Seek Means To Force Payment From Corporations' Surpluses

15 Pct. Levy Favored By Senate Group

Tax On Undistributed Earnings Net Yet Mapped By Committee

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—The senate finance committee, closed today with treasury tax experts, today discussed the possibility of inserting "teeth" in the present law to enable the government to force corporations to pay out unreasonable surpluses.

The committee had reached no agreement on a number of substitute plans for a tax on corporations, which would depart drastically from the bill the house approved.

Income Levy

It was reported, however, that the committee had reached "virtual" agreement on the levying of a flat 15 per cent on corporation income. The question of taxing undistributed corporate earnings still had not been settled.

The committee continued its consideration of compromise suggestions, one of which was from Mariner S. Eccles, federal reserve board chairman. After yesterday's long session, Chairman Harrison reported:

"I think all the committee agrees that the house bill must be changed in certain particulars. A majority is opposed to the house plan."

He added that "we have been unable to agree on anything up to now."

Some senators predicted the committee would scrap the presidential suggestion for a tax based on undistributed corporation earnings. But administration leaders still contended the principle would be adopted—probably in the form of a surtax.

Harrison said that in his estimation whatever bill the committee brought out would produce the permanent revenue desired by the administration—$623,000,000—from corporations or their stockholders.

Senator Connally (D-Tex.) said the treasury had estimated his original compromise proposal would produce only $500,000,000 on the basis of a 15 per cent tax on corporate income and "super taxes" of 10 to 20 per cent on undistributed earnings.

Sentiment for Proposal. Asserting that there was "considerable sentiment" in the committee for his proposition, the Texan said it had been revised so as to get a "lot more money." The flat rate would be raised, possibly, to 15 per cent and the rates on undistributed profits doubled.

After Secretary Morgenthau, several of his treasury aides, and James M. Landis, chairman of the securities commission, were closeted with the committee for two hours, Chairman Harrison (D-Miss.) assembled reporters around the horseshoe committee table and remarked:

"We are getting to the place where the committee can pass on matters of policy."

Ayers has been inspecting police radio transmitters in this section preparatory to the installation of the local station which will have the call letters of KCAM and will operate with 50 watts power and unlimited hours.

It will be installed in the office of the fire department and a man will be maintained on it at all times.

Texas Crops Retarded By Lack Of Rain

Conditions Unfavorable For Planting, Growing During April

AUSTIN, May 15 (AP)—The state of Texas as a whole, April was an unfavorable month for the planting and growing of most field crops, it is asserted in the monthly crop report issued today by the department of agriculture division here. Small grains and farm pastures were adversely affected by the continued deficiency of moisture which had persisted since January 1. An early April frost did heavy damage to the fruit crops, especially to peaches. Scattered local showers at the close of the month were insufficient to materially offset the condition of growing crops as of May 1. The reported condition of grain, hay, and farm pastures was uniformly low in all districts of the state; and the abandonment of winter grain acreage, particularly wheat, promises to be very heavy.

This report does not take into consideration rainfall since May 1. Wheat 37 Pct. Normal. The condition of Texas wheat on May 1, 1936, was reported at 37 per cent of normal, compared with 39 per cent a year ago, and 73 per cent the 10-year average (1923-1932). The estimated abandonment of acreage is 65 per cent of the 4,648,000 acres sown last fall, which leaves 2,092,000 acres for harvest this year. The May 1 condition of 37 per cent indicates an average yield of 6.4 bushels per acre, which applied to the acres remaining for harvest forecasts a total production of 13,389,000 bushels, compared with 10,010,000 bushels produced in 1935, and 41,088,000 bushels the five-year average production (1928-1932).

Borah May 'Take A Walk' If Party Ignores Demands

NEWARK, N. J., May 15 (AP)—Senator William E. Borah declared today that "no party alignment would control me for a minute" if the republican national convention ignored the issue of monopoly, and followed up with the assertion that "entering the democratic ranks wouldn't stop me."

The Idaho republican, carrying his campaign for the party's presidential nomination into New Jersey, emphasized that he had no plans to enter the democratic ranks and said he had "given no thought to a third party movement at this time."

"I only know that I'll stick to the issues," he said.

"Paramount among the issues he had placed 'the end of monopoly and the beginning of humanitarianism.'"

State Crude Quota Pared 10,000 Bbls.

Howard - Glasscock And East Howard Allowables Reduced

AUSTIN, May 15 (AP)—The Texas Railroad commission today slashed about 10,000 barrels daily from the East Texas oil allowable, setting the statewide schedule at 1,143,993 barrels, effective May 20, about 50,000 barrels under the current output.

Wells in pools classified as new fields were cut from 150 to 130 barrels daily in an attempt to cut heavy drilling.

The commission was warned in a statewide hearing it must take steps to hold production within market demand to thwart disorganization in the industry.

The new state allowable of 1,143,993 barrels was compared with a May 1 allowable of 1,193,993 barrels and May 13 schedules of 1,192,530 barrels.

The reduction from the May 13 totals was 48,535 barrels. Commission engineers calculated, including a 5,600 barrel cut in southwest Texas on May 8, a net cut of 54,135 barrels.

The order issued today was an emergency one. Net allowables for West Texas production areas included:

Howard-Glasscock, 18,907, down 1,093.

Tatan-East Howard, 7,550, down 510.

Gas Allowables Slashed 11 Million Cubic Feet

AUSTIN, May 15 (AP)—The state railroad commission today reduced the total state allowable gas production for June about 11 million cubic feet daily to 1,396,095,000 cubic feet.

NURSERY INSPECTED BY MEMBERS OF CLUB

Inspection of the WPA sponsored pre-school nursery in the western part of town featured the American Business club meeting Friday.

Following the luncheon meeting at the Presidents hotel, the club, headed by President Edward Carnett, went through the nursery, observed how the children were put to bed for their afternoon's rest after a balanced meal.

They inspected the dining room, kitchen and bathroom where each child had his toothbrush and wash rag. Attendants explained the program of the nursery to the club.

During the luncheon, members were entertained by Thomas Brooks at the piano.

Says Debt To US Wiped Out

Issue Only a 'Tragic Misunderstanding,' Says French Leader

PARIS, May 15 (AP)—Leon Blum, designated to become French premier, renounced today any idea that the new leftist government will wage a "war of propaganda or reprisal."

Regarding France's war debt to the United States, he told the American club: "In France we believe the question of debts is wiped out." He called the debt issue a "tragic misunderstanding between the two countries," and expressed the hope that "clouds" of misunderstanding between France and the United States over the debt issue might soon be lifted.

He maintained the French debt default gave only "a false sense of ingratitude" of his country for services the United States rendered in the World War.

27 PIGS FARROWED BY 18-MONTH SOW

Twenty-seven pigs have been farrowed by an 18-month-old sow owned by J. W. Wooten, farmer in the Fairview community north of here.

