Adenauer Warns Stalin's Death Boosts Danger

By RICHARD KASISCHKE BONN — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer declared today that West Germany must hurry and rearm because the death of Stalin has increased the danger of war. "We Germans and the rest of the world are in great danger, and Stalin's death has increased, rather than diminished, this danger." he said in appealing to the lower house of Parliament for approval of twin treaties which would make Germany an armed ally of the

As he spoke, hundreds of police keep off crowds of Communist-led demonstrators seeking to march on Parliament and block the vote. One band of nearly 1,000 screaming, chanting demonstrators was beaten off by police using fire boses. There also was an outburst of fist fighting and several demonstrators were arrested.

Nearly 10 square blocks around Parliament Building were cordonoff. Inside Parliament, plainclothesmen were stationed to pre-vent infiltration of Red demonstra-

Sparking the first against these opponents was 77-year-old Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, who wants the lower house's approval of the twin pacts before he goes to the U. S. for a state visit April 6.

In the first parliamentary skirmish of the day, Adenauer won. The house voted down a Socialist motion to throw the treaties off the day's agenda. The treaties are the Allied-Bonn Peace Contract, giving West Germany near-sovereignty, and the six-nation European Defense Community pact, setting up a unified West European army. Germany would contribute 500,000 men to the one-uniform force.

If Harriman Is Right, Attacks On Our Planes Are Deliberate

runboat Panay on the Yangtse River, were called to taw by Washington, issued an apology, paid an indemnity and gave guarantees that it wouldn't happen

In 1946 Yugoslavia, then a full partner of Soviet Russia, shot down two American transport planes with some loss of life. The U. S. sent Marshal Tito a 48-hour ultimatum, threatening to call on the U. N. Security Council for appropriate action unless satisfaction was given. Tito promptly released the survivors, paid an idemnity to the familles of the dead.

those incidents, things have changed considerably, since Russia really settled down to the business of shootfriendly planes out of the skies. In 1951 Soviet warplanes forced down an American transport which had wandered over Hungarian territory in muggy weather. The U. S. made demand that its fliers and their planes be released at once. Russia refused. A Hungarian court fined the U. S. fliers $123,000, which the U. S. paid rather than let the fliers rot in a Communist jail. The Reds kept the plane, and Russia contended that the mere fact we paid a fine for the fliers proved that

Since then things have gone from bad worse. In 1950 a U. S. Navy Privateer admitted officially that her planes had shot it down, but last year posters appeared all over Moscow deflicting Russian jets shooting down a plane of the Privateer type. Two Swedish planes were shot down over the same area later, and Moscow claimed they had been flying over Russian territory.

Last October 7, Russian fighers shot down a U. S. B-29 north of Japan. Wash-ington called this attack "wanton and unjustifiable," demanded compensation, later renewed the demand when Russia refused to pay, Period,

Last week a U. S. and a British plane were shot down over neutral territory in Germany. The new boss in Russia brushed off U. S. and British protests before they were even received.

In a radio talk Monday night Averell Harriman, once ambassador to Russia, said Stalin himself once told him Russia's pilots did not shoot without orders. "Stalin said they'd be shot if they did." Harriman said.

So, attacks on allied planes are deliberate and intentional.

Malenkov's Gift Horse Can't Be Ignored But It Can Be Watched

pletely so obvious a bid for discussion as that put forth by the new Russian dic-tator, Malenkov, for the simple reason that to ignore it entirely or brush it off contemptiously (which is probably what it deserves) would be to give Malenkov and his propagands just what they want —another chance to picture the U. S. as a warmonger, unwilling even to discuss

The Eisenhower administration is ready studying Malenkov's reference to further talks in his speech to the Supreme Soviet which "confirmed" him as sucto Stalin. It did not differ from similar trial balloons loosed by Stalin himself, except that it singled out the United States by name.

It is impossible to credit good intentions to a tyranny that has consistently used weasel words to mask evil intentions, or slapped the other side whenever a trusting world turned a cheek to it.

It is impossible to believe a totalitari-an regime is now ready to approach, in sincerity, a free world wanting peace, in a manner that would convince the free world the offer is based on a genuine spirit of mutual trust and accommodation. Deeds speak louder than words, and Malenkov's contemptuous brushoff of the U. S. and British protests of the shooting down of their planes last week doesn't indicate anything resembling a change of heart in the Kremlin.

