New Church Is Building

Dirt was broken Monday for a new church—Pioneer Methodist—in southwestern Glasscock County. Construction is underway on Fellowship Hall, the initial wing shown on the left. Ultimately, it is planned to add a connecting classroom section and a sanctuary at right.

Construction Is Underway On New Church In Glasscock Co.

GARDEN CITY—Construction is now underway on the new Pioneer Memorial Methodist Church in the Strawberry Trend area. Dirt was broken Monday morning in special rites by Mrs. W. A. Hutchison, who turned the first spadeful for the edifice which is conceived as a memorial to the area's early settlers. At the present time only the Fellowship wing of the building will be erected. Of the $7,500 estimated cost of this unit, a total of $4,675 already has been given. Plans were developed by M. A. King, denominational architect at Louisville, Ky., and contract for building is held by H. H. Hamlin, Midland. Ultimately, there will be a group of classrooms to connect the Fellowship Hall with a main sanctuary which will seat 100 in its nave. Location is near the Phillips pump station and gasoline plant, it is in an area 10 miles wide by 24 miles long in which there are 21 camps, pump stations, booster station gasoline plants, etc. The camps alone contain 155 houses. The church is the third to be erected in the Big Spring District since the annual conference in June of 1952. The others are St. Luke Methodist in Midland and Terminal Methodist between Midland and Odessa.

"We are planning to have dedication services at the church on Easter Sunday evening," said the Rev. J. P. Boswell, who will divide his time between this church and the one here. He is hopeful that Bishop W. C. Martin can be secured to speak.

Korea Vets To Be Honored At C-City

GOLORADO CITY — Legionnaires here plan to honor Korean veterans on March 19 in a special meeting at the Legion Hut, according to Commander Lewis Elliott. The week of March 15-22 will be proclaimed "Korean Veteran Appreciation Week" by Mayor Leonard Henderson.

"We plan to send a special invitation to those returned Korean veterans whom we can locate," said Elliott. Elliott said that it might be difficult to find many veterans since no list of returnees is available. Heading the committee charged with plans for the special meeting is Nick Farrar, County Service Officer. Other members are: Tom Floyd, Billy Bryan of Midland; and Mr. and Mrs. Buz Mason, Denver City.

Rayburn Begins His 41st Year

By WILLIAM ARBOGAST
WASHINGTON—Rep. Sam Rayburn of Texas, starting his 41st year in Congress today, advised his colleagues to be "reasonable" if they want to stay in office a long time.

The 71-year-old dean of the House is "Mr. Democrat" to fellow-members and no one disputes the esteem in which he is held by members of both political parties. He came to the House 40 years ago yesterday from the Texas district he still represents, and has sought no other office.

"I've never had any ambition to go to the Senate," Rayburn said in an interview. "I love the House of Representatives. I have great faith in it. As long as the House of Representatives stands up to its responsibilities, the country will be safe." Rayburn attributes his longevity in political life and his rise to an exalted position—he has been speaker longer than anyone else in congressional history—to his learning how to get along with people. "My advice to any new member who wants to stay here a long time," he said, "is to keep in mind that he has two constituencies: the people who sent him here and the colleagues with whom he must serve."

He will find it difficult to win support for legislation. As speaker of the House for 10 years—he is minority leader now—that Republicans are in power—Rayburn won a reputation for being fair in his rulings and forgetting politics when he handled the gavel.

Rayburn spends all of the congressional off-season on his farm near Bonham. "I make myself available to my people and am always willing to see them and talk over their problems," he said.

Sen. Johnson (D-Tex.) cited Rayburn's service in a Senate speech yesterday.

In the House, Rayburn received an ovation. At a Texas delegation luncheon, Rep. Patman (D-Tex.) said the former speaker had the youth and vigor of a 45-year-old man.

Feeble-Minded Chained Due To No Home In La.

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Authorities say feeble-minded children are chained at home and potential sex criminals roam Shreveport streets because of the inability to get them confined to a state institution. Juvenile Judge Chris Barnette yesterday told the Shreveport Times of a 4-year-old boy who is "kept harnessed to a bed part of the time." He is not fed continuously, the judge said, but "has to be guarded every waking moment to keep him from hurting himself or his 8-month-old sister."

Dr. Willis Butler, Caddo Parish coroner, said he has records of three mentally deficient adolescents who are all potential sex criminals in need of hospitalization. They remain at large without restraint, he said, and "roam freely at home or on the streets." Officials at the Louisiana Colony and Training School for Mentally Deficient in Pineville in Central Louisiana said the institution had more than 150 patients beyond capacity and a waiting list of about 600.

W. E. Kees Jr., superintendent of the colony, said, "There just isn't room for any more. Do they want us to be magicians?" Judge Barnette asked the state attorney general yesterday for a ruling on whether the colony can legally refuse to admit patients committed by an authorized judge or coroner.

Concerning the chained children Dr. Butler said: "I know of no law authorizing it or any law against it, but I do know that in the matter of absolute necessity it has to be done for the safety of the individual patient and for that of any potential victims of that patient."

No Changes Expected In Kremlin Policies

WASHINGTON (AP)—Top State Department officials discounted today the chances of any early radical change in Soviet foreign policies under new Kremlin leadership. Some experts thought that Premier Stalin's removal from power, as discussed in the official announcement of his illness, might paralyze Soviet operations, for a time and to a degree, because of a probable struggle for the mantle of succession. Many persons in high position have considered it likely that Stalin was already dead.

The official attitude was to assume Soviet policies would go along substantially unchanged and that the U. S. must expect to fight the hot war in the Far East and the cold war elsewhere for an indefinite period. However, authorities recognize that in the long run a change of dictators could profoundly affect Russia's world aims and her methods of seeking to realize them. They also point out that Stalin has been not only the leader of Soviet communism for 20 years but has grown into a symbol of Communist unity and power. There was speculation here that with his disappearance from the role of active leader any other person would for a long time find it impossible to exercise the same attractions for Stalin's followers. To the extent that this is true, it would be as true both inside and outside Russia. If in the long run the Soviet structure is to be weakened by Stalin's death, posing a serious challenge to his successor, it could be weakened internally as well as in relations with other Communist states like China and those in Eastern Europe.

The long-range effects of a change in the Red high command and the possible impact on American foreign policy have been under study in high quarters here since word of the announcement of the Russian Premier's illness early yesterday. Much, official experts agree, depends upon the successor's personality and the method of selecting him.

In the extremes of speculation it appeared possible that the chances of World War III might be greatly increased if Stalin's successor proved to be a more reckless man. On the other hand, officials foresaw a possibility that a new leader might prove to be less concerned with expanding frontiers and more concerned with building up Russia internally. If that were true, it would be at least theoretically possible to make agreements to give the world a greater sense of security by ending some of the more critical cold war issues.

While recognizing these extremes in their speculation, responsible officials with whom this reporter discussed the prospects felt the great probability was that basic Russian policies—probing for weak spots in the free world and expanding as opportunity offered, and driving always toward wider Red rule—would continue to be the guiding policies of a new leadership, and probably for a long time. They felt it very unlikely there would be in Soviet behavior of the early future any sound reason for the U. S. and its Allies to relax their vigilance or ease their defenses.

Lost Texas Pilot Guided To Landing By Big Transport

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—A lost pilot, his light plane running low on fuel, limped to safety behind a guiding four-motor commercial transport last night at Alton Memorial Airport.

The lost pilot was Dr. J. Cavin Kelley of Lubbock, Tex. He was en route to St. Louis from Tulsa, Okla., but somehow missed the field and became lost with only a 40-minute supply of fuel left.

Hearing Dr. Kelley's radio appeal, the St. Louis control tower located his plane, somewhere over Central Illinois, with the aid of a radar screen. An incoming Chicago & Southern Constellation then was instructed to guide the lost pilot to the Alton air strip.

The planes met and 20 minutes later Dr. Kelley made a safe landing. Just a minute after the landing, the plane ran out of gas as it taxied to a fuel pump.

Worst Drought In History Still Strangling Southwest

FORT WORTH (AP)—A government expert said today the Southwest's worst drought in history still strangles half of Texas and most of Oklahoma.

The blighted areas are West Texas, part of North and South Texas and all of Oklahoma except some southeastern and north-central sections.

Louis P. Merrill, regional director of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, said that was the situation as of March 1. He said light rains in North Texas and Western Oklahoma since then have given only meager relief.

This is the general picture drawn by Merrill from reports of field men: wheat thin and turning yellow, cattle bony and weak, land too dry in many counties for corn and cotton planting.

Merrill said Louisiana and Arkansas damage from the rainless summer is still in evidence but the drought definitely was broken by winter rains.

In addition, he reported, about 140 counties of East and Central Texas and some areas of Southeastern and North Central Oklahoma are no longer on the critical list.

This was the same broad situation Merrill had reported at the first of the year—only worse.

He had given the drought its "worst in history" tag last September on the basis of area involved, duration, effect on land cover, persistent high temperatures and scantiness of effective rainfall.

Merrill said the study by his office showed dry weather duration at eight Texas reference points as: Big Spring, 30 months; Del Rio, 38; Fallurrias, 40; Fort Stockton, 28; Lubbock, 34; Haskell and San Angelo, 29; and Amarillo, 20 months.

The average duration of the drought at these points is 31 months. The 1933-36 drought in Texas lasted 24.4 months and the one in 1916-18 ran 24 months. The sketchy information gathered by historians on the 1885-87 drought indicates that dry period, though intense and costly, lasted only 23 months.

The wheat cover in Hansford,

Ochiltree and Lipscomb Counties in the topmost tier of the Texas Panhandle is small and thin and beginning to turn yellow for want of moisture. Only a timely rain can save the crop in those counties, field reports to Merrill said.

Other Texas counties reporting widespread crop in poor condition included Dimity, Tom Green, Sterling, Glasscock, Hutchinson, Calahan, Bunnels, Concho, Menard, Moore, Deaf Smith, Oldham, Carson, Yoakum, Terry, Lynn, Borden, Schleicher and Kendall.

Livestock herds in the dry areas of Oklahoma and Texas have been further reduced as the drought cut deeper into ranges and pastures.

In Irion and Reagan Counties, 90 per cent of the cattle and 80 per cent of the sheep herds had been sold or shipped out. Stockmen in Howard, Martin, Borden, and Scurry Counties had sold or shipped out 80 per cent of their cattle.

One of the present threats is the lack of enough moisture to plant spring crops. Field men of SCS reported more than 50 counties in Texas and more than 25 in Oklahoma do not have enough moisture for spring planting. Texas counties are Donley, Tom Green, Wilbarger, Taylor, Sterling, Glasscock, Uvalde, Swisher, Moore, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Oldham, Motley, Carson, Terry, Concho, Cochran, Irion, Reagan, Lamb, Howard, Dawson, Midland, Crane, Ector, Jones, Martin, Lynn, Borden, Scurry, Schleicher, Clay, Shackelford, Collingsworth, Hall, Young, Starr, Mitchell, Garza, Gaines, Ward, Hockley, Wheeler, Hale, Val Verde, Foard, La Salle, Baylor, Throckmorton, Sutton and Edwards.

Undamaged MIG Is Now In West Hands

ROENNE, Denmark (AP)—The first Soviet jet fighter plane to come into Western hands undamaged was brought to a breath-taking landing by a daring young Polish refugee today on the Danish Baltic island of Bornholm.

A Polish legion spokesman in Copenhagen declared angrily his government would "of course" demand return of the jet—believed to be a MIG15—as soon as possible. High Danish Air Force officers flew here immediately to examine it.

The plane, with Polish Air Force markings, circled low over Roenne, administrative center for Bornholm, before the pilot decided to risk a landing at the nearby airport.

While airport personnel looked on in horror, the jet screeched down the 1,300-yard long runway—about a third the length normally required for planes of that type. The landing was without accident.

A strong military cordon was flung around the plane. The pilot, a curly-haired blond youth of 23, climbed out—still shaking after his experience.

He asked immediately for asylum in Denmark, saying he could not stand conditions in his Moscow-controlled homeland. Police would not disclose his name.

Danish sources said the refugee would be given political asylum, but disposition of the plane remained uncertain.

A U. S. Embassy official described the plane as a sensational catch that might yield invaluable secrets to Western experts.

According to the authoritative British aircraft annual publication, Jane's All the World's Aircraft, a "fairly complete" MIG15 was salvaged from enemy waters off the North Korean coast by the British in 1951 and was examined by the U. S. Air Force, but efforts to make the plane airworthy for flight evaluation trials were abandoned, Jane's said.

Reds Blasted By Intensive UN Air Action

SEOUL (AP)—Allied warplanes unleashed an orgy of fiery destruction over North Korea today. It included a record 3,000-mile round trip fighter-bomber smash within 50 miles of Russia's Siberian border.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said 15 F84 Thunderjets, flying from bases in South Korea, plastered industrial targets near Chongjin, 140 miles from Vladivostok, in the longest fighter-bomber strike of the war.

Other fighter-bombers pounded Communist positions along the quiet, 155-mile battlefield.

Thunderjets followed up the Chongjin strike with an attack on a munitions plant near Sunchon, north of Pyongyang, North Korean capital.

Sabre jets tangled five times with Communist MIG15s, but pilots made no claims of damaging any Red craft.

Navy planes from the carrier Valley Forge blasted the Changjin No. 1 hydroelectric plant complex, 40 miles northwest of Hamhung on the Korean east coast. Carrier planes blasted the area periodically.

Farther north, planes from the carrier Oriskany dropped 25 tons of bombs on zinc and lead mines northwest of Songjin, also on the east coast, only 45 miles from the Manchurian border.