Thursday she farrowed a litter of 17 pigs, he second in little more than six months.

When a year old, she farrowed a litter of 10 pigs, all of which sold at $5 apiece when eight weeks old. All of the latest litter are good sized pigs, said Wooten.

The sow is an Ohio Chester white and is one of the most prolific on record in the county.

State Ending Direct Relief During June

Load Rests On Local Communities After The First Of July

Withdrawal of aid to all unemployed effective with the receipt of the last July June check from the Texas Relief commission was announced here Friday by Mrs. Ora Woods, district relief director.

This means, said Mrs. Woods that after July 1 the relief load will be shifted entirely to the local communities and the responsibility of caring for unemployed and employables who are unable to obtain work will become strictly a local problem.

Since the first of the year the state relief commission, through its district offices, has cared for unemployed. A majority of these are not eligible for old age assistance because of age requirements.

Certification of employables to WPA rolls ceased early in May and that type of jobless has steadily mounted.

All activities will be ceased by the district office here after July 1.

Highway Officer B'Spring Visitor

W. W. Legge, Lubbock, district inspector for the highway patrol, was in Big Spring today on his regular swing around his 32-county district.

Formerly stationed here as state highway patrolman for several years, Legge was transferred to Lubbock in charge of the district when the patrol set-up was revised under plans of the state safety commission.

Legge's territory extends west to the New Mexico border and as far north as Childress. Big Spring is on the southern extremity.

Four district stations at Pecos, San Angelo, Lubbock and Abilene will work into this city, he said, bringing highway patrolmen into the city practically every day.

ELECTRIFICATION BILL SENT TO FDR

WASHINGTON, May 15 (AP)—Congress today completed action on the Norris $410,000,000 rural electrification bill and sent it to President Roosevelt for his signature.

VATICAN CITY, May 15 (AP)—The Vatican plans large scale missionary work in Ethiopia, now that peace is at hand.

No definite plan has been prepared, however, despite reports to the contrary. The missionary work will be left to the various religious organizations even now carrying it on in Ethiopia.

Another Man Escapes From Pen Fugitives

Six Of Felons Who Broke From Oklahoma Prison Still At Large

ANTLERS, Okla., May 15 (AP)—Roy Langwell, railway section man abducted by two fleeing convicts from McAlester prison, knocked down one and escaped today soon after two other fugitives were captured and their three hostages liberated.

Six of the escaped prisoners remained at large. Langwell identified the convicts by their pictures as Claude Beavers and Claude Pugh, said Sheriff John Heilm.

Plasding with possemen not to shoot, Bill Anderson and Archie Herring walked out of a thicket and surrendered early today. Possemen soon afterward found the hostages, Tuck Cope and Victor Conn, prison guards, and Wilburn Doaks, cowboy at a nearby farm.

Shot In Neck. Cope, shot through the neck, was in critical condition. The other two were uninjured.

The three, shouting "We're guards, don't shoot," ran around the corner of a farmer's house near here late last night into a crowd of Antlers citizens who had been attracted to the scene by shots officers had fired at four of the fleeing convicts.

The four convicts speeding away from the car they stole there, were forced to abandon it a short distance away when officers showered them with bullets.

Cope said he and the other two captives and six of the convicts had been huddled in the brush near where they were released since early morning.

Before the fugitives split into bands, they left a trail of violence including the killing of C. D. Powell, brickyard foreman at the penitentiary.

Forced To Change Clothes. Four of them waylaid Doaks near Pittsburg, Okla., and forced him to change clothes with one of the fugitives. Requiring Doaks to accompany them, they called on Mrs. Luther Green, living nearby, to feed them and their hostages—Doaks, Cope and Conn.

The five desperadoes drove into the yard of W. F. Taylor and forced him to give them shelter for the night. They left before dawn with their hostages.

One Wounded In Back. One of the five, Jess Cunningham, a life term convict from Stephens county, was wounded in the back.

The five were armed with two rifles and two pistols taken from lower guards at the prison brickyard, where they led 24 convicts in a riot and dash for freedom Wednesday.

Ten other convicts lay wounded in the prison hospital, shot down as they ran. Six were recaptured unhurt.

In their dash the eight shot and killed Powell, one of their hostages, and threw his body out on the street.

53 Years' Service Backs McCaslin's Bid For Honor In The Oil Industry

Fifty-three years of unbroken service in the oil industry is the record upon which J. I. McCaslin, royalty gauger for the Roberts production in the Howard-Glasscock field, stands as a contestant for the honor of the "grand old man of the oil industry" at the International Petroleum Exposition at Tulsa, Okla., opening Saturday.

Since 1883 when he entered the employ of Miller & Crippen Oil Co. in Warren county, Pennsylvania at the age of 15 years, McCaslin has lost only six weeks time from the oil fields.

Great changes have taken place in those years, both in the location of the center and methods of production.

McCaslin's first job was devoted to clearing off locations for wells in hemlock forests, a task so tedious that it required two months to clear and burn brush from two locations.

Nor was the pay anything to wax enthusiastic over. For his services, McCaslin received $10 per location. But he stuck it out and worked at the job for six months.

His work won him a promotion with the company and he took over a job as pumper at $45 per month. However, he was paying $3.50 per week for board and room and was having to send $12 a month for a hand who took his place on the farm.

Tool Dresser, Driller. The senator owned two small wells and engaged McCaslin as a tool dresser and driller.

Diplomas Are Presented To Rural Pupils

Program Features Sixth Annual School Rally Held Here

Diplomas went to 83 seventh grade students in rural schools of Howard county Friday morning at the municipal auditorium as graduation exercises of the sixth annual rural school rally day were held.

The graduates, who successfully had completed the standardized course of study, were addressed by Thomas E. Pierce, director of elementary education in Big Spring. Miss Anne Martin, county superintendent presented the diplomas.

Separate Exercises. Number of graduates was smaller than in former years due to a separate exercise held by the Chalk, Foran and Elbow schools. Bisco and Fairview pupils were grouped with other schools.

John Ralph Gessert, Midway, with a score of 448 points, was the outstanding student in the graduating class.

Following the exercises, students and patrons participated in a picnic luncheon at the city park. At 2 p. m. a program of entertainment was begun from the auditorium with schools furnishing the performers.

Schools represented in the rally day activities were Highway, Midway, Soash, Center Point, Morgan, R-Bar, Gay Hill, Lomax, Morgan, Cauble, Moore, Richland, Vealmoor, Knott and Hartwells.

WORK SHEETS MAY BE FILED TO MAY 22

An extension of time for filing of work sheets for the federal soil conservation program was disclosed today by County Agent O. P. Griffin.

Producers may file the sheets up to and including May 22, said Griffin, provided they fill them out.

The forms may be obtained at the agents office but will not be filled out there. All the information needed is on the crops and production in 1935. Other data is on file at the agent's office and will be filled in there.