It is probable his mellow words of peace were intended purely for home and satellite consumption. We have every reason to believe the Russian pople are deathly afraid of another war, as all peoples are; what Malenkov is saying is that he is a peace-minded person, willing to meet the West halfway in reaching a settlement of controversies. He does not need to say, as far as the West is concerned, that the only terms he has to offer are the same Russia has always offered-100 per cent Kremlin terms. But until he proves by his deeds that he is willing to give ground as well as demand it, the new Communst czar in the Kremlin is simply talking for effect, not with any intention of backing up his words by his acts.

West does well to look this latest

British Study American Ways Of Reaching Small Investors

been squeezed out of the investment market. He has little left over after high taxes and living expense to buy common shares. Thus private enterprise, which needs money to grow on, is starved. "No aring," save the Econo sententiously

To correct this want, the Economist advises British investment brokers to look to America: Sell shares to persons in the middle - and lower-income brackets. Advertise. Use newspapers, radio, cinema, television. Don't be prissy and aloof. Take a chance on being called "ungentlemanly." Provide more statistics on investment. Answer such questions as, "Why do share prices move up and down? What do profit and loss accounts and balance sheets mean? What rights does a shareholder possess?" The Economist may be over-hopeful. For years, the New York Stock Exchange and investment bankers and brokers in the United States have actively cultivated the small investor. Yet the Stock Exchange's own survey shows that some 6,500,000 individuals own common stocks, hardly a great proportion of either the population (41/2 per cent) or the nation's families and single individuals (94 per cent).

To reach the small English investor. the Economist calls attention to the plan of J. R. Kinross to "sell industrial shares in penny units across the counters of banks" throughout England. A non-profit trust (corporation) would buy, for example, 100 shares of Woolworth at 50 shillings per share (a total investment of 60,000 pence.

The London Economist is worried. Brit- It would then split these shares into 6,000 ish capitalism doesn't have the starch it units to be sold at 10% perice, "the odd used to. That's because the rich man has farthing (21/2 per cent) representing a small fixed charge for service."

The idea is imaginative. Banks would distribute shares just as the Postoffice distributes stamps or a chain of grocery stores sells coffee and tea. A minimum purchase of 100 units would run to less than 5 British pounds or $14. But the high cost of distribution is an obvious prob-It isn't easy to make ends meet selling stock at $14 a throw. The 21/2 per cent charge would amount to only 35 cents per 100 units

Further, the Kinross plan expects too much. Despite all the efforts to "educate" the small investor, he doesn't have the time or inclination to analyze the value of a security. He's not likely to spend his nights studying securities manuals in order to invest $14. It's easier to put the money

In the United States, the mutual fund answers this drawback. The theory is that the average person needs professional management of his investments. He wants safety and, therefore, diversification, He can't afford to put all his funds in one or two industrial companies. So the mutual fund sells a package - shares of three of four dozen or more different companies. For this service, the investor pays a management fee. Total operating expenses amount to 1/2 per cent to 1 per cent a year.

In addition, there's usually a selling charge, called the "load." This is paid when the shares are first bought and usually amounts to 8 per cent. It would correspond to the 21's per cent fee in the Kinross plan. The Kinross plan contem-plates that the purchaser will take the initiative. The investor won't have to be sold, as in the U.S. So, compensation of the sales force would not have to go up to 8 per cent and higher.

For this, Kinross reles on a pseudopartnership with British banks. But it's doubtful if banks would readily enter into such a scheme. If an investment turned out badly, they'd be balanced. If banks accepted the plan at all, they would insist on a diversified, managed trust, which would add to cost.

Yet, there is an idea here. Americans put their money in savings banks without the salesman's art. They have become accustomed to savings and loan shares. Some mutual funds operate without a load charge. But not having a sales pusha commission incentive behind them -- they haven't grown fast. Maybe some day some enterprising merchandiser of securities will be able to develop a plan whereby small investors will have sufficient confidence in shares to go to the seller instead of having the seller go to them. If so, he'd be able to obtain growth

Around The Rim - The Herald Staff

Tax Assessors Urge Support For Amendment To Hike City Coffers

The city tax people have some good arguments in favor of a constitutional amendment abolishing ad valorem taxes

Municipal tax officials, in Big Spring and most everywhere else, would like to see the motor vehicle tax done away with because they get very little of it. So the Texas Association of Assessing Officers lends its support to the proposal for amending the constitution to repeal the ad valorem tax on cars, substituting an increase of a third in the highway license fee (auto tags).

City and county treasuries would share in the added portion of the license tax, so they'd have some money coming in from a source which most cities now tap very lightly, if at all.