At the same time, the battleship Missouri renewed the bombardment of the long-besieged port of Wonsan on the east coast.

The intensive air action overshadowed the light ground activity.

Nobody On Tower At Garden Station Of Pipeline Firm

GARDEN CITY — Monday evening there was not a man on tower at the Garden Shell Pipe Line Station for the first time since it opened up here in 1928. Operations were shut down last month but the men made their towers as usual until Monday afternoon when they were notified as to place of transfer.

Reporting for work Wednesday morning were E. F. (Blackie) Pryor and W. K. (Doc) Scudder at Upton Station near Rankin; A. M. Geiger at Wason Station at Denver City; and O. L. Rich to McCamey Station. Remaining at the Garden Station are W. K. (Bill) Williams, chief engineer, and Jerry Conner, yardman. Families of the men will not be moved to the new locations until school is out in May.

The transfer of men from the Garden Station will take a payroll from Garden City. As a rule there is an average of seven children, from the camp in the Garden City Schools.

Construction of the Garden Station was started in 1927, and that was also the date of installation of electricity in the town.

No Quick Changes In Military Policy Due

By ELTON C. FAY
Military Affairs Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States will be supercautious to avoid sudden changes in military policy which might alarm either the Soviets or U. S. Allies during any transition in the Russian regime.

This became apparent today as the Pentagon weighed each bit of information about Joseph Stalin and consulted frequently with the State Department.

Two potentially dangerous situations were seen if the U. S. military, for any reason, should make major changes in armed force strength or disposition of troops at this time:

1. If the U. S. should start an abrupt buildup of strength on the belief the danger of war was increasing because of Russia's internal situation, a new and inexperienced regime in Russia might seize upon this as a pretext for launching "preventive" war.
2. If there was a decision to cut down the U. S. armed forces, for reasons either international or domestic, the Western European Allies might interpret that as meaning the U. S. believed the danger was gone with the departure of Stalin from power.

There was disposition in military quarters, as there was among some Congress members, to feel that a live and active Stalin has been a restraining factor which held Russia back from new military adventures.

Those who argued that way did not seek to say that Stalin was any less guilty of other dark deeds of diplomacy and duplicity, but only that he appreciated the danger of embarking on war to gain his goals.

Even if a new Russian leader of professed moderate or peaceful intentions should come to power—and the names of no such persons appeared among the probable candidates—the Pentagon would be loathe to swerve immediately from its present policy of full military readiness.

U. S. military leaders, with bitter experience in dealing with Russians after World War II, want deeds instead of words from the Soviets to demonstrate peaceful intentions—stopping Soviet aid to Red China and North Korea, agreement to atomic arms control by inspection.

Generally, Pentagon guessing appeared to coincide with the assessments of the State Department—that no early change in Russian foreign policy—including war—appeared in prospect.

UP GOES THE POWER OF EVERY BUICK-SPECIAL Super and Roadmaster!

World's Newest V8

Television treat—the BUICK CIRCUS HOUR—every fourth Tuesday

It's more than pride that makes a man want a lot of horsepower beneath the hood of the car he owns. For the real point in reaching record horsepower and compression ratios goes beyond miles per hour. It steps up performance and economy in normal driving. That's what Buick engineers did when they upped the power and compression of each 1953 Buick — SPECIAL, SUPER and ROADMASTER — to the highest figures in Buick's fifty-year history. In the SUPER and ROADMASTER, they put a new kind of V8 Engine—first passenger-car V8 with 8.5 to 1 compression, and a long list of other major engineering advances. For the SPECIAL, they redesigned the famed F-263 Fireball 8 Engine — gave it shorter flame travel, faster firing, higher horsepower and compression. And to these spirited engines they coupled the new Twin-Turbine Dynaflo Drive* that adds flash-fast, quiet getaway to utter smoothness. Just to give you an example of what all this means: The 1953 Buick SPECIAL with Dynaflo can beat the mighty 1952 ROADMASTER on getaway—can reach 30 mph (when the law allows) with a combined speed and jerk-free smoothness no other car can equal. Of course, there's far more to these new Buicks for 1953 — some seven dozen new features alone. But why not come in and see for yourself that these are the greatest Buicks—and the greatest values—in fifty great years.

Dead Or Alive, Stalin's Reign Over Soviets Appears At An End

As we write this there is no way of knowing whether Joseph Stalin is alive or dead, whether he died of a stroke or was murdered, or when or whether any of these events actually took place. All we do know is that the Central Committee of the Communist Party and the Council of Ministers of the USSR announced over the Moscow radio that Stalin suffered a stroke on the evening of March 1, in his Kremlin apartment, and that his condition was extremely grave and the outcome in doubt. It is possibly significant that this official announcement went into meticulous detail, and that it gave the names of all the attending medical experts, mentioning their several specialties. Could this be designed to allay any suspicion among the Russian people that Stalin might have been done away with? And could this be merely the preliminary step to break the news by easy stages, to conceal the fact that Stalin might have, in fact, been dead several days, and that the inevitable jockeying for power among his potential successors might already have been concluded?

International Incident For The Staid Englishmen To Mull Over

Not a great while ago the British press was belaboring American institutions of higher learning for their laxness of discipline that permitted male students to raid girls' dormitories for the purpose of carrying off certain articles of lingerie. For that matter, the American press was doing the same thing. The particular type of mass madness soon blew over, of course, and no particular harm done—except to the sensibilities of the outraged editorialists. But now the chickens have come home to roost in Britain. Male students of Reading University invited two French beauties to come over and ride in their parade. Some of the Joe Colleges were un-gallant enough to say that the girls of Reading University were too dowdy, to undilgent in making themselves presentable, to be considered for the place of honor in the parade, hence the French imports. Whatever they lacked in looks the Reading coeds had plenty of spirit. A half-dozen or so of them put on bikini bathing suits, peekaboo waists and other snappy costumes and marched to No. 10 Downing Street, the residence of the prime minister of the realm. That old gallant, name of Churchill, was either out or disinclined to get mixed up in the affair, so he failed to respond; but the young ladies left a note of protest, branding their male college mates as hopeless dungheds for not appreciating English beauty, as revealed by the callers. Meantime, the father of one of the French invitees ordered his daughter to stay at home; he wanted no part of this international quarrel. For their part, the English coeds insisted they bore the French cuties no ill will; they just wanted to put their fellow students in their place. There, so far as we know, the matter rests—a complete stalemate. It couldn't have been a frame-up just to promote interest in the parade, you reckon? On the other hand, it could be. Anyhow, the American dormitory raiders and their "victims" are in position to sing out across the waters, "Who's boony now!"

Mad Hatter Picks Smithsonian As Storage Place For Butter

WASHINGTON — "Careful, careful," warned Alice. "Don't turn it over. We aren't expose the milk cows." The Carpenter reached over for the statistic which Alice was handing him. Ooops! He dropped it. And there it was on its back, for all to see: "22,300,000 milk cows." "That's a lot of cows," said the White Queen, when she recovered from the shock. "And a lot of milk," said the Walrus. "But not too much," said the Dormouse, who was thinking that contented cats make less determined enemies. "Too much, too much," shouted the Red Queen. "Consider all the butter. And the more butter the more margarine." "Americans must be very rich, very rich," commented the Dormouse enviously. He had just arrived from England. "Think of it—you eat so much butter you're forced to supplement it with margarine. In England, we're glad to eat any kind of fat." "We don't eat the butter," said Alice. "We store it. Our cows are on the dole." "The dole? We have that in England. Only it's for people." "Well, in America, what's good enough for people is good enough for cattle. That's why we have so many of them." "So many people?" asked the Dormouse. "No, so many cows," said Alice. "But not too many," said the Dormouse, still thinking of the cat. "Silence!" ordered the Red Queen. "Many too many. Deny it, and you'll lose your head." "I would be better to be off with some cows' heads," suggested Alice. "There are 600,000 more cows' heads now than in '52. And these cows are producing more milk. More milk is going into butter. Butter is going into storage. And oleomargarine manufacturers are having their best year in history." "That's because Secretary of Agricul-

The Governor Speaks — Allan Shivers Legislature Must Determine How Much And Where To Secure Necessary Funds

Texas' budget is a billion-dollar baby. But it doesn't have much spending money. The State budget for the next two years is around a billion dollars. But five out of every six dollars already have been promised one way or another. The Legislature can spend only the money in the general revenue fund, or in sight during the next two years, which now is about $176 million. Because of decreasing oil production, it may drop sharply in the next few weeks. What happened to the other billions? They are either in special funds, for special purposes, or already allocated for specific State services. The trend in financing our State government in recent years has been toward the emphasis of the special funds and allocations, with the result that the general revenue fund has dwindled. In a recent series of articles I discussed two of these special funds: (1) the available school fund, which is paid out to school districts on the basis of school-age population and (2) the Gilmber-Aikin or minimum foundation fund, which supplies enough money to guarantee every child in Texas a minimum standard of schooling. There is an allocation of $35 million a year for assistance to the old people, the blind, and to dependent children. Another $15 million goes into a special fund each year for farm-to-market roads under the Colson-Briscoe program. We have a large—though not large enough—State highway fund. The money for teachers' retirement also comes by special allocation. So the general revenue fund has been shrinking in proportion to the State's total budget, because many allocations have first access to the tax money collected by the State. Out of the present modest portion—$176 million or less—the Legislature must cover all general services of the State. Higher education, including all State-supported colleges, universities, and junior colleges, must be paid for out of the general revenue fund. The money for upkeep of State hospitals and special schools must come out of that same $176 million. So must the funds for operation of the courts, from the district level on up. The same is true of any capital improvements, such as State office buildings, prison system buildings, or additional State hospitals—that is, hospital building costs above the $5 million a year provided by a special tax. Even the expenses of the Legislature must come from the general revenue fund. The financial tasks of the Legislature are further complicated by the fact that the government of Texas is now operated on a strict pay-as-you-go basis. This policy rigidly limits appropriations to anticipated revenues. The Texas Constitution, Section 49a, Article 3, sets forth this requirement in detail: "It shall be the duty of the Comptroller of Public Accounts in advance of each regular session of the Legislature to prepare and submit to the Governor and to the Legislature upon its convening a statement under oath showing fully the financial condition of the State Treasury at the close of the last fiscal period and an estimate of the probable receipts and disbursements for the then current fiscal year. There shall also be contained estimate of the anticipated revenue

The Story Of The Alamo Santa Anna Prepares To Storm Texans' Stronghold

The full battle the storm came at the Alamo 117 years ago today. It was the twelfth day of the Mexican assault, but Travis and his followers within the fortress walls knew that the worst was yet to come. Mexican batteries suddenly became quiet. Travis, however, was not to be lulled by such a ruse. Though exhausted by constant defense of the Alamo for a dozen days, the Texans worked until midnight barricading the fort and preparing for what Travis interpreted as a final attack. Those who could, however, dropped down at their post, with rifles in arms, to rest however long they could. Sentinels took their posts and three picket guards were stationed outside the walls. In the morning hours to come, when the Mexicans surged forward, the alarm came not from the posted guards, however, but from a captain presumed to be the only one awake. Whether the exhausted guards had fallen asleep it is not recorded. During the quiet of the afternoon, at 2 p. m., Santa Anna issued minutely prepared secret orders. Reinforcements had built his strength to more than 5,000 men. No longer, he vowed, was the handful within the Alamo to hold off his hordes. The Alamo would be stormed at 4 a. m., March 6, the thirteenth day of the siege. Santa Anna ordered the infantry to form into four columns, the first to be commanded by General Cos, the second, by Colonel Francisco Duque, with General Castillon as his successor in event of death or disability; the third, by Col. Jose Maria Romero, with Col. Mariana Salas as his alternate; and, the fourth, by Juan Morales, with Col. Jose Milon to take command in case of casualty. Each column was provided with axes, crowbars, and scaling ladders. The fortress was to be taken, regardless of the cost of life. Sesma's cavalry was to bring up the rear, in all directions from the fortress, to prevent Mexican desertions and to bait any Texans who might attempt a dash for freedom. Texas erected the first monument to the valor of her men who died in the Alamo in 1856. Made from stones of the ruined walls of the old fort, a monument was placed in the corridor of the first stone capital at Austin, the work of Nagle, an Englishman. Fire destroyed the capitol monument, Nov. 19, 1881, but the Legislature that year appropriated funds for a monument to be erected on grounds of the new capitol. It was constructed in 1891, by James S. Clark & Co., Louisville, Ky., built of Texas granite and now stands at the right of the main entrance of the Capitol. The whole structure is 35 1/2 feet high including a bronze figure of a typical soldier of early Texas atop the granite capstone. On the west lintel, these words are engraved: "Heroes of the Alamo." On the east, "God and Texas, Liberty or Death." On the south, "I shall never surrender or retreat." On the north, "Thermopylae had her messenger of defeat, the Alamo had none." On the monument's four columns are chiseled the names of those who refused to surrender or retreat. (TOMORROW: The Fall of the Alamo.)

