command's communiqué which said the Russian onslaught had been resumed with fresh, strong infantry and tank forces, and reported 40 Russian tanks destroyed in the developing battle.)

Red Star said that rains had fallen on the Stalingrad battlefield since Sunday, and that the present German drive of two infantry divisions massed into a single salient was only about half the strength of earlier German attempts to drive the defenders out of the city.

Battle losses of the week-old drive upon Stalingrad were declared to have cost German divisions as many as 70 per cent of their men in killed, wounded and missing.

Texas Fighters Are Given Awards

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia, Wednesday, Oct. 21. (AP)—Two American aviators who destroyed eight grounded Japanese planes in a smashing raid on Buna in New Guinea Sept. 12 were awarded Silver Stars today "for gallantry in action."

They were Maj. Donald F. Hall of (405 Austin St.) Corpus Christi, Tex., and Capt. Christian Peir, Jr., of Cleveland, Ohio.

Silver Star awards also included: First Lieut. Paul E. Dawson (236 Aracida Place) San Antonio, Tex., and Technical Sgt. Cal Russell, Cason, Tex.

Four Axis Supply Vessels Are Sunk

LONDON, Oct. 21. (AP)—The sinking of four axis supply ships in the Mediterranean by British submarines was announced today in an admiralty communiqué.

Two of the sinkings were credited to one submarine. They were a small axis supply vessel which went down off the Italian coast and a medium size ship which burst into flames and sank after a torpedo hit amidships.

The other two were a large supply ship, hit three times from close range and sunk within two minutes despite extremely bad weather and destroyer protection, and a smaller ship sunk off the Libyan coast.

EARTH SHOCK LOS ANGELES, Oct. 21. (AP)—A slight earthquake shock was felt in the Los Angeles area at 2:31 a. m. (PWT) today.

Manpower Control Bill To Be Put Up To Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Paul V. McNutt declared today the manpower problem was becoming "too complex for effective voluntary action" and announced that within two weeks he would present a national service bill to President Roosevelt.

"There are acute shortages of all types of male labor in major centers of war production," the chairman of the war manpower commission testified to the senate military committee.

"Turnover in west coast war plants has reached fantastic heights," McNutt said. Labor piracy is rife in Buffalo and Detroit. Squeezing the last employable person in the area into employment is a critical problem in Connecticut."

McNutt said the president instructed him several weeks ago to draw up a national service bill, now being drafted by the War Manpower Commission's management-labor policy sub-committee.

"It is only fair to this group to state that the sub-committee has indicated their opposition to immediate enactment of national service legislation," McNutt said. "They believe that all indirect sanctions should be exhausted before such a law is passed."

"Nevertheless, they are preparing draft legislation for consideration whenever the president indicates that national service legislation is required."

McNutt left no doubt as to his own belief that such legislation was necessary. "Public opinion and sound policy both dictate that we must not stop short of compulsion when those who will not cooperate are blocking war production," he declared.

Yesterday President Roosevelt warned congress of the geographical and seasonal difficulties involved in legislation for drafting of men for farm and industrial work.

Senators Austin (R-Vt.) and (D-Ala.), who have bills to that effect before the committee, declared compulsory manpower mobilization offered the only solution.

A different view was taken by Senator Downey (D-Calif.) who told reporters that a labor draft would "not do the job."

"West coast farmers face disaster unless we can find means of importing 150,000 Mexican laborers to help with the harvests," Downey declared, but he added: "I doubt if compulsory regimentation of groups to work on farms at low pay will prove satisfactory. How are you going to make them work? How can you deny them work in war plants or industry without a closer equalization of wages?"

SENTECE AFFIRMED

AUSTIN, Oct. 21. (AP)—The court of criminal appeals today affirmed a 20-year sentence given Robert Thornton Walthall in Tarrant county for conviction of the stabbing death of Alice Charabell Walthall on Nov. 30, 1941.

