Warning Issued To Dove Hunters

AUSTIN - The law enforcement director of the Game Commission warned Texas dove hunters Saturday to make every effort to retrieve all birds they kill or wound.

"Some hunters are careless about recovering their kills when they go into the field to hunt doves and whitewings. These people are detrimental to the honest and responsible hunters and fail to see the damage this causes the bird crop," said E. M. Sprott.

Sprott gave these hints to keep killed and wounded birds from going unretrieved:

1. Don't shoot a bird if it will fall into heavy brush. "It's best to let the bird escape than to waste it," he said.
2. If you shoot a bird, be certain to mark it even if it falls into an open field. "Get a line on something in the background and walk straight toward it and keep a sharp eye on the ground. A dove blends well with the soil in most areas."

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Burns have been confined to their home for the past ten days. Mr. Burns was in town Wednesday but Mrs. Burns is still confined to bed.

Many things have been written lately concerning the promotion of Spanish Peanuts grown in Eastland County and you might wonder what Sports would play in such instances? According to Jim Browder, sportswriter for the Fort Worth Press, the TCU football team is nick-naming all the players and it seems that Max Pierce, because he is from the Peanut Capitol of the World, Arvie Martin, center and captain of the team, has nick-named Max "Goober" which proves again that anything can happen in the goober country.

Mr. and Mrs. U. E. Westmoreland and daughter have moved from Odessa to Ranger where Mr. Westmoreland will enter the plumbing business.

Incidentally, in all probability, Pierce will be starting the game at fullback when the TCU Horn Frogs engage the Kansas Jayhawks this Saturday in Lawrence, Kansas. Starting time for this game will be 1:15 p. m. (CST) and will be broadcast over WBAP 570, Fort Worth, and KWKC - 1340, Abilene.

Well its picking time again — pigskin pickings that is — and they will be even tougher to predict this season than they were for the J&S prognosticators last year. Here are the fearless forecasts:

Even though the Gorman Panthers have dropped their first two games; it is gratifying to know that the boys have played hard, clean football and are determined to improve as the season moves along.

Talking to some of the boys, they admit that mistakes have been the cause of their first two defeats and they also leave the impression that the same mistakes won't happen again; which is a good sign that Coach Walters has instilled in the Panthers the desire to play football. We believe with a few more weeks of practice on the fundamentals and a few more games to give them more experience the Panthers will improve to the extent that they will be hard to handle before the season is over.

J & S

Unless the Chicago White Sox or the Baltimore Birds can come thru with a hot winning streak it looks like it will be the Pittsburgh Pirates and the New York Yankees in the World Series.

Almost every baseball fan is pulling for the Pirates to get into the series because it has been 34 years since they have participated in one.

The teams have about seventeen games left to play and this week-end should almost determine the American League when the Yanks and the Baltimore Birds play a four game series which will be telecast both Saturday and Sunday.

to them of placing their peanuts under association loans, provided the commercial shellers are paying prices close to the loan advance. If growers place their peanuts under association loan, they are assured of receiving at the time the peanuts are marketed, the loan advance price. Later on, if a sufficient quantity of peanuts is sold by the association into the trade, growers who placed peanuts under loan will share in the association earnings.

Growers who placed peanuts under association loan in 1955 were paid $2.50 per ton dividends. Growers who placed peanuts under loan in 1959 will share in dividends of $3.54 per ton. The association realizes earnings on the sale of loan peanuts at prices which reflect the full support value. If a peanut grower wishes to place his peanuts under loan he may do so by delivering them to any association approved warehouse. Any sheller or commissioned buyer can tell growers which warehouses are approved to store loan peanuts. Also, the county ASC office can provide this information.

March of Dimes Support Urged by Mother Who Lost Birth Defects Baby in 49 Days

(Editor's Note: Mary Strous, young Laurelville, Ohio, mother, tells in her own words the tragic story of what happens in a family when a child is born with a serious birth defect.)

By MARY STROUS

Our baby Laura was born on Mother's Day seven years ago. We lost Laura seven weeks later on Father's Day.

She gave a soft little sigh as she died in my arms. My husband and I buried her with the rattle to which she had clung tightly during her brief life.

But Laura, who died of the terrible birth defects known as open spine and too much fluid on the brain, still lives in the hearts of her father Don and myself. When asked by strangers, we always say we have three daughters (instead of really only two), and I want to explain why.

We feel that each of us, including our tiny Laura, is brought into the world to serve a purpose, even if our stay on earth is as tragically short as 49 days.

For years we were numbed by our baby's passing. But today we recognize that in being asked by The National Foundation to renew our memories of those despairing seven weeks, my husband and I are somehow fulfilling the purpose of Laura's fleeting visit with us.

That purpose is to repeat as forcefully as we can the lessons we have learned:

1. Scientists insist that parents should not be ashamed over the birth of an infant with a congenital malformation; instead, face the situation bravely and seek professional advice. Feelings of guilt aren't justified.
2. There is no medical evidence that birth defects are always hereditary; and
3. There is no evidence that because a couple have had one defective baby, they are likely to have another. Doctors at Columbus, Ohio, near our farm at Laurelville, said our chances of having another malformed baby were something like one in 40,000. (Donna Marguerite, Mary Strous, of Ohio, and daughters Julie Ann, two, and Donna Marguerite, five, study photos of youngest child, Laura, who died of birth defects at seven weeks.

five years old, and Julie Ann, two, who followed Laura after Don and I had reflected deeply and sought advice, could not be healthier or more normal.)

But by no means have Don and I forgotten our hopelessness and indeed our self-loathing during those 49 days and nights when we took turns holding Laura in our arms, or sat hour after hour beside her bassinet, watching life drain from her eyes.

We detested ourselves because of torments that something was wrong with us physically, or that a shameful defect had been inherited from our forebears (later proved untrue), and that we were thus responsible for this cruelty to an innocent baby.

Never will we forget the frantic drive, while our baby was dying, to our church so that she might be baptized before she left us. In some way our congregation had learned of the reason for our headlong visit, and the tears of those sorrowing folks flowed with ours.

Our Laura was one of 250,000 babies born each year in our country with significant birth defects; that tragic total is growing with our increasing population. Our baby was one of 34,000 who in addition die annually from these congenital malformations; and that awful figure is also mounting.

At last, something constructive is being done about birth defects. With March of Dimes contributions, The National Foundation is directing a broad study of this devastating puzzle, just as it fought polio and in time found the Salk vaccine to prevent it.

With a donation in January from each of us, in time there will be many fewer Lauras in our land.