It's Hard To Believe First Part Of Army Training Has Changed

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald—Editor's Note. Head and eyes straight ahead, chin in, chest out, stomach in, hands down, legs straight and toes spread to a 45-degree angle. If you've been there, you remember the ripple that runs up and down the recruit's frame as he tried to comply with all the orders at once. If you haven't seen it, you've missed a great show. And if you happen to be one of the local draft board's future selectees, it'll be a revelation—the multitude of things some glowing GI drill instructor can think of for a guy to do all at once. He hollers and threatens and tells the raw recruit how dumb he is. He sounds tough, but he ain't. He's just passing on the chewing he got from some second john, or the calling down he's expecting. But he can make life miserable for the embryo soldier, particularly if the newcomer isn't used to harsh talk and un-reasonable demands a discipline-minded Army thinks necessary. Of course there may be a few GIs that aren't like that. Come to think of it, they all may be different nowadays. The Army's thinking has been modernized and even tough sergeants are taught not to cuss anyone, they say. But we'll bet things haven't changed to the extent that newcomers to the armed services like the first few weeks of their new life. It has been suggested probably after considerable reflection, that the first three or four months of military service are deliberately made disagreeable so the recruit will think it's not too bad when things relax later on. That was true in my case. I'd rather go through the last two and a half years again than to have to re-endorse the first six months. I remember — and still cuss — the loud-mouthed corporal who made me hold a rifle over my head for what seemed like hours just because I couldn't breeze through the manual of arms after watching his demonstration. And the lieutenant (that fuzzy-faced varmit) that took my hide off — in little strips — with his tongue. He lacerated me, and stunned my freshman GI companions, for firing up a cigaret without being told to. That was my first day in the military establishment, and I came off thinking maybe the Army didn't approve of smoking. There were some other, occasionally less painful, surprises such as being told in an authoritative tone to "WASH IT!" on complaining that my canvas hat was too big. And I soon learned they didn't mean 3:35 when they blew a whistle in your ear and said report for KP at 3:30. The KP Pusher always meant it too, whatever he said, and he didn't apologize for not being good enough to be a cook, but too good to wash pots and pans. I thought for awhile his name might be Eisenhower, but probably it wasn't. "Sir" was the only name I ever heard him go by. Another thing I could never see any sense in was the way they made you dig a six-by-six-by-six hole just for taking off a week end to go see the folks. Particularly after they made you dig another hole to put the dirt in you got out of the first. The Army called it "discipline," which the basic training Pfc., corporals and lieutenants were supposed, at that time at least, to instill in guys who somehow had been civilians for the first 20 years of their life. I don't know how successful they were with the instilling part of the program, but back in '42 they certainly were hanging child psychology theories over the falling edge of the chopping block. WAYLAND YATES.

Washington Calling — Marquis Childs

There's A Long Waiting Line Of Visitors Who Want To See Ike

WASHINGTON — While the President and his Cabinet officers may not have been aware of it, the period just ended is likely to be as close to a honeymoon as the new administration will have. Honeymoon, that is, in the comparative freedom from the three-alarm fires that break out recurrently in this age of not peace, not war. Now in Iran the long-smouldering controversy over exploitation of the oil reserves has blazed up. Whether it will be brought under control short of the kind of disaster that invites a Communist takeover no one can say. The explosion is exactly what almost everyone anticipated as the negotiations over the oil properties seized by Iran dragged on interminably. In Japan a flare-up of temper in the Parliament has revealed the slender hold on the government that Premier Shigeru Yoshida has. And the Yoshida government cannot survive indefinitely with an American prop. The economic forces pressing on the crowded home islands of the Japanese make this only a temporary expedient. The Japanese want to send an economic mission to Washington at the earliest opportunity. They mean to put some tough questions about trade barriers in relation to outlets for the goods produced by Japan's thrifty, hard-working people. The alternative to trade with the free nations is trade with Communist China. One thing that neither the McCarran-Walter Act nor the tariff barrier keeps out is the procession of high-level foreigners. They are waiting in line. Each one with some problem or plea to put up to President Eisenhower and his Secretary of State. The Norwegian prime minister, Halvard Lange, got here even before the British. He was waiting on the doorstep for the barrier to come down. British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Chancellor of the Exchequer R. A. Butler had to come in early March before they got absorbed in presenting their own budget to Parliament. The problem of the British budget will be difficult if they do not take home at least a tentative promise of help in solving the question of currency exchange that bedevils

Uncle Ray's Corner Flat World Map Misleads Pupils

This is an account of a man who did several excellent things for geography, but also helped to spread false ideas about the sizes and shapes of continents. We hardly can blame him for the mistaken ideas, but they have been carried along with his name attached. The man of whom I speak is called Mercator, as a rule, because he used that name in signing maps. His real name was Gerhard Kremer, and he was a native of Flanders, a country which used to cover much of Belgium and a little of France. Mercator (or Kremer) was nine years old when Columbus made his first Atlantic crossing. Perhaps he was excited by news of that event. In any case he went into the making of maps as a profession. At the age of 29, Mercator showed a map of the globe type. On this he showed the continents as well as he could. He made many mistakes, but that was to be expected. From our modern viewpoint, we should call his outline of South America "miserable," but people knew little about that continent's shape in the time of Mercator. A new idea came to Mercator late in his life. Instead of using a globe to show the world's continents, he would make a flat map for the purpose. To do that, he marked lines of longitude an equal distance apart, all the way from north to south! On a globe, the lines of longitude draw together at the North Pole, also at the South Pole. The result of what Mercator did was to show the continents and other land masses out of proportion to their real size. Land around the Arctic Circle was made to look too large, and Torrid Zone land seemed to shrink. Greenland, for example, looks as large on "Mercator's Projection" as South America. The truth is that South America has eight and a half times the area of Greenland. It seems that Mercator was trying to help sea captains solve some of their problems. He succeeded in that, and maps drawn on his plan still play a part in navigation. Perhaps Mercator never dreamed that school children would have maps of this kind before them. To a large extent (but not entirely) they have disappeared from modern schoolrooms. When such maps are shown nowadays, the teachers take special pains to try to keep them from misleading pupils about the relative size of continents. For HISTORY section of your scrap-book. Drama Guild Presents Entertaining Operetta

It would have been better with a symphony, corps d' ballet, etc., which, the program explained, might have run the admission price to $12 a ticket.

But the Civic Drama Guild did prove here Wednesday night that an entertaining version of "The Fiedermus" can be staged by six people backed up by an extremely busy piano.

And it was something vastly different from previous Civic Drama plays which have reached Big Spring. There was nothing really outstanding about it, and neither was there a weak link in the cast. It was far and away the best balanced production the guild has offered local audiences in eight times out.

If there were to be a citation for poets, it would belong to Gratia Christie, who appeared briefly as Dr. Bhd, the woman lawyer, and then came on later with something that suited her far better in the role of Countess Orlofsky, a noble woman who has just about exhausted her sources of amusement. There was no question, of course, but what the part of Rosalinda belonged to Theodora Andras, and Carl N. Brandberg succeeded in carrying off the part of Eisenstein capably.

One of the most important roles, however, was that of the Eisenstein's maid, and Kathryn DeHaven, whose voice filled the bill very well, also produced the mannerisms and sometimes "slap-happy" demeanor that the part required.

As Dr. Falke, Peter Messineo made himself into a goon, with just a shade of silliness that most anyone would expect of a person referred to as a "fat."

Lloyd N. Pease, as Alfred, the wild out, had both the voice and the physique which his part required.

There was a lot of singing by everybody, mostly to the lilting songs of Johann Strauss, and at no time were people in the audience drawn to the edges of their seats in apprehension while somebody struggled to reach a high note. That, in itself, is something that Big Spring audiences can appreciate. W. M.

P-TA Council Hears District President

Mrs. J. J. Black, district president, was a special guest at the meeting of the P-TA City Council Wednesday afternoon in the high school.

Mrs. Black discussed the spring conference to be held in Lamesa April 20-21. She invited all P-TA members and their families to attend the Fun Night festivities which will open the conference.

Mrs. Raymond Leggett, president of the Midland P-TA Council, spoke briefly as did Mrs. Stanley Erskine, Midland High School P-TA president.

New officers were elected during the meeting.

They include Mrs. Alton Underwood, president; Mrs. W. L. Vaughn, vice president; Mrs. Elvris McCrary, secretary; and Mrs. J. G. McCrary, treasurer.

During the meeting it was announced that the Council would sponsor the play, "Goldlocks and the Three Bears," March 24. Proceeds will go to pay delegates' expenses to the national convention to be held in Oklahoma City, Okla., May 18.

Wild Gas Well Fire Put Out By Sand Cover

ORANGE, Tex. — The wild gas well which threatened Orangefield with explosion and fire choked itself to death early this morning.

Sand forced into the well under the high pressure of escaping gas sealed off the explosive flow. Workers immediately capped the well.

The well, the Paul Cornier No. 4 Lee Hager, seven miles west of here, blew out with a loud roar yesterday morning as oil field workers were pulling tubing. None of the five men on the rig was injured by the blowout but the spewing wild gas threatened the area with fire and explosion and caused nearby residents to spend a chilly night in unheated homes.

Operators abandoned attempts to bring the roaring gas under control as it beat its way to pieces and buried debris as far as 100 yards.

Farm Highway 406 was closed for four miles around to keep autos from the blow-out vicinity.

Residents in the area ate cold suppers, went without heat and hot water despite a blustery norther that lowered temperatures to around 40 degrees this morning.

The strong north wind last night prevented gas from concentrating in pockets which could be easily set off.

13 US Shrimp Boats Still Held By Mexico

CAMPECHE, Mex. — The case of the unlucky 13 captured American shrimp boats was in the hands of a federal district attorney today. A request that charges be dropped and the boats released was rejected.

The shrimp boats were seized Tuesday by the Mexican Coast Guard cutter Virgilio Uribe off the Yucatan coast.

The cutter's commander said the U.S. boats were fishing two miles off-shore, well within Mexican territorial waters. Shrimpers deny this.

Seriousness of this latest incident

Wrecker Involved In A Traffic Accident

A wrecker, with an automobile in tow, was one of the vehicles involved in a traffic accident at Second and Main Wednesday afternoon.

Two other mishaps were reported during the afternoon. A Y. Lindsay, Peecos, and Donald Lee Murphy, Big Spring, were drivers of cars in a collision at Third and Gregg.

Banquet Set Today For School Leaders

H. L. Miller, superintendent of Coahoma schools, announced that the banquet will be for school trustees and superintendents.

An informal affair, the gathering will be to look over Coahoma's new elementary school and additions to the high school. It is being held in connection with National Education Week.

STALIN IS ILL

of deep unconsciousness, nervous regulation of breathing as well as cardiac activity continue to remain greatly impaired.

As this latest report on the condition of their leader was announced to the saddened Russian people, the communist party newspaper Pravda, in a front-page editorial, called for "unity of the party and the people" in these difficult days.

The government's Council of Ministers (Cabinet) and the Communist party's Central Committee already had announced they were guiding the party and the country, but there has been no indication here as to how government or party leadership would be affected by Stalin's incapacity.

Although unquestionably tense and nervous, Moscow's citizens went about their normal tasks as the morning broke with snow falling from grey, heavy-laden skies and a biting wind whipping out of the northeast.

Factories, stores and offices were open as usual. There were no crowds in Red Square, the vast open area under the frowning Kremlin battlements.

Men In Service

in Mexico's all-out campaign to drive what it calls "pirate ships" from fishing off its coasts brought Charge d'Affaires Paul T. Culbertson of the Mexico City U. S. Embassy and aides to this report.

Culbertson, accompanied by Consul General William A. Altshie and others, flew here yesterday. They had a long conference with the commander of the Mexican craft which seized the shrimpers.

The issue between the Mexican authorities and the shrimpers was defined as follows:

The Mexicans claim the U. S. fishermen were fishing inside the Mexican territorial waters.

The U. S. shrimpers claim they were not even inside the 9-mile limit which Mexico claims as territorial waters. Furthermore, they said they were not fishing.

Some fishermen pointed out yesterday they did not have shrimp on their boats. Others said it would have been impossible for them to fish in the shallow waters where they had taken refuge from storm waves.

The U. S. officials plan to fly back to Mexico City today. It was likely there would be further discussions between the Mexican government and the Embassy.

Actually 15 North American shrimp boats are docked here under armed guard but two of them are not charged with illegal fishing. The Louise obtained permission to enter port because of a sick crewman. The Ava Maria also had permission because of mechanical trouble.

Boats being held are the Susan Bradley, Connie Mack, Kimberley, Honny Shins, Sun Tide, Johnny Shank, Fiesta, Dickey Sue, Captain Gene, Celestino Aria, Noreaster, Hazy and the Saint Paul. The crews, numbering about 50 from Texas, Alabama and Louisiana, were restricted to the port area.

Another angle of the incident developed yesterday in Brownsville. The directors of the Texas Shrimpers Assn., tentatively agreed to send a delegation to Mexico City Friday to talk with U. S. and Mexican authorities. A spokesman said the group had been unable to get an accurate account of the seizure but at least two of the shrimper captains said word they were anchored when captured.

Meanwhile, the case was being reported by the Mexico City press, which gave Page One prominence to four previous seizures of the two off Tuxpan and two off Campeche at about the same time.

The story was buried on inside pages of two afternoon newspapers.

There was still no official comment from Mexico City authorities.

AREA OIL

6 Per Cent Oil Recovered In Test On Borden Wildcat

Some 88 barrels of fluid — 60 per cent oil and 40 per cent mud — flowed through a one-inch opening during the first hour of a 24-hour test just completed on Green No. 1 Wolf, Borden wildcat which blew out several days ago.

Two completions have been noted in the Sunflower Field of Mitchell County, and one was reported in the Howard-Glasscock field of Glasscock County.

A new location has been staked in the Winfield-Elzenburger field of Borden by Stanolind.

The flow continued to the tanks and pits during the rest of the test. Entire flow to tanks was two hours and 45 minutes. First hour was through a one-inch choke and the other hour and 40 minutes was through a 3/4-inch bottomhole choke. Total flow during the two-hour, 45-minute period was 183 barrels of fluid, and shake out — of which 1-3 was water from an undetermined source — was 3,049 feet of basic sediment. The water might be explained from the fact that operator pumped 150 barrels of water and mud in the hole to kill the blow which occurred several days ago. Volume of gas was 500,000 to 750,000 cubic feet per day. Flowing pressure was between 1,130 and 2,240 pounds, and 60-minute shut-in pressure was 2,730 pounds. Operator is now drilling for water and will go through the Pennsylvania line.

