Double Trouble For Teachers

HIGH SCHOOL SENIORS—Loy, left, and Roy Loudamy, below, not only baffle their teachers but also the customers of their father's cafe, where they work after school. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Loudamy of the Center Point community.

He gets the old shotgun down but things don't work out exactly as planned. The arrival of Ronald Maxwell (Bryant Harris), a young medical student, and his aunt, Lucy Maxwell (Lyndia Smith), from the city further complicates matters. MRS. D. M. LOVELACE

Pioneer Plans 100th Birthday Celebration

Mrs. D. M. Lovelace, probably Howard County's oldest resident, will be paid homage today.

Wednesday, she will celebrate her 100th birthday.

The day's activities will begin with a family dinner in the home of her grandson and granddaughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Willie D. Lovelace, 1806 Runnels. Expected to attend are two of Mrs. Lovelace's three living children, Riley Lovelace and Mrs. Effie Rogers, both of Big Spring. Mrs. Zula Williams, another daughter, of Riverside, Calif., will be unable to attend.

Mrs. Lovelace was the mother of nine children. Three died in infancy and three after they were grown.

Also expected for the dinner are many of her 17 grandchildren, 35 great-grandchildren and 11 great-great-grandchildren.

In the afternoon, Mrs. Lovelace, who has been twice honored as the oldest living white mother of Howard County, will greet her close friends at an open house in the home of her son and daughter-in-law at 1806 Runnels.

Born Eliza Jane McMillen, Feb. 18, 1853 in Arkansas, Mrs. Lovelace moved to Dallas with her parents when she was three.

In 1871 she was married to Douglas Moreene Lovelace in Allen, a farming community in Collin County. Before his death in 1925, the couple celebrated their 54th wedding anniversary.

A resident of Big Spring since 1902, Mrs. Lovelace with her husband and her children, moved to West Texas from Hamilton County.

The trip, made by covered wagon with a stopover in Garden City, took a month.

Mrs. Rogers vividly remembers that a small herd of sheep was brought with the family's supplies to this area.

Settling first in Midland, the family moved to Big Spring at the suggestion of a doctor, who believed that the water here would be better for Mrs. Lovelace.

She has been a member of the First Methodist Church here since 1885 and until 2 1/2 years ago remained relatively active.

A fall Wednesday in the home of her son has put Mrs. Lovelace in bed temporarily but she expects to be up and about for the day's celebrations.

Her one main desire in recent years has been to live to be 100 and a slight fall is not going to keep her from enjoying the day.

"I've always had a good life," she explained. "I always had plenty of children and lots to do. I took good care of my husband and he always took good care of me," she added simply.

That's her recipe for longevity.

GREATER THAN THE ATOM'S POWER...

Everyone these days talks and thinks about atomic energy. To most of us it is the most remarkable and powerful form of energy yet discovered.

One of the world's outstanding scientists does not agree. He points out that the most powerful form of energy is not mechanical. It is not electronic, or even atomic energy. It is, he says, prayer energy.

This little family, then, is tapping that source of amazing power—whether the children utter the simple words, "Now I lay me down to sleep—" or a special prayer straight from their hearts.

When you see a family united in prayer, you know it is a family united in all things.

And you know, too, that the Church is an important part of its life.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

New Baptist Temple Dedication Is Today

The city's newest church plant, that of the Baptist Temple, will be consecrated as a place of worship today.

In services at 2:30 p.m., two of the elder members of the church, J. A. Kinard and J. F. Cartwright, will lay the corner stone following a message of dedication by the Rev. Maple Avery, pastor of the mother East Fourth Baptist Church. Mr. Kinard and Mrs. Cartwright will be assisted by the Rev. Jimmie Parks, Baptist Temple pastor.

Regular services will be at the regular hours—11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m., and during the week the congregation will begin its spiritual life in the new plant by observing a revival season with the Rev. David Boston, Houston, leading.

Church Sets District Meet Here March 8

District meeting of officers of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints will be held in Big Spring Mar. 8, Percy Schugk, district president, has announced.

Berry L. Bowring, Houston, mission president, will be present. The district conference, and additional meetings scheduled for Mar. 9, will be held at 15th and Lancaster.

The chemical composition of all kinds of wood is almost exactly the same, some kinds being heavier than others because they are more dense.

ernon, Dr. P. D. O'Brien, pastor of the First Baptist Church, will give the invocation. Scriptures will be read by Chaplain C. O. Hitt and by the Rev. A. W. Stowe, pastor of the Airport Baptist Church. The dedicatory prayer will be voiced by the Rev. J. William Arnett, district Baptist missionary.