Britain Adds Battleships

LONDON, Oct. 21. (AP)—Two powerful 35,000-ton battleships, the Anson and the Howe, each carrying ten 14-inch guns, have moved into their stations in the British fleet and their commanders were reporting spoiling for a fight with the great prize of the German fleet, the battleship Tirpitz.

The British fleet has now reached its pre-war strength of 15 battleships and battle cruisers and at least four more battleships are under construction, including the Lion and the Temeraire, rated at 40,000 tons.

The Anson and the Howe are the last of the five great battleships of the King George V class to be commissioned. The Prince of Wales was sunk last December during a Japanese air attack off Malaya. The King George V and the Duke of York have been with the fleet for some time.

Some Facts And Figures On Your Newly Acquired Rayon Stockings

By DOROTHY ROE
Wide World Fashion Editor

Dear Miss or Mrs. USA: You might just as well stop lamenting your dear-departed silk and nylon stockings because that's all there is, there isn't any more.

The thing to do now is dry those tears, get a firm grip on yourself and prepare to be surprised at the progress that has been made in improving rayon stockings. From now on, you know, you're going to be wearing rayons whether you like it or not, unless you prefer to paint your legs—and that still seems a trifle chilly for winter. You may, of course, adopt heavy ribbed and mesh wools and cottons for sports and country wear, but you'll still need rayons for dress. So you'd better learn how to get the most for your money.

In the first place, you must remember that it's most important to buy the correct foot size and leg length in rayon hosiery—it hasn't as much elasticity as silk or nylon, and to look well it must fit perfectly. When rayon stretches it stays stretched until it's washed, so if your foot is slender, you probably will take a half size smaller than you have been buying in nylon. For the same reason, avoid too-long hose, and be sure you buy stockings with a deep double welt or adjustable top, to give you leeway for tightening your garters, if necessary.

Make sure that the stockings have sufficient reinforcement at toe, heel and sole. Many rayon stockings have cotton reinforcements at toe and heel. If your feet perspire, it is wise to buy these, as rayon is weakened when damp.

Rayon stockings, like all others, give better service if they are washed immediately after wearing. Don't try to wash rayon hose at night and wear them the next morning. Buy enough so that you can alternate wear, and allow two full days for the stockings to become thoroughly dry after washing.

In selecting the weight you desire in the new rayon hose, you will have to learn a new set of terms, different from those used in describing silk. Sheerness in silk stockings was determined by the number of threads twisted together to make the knitting yarn—3-thread was very sheer, 3-thread slightly heavier, and so on. In rayon stockings, a single thread of selected size determines the sheerness. The term used to denote the thread size is "denier," pronounced "den-year." A given length of 50-denier thread would weigh 50 ounces, the same length of 75-denier thread would weigh 75 ounces. The higher the denier, the heavier the weight of the stocking. These comparisons will help when you are buying rayon hose:

50 denier rayon is comparable in sheerness to 5 to 4 thread in silk.

75 denier rayon—5 to 6 thread in silk.

100 denier rayon—7 thread in silk.

The size of the knitting stitch also contributes to the weight and sheerness. This factor is defined as "gauge" and is used in connection with rayons in exactly the same way as it was with silk. A 45-gauge is standard, 42-gauge is used in heavier stockings and extra-sheer stockings are knit in fine gauge, 48 or 51.

One of the biggest improvements in rayon stockings has been achieved by increasing the twist of the yarn, to give the desired dull, crepey appearance and improve resistance to snagging. Laboratory tests show that high-twist rayon stockings snag less readily than most silks.

So cheer up—the new rayon stockings are going to surprise you with their good points.

Feeders Confer On Program With Stanton Packing Plant

STANTON, Oct. 21.—Many cattle feeders about Stanton, Big Spring and Midland as well as feeders of hogs and lambs have been here recently to confer with H. A. Emerson, making arrangements for the construction of a huge packing plant.

Emerson indicated that by the first of Nov. he felt that title work on a tract west of Stanton would be completed and that materials for constructing the plant, estimated to cost three-quarters of a million dollars, would be ordered.