6 Per Cent Oil Recovered In Test On Borden Wildcat

Some 88 barrels of fluid — 60 per cent oil and 40 per cent mud — flowed through a one-inch opening during the first hour of a 24-hour test just completed on Green No. 1 Wolf, Borden wildcat which blew out several days ago.

Two completions have been noted in the Sunflower Field of Mitchell County, and one was reported in the Howard-Glasscock field of Glasscock County.

A new location has been staked in the Winfield-Elzenburger field of Borden by Stanolind.

The flow continued to the tanks and pits during the rest of the test. Entire flow to tanks was two hours and 45 minutes. First hour was through a one-inch choke and the other hour and 40 minutes was through a 3/4-inch bottomhole choke. Total flow during the two-hour, 45-minute period was 183 barrels of fluid, and shake out — of which 1-3 was water from an undetermined source — was 3,049 feet of basic sediment. Date To Be Set On Award Dinner

No date has been set for an awards dinner in honor of Joyce Robinson, whose reserve champion steer at the recent San Antonio Livestock Show, topped the market.

T. M. Robinson, father of Joyce, said here Thursday that he understood that a banquet would be set during the dates of the annual Livestock Show. This is March 17-19. The steer, which brought $8,000, was due to furnish the meat for the affair. It was assumed that the check for the steer, which brought $500 more than the grand champion, would be presented as a highlight of the dinner.

Lake Thomas Road Plans To Be Talked By County Fathers

Howard County Commissioners will discuss highway plans Monday on the new project around Lake J. B. Thomas in Borden County.

The lake project involves the cooperation of several West Texas counties, the Colorado Municipal Water District, and the State Highway Department.

Highway officials were in Big Spring Tuesday and Wednesday to map out plans for the proposed project. J. B. Roberts, district engineer, headed the highway delegation.

Commissioners postponed any decision as to Howard County action until further consideration can be given. County Judge R. H. Weaver stated that commissioners will discuss the plan Monday and possibly reach a decision as to the portion of the road in Howard County.

Plans call for the road to branch off the Snyder highway, go through Vincent, and into Borden County around the lake. The Howard strip must be paved to complete the project, which would call for county appropriations.

Market Is Weaker At Livestock Sale

The market was weaker, with most lines of cattle bringing from 50 cents to $1 lower, at the Big Spring Livestock Auction Company's sale Wednesday.

Bulls brought up to 17.50, butcher cows from 12.00 to 14.00, fat butcher yearlings from 19.00 to 21.00 and fat calves from 18.00 to 22.00.

Stocker steer calves sold up to 22.50, heifer calves from 19.50 to 21.00, cow beside calves from 15.00 and hogs from 20.50 to 22.00.

The run was estimated at 500 cattle and 50 hogs.

Tidelands Bill Consideration Expected Soon

By GORDON BROWN
WASHINGTON (U)—Legislation dealing with control of the offshore submerged coastal lands appears close to early consideration in the Senate.

The Senate Interior Committee wound up hearings on the issue yesterday, and Senator Cordon (R-Ore), a member, said he hopes to have a bill completed and recommended to the Senate by the end of next week.

Senate leaders have indicated such legislation will be the next brought before the Senate.

A House Judiciary Subcommittee which has been conducting hearings on similar legislation, hoped to complete its work today.

The Senate committee has before it several measures dealing with the question. These include bills by:

1. Sen. Holland (D-Fla.), to give states title to offshore lands within their historic boundaries—three nautical miles in most cases and about 10 1/2 miles in the case of Texas and the Gulf Coast of Florida.

2. Sen. Daniel (D-Tex.), to add to the Holland Bill a section dealing with the offshore lands beyond the state boundaries to the edge of the continental shelf; the section would give states and the federal government co-extensive jurisdiction and states 37 1/2 per cent of all royalties.

3. Sen. Anderson (D-NM), to validate existing oil leases granted by the states and to give the federal government all future leasing authority.

4. Sen. Hill (D-Ala.), to add to the Anderson Bill a proviso earmarking revenues from the offshore lands for education purposes after the current defense emergency is ended.

5. Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn.), to set up a group to study the entire matter.

The Holland Bill is identical with one vetoed last year by former President Truman. President Eisenhower said during the campaign he would have signed this bill.

Eisenhower was reported yesterday by Sen. Daniel to be holding to the view that states are entitled to the lands within their historic boundaries. Daniel lunched yesterday at the White House.

Famed Choir To Give Concert At Midland

Under the auspices of the West Texas Lutheran Laymen, the widely acclaimed Concordia Seminary Chorus of Springfield, Ill. is to be presented in concert next Wednesday evening at Midland.

For the past several years the chorus has taken part in the "Heart of Texas" Easter sunrise service. The choir also has been heard on the International Lutheran Hour broadcast.

Director of this vocal organization is Fred L. Precht, himself a graduate of Concordia College at St. Paul, Minn., and the Concordia Theological Seminary at St. Louis before going to Springfield. He has been lauded for his mastery in achieving clarity of diction, artistic interpretation and sincerity of purpose. Precht has studied under some of the leading vocal and chorus instructors in the nation.

The program will open with "A Mighty Fortress Is Our God." There will be selected parts of Bach's motet, "Jesu, Priceless Treasure." Among other selections will be "O Come, O Come Emmanuel," "Rocking Carol," "Jesu Bambino," and the dramatic "Go to Dark Gethsemane."

Tickets ($1.20 and 50 cents) are available here from J. & H. Drug and the Record Shop.

Policemen, Firemen Trying To Rescue Bill

By BO BYERS
AUSTIN (U)—"Lawmaker, save our bill," was the cry of firemen and policemen after a 2 1/2-hour Senate committee hearing yesterday.

The bill, mangled by questions of committee members and attacks by city officials, is aimed at winning higher salaries for firemen and policemen in Texas cities of 10,000 or more population.

Sen. Doyle Willis, Fort Worth, long a legislative champion of better working conditions and higher pay for the men who fight fire and crime, saw the danger signals in committee questioning and took no chance on getting his bill killed immediately.

He was granted appointment of a three-man subcommittee to attempt further revision.

Willis originally had proposed mandatory raises by population brackets. He wanted to give some firemen and policemen as much as a $105-a-month increase. A storm of protests over the added burden to city budgets forced him to change his bill.

As presented yesterday, it would leave minimum wages at present levels but require cities to hold elections on proposed increases when petitioned by 10 per cent of the people voting in the last preceding city election.

Spokesmen for the firemen and policemen said present Texas salaries range generally from $165 to $290. That's not enough for a man who has to work 72 hours a week and who is also subject to emergency calls on his days off without overtime pay, they said.

"Why don't you rely on the people who hire you—the city officials—to raise your salaries?" That was the question thrown time after time by committee members.

Jack Bostick, Fort Worth, secretary-treasurer of the State Fire Fighters Assn., said petitioning hasn't done any good in his city. He said a petition signed by 40,000 urging a pay boost was presented to the City Council.

"They've thrown them in the trash can. If this law is passed, we think they'd hesitate a little to throw a petition in the trash can," Bostick said.

Russell Dunn, Sherman attorney, sided with the firemen and policemen. He said good men are forced to leave the service in search of better jobs. But many of them love the work and don't want to leave it, even though they feel underpaid, he added.

City Atty. Frank Day, Plainville, said "There's no reason for singling out one or two groups of employees and providing a special way by which they can get salary increases."

Mayor Ralph Irvine, Palestine, said, "We pay those firemen just as much as we can. Our firemen are satisfied; our policemen are satisfied."

Bricklayers Reach Second Floor Of New Courthouse

Workers on the new Howard County Courthouse this week started placing wooden forms in place for the rise to the top.

Only the top landing and penthouse foundations are lacking. Sidney Supulver, job superintendent, believes all frame work will be complete in four weeks time.

Bricklayers have reached the second floor landing all around the building, and in some spots they are near the third floor. The granite siding is in place on the east and west doors.

The work is nearly complete on the partition work in the basement, and most basement windows are in place. Some of the partitions are up on the first floor.

Concrete was poured for the fourth floor last week end, and wooden forms leading to the roof were being placed Tuesday.

Famed Choir To Sing

The famous Concordia Seminary chorus, heard each week over the International Lutheran Hour radio program, is to be presented in concert March 17 at Midland. Tickets for the event are on sale at J. & H. Drug and the Record Shop here. West Texas Lutheran Laymen are sponsoring.

UN Sees Little Change In Conditions By Stalin Death

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (U)—United Nations diplomats anxiously pondered today over news of Russia's stricken Prime Minister Stalin. They held little hope that any resulting events in the Kremlin would break the current deadlock in their debate on Korea.

Western delegates wondered if Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky would stay on to argue for his program—doomed in advance to overwhelming defeat.

There were unconfirmed rumors that he was trying to get back to Moscow as quickly as possible.

The proposals of the Communist bloc were scheduled to be voted today by Czechoslovakia's Foreign Minister Vachav David, listed as the first speaker in the Assembly's Political Committee.

Vishinsky's policies were echoed yesterday by Polish Foreign Minister Stanislaw Skrzyszewski, who made no mention of Stalin's illness.

In private meetings, various groups discussed what should be done about the deadlock over Korea.

The star Sirius gives 28 times as much light as the sun.

They all have concluded that nothing new can be attempted while both the U. S. and Russia refuse to alter their uncompromising terms for settling the prisoner-of-war issue.

Most diplomats were agreed no change could be expected in the world situation with a change of rulership in Moscow, that the free world must continue to build its strength and stand fast against Kremlin policies.

Here's New Sox Infield

When the Chicago White Sox trot out onto the field for the first game of the 1953 season, these four players, two of them obtained in winter trades are expected to comprise the infield. Left to right, at their El Centro, Calif., training site, are: Vern Stephens, third base, obtained from the Boston Red Sox; Chico Carrasquel, shortstop; Nelson Fox, second base; Ferris Fox, first base, obtained from the Philadelphia Athletics. LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Robert Burrow. Remember the name. Had it not been for that elongated freshman from Wells, Texas, HCJC's Jayhawks, no doubt, would be reigning as the Texas Junior College Conference champions today. Burrow is the long drink of water who stuffed 38 points through the hoop as Lon Morris defeated the Hawks in the finals of the state meet at Denton earlier this week. Without him, the Big Springers might have beaten the Bearcats by as much as 25 points. There was no defense against Burrow's shooting, however. He hit from close in and far out. He cleaned the backboards. He was solid as a rock, defensively and offensively. Six-foot-eight, Burrow gets around with the ease of a Charley Warren. Coaches from at least five different senior colleges sought audiences with him while he was in Denton. NCAA rules strictly forbid it, but the coaches were falling all over themselves to make offers to Burrow, nonetheless. Burrow, no doubt, could have taken his pick of many a senior college offer after leaving high school but he chose Lon Morris because his coach had played under the present Bearcat mentor, O. P. Adams.

BOBBY MAINES GREAT IN TOURNAMENT
The Jayhawks did very well in the tournament, despite the ten-point reversal in the finals. All the locals played well. If they did have an outstanding player, however, it was Bobby Maines. Maines was especially hot in the first two games, both on defense and attack. He was all-state in any one's books. Harold Davis, the HCJC mentor, paid his charges the ultimate in compliments recently after he learned three of his hands had been named to the All-Zone team. "I wouldn't trade any one of my players for any one else in the conference," said Jones. "I don't think any player in the circuit would make my starting lineup."

JAYHAWKS WILL GET A TROPHY, ANYWAY
Only Lon Morris got a trophy in the Denton tournament but the Howard College Athletic Association will see to it that the Jayhawks are properly rewarded for having the second best team in the state meet. Out of funds raised during the exhibition game with the Whiskered Wizards here, the organization will purchase the Hawks a trophy for their show case in the HCJC Gym.

JERRY POOLER WORKING ON DOCTOR'S DEGREE
One of the officials in the State Tournament was Jerry Pooler, who called balls and strikes in the Longhorn League back in 1931. Hal Sayles, the league proxy, tried to hire Pooler to work again this year but Jerry is to be employed by the Big State League again this summer. Pooler is now a resident of Denton, where he is in North Texas State College. He's working on his Doctor's degree (in Physical Education). He's officiated something like 80 basketball games this season.

Clarence Welkel, another one-time Longhorn League arbiter, is now employed by a Waco newspaper. He was a sports writer before turning to the umpiring game.

SCHOOL'S FIRST TEAM

Tennis Workouts Open At Forsan

FORSAN — For the first time in the history of the school, Forsan High School will field a tennis team this spring. Interest in the sport has been high, although practice has been hampered somewhat by windy weather. The coach of the Buffalo netters is Dick Wood, former TCU player, who has announced that both boys' and girls' teams will be organized and entered in the district meet. Practice matches are planned with Coahoma, Big Spring, Sterling City and Garden City. Junior high matches will also be played, when ever possible. Those out for the boys' team include David Wise, Mervyn Miller, Jerry Fowler, Larry Furse and James Skeen. Others are eligible to report until March 15. Doris Haan, Shirley Kennedy, Margaret Box, Ona Mae MacElreath, and Nancy Story are the girls already working out. Wise, Miller and Fowler appear to be the leading candidates among the boys while Wise, Jacobs and Haan are outstanding among the girls. In Junior High, boys out for the squad include Travis Dempsey, Frank Tate, William King, Randall Fowler, Edell Ratliff, Ronnie Howard, Muri Bailey and Melton Bardwell. Junior High girls who have reported include Sue Miller, Frankie Bedwell, Janell King, Gay Huestis and Juanita Shoults. Since this is the first time most of the players have had a racquet in their hands, the stress in practice has been on fundamentals.