It was estimated that 90 per cent of the cotton producers of the county have already filed work sheets, required for participation in the federal farm program.

"Mortals and Immortals" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 17.
The Golden Text is: "What man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God" (I Corinthians 2:11).
Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality. So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory" (I Corinthians 15: 53, 54).
The lesson-sermon includes also the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health With Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortality is finally swallowed up in immortality. Sin, sickness and death must disappear to give place to the facts which belong to immortality. Learn this, O mortal, and earnestly seek the spiritual status of man, which is outside of all material selfhood" (page 476).

Republican Officials Swamped By Big Rush For Convention Tickets

CLEVELAND, May 15 (UP)—Demand for tickets to the republican national convention, opening here June 2, is described as three times as great as can be satisfied.

"I have been on the national committee for 28 years, and on the arrangements committee since 1912, and I can't recall any greater demand," Ralph E. Williams declared.

Williams says he has an "idea" for the party's national convention for the last five days. It opens Tuesday. And he says "it probably will close Saturday."

Ralph E. Williams, republican national committeeman, says G.O.P. convention probably will continue five days.

Agreement Takes Time

The convention could be shorter than the party had a candidate for nomination, Williams says. "As far as we must decide on a platform which suits the majority, and name a candidate for president and a candidate for vice president according to the will of the majority. That takes longer than it would take if a candidate sought re-nomination."

The same reason is partly responsible for the unusual interest in this year's convention, Williams explained. He added that "this is a year when more people are taking an active interest in politics."

Interest Widespread

"People in every section of the country," he said, "are wanting to take part in the republican convention. There is as much interest and as great a demand for tickets from the far west and the south as from the closer states."

The opening day will be devoted principally to electing temporary convention officials, with the keynote speech in the evening by Sen. Frederick Steiwer of Oregon.

The main business on Wednesday will be a permanent organization. Williams said it was probable the platform would be Thursday's chief business, with the nomination of president coming on Friday and the nomination for vice president on Saturday.

Roeser said his company held a net interest of 29 3/4 wells in the 11 Gregg county properties disposed of. J. K. Wadley of Texas

Cotton Mills Less Active

Decrease in Number of Spindles in Use Is Reported

WASHINGTON, May 15. (UP)—The department of commerce today reported a decrease in the number of cotton spindles active during April compared with the same month last year. Only 23,123,536 spindles were listed in use compared with 23,854,062 in April, 1935.

At the same time, the department disclosed that an increase of more than 100,000 bales consumed during April had been registered over the same month last year. Last month 576,762 bales were consumed compared with 468,402 bales in April, 1935.

On April 30, the report of cotton on hand showed 1,190,413 bales in consuming establishments and 6,020,626 bales in public storage and at compressors. This compared with 1,062,145 and 7,203,403 respectively listed in April, 1935.

The report on cotton consumption showed that 4,649,521 bales had been consumed by last April 30 compared with 4,115,761 at the same date last year.

During the month, both imports and exports of cotton increased over last year. It was reported that 12,829 bales entered the country compared with 9,060 last year. This item was listed in 500-pound bales.

Exports of domestic cotton, excluding intera, was listed at 352,710 running bales compared with 323,155 in April, 1935.

Exports now total 5,167,070 running bales for the nine months ended April 30 compared with 3,895,785 for the corresponding period last year.

ended April 30 compared with 3,895,785 for the corresponding period last year.

Although the United States' best customer is still Japan, which received 1,319,385 bales for the three-quarter year period ended April 30, the United Kingdom has almost doubled its receipts of American cotton. Great Britain bought 1,165,754 bales for the nine-month period this year compared with 607,536 last year. Japan's imports of American cotton last year totaled 1,284,211 bales.

RE-COMMISSIONING OF U. S. DIRIGIBLE FAVORED BY GROUP

WASHINGTON, May 15. (UP)—The house naval affairs committee adopted unanimously today a resolution authorizing the navy to put the old "queen of the skies" dirigible Los Angeles into immediate flying condition.

The Los Angeles, which was decommissioned more than two years ago because of alleged "old age," was inspected by members of the committee and Dr. Hugo Eckener last Sunday while the giant dirigible Hindenburg was moored at the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J.

Rep. William H. Sutphin, D. N. J., introduced the resolution, which does not require congressional action. It directs the navy department through Admiral William H. Standley, chief of naval operations and acting secretary of navy, to

How Cardui Helps Month After Month

Where there have been severe pains every month, from functional disturbances resulting from poor nourishment, Cardui has helped thousands of women to obtain relief. Their confidence in Cardui makes them eager to recommend it to other women needing such a medicine.

"I suffered a great deal with pain in my side and a weakness in my back," writes Mrs. Walter Page, of Evansville, Ind. "This made me so nervous I couldn't rest. Each month I would suffer all over and would have to go to bed. One of my neighbors told me how Cardui helped her, so I took it and it helped me. After taking eight bottles, I was much better. I surely can recommend Cardui for weakness and pain."

Of course, if Cardui does not benefit YOU, consult a physician. adv.

put the cigar-shaped dirigible into active flying condition.

The ship has been used for ground training purposes.

"The purposes for which the Los Angeles is now being used are ridiculous," Sutphin said. "By using it that way, it is an admission of the failure of the United States in lighter-than-air craft experiments."

Lamb Cookery

By MARTHA LOGAN

Most persons think of lamb in terms of legs, chops and steaks. They do not know the many appealing cuts of lamb they might buy. For instance, there are the loin roasts, crown roast, shoulder roast, rolled boned breast, the boneless lamb roll, lamb steaks, lamb neck slices, and lamb shanks, as well as the legs and chops.

The leg gives you the largest roast. There are two ways the butcher prepares the leg—the American leg with the shank bone removed, and the French leg with the shank bone left in and frenched.

To roast the leg in a way that is just a bit different, prepare the leg this way:
Roast Leg of Lamb
Select a leg of lamb and have it prepared "French style"—that is, have the meat removed from the leg bone. This can be done in the market. Rub the entire surface with a crushed clove of garlic and with mixed salt and pepper. Dredge flour over the lean portion. Place on a rack with the skin side down and roast in a moderately slow oven (300-350 degrees F.). Add to pan an onion stuck with three cloves. Allow about 30 minutes to the pound to cook.

Another roast that is delicious is the shoulder roast:
Roast Stuffed Shoulder of Lamb
Shoulder of lamb.
2 cups dry bread crumbs.
1 tablespoon minced onion.
1 tablespoon parsley.
1 tablespoon minced celery.
1 tablespoon butter.
Salt.
Pepper.

Have the bones removed from a square-cut shoulder of lamb and the sides sewed, leaving one side open for putting in the dressing. Make a dressing of the other ingredients, stuff the shoulder, sew or skewer the open side, place the roast on a rack in an open oven, and roast in a 300-350 degree F. oven for about two to two and one-half hours. Serve on a hot platter.

