INTENT IS STRESSED

Coplon Espionage Case Goes To Jury

WASHINGTON, June 29. — The Judith Coplon espionage case went to a federal court jury at 9:55 a. m. EST (8:55 CST today). The jury retired to decide the fate of the former Justice Department worker after listening to instructions by Federal Judge Albert L. Reeves on points of law.

The judge spoke for 25 minutes, repeatedly stressing that the defendant's intent was a major point for the jury's consideration.

Mrs. Hiss Denies Typing Papers

NEW YORK, June 29. — Mrs. Priscilla Hiss today denied she ever typed summaries of State Department documents for transmission to Russian agents.

As she took the witness stand for a second day at the perjury trial of her husband, Alger, Defense Counsel Lloyd Paul Stryker asked a series of questions about the role she might have played in the alleged transfer of documents.

Whittaker Chambers, self-styled courier for a prewar Soviet spy ring, charged that she typed copies of papers which Hiss brought home as a State Department official.

Mrs. Hiss denied she had ever handed over any of the government's 47 exhibits, including four handwritten notes, to Chambers.

Then Stryker asked: "Did you ever agree in the summer of 1937 to make typed copies of summaries of State Department documents for the purpose of transferring them to Mr. Chambers?"

"No, Mr. Stryker," she replied clearly. "I did not."

Stryker: "Did your husband ever ask you to do this?"

Mrs. Hiss: "No, Mr. Stryker."

Mrs. Hiss contradicted Mrs. Chambers on a number of domestic details concerning the Washington homes of the Hisses—the colors of walls, the locations of rooms.

She denied that Mrs. Chambers had made two visits to the 30th St. N. W. house or that a close, social relationship existed between the two families.

Other champions selected by judges were Helen Hightower, Garden City, champion cowgirl; Perry Walker, champion Howard county cowboy; and Rosemary Rice, champion Howard county cowgirl.

The champions received several special awards in addition to regular prizes posted by the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsor of the rodeo.

Perry Walker teamed with Rosemary Rice to win the ribbon roping with a time of 24 seconds. Janelle McGilvray, Mertzon, posted an average of 23 seconds to gain honors in the girls' clover leaf race.

Roy Cagle, Asheville, N. C., was elected president of the National Association of American Business Clubs this morning, as convention delegates moved into their final session. Cagle, who succeeds F. H. (Doc) Bachman, Champaign, Ill., was elected unanimously after W. D. (Pete) Green and Douglass Orme, both of Big Spring, had withdrawn. Green withdrew immediately after his name was submitted by the nominations committee Monday afternoon, and Orme, who was nominated on the floor, Tuesday, asked that his name be deleted this morning.

Others officers named are Lee Kiser, Enid, Okla., first vice-president, and Lyle Smith, Huntington, W. Va., second vice-president.

Kiser and Smith succeed Dr. Gaines E. Sewell, Savannah, Ga., and Dr. William E. Caffrey, Newark, N. J., respectively.

Winners of seven club awards and one individual award were announced this morning by the national awards committee.

The Lubbock ABC chapter copped the Lefty Franks trophy, while the Dayton trophy went to Greenville, S. C., and the Earl H. Miller Memorial trophy to Trenton, N. J., the Smitty membership trophy to Decatur, Ill., the Walter Howland membership percentage trophy to Clovis, N. M., the Charles Mitchell "Big Hat" trophy to Enid, Okla., and the convention marathon trophy to Savannah, Ga.

W. W. Claire, Jr., of Dallas, was named winner of the individual "Big Hat" award. Claire personally signed seven new members for the Dallas ABC club during the past year.

The national convention site committee was expected to name the host city for the 1950 convention at this afternoon's closing session.

The new officers were to be installed at a joint luncheon attended by delegates and their wives in the Settles today.

The new national president was to preside at the closing business session this afternoon in the Municipal auditorium.

The convention will close tonight with the annual president's ball in the Settles hotel ballroom.

Morrison Approved As City Attorney At Meeting Tuesday

Appointment of Walton Morrison as city attorney was approved by city officials meeting Tuesday.

Morrison's appointment came after resignation of Charlie Sullivan, recently appointed judge of the new 118th judicial district, was accepted by commissioners. Morrison, Howard county judge on two previous occasions, is to assume duties of the office July 1.

Sullivan was appointed first judge of the 118th district on June 8 by Governor Beauford Jester.

The new district, made up of Howard, Martin, and Glasscock counties, was created when the governor signed a measure on June 7 which had been introduced to the Legislature by Rep. R. E. "Peppy" Blount.

He will become judge of the district Oct. 6 when the law creating the office goes into effect.

"As long as I continue to take part in legal matters, either for the city or privately, the more cases I will be disqualified to hear when I become judge," the attorney stated. "After careful study I decided that it would be to the best interest of all concerned for me to submit my resignation, effective July 1."

The low pressure in the Scurry-Gregg section is believed caused by small lines in that area. Two-inch lines branching off a six-inch main on 16th serve for distribution at present.

Sentiment favoring improvement was expressed when it was learned that the city owned pipe and some money in the water works improvement fund. The city manager is to make a thorough study of the situation.

Diplomat From Vatican Halted By Czech Police

PRAGUE, June 29. — A diplomatic source said today Czechoslovakian police had forcibly entered the automobile of a Vatican diplomatic representative of Kosice, in Slovakia.

The informant, close to Vatican representatives here, said the incident occurred last night. The source described the police action as "rude and violent" and said a protest had been lodged with the foreign ministry against "this violation of the rights of a diplomat."

(An informed source in Vatican City said the Vatican expects its diplomatic links with Prague to be severed soon by the Czechoslovakian government.)

The reported police interference with the Vatican representative highlighted another day in the spreading strife between the Roman Catholic Church and the state.

According to church sources, Czechoslovakia's Communist rulers have begun censoring the sermons of Catholic bishops and imposing a gag on those who attempt to criticize the government.

The action apparently foreshadowed a campaign of restriction against services inside Catholic churches. Those services thus far have been relatively free.

Rumors persisted in Prague that Archbishop Josef Beran, the nation's primate, had been formally arrested. The archbishop failed to appear at a service for ordination of new priests, but an informed source said Beran had not planned to participate and that he still was in his palace under a police surveillance which was imposed two weeks ago.

Whitney Will Probe Low Water Pressure In Some City Areas

City Manager H. W. Whitney was authorized by commissioners Tuesday to investigate causes and possible correction of low water pressure in certain residential areas.

Whitney is to make a survey of the area between 13th and 19th streets on Gregg and Scurry and estimate the cost to alleviate the trouble there. A check is to be made of valves in other sections as a possible cause for low pressure.