Breeders and feeders have agreed with Emerson that location of a plant here would mean much to the cattle industry which has had to buck high freight rates, middleman profits and shrinkage for 70 years in this area.

Other advantages seen by cattlemen in this section are: A splendid market for sorghums and grains for fattening; that at the present price of maize and other feed grains could be achieved economically and despite selling price, sold for a good margin; that the saving in freight, shrinkage, yard charges and commissions would revert largely to the producer; that more careful feeding would result and that small lot gains of three pounds and even more daily would be made commonplace.

Emerson said output of the plant would go to filling of government orders, but if there is any excess that it likely would be absorbed by J. W. Ashworth, New York wholesale meat man for nearly 30 years, who is reportedly back of the packing plant venture here.

Weather Is Favorable To Texas Crops

AUSTIN, Oct. 21. (AP)—Growing vegetables continued to make good progress in Texas during the first half of October and generally favorable weather also aided seeding and transplanting hardy crops.

However, field work was somewhat behind schedule in spite of splendid soil conditions and favorable temperatures. The volume of early vegetables will be limited, the bureau of agricultural economics reported, because of the need for using present farm help in the harvest of fall crops, preparation of land, transplanting and diverting some of it to citrus harvest.

Thumbnail reports on crop conditions and prospects:

Snap beans: Good progress. A light harvest may start late in October.

Broccoli: Considerable acreage now set but volume of early production is less than usual.

Beets: Good quality beets are in prospect for first harvest which will be light in volume.

Cabbage: Supplies for early December harvest will be light but quality will be good.

Carrots: A light harvest will begin about mid-November.

Eggplant: Harvest has started in the winter garden section and the lower valley crops are further advanced than usual and in good condition.

Onions: Seeding may not get under way in volume until late this month or early in November.

Pappars: Acreage is light but crop is in good condition with winter garden fields now furnishing a light harvest.

Spinach: Germination of seed has been good in all areas and fairly good quality spinach is in prospect for mid-November harvest.

Tomatoes: Laredo and the winter garden promise good volume of early supplies in November. The lower valley crop held a poor set from first blooms but present blooms are holding and ultimate production should average fairly high unless affected by early frosts.

In 1786 Rhode Island enacted laws "for the preservation of the oyster" to keep coastal beds from being scraped bare.

Donated Scrap From Farms To Be Hauled In

Farmers and ranchers who have collected scrap piles and who wish to donate it may have it transported to the salvage depot here by notifying B. J. McDaniel, salvage committee chairman.

Those who wish to sell their scrap should take it to the nearest school grounds and have it weighed or bring it to town and sell it to a junk dealer, he advised.

The salvage committee does not care which route is followed so long as the scrap comes in, he said.

Men and transportation can be furnished for scrap concentrations anywhere in the county and McDaniel said he was anxious to get it in as quickly as possible.

Reports of scrap gathered here since collections first started here and to Oct. 1 show that 7,074,000 pounds of all character had been shipped from here. Around 6,480,000 pounds was said to be scrap metal, and perhaps 400,000 pounds was rubber or rubber goods. The rest was paper and other salvage materials. There is possibly half a million pounds of scrap on hand from the most recent collection.

Editorial -- A Plan For Helping Small Businesses

Donald Nelson has proposed that a War Liabilities Adjustment Bureau be set up to help small businessmen caught in the dislocations of war. Apparently this is intended as something more than another addition to the agencies which have been trying, with meager results, to ease this trouble. Mr. Nelson is aiming particularly at forestalling postwar hardships.

The small American businessman has organizations that frequently bring his plight to public notice, the senate has a special committee just to hear his complaints, and the Smaller War Plants Corporation has a revolving fund of $100,000,000 with which to help him convert to war production and to obtain orders. Yet for many a "little fellow" a very serious problem persists. He is tossed a scant bone in the way of sub-contracting, he is elbowed in his quest for raw materials for civilian production, and, as Elmer Davis says, he can't even get solid information on what is coming next. In some ways, he is the "forgotten man" of 1942.