The breast of lamb, while not as expensive as some of the other cuts, makes a very good roast.
Stuffed Breast of Lamb
Breast of lamb.
1 cup uncooked brown rice.
1 onion, finely grated.
1 chopped green pepper.
Paprika.
Salt and pepper.
Have a pocket cut in the breast of lamb, from the end. Cook brown rice in boiling salted water and season with chopped green pepper, onion and paprika. Season the breast of lamb with salt and pepper and fill the cavity with rice stuffing. Sew or fasten the edges together with skewers. Place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Do not cover and do not add water. Put into a moderate oven (300-350 F.) and roast until done, about two hours. Serve with tomato sauce.
The loin roast, boneless lamb roll, and crown roasts are all very good cuts and may be cooked in the same manner.

Roast Lamb
Wipe the meat with a damp cloth, season with salt and pepper and place on a rack in a roaster. Do not cover and do not add any water. Place in a slow oven (300-325 F.) and roast thirty to thirty-five minutes per pound. Allow ten minutes more per pound for the boneless lamb roll.

Lamb, either roasts or chops, should not be overlooked. A delicate pink color is the mark of a chop "broiled to a turn." A roast just this side of well done will be juicier and better flavored than one which is overcooked.
If a crown roast is placed upside down in the roasting pan, it will not be necessary to wrap the ribs ends since the fat melting from the roast as it cooks will prevent the ribs from charring.

The first of the smaller cuts of lamb are steaks and chops. We have two kinds of steaks, leg and shoulder, also two kinds of chops, rib and loin. Chops are best when broiled, but can be pan-broiled. Steaks lend themselves to broiling, cooking en casserole, and similar methods.
Lamb Steaks, Italiane
6 lamb shoulder steaks.
1 egg, slightly beaten.
Bacon fat.
1-2 cups canned tomatoes.
Butter.
1-4 cup chopped green pepper.
6 medium sized onions.
1 cup grated cheese.
Pepper rings.
Sprinkle steaks with salt and pepper. Dip in egg and roll in crumbs. Fry in hot fat until brown. Arrange thin slices of onions on baking sheet in bacon fat and sprinkle with cheese mixed with cracker crumbs and dot with butter and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until tender. Serve onion rings on chops. Garnish with pepper rings. (Serves six.)

Two of the most economical cuts are the neck and the shank.
Neck of Lamb en Casserole
Neck of lamb (4 pounds)
1-2 cup flour.
Bacon fat for frying.
2 carrots.
3 potatoes.
Simmer lamb until tender—about one and one-half hours. Remove the meat from bone, in medium sized pieces. Roll in flour and brown in bacon fat. Place in a baking dish and cover with thickened meat stock to which have been added diced raw carrots and potatoes. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until vegetables are tender—about 30 minutes.

Your Strawberry Jelly Is Safe!

Mrs. Irma Shwedo (top left) of Staten Island, New York, and Mrs. Frank Sullivan (lower right) of Bellmore, Long Island, are typical of the hundreds of home-testers who try out recipes before they are recommended to housewives. Marjorie Lord (upper right) is one of a staff of women chemists who do the laboratory work on the recipes.

What every woman should know, only that strawberries are here and jelly making is swing again, is that a small army of kitchen chemists and practical housewives have tested every short-bill jam and jelly recipe recommended for her use. It's a common thing for as many as 300 or 400 women to test one strawberry jelly recipe before it is released for the 2,000,000 home-makers who make jams and jellies every year.

Only women chemists are employed in the laboratory where short-bill recipes are perfected when they have done their work, the recipes are farmed out to "home testers," hundreds of average housewives scattered throughout the country. Chemists are aware that the exact methods of their laboratories may be too precise for the home. So they submit them to a practical test as well. From the sum total of these experiments, come sure-fire instructions such as these:

Strawberry Jelly
4 cups (2 lbs.) berry juice,
2 tablespoons lemon juice,
8 cups (3 1/2 lbs.) sugar,
1 bottle fruit pectin.
To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place fruit in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Squeeze and strain juice from 1 medium lemon.
Measure sugar and fruit juices into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at once add bottled fruit pectin, stirring constantly. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1-2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once. Makes about 13 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Strawberry Jam
4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit,
6 1/2 cups (2 3/4 lbs.) sugar,
1 box powdered fruit pectin.
To prepare fruit, grind about 2 quarts fully ripe berries or crush completely one layer at a time so that each berry is reduced to a pulp.
Measure sugar into dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure prepared fruit into a 5 to 6 quart kettle, filling up last cup or fraction of cup with water if necessary; place over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. (To reduce foaming, 1-4 teaspoon butter may be added.) Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 10 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Sour Cherry Jam
4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit,
7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar,
1 bottle fruit pectin.
To prepare fruit, stem and pit about 2 1/2 pounds fully ripe cherries. Crush thoroughly or grind. Add 1-4 cup water, bring to a boil, cover, and simmer 15 minutes. (For stronger cherry flavor, add 1-4 teaspoon almond extract before pouring.)
Measure sugar and prepared fruit, solidly packed, into large kettle, filling up last cup with water if necessary. Mix well and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 3 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for just 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once. Makes about 11 glasses (6 fluid ounces each).

Red Raspberry Jelly
4 cups (2 lbs.) juice,
7 1/2 cups (3 1/4 lbs.) sugar,
1 bottle fruit pectin.
To prepare juice, crush thoroughly or grind about 3 quarts fully ripe berries. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure sugar and juice into large saucepan and mix. Bring to a boil over hottest fire and at (Serves six).

Ragout of Lamb, Garonne
2 lamb shanks.
1 onion, sliced.
2 carrots, sliced.
1 tablespoon butter.
Powdered sugar.
Bacon fat.
1 tablespoon flour.
2 cups tomato juice.
Salt and pepper.
2 cloves.
1 cup canned peas.
Cut the lamb into small pieces. Brown the onions and carrots in butter, and then sprinkle with powdered sugar. Sear the meat in bacon fat, add flour and brown. Place lamb in a heavy pan, cover with the vegetables, tomato juice, and seasonings. Simmer until tender—about one and one-half hours. Add peas five minutes before serving. (Serves six.)

Alcohol Not Cause Of Liver Ailment, Physicians Report

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 14. (UP)—Raise your glasses, gentlemen, if you have been afraid to take another drink for fear you might die of cirrhosis of the liver. Drs. Russell S. Boles and Jefferson H. Clark, Philadelphia, today reported to the American Medical Association that a study of 4,000 autopsy reports had convinced them that prevailing opinion was all wrong when it believed that alcohol raised havoc with the liver.

So another of the bogeys of the prohibitionists goes the way of the 18th amendment to discard.