C. E. (Perry) Johnson Jr., Big Spring's would mean at least $20,000 per year to the City of Big Spring.

Johnson, and the tax officers' associa-tion, reasons that if a city receives $4 or $5 per year from each resident car owner, the municipality would be that much ahead because the present ad valorem tax is not being paid. The local tax officer says only three or four per cent of Big Spring auto owners pay the city tax on their vehicles. They're the ones who voluntarily render their cars for taxation.

The other 96 per cent aren't assessed. Johnson says attempts have been made to assess automobiles, but collections never run over 40 per cent of the assessments Officials feel the tax isn't fair unless it can be applied on a 100 per cent basis, so no effort is made to assess cars. Besides, it costs more than they get out of it.

Tax officers feel that if the increased license fee were levied in lieu of the ad valoreum tax it could be easily collected and would apply equally to all car owners. The increase, or a fourth of the total licensing fee, would go to the city if the auto owner lived in town, or to the county if he were a rural resident. The county would continue to get the portion of the fee it already receives. Say the average license fee now is $12 It would be increased $4 by the constitugo to the city of Big Spring when pala by Big Spring citizens. On the basis of 5,-000 auto owners here, the city would have $20,000 in revenue where it now receives, at the most, a few hundred dollars. The Texas Association of Assessing Officers lists six advantages it sees in the proposed constitutional amendment, which the Legislature now is considering. The new tax would equalize the burden on all motor vehicle owners by setting up a state-wide evaluation standard. It would insure a "just and equitable" payment of car taxes by all owners.

The money received by the cities and counties would be used to benefit the motor vehicle owner through road and street construction and maintenance, relieving the home and other real-estate owner of this burden.

It would eliminate erroneous assessments the association says are made under present law since assessment date is Jan. 1 and the licensing or registration date is April 1. The amendment would eliminate the great amount of effort and expense of collecting the present tax.

Finally, say the tax collectors, the new measure might retard the illegal practice of some automobile owners who register their vehicles in counties other than the one in which they reside.

Bad as we hate to see them coming, the tax collectors may be right. After watching efforts to balance the city's budget this week, we'll agree Big Spring needs

Congress Would Do Well To Try And Raise Personal Exemptions

WASHINGTON -- Now that the awful hump of March 15 is once more behind us, Congress might well take the time to study some of the glaring inequities in the income-tax law. It is easy to talk about an across-the-board cut of 10 or 15. per cent. It is much harder to get down to correcting the injustices that press down on so many different groups.

An across-the-board cut means a little relief to the small taxpayer. To the large taxpayer it means a substantial sum. When tax cut is in order, the House Ways and Means Committee would do well to relieve some of the worst hardships.

There is, first of all, the fact that the personal exemption of $600 is ridiculously low in relation to present price levels. For middle-bracket families trying to educate children it doesn't come close to covering the costs.

In 1948 the exemption was raised from $500 to $600. The national income was at that time around $200 billions. The latest estimates put it at around $278 billions. Consideration should be given to the possibility that the fair way to effect a tax reduction is through another increase in the personal exemption. Large families would be especally benefited.

The experts of the House committee figure that an increase in the exemption cost abo revenue to the federal government. That is roughly equivalent to what a 10 per cent across-the-board cut would mean. Increase of the exemption to $1,000, which would be fairly realistic in terms of today's prices, would mean a drop in taxes of $8.7 billions.

Obviously, the state of the budget in the foreseeable future will not permit any cut on that scale. But, if Congress is really interested in helping the taxpayer, that is the way to do it and not through a percentage cut.

Another inequity that needs correcting is the refusal to permit women who go out of the home to work to deduct the cost, or part of the cost, of service in the home. Many widowed mothers are compelled to work to provide adequately for their children. They hire a servant to do much of the work they do not have time to do and yet they can deduct no part of the servant's salary as a business expense.

This puts a real hardship on many famllies. Correcting it, with proper safeguards against abuse of the privilege, would cost the Treasury comparatively little.