It has been too generally assumed that the saturation of war orders from the top would eventually seep down to him, as it did in England. But unless he has a plant in some acutely overloaded line this has not been the fact. American industry emphasizes vast, assembly line methods. The organization for obtaining raw materials,

Close-up shot of hurrying feet, millions of 'em. Big feet, little feet, dainty feet, grotesque feet. New shoes, old shoes, scuffed shoes, shoes down at the heel and worn at the toe. Pavement-pounding. What a beating those sidewalks of New York do take, and how they hand it back! What a market for foot-powders, corn cures, shoe shines! What a colossal, mass dog-

Close-up, interior cross-town streetcar. Crowded, of course. Morning rush. Harassed, tight-lipped woman, probably an office worker, rises to leave, bumps against a standing man. "You HAVE to take the whole aisle!" she grumbles. He's irritated, too. "Lady, you want me to hang out a window?" For a block they growl until the car stops. Just routine pleasantness, short of open war.

Traveling crane shot, down 42nd street, 1 a. m.: Hot dog and fruit juice stands doing a fair trade with the stay-up-laters. Pedestrians not so hurried now, not so many. Office buildings dark. Manhattan is winding the clock, putting out of the street man on the sidewalk, a fallen warrior of the drinking bouts. His torso and his legs form an irregular, ironic "V-for-Victory." He is out cold. Pedestrians step around the body without a second glance. Dialogue: "Just a drunk. He'll come to or be taken in after a while." Manhattan routine. Just a drunk.

Take a note, Miss Montmorency: Remind me never to have a stroke; a heart attack, or a case of the bloop on the sidewalks of New York. Please schedule these events for some small town where there's at least some curiosity about sidewalk slumber.

Pantomime sequence, shot from a bus-window. A slim, manfully dressed girl waits at a street corner. She consults a wrist watch, scowls, lights a cigarette vehemently. She steps out in the street, waves an impatient, beckoning arm at someone offstage. Our "mike" cannot hear her dialogue, but our camera can read her lips. "Pleasant day ahead for chip-on-the-shoulder New Yorker. . . . Big-city-jitters, no doubt. . . . Reflection: only trouble with New York is all those other people--but it wouldn't be New York without 'em. . . ."

Man About Manhattan-- Proof That Critics Don't See Alike

By GEORGE TUCKER
NEW YORK--The other night I sat in the Longacre theatre and saw the opening performance of "Let Freedom Sing," a tropical revue staged by the Youth Theatre.

I laughed until the tears leaked. Several women around me were close to hysteria at times.

Next day I read in the papers that it all had been a mistake, the show wasn't funny, the material was lame, and this, and that and the other thing was all wrong.

Usually I can shrug off such differences of opinion. The critics are right most of the time, and they see more shows than I do, which gives them a better background. In this case, unfortunately, their unanimous verdict leaked at the seams. They seemed determined not to like the show but their reasons differed to the point of ridiculousness.

One or two thought that the show's comics, youthful Berni Gould and Phil Leeds, were bad. One or two thought Gould and Leeds were good. One panned a skit on Pan-American relations and another thought it good. One thought the scenery was professional and another thought it poor.

I wouldn't be making a case for "Let Freedom Sing" except for these inconsistencies, particularly the criticisms of the scenery. There's a war on, but apparently this particular critic overlooked the fact.

For the last ten months the Broadway stage has been talking vaguely of doing without this and that material for its settings, and I for one was beginning to wonder when this ersatz business was going to start. A couple of the new musicals were as lavish as ever, and one was more so.

Then along comes "Let Freedom Sing," for the first time using plain backdrops and cheap but well-designed sets, which combined with selective lighting provided all the atmosphere necessary. I was inclined to cheer its effectiveness, ingenuity and economy, but I see by the papers that it was bad.

As for Messrs. Gould and Leeds, the guinea pig was misnamed from belief that the small South American rodent found in Guiana was actually found in Guinea on the African coast.