The two Philadelphia doctors found that only 84 out of some 243 cases of cirrhosis were drinking persons. This showed that less than a third of those suffering from the so-called disease of alcoholics actually had tipped.

Attacking the question from another angle, Drs. Boles and Clark found that only 24 per cent of the known alcoholics in the autopsy list showed any definite signs of cirrhosis.

The type of cirrhosis usually thought of as alcoholic was found in children, non-alcoholics and certain animals, they reported. In further contradiction of the popular opinion linking drinks and cirrhosis of the liver, they found that the occurrence of cirrhosis in some countries was in no proportion to the consumption of alcohol. Among the Brahmans who consume only a slight amount of alcohol, they found that cirrhosis was relatively frequent.

powdered fruit pectin, mix well, and continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once pour in sugar, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1-2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, pour into a 3 to 4-quart saucepan and place over hottest fire. Add

Issues New Rulings On Soil Program

COLLEGE STATION, May 15.—Land owners having multiple tenants on a contiguous block of farms may fill out a master work sheet instead of separate work sheets for each farm, it was announced by the State Soil Conservation committee.

They also pointed out that payments will be prorated among all tenants similar to the way old party payments were distributed and the land owner will be held responsible for compliance.

Of great importance to Texas farmers, members of the state committee commented, is the new rule that two rows of corn or grain sorghum interplanted with one row of cowpeas will count as two-thirds soil-conserving. The county committee will determine the percentage of land occupancy.

Sudan grass has been ruled a soil-conserving crop regardless of use and can be harvested for hay or seed, used as a pasture, or left on the land.

The same is true of oats if followed by a summer legume after harvesting. The State Soil Conservation committee assumed that crops will be grown and cultivated will be sufficiently late to allow for this purpose.

It was also announced at the same time that the base rice acreage and production for 1936 will be the base that was established in 1935, except where producers are eligible for upward adjustment. Upward adjustments will be made where the years of 1932 and 1930 were excluded from the previous base calculations; where the producer did not grow rice in one or more years in base period; where production was below a 10-barrel acreage on account of uncontrollable natural causes.

Pecan Replacing Walnut
LOS ANGELES (UP)—The pecan is becoming a strong competitor of the walnut on the American nut market, according to Dallas W. Smythe of the University of California. He predicts that by 1940 the pecan crop in the United States will reach 35,000 tons annually.

MEALS OFTEN FAIL TO GIVE NEEDED INTERNAL EXERCISE

ALL-BRAN Relieves Common Constipation

Meals that are low in "bulk" are a common failing of the average American diet. Frequently, these meals result in irregular habits. Constipation due to insufficient "bulk" is often a consequence. This condition causes discomfort, and may lead to headaches and loss of appetite. Even serious disease may develop.

Banish the danger of a diet low in "bulk" by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly. This delicious cereal is an abundant source of gentle "bulk."

Within the body, it absorbs moisture and forms a soft mass, which exercises and strengthens intestinal muscles, and cleanses the system. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and contains iron.

Two tablespoonfuls daily, with milk or cream, are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

How much pleasanter to enjoy this natural food in place of pills and drugs. Serve ALL-BRAN in some form each day, either as a cereal, or cooked into muffins, breads, etc. Eat it regularly for regular habits.

ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. *Constipation due to insufficient "bulk"

WATER CONSERVATION URGED FOR BENEFIT OF DUST BOWL

Drouths Of Greater Severity Held Likely In US Geological Report

WASHINGTON, May 15. (UP)—If large sections in the semi-arid areas between the Rocky Mountains and the Mississippi river are to escape the blight that converted once prosperous communities into sections of desert, Americans must give more consideration to water supply, John C. Hoyt of the U. S. Geological Survey, said today.

In a pamphlet entitled "Drouths of 1930-34," the hydraulic engineer believes that with adequate information it is possible to curtail the economic losses of future drouths of even greater severity to even less than those of 1930 and 1934, listed as the worst yet recorded.

"In all countries and at all times water has been the limiting factor in social and other development," the pamphlet said. "We have now reached a time in the development of this country when much more careful consideration must be given to water supply than has been given in the past, or serious consequences will result. The disastrous effects of recent drouths in the arid and semi-arid states in a large measure have been due to failure to give adequate study to the relation of water supply to development.

"With the growth of the country detrimental effects of drouths increase, and they will continue to increase unless a proper relation between water supplies and requirements is established and maintained.

Warns of Greater Dangers

"It is not safe to assume that drouths of greater severity than those which have been recorded will not occur, and even if they are not more severe as measured in deficiency in water and length, their economic effects will be greater as utilization of and demands for water are increased. The maximum development and successful use of all natural resources can be accomplished only on the basis of full and reliable

GOP Ideas On Work Relief Taking Form

State Administration System Is Favored By Vandenberg

WASHINGTON, May 15. (UP)—The work-relief platform upon which the 1936 republican presidential candidate will stand is beginning to take recognizable form. Republicans meeting in national convention June 9, probably will be influenced in drafting their relief plan by the program offered in the senate by Sen. Arthur Vandenberg, R. Mich., and the similar republican suggestions voted down by an overwhelmingly democratic house of representatives.

The house this week adopted a deficiency bill carrying $1,425,000,000 for work relief projects. It was a strictly new deal measure. The Vandenberg alternative would provide $1,200,000,000 plus expended relief balances.

Three-Point Program

Vandenberg's program:

1. Relief administration by state boards with responsibility to use either dole or made-work.
2. Allocation of relief funds to state board on prorata basis, considering population, unemployment, living cost and tax resources.
3. Provision of 25 per cent of relief funds by the states.

This coincided almost exactly with the first point of a program offered in the house by Rep. John Taber, R. N. Y., senior GOP member of the house appropriations committee.

Taber's amendments:

1. To substitute the dole for work relief, shift administrative responsibility for relief from the federal to state governments and 50 per cent of the gross relief load.
2. Reduce the Tennessee Valley Authority appropriation in the deficiency bill from approximately $40,000,000 to $35,000,000.
3. Forbid expenditure of any of the $1,425,000,000 relief fund for Dr. Rexford G. Tugwell's resettlement administration.

These amendments were defeated in the house, but they outline objectives republicans are likely to emphasize when they draft their 1936 platform at Cleveland.

Groups In Agreement

An analysis of the house roll calls indicates that, furthermore, the various rival camps into which the republican party must necessarily be divided prior to the nominating convention appear to be fairly well agreed on a relief program.

There is considerable sentiment for the dole as a substitute for work relief. There is clamorous enthusiasm for lessening the relief load upon the federal treasury and, republicans generally believe the administration of relief should be the responsibility of the states even though the federal government may advance a major proportion of the sums expendable.

Some republicans would carry home rule in relief a step further and insist that private charity in local communities be given a larger share of continuing responsibility to the end that the drain on the treasury be further reduced.