"A valve on the main line in Washington Place was found crushed by construction equipment last week," Whitney stated. "Replacement of the valve restored pressure to a number of houses there. It is possible that similar conditions exist elsewhere."

The low pressure in the Scurry-Gregg section is believed caused by small lines in that area. Two-inch lines branching off a six-inch main on 16th serve for distribution at present.

Sentiment favoring improvement was expressed when it was learned that the city owned pipe and some money in the water works improvement fund. The city manager is to make a thorough study of the situation.

Socialite Given Life In Murder

GREENVILLE, Miss., June 29. — Socialite Mrs. John Dickins was found guilty of the Rose Shears murder of her mother today.

The verdict made mandatory a sentence of life imprisonment. Within five minutes after the verdict was returned Circuit Court Judge Arthur Jordan passed the sentence.

Mrs. Dickins stood with her hands clasped, starting sightlessly into space. She displayed no emotion.

When the verdict was read her broad shouldered husband seemed dazed.

The defense immediately made plans for an appeal.

The case went to the jury last night after a week's trial.

Housing Bill Is Hotly Attacked As Victory Seen

Expect Measure To Pass Today Despite GOP Opposition

BULLETIN WASHINGTON, June 29. — The whole public housing section was knocked out of the administration's vast housing bill today—subject to a later vote.

WASHINGTON, June 29. (P)—Republicans launched another major assault on President Truman's big housing bill today but administration Democrats confidently held to their forecast of victory by nightfall.

The GOP proposal would prevent the government from providing homes for low income families costing more than most people whose house themselves can afford.

Rep. Halleck (R-Ind) said the administration bill would allow costs running as high as $12,000 to $15,000 per dwelling unit in publicly-owned housing with subsidized rents. He announced he would offer an amendment omitting the average cost to $8,465 per unit.

He said he has a two-fold objective.

To make sure that building expenses are as economical as possible; and 2 to prevent the federal government from financing publicly owned dwelling units for low-income families of a type most people buying their own homes cannot afford.

Under the housing bill, the government would undertake slum clearance and public housing, and provide farm housing aids.

Administration forces cleared a major barrier yesterday when the House killed, 168 to 130, an amendment that would have prevented racial segregation in publicly-owned housing projects.

A tie vote narrowly defeated a "home rule" amendment that would have barred public housing in any city unless voters there first approved it in a referendum.

Compared with fiscal 1948, when higher tax rates were in effect most of the year, current withholding rates appeared to be off about $1,500,000,000.

Against this, the excise or sales taxes collected by the federal government were running slightly above last year—the difference is about $50 million—and only moderately—about $160 million—below the January estimate.

Corporation income taxes were rolling in at a record peacetime rate—but only because corporations are paying tax on income for boomtime 1948 instead of for the current year, as individuals are.

Lewis Proposal Studied Further

WHITE SULPHUR SPRING, W. Va., June 29. — John L. Lewis' proposal to keep his soft coal mines working in return for a three-day limit on the work week was reported up for further consideration here today.

Operators of bituminous mines in the northern and western sections of the nation, to whom Lewis made the proposal, rejected it yesterday. They said they feared it would lay them open to prosecution under the anti-trust laws.

But Lewis apparently was unwilling to accept the operators' refusal as a final answer. His position is reported to be that some way to work out a limitation of the work week must be found.

AFL Demands Killing Of Altered Labor Measure

Government's Income To Hit Five-Year Low

Revenue Receipts Slated To Decline About A Billion

WASHINGTON, June 29. (P)—The government's income, dragged down by the 1948 income tax cut and the recent economic downturn, will hit a five-year low for the 12-month period ending tomorrow.

Revenue receipts will fall about a billion dollars—or a little more—below the $39,580,000,000 forecast by the administration last January, government experts said today.

Not since fiscal 1944 has the government's income dropped below $16 billion.

A drop in collection of personal income taxes, resulting from the tax cut in the spring of 1948, was the chief cause of the decline.

Another factor was worker layoffs.

While returns were not yet in for the final week of the fiscal year, it appeared withholding receipts would fall about five per cent under administration estimates, accounting for $500 million—about half the difference between the estimated income and actual income.

Compared with fiscal 1948, when higher tax rates were in effect most of the year, current withholding rates appeared to be off about $1,500,000,000.

Against this, the excise or sales taxes collected by the federal government were running slightly above last year—the difference is about $50 million—and only moderately—about $160 million—below the January estimate.

Food Price Index Advances One Cent

NEW YORK, June 29. — The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index this week advanced one cent from the previous week to $5.69.

This was 20.3 per cent below the year-ago figure of $7.14. The index represents the total wholesale cost of a pound each of 31 foods in general use.

There was a growing movement in the House today to move the final adjournment date up to Saturday.

The Senate adopted a conference committee report on the bill to give Texas a new plan of handling juvenile delinquency. This sent the measure to the governor.

The House-born plan to provide for buildings was incorporated in a proposed constitutional amendment under which the money would be drawn gradually over a 5-year period from general revenue and special license and fee funds.

The Senate has approved a bond issue proposal.

New Building Plan Is Pushed In State House

AUSTIN, June 29. — Backers of a proposal to raise approximately $23 million for new state buildings planned today to push it toward House passage.

The Legislature yesterday voted money bills putting the state government approximately $17 million in the red.

The state faced this possible deficit without provision for hospital and college buildings, slashed from the finally-approved appropriations bills.

What to do about the deficit was the major job for the waning days of the 51st Legislature. The Legislature voted yesterday to end the session July 6.

There was a growing movement in the House today to move the final adjournment date up to Saturday.

The Senate adopted a conference committee report on the bill to give Texas a new plan of handling juvenile delinquency. This sent the measure to the governor.

Dock Pay Hike Recommended

HONOLULU, June 29. — Raise pay of CIO stevedores 14 cents an hour. That was the recommendation today of a fact-finding board for ending Hawaii's 60-day longshore strike.

A spokesman for the 2,000 stevedores of the International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union didn't go for it. Operators of the islands' seven stevedoring firms haven't said whether they do or not.

Neither is bound to accept the recommendations. The board said it "must rely on public opinion to convince the parties, if they are not inclined to accept the recommendations, that it offers a basis for settlement which under all the circumstances can be accepted by them as a service to the community."

The ILWU wants a raise of 32 cents. The present scale is $1.40 an hour. That would shove the pay up to where it used to be—10 cents under the Pacific Coast scale.

Employers at first offered 12 cents. They withdrew the offer when Gov. Ingram M. Stainback set up the five-man board.