Washington Daybook-- Crew Of Men Gets Lost In Huge War Building

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON--The Capital in Wartime:

The $70,000,000 Pentagon building in Alexandria is just about the biggest thing that ever happened to Washington. When finished, it will have about 25 miles of offices and house 40,000 war department workers. That's big.

John E. Haines, Minneapolis air conditioning engineer, has a better way of telling how big it is. Sent to the capital by his firm to inspect the installation job, he arrived at the building at 9 o'clock in the morning and set out to find the installation crew of 34 steamfitters and three engineers.

At 5 o'clock in the afternoon, Mr. Haines was still searching. On each of the four floors and basement, he had walked the more than a mile of corridors.

"Several times," he says, "I almost found them--at least I had found where they had just been, but that's as close as I got."

To the 300-odd soldiers in the cast of "This Is the Army," getting stuck on a fatigue detail is an experience to be avoided, if possible. Generally, such assignments are meted out as punishments for minor violations of army regulations, but often it is necessary to call for volunteers when the task is a big one.

The other day, the captain sent word along that he wanted 50 men to report to the Treasury building. The sergeant asked for volunteers. The boys shied away. In desperation, the sergeant went to the MPs on duty at the stage door.

"When the matinee performance is over, pick 50 men going out the door here for the treasury detail," he said.

The men got wind of it. Some of them "exited" by the escapes, others through the corridors of an adjoining building. But 50 got caught, were marched over to the Treasury building and into the department's little movie projection room.

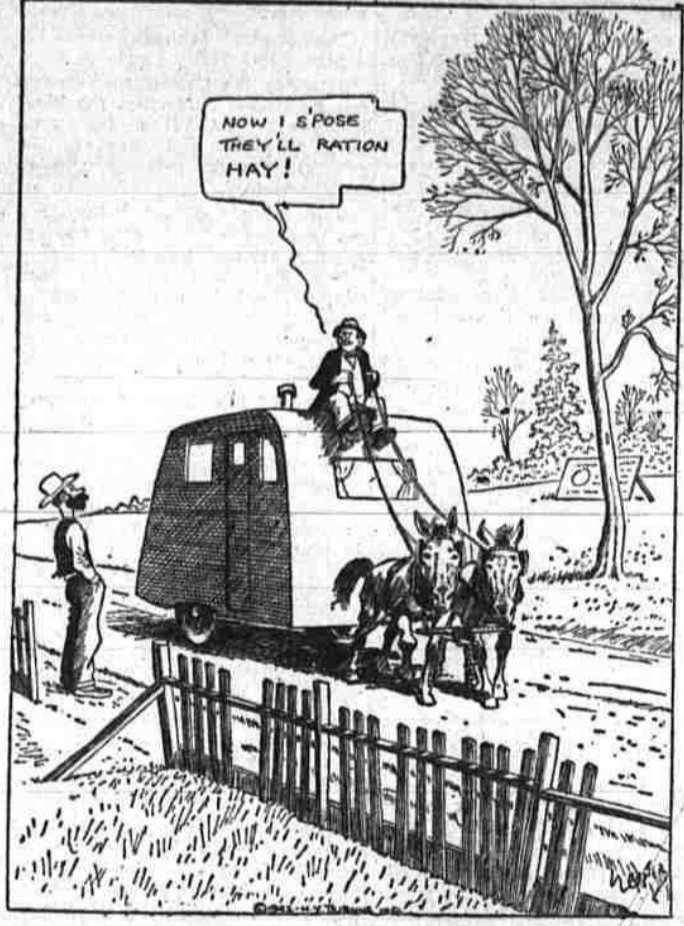

The "detail" consisted of being Secretary Morgenthau's guests for a special showing of "The Whole Town's Talking."

Unheralded recently was the record of some kind set by an Army Air Force officer. He had an early breakfast in Foynes, Scotland, and a late dinner in Washington. The difference in time, a good tall wind and a fast bomber were reported to have done the trick.