Persons most concerned about the unbalanced budget uniformly advocate the dole as a substitute for work relief. Federal Relief Administrator Harry Hopkins will concede that the dole is cheaper. His difference with dole advocates is that Hopkins does not believe it is as satisfactory as work relief.

Herbert Marshall of the films is familiarly known as "Bart." His middle name is Brough, his mother's maiden name.

PANTHERS DROP GAME NO. SEVEN

By the Associated Press

In the Texas League! Galveston swept the three-game series with Fort Worth yesterday by winning, 4-1, from the Fort Worth Cats, and inflicting upon the hapless Cats their seventh straight defeat.

The Tulsa Oilers came from behind twice to defeat Beaumont's young Exporters in another closely fought game, 4 to 3. Murray (Babe) Howell, drove in the winning runs with a two-bagger in the seventh.

The Dallas Steers staged a five-run rally in the ninth but were unable to overcome a substantial lead held by the Houston Buffs, who won the free-hitting and scoring contest, 12 to 11.

The Oklahoma City Indians squeezed all there was out of five hits to defeat the San Antonio Missions 5 to 1, and even the series at one game each.

China Modernizes Courts

DETROIT (UP)—The practice of law in China differs very little from methods in the United States, Dr. Fred Wilhelm, European-born Shanghai attorney, said here. Bar requirements are the same, and court procedure is almost identical, Wilhelm uses an interpreter in court.

Information as to water supplies, with special emphasis on drouth periods, and in order that this information may be available, it is essential that adequate provision be made for the collection of systematic records of the nation's water resources.

Hoyt explained that since drouths are natural phenomena there is nothing that men can do to modify their occurrence. However, he added that the economic losses resulting from water shortages relate to activities that man can control.

"It is possible for man to do much toward the alleviation of such losses by conservation of available water supplies by storage, by efficiency in all uses of water, and by the adjustment of activities that depend upon water to available supplies and to variations in supplies," the report said.

One Good Year in Five

Surveying the serious drouths for the five-year period, Hoyt said that the humid states were seriously affected in 1930 and the semi-arid areas underwent a major drouth in 1934. The humid regions had minor drouths in 1931 and 1934, while the semi-arid sections had minor ones in 1931 and 1933. Thus 1932 was the only year in the half decade in which some region did not suffer a drouth.

The hydraulic engineer quoted the following "constructive program" worked out by Arkansas officials to save farmers from the greater ravages of drouth, which Hoyt said was applicable generally:

- "To raise enough grain and hay to feed all livestock.
- "To produce enough meat to supply the family's needs.
- "To keep enough milk cows to supply the family with an abundance of milk and butter.

Year-Round Garden Urged

"To provide health insurance in the form of a year-round garden, and to preserve any surplus of home-raised vegetables.

- "To maintain a flock of at least 30 laying hens.
- "To give increased care to home orchards, and in areas where no fruit is grown at present to plant enough fruit trees to supply the family's needs.

Air Drama At Ritz Theatre

James Cagney and Pat O'Brien Seen In 'Ceiling Zero'

The inimitable film team of James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, who made such outstanding hits in "The Irish in Us," "Devil Dogs of the Air," and other pictures, are again co-starred in a thrilling aviation picture, "Ceiling Zero," which plays Friday and Saturday at the Ritz.

The picture, based on the stage success, is replete with action, dynamic drama, comedy and romance.

It is the story of three war buddies who are thrown together in commercial aviation. Cagney, O'Brien and Stuart Erwin have the roles of the three buddies. O'Brien is superintendent of fliers at a western airport where Erwin is a pilot. Cagney is the most spectacular aviator of them all and Pat gets him to join their forces.

June Travis, a newcomer to the screen, has the leading feminine role, that of an air hostess. Cagney is a devil with the ladies and makes a play for the pretty hostess, although he knows she is engaged to a fellow pilot, a part played by Henry Wadsworth. In order to keep an engagement with the hostess, Cagney gets his friend, Erwin, to take his run for him. Erwin does so, runs into a terrific fog and is killed.

Cagney is completely broken up, and when an order comes through to send Wadsworth out in a terrific storm, he sees an opportunity to make amends. He knocks Wadsworth on the head in order to save him for June, and makes the run himself, which he knows will result in certain death.

Martha Tibbets plays the part of O'Brien's wife, with whom Cagney has had an affair in the past. Isabel Jewell plays the role of the wife of the pilot sent to his death through Cagney's philanderings. Barton MacLane is the big boss of the airport while others in the cast include Craig Reynolds, Richard Purcell, Carlyle Moore, Jr., Addison Richards, Gary Owen, Edward Gargan, Robert Light, James Bush and Pat West.

First Cunarder Dates To 1847 NEW YORK (UP)—The first Cunarder ever to arrive in New York, was ardently welcomed and toasted by Manhattan's merchants on Dec. 28, 1847. The Hibernia's arrival signalled a milestone in the history of transatlantic travel.

IN 'SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR'

Richard Dix and Margaret Callahan in a scene from "Special Investigator," the Lyric theatre's attraction for Friday and Saturday. The picture depicts the government's war on gangs.

Using today's battle against crime as background for turbulent romance, Richard Dix's new picture "Special Investigator," in which he teams with Margaret Callahan, dashes the myth of gangland efficiency to show that the cooperation and courage of G-Men can lead to only one end in the battle of their organization with mobs disorganized by greed, jealousy, and cowardice.

"Special Investigator" is the Friday-Saturday attraction at the Lyric.

Dix, in this role, has more than loyalty to the department of justice to spur him on, portraying a gangland lawyer or "mouthpiece" who turns special investigator, and swears to wipe out the most dangerous mobsters in the country, when they murder his brother. This RKO Radio film pays special tribute to government men through the fact that each of them is shown to fight as fearlessly as though he had Dix's desire for revenge.

The killers, however, remain organized only so long as their leader holds the whip of fear to restrain avarice and jealousy, and one of the picture's thrill highlights is a revolt within the gang just as Dix closes in.

Adapted from Erle Stanley Gardner's "Fugitive Gold," which ran serially in This Week magazine, the story builds to suspenseful romantic drama when Dix falls in love with the sister of his brother's slayer.

Margaret Callahan, who is featured in the feminine lead, is joined in the supporting cast by Shelia Terry, Erik Rhodes, Owen Davis Jr., Joe Sawyer, J. Carroll Nash, Russell Hicks, Ray Mayer, Harold Jans, J. M. Kerrigan, Cy Jenks, Jed Prouty and Ethan Laidlaw.

Victor Moore, veteran comedian, has been on the stage 40 years.

How the lad wins his way into the old man's heart and finally brings him to accept the lad's mother whom he had barred from the castle is charmingly depicted.

Hoot Gibson Star Of 'Lucky Terror', Offered at Queen

A combination of comedy, dramatic action and thrills makes up the western melodrama, "Lucky Terror," which is offered Friday and Saturday at the Queen with the popular Hoot Gibson in the starring role.