Centennial Carnival In City Authorized

Delegations from the Centennial association and the chamber of commerce requesting permission to operate a carnival in the city park and city cooperation in the clean-up movement, opened the program for the city commission meeting Tuesday.

Commissioners granted the Centennial group right to set up a carnival immediately west of the swimming pool for three days during the October Centennial celebration. Mayor G. W. Dabney promised "cooperation of the city in any clean-up campaign," stating that the movement should be maintained on a permanent basis.

Fritz Wehner, speaking for the special clean-up committee of the chamber of commerce, had asked for "strict enforcement of the covered garbage can ordinance" and requested inspection "to uncover violators of other health laws."

Other matters considered by the commission resulted in passage of the Airport zoning ordinance regulating height of structures in approach, turning, and landing zones of the municipal field; denial of the request to permit advertising on parking meters "until such time as the civic committee of the chamber of commerce shall approve the practice;" and approval of plumber's bond for W. E. Prichard.

Request from Army Engineers for proposal on water and sewer service at veteran's hospital is to be delayed until further study may be made. Mayor Dabney was authorized to sign revised lease contract with Simon Terrazas increasing lease from $180 to $285 per year.

City Manager H. W. Whitney was instructed to deny the request of National Guard for lowered rental on the Airport building and to "ascertain if the Civil Aeronautics Authority would pay for changes" it desires in Airport Terminal building now under construction at the municipal airport.

Drive To Repeal T-H Abandoned For This Session

WASHINGTON, June 29. The AFL asked today that the Senate kill the administration's labor bill, now amended to embrace the Taft-Hartley Law's injunction powers.

The move meant abandoning for this session of Congress the labor-Truman Democrats drive to repeal the T-H Law.

AFL President William Green wrote Sen. Lucas of Illinois, the Democratic leader, that the action of the Senate in adding "national emergency" injunction authority to that bill makes it "absolutely unacceptable."

CIO officials, stunned by yesterday's Senate action, already had resigned themselves to keeping the Taft-Hartley Act for two more years.

Arthur Goldberg, CIO general counsel, told a reporter "we might as well face the fact that we have the Taft-Hartley Act until after the 1950 elections."

Green said a meeting of AFL union representatives this morning unanimously approved a move by Lucas to bring a speedy end to the Senate labor debate.

"We feel that amendments designed to make the Taft bill more palatable would be useless and a waste of time," Green wrote Lucas.

He said he hoped the Senate would go ahead and vote on other proposals by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) and then defeat the bill.

Taft put through the "national emergency" injunctions feature by a 50-40 vote yesterday.

RIBBON RAMBLINGS By Mildred Young

Dr. Curt Sachs of New York University says today's popular music lacks originality. Maybe so, but it seems to us that it must have originality or something because if we put the type of songs on paper which have made hits, they would never sell for us.

Anyway, Dr. Sachs says that "All song writers use the same old cliches over and over again."

But, the 67-year-old music historian added that the fault doesn't lie completely with the song writers.

"People prefer what's familiar because it's easier," he said. "Song writers cater to that common human preference."

Dr. Sachs prefers to call popular music, "commercial music" because it's written, he said, solely to make money.

Dr. Sachs concedes that even with its "low level," popular music will be recorded by the historians, including himself.

"History can't be completely recorded without recording the history of all music, because music is one of the most important fields of human activity," he said.

Dr. Sachs' comments remind us that most of the people who complain about the quality of music, literature and other fields of entertainment, are also encouraging that quality.

It is true that most music, writing, acting, etc., is done with the thought, where can I sell it and how much will it pay? If you're paying good money for poor literature and music, you are encouraging that type. In the commercial field, you get about what you demand.

Mrs. Dwight C. Holmes, San Angelo, Honored At Coffee Here On Tuesday

Mrs. James W. Johnson and daughter, Mrs. Charles L. Kee, entertained with a coffee honoring Mrs. Dwight C. Holmes of San Angelo, in the Johnson home, 800 Main St., Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Holmes is the former Lora Farnsworth, who served as County Home Demonstration agent here.

The entertainment featured an exhibit of original oil paintings and a display of ceramics by Dwight C. Holmes, artist, of San Angelo. Holmes is well-known throughout the Southwest for his paintings, modeling and sculpturing. Displayed paintings included scenes from New Mexico, Arizona, California, Texas and Colorado. The ceramic displayed represented original designs and models of various artware. As a modeler and sculpturer, Holmes has made models ranging from minute articles to those requiring thousands of pounds of clay. His sculpturing and modeling may be seen in the ornamentation of buildings throughout the Southwest.

In addition to furnishing models for ceramics firms in several states, he is at the present time connected with the American Clay Forming Company of Tyler. There he models lamp bases and other artware. Holmes maintains a studio in San Angelo, where he has made his home since 1946. Prior to that time, he resided in Fort Worth.

The refreshment table was laid with a hand-embroidered organdy cloth, centered with an "antique of tomorrow" chariot filled with an arrangement of pastel roses and hydrangea. The silver coffee service was attended by Mrs. U. S. Delmont, Mrs. S. M. Winham and Mrs. B. B. Roberts. Various arrangements of cut flowers were placed in the reception rooms.

Approximately 85 guests called during the morning.

Seasons In Hair Styles Should Be Considered, Too

Just as there are seasons in weather, so there are seasons in hair. And, according to Victor Vito, noted hairstylist, the most important one, summer, is here again.

"More changes occur in hair during the summer months than at any other time," says Vito. "The most important and notable change is that hair becomes more springy and fluffy and gives a decided appearance of being thicker. In winter, hair is inclined to lie flat and straight, but in fall and spring, the hair is in the in-between stages."

"Therefore plan your hairdo by these seasons," advises Vito "and you will get the best results."

For the summer, realize that your hair will be thicker and curlier, so plan a hairstyle that agrees with these lines. If you choose to wear your hair straight, try wearing a hat as often as possible for it will help to train the hair to lie straight.

"Get away from that bushy, unmanageable look," cautions Vito. "If your hair is curly and fluffy, get a good haircut that brings out its high points."

"But, above all," says Vito, "remember that summer is a short season, so don't have your hair thinned too much late in the summer, or adopt a hairstyle that will be impossible to reconvert for winter."

Midwestern Canal Project Is Big Solution To Big Problem

Everybody knows the water problem in the Midwest is a big one, but probably very few have envisioned a solution that matches in scope the plan being offered by a Virginia engineer by the name of Charles Eli Sexton.