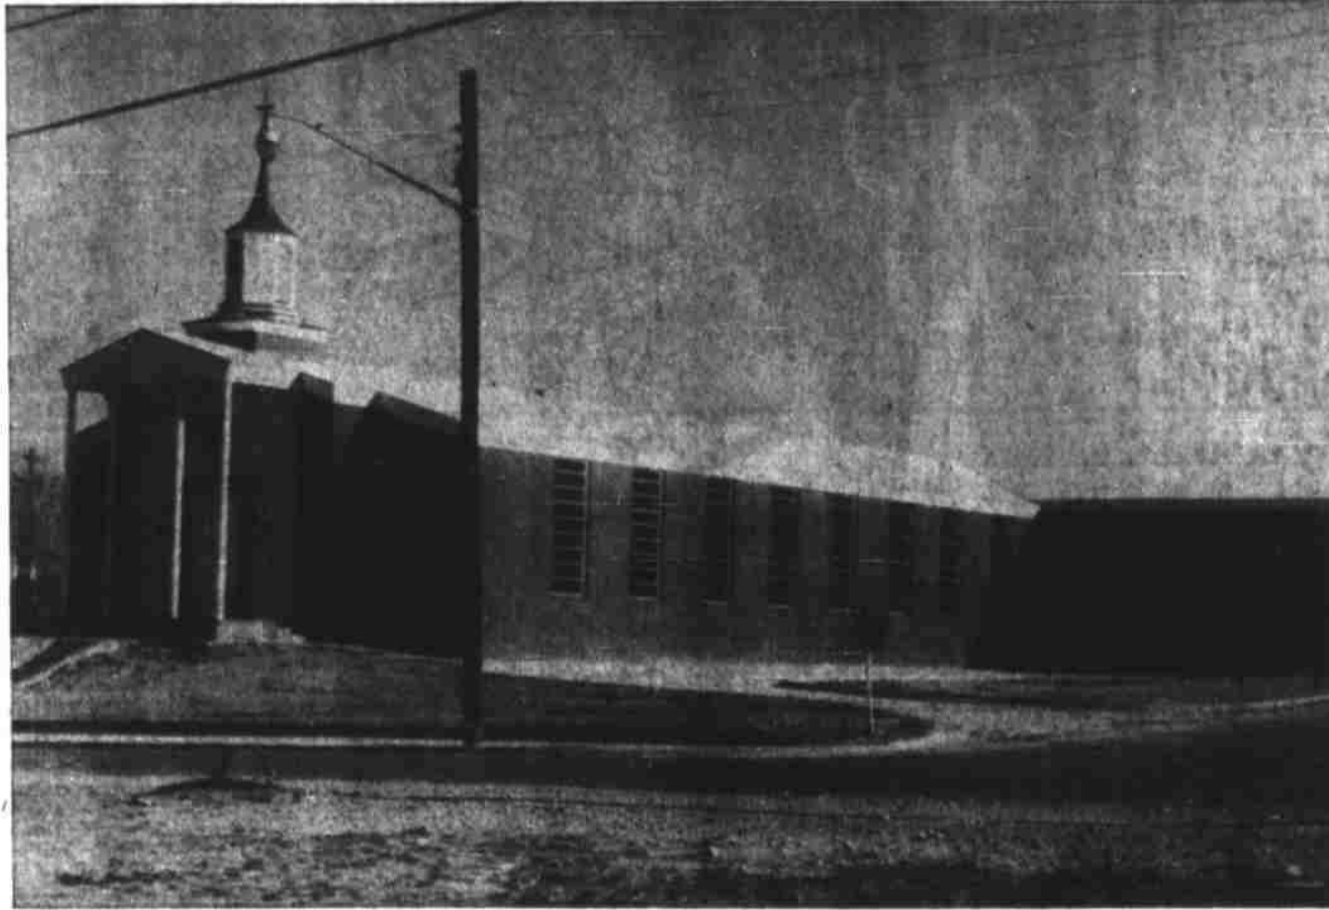

Special music will be furnished by the choir in singing "All Hail the Power," accompanied by Mrs. H. M. Jarratt, pianist, and Gene James, organist. There will be congregational singing before the benediction is pronounced by the Rev. Cecil Rhodes, Westside Baptist minister. An inspection of the new facilities will follow.

Design of the building is in modified colonial, the sanctuary, capable of seating approximately 800 people, stems directly from the Eleventh Place entrance. Back of the sanctuary in a wing extending east and west, is the two-story educational section. Besides modern illumination, windows are of a type to filter out the heat and ultra-violet rays.

Some 200 extra seats in the wings will enable the church to provide facilities for approximately 1,000 persons at a single service.

The educational building has space for 483 persons, while the combined floor space of the entire plant totals 17,390 square feet.

The Baptist Temple was organized on Easter Sunday of 1952. There were 83 charter members, and initial Sunday School enrollment was 75. At present, the church membership totals 300 and the Sunday School enrollment has increased to 80.

Youths Enjoy Biographies; Use Of Library On Increase

Use of the Howard County Library has picked up considerably during the past year, with somewhere near 4,000 books now being checked out monthly.

Mrs. W. B. Thornton Jr., librarian, stated that juveniles between the ages of 9 and 15 years are the best customers. However adults account for about 40 per cent of the books checked out.

Although fiction selections are still the most widely read, Mrs. Thornton reports that non-fiction books are steadily gaining in popularity.

"The juveniles are heavy readers of biographies," she said. "Also quite a few of the boys at the base and college students are checking out non-fiction books."

Mrs. Thornton said the armen read more non-fiction than anything else. "they like to check out chemistry, physics and aviation books," she said.

College students on the other hand lean toward books of quotations, literature, plays and biographies.

"Major books among the adults are still mysteries and westerns," she said. "These two types are closely followed by regular novels."

The number of books checked out does not give an accurate picture of the people's use of the library, Mrs. Thornton pointed out. Many individuals go to the library to read magazines and browse through the shelves.

"Most of those coming to the library to read magazines are men," she said. "Every one of our 43 magazine selections are used." She said armen are constantly checking the bound volume of magazines kept in the stacks.

Adults checked out anywhere from 23 to 89 fiction books daily during January. Non-fiction selections issued were about 10 per day. On the other hand, juveniles check out from 33 to 80 fiction books each day and about 45 non-fiction books.

Approximately 24 pre-school "easy" books were checked out daily.

Traffic has picked up so much that a full-time assistant librarian has been added to the staff. She is Mrs. Ollie Daniel, who assumed her duties on Feb. 1.

In order to meet additional demands for books, new orders are now being made each month. Previously the Commissioners' Court had stopped orders of books, Mrs. Thornton said.

Mrs. Thornton said the first shipment was received this week since book orders were stopped in Jan., 1952. The monthly allotment which the library can spend for books is $250, Mrs. Thornton said.

This week's shipment consisted of about 150 books, which were mostly novels. Some non-fiction selections were included, along with a few mysteries.

The library has also received several voluntary contributions during the past few months. Largest collection was contributed by Frank Goss. He turned over about 25 technical books, two novels and nine German books to the library.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Brown, 105 Tulsa Road, recently contributed 15 novels and four non-fiction books. Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ezell of San Angelo contributed a book, as did the 1953 Hyperion Club.

Recent additions also include "Home Book of Quotations," two copies of "Katy Did," the "New Universal Reference Library," and a complete set of "Audels New Electric Dictionaries."

A Bible Thought For Today—

A Princeton professor wrote a book, "The Direction of Human Evolution." The book ended in complete confusion and bewilderment. John was definite and specific. To be like Christ is a worthy ambition and life goal. "Now we are children of God, and it is not yet manifest what we should be. We know... we shall be like Him, for we shall see Him as He is." — I John 3:2.

Physical Convenience And Comfort Should Be Secondary To Humanity

In the report of C. H. Caveness, state auditor, "badly crowded" conditions at the Big Spring State Hospital are cited. Among other things, he said his examiners found beds in some wards "not over six or eight inches apart." There was no recreation building and ping pong and game tables have to be placed in the wards. Considering the crowding conditions were clean and orderly. Of the safety discrepancies found by a hospital board engineer, all that could be corrected by administrative action were accomplished. But the reorganization could not be changed without engineering and planning (which must mean physical additions).

economically and efficient, here. Yet nothing — or practically nothing — has happened to change the picture. Just before the outbreak of World War II, the legislature appropriated funds for major additions (including that recreational building) to the hospital. Plans had advanced to the stage that the project could likely have been pushed right on through without conflict with the war effort, but instead the project was cancelled out and was claimed as an economy. Once more improvements have been authorized. Like the mill of the gods, the planners and administrative forces have ground exceedingly "how if not fine. Every effort ought to be exerted locally, since we as a community have certain responsibilities as a host city for this humanitarian institution, to encourage action. The issue here is sick people — unfortunate people. It is a humanity. More money for highways and all other physical improvements for comfort or convenience ought to be secondary to the meeting of these needs.