The rumor business goes on, but there may be something to the one floating around now that the next big job the War Relocation Authority will be asked to undertake is a report on manpower. Vice President Wallace is said to be the chief advocate for a manpower report to the nation. The idea would be for the War Relocation Authority to lay the cold facts on the line and tell the public just exactly what it must expect in the way of freezing jobs, drafting labor, etc.

It takes about 75 pounds of cotton to equip and maintain a soldier for one year, two or three times that much if he's on combat duty.

MURDER on the Campus

By JERRY BRONDFIELD

Chapter Two
A few seconds after Phil Humphries had left the Delta Sigma house Jane Matthews came rushing downstairs. She was a pert brunette with long, bobbed hair that bounced flatterly around her shoulders as she moved.

"Hi, halfback," she greeted Eddie. "Come here." She grabbed Luttrell's hand and dragged him off toward the living room, barely stopping for a quick hello to Todd and Susan.

Susan whistled softly. "She went into formation awfully fast, didn't she?"

Todd grinned. "Sure did. Eddie looked as though he were starting on an end run without the ball."

"Hello again," she said abstractedly, a smile on her face. "Want to go out on the terrace? It's much cooler out there."

She walked past him toward a double door and he followed her. He pulled up a wicker chair for her and then perched himself on the flat stone railing and leaned back against a pillar.

Susan took out a package of cigarettes. She started to offer one, then withdrew the package with a laugh.

"I forgot. From September to Thanksgiving you take the pledge."

"No pledge involved," he told her. "I don't smoke, anyway."

philips doesn't have a very deep regard for the game, does he?"

"Deep regard -- he hates it!" "Deep said flatly. "He's very bitter about it. His mother must have been frightened by a goal-line tumble. Anyway, Phil calls it the big business that is bankrupting education."

"Then why doesn't he get a job at Slippery Rock Normal or some other small school where the piugus hasn't struck?"

He swung his legs down to the floor and stood up, stretching. "I'd better dig Eddie up."

Susan stood up, too. "Drop back again sometime," she said lightly. "Okay," he said. "Thanks."

She thought he said it awfully casually.

Walking out of the Administration Building Susan swung down a gravel path leading to the main gate of the campus. She was passing the chemistry building she heard someone call her name.

She looked up. It was Phil Humphries, his smiling face sticking out of a second floor window. "Come up for a few seconds and then I'll drive you over to the house," he said.

"It's a deal," she told him. "I've got a couple of books here that seem to weigh a ton."

Alaska Takes Action To Save Caribou

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP) — Seeking to prevent caribou going the way of the buffalo, the Alaska game commission is paying special attention to "caribou crossings" on Alaska's few highways. Agents reported that easy hunting near such a crossing resulted in 87 killings in two days, eight of the animals being shot only for sport and left to rot.

The matter was left in the hands of a special committee headed by Wayne Johnson.

Favorable reports on progress of the Texas-Illinois line prompted discussion of the projected extension.

The ship Sarah Constant brought North America's first permanent English colonists to Jamestown in the spring of 1607.

Carelessness About Fire Termed Blot On War Effort, In Winning Themes In Local Student Contest

"Keep America safe!" we shout to our boys on the battlefields, as we light a stove and throw the burning match into a waste basket," laments Jeanne Dickerson in her prize-winning fire prevention week essay, "Unintentional Sabotage."

Jeanne, a high school junior, won a $25 war bond for her efforts.

"I want you to put down my theme with a determined look in your eye and do something!" Jeanne's essay reads. "Look around your house. Throw out those oily rags; repair that faulty gas connection; and take that penny out of your electric fuse box!"

In closing, "We put our faith and trust in the boys in uniform, and they place theirs in us. Let's not let them down. Remember, it's our job to keep the home fires burning, but even that has its restrictions."

"That carelessly-started fires are the acts of 'saboteurs', in a sense, is also the theme of 'A Patriotic Fire Prevention', which won second place and $9 in stamps for Lillie Belle Little.

