Absent-mindedly most of us start off for the week-end in the country with luggage, books, magazines nd even our dog, with no thought of the hostess other than thinking she's a charming person to issue the invitation. As lightning strikes, comes the thought: What on earth shall I take as a gift for my hostss? Then begins the frantic scur rying that is quite unnecessary. Se ect a handsome box of candy, and eliminate the catch-as-catch-can method of finding a hostess gift. If your hostess won't enjoy a box of candy, her family and guests will. Candy counters are putting on their summer dress and that means prominence is given to a brilliant array of very attractive colored jelly candies. Play safe, though, and ee that your gift box contains an ssortment of cool looking jelly candies, as well as chocolates and

Budget balancing may be no sughing matter to a government, but it's a thoroughly comic affair as the theme of Barbara Stanwyck's new starring film, "The Bride Walks Out," in which Gene Raymond and Robert Young play opposite the talented actress. The cture will play at the Ritz Sunday and Monday, following a Sat-urday midnight matinee showing.

Miss Stanwyck, essaying a light comedy part after several dramatic ccesses, appears as a successful working girl who, after keeping herself in silks and satins, weds a