Self-Appointed Spokesmen Are Troublesome At Home, Abroad

Although it is not easy, it is very necessary these days to keep remembering the difference between the actual development of the President's foreign policies and that large cloud of opinion, dope, guessing, inference and attribution which envelop them. A great deal of bad feeling is being generated on both sides of the Atlantic by men who are discussing not the President's policies but what somebody has said they might or ought to be. A few days ago, for example, there was a discussion in the House of Lords over something or other that a Senator had said that Admiral Radford had said in a supposedly secret meeting. Admiral Radford is known to be well regarded by the President. Putting two and two together and guessing that they add up to seven, it was taken for granted in London that the Senator was speaking for the Admiral, who in his turn must be speaking for the President.

example, that there has not yet been time to consult the members of Congress who should be consulted, or to explain the action thoroughly to a friendly government which will have to explain it to a suspicious Parliament. And of course, when the disclosure is inaccurate or untrue, the mischief can be enormous. Often there is no effective way to deny the report without arousing new suspicions about the denial. Very often the disclosure is partly true but greatly exaggerated or not rightly qualified. Then the effect is to create a popular expectation that the President cannot satisfy without undue costs and risks and which he dare not disappoint without arousing angry popular discontent. The mountainous expectations that have grown up around the President's orders to the 7th Fleet are depriving him of that very initiative, that very power to maneuver, which the Truman administration had lost, which it has been his proper purpose to recover.

It is no infringement of anyone's freedom of speech to argue that the self-appointed spokesmen are abusing freedom of speech. It is unauthorized, and as often as not the uninformed, politician, who lets it be thought that he is speaking for the President, exercising his right to speak freely? Or is he, in fact, selling shares in an oil well that he does not own? There is a constitutional right to speak for ourselves, to speak about the President, to criticize the President when he speaks, to criticize him when he does not speak, to criticize him when he does not speak enough, or does not speak the things we would like to hear him speak. But there is no constitutional right to speak for him. It is his constitutional right as a man, and as President with constitutional responsibilities, to speak for himself. And that right must be jealously guarded. It is fundamental and essential if he is to administer his office, and most particularly in the field of foreign affairs where the stakes are life and death.

Sunday Talk: Coming Eclipses

I hope you enjoyed the imaginary rocket trip which we finished yesterday! An actual trip of the kind would have more excitement, but less comfort. On my desk I have found a letter from a reader who asks me to tell about "the last total eclipse of the sun and the next total eclipse." A total eclipse of the sun took place late in the month of February last year. The path ran from west-central Africa through Khartoum then across Arabia to central Asia. At Khartoum the sun was blocked out completely for three minutes and nine seconds. Many persons in South America (from Chile to Uruguay) saw an "annular" eclipse of the sun last year. In this kind of eclipse the moon gets squarely (or roundly) in front of the sun, but fails to block out a ring of light. The ring of light comes from the edges of the sun. It is true that even during a total eclipse, people see the sun's corona, or "crown," but the corona light is faint in comparison with the ring of light during an annular eclipse. The partial eclipse of the sun on Friday the thirteenth of the present month had a broad path in western Asia (including Korea and Japan) but the only part of North America where people could see it was in western Alaska. On the 10th day of next July another partial eclipse of the sun is to come about. This will be observed from Greenland to Seattle, Wash. It will be visible to people. In 1954 millions of people on this continent will watch a total eclipse of the sun. On the last day of June (a bit more than 16 months from now) the total eclipse is to take place. The path will run from central Nebraska northeastward, through edges of South Dakota and Iowa, then through southern Minnesota, northern Wisconsin, Lake Superior and western Ontario. In the present year a total eclipse of the moon is to take place on the 26th of July. This eclipse will be visible in western parts of Canada and the United States. Elsewhere in North America a partial eclipse of the moon will be seen. For SCIENCE section of your scrapbook.

Spotlighting A Week Of News

Stalin Tries Hitler Tactics And Jews Again Assume The Role As Scapegoats

By FRED GREENE Adolph Hitler wasn't the first man to persecute members of the Jewish faith. Nor is he apparently the last. Joseph Stalin, boss of all Russia, is following in the ex-corporal's footsteps. His latest step was to sever diplomatically relations between the Jewish state of Israel and the Soviet Union. Ostensibly, the break was due to the bombing of the Soviet legation last week in Tel-Aviv. Injured in the explosion were three Russians. This reason, however, is not regarded seriously. The break appears to have been a gradual process and its purpose probably is to further split the Middle East, which is predominantly Arab, from the West. Persecution of the Jews has not been a recent thing with Russia, although that nation's anti-Semitic actions have in the past been slight.

First anti-Semitic move of any consequence came shortly after the 1940 Russo-German pact was signed. As historians tell us, Russia entered into that pact in order to gain more time to build up its defenses against the already powerful Hitlerian armies. The German chancellor, already in the midst of a Jewish purge, did not take lightly to Maxim Litvinoff, a Jew, being Soviet foreign minister. He urged his ouster and Stalin, because he claims he needed time, ousted Litvinoff to please Hitler. Nothing very much was then heard about anti-Semitism inside Russia for many years. Another Jew was among the top Soviet leaders. Jewish people were prominent in many fields, though their names were lost as artists and professional people to the world. Many were persecuted, of course but primarily as offenders against the state not because they were Jews.

Now, however, things have changed. Recently Jewish doctors were arrested charged with "killing" top Russian leaders and with other malpractices. Such charges have been labeled by responsible persons as ridiculous. Not much of course is known about the case but because of the wide publicity and the predominance of Jews charged it has been labeled as a case strictly against the Jews and to secure propaganda benefits. When trouble broke out in the Middle East Russia was quick to see that she could make political hay out of the violent hatred of Arabs for the British French Americans and Israelis. The thing Russia had to do was to take sides in the issue of greatest concern to the vast majority of Arabs. Although the Arabs have no love for the West and neither feared the Soviets. So to lessen some of this fear and to show Arab states that Russia had something in common with these Middle Eastern people Communists persecution of Jews began to show. This Jewish problem is the one that excites Arab nations most. In fact the war between the Arab states and Israel has flared on and off ever since the new state of Israel came into existence shortly after World War II ended. The Russian move is certain to be greeted favorably by A F A B nations, but whether it will endear the Soviets to those nations cannot be answered. All Russia probably would desire out of any refusal ties with the Arabs is a refusal to enter into a Middle Eastern defense pact with the West. But even this forlorn hope of Russia got a setback this week when Britain and Egypt signed an agreement covering the future of the disputed Sudan area. Also, an agreement in principle was reached for the withdrawal of British troops from the Suez Canal. These powerful issues, long the subject of violence and other troubles, once settled, could give rise to the much desired Middle Eastern Defense Command which could not be of any consequence without the assistance of Egypt. Both Britain and Egypt, each claiming the million-square-mile area, are going to give up a joint rule started in 1899 to allow that area to decide its own fate. The eight million Sudanese can join Egypt, the British Commonwealth or become an independent nation. While these moves are no doubt influenced somewhat by the times, they do represent willingness on the part of Western nations to bring heretofore backward Arab states into their ranks in fact, listing them as equals in view of the proposed status of a defense agreement. Who knows but that British agreement, right on the heels of an Israeli-Russian diplomatic break, was timed to offset such a severance of relations?