Says she: "Many Americans are, without being aware of it, playing into the hands of the greatest enemy of all—fire. For each flame, regardless of how small, is an act of treason.

The fact that it is every person's individual job to see that carelessly-caused fires are reduced and fire prevention methods carried out is brought out in 'Fire Prevention' by Richard O'Brien, who won third place.

Says John Masefield—

War's A Dreary Time For Poets

By RUSSELL LANDSTROM
Wide World Features
BURCOTE BROOK, Oxfordshire, England.—It may have been a perversion of destiny that made gentle and sensitive John Masefield England's poet-laureate in the years of the empire's gravest battle.

The poet-laureate does not like to talk or think about the war, but even in this lovely retreat on the Thames the great oppression cannot be long escaped. And tall, thin, white-haired Masefield disclosed that he thought many dismal days lay ahead for poetry.

"The moods of this war are despair, anger and resignation," he said. "Writers are not expressing themselves in poetry, for the mood of the times is not a poetic one."

Nonetheless, he continued, the artistic conscience "must be kept alive," and if one cannot create, one can at least paraphrase or revive old achievements, even as the theatre does when playwrights are scarce and fine talents are baffled. If this were not done, he asserted, "the people would go mad."

"Perhaps in the period of world reconstruction we shall find our great poets. But it is too much to expect to find them emerging now."

The poet-laureate in wartime is more of a reporter than an epic singer. It was Masefield who best told the story of the withdrawal from Dunkerque, in "The Nine Days Wonder," but it was prose. It is frequently called a masterpiece of journalism.

He is currently working on a prose story of the emergency health services in operation in London during the heavy air raids. It will be a companion piece to "The Nine Days Wonder."

763 Enrolled In The High School

Thirteen students have been dropped from the high school rolls, leaving an enrollment of 763 in the four higher classes and 263 in the eighth grade. The slight decrease in high school enrollment for the same time last year—when 776 were registered—is attributed by Principal J. A. Coffey to the fact that 1941 and 1942 graduating classes were composed of students who first started to school in 1939 and '31, when 6-year-olds were allowed, and many of them attended an extra year.

A sweeping return to religion is seen by Dr. Norris as one of the outgrowths of the war. "You can see it coming already," he said, "and it will gain mighty proportions. People are realizing that they cannot live without God."

Dr. Norris, here in the interest of World Fundamental missions, is speaking this afternoon and tonight at the Trinity Baptist church. His lecture tonight will be devoted largely to his visit in Britain.

He announced that his radio network broadcasts Sunday would deal with his trip to Big Spring.

Must Look To Post-War Life, Says Norris

It is time for this country to follow the example of Great Britain and begin thinking of post-war adjustments and arranging for a new mode of life. The Britishers, far more than Americans, are conscious of drastic changes which must be met when the conflict is over.

These are views of Dr. J. Frank Norris, famed minister, who is in Big Spring for a two-day series of talks.

Dr. Norris speaks from the experience of a trip to England, where he interviewed high and low alike, had a talk with Prime Minister Churchill, and addressed large crowds.

"The Briton of class recognizes that his wealth is gone," said Dr. Norris. "He sees the change of an empire. But he is facing this philosophically, and is willing to pay any price for freedom and happiness."

The cheerfulness with which Britain is making sacrifices is inspirational, the minister said.

He had the highest praise for Churchill, whom he describes as one of the world's greatest figures and at the same time a "regular fellow, like us."

Churchill was greatly interested in Texas, Dr. Norris said, and said he hoped to visit this state when the war is over.

A sweeping return to religion is seen by Dr. Norris as one of the outgrowths of the war. "You can see it coming already," he said, "and it will gain mighty proportions. People are realizing that they cannot live without God."

Dr. Norris, here in the interest of World Fundamental missions, is speaking this afternoon and tonight at the Trinity Baptist church. His lecture tonight will be devoted largely to his visit in Britain.