Knott Girls Leave For Regional Meet

Billies Open Play Friday

KNOTT—The Knott High School girls' basketball team, champion of District 23-B for the third straight year, was to leave at 1 p. m. today for Brownwood and the Regional Tournament. A title there would send the Hill Billies to the State Tournament.

Coach J. F. Lowe's sextet has lost only two games and that by one point in a practice game at Klondike. The team will be staying at the Grande Courts in Brownwood.

The Billies play the winner of the Odessa-McCauley game at 8:45 p. m. Friday, having drawn a first round bye. A win there would send them back into action Saturday morning.

Eleven teams are entered in the meet. Avoca is a ranking favorite, having won 30 of 33 games. The Mustangs' losses have come at the hands of Eula, McLean and McCauley and Avoca gained revenge over McCauley and Eula.

Shirley Shelton leads Avoca, having averaged 20 points this season. Dorothy Easterling and Betty Workman are other top Avoca players.

Knott's attack is built around Leona Lancaster, the team's leading scorer, and Wanda Jean Roman. Both girls have lettered three seasons, as has Jimmy Shanks Burks, a guard.

Lancaster and Roman are each 5-foot-8½. Burks is a half inch taller. Others who will make the trip are Glenn Cockrell, Edna Harrell, Eva Newcomer, Bernell Fryar, Ida Lou Fryar, Shirley Lancaster, Mary Lancaster, Edith Harrell, Leona Smith, Wilda Rasberry and Rosetta Williams.

Francis Ends Cage Season

BY BUD SPRINGER
CLEVE FRENCH packed up his shorts pants but not his basketball today as tiny Rio Grande College wound up an undefeated season. The skinny, six-foot nine-inch freshman tossed in 54 points against Wilberforce last night at Cleveland Arena while pacing his club to its 39th straight victory, 109-55.

"Now I'm taking off to hit the books," he declared after running up 1,954 points in his first college season—the most ever registered by one man in that distance. "Those professors at Rye-of-Grand, they all pronounce it that way in Southern Ohio are tough," he added. "They'd just love to toss one of those big, old, fat 'F's' at you."

During the spring Bevo plans to visit the Rio gym every day for practice. This summer he has a job as playground director at Wellsville, the small Ohio town from where he came.

"They've got a basket at the playground," he continued. After college—where he's taking social science—Bevo plans to coach.

He, his wife and their child are all at the school. And that, too, figures in his decision to stick at Rio. "You can rent an apartment down there for $25 a month."

There was another game at the arena last night, but most of the fans came to see Bevo and started leaving as soon as Seton Hall got comfortably ahead of John Carroll, winning 109-82.

The capacity crowd of 10,737 saw Seton Hall, which won its first 27 games of the season for a new major college record, finish its regular season with a 28-2 mark. All-America Walt Dukles led Seton Hall with 27 points.

Pennsylvania, sparked by the 20 points tallied by All-American Ernie Beck, trounced Columbia, 59-45, to take over first place in the Ivy League. The victory gave Penn a one-game lead over the Lions with only two league games left.

La Salle whipped Temple, 65-45, although Tom Gola, La Salle's All-America, suffered a strained left ankle in the third period.

In other major games Oklahoma City trounced Tulsa, 74-60 and Niagara took Colgate, 86-67.

BEATS NARDICO

Maxim Is Back On The Beam

MIAMI, Fla. — Joey Maxim, the fancy master of the left jab, was back in the boxing business today after winning a unanimous 10-round decision over the young Tampa slugger Danny Nardico.

They said Pal Joey was all washed up after Archie Moore slapped off his light heavyweight crown in St. Louis Dec. 17, and many fans doubted the 30-year-old Maxim's ability to handle Nardico.

But Joey, a bit plump around the middle at 183½ pounds, stood off the charging Nardico with ease in Miami Stadium last night, although he had to scramble off the deck in the seventh when Nardico caught him with a right to the head. Nardico weighed 176½.

The ex-champ's manager, Jack Kearns, declared after the fight that Joey not only was back on the right trail but planned to go after Rocky Marciano's heavyweight championship. "We'll fight Roland LaStarza first if necessary," Kearns asserted, "but Marciano's the one we want."

Asked about the contract giving Maxim a return fight with Moore, Kearns said, "We'll take Moore when the right time comes."

Jim Norris, International Boxing Club president, tossed cold water on the idea of Maxim campaigning in the heavyweight ranks. Norris said: "I don't know that LaStarza wants Maxim. He's in good shape after his win over Rex Layne. And I don't think it would be fair to let Maxim have Marciano and keep LaStarza, Layne and Ezzard Charles waiting."

Maxim was more of a fighter than he has been in a long time as he pounded the 25-year-old Nardico's face with his left and threw his right hand in a surprisingly effective fashion. He piled up a big 'early lead while making Nardico miss badly with his long right swings.

Texas Oilmen Offer To Buy San Francisco Grid Club

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Texas oilmen have put up money to buy the San Francisco 49er National Football League team, and Anthony J. Morabito, co-owner, has agreed on the terms of the sale, the San Francisco Chronicle reports today.

The bid was made by Clinton W. Murchison Jr., 29, Dallas, and his brother, John. Papers have been drawn up to complete the deal. But the league may not approve the transaction, according to League Commissioner Bert Bell. The Chronicle said Bell indicated absentee ownership might be a stumbling block.

The paper quoted Bell as saying in Philadelphia: "My opinion is that we've been very unsuccessful with absentee ownership. In a professional sports enterprise it is not good business."

Three Cayuse Rookies Enter Armed Forces

Three Big Spring Bronco rookies have been drafted into the US Armed Forces. They are Billy Lavers, infielder; Lefty Morris, pitcher; and Catcher Jose Rivera.

Lavers and Morris, both of whom are Texans, were with the Bronco briefly last year. Rivera is a Puerto Rican, who is seeking to break into professional baseball.

Bill Frank, general manager of the Big Spring Bronco, said he had been notified by George Trautman, president of the minor leagues, that Oscar Reguera, Cuban hurler under contract to the Bronco, had been classified as a limited service player.

Reguera was a class-man until Oscar had informed him differently. Frank said clarification of Reguera's status was the best possible news for the local club.

Class B Teams Open State Tournament

AUSTIN (AP)—Redheaded Johnny Beasums sank a free throw with four seconds to go today, leading Blum to a thrilling, 49-47 victory over Pettus in the opening Class B game of the Interscholastic League Basketball Tournament.

AUSTIN (AP)—Schoolboys from the little towns where basketball is the big show open the State Interscholastic League Basketball Tournament at Gregory Gymnasium today.

It will be Blum from Central Texas and Pettus from South Texas in the opening game for the state's 24-top teams in conferences B through AAAA battling for the coveted state titles.

The Blum Bobcats, back in the league's main month basketball playoff for the third time since 1925, bring a 31-4 won-lost record. Pettus, here for the second time since 1947, won 18 and lost 10 over the season.

Seven Class B teams will seek to unseat Big Sandy in the piney woods of East Texas, defending champion of that bracket and favored to repeat. Big Sandy begins the hard road back against Lipan at 1:45 p.m.

Conference A begins to roll at 3:10 p.m. with Dear Park vs White Oak and Denver City vs Troup at 4:35 p.m. Conference AA play begins tonight at 7:30 p.m. when San Marcos battles Dumas, followed by Bowie vs Alvin at 8:50 p.m.

Bowie, last year's champion, is favored to repeat this year under leadership of tall, high-scoring Temple Tucker.

Tucker holds an Interscholastic League record for the most points scored in a championship game—30 piled up in the game with Dimmitt in last year's tourney. He's rated as both taller and better this year.

Play in Conference AAA does not start until tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. Besumont's South Park battles with Paris. Edison of San Antonio and Vernon meet at 4:35 p.m. Friday.

Steerette Netters Oppose Andrews Here At 8 P. M.

Arah Phillips' Big Spring High School girls' volleyball team, showing improvement in every game, take on the rugged Andrews sextet in the Steer Gym, starting at 8:00 o'clock this evening.

The Steerettes will be meeting the champions of the recent Petman Basin Tournament at Odessa in this week and will enter the contest as the underdogs.

Big Spring's record now shows seven wins and three losses. The Steerettes' triumphs have come at the expense of Midland (twice), Abilene, Odessa, Seminole, Lamesa and the Big Spring Junior High team. It was forced to meet the latter in the Odessa tournament.

The locals' losses came at the hands of Fort Stockton, which beat the Steerettes twice, and Lamesa. There'll be a B string game this evening, starting at 7 p. m.

Class AAAA competition begins Friday night with Pampa and Stephen F. Austin of Houston meeting in the first game, and returning champion Polytechnic of Fort Worth taking on Austin in the second game.

The Texas kid showed promise in both directions. But the Giants finally gave up on him last spring. They sold him outright to Minneapolis of the American Association. A good minor league season earned him another chance.

The new Hartung is an outfielder. At least he is hitting like an outfielder is expected to, although his fielding still favors the haphazard style—the kind that causes you to worry about the guy's life when a high fly comes his direction.

Hartung was the hitting star yesterday in an intrasquad game, driving home both runs as the second-stringers blanked the regulars, 2-0. He belted a solid single and a justly triple in three tries. He almost got hit in the head with a fly ball in the field but he had the double handicap of a strong crosswind and a brilliant sun.

He doesn't figure to be the brightest star of the year but it may be that he's shown enough improvement to hold a nice steady job.

With or without Hartung, the Giants have been picked by a group of experts to finish fourth in the National League. This prediction came at the annual National League dinner at Tampa, Fla., where club officials, managers, coaches, sports writers, photographers and broadcasters named their choices.

Brooklyn was picked to repeat as the league champion, getting 807 points to 701 for Philadelphia. The Giants got 670 points and the St. Louis Cardinals 511. Then came Cincinnati 376, Chicago 358, Boston 307 and Pittsburgh 126. A first-place vote counted 8 points, second 7 points and on down the line.

The same experts labeled Cincinnati as the "most improved club since the close of the 1952 season."

There was nothing new yesterday on the projected move of the St. Louis Browns to Milwaukee except that Bill Veck, the Browns' owner, said he isn't interested at the moment.

Hartung Going Great In Camp

By BEN PHLEGAR, AP Sports Editor

The "Hondo Hurricane" is blowing up a storm out West again. It may mean that Clint Hartung, the most publicized rookie to come out of World War II, is finally going to make the grade.

Hartung, immediately dubbed the "Phenom" when he showed up at the New York Giants' Phoenix camp in 1947, hung around with the Giants for five years without ever living up to his service reputation as the greatest pitcher since Walter Johnson and the greatest hitter since Babe Ruth.

The Texas kid showed promise in both directions. But the Giants finally gave up on him last spring. They sold him outright to Minneapolis of the American Association. A good minor league season earned him another chance.

The Boston Red Sox scheduled their first intrasquad game for today. . . . Rookie center fielder Jim Pendleton, who figured in the recent four-club National League trade that sent Russ Meyer to Brooklyn, hit two home runs and a double for the Boston Braves yesterday. . . . The Yankees indicated they probably will try to peddle first baseman Don Bollweg, last year's most valuable player in the American Association.

There was nothing new yesterday on the projected move of the St. Louis Browns to Milwaukee except that Bill Veck, the Browns' owner, said he isn't interested at the moment.

NOW YOUR MATURING SERIES E BONDS CAN EARN INTEREST TEN YEARS LONGER—AT 3%!

Have you given any thought to what you'll do with those maturing Series E Defense Bonds you patriotically bought ten years ago? Well, here's real good news for you. You won't have to do a thing with them and they'll continue to earn interest for ten years longer at 3% interest, compounded semiannually. Just hold on to your bonds and allow them to go on earning!

And in the meantime join the millions of thrifty Americans who are investing in a secure future with Defense Bonds bought regularly through the Payroll Savings Plan. Thousands say it's the one sure way to save.

The sum you set aside each week may be as little as 10c—or as much as $275. If you can save just $3.75 a week regularly through the Plan, in five years you will have $1,025.95! In 9 years and 8 months you'll have $2,137.30 . . . in 19 years and 8 months, $5,153.72! For now the Series E Bonds you buy and hold to maturity can earn 3% interest compounded semiannually.

No matter how small your income, you can't afford not to put something aside for yourself. So join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work today.

Hutchinson Names Starting Lineup

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP)—Tiger Manager Fred Hutchinson named his line-up yesterday for the Bengals' first exhibition game of the spring training season Saturday, against the Philadelphia Phillies.

The line up places Walt Dropp at first, Owen Friend at second, Harvey Kuenn at shortstop, and Fred Hatfield at third.

Bob Neiman, Jim Delsing, and Russ Sullivan will fill the outfield positions. Catching assignment falls to Johnny Bucha and Hutchinson tagged Ray Herbert, Billy Hoelt, and Hal Erickson to handle the mound chores.

Pendleton Aiming To Win Brave Job

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—Rookie Jim Pendleton, standout with Montreal of the International League the past two years, served notice today he is a serious candidate for the Boston Braves' centerfield berth.

Pendleton belted two long home runs and a double, driving in five runs in the Tribe's first intra-squad game of the season yesterday.

Clem Labine To Go Against Boston

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Manager Charlie Dressen has picked his pitching lineup for the Brooklyn Dodgers' first three exhibition games in Miami this week end.

Clem Labine will open against the Boston Braves Saturday with Ralph Brancas taking over later in the game. Sunday, Russ Meyer and Johnny Podres will split the chores and Monday it will be Joe Black and Billy Loes.