"Lucky Terror" has all the fast riding, exciting complications and thrilling moments of the western story, but in addition it has a great deal of comedy. An old-time patent medicine show plays a part in the comedy sequences.

Hoot Gibson wins new laurels with his horsemanship and marksmanship. His fight to restore the ownership of a gold mine to the girl he loves affords an interesting story.

The fellows were kidding the oldest shooter out at the skeet field the other day. Although he owns several guns his favorite is a relic that brings forth such comment as: "Don't forget your ramrod," or "Be sure your powder is dry."

The oldest shooter, a quiet sort with keen eyes for his age, doesn't mind the friendly chatter and smiles broadly when the score card shows him in the 20's with the youngsters. Often he registers a perfect round and gets claps on the shoulder.

At such times he is in high good humor and declares he "wouldn't trade this old musket for the finest gun on the rack." The "old musket" is a (Spencer) twelve gauge double, with 26-inch barrels, and was used in his family as a field gun for many years.

"When I was young I thought a gun was anything that could be fired," he says. "Later I got guns to fit me. This is one. When the skeet business came along I spent a little money for stock and barrel work and this old scatter-horn suits me."

There are fortunate shooters who can walk into a store and pick out a gun from stock that seems to have been made to order for them. Others, not so lucky, must have a gunsmith or the factory work on their guns until they meet individual requirements.

When ducks and geese start south next fall they'll find a good place on the central flyway for much needed rest. This federal project, known as the Squaw Creek migratory bird refuge, is located in Holt county, in northwest Missouri, and completion is expected by November 1. The tract includes 7,000 acres, of which 6,000 acres are under water.

Jackrabbit Scourge
A year ago hundreds of thousands of jackrabbits were killed in drives in western states. While not so numerous in some sections as last year, the rabbits still pester the farmer and rancher. Beaters surrounded a specified area in southwestern Kansas during April and killed 6,000.

Veteran 'coon hunters are alarmed by the destruction of den trees and are demanding more protection for this animal. They point out that timber has been cut and destroyed in the more settled regions until there are very few trees left fit for a 'coon to live in.

GIANTS BLANK CHICAGO CUBS

By the Associated Press
Checking over the American and National!

The New York Giants blanked the Chicago Cubs, 5 to 0, yesterday with Carl Hubbell pitching five-hit ball.

The Pittsburgh Pirates scored five runs in the eighth to vanquish the Bees, 6-2. Pittsburgh's rally knocked Ray Benge out of the box. John Tising hurled six innings for the Pirates, but gave way to Guy Bush, who was credited with the victory.

The St. Louis Cardinals, leaders in the National league race, pounded out a 12-4 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Cards collected 16 hits. Walker pitched for St. Louis.

For the second time this season Lefty Grove limited the Detroit Tigers to five hits as Boston took the odd game of the current series, 3 to 1. The Red Sox got seven hits off Elden Auker, two of them doubles by Heinie Manush.

The White Sox defeated Washington 13 to 12 in a wild contest which saw the Senators tie the score after the Chicago team had led 10 to 1 before going into the fourth inning.

The New York Yankees turned loose a 15-hit attack to beat the St. Louis Browns, 6-1. Charley Ruffing, on the mound for the Yankees, allowed only four hits.

Bob Johnson, dropped from third to sixth place in Connie Mack's hitting order, risted a home run over the right field wall as the Philadelphia Athletics defeated the third place Cleveland Indians, 4 to 0. Dusty Rhodes pitched three-hit ball.

Trans-Ocean Air Service Established

Dirigible Hindenburg Is Made Ready For Second Voyage

FRANKFURT, Germany, May 15. (UP)—Commercial airship service between Europe and the United States, a dream of many years, became an established fact today.

The dirigible Hindenburg was moored at its new home port yesterday after a round trip in seven days, seven hours, 23 minutes between Germany and Lakehurst, N. J.

No sooner had the great ship been put in its hangar and its passengers, mail and cargo disposed of, than the airport crew began tuning its motors and making preparations to refuel it for the second pay-load airship in history to the United States.

Saturday night or Sunday morning, depending on the weather, the 803-foot ship will nose out westward again for Lakehurst, and four days later it is due to leave Lakehurst for Frankfurt.

The Hindenburg broke all airship records for the westward and eastward flight. A flew to Lakehurst from Friedrichshafen in 61 hours, 50 minutes. The old record was 96 hours, 23 minutes. On its home flight, the Hindenburg arrived with its 47 passengers at 4:50 a. m. (10:45 p. m. Wednesday EST), to complete its flight in 48 hours, 28 minutes. The old eastward record was 55 hours, 22 minutes.

Sale By Drink Is Chief Evil

First Six Months Of Texas Liquor Regulation Ends

AUSTIN, May 15. (UP)—The first six months of state regulation of whiskey by the drink leading various sale law ended yesterday with sale of whiskey by the drink leading to various types of violations.

C. A. Paxton, chief inspector for the liquor control board, said liquor dealers with large investments generally were abiding by the law which became effective Nov. 14. Principal violators were "fly-by-nights who hoped to make a large profit in a hurry," he said.

An impending election six months hence on a constitutional amendment to require a state monopoly over liquor sales was ascribed to as one influence tending to strengthen observance by some.

The monopoly amendment was submitted for the general election next November as a companion to an amendment by which the electorate repealed prohibition last August.

Adoption of the amendment would end the present system of regulating private sale of liquor. It would prohibit sale for private profit of spirituous liquors or those composed in whole or in part of products of distillation.

Sale of liquor under the package law was legal in about 100 of the state's 254 counties. About 42 were wet when the act became effective. A majority of those which voted wet after legalization, did so within the first three months.

Amendments To Cotton Exchange Bill Discussed

WASHINGTON, May 15 (UP)—The senate agricultural committee today discussed compromise amendments to the cotton futures act designed to regulate the nation's cotton exchanges.

The amendments, proposed by Sen. Ellison Smith, D., S. C., were described by J. Joseph O'Donnell of Friserson and company, New York and Dallas cotton merchants, as "apparently a compromise in order to satisfy both groups in the cotton exchanges."

"I believe that enactment of this legislation would go a long way in restoring confidence in the cotton markets," he added.

One group has been urging that if any changes be made where others sought drastic changes in the present rules along the lines of a return to "new call" purchases and sales, limitation of trading to 50,000 bales in any one month and other provisions.

Smith's proposals were an attempt to compromise these differences as nearly as possible, O'Donnell said.

They provide:

That cotton delivered on futures contracts must contain not more than three contiguous grades of the same color, in standard compressed bales, with but one notice and one delivery day where the exchange is at the place where the exchange is located or net less than one and not more than two southern delivery points.

Mandatory minimum margins requirement of five per cent.