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP There was a comical touch to the appropriation voted by the Texas House of Representatives on this day in 1871. But not to one Captain A. Faulkner, the House Sergeant-at-Arms. Mr. Faulkner wanted $1,085 voted to him personally for money of his own he had spent to carry out a House request. Now for the humorous side. On the previous August 13, the House had instructed Captain Faulkner to secure a "suitable" portrait of Sam Houston. The task assigned him was not so much as judging the quality of any portrait, but to find a picture which would fit a frame purchased two years before. Then the House had appropriated $200 to purchase a frame for a portrait of Houston. Apparently the resolution to also buy a portrait got lost in the legislative shuffle, and thus Captain Faulkner's assignment. Happily enough, the Sergeant-at-Arms found several paintings available which would fit the frame, or could be adapted to do so without lowering the quality of the likeness. So this variance from the regular procedure—doesn't one usually buy a painting first and then arrange for its framing—worked out with only casual hardship to Captain Faulkner and a delay of some five months before he was reimbursed for his expense.

OTHER NEWS IN THE SPOT-LIGHT: President Eisenhower continued his slashing at government controls. Many more curbs were lifted including lids on poultry, eggs, soap, gasoline, crude oil, metals and other products. That leaves only about 17 per cent of the items that make up the cost of living index as still under control. Twelve men were blown up after an explosion at a California powder plant. The Minot (Mickey) Jelts vice trial opened in New York. The judge barred the press and radio from covering trial proceedings. A number of Gotham papers and two press associations filed suit to get the doors open. Gen. James Van Fleet this week departed his beloved Eighth Army for the United States and a well earned rest after being retired from active duty. But before Van Fleet can relax, he'll have to appear at a Senate Armed Forces Committee hearing. The general remarked earlier this week that an offensive could be carried out effectively and easily. Taking over Van Fleet's Korean post was Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, famed paratrooper leader of World War II. President Eisenhower refused to change the death sentences of two convicted atomic spies, Julius and Ethel Rosenberg. Another American was convicted of treason this week. He was John David Provo, former Army sergeant, convicted of aiding Japanese captors while a prisoner during the war. In Korea, patrol clashes were largely reported on the ground, while UN jets and bombers scoured the skies and ripped enemy installations up and down North Korea.

For Middle Age: Buy Hair Tonic Or One Of Those Fancy Weskits

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note. Speaking of birthdays, or were we? I've just had one, and it brought up a rudely awakening shock in considering that pressing question: How long can you stay in middle age? When do you start being elderly? For that matter, when did middle age start? Perhaps you heard the lecturer the other night who described middle age as the period of the five B's: baldness, bifocals, bridges, bulges and bunions. This is good for a laugh, but maybe a little cruel for some of us who suffer from some, if not all, of the B's. After all, baldness (I've heard) might be hereditary or due to an illness, and not necessarily a result of creeping years. Too, I heard of a fellow peddling a cure for it. The label on his bottle read: "This substance will not restore hair, but it will shrink your head enough so that the fringe of hair you do have will cover the whole skull." H-m-m-m. One really shouldn't associate bifocals with age, either. Lot of people have eye trouble before they vote. And bridges? Well, maybe as a youth you fell and busted out some teeth and had to have 'em replaced. Bulges? Sheer wifely imagination. The wife points in the general direction of your middle and asks sarcastically, "Carrying a spare tire?" But I look down carefully, smooth out the stomach with my hand, and reply, "Don't be silly. These trousers always were a little too tight in the waistband. You want me to be a skeleton, or something?" Bunions? Simply a sign of great activity. You stand all day, you're going to develop bunions on your feet. You sit all day, you're going to develop 'em some place else. So phooey to the five B's. Another sign.

that middle age definitely is being conquered by the male of the species is the sudden spurge of fancy colored vests — excuse me, waistcoats or weskits. Guys who once draped themselves in a double-breasted to sort of tame down the bulge now array themselves in the houndstooth, or circus stripe weskit. The idea being that the weskit attracts so much attention that the bulge beneath it will not be noticed. Some of our more prominent citizens are wearing these things, fellows, and you can get 'em in the stores. Let's get on the band wagon. Middle age, I take it, is accompanied by domestic tranquility. 'Tis noted that somebody in the state of Arkansas has proposed a bill in the legislature there to put a $750-per-year head tax on bachelors. This ought to create a rush for the marriage license bureau. Trouble is, when does a fellow become a bachelor? Seems like 750 smackers is a bit steep for a young man of 22 or 23. I would suggest a sliding scale. Start the tax at $10 per year, and let it go on up. By the time a guy was paying $750 or $1,000 a year, he'd know darn well he was middle-aged, as well as unmarried. But it remains, as 't should, for the younger generation to be pretty definite about what constitutes middle age. Read a piece of the other day quoting some of the newer examples of teen-age slang. The kids are saying, in some quarters, that an older person is an Upper Plate. If you overhear yourself being referred to as U.P., you'll know you've arrived. Even if that's not where you were wanting to go. —UPPER PLATE WHIPKEY

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs

Sen. Morse Has A Long Memory And He's Safely Set Until 1956

WASHINGTON.—Although there have been few surface signs of it, nothing in a long time has troubled the conscience of the Senate as did the virtually unanimous vote of Republicans and Democrats to deny Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon his important committee assignments. Nor is the irrepressible Morse likely to let his colleagues on either side of the aisle forget that vote. What plagues the conscience of Northern Democrats who voted with Republicans and Southerners is that they may have violated an ancient Senate precedent guaranteeing the individual rebel his rights and privileges regardless of party ties. The maverick from Oregon is telling the "liberals"—he puts the word in quotes—that this is just what they have done. And Morse can use language with a singularly searing effect. In the discussions leading up to the showdown vote of 81 to 7, Senator Clinton Anderson (D., N. M.) argued that a solution fair to all concerned could be worked out without violating what he insisted was an important Senate precedent. The precedent, according to Anderson, is that the majority party in the Senate is responsible for placing senators who belong to splinter parties on committees on which they are entitled by seniority to serve. Morse said that he was no longer a Republican but an Independent, and that he did not claim the right to continue on the Armed Services and the Labor Committees as a member of the majority. Early in the campaign last fall he turned against General Eisenhower and actively supported Governor Stevenson. This was the last straw for most Republicans, who had long been irritated by Morse's independent tactics. Ironically enough, he had been one of Ike's early supporters. After the election he might have asked for forgiveness, which is inconceivable in one of Morse's temperaments. Or the majority leader in the Senate, Robert A. Taft of Ohio, might have held out an olive branch, which is also inconceivable under the circumstances. Anderson argued that Morse should be allowed to keep his committee assignments. In order to prevent him from having the power of the swing man when party lines were closely drawn, the majority could also enlarge those committees by putting on one or two additional Republicans.