Engineer Sexton has proposed a vast system of contour canals, reaching from Wyoming, down the eastern drainage slope of the Rocky Mountains through West Texas and on to the Gulf coast. This network would serve to end floods in the Mississippi valley, says Sexton, as well as providing water for a now semi-arid area which could be converted into a veritable garden spot. It might even provide navigation.

We are advised, in an article in the Midland Reporter-Telegram, that the Washington Times-Herald had earlier proposed a diversion of the waters of the Mississippi floods for irrigation of the dry prairies of the Southwest. The Times-Herald then said editorially: "People said we were nuts." Some people also said the Wright Brothers and Henry Ford and the atom scientists were nuts for tackling "impossible" problems.

Well, we don't say the Times-Herald editor is nuts, or that Engineer Sexton is either. We confess that the canal system for a third the area of the United States is a gigantic proposal, and Sexton himself admits that it would be expensive and is a "long-range" proposition. Still, all in all, we have great respect for the scientists and engineers, and who knows but what one day the waters which would have been inundating Arkansas and Missouri in damaging floods will be flowing instead peacefully over the Llano Estacado, to bring carrots and lettuce where once there was prickly pear and bear grass?

Meanwhile, we think Big Spring folk would do well to cast a vote on July 12 for the confirmation of the Colorado River water district, so that we might have waters from the Colorado, just in case the midwestern canal network didn't come to fruition.

Nothing Is Free—Not Even The Services Of The Government

Free health service in England is costing the treasury too much money, according to a committee of Parliament which is created to watch government spending. Like government estimates here, theirs were too low. Costs are greater than estimated, and the public abuses the privileges. That is exactly in line with our experience in such "free" services as we have provided, nationally and in the states.

English government planners estimated the yearly cost of public health care at a little over $700 million. But the first year the cost reached about $990 million. That is the report of the committee, which detailed some of the costs.

Payment to dentists for free service ran up to about two and a half times the estimate. The committee said dentists' fees have been too generous, that one dentist earned as much as $5,600 a month. Free optical service also was away over estimates. Expected to cost the first year about $9 million it has caused an outlay of just $59 million, a little matter of fifty million dollars over estimates.

The public abuses the health facilities. There has been a rush on drug stores for free aspirin, bandages and other medical supplies and wasteful issuing of prescriptions by doctors has stimulated drug demands. The committee recommended that the public lessen its demands and warned that unless costs can be kept down there is a "grave threat" to continuance of the plan.

It is the same old story. Nothing is free. Somebody has to pay, and if the people receiving the so-called free service do not stop making unreasonable demands the service will have to be lessened or stopped. We are about to be given a farm program that will have about the same story to tell, though so far its author declines to even guess at its cost.

Truman Not Worried About Depression If Potential Crisis Is Nipped In Bud

WASHINGTON.— President Truman discussed plans for fortifying the nation's economy against depression in a recent off-the-record talk with six Democratic senators and congressmen.

Only a meager announcement leaked out to the press, but here are the highlights of what happened. A program of "economic expansion" was proposed that may affect the future of every American.

President Truman greeted the congressional group by saying: "I think I am way ahead of you on this."

Then he pulled several charts out of his top, right-hand drawer showing the latest national statistics on prices, wages, profits and production up to the end of May.

He admitted that the first symptoms of depression are beginning to show and agreed that the best plan is to attack any "mild break" in the economy to stop it from spreading. He stressed, however, that he is not worried about depression—as long as each problem is met before it grows into a crisis.

FACTORY LOANS

The legislators who called on the President were Senators James Murray of Montana, Elbert Thomas of Utah, John Sparkman of Alabama, Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, Congressman Andy Biemiller of Wisconsin and Congressman Helen Gahagan Douglas of California—all Democrats.

At the top of the five-point "economic expansion" program they urged on Truman was promotion of private investment and production by offering FHA-type loans to build plants. Private enterprise, they agreed, is the key to a healthy economy. The legislators also recommended:

1. A national advisory board, combining the business, labor, agriculture and consumer committees that now exist separately.
2. Measures to deal directly with serious unemployment, wherever and whenever it develops.
3. Long-range planning for public works and resource development.
4. Voluntary adjustments in purchasing power.

Truman said he couldn't endorse the program without studying the details, but remarked: "You are my kind of folks."

Their kind of thinking, he added, had always coincided with his own. It has been his belief and policy to ease off inflation controls gradually and give the economy a chance to adjust itself. But the GOP-controlled 89th Congress, scrapped all controls at once, let prices and profits soar unchecked; then as a last straw, passed a "rich man's" tax bill.

"That was no time for a rich man's tax bill—when profits were at their highest," Truman shook his head.

The inevitable result was "economic dislocation," the President declared. From such dizzy heights, it would only be natural for prices, profits, wages and production to come crashing down. Therefore, he said, the government must throw roadblocks in the way to prevent stampeding the economy into depression. If the public doesn't get panicky, Truman added, there is no danger of depression.

DIXIECRAT POSTMASTERS

South Carolina's Willy Senator Olin Johnston reversed the tables on President Truman the other day and applied some sly counter-pressure to get postmasters appointed in his state.

It is no secret that the President has been holding up appointments to punish southern senators and congressmen who have opposed his program. But what the White House didn't take into account is that Johnston happens to be chairman of the Senate Post Office Committee which must pass on all postmaster appointments.

So the South Carolinian sidled up to Sen. Howard McGrath, Democratic National chairman, and later to Senate Secretary Les Biffle, the President's close friend. Drawing sweetly, Johnston let it be known that he was disturbed over not getting postmasters for South Carolina and hinted that maybe he would just block all appointments until those for his own state came through.

Johnston allowed time for his remarks to pass on to the White House, then called for an appointment. When he was ushered into the President's office, he talked about other matters. Then he mentioned casually: "I notice a lot of postmasters have been appointed lately, but my state hasn't gotten any. This is creating a little talk."

Wouldn't the President, please, he asked, look into the matter?

Scratching a note on his pad, Truman replied: "Yes, we'll attend to that right away."

MERRY-GO-ROUND

A group of Iowa editors held a private confab between meetings of the Des Moines Democratic Farm Meeting. They agreed Sen. Hickenlooper is making a bad impression among the home folks, because of his reckless attacks upon Atomic Energy Chief David Lilienthal. Gen. Eisenhower's strange opposition to federal aid to education is attributed to the influence of Ike's good friend,

Tom Watson of International Business Machines. Ike's opposition has also convinced a lot of educators that the general was right when he once indicated that he knows a lot more about war than the peacetime needs of the nation. . . . Secretary of State Acheson and Undersecretary Webb are shopping around for summer cottages not far from the spot where the Wright Brothers flew their first airplane at Kitty Hawk, N. C. . . . Veterans of Foreign Wars chiefs are going to be plenty miffed at President Truman if he doesn't attend their annual convention in Miami in late August. Truman turned down an invitation to last year's VFW meeting on the ground he might be criticized for making a political talk to the vets during the campaign, but despite this he attended the American Legion Convention.