Browns And Angels In Practice Game

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. (AP)—The St. Louis Browns open their spring exhibition schedule this week with rookies and veterans listed among Manager Marty Marion's pitching selections.

Don Larsen and Tom LaSorda are the rookie picks for the Saturday game against Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League. Veterans Leroy (Satchel) Paige, Virgil Trucks and Harry (The Cat) Brecheen will face the Angels Sunday.

Pro Loop To End Its Side Of Case

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National Football League may wind up its side of the case today in the government's anti-trust suit.

In the trial, which started four weeks ago, the government contends the NFL has violated interstate Commerce provisions of the Sherman Anti-Trust Act by restricting radio and television coverage of its games.

Odessa Educator Is Lions Club Speaker

A veteran West-Texas educator looked back on 28 years of area progress Wednesday and dared the Lions Club to look that far into the future.

He was Murray H. Fly, president of Odessa Junior College and for 24 years head of the Odessa school system.

Asserting that his listeners would have thought him an idle dreamer had he dared 28 years ago to predict the progress Big Spring has made in that period, he ventured a few guesses at what may lie ahead.

One was that water from the Gulf of Mexico would be purified and pumped to West Texas and that some system would be devised whereby moisture might be taken from the air in this area.

Another was that population would increase and that institutions such as schools, colleges and churches would grow sharply. Still another was that atomic energy, harnessed to peaceful means,
would begin to open an era of industrial development away from the seaboard.

Greatest changes, he continued, would be in the social field where "we're going to learn to get along with each other—if we exist at all.
Moreover, people of the world will dwell without fear of war and will regard one another as their brother;
we will learn how to live, refusing to let anything anyone says about us hurt us; to regard old age as a luxury and pity those who die at 40 but are not buried until the age of 65."

Fly was introduced to the club
by W. C. Blankenship, Big Spring superintendent, as the "dean of West Texas educators—and indeed of Texas educators."

Jack Y. Smith, chairman of the Lions Club minstrel—April 10-11—issued an urgent appeal for any person, regardless of whether they were affiliated with the club, who can take part in the chorus rehearsal Thursday evening in the Settles ballroom.

Liquor Control Unit Convicts 7 In Month

Seven people arrested by local liquor control board officials were convicted during January, and their fines totaled $2,408.50.

One of those convicted was given a jail term. C. B. Arnold, local supervisor, stated that there were no dismissals or acquittals in the entire district.

Six cases were filed during January, he said. The extra convictions came from cases held over from December. Three non-criminal cases resulting in suspension of liquor licenses were also filed.

Fines and court costs on convictions in all of the liquor control board districts totaled $38,973.20. Total state-wide revenues for the month were $1,258,284.15.

Tight Rein Is Held By Police In Silver City

By BILL RICHARDSON
SILVER CITY, N. M. (AP)—Possibility of violence over a controversial movie was like a dying fire today as peace officers held a tight rein on this Southwestern mining area.

Townpeople of Silver City, Santa Rita, Hurley, Bayard and Central were on their good behavior under the watchful eyes of a strong force of local authorities bolstered by more than 30 state policemen.

But a new ember began glowing last night when more than 500 persons attended an overflow meeting in a Bayard union hall.

Local 890 of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter
Workers, producers of the movie
"Salt of the Earth," struck at its critics with a harsh resolution.

The movie has been labeled in Congress by Rep. Jackson (R-Calif.) as a "new weapon for Russia . . . Communist sponsored."
The union was ejected from the CIO because its leaders refused to swear they weren't Communists.

Paul Jarrico, Hollywood film writer and one of the movie's sponsors, called Jackson "an unmitigated liar" and asked him to "take off his cloak of congressional immunity and fight like a man."
About 150 residents of the area delivered an ultimatum to the union yesterday to get its movie crew "out of Grant County or go out in black boxes." The deadline was noon yesterday, and a whistle was to be blown at 4 p. m. signaling an attack if the warning was not heeded.

The whistle did not sound.
Instead, there was a "citizens' parade." For 2 1/2 hours protesters wound noisily through the towns over a route lined by police.

Leading the procession was a sound car blaring "we don't want communism; respect the law; no violence, but let's show them we don't like it."

It wound up with the announcement:
"Well, that's all, folks. I guess

252 Secure Drivers Licenses In January

Nearly 60 per cent of the people taking driving tests in the local area during January received drivers licenses.

Only 252 people got licenses, and 433 examinations were made, according to Felton Wilson, driving examiner. Wilson said the figures are about average.

Of the 167 failures, 121 failed either the written tests or eye examinations. The driving test was failed by 46.

Critics Rap Dulles For Clearing Of Career Diplomat, Vincent

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
WASHINGTON (AP)—Two vigorous critics of career diplomat John Carter Vincent have denounced the way Secretary of State Dulles cleared him of charges questioning his loyalty and approved his retirement.

"Merely a subterfuge," was the comment of Sen. McCarran (D-Nev.), chairman of the Internal Security Subcommittee when it questioned Vincent at length last year.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who once called Vincent a "Soviet espionage agent," had this to say:
"A pension is a reward for having served well. Under no circumstances should anyone like Vincent, having been rejected by the loyalty board, be entitled to any pension."

McCarthy's comment was aimed at Dulles' announcement yesterday that Vincent would be retired, effective March 31, at about $8,100 a year. Vincent is 52 and has spent 23 years with the State Department.

Dulles rejected a finding by the Civil Service Loyalty Review Board that there was "reasonable doubt" as to Vincent's loyalty. But he ruled Vincent failed to measure up as a foreign service officer.

McCarran, in accusing Dulles of "subterfuge," compared the secretary with his Democratic predecessor, saying:
"The fact that Mr. Dulles sees fit to follow in the footsteps of Mr. Acheson doesn't do much credit to him, nor does it change my view of the situation based on the facts as I know them."

Dulles' decision abandoned former Secretary Dean Acheson's uncompromising stand in defense of Vincent, now minister to Morocco and at one time a State Department specialist on China policy.
But it fell short of some demands that Vincent be fired outright. Some congressional Republicans for years have blamed Vincent in large part for the Communist entrapment of China. Complaints generally have been that Vincent's advice favored Chinese Communists over Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists.

Dulles' announcement, climax-ing a study of the record and two personal conferences with Vincent, made clear that the decision was a compromise.

City Builds Its Own Brooms For Streets

Big Spring housewives may go to the store for their brooms, but R. V. (Skeet) Foresyth, public works boss for the city, turns to the shop for the brooms his workers use.

Foresyth and his two street sweeper operators make their own brooms, and it's a man-size job. They make king-size brooms.

About every two weeks new sweeping attachments have to be fabricated for the city street sweeper. Operators usually devote a day or more to the task.

Two types of brooms have to be made in the shops at the city warehouse. Steel is used for "straw" in the round gutter broom which rotates along side the sweeping machine, knocking dirt and trash out of the gutters and into reach of the horizontally-rotating broom that kicks waste up into the machine's hopper.

Palmyra, a bamboo-like fibre, is used for the whisk part of the big horizontal broom. It takes two or three hours to make the palmyra broom, not counting the overnight soaking the straw must have.

The fibre comes in lengths of approximately 30 inches. After being soaked until it is pliable, the straw is doubled and bounid to core of the broom with steel cable. That's where some of the work comes in. The broom under manufacture is mounted on a jig, with the cylinder rotates while palmyra is folded around the cable and drawn into notches where it is "rooted."

A lot of elbow grease is required to bind the fibres securely. Steel brooms are made with a hammer and punch. Flat, wire-like strands of steel are driven through sections of a hub so that the steel protrudes downward to brush the street as the hub is rotated.

One of the steel gutter brooms is good for about 450 miles of sweeping. The palmyra broom lasts for about 150 miles.

The sweeper travels about 18 miles in an eight-hour day. Actually, it is operated only seven hours with the other 60 minutes devoted to cleaning and servicing of the machine.

The machine is kept in operation six days a week, plus work on two nights of each week. The dirt collector holds three cubic yards of waste. When it is full, it is dumped in central locations

In Japan

A-2C Bobby G. White, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. F. White, 500 Runnels, has just arrived in Japan. Pending regular assignment, he is at Yokohama. In the cavalry from 1947-49, Bobby re-entered service, this time in the Air Force, in August 1951 at Goodfellow Field at San Angelo. For the past 10 months he had been at Webb AFB here. Bobby attended elementary and high school in Big Spring before going into service originally.

It Costs Money To Educate Youngsters

Depending on how you figure it, your child's education costs from 12 to 22 1/2 cents per hour.

From any angle, that's a pretty economical baby sitting — and besides, the children are constantly exposed to the processes of learning.

There are a variety of ways in which you might compute the cost of education per child per hour in Big Spring schools. One is the over-all cost; another is the operational cost; another is the purely instructional cost. Then again, you may want to consider it on a scholastic census basis, on enrollment, or on average daily attendance.

Figured on the basis of average daily attendance, the cost per child for operation (excluding except for debt service) is $222.50 per year. This is according to budget estimates, which are generally higher than actual totals. Assuming that a child attends school six hours per day, five days a week for 36 weeks, the annual classroom hour total is 1,080. Divide the aggregate hours into the annual per pupil cost and you get an hourly charge of 20.5 cents.

Debt service accounts for $22.10 per year per pupil, another 20 cents which must be tacked on to the cost. Thus, the total for operations and debt service would be 22.5 cents per hour per child.

But if you want to compute the cost in terms of teacher charges, another set of figures is in order. The charge for teachers is $137 per pupil per year based on average daily attendance. This figures down to 13.3 cents per pupil.

There are 5,157 scholastics in the Big Spring district. If this is used as the base of calculation, the annual over-all cost per pupil per year is $194, or again 18.1 cents per hour.

Perhaps the fairest basis is that of enrollment. This is approximately 4,400 which would produce an annual per pupil cost of $205. Reduced to hourly charges, this would be 19 cents per pupil for operations, 1.9 cents for debt service, a total of 20.9 cents. The instructional charge on basis of enrollment is 12.2 cents per hour.

If you want to extend this conjecture a bit further, you can come up with some imposing digits. For instance, the per hour charge of operating the system is around $913. This would be 5,460 per day or around $27,400 per week. In 36 See YOUNGSTERS, Pg. 8, Col. 4

Broom Building

R. V. (Skeet) Foresyth, city street superintendent, inserts palmyra fibre, imported from the Orient, in hub of a broom for the city street sweeper. Another workman, not visible, rotates the cylindrical hub and cable holds the fibre in place. The broom has to be rebuilt about every two or three weeks. The work is done at the city warehouse.

Several Methods May Prevent Jail Time Before Court Trial

People in Big Spring and Howard County who are arrested for breaking the law have several methods by which they can keep jail time to a minimum—at least before court trial.

In the case of misdemeanors (drunkenness, disturbing the peace, etc.) the offender usually has to spend at least one night in jail. A notable exception comes with traffic tickets, where the offender is ordinarily told to appear in court.

Serious offenses necessitate a little time before release can be arranged. For example a person charged with aggravated assault has to stay in jail until bond is set.

However, all individuals—except those charged with capital offenses—are entitled to release before trial if certain conditions are met. The theory is innocence until proven guilty.

Usually the day after arrest, an individual is taken before the court for arraignment. Here he either pleads guilty or not guilty.

If a plea of guilty is entered, the presiding judge sets a fine without jury trial and releases the individual on payment. If the fine is not paid, the person must serve out $3 per day in jail.

If a plea of not guilty is made by the accused, the judge sets bond. When the man makes bond, he can be released from jail until his trial comes up in the next session of court. By posting bond an individual cuts out pre-trial jail time.

If bond is not made, the man must stay in jail until trial. The bond assures that the accused will be on hand for the trial, else the money is forfeited.

Individuals charged with such serious crimes as murder and rape can be held without bond being set. They are usually bound over to the grand jury by the Justice of the Peace and stay in jail until the grand jury meets.

However, the man's attorney can at any time sue out a writ of habeas corpus. Such a writ demands that the officials present evidence as to why the man is being held or release him.

A common offense in the immediate area is drunkenness and disturbance. Such offenses in the county are taken before the Justice Court. Usually the fine is $1 and cost of court.

Driving while intoxicated is also rather common in the area. Accused individuals spend a night in jail and then plead in County Court. Fines on guilty pleas are usually $100. When a plea of not guilty is made, bond is usually set at $500.

Occasionally those arrested appoint an agent and enter a plea of guilty in absentia. Such pleas are usually left with the sheriff, and the practice is common all over Texas in misdemeanor cases. It makes for more quick release.

However the sheriff calls the proper judge to find out what an individual's fine for a particular offense will be before release on an absentia plea. Then the man signs a plea of guilty, pays the sheriff the fine, and is released. The sheriff then appears in court for the accused.

Such practice sometimes causes a mixup in operation, and County Judge R. H. Weaver has asked that all cases within his jurisdiction be brought into court. He wants the man charged to be present on hearing.

It's a city court policy to allow police to accept "deposits" from persons in jail on such charges as drunkenness, disturbance, etc. The person who puts up such a deposit promises he will return when court is in session, but few do. Most defendants released on deposit usually prefer to forfeit the ante in lieu of facing the judge.

The usual deposit acceptable on a drunkenness charge is $15, but occasionally the amount is as high as $50. Size of the deposit is determined by the police sergeant on duty at the time.

In no instance is a "drunk" released from jail until he has sobered, however.

Police also are allowed to accept a few traffic fines without the ticket bearer having to appear in court. Nearly everyone pays off overtime parking tickets at the police window.

Out-of-town motorists who receive tickets for such violations as speeding, driving without license, prohibited turns, etc., are permitted to pay predesignated fines in cases where there is no doubt as to their guilt. But if the visitor wishes to plead not guilty, he must present his case in court.