Anderson argued that Morse should be allowed to keep his committee assignments. In order to prevent him from having the power of the swing man when party lines were closely drawn, the majority could also enlarge those committees by putting on one or two additional Republicans. Before the issue came to a showdown, committee assignments had been passed out to the Democrats, with the Northerners getting the choice posts they wanted on Foreign Relations, Interior and so forth. This resulted from the skillful management of Minority Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas. Johnson's new colleague from Texas, Price Daniel, who supported Eisenhower, nevertheless kept his technical status as a Democrat and was given a place on the Interior committee where the offshore oil question is of direct concern to Texans. As the time for a vote drew near, Morse jibed at the Northern Democrats as being under the thumb of the Republican-Southern coalition. He accused them of having surrendered their independence in return for committee assignments. Anderson was one of the six voting for Morse. Four others were Democrats—Kaufman of Tennessee, Long of Louisiana, and Kilgore and Ncely of West Virginia. The lone Republican was Senator Charles Tobey of New Hampshire. As rebels frequently do, Morse sees himself as a symbol—a symbol of the independent spirit once so prized in the Senate. It is this spirit that has time and again overridden party discipline. Not since the case of Senator Charles Sumner in 1871, according to Morse, has similar action been taken against a member of the Senate. This suggests an interesting parallel. Like Morse, Sumner was a man of impeccable righteousness and often a thorn in the flesh of the complacent. In the fierce debates leading up to the Civil War he was caned on the floor of the Senate by a Southerner and his health so impaired that for three years, while he slowly recovered, he was absent from the Senate. In 1870 Sumner set himself against President Grant's pet scheme for the annexation of San Domingo. He also favored heavy demands on England for her breaches of neutrality in the Civil War. Grant and the regular Republicans were deeply resentful, and Sumner was deposed as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. At a Roosevelt Day dinner in Washington Morse was the chief speaker. In his audience were many of the Northern Democrats who had voted against him and he singled them out for his scorn. The gadfly Morse has a long memory and he does not come up for re-election until 1956.

Heron Bewildered By Civilization

MANHASSET, N. Y. (AP)—After some anxious moments two policemen managed to return a blue heron found on a busy street here to its natural marshland habitat. The tall bird seemed bewildered by the bright lights when the policemen captured it and put it in a patrol car. The angry bird ripped a hole through the patrolman's notebook and the floor of the car with its long bill. The policemen locked the heron in a nearby service station for the night and the station proprietor returned the bird to its natural habitat in the morning. The proprietor, who wasn't expecting to see the bird when he opened up in the morning, said, "I thought for a minute I was in Florida."

JOHN 10:11, 14—"I am the good shepherd." The fulfillment of the Twenty-third Psalm is made known in this expression of Jesus. During contacts with people who have been unfortunate in business or health or other experiences of life, this verse has been heartening. It is good to know, in adversity, that there is a refuge, a real place of security. It is good to be with people as they meet with success or as they are enjoying abundant health and prosperity. Again, at such times, these words come to mind, to tell us that He is the "giver of every good and perfect gift," and that thanksgiving is due to Him alone. Our Shepherd not only cares for us in times of evil and times of good, but also in times when we fail to walk closely with Him. He is gracious in discipline, and "things work together for good to them that love God." It is wonderful to know that He is the "good shepherd" in all of life. Dr. John Wingard First Presbyterian Church Paragould, Ark.

Conservation Meetings Are Set This Week

Two soil conservation study meetings sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce have been scheduled for the week.

The first of these will be held in the American Legion Hall at Eastland, Feb. 18, and the second in the ballroom of the Blue Bonnet Hotel at Sweetwater, Feb. 19. Both meetings will be opened at 9 a. m., according to Loran H. Walker, manager of the Agriculture and Livestock Department of the WTCC, and both are open to the public.

Speakers on both programs will include Walker; J. C. Porter, manager of the Agriculture Department of the First National Bank of Wichita Falls; John Cole, executive director of the Association of Texas Soil Conservation District Supervisors; Temple; Ralph Schwartz of the Soil Conservation Service, Abilene; H. B. Boswell, assistant conservationist, SCS, Temple; and V. C. Marshall, executive director, State Soil Conservation Board of Supervisors, Temple.

Both meetings will be adjourned at 3:35 a. m. for conservation practices tours. Dinner will be served at 11:30 a. m. and the discussions resumed at 1 p. m.

The meetings are open to the public and residents of the entire area are invited to attend either or both conferences, Walker said.

Economy Orders Are Received By Govt. Agencies

Federal government agencies in this area were receiving economy directives from the Bureau of the Budget this week.

The directives placed restrictions on employment of additional personnel and other expenditures. In the latter case, the expenditures for any one month can't exceed those for January.

Certain exceptions are made for operation of government hospitals, such as the Veterans Hospital here, where monthly budgets require some flexibility.

The ban on hiring of additional workers also restricts replacements. A replacement, in case a worker resigns, may be acquired only if investigation shows the position can't be eliminated or if shift of another employe into the job is impossible.

Among the local agencies receiving the budget directive were Webb Air Force Base and the VA Hospital.

As far as the hospital is concerned, the economy measure pertaining to personnel is about three months late. Last fall the hospital staff was reduced by about 20 per cent.

The VA Hospital force, including approximately 200 persons, is considered to be "spread about as thin" as possible for efficient operation under current and normal patient load of about 160 beds.

Local Group Due Back From Music Convention Today

Two instructors and eight pupils are due to return today from Houston and the Texas Music Educators Convention.

They participated in or listened to two bands of 110 pieces each, a chorus of 400 voices and a 165 piece symphony orchestra at the Houston city auditorium on Friday evening.

With J. W. King Jr., director of the band, were Bill Bradley, Margaret Martin, Kenneth Briden, Harris Wood, Pat Rutledge and Frankie Marstrand. Harry Lee Plumley had two members of the high school chorus, Frances Walker and Margie Keaton.

Insurance Company Seeking Judgement

Liberty Loyds Insurance Company filed a suit in 118th District Court Friday to set aside an award made by the Texas Industrial Accident Board to Mrs. Betty Ruth Rountree for her two children.

The award was made as a result of the death of Mrs. Rountree's husband, Charles Rountree Jr., who worked at Cosden.