One of the great injustices has been, in part, corrected. That was the application of the capital-gains tax to the sale of a house owned as a family home and representing in the majority of instances most of the savings of a lifetime. Capital gains is, of course, a tax that customarily applies to the transactions of professional brokers, real-estate operators and men of wealth. The charge has frequently been made that for those in the upper brackets it is possible-with the aid of resourceful lawvers-to shift income to the much lower capital-gains tax. The bardship on middle-income families was most glaring in recent years of inflated values when a family was transferred in business or some public service from one city to another. The family house was sold and a capital-gains tax paid on the increase over the purchase price. Then it was necessary to buy another home, paying the toll of inflation. Thanks to an amendment put through by Senator Wayne Morse (Ind., Ore.), the increase in price is not subject to taxation if the amount received is invested within

That is a step in the right direction. But a family-owned home should not be subject to capital-gains tax under any circumstances. On retirement and the necessary adoption of a simpler way of living, it should be possible to sell the family house without tax penalty of any kind. Some steps have been taken to ease the way for persons over 65. The exemption is now $1,200. Old-age pensions from social security are tax free. All medical expenses are deductible in full. This is to suggest only a few of the points at which the present income-tax law presses too hard. An earnest study by a committee determined to correct worst abuses would find many more. High taxes are always a harsh yoke. But that yoke should not be permitted to press

year in another family-

with undue harshness on any one group

Spring Tides Twice In A Month

When the sun and the moon work together, ocean tides are higher than usual. This happens at the time of a new moon when the moon and the sun are on the same side of the earth.

When there is a fully moon, we have another time of extra-high tides. Those tides go under the name of "spring but the name is hardly a good one. Such tides take place during summer, autumn and winter, as well as in the spring. The only excuse for the name is that we may say the waters "spring up" during high tide. Since the full moon is on the opposite side of the earth from the sun, we might expect the two to work against each other. Actually they work as separate units. The moon pulls the Atlantic toward it more strongly at the same time it "lets go" some of its pull on the western side of the Pacific Ocean, at the same time, the sun pulls the western Pacific a little more strongly, and "lets go" a little of the Atlantic.

The time when the sun and moon actually work against each other comes when we see a moon which is a week old or three weeks old. At such times the sun and moon pull at right angles to each other, and the result is a general lowering of the tides. The small tides which take place then are known as "neap" tides. If all things happened in the same way and at the same times each year, we could use the same tide tables, for a given point, year after year. There are changes, however, in distances of the sun and moon, and these changes alter the tides.

The average distance from the earth to the sun is 93 million miles, but the distance gets to be as much as one and a half million miles more than that, and at an other time is one and a half million miles

In much the same way, the distance of the moon from the earth goes through changes. To have the greatest pull on the ocean, we must have a time when both sun and moon work together, while at least distance from the earth. For SCIENCE section of your scrap

Thousands of Czechs filed past his bier after it was put on public view Monday in the Gothic Spanish hall of the presidential castle. A period of national mourning was declared. On a lesser scale, observances for Gottwald were similar to those in Moscow for his close comrade in communism, Joseph Stalin. Gottwald attended the Soviet chief's funeral in Moscow's Red Square March 9, and there, in near-zero temperature, caught the cold that led to his fatal illness. The official radio and press in Prague has been silent on who will replace Gottwald at the helm of the government-or whether any man will. Although the Con stitution provides for Parliament to elect a new president within 14 days after death of the chief exe cutive, there is talk that the post will be abolished.

In that case, Gottwald's dictatorial power might be divided mong his former deputies. The head of the Kremlin's delegation to Gottwald's funeral, new Soviet War Minister Nikolai A. Bulganin, arrived in Prague Tuesday, arousing speculation that he was carrying on military talks on the side with satellite representa-

You can hoss a Buick tor less than you think

MAYBE you didn't know just how easy it is to own a new Buick. So in the showroom we display our pricesand proudly.

Proudly-because the price of any new Buick buys a lot more automobile, a lot more comfort, a lot more room and power and thrill than the same money buys elsewhere. Nothing will prove this more emphatically, of course, than your own comparisons. So we invite you to start comparing.

Compare power and performance.

In these Golden Anniversary beauties, you'll find more lift and soaring thrill-from the highest horsepowers and compression ratios,

Series for Series, in all Buick history-and from the infinite smoothness and dazzling getaway of the new Twin-Turbine Dynaslow

Compare room, comfort, handling ease.

Every 1953 Buick has room to spare, Every one has the Million Dollar Ride with still softer all-coil-spring cushioning. Every one has easier steering and better balance.

Compare any other feature-style, smartness, luxurious finish-plus what you get for what you pay-and we honestly believe you'll soon be bossing a Buick, for keeps.

Come in and try one of these great cars-out on the road, where the story is told best-and let the thrills and values speak for themselves. *Standard on Roadmaster, optional at extra cost on other Series.