The designated traffic fines police may collect—at the police station—are overtime parking, $1; non-hazardous parking in prohibited zones, $3; parking in theatre and hotel zones, $10; parking in alley, $5; driving without license, $25; speeding, up to 40 miles per hour, $10; up to 45 miles per hour, $15; and up to 50 miles per hour, $20. Persons who speed in excess of 50 mph must appear in court.

Other "standard" fines include U-turn, $5; prohibited left turn, $5; and no tail lights, $10.

Because of the lack of restaurant facilities at Gail it is suggested that visitors bring basket dinners with them. Animals exhibited will include steers, lambs and swine.

Riding

THE GRUB LINE
With Franklin Reynolds

It isn't every man who is happy, content, comfortable and who feels thoroughly secure with a "zippered" fly.

Now that khaki trouser season is about here there will be some old-timers walking the streets and shopping around for some trousers with the old-fashioned "button-up" arrangement.

Therefore, if the dealers who can furnish a good grade of khaki trousers with "button flies" will furnish the Grub Line Rider with their names and the brand of trousers they sell, he will publish their names in this column free of charge and for nothing, as a shopping aid and convenience to those sturdy old characters who have no faith in zippers at strategic points.

Fort Worth bankers when questioned this week about the credit needs of cattlemen, said that virtually no loans are being called except in instances of men who have normally operated in other businesses and who went into the cattle business when prices got strong in the last two years.

They said all regular cattlemen have not had any difficulty in renewing or extending loans, particularly where they are running cattle on their own land and where they have, over a period of years, established their ability as cowmen, and demonstrated their talent for weathering the expected bad years.

Texas bankers and Texas cattlemen generally have taken the position that they do not want any government emergency action, because they believe that without it the cattle business will solidly stabilize itself.

Everybody interested in soil improvement and conservation (and everybody should be) is invited to be present at the Settles Hotel at 8 p.m. Saturday to hear a member of the British nobility, Lady Eve Balfour, discuss soil saving as the international problem that it is.

The public is invited to this meeting which is being sponsored by the Big Spring Aitrus Club, since the speaker is a member of the Aitrusa organization in London.

Lady Balfour, who has written a book on soil building and conservation, and who has been a life-long student of the subject, takes the view that food is no better than the soil which produces it—and that a soil deficient in essential minerals produces food also deficient in these minerals, which in turn creates a mineral deficiency in the bodies of the persons relying upon that food for their nourishment.

Lady Balfour who has visited soil-improving projects over a great part of the world, is also combining her lecture tour of the United States with visits to such projects here and will visit several of them in Texas and other Southwestern States, as well as in other parts of the country.

Her talk should be of general interest to all.

Jimmy Greene, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce, and Loyal H. Walker, manager of the Agriculture and Livestock Department of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, have both announced, and almost at the same time, that they are trying to work out plans for a soil conservation conference in Big Spring, similar to the ones recently held at Eastland and Sweetwater.

As yet the plans are indefinite and no date has been set. The purpose of these conferences is to bring together supervisors of the soil conservation districts, bankers, Chamber of Commerce managers, and other business leaders from over a wide area to discuss their problems with reference to problems farmers and ranchers have created for themselves through their failure to observe approved conservation practices in their agricultural activities.

In connection with the meeting held at Eastland and Sweetwater some bankers expressed themselves as being of the opinion that a farmer or rancher with an overall, approved conservation plan is a much better risk than the farmer or rancher without such a program.

A number of Dawson County farmers are reported to be taking advantage of current low prices on grass seed—prices which are expected to go up as the season goes on and the demand becomes greater. Some of the Dawson Countians are pooling their needs, according to Jess Jenkins of the Lamesa unit of the SGS and are buying in 100-pound bags to get still better prices. Savings are running from 10 to 25 cents a pound.

Among those who have listed

Buy Skinner's Macaroni... it's enriched with health-giving vitamins that help build strong bodies and prevent fatigue.

their grass seed needs are: Raymond Orson, 50 pounds of Blue Panic; John Earles of O'Donnell, 50 pounds of Blue Panic; J. A. Edwards of Lamesa, 10 pounds of Blue Panic; J. E. Neely Jr., of the Woody Community, 10 pounds of Blue Panic, and D. V. Gode, whose farm is located three miles south and five miles west of Pumpkin Center, six pounds of Blue Panic.

Orson plans to plant 50 acres of Blue Panic on shallow, rocky soil strictly for seed production and soil improvement.

Blue Panic makes excellent grazing and may be used for hay or silage, to improve the fertility and texture of the soil and offers a good return from the sale of seed. Jenkins is advising the farmers in his SCO to pool their buying needs and make the most economical purchases, preferably in the 100-pound sacks.

This Saturday (March 7) is also the date of Borden County Junior Livestock Show at the old show barn in Gail.

County Agricultural Agent George Sealy says that among the stock to be exhibited will be steers, sheep and swine. The show is being produced and supervised by the Borden County Junior Livestock Association, an organization recently formed for the express purpose of promoting an annual Borden County show.

There will not be any announced sale in connection with this show. It will be an all-day affair and because of the shortage of restaurant facilities in Gail it is suggested that visitors bring along a basket dinner to be spread at noon.

A number from Big Spring and Howard County have expressed their intention to attend this show and encourage the Borden County 4-H Club boys and girls.

Pilot Blamed In Dallas Air Crash In '52

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) today blamed the failure of a Denton light-plane pilot to "exercise reasonable prudence" for the mid-air collision of his plane with an air liner near Love Field, Dallas, June 28, 1952.

The board said error in judgment on the part of the Love Field tower controller also contributed to the accident by misjudging the relative positions of the planes.

The planes collided at about 400 feet while both were approaching for a landing. The smaller plane fell in a spin and struck the ground and both occupants were killed. The other plane, an American Airlines DC6 coming from El Paso, landed safely. None of the 60 persons aboard were injured. Those killed were Paul W. Brower, the pilot, who had been commuting to Love Field daily for several months from his home in Denton, Tex., 33 miles away, and his passenger, Don E. Walker. Both were employees of Central Airlines at Love Field.

This observation has come from people who ought to know. Lt. Col. and Mrs. Forrest E. Mears, 1308 Pennsylvania, who have lived in both places.

The Mears have been here since last November. Col. Mears is commanding officer of the maintenance and supply group at Webb Air Force Base.

Anchorage is a city of about 25,000, according to the Mears.

"The people are just like those here," the Colonel said.

"They're friendly, hard working and not pretentious at all," his small, dark-haired wife chimed in.

"Alaska is definitely a man's world. Steak and potatoes are the staff of life up there," she added.

Mrs. Mears, who is employed as a secretary to a law firm here, found fresh fruits and vegetables extremely high in Anchorage.

"Although they grow a few things in the Matanuska Valley, most vegetables and fruits are flown in," she said.

Married seven years, the Mears have travelled extensively. They have two Boxers, Scotch and Jo.

"We may leave baggage behind, but we never leave the dogs when we move from one town to another," Mrs. Mears laughed.

A native of San Francisco, she lists cooking and reading her favorite pastimes.

Future trips to Anchorage, the banana belt of Alaska, are planned by the couple.

The reason? Mrs. Mears' mother has her own business in that city.

Now that she's working, Mrs. Mears has little time to devote to her cooking. She concentrates on quick and easy dishes. Here is her recipe for Chocolate Pie which meets her requirements.

CHOCOLATE PIE

6 plain chocolate bars
4 eggs
1 pint whipped cream
3 box or more vanilla wafers

METHOD:

Melt chocolate bars in top of a double boiler. Separate eggs and add yolks to mixture stir well. Cool, then fold in whipped cream and stiffly beaten egg whites. Line pan with wafers and pour chocolate mixture into pan. Cover with crushed wafers and place in refrigerator over night. Before pie is served top with additional whipped cream and garnish with cherries.

Lenten Biscuit Loaf Is A Meal In Itself

Tender, flaky biscuit crust enclosing a delicious mixture of tuna or salmon and your favorite vegetable, seasoned with cheese and onion—that's Lenten Biscuit Loaf. Topped with mushroom, vegetable, or white sauce, it's a meal in itself.

Although it looks fancy, it's really easy to make. Here's how you do it:

LENTEN BISCUIT LOAF

Preheat oven to 425 degrees (hot). Mix together:

1 cup tuna, flaked (about 6½-oz. can) (or ½ cups flaked salmon)
½ cup chopped onion
1 cup well drained cooked Lima beans or green beans or peas (frozen or canned)
½ to 1 tsp. salt
½ tsp. pepper
1 cup diced American cheese
2 tsp. chopped pimiento, if desired

Let stand while making biscuit dough.

Sift together:

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. double-action baking powder
1 tsp. salt.

Pour into one measuring cup (but don't stir together):

1½ cup cooking (salad) oil such as Wesson
2-3 cup milk

Then pour all at once into the flour. Stir with fork until mixture cleans sides of bowl and rounds up into a ball. Smooth by kneading dough about 10 times without additional flour.

Roll out between waxed papers into a rectangle 10x12-in. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Spread filling down center of dough, covering space about 4-in. wide. Along each side, make 7 cuts about 5-in. long. This makes a fringe of 8 strips along each side. Starting at the top, bring the first two opposite strips up over the filling, sealing ends by pinching together. Continue to cross the opposite strips over filling.

Bake 20 to 25 minutes in hot oven (425 degrees). Serve immediately with your favorite mushroom, vegetable or white sauce.

HINT: Be sure to seal dough together well so filling won't spill out.

With the Biscuit Loaf as the main dish, you might serve also a crisp green salad. For dessert, perhaps strawberries and cream with cookies. Or, tender, pink baked rhubarb would be seasonable.

French Custard

3 eggs
3 cups milk
1-3 cup granulated sugar
dash salt
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ cup sugar, additional

Beat the eggs, combine with milk, sugar, salt, and vanilla. Carmelize the additional sugar by melting in a heavy iron frying pan over low heat. Coat the custard cups with his, turning them to distribute the melted sugar, and pour in the custard mixture. Place custard cups in a pan of hot water and bake 30 minutes in 350 degree oven.

Carrot Pudding

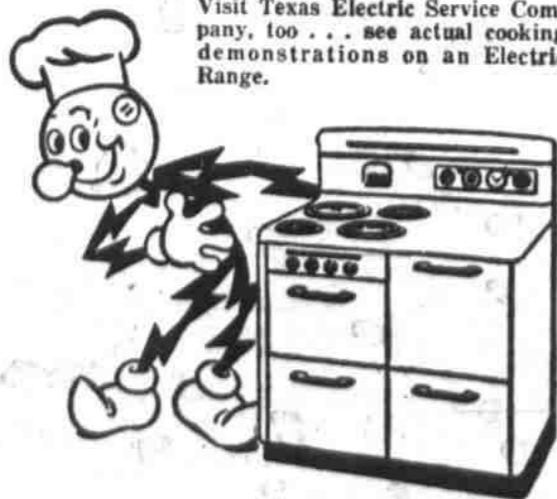

½ cup shortening
½ cup brown sugar
1 tablespoon water or cream
2 cups grated carrots
1½ cups flour
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Cream shortening and brown sugar. Add liquid and carrots. Add sifted dry ingredients. Pour into a greased mold and bake 1 hour at 350 degrees.

Season Baked Beans With Lemon, Bacon

Nine out of ten homemakers, we're sure, use canned baked beans; but we wonder if one out of ten knows what wonderful flavor-magic can be worked with this favorite American food.

Baked beans — especially if they're over-baked — are downright delicious just as they come from the can. We're not denying this in the least; but have you every tried canned baked beans seasoned with lemon and bits of bacon? Tangy Baked Beans they're called.

TANGY BAKED BEANS

4 strips bacon
2 16-ounce cans oven-baked beans in tomato sauce
2 teaspoons lemon rind
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Heat oven to 375 F. (moderately hot). Saute' bacon; break into small pieces. Combine bacon, 2 tablespoons bacon drippings, and remaining ingredients in a 1-quart casserole. Garnish with lemon slices and whole cloves. Bake at 375 F. for 25 minutes or until hot. Makes 6 servings.

Variation: Omit bacon and bacon drippings; add 2 tablespoons melted butter. Bake in 1-quart casserole. Orange may be used in place of lemon throughout the recipe.

CASSOULET

½ pound small link sausages
2 tablespoons chopped onions
1-3 cup water
½ bay leaf
½ peeled clove garlic
½ cup Heinz Chili Sauce

1 16-ounce can oven-baked beans with pork and tomato sauce or oven-baked beans with tomato sauce.

Heat oven to 350 F. (moderate). Saute' sausages in skillet until brown. Drain off excess fat. Add onions and brown lightly. Add water, bay leaf and garlic; simmer, uncovered, 10 minutes. Remove bay leaf and garlic. Add chili sauce and beans; mix well. Turn into 1-quart casserole. Bake at 350 F. for 40 minutes or until beans are hot.

For a protein-packed, taste-tempting main dish, try Baked Beans, Dairy Style. The sharper the cheese, the better the dish.

BAKED BEANS, DAIRY STYLE

2 16-ounce cans oven-baked beans in tomato sauce, with pork and tomato sauce, or Boston Style
½ cup thick sour cream
1½ cups grated process sharp cheese

Heat oven to 350 F. (moderate). Combine beans, sour cream and 1 cup cheese. Pour into ¼ quart casserole. Sprinkle remaining ¼ cup cheese over top of beans. Bake at 350 F. for 40 minutes or until beans are hot and cheese is melted. Makes 6 servings.