Sum of the award was not listed in the petition, but the company is asking that a decree be issued setting aside the board's ruling. James Little is the company attorney.

Damages Awarded After Agreement

J. S. Johnson was awarded $450 damages in 118th District Court Friday in a damage suit against E. R. Weatherman.

The damage suit was filed as a result of an accident on Jan. 3, 1953, in which Johnson's boy, Jerry Jean Johnson, was injured. Johnson and Weatherman reached an agreement out of court which was approved by Special Judge John Hall. Of the money, $27.50 went for hospital bills, $362.50 for doctor bills and $25 for attorney's fees.

THE GRUB LINE

With Franklin Reynolds

Speaking of balancing the budget, it appears there are a couple of Howard Countians who like could use to great advantage in Washington.

For 1952 agricultural conservation practices this county had a net allocation of $54,200. Gabe Hammack, county PMA administrative officer, and Mrs. Ruby Smith, his assistant, worked the program out to where $54,020.70 was expended on the practices leaving a balance of $179.30.

Eighty-seven farmers and ranchers with a total of 145,375.9 acres participated in the 1952 program, which included 255,498 feet of terracing on 17 farms which covered approximately 1,135 acres for $3,908.95; two farms carried out the approved chisel plowing practice on a total of 57.3 acres for $85.95; the deep-plowing practice was used on 53 farms, covering 4,998.4 acres for $24,298.50, and one well for livestock water was drilled to a depth of 170 feet for payment of $526.

Pipelines for the better distribution of livestock water were constructed on two farms to the extent of 20,461 feet for an earned payment of $2,449.93; three dams and one damless tank constructed on four farms with a total of 20,576 cubic yards of dirt moved, amounted to $2,957.60, and destructive plants were eliminated from 14 farms and ranches including a total of 5,899.8 acres. Pear and other orchards were removed from 2,891.6 acres of this total, and mesquite from 2,998.2 acres, for total earned payments of $20,339.27.

Jay Humphreys of the Colorado City FFA Chapter had the first place steer in the "Scramble Calf" class at the Houston Fat Stock Show with a calf he won in last year's scramble, and then sold the animal at 52 cents a pound for a total of $507. The steer was a Hereford bred on a New Mexico ranch.

As an award Humphreys won an all-expense-paid trip to the Purina Mills Research and Experimental Farms near St. Louis, a calf from the herd of C. H. Bonn and Sons of Fredericksburg, and a $10 showmanship award. He and Bob Post, assistant teacher of vocational agriculture in the Colorado City High School, also appeared on a television program.

Walter McFerrin of Colorado City caught one of the scramble calves this year and will be back with it at the Houston show next year.

The records of the American Hereford Association show the transfer of eight registered bulls from Dr. G. T. Hall of Big Spring to Dayton Chisholm of Pierre, South Dakota.

Frank and Margaret McMullan of Ozona report the sale of 17 registered Hereford cows to Claude Krusch of San Antonio.

Monday through Wednesday, dates set for the annual South Plains Junior Fat Stock Show at Lubbock in which a number of steers, lambs and barrows from this area are scheduled for exhibition.

W. B. Griffin of Tahoka, Lynn County agricultural agent has been named superintendent of the steer division. The steers will be judged by Dean W. L. Stangel of Texas Tech.

Ollie Lmer of Plainview, Hale County agricultural agent, is superintendent of the swine division. He will be assisted by Lee Roy Colgan of Lamesa, Dawson County agricultural agent, and the swine will be judged by Stanley Anderson of Texas Tech.

Thomas Neeley of Lubbock is superintendent of the sheep division, assisted by Olin Rice of Cooper. The lambs will be judged by Ray Mowery of Texas Tech.

The show is sponsored by Panhandle-South Plains Fairgrounds. It is open only to boys ages nine through 20 who are members of the 4-H Clubs or FFA Chapters.

The catalogues have gone to the printers and will be mailed to county agents and vocational agriculture teachers as soon as possible.

A total of 71 head of registered Herefords, 57 bulls and 14 females, will be offered in the annual sale of the Hill Country Hereford Association at Mason, Wednesday, Feb. 18, at 1 p. m.

The sale will be held, after dinner has been served on the grounds at noon, in the Fairgrounds Sales Pavilion and the cattle will be auctioned by Walter Britten. The animals are mainly from herds in McCulloch, San Saba, Menard, Mason, Llano, Kimble and Gillespie Counties.

The cattle will be judged at 9 a. m. by W. J. Largent of Merkel. Catalogues may be obtained by writing Hilma H. Henke, Box 247, Mason, Texas.

Frank Jordan of Mason, who sold the cattle for the Howard County-South Plains Association sale is consigning three bulls and one cow to the Mason sale.

One of the bulls bred by him and calved Oct. 4, 1951, is a son of Major Mischief Jr. Another is a Publican Dominus yearling bull bred by Jordan, while the third bull, also a yearling, was bred by H. B. Rollins of Lampasas and is from a Royal Domino bull and a WIRH Double Royal Sire cow.

The cow Jordan is consigning is a daughter of Major Mischief Jr. and was bred by the Jordan family.

Jess Jenkins, SCS work unit conservationist at Lamesa, says he has received a price list for grass seeds from one of the largest dealers in Texas and that the quotation on Blue Panic is $1.25 per pound in 100-pound bags.

He says this is the lowest quotation he has seen this year, and recalls that as the demand for seed increases the price usually goes up. With this in mind, Jenkins is now advising farmers and ranchers to buy such seed as they expect to need while the price is down. He says this advice is particularly applicable to Blue Panic, King Ranch Bluestem, the Lovegrasses and a few others.

W. C. Hoskins, who is farming the Hart Place, four miles north of Lamesa on the Brownfield Highway, has had some trouble with washed-out ditches. He is going to deal around this problem with pipe.

A great many irrigation farmers the last few years have installed pipe because of ditches either washing out or filling up with sand, particularly in the Lubbock, Muleshoe, Plainview, Littlefield areas.

Among Dawson County farmers recently receiving technical assistance from the SCS unit at Lamesa are H. C. Bartlett, one mile east and one mile south of Key; J. P. McCasland and the McCarty area; Henry Cornett, one mile south of Woody; Bo Adcock, who lives across the road from Cornett, and V. L. Baker, who lives a mile and a half south of Pumpkin Center.

Baker has placed his whole farm under a conservation plan which includes contour lines on 80 acres and some new irrigation engineering.

The SCS technicians have also rendered some irrigation engineering assistance to Rex Dunn, who lives one and a half miles north of Welch, and to Mrs. Lella Hart.

Patrol Checked 85 Accidents In County In 1952

Howard County had seven per cent of the accidents investigated by the Texas Highway Patrol in the Lubbock district last year.

These accounted for slightly less than 10 per cent of the property damage in the mishaps investigated.

They also were responsible for 14 per cent of the people killed in the entire district.