ACHESON REPORTS

One important point that didn't leak out of Secretary Acheson's hush-hush report to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was regarding his smooth relations between the Western powers.

Acheson reported that the British and French were more reasonable over the question of German economic and political rehabilitation than ever before. Earlier the French had been adamant against building up Germany, but at Paris, both Britain and France seemed more worried about Germany as a commercial competitor than as a military force. Acheson reported: "They were willing to go much farther in rebuilding German production, provided that tight control over military development was guaranteed."

American Relations With China Involve Some Delicate Matters

SECRETARY OF STATE ACHESON says the complete inside story of American relations with China may be told soon. It should be a best seller.

This statement was more or less coincident with two striking developments in the U. S. Senate. In one case several senators took the floor to criticize the American policy toward Nationalist China. In the other, 21 senators (15 Republicans and 6 Democrats) sent President Truman a letter asking for assurances that the United States wouldn't recognize the Communist regime but would continue to support the Nationalist government.

Observers figure that this senatorial action may speed publication of the report. However, it's clear that any detailed discussion of the American government's feelings about China might be a decidedly delicate matter.

AFTER ALL, IT WILL BE PASSING strange if the State Department hasn't had some poignant criticisms to make of Chinese Nationalist inefficiency. That wouldn't be of much comfort or aid to a government fighting for its life against Communism.

Naturally the paramount questions involved are those raised in the senatorial letter—whether America shall continue to support the Nationalist government and whether she shall refuse to recognize a Communist government. Satisfactory answers call for much more detail than is implied in the general phrasing of the questions.

Thus far Washington has taken the attitude that it wouldn't recognize any Communist regime so long as a responsible Nationalist government existed. The U. S. A. wasn't going to do anything to contribute to the Nationalist collapse.

Well and good, but what constitutes a "responsible government"? What responsibilities must it meet in order to classify? How much of the country must the Nationalists control to be "responsible"? At what stage of control would the Communists become "responsible?"

THEN OF COURSE THERE ARISES the red-hot question of whether the United States, in conflict with Communism the world over, should recognize a Chinese Communist government at all.

Those queries need official answer, since anything short of that is pure speculation. In the past the international practice frequently has been to grant recognition to a government when it was a going concern—really in control of the territory it represented. Such recognition didn't in itself mean an endorsement of the government or an expression of approval. It merely meant that the government was in fact a going concern, that is, it was a "de facto" government.

Actually in the past many governments have been given such recognition when they didn't meet with the full approval of the granters. Why then the recognition? Because envoys couldn't be sent to the new governments without recognition, and the country withholding recognition would thus be handicapped in securing vital information.

Hope Wants To Do Something Dramatic

HOLLYWOOD, June 29.—If Crosby can win an Academy award, why not Hope?

This proposition is getting more sensible with each new Bob Hope picture. He is now making "Where Men Are Men," a remake of "Ruggles of Red Gap" in which he sports mutton-chop sideburns and a British accent.

The comic glowed with the news that the Gettysburg address scene, which Charles Laughton did memorably in the original film, will now be included in the new version.

"When I suggested a few months ago that I recite the address, they laughed at me," Hope said. "Now they've decided to leave it in."

"You know what changed their minds? It was the 'Sorrowful Jones' reviews, which indicated I might actually be able to act."

Hope lamented the fate of a comic who wants to do something fairly dramatic:

"It's murder. People look at me and they automatically start laughing. I walk down the street and they say, 'There's Bob Hope—ha ha ha!'"

He added that "Sorrowful" helped make a transition for him. "Working with the kid gave me a chance to do something serious without being too obvious," he said.

Reporting Hope's activities is something like reading a Santa Fe timetable. His latest project is to play the Michigan State Fair at Detroit Sept. 2, 3 and 4.

Big Town's Police Emergency Squads Get Difficult Tasks

NEW YORK—During the numerous springs and summers I have watched the various branches of the Police Department in New York, the units which seemed to have one of the most difficult assignments is that of the Police Emergency Squads. They are the highly trained, completely efficient groups which speed out to take charge when there are such things as elevators falling in high buildings, gas mains and other carriers of poisonous materials suddenly breaking and spreading death and terror.

Sometimes the Emergency Squad gets a call to solve a problem which demands unusual imagination. Such as this call for members of Police Emergency Squad 14. It happened at night when the crying and yowls of a cat in anguish awakened the families throughout an apartment building. It was finally determined that a drain pipe in the building. The Police Emergency Squad went to work, cut into the drain pipe to a point where they thought they could reach the cat. But the troubled feline had craved around the elbow of the pipe and the only solution seemed to be for the Emergency Police to cut through the pipe throughout the building in pursuance of the cat that kept crawling away from succor.

Then one of the policemen, trained to use his head in an emergency, thought to himself: "What would I want if I were a cat who had been trapped in this pipe all night? I'd be hungry." So he went out and bought himself a herring. He attached a string to the herring, lowered it slowly down the pipe and waited for a moment until the cat got the odor of that bait.

Shortly thereafter there was a jerk on the line and the cat was pulled to safety, still biting hungrily at the herring.

"That cat came out of there faster than any of these fish I've tried to catch out at Sheephead Bay," a policeman said.

Yale Grads Demonstrate Money Value Of University Education

NEW YORK.—EVER WONDER what happened to good old Frank Merriwell after he left Yale?

He seems to have been lost in the crush of years, but a number of Old Eli's other sons have done right well by themselves.

Yes, sir, the lads who stayed up all night a quarter of a century ago singing "Boo! Boo!" can sleep late now because they are making plenty of "moola moola."

THE CLASS OF 1924 HAS DONE ALL right for itself. In fact I have come to the conclusion, after studying some statistics compiled for the class's 25th reunion this year, that one of the signs of a mis-spent life is not to have been graduated from Yale University the year Calvin Coolidge was elected President.

The statistics show that 25 years after leaving Yale's Ivy tower the boys have an average earned income of $17,210 and an average income from all sources of $25,111. The largest single income was a tidy $400,000.

The boys have turned out to be good steady husbands. They carry an average of $35,262 in life insurance—enough to cheer any prospective widow. Some 71 per cent have one or more servants and only 7.1 per cent have wives who work outside the home.

MORE THAN 82 PER CENT HAVE never been fired from a job and 12.2 per cent were only fired once.

