• You'll run your washing machine and dryer less often if you do full loads."

money when doing your laundry.

Here's how to save energy and

- When you do a partial wash load, use the correct water setting. If you use more water than you need, you're wasting money.
- Most clothes will come clean in warm or cold water. Hot water costs you more, and it'is needed only for white or colorfast cottons and linens.
- Don't overload your dryer. It will just have to work longer and harder, and this tends. to wrinkle your clothes.
- Don't overdry your clothes. This also wastes energy, and wrinkles and shrinks many fabrics.
- Clean the lint filter each time you use your dryer: Free air circulation allows the dryer
- to operate as efficiently and quickly as it can.