Of the 85 highway mishaps checked by highway patrolmen in this county last year, nine were fatal accidents in which 18 people were killed. There were 23 personal injury accidents with 38 people hurt. The 53 property damage accidents resulted in $70,662 damage loss.

On a district basis, there were 1,250 accidents investigated with 90 of them fatal ones killing 127 victims. There were 359 personal injury mishaps with 720 people hurt. The 781 property damage accidents accounted for damage to property only of $734,899.

The figures for district level showed a total of 6,933 arrests made by the patrolmen during 1952. These included 2,877 for speeding, 455 for driving while intoxicated, 465 for defective light equipment, 538 for no drivers licenses and 2,079 for miscellaneous causes. These figures were not listed on a county basis in reports from the patrol.

At the halfway mark of the fiscal year, the Big Spring Independent School District has collected two thirds of its budgeted receipts.

At the same time, expenditures are only 45 per cent of the amount set up in the budget for the year. Receipts have amounted to $660,385, including $147,989 per capita payment, around $100,000 in foundation aid, and $350,000 in local taxes.

Administration accounted for $18,000 of the $447,000 expenses. Salaries for teachers amounted to $319,000, plant operation $28,000, maintenance $10,000, auxiliary services $11,000, capital outlay $15,830, and $34,000 debt service.

Cash balance was $206,506 at the end of January. Breakdown showed $15,997 to state and county funds, $189,268 in local maintenance funds, $4,140 in transportation money and $63,409 in interest and sinking funds.

Police Department Fines In January Totalled $3,772.50

Fines totalling $3,772.50 were assessed as a result of police activity in January.

Fines paid amounted to $2,500 while prisoners laid out $1,167.50 worth of the assessments, monthly report of the police department shows. Pending collection at the end of the month was only $45.

Drunkness accounted for over half of the fines, the report indicates. Fines for intoxication assessed against 116 persons, totalled $2,056.50.

Traffic violations, not including overtime parking, resulted in fines totalling $1,347. Parking tickets were paid off at the police station to the tune of $394.

Affray fines totalled $39, and disturbance assessments amounted to $26. A $100 fine was levied for discharge of a firearm inside the city, and on vagrancy fine was assessed for $10.

Transferred to other courts were 10 persons charged with driving while intoxicated and one accused of driving while license was suspended. Other transfers involved charges of aggravated assault, robbery, theft and shoplifting.

Police issued 1,021 tickets for traffic violations and made 172 arrests on other complaints. Three police cars made patrols covering 16,994 miles and some 1,600 messages were transmitted and received by the police radio station.

Star And Stooze

Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis are pictured in a scene from "The Stooze," movie scheduled at the Ritz today through Wednesday. The two comics play the parts of vaudeville actors. Lewis has the part of the stooze and Martin plays the star. But Lewis puts so much into his part that audiences can't tell who the stooze is—Martin or Lewis.

Blinded Veteran's Story Is Pictured In 'Bright Victory'

A blinded veteran's fight to find himself in a world of darkness is the theme of the State Theatre's selection for Sunday and Monday. The selection is "Bright Victory." Arthur Kennedy and Peggy Dow have the lead parts. Supporting actors include James Edwards, Julia Adams and Rock Hudson.

Action in the movie opens during the early days of World War II. Kennedy, a southern G. I., is wounded in North Africa. He is transferred immediately to Valley Forge Military Hospital in Pennsylvania. After first dreading blindness, he resigns himself to a life without sight. He meets Miss Dow, and their friendship deepens. He also makes friends with blind veteran James Edwards. He finds that Edwards is a Negro when he makes a remark disparaging the race.

Home on furlough, Kennedy finds it difficult to adjust himself. Eventually his sweetheart, Julie Adams, realizes that she isn't courageous enough to be a blind man's wife. Kennedy, determined to become a lawyer, goes back to the hospital. He meets Miss Dow once again, and both realize that there is a real love between them.

HIGHLIGHTS ON KBST

Farm Editor Has Right Background

A background well suited for the job he performs marks Bruce Frazier, new Farm and Ranch editor of KBST. His program is now being heard regularly over this station from 6:30 to 6:45 a.m., Monday through Friday.

A long time resident of Big Spring, Frazier was graduated from the local high school in 1941. Before his induction into the Army, he attended Texas A&M College and studied animal husbandry. After the war, he completed his studies at A&M, majoring in horticulture and minor in entomology and landscape architecture.

Frazier is now operating a farm and ranch west of Big Spring, a ranch first owned by his grandfather in 1909. He is also head of the Agriculture Department of Howard County Junior College, a unit he brought along from "scratch" until it now has an enrollment of 47.

While still a student at A&M, Frazier got into the radio field with the KORA Garden Club, a program he started for KORA in Bryan. Altogether he has produced farm, ranch, rodeo, agricultural, garden and news programs for three radio stations.

In the summer of 1942 he traveled with a group of Aggies through 38 states and part of Canada studying agricultural connections with such operations as the New York Stock Exchange, TVA, Manhattan Fruit Terminal, California Fruit Growers Association, and the Chicago Stockyards.

Frazier also has done summer work at the University of Tennessee, University of North Carolina, Darlington, George Washington Univ., Kansas State College, North Dakota Agricultural College, Utah Agricultural College and California School of Agriculture. Work in these institutions was done under auspices of Texas A&M.

One of Frazier's chief ambitions is to domesticate wild plants growing in drought areas, and to devel-stars Polly Bergen and Marion Marshall. The picture was produced by Hal Wallis.

Lewis is, as usual, the "stooze," but in this picture the stooze steals the show at every performance. Martin plays the standard "straight" part.

The story opens when singer Dean Martin marries singer Polly Bergen. Miss Bergen retires, so Martin drops his comic partner and picks up Jerry Lewis.

Lewis, who is making a living plugging songs for a publishing house, jumps at the chance to go on the stage. He works for little compensation and without billing.

Miss Bergen thinks Martin is selfish for not giving Lewis billing, and agent Eddie Mayehoff feels the same way.

When Martin and Lewis score in a big Broadway review, Miss Bergen and Mayehoff have a showdown with Martin. But Martin wants to be the big name, so Mayehoff splits with him and Miss Bergen walks out.

Also Marion Marshall, Lewis' girl friend, is peeved because Lewis isn't press the issue. Martin and Lewis argue, and Martin fires Lewis.

When Martin tries to go it alone, he is a flop. Lewis appears in the middle of a performance to help him and keeps the show up. They unite and Lewis starts getting equal credit.

Emphasis in the show is strongly on story and characterization rather than straight slapstick. Several leading songs are heard in the production.