The class of 1924 produced only one clergyman, one coroner, one librarian, one radio broadcaster, one newspaperman, and one man willing to describe himself as a philanthropist.

But it turned out 18 bankers, 31 educators, 22 insurance men, 37 lawyers, 22 investment brokers, 23 physicians, and 68 manufacturers.

Today 149 men own all or part of their businesses, 54 own no part. Six are board chairmen, 34 are company presidents, 44 are vice presidents, 36 are partners and at least 30 are full owners. Five men have already retired.

Today's Birthday

JOAN DAVIS, Born June 29, 1912, in St. Paul, Minn., as Madonna Josephine Davis daughter of a train dispatcher. When only 3, she was singing, dancing and reciting for local audiences. One time in the midst of a serious recitation in an amateur contest she was laughed at. It changed her life. Concentrating on comedy routine she won the attention of vaudeville scouts and was billed as the "Toy Comedienne" on the old Pantages circuit. Her manager obtained a "straight" man to strengthen her act, and in five months the team was married. As Wills and Davis they played at the Palace in New York. Then came Hollywood, where Jo, as she originally was called, made many pictures and by 1942 had won the title of radio's top comedienne.

Gas Turbine Engine May Aid In Railroad's Fight To Survive

These are days of change for hogheads.

The post-war wave has produced a string of Diesel electric locomotives. This requires some readjustment for engineers who have spent a life-time herding steam locomotives up and down the line. The Diesel—though not universally welcomed among the operating personnel for various reasons—is certainly a far cry from the old days when engineers and firemen frequently had to take a sledge and wedge to tighten leaky flues that kept putting out the fires.

The principle was no less revolutionary than the change in working conditions. Steam power is applied directly from the piston to the wheel. Of necessity, it is subject to occasional jerks. Power delivered for pound of equipment was within sound limits.

The Diesel electric, theoretically, improved on this situation. Instead of being applied directly, power from big Diesel engines goes to electric generators. Electric power could be applied more smoothly and more rapidly.

Now comes a new development on the railroad horizon. Maybe someday it will displace the Diesel or relegate it to a position of secondary importance.

It is the gas-turbine engine. Recently, a new engine employing the modern "jet" technique was delivered to the Union Pacific.

Officials of the General Electric and the American Locomotive company expressed excitement over the possibilities of the power plant. And why shouldn't they? The engine weighs less than half as much per horsepower as a locomotive type Diesel. Only the lubricating oil requires cooling—about one-tenth the cooling per horsepower required by a Diesel. The plant is a single unit. Material used in construction is utilized twice as efficiently as in a comparable Diesel engine. The locomotive is built for double-end operation.

In outward appearance, it resembles the Diesel. But there the similarity abounds ends. Through a big air vent, is drawn air for compression. This is expelled through a fuel nozzle to be touched off by an igniter plug. Under great pressure, the flaming gas rushes past turbine rotors, which spin to turn electric generators which deliver the power to the wheels. In other words, the same thrusting power used to propel jet airplanes is used to turn wheels.

But there are some bugs in the operation—big bugs. One is the idling difficulty. The gas turbine consumes one-third as much fuel at no load as at full load. Railroad is anything but a full-time, full-load operation. Engineers think that new alloys and further experimentation will iron out a great deal of this handicap. It is a fuel-thirsty soul—more than the Diesel or steam engine. Currently it carries about 12 hours supply of grade C bunker fuel, or 6,670 gallons. Too, the turbine is substantially more efficient in cold than in hot weather. Whether railroad could stand marked seasonal power efficiency is doubtful.

Just how the equipment would hold up, how economical it would prove, and many other questions can be answered only by years of actual revenue service.

The gas-turbine electric locomotive experiment does point up one thing. Railroad isn't going to take count lying down. Apparently, it is up and at 'em in the competitive struggle to modernize. Power plants that can deliver more at less weight and fuel are as much an answer as fancy streamlined passenger cars.—JOE PICKLE

American Cops Advised To Rely Less Upon Strong-Arm Tactics

WASHINGTON.—THE SUPREME Court has told American cops to do a real detective job instead of trying to pressure a suspect into making a confession against himself.

The pressure doesn't necessarily mean beating a prisoner. It may mean talking to him so long—how long wasn't made clear by the court—that he finally caves in and confesses.

But how long then do cops have a right to question a prisoner without depriving him of his constitutional rights, rights which the court wants protected?

One minute? One hour? One day? Two days? Five days? The court did not say precisely.

So police undoubtedly will still use their own judgment about holding a man indefinitely, questioning him in relays to get a confession, and then using it to get him convicted and sentenced to jail or death.

In a separate, agreeing opinion, Justice Douglas said "this is another illustration of the use by the police of the custody of an accused to wring a confession from him. The confession so obtained from literate and illiterate alike should be condemned."

BUT JUSTICE JACKSON, REFERRING to the various safeguards citizens have under the Constitution, said:

"I don't very much if they require us to hold that the state may not take into custody and question one suspected reasonably of an unwitnessed murder.

"If it does, the people of this country must discipline themselves to seeing their police stand by helplessly while those suspected of murder prowl about unmolested, is it a necessary price to pay for the fairness which we know as 'due process of law'?"

Still left unanswered after all the justices' long and careful legal wording was the question: "How long should police be able to question a suspect to get a confession out of him?"

The court spoke only of "protracted, systematic, and uncontrolled subjection of an accused" to police questioning. It didn't mention time in minutes, hours, or days.

WHICH MEANS IT WAS CONTRARY to the Constitution to hold them so long

CITE 57-YEAR-OLD PRECEDENT

Quorum Rule Declared In No Danger From Court Verdict

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST
AP Staff
WASHINGTON, June 29. — Congress leaders today dug up a 57-year-old Supreme Court decision and decided a brand new ruling of the high court doesn't junk hundreds of the nation's laws after all. The 1892 case was hauled out in the light of the court's action Monday upsetting the perjury conviction of Harold R. Christoffel, former Milwaukee labor leader. Christoffel was convicted of falsely denying he was a Communist before the House Labor Committee in 1947. But, the court held, because a majority of the committee was not proved present when the statements were made, there was doubt that the committee was a "competent tribunal." That caused some concern in Congress, which frequently passes bills with less than a majority of members present. But then attention was called to the 1892 case. In its decision then, the Supreme Court held in effect that the journals of Congress cannot be impeached; if the journals say a bill was passed, the court said, and if the presiding officers attest that the bill was passed, then for all legal purposes the bill was passed. Frequently bills pass through the House with as few as 20 members present, although technically a quorum, or 218, should be on hand. But, if no one objects to the absence of a quorum, the journal shows simply that the bill was passed. "And that makes it official," a House leader said. "You cannot go behind the journal. The Supreme Court made that clear in 1892."