Lemon Sherbert

½ cup top milk or light cream
¼ cup sugar
dash of salt
1 cup water
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup sugar

2 stiffly beaten egg whites
Combine sugar, salt and water; cook 5 minutes. Cook. Add top milk or light cream and lemon juice. Freeze firm. Gradually add ¼ cup sugar to egg whites beating until stiff and sugar is dissolved. Break frozen mixture into chunks with wooden spoon. Turn into chilled bowl. Beat fluffy smooth with electric or rotary beater. Fold in egg white mixture. Return to cold tray and freeze.

Colorful Salad

Grated Cheddar or American cheese and golden pineapple makes a colorful, hearty salad perfect for spring appetites. For each serving, arrange two pineapple slices or six or seven pineapple chunks on a bed of salad greens. Then top with a feathery mound of grated cheese. Serve with mayonnaise if desired.

Chocolate Pudding

½ pound chocolate, grated
1 cup milk
6 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
2 envelopes plain gelatine
¼ cup cold water
6 egg whites
vanilla

Dissolve chocolate in milk and stir in saucapan on stove until smooth and thick. Beat egg yolks with sugar until spongy and add chocolate. Dissolve gelatin in cold water. Beat egg whites stiff, add to eggs and chocolate then stir in gelatin. Mix well. Flavor with vanilla. Put in mold and set in ice box until ready to serve.

Date Custard

1 tablespoon gelatin
¼ cup water
2 cups milk
2 eggs
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup dates
¼ cup pecans

Soak gelatin in water. Scald milk. Beat eggs and sugar. Add milk and gelatin. Cook until mixture coats spoon. Add vanilla and pour while hot over dates and nuts. Place in sherbert cups and put in refrigerator when cool. Serve with cream.

Flavorful Innovation

Meat balls with hearts of gold are a flavorful innovation for the supper table. Drain fragrant pineapple tidbits and form the meat mixture into balls around each juicy piece of fruit. Brown in hot shortening as usual, then add a can of undiluted bouillon or consommé and simmer for about 30 minutes longer. Thicken drippings left for gravy if desired and serve with noodles.

Strawberry Sherbert

3 cups sugar
4 cups water
1 cup lemon juice
1 cup orange juice
2 cups mashed strawberries
1 cup milk

Dissolve 2½ cups sugar in water. Add juices and crushed berries. When ready to freeze, add 4 cups milk in which remainder of sugar has been dissolved. Makes 3 quarts.

Squash Casserole

Mashed boiled squash
Salt and pepper to taste
¼ cup butter
½ cup bread or cracker crumbs
2 teaspoons minced onion
Boil squash. Drain and wash. Add butter, seasoning, onion, and crumbs. Mix well. Place in greased casserole and dot with crumbs. Bake in moderate oven till slightly browned.

'Newcomer With A Pedigree'

John Taylor, of Taylor Implement Company, Big Spring, points out to a customer some of the features of the 1953 John Deere "60" tractor. Engineering advancements of the tractor include duplex carburetion, quick-change wheel tread, new effortless steering, "power-trol" hydraulic system, and new "live" power takeoff shaft that operates independently of the transmission clutch. The new tractor may be seen in the Taylor display rooms, Lamesa Highway.

City Plumbing Is Offering A Special Plan

A special bathroom remodeling plan is now being offered by City Plumbing Company, located at 1710 Gregg Street.

Raymond Dyer, owner and manager, states that complete new bathroom fixtures can be installed on term payment arrangement. Old plumbing fixtures can be removed and new fixtures installed in a minimum of time, he said. Latest style lavatories, bathtubs and closets will be installed to match.

American Standard, Kohler and Eljer brands are in stock, and the customer can have his pick, Dyer said. All colors are available.

In addition to bathroom facilities, kitchen plumbing work can also be installed on the loan arrangement. Dyer said. Payments are as low as $20 per month, with no money down.

Work is done on both a contract and individual basis. The company is open from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. daily except Saturday, when closing time is 12 noon.

The loan terms for remodeling of plumbing facilities is through ABC, Dyer said. He claims it is the lowest rate of interest on any loan pertaining to plumbing work — 5 per cent.

All new plumbing fixtures in stock at City Plumbing are designed for modern living. They have smart fittings, and Dyer claims trouble-free performance of lasting quality.

Bathtubs have wide rim seats for extra convenience, he said, plus low sides for accessibility. All lavatories have ample ledge space and deep anti-splash rims. Fixtures are built of porcelain enameled steel or china, he added.

All the equipment is moderately priced, Dyer said. He guarantees it against manufacturing defects and insures rapid, efficient installation.

Parliament Sets Vote

BONN, Germany (AP)—The West German Parliament will take a final vote on ratification of the European Army Treaty March 19, it was officially announced today.

Hamilton Provides Area With All-Around Service

All-around aerial service is afforded residents of the Big Spring area by Cecil Hamilton, operator of Hamilton Flying Service. Flight training, including private, commercial and instrument license prerequisites, charter plane service, and aircraft sales are provided by Hamilton, who operates out of Hamilton Field, or municipal airport.

A veteran airman, Hamilton has trained scores of persons to fly light planes. And in recent years, since he installed a Link trainer and other specialized equipment, he has instructed numerous fliers in passage of examinations for instrument flying and commercial pilot's licenses.

Glasses always are arranged to suit the schedules of students who, usually, must spend the usual amount of time earning a living. For example, Hamilton may schedule training for early-morning or late-afternoon hours, so that the student may take his lessons before or after regular work hours.

The training also may be concentrated in a few weeks or spread over a longer period, as the student-pilot prefers.

Becoming increasingly popular is Hamilton's charter service. Per-

Motor Scooters Can Handle Many Tasks

Just as motor trucks have replaced the heavy teams and wagons of the earlier days, so has the modern motor scooter eliminated the need for the use of heavier motor vehicles for lighter transportation problems.

A visitor to the Cushman Scooter Sales at 305 Nolan will be surprised to learn how many jobs now being done by a truck or the family car can be done with much greater convenience and economy with a Cushman Motor Scooter, powered with the famous Cushman "Husky" engine.

Does "up to 90 miles (to and from school, or to or from work; for instance) to a gallon of gasoline" sound good to you? Doesn't it sound even better when you consider the traffic and parking problems that are done away with by the modern Cushman Motor Scooter?

The Cushman Motor Scooter, which may be seen at the Cushman Scooter Sales at 305 Nolan Street in Big Spring, comes in a number of models with engines of three horsepower, four horsepower and even five horsepower, if you prefer that much or have some particular need for it.

More and more, parents are finding it much more convenient and economical to provide the son or daughter with a Cushman Scooter for school transportation than taking them and then going back after them in the family car. More and more workers are finding that the Cushman Scooter completely solves the problem of getting to the job and back home again. More and more stores are finding the Cushman Scooter the ideal means of delivering smaller parcels. Some farmers are using Cushman Scooters for getting around over their places or for quick runs to the store or into town, and reports are even drifting in, and from reliable sources, that some stockmen, such as dairymen, are using Cushman Scooters for rounding up the cows. Many cities are buying them for the use of traffic officers, parking meter service, fire inspectors, park patrol and other purposes.

In fact, a visit to Cushman Scooter Sales at 305 Nolan will disclose that there is a Cushman Scooter of some type for many, many transportation needs. In many places housewives are using them on their shopping trips. Literally, the Cushman Scooter is daily filling hundreds of transportation needs with greater facility and less expense, traffic trouble and parking problems than any other means of transportation yet devised.

They're just as handy as yesterday's saddle horse! Maybe even more so — they don't have to be caught up and saddled every trip, and the feed bill is so low as to hardly be counted.

They're safe. They're reliable. They're comparatively low in cost, and as operating cost — how about up to 90 miles on a gallon of gasoline? They come with and without side cars, and then there's the Cushman "Package Truckster" model that is ideally constructed for light delivery service. They're all exceptionally easy to operate, readily maneuverable, powerful, fast enough and safe. And remember — half a century of sound engineering skill has gone into the construction of the Cushman "Husky" engine, especially designed for motor vehicle service. High compression gives this dependable, sturdy engine unusual economy in fuel consumption. These factors mean extra power, reliable and economical operation, and a long trouble-free life for Cushman Motor Scooters.

Visit the Cushman Scooter Sales and see for yourself. And Cushman Scooter Sales at 305 Nolan isn't just the place where these Scooters are sold. Cushman Scooter Sales also maintains a complete service department.

If you will just visit this place of business and discuss the Cushman Motor Scooter you will quickly realize that you have a transportation problem that one of these Scooters will solve at a considerable saving in both money and time to you.

Margin Needed For Handling Of Air Mail

The Postoffice must allow for a margin of 23 minutes between the locking of air mail pouches and the departure of planes, Postmaster Nat Shick explains in announcing new air mail schedules.

There are two air mail arrivals and departures both east and west daily.

The pouch is locked at 8:40 a. m., for the plane departing for the west at 9:12 a. m., and the pouch is locked at 3:55 p. m. for the plane departing for the west at 4:18 p. m.

The first eastbound pouch is locked at 1 p. m., for the plane departing at 1:23 p. m., and the second daily eastbound pouch is locked at 5:30 p. m. for the plane departing at 5:53 p. m.

Shick says that the changes in air mail schedules sets arrival time of air mail at Webb Air Force Base, from the east at 9:09 a. m., and at 4:15 p. m., and from the west at 1:20 p. m. and 5:50 p. m. This arriving mail, he points out, is not received at the Big Spring Postoffice until about 30 minutes after the arrival of the plane. The scheduled stay of the planes in Big Spring is three minutes.

No change has been made in the times of arrival and departure of train and truck mail, Shick says.

The first westbound train pouch is closed at 5:30 a. m., for T&P Train No. 7 which arrives here at 5:55 a. m. and departs at 6:15 a. m. The second westbound train pouch is locked at 3:05 p. m. for train No. 1 which arrives at 3:35 p. m. and departs at 3:45 p. m.

Pouches containing mail for points to the east are locked at 9 a. m. for train No. 2 which arrives at 9:25 a. m. and departs at 9:40 a. m., while other eastbound pouches carried by train No. 6 which arrives at 12:10 a. m. and departs at 12:30 a. m. are locked out at the Postoffice at 10 p. m.

Mail for the truck which departs at 9:30 a. m. for Colorado City, Sweetwater, Abilene and points east is locked out at 9:15 a. m., while mail for points to the north which is transported by a truck departing at 6 a. m. is put aboard that truck shortly after 5:30 a. m.

This truck which transports mail between Big Spring and Lubbock makes stops at Ackerly, Lamesa, Tahoka, O'Donnell and then Lubbock. It returns over the same route to Big Spring arriving here at 8:50 p. m.

The truck from Abilene returns to Big Spring at 6:15 p. m.

All Star Route and RFD carriers leave the Big Spring Postoffice at 9:30 a. m.

News From Webb Air Force Base By A-2C T. A. HILL

The 1953 Red Cross campaign fund opened with a bang Saturday at Webb. Over $1,000 was collected on that day alone.

"Response, so far, has been very gratifying," said Major W. W. Conner, base project officer. "But," he added, "we must confine in this same spirit if we expect to fill our quota of $1,750."

Since its opening, the Red Cross field office at Webb has handled over 540 cases for its Air Force personnel.

Officials at Webb urged all base personnel to lend their utmost support to the 1953 campaign. Contributions are being solicited by squadron level project officers.

According to Major Conner, the fund drive will continue at Webb through April 1.

weeks of school you are right at the $900,000 budget.

The fly in the ointment of all such flights of the pencil as these is simply that schooling can't be reduced to six hours a day and five days a week. Teachers are at work before and long after hours. So are custodians and supervisors and administrators, and part of the staff goes right on working the year around, school or no school.

Still, it may be comforting to know — if you have no concern other than your pocketbook — that you can stake Junior out for a maximum of 2 1/2 cents an hour in school.

Students Fight Police

ATHENS (AP) — Three thousand University of Athens students fought a two-hour battle with police today in demonstrating for independence of Cyprus from the British. Twenty persons were injured. Authorities said the disorder was Communist-led.

MISSION

Five main topics will be discussed at the Catholic Mission to be held on base March 16 through 20 in the Academic Building auditorium.

Father Thomas C. Moore of the Redemptorist order, who will conduct the five day devotion, will cover these points in each of the five sermons to be given nightly.

A social has been planned following Friday's closing mission service.

OFFICERS WIVES CLUB

The Officers Wives Club schedules a "mad-hat parade" today that will be held at the Officer's Dining Hall.

Hats worn in the parade are original concoctions made by the wearer at no cost.

According to Mrs. William S. Smallwood Jr., club president, as of March 1, all officer's wives will automatically become members of the club unless they submit a letter of resignation to the club secretary, Box 9, Webb AFB. It was also announced that in the future the club will charge no initiation fee.

PROMOTIONS

In an additional February promotion quota, 96 Airmen received rank boosts.

The breakdown in rank includes: five technical sergeants, 18 staff sergeants, 48 airman first class and 25 airman second class.

LIBRARY

The base library's collection continues to grow by leaps and bounds as new books are being processed daily on all subjects... both technical and non-technical.

The majority of these books have been ordered to aid personnel who are taking college courses, both at the local Jr. College plant and through USAFI.

ROA

The newly organized Webb AFB Big Spring chapter of the Reserve Officers Association will continue its organizational plans in an important session March 12.

Depending upon receipt of the state charter, the embryo ROA unit plans to hold an election of officers at the Thursday meeting.

Reservists can obtain the organizational application blanks from Lt. Dennis E. McClendon, Public Information Officer, Naval Reservists should call John Hardy, principal of Washington Elementary School, and Army Reservists can see A. J. Prager at his store for membership blanks.