Close Action

Robert Ryan and Julia Adams are pictured in a love scene from the production "Horizons West" set for today and Monday at the Lyric. Rock Hudson is also starred in the movie, which concerns a struggle between two brothers. Ryan is shown as a money-mad land grabber, while Hudson plays a peace loving sheriff. The two are forced to cross one another because of their interests.

Romantic Team

Alan Ladd and Donna Reed are teamed in "Chicago Deadline," Drive-in Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday nights. The movie concerns the workings of a newspaper and the problems faced by reporters.

WITH ROBERT RYAN

Jimmy Stewart In 'The Naked Spur'

A mountain melodrama involving an outlaw and his reward-seeking capturer will show at the Ritz Theatre Thursday through Saturday.

It is "The Naked Spur," starring James Stewart, Robert Ryan and Janet Leigh. Ralph Meeker and Millard Mitchell head the supporting cast in the Technicolor production.

The story concerns Stewart's capture of an outlaw—Ryan—in the Colorado Rockies. Ryan is wanted in Abilene, Kansas, and Stewart plans to return him for the reward. Miss Leigh is seen in the movie as a 19-year-old orphan whom the fleeing Ryan has promised to take to California. Her presence at the capture adds to the difficulties.

Also Stewart must deal with two other men on the seven-day trip to Abilene. They are Meeker and Mitchell.

Mitchell plays an aging prospector who helps Stewart trail Ryan. Meeker plays a dishonorably discharged Union soldier who helps with the capture voluntarily.

Mitchell and Meeker learn from Ryan that Stewart is not a peace officer. When they find that Stewart is interested only in the $5,000 reward, the two men declare themselves "partners" for a three-way split.

Under Ryan's taunts and suggestions return mount on the journey, and conflicts are common among the captors.

Miss Leigh also complicates the situation with her interest in both Ryan and Stewart. The movie has a unique and tragic end.

Randolph Scott Western Shows

A Randolph Scott western dealing with the closing days of the Civil War is scheduled to show at the Jet Theatre tonight and Monday night.

The Technicolor production co-stars Donna Reed, Claude Jarman Jr., Frank Faylen and Lee Merwin.

The tale concerns a band of Confederate soldiers caught in northern territory after the Civil War has been declared over. They do not know peace has been declared.

Scott, leader of the Confederates, orders a shipment of Union gold waylaid. The mission is accomplished and all Union soldiers are wiped out in ambush.

Later they find that the war has ended, and they realized they will be hung if found by "Yankees." They begin their escape with the gold.

Miss Reed, a nurse, is taken hostage by the Confederate band. All are trapped in a mountain stage coach station by a group of renegade vigilantes primarily interested in gold.

Discussion among their own group plus the seige from without the station leads to tension which climaxes in the burning station.

Brother Vs. Brother In 'Horizons West'

Brother against brother is the theme of "Horizons West," which shows today and Monday at the Lyric.

Robert Ryan and Rock Hudson play the two brothers and Julia Adams furnishes the feminine interest.

The story opens when the two brothers return from the Civil War to seek their fortunes in Austin. Ryan decides to build up a cattle empire in Texas.

Hudson, on the other hand, is content to work on his father's ranch.

When Ryan starts making "easy" money by fleecing ranchers out of their homesteads, Hudson becomes town marshal. The younger brother takes an oath to bring in Ryan. The two battle it out for the rest of the picture.

NATURE'S WINNING THE BATTLE

Dog Population Rises; City Urges Compliance With Law

By WAYLAND YATES
 Nearly everybody loses in this game of dogs.
 Lots of dog owners are losing their pets. Many residents are losing sleep, and its costing the city some hard-earned money trying to keep the canines in check.
 And the dog catcher isn't making much headway, although he rounds up more than a hundred animals per month, and traffic disposes of another score or two every few days. The number of pets and strays roaming around doesn't decrease appreciably, despite the deaths of around 125 dogs a month.
 Nobody has any idea what the Big Spring dog population is, although estimates range as high as a million. But everybody is sure of one thing. Whatever the total is, the figure isn't on the decrease.
 "Dogs surely must be prolific. Nature's winning the battle," says City Manager H. W. Whitney as he considers the relatively big outlay of city funds for dog-catching operations.
 "They're getting thicker or we're getting better," observes R. B. (Skeet) Foreyth, street superintendent, as he notes the increase

In the number of dogs that reach the pound under escort.
 "Dogs sleep all day and stay up all night," believes Mayor G. W. Dabney, who hears almost continuous complaints of disturbed sleep and torn up flower beds.
 There seems to be but one answer to the city's dog problem, and even it won't apply to the stray mutts.
 Officials recommend that all dog owners start complying with city ordinance regulating activities of their pets. The ordinance says all dogs must be vaccinated against rabies, and licensed by the city tax collector.
 It also specifies that the license, when granted, isn't a permit for pets to run at large. Dogs, says the law, must be kept on leash or on the premises of their owner.
 That's at all times, except when the pet is in the presence of his master. Then he may be allowed to run loose, provided he is kept within sight and hearing.
 The ordinance also makes a dog's master liable to a fine of $100 for violation of any of its provisions.
 Not many dog owners are complying with the law. In the first nine months of this fiscal year only 55 Big Spring dogs were licensed.

 The $35 paid for licenses for the animals was the only revenue received for the dog catcher's department. Spent on dog control efforts during the same period was a total of $2,297.01.
 The outlay got results, even if the city does have as many canines (maybe more) as nine months ago. No figures are available as to the number of dogs taken into custody in the nine months, but in the past two months the dog catcher has rounded up 331 mutts and pedigrees.
 December was the biggest month with 196 captured by the catcher. He caught 135 in January.
 Foreyth says the number impounded each month has increased sharply since last summer. Of the 135 caught in January, 93 ownerless pets were put permanently to sleep. Remainder were returned to owners who called for them.
 In addition, 30 canines succumbed to traffic in January, and poisoners got one or two. Traffic exacts its toll each month, and last month got 28 cats along with the dogs.
 The dog problem also bothers Webb Air Force Base, particularly around the mess halls and runways. Pilots say stray dogs on the runways sometimes interfere with the take-off and landing operations.
 Right now, Webb wants to work out some arrangement with the city whereby base personnel will arrest the dogs and turn them over to the poundman for disposition.
 If your dog gets picked up, you'll probably find him at Dr. H. F. Schwarzenbach's veterinary hospital, which also serves as city pound.
 If the pet is properly vaccinated and licensed, the poundmaster will let you know he's in confinement and you can pick him up free. If unlicensed, the dog catcher doesn't know who the animal belongs to, so nobody is notified. If the dog isn't claimed in a few days he'll be executed.
 To rescue an unlicensed biscuit retriever, you'll have to get him vaccinated and pay the $1 license fee. The pound man also will advise you to keep the pet tied or penned up in the yard.
 That's Foreyth's advice to start with. Keep 'em at home and there'll be a lot less dogs for the catcher to worry with.