HELD IN DEATH OF BOY — Dudley Beatty (above), 29, father of four children, is shown at Lansing, Mich., police headquarters during questioning in the death of four-year-old Walter (Peewee) Eaton. Hitchhiker Held In Schoolgirl Slaying

PRESTONSBURG, Ky., June 29. — A young hitchhiker was held by state police today for questioning in the slaying of a pretty, blonde high school cheerleader. State Police Sgt. S. E. Craft said 15-year-old Richard Funk of Carrollton, Mich., was being held on a vagrancy charge in Floyd County jail here. Craft said Funk denied any knowledge of 17-year-old Muriel Bridgeway's death. Her body was found on the Big Sandy River bank about 200 yards from her home early yesterday.

Friends here and had decided to hitchhike home. The truck driver's suspicions were aroused. Craft added, after reading and hearing about the crime in passing through Prestonsburg. Townspeople speedily subscribed more than $1,500 as a reward. Muriel, whose father is a Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad section foreman, was the youngest of a family of seven children.

However, one result of the new court ruling may be that attendance at congressional committees will be better hereafter. If committee actions are subject to question when a majority isn't present, congressional leaders pointed out, the committees are going to insist on better attendance—and they probably will be careful not to do anything controversial in the absence of a majority. In the 1947 cases involving a group of Hollywood writers cited for contempt for refusing to tell the House un-American Activities Committee whether they were Communists, there frequently were fewer than a quorum of committee members on hand. But the un-American Activities Committee, unlike the labor committee in the Christoffel case, was operating through a subcommittee. Any time three of the nine members were present, they constituted a legal quorum of a five-member subcommittee.

Wheat Harvest Reaches Peak In Deaf Smith

Funk was picked up by police at Catelettsburg, Ky., late yesterday when a truck driver became suspicious after giving the youth a ride, Craft said. He was turned over to state police who brought him here. Several other persons, including a rejected suitor of Muriel, were questioned and released. Craft said Funk related he had been visiting

By The Associated Press
The wheat harvest has reached its peak in Deaf Smith County, one of Texas' biggest wheat producers. About 20 per cent of the county's 382,017 acres of wheat has been cut. In Texas this year yields have ranged as low as five bushels per acre on dry land—and as high as 65 bushels per acre on irrigated land. Some elevators expect to continue taking wheat for another week before they put up the filled-up sign. Storage is beginning to be a problem, but no wheat has been piled on the ground in any quantity, as yet. Faust Collier, Deaf Smith ACA manager, said yields often are running lower than anticipated because the grain hasn't filled out. He also said some of it has a low test weight, although "plenty" still grades No. 1.

Police Chief Is Retired In Midst Of Investigation

LOS ANGELES, June 29. — Chief of Police C. B. Horrall has retired from his post in the midst of investigations on charges of police brutality and pay-offs for protection of prostitution. Mayor Fletcher Bowron, who appointed Horrall in 1941, commented: "The chief's retirement is neither my idea nor that of the police commission. It will be a long time before Los Angeles has as good a chief."

Boy's Slayer To Be Examined For His Sanity

LANSING, Mich., June 29. — Slain, mustached Dudley Beatty remorseful admitted killer of Walter (Peewee) Eaton, will be examined for his sanity. The 29-year-old unemployed factory worker, father of four children, mumbled a barely audible "guilty" on his arraignment yesterday.

He is accused of murder—the degree yet to be determined—and faces possible life imprisonment. Four-year-old Walter was slashed to death with a broken beer bottle last Thursday night after being lured to a vacant lot. At his arraignment in circuit court Beatty, estranged from his own family, hung his head dejectedly. The day before he had surrendered, tearfully claiming "I don't know why I did it."

Search For Pair In Slaying of Thornton

BELOIT, Kans., June 29. — The trail of a young hitchhiking couple led officers seeking slayers of W. A. (Tex) Thornton, Amarillo oilman, into North Central Kansas yesterday. Sheriff Maurice Horne of Beloit traced the pair to a junction of U. S. Highway 81 and 24 after they left a hotel here without their luggage. Officers are seeking a couple who registered with Thornton at the Amarillo tourist cabin where he was found dead. The pair disappeared the next day.

GROUP VISITS PLAINVIEW Irrigated Pasture Study Is Made

Seventeen farmers and ranchers of the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District went to Plainview Tuesday to make a study of irrigated pastures. The group saw a number of pastures and discussed merits of their use with the cooperators of the Hale County Soil Conservation District, Warren Skaggs, chairman of the local district board of supervisors, reported.

Making the trip were Lloyd Hastings, Foy Powell, Walter Kelly, Leslie Hull, Faye Harding and Leon Hull of Tarzan and Courtney communities; Warren Skaggs, Merwin Haag, and C. C. Thomas of Midland; Edgar Phillips, Frank Loveless, Cecil Phillips, J. M. Peurifoy, Robert Brown and Lester Newton of Big Spring.

Irrigated pastures have been planted in the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District by Ocie Smith, S. O. Golliday and Fred Arnett, and are making considerable grazing for first year pastures. The trip to Plainview was planned primarily to observe pastures that have been in production for several years and to talk with farmers about the management of them for best use. Skaggs states, "Local farmers were shown pastures in the Hale County Soil Conservation District that have consistently produced above 700 pounds of beef per acre and according to reports given by the farmers, they have netted more money from their irrigated pastures than from alfalfa, cotton or any other cash crop."

Local supervisors Warren Skaggs, Edmund Tom, Frank Loveless, Joe Carter and Edgar Phillips are encouraging the use of the pastures as a part of a good conservation irrigation program in the interest of good land use and economic returns.

Clean-Up Order Issued As Junk Pile Offends Summer Visitors

NEWPORT, R. I., June 29 (AP) - Timmy Sullivan was under court order today to clean up his yard junk pile that offended socialite Newporters.

The order was issued yesterday on petition of the wealthy Mrs. Peyton Van Rensselaer.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer charged that the monumental pile of Sullivan lumber, old glass, old crockery, old stoves, a dressmaker's dummy and brick-brac reduced the value of her mansion.

The Van Rensselaer estate over-looks the little weather-beaten house Timmy bought in 1912. He lives with his sister, Julia.

The court restrained Timmy from adding to the "length, width or height" of the woodpile in his yard and directed him to clean up his cluttered lawn.

The Sullivan claimed they eked out a living by selling the material—most of it second hand stuff.