This may not be classified as sports but a Dixie sports writer, Fred

Russell, reported it, and it might tickle your funny bone. It's a Nash-rille sixth-grader's description of the human body: "Your head is kind of round and hard. Your brains are in it and your hair is on it. Your neck is what keeps your head out of your collar. It's hard to keep clean. Your shoulders are sort of shells where you hook your suspenders on. Your spine is a long bone in your back that keeps you from folding up. Your feet are what you run on, and your toes are always what gets stubbed. That's all there is of you, except what's inside, and I never saw that."

Arah Phillips, the local girls' volley ball coach, says Big Spring's Rosemary Rice and Ann Barr of Lamesa are the two best players she's seen among West Texas teams this season.

Bretonnel, charged a "runaround."
This afternoon, Langlois and his manager depart for New York where Bretonnel said he would lay his fighter's case before Bob Christenberry, chairman of the New York Boxing Commission.

"After Pierre beat Rocky Cas-tellant at New York in February, we thought he would meet Bobo Olson in the semi-final of the elimination for the middleweight cham-pionship," Bretonnel said. "John Barton, president of the National Boxing Association, later told us he would. But now we find Langlois has been dropped from con-tention altogether."

An elimination is going on to ob-tain a successor to Sugar Ray Robinson, who retired as middleweight champion.

Rectonnel said he would ask that

Langlois fight the winner of the Ernie Durando-Paddy Young bout, of a Randy Turpin-Charles Humez ahead of Lake View, which had to get a fight in Paris with Humez followed by Stories alread of the Stories of said he also had tried to get a fight with Turpin but to no avail.

A crowd of over 5,000, but with 3,380 paid, turned over $12,-213.60 to promoter Lew Gray.
There have been larger crowds for boxing here but this is the biggest money gate. Each fighter got 25 per cent plus about $3,600 from television, thus Langlois and from television, thus Langiois and Dykes received over $6,000 for the evening's work.

Langiois fought a boring in fight all the way. He explained that he did this in order to stay inside Dykes' long reach that "would have beaten me to pieces if I had fought him at long range."

Langiois weighed 161½ pounds, Dykes 154½.

Dykes made a good finish but was too far behind to make it up. Judge J. O. Cherry awarded Langiois 95 and Dykes 93. Referee Homer Hendrix awarded Langiois 92 points and Dykes 98. Hendrix took the last round away from Langiois because the Frenchman slung Dykes to the canvas. Langiois said afterward that he was sorry he did it, that he had become angered over Dykes' "holding" tactics and lost his head. The crowd had booed Langiois for his action.

Bednar and Rich tied for first in the pole vault.

Justice Attorneys Due For Shake-Up

WASHINGTON (M - Dismissal notices in substantial numbers are fluttering down this week on the desks of Justice Department attorneys who are holdovers from the Truman administration.

Just how many has not been es-tablished. Department officials decline to discuss the matter in any way. All available information comes from those receiving plak slips, or their friends,

One report, not confirmed, is that possibly 20 firings have been ordered in the Criminal Division, with perhaps a like number in Claims and Antitrust.

so prosate: a dish as liver and onlons, the cook knows there are other ways to enhance its pre-

Liver with golden crisp bacon is probably the most familiar, but that is only the beginning. The versatile cook, for example, will consider Spanish liver with onions, barbecued liver, liver patties wreathed in bacon, or a liver loaf with generous seasonings of onior and garlic.

A touch of distinctive liver flavor in dumplings to top a stew is another hint for the homemaker who caters to a family of discerning taste. Liver served with barbe-cue sauce and rings of brilliant green pepper adds still another note of intrigue that hints slightly of the gourmet's touch even in everyday cooking.

When planning any of these delicacles, the cook has a variety of baking dish while making sauce. kinds from which to choose. Damb and calf liver are the tender, mildflavored ones that are served with Add to garlic-onion saute in skilbacon, as Spanish liver or liver let, and cook sauce slowly until slices are dipped in melted butter 350-degree oven until tender. Sprinor margarine, then broiled two or kle with cheese and place under three inches from the heat. -

Panbroiling
Panbroiling is a modification of this method, which is accom-plished with a heavy frying pan. A small amount of lard or drippings-about one tablespoon will keep the liver from sticking-is placed in the frying pan. Low heat hard, and the fat is poured from the pan as it accumulates.

Another method for preparing tender kinds of liver is panfrying. While some prefer the crustier brown outer coating that results from panfrying, the method is similar to panbroiling, except that fat is added, rather than poured

To make Spanish liver, the cook panfrys lightly, then adds a small amount of tomato juice and rings of large sweet onion. The liver is cooked until the tomato juice is juice is slightly thick and onlon rings are tender. Braised Liver