The Sullivan home is off a little winding lane in the heart of the summer colony, once the resort of American society in the lush days when tycoons built towering summer mansions.

In granting Mrs. Van Rensselaer's petition for a temporary injunction, Superior Court Judge John E. Mullen turned down the Sullivan's petition to restrain Mrs. Van Rensselaer from coming in contact with them.

Mrs. Van Rensselaer had testified she offered the Sullivans a trip to Florida if they would clean up "the eyore" to Newport society.

The offer didn't appeal to the Sullivans—Timmy testifying that it was at a time when things are their best in Newport.

Famous Doctor Denies His Life Was Sacrificed

NEW YORK, June 29 (AP) - The reporters grouped around him, asking his opinion about this and that, but the bushy-haired old doctor, with the white mustache, smiled and said:

"One who comes out of solitude into the world can give no message to the world—just as those who come to us can give us no message."

But this was not enough for the enterprising reporters who crowded around Dr. Albert Schweitzer, 74, as he arrived here by ship yesterday.

A man so famous, they figured should say something to make a headline.

For 36 years, the world-renowned French physician, author, musician, philosopher and medical missionary had remained virtually cut off from the world in the depth of French equatorial Africa—at Lambaréne.

There, he operated a hospital. But the people at home could not forget him. Scholars often spoke of him as the "greatest genius of modern civilization." He had left them a storehouse of knowledge—books on subjects ranging from music, German literature and Bach to how to build an organ and "the psychiatry of Jesus Christ."

So—on his first trip here—the reporters asked him many things. Tell us, they said, how you could renounce the civilized world, and sacrifice your life in the jungle.

"It is not renouncing anything," he said, a twinkle in his eyes. "When you are doing some good, you are not making a sacrifice. There was a great need for a doctor in that part of Africa."

Hoover To Give His Views On Unification

WASHINGTON, June 29. — The former Republican President Herbert Hoover headed off Capitol Hill today with some advice on running the armed forces more efficiently and economically.

OEEC DEBATES PROBLEM

Britain Facing Trade Showdown

PARIS, June 29. — Britain faces a showdown today with other Marshall plan nations on how trade should be conducted among the nations of Europe.

The seven-member consultative committee of the organization for European Economic Co-operation (OEEC) met for a little more than half an hour this morning and decided to turn the whole problem over to the full 19-nation organization later in the day.

An OEEC spokesman described the morning meeting as "just a formal gathering" and said: "The real debate will begin now and it will probably go on tomorrow."

W. Averell Harriman, U. S. ambassador-at-large for the Marshall Plan attended the session. A spokesman for him denied reports published in London that Harriman had threatened to cut Marshall Plan aid to Britain unless the British agreed to American proposals.

The stakes in national prestige and perhaps even national economic stability seem large in comparison with the immediate dollar stakes.

Last week the top economic experts of Britain, France and Belgium met in Brussels but could not resolve their differences. It was a question of the others not being able to reach an agreement with Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's iron-willed Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The question is whether each nation will make its own trade agreements with the other nations, singly or will all the nations set up general principles, agree on their currency relationships and then take steps toward multilateral trade.

The former Republican President was the second witness scheduled by the House Armed Services Committee which is studying a bill to tighten the secretary of defense's authority over the services and install a civilian business manager to run their financial affairs.

The bill was passed by the Senate last month, and Chairman Vinson (D-Ga.) predicted today his House committee will approve the measure in much the same form. He said he plans to close public hearings Friday.

Vinson told reporters there may be a few changes in the bill, but added that they do not appear controversial since Secretary of Defense Johnson agreed to them in principle yesterday.

Top officials of the Army, Navy and Air Force may get specific authority in the bill to go to Congress with their troubles any time they choose, Vinson said.

Johnson told the committee yesterday the secretaries and chiefs would have that power under the bill anyhow, but Vinson wants it down in black and white.

Secondly, Vinson said, the measure might be amended to provide that the three secretaries could appeal to the President on any issue if they first notified the secretary of defense of their intention and gave him a chance to appear with them before the President.

Johnson said that was all right with him.

"I just don't want them going behind my back," he said.

Under the unification law, passed in 1947, the secretaries have the right to appeal to the President over the head of the secretary of defense. This right would be abolished in the bill before the committee.

Hoover headed a commission which studied reorganization of the executive branch of the government last year. The bill generally follows recommendations of the Hoover commission for improving the unification law.

The recommendations adopted by the commission were prepared by Ferdinand Eberstadt, who made the study that originally led to passage of the law. He will testify before the committee tomorrow.

Johnson is to return Friday for questioning by committee members who did not get a crack at him yesterday.

The secretary promised the committee yesterday that he would "make unification really work" if the bill were passed, and added that over a billion dollars a year could be saved under it.

Defense Surprises State With Admission Scott Killed Girl

By JOHN DAFFRON AP Staff

ROANOKE, Va., June 29. — In the face of a surprise defense admission that 16-year-old Dana Marie Weaver met death at the hands of Lee Scott, the state began its prosecution of a first degree murder charge against the high school athlete today.

Commonwealth's Atty. C. E. Cuddy called to the stand the first of his witnesses. From these he sought support of his contention that the May 8 church-kitchen slaying was "wilful, deliberate and premeditated murder" with sex as the indicated motive.

Against this was the defense position that while Dana Marie met death in a struggle with Scott it was, at worst, manslaughter and not murder.

And the reason for the struggle had nothing to do with sex, Defense Chief T. Warren Messick said in his opening statement yesterday. Rather, he said he would prove, it was "the pitiful and unfortunate" fight between two 16-year-old children.

Yes, Messick conceded, Scott slugged the girl with a pop bottle and choked her. But it was during a fight Scott started when Dana Marie cast reflections on her former boy friend Timmy Webb.

Then the attorney related for the first time the story Scott told his attorneys and authorities May 21 while under the influence of an injection of truth serum.

Scott went to Christ Episcopal Church to meet a friend, Fred Bradley, for a table tennis match. He was there waiting when Dana Marie came in.

They chatted, decided to play table tennis but couldn't find the equipment. Then they went to the kitchen on the second floor for cookies.

It was while they stood drinking their soft drinks that Dana mentioned her former friend, Webb. She criticized him, said he was no good—that he'd won the state wrestling championship by luck.

"She criticized Webb some more—criticized this friend who was a hero to Buddy Scott... that boy hit her with a bottle... Then they got into a fight and she clawed him with her long fingernails. He grabbed her and choked her."

Messick said the boy went home and didn't know until 11 o'clock the next day that Dana Marie was dead.