Prohibits use of exchanges in connection with cotton sold on call unless the price of the cotton is fixed prior to shipment.

Prohibits cotton merchants from acting as commission brokers or members of the clearing house.

Establish a trading limit of 100,000 bales in any one futures month on all cotton exchanges or a total trading limit of 600,000 bales in all futures months of all American cotton exchanges, at any time.

Prohibits corners, squeezes, manipulative straddles, etc.

Shipments Of Arms Probed

Four Cubans Are Arrested At Laredo By Mexican Investigators

LAREDO, May 15. (UP)—Four Cubans were under arrest and the consignment of five carloads of munitions—sufficient to arm 2,000 men—to this Mexican port of entry, was under investigation by border officials of the United States today.

District Attorney John A. Valle quoted a munitions concern representative as saying that the weapons and the ammunition were intended to go to General Saturnino Cedillo, Mexican secretary of agriculture. Cedillo is regarded below the border as the head of the state of San Luis Potosi.

The munitions representative according to Valle, were to be used in arming state auxiliary troops under a new law.

Permission to ship munitions into Mexico is necessary from the state departments of Mexico and the United States.

Mexican government agents, the paper said, arrested the four Cubans and were seeking others.

Puerto Rico May Go To Hell, Says Marion Zioncheck

ST. THOMAS, V. I., May 14 (AP)—Rep. Marion Zioncheck, who found only trouble and disorder in Puerto Rico, by contrast found the Virgin Islands "heaven" today.

The honeymooning representative was almost as fervent in praise of the Virgin Islands as he was in denouncing Puerto Rico—but not quite.

"I don't give a damn what they grant to Puerto Rico," Zioncheck was quoted as saying after his arrival on a special navy plane to be a guest of Gov. Lawrence W. Cramer.

"As far as I am concerned the people may go to hell."

The fast driving lawmaker described himself as humiliated and insulted during his brief but eventful stop in Puerto Rico. There he figured in another automobile accident and called for naval and marine protection after watching students strike in an independence demonstration.

$100,000 In Stolen Bonds Recovered

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., May 15. (UP)—A package containing approximately $100,000 in negotiable bonds, stolen along with $1,100 in cash Wednesday from the hotel room of a Champaign, Illinois, visitor, was recovered Thursday when it was found in the back of a public utilities truck into which it had apparently been tossed by the robbers.

The cash was not recovered. Two men were arrested in connection with the case.

W. D. Hammond, 70-year-old former prosecuting attorney at Champaign, was the victim of the robbery, reporting the package had been taken from his hotel room.

'Miss Big Spring' Will Be Chosen On May 27 To Represent City At Ft. Worth; Firms To Sponsor Girls

Date for the selection of the Big Spring representative in the state wide contest for the title of Texas Sweetheart No. 1 and for a place in Billy Rose's Centennial extravaganza at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial celebration has been changed to May 27.

Instead of entering individually as originally planned, contestants will be sponsored by local business firms. It was announced by those in charge Friday.

Entrants will be judged first at the municipal swimming pool at 5 p. m. May 27 and then finally at 9 p. m. on the same day at the Ritz theatre. Out-of-town judges will make the final selections.

Winner of the local contest will be given the title of "Miss Big Spring" and will have all her expenses paid to Fort Worth where she will appear with those from other major cities of Texas before Clark Gable, motion picture star, who will pick the No. 1 sweetheart, which carries with it a six months contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

If not chosen for this honor, she may be one of 36 girls who will be used in the Rose production, directed by John Murray Anderson of London.

All entrants are urged to register at the Ritz theatre office, The Herald, or the chamber of commerce, where blanks are now available. Ideal height is recognized as five feet six inches to five feet ten inches.

Representatives from several other cities in Texas have already been chosen and in Colorado, the contest drew 25 entries.

1932). Not only is the outlook for yields very poor on the plains, but also in those districts to the eastward. The reported condition of the crop on the acreage remaining for harvest is the lowest of any year of record.

Texas oats condition on May 1, 1936, was rated at 23 per cent of normal, compared with 61 per cent a year ago, and 69 per cent the nine-year average (1924-1932). The crop was adversely affected by dry weather during the winter and early spring. The condition of oats in the 10 southern states was 48.5 per cent on May 1, compared with 68.6 per cent a year ago, and 72.3 per cent the nine-year average.

The condition of tame hay in Texas on May 1, 1936, was 48 per cent of normal, compared with 62 per cent a year ago, and 77 per cent the 10-year average (1922-1932).

Stocks of hay on farms in Texas on May 1, 1936, were estimated at 105,000 tons, compared with 41,000 tons a year ago, and 109,000 tons the five-year average (1928-1932). The heavy supply of feedstuffs on farms at the start of the winter resulted in a larger than usual education Saturday in support of a request for a supplemental apportionment of $2.50.

The state board will convene Saturday in called session to consider the request made by many of the leading schools of Texas. It will be faced with the question of whether the $17.50 limit attached to an appropriation bill is a constitutional limit.

Accompanying them to Austin were Thomas E. Pierson, director of elementary education, Seth Parsons and Nell Brown of the science department.

pumper. After a few months of this, he started tool dressing and worked on three wells before going in for drilling. At that time, only manila lines were used and McCaslin grew to be quite adept in splicing breaks, so much so that they looked good as new.

In 1888 he moved to Haskins, Ohio, where he cast his first vote. During the same year he joined the J. O. O. F. and Masonic lodges.

While in Haskins, he met Miss Julia Tribble and in 1894 he was married to her.

After Senator Bowles died in 1902, McCaslin severed his connections with the estate of his late employer and began to contract drilling. For five years he followed this profession.

From Haskins he followed the oil play to Robinson, Ill., where he was employed as a gauger for the Ohio Oil Co., a connection which he maintains for 33 years.

To Texas In 1918

Another shift of the center of oil play brought him to Breckenridge, Tex., in 1918 where he took a position as district foreman for the Texas Co. When the excitement focused on Mexico in 1924 he joined up with Col. Humphrey as pipeline superintendent. Shortly afterwards the colonial sold out to Pure Oil company, but McCaslin maintained his connections and was still in its employ when he came to Big Spring.

In 1928 he left Pure Oil to join the employ of Mrs. Dora Roberts as royalty-gauger, a position he has held since.

Not all McCaslin's contribution to the oil industry has been in interrupted service. He is the discoverer of the principle by which casinghead gas was converted into gasoline.

Coil System

Even before he went into the oil business, he and a companion were fascinated by the fact that gas piped from a well was emerging as a fluid at the end of a pipe several hundred feet away.

He hit upon the idea that cooling was causing the vapor to condense, so he and his friend devised a simple system of water-cooled coils by which the gas was condensed to gasoline. By this process they were able to retrieve several barrels a day.

Provoked by awkward delays in drilling activities, McCaslin set his mind to work on a way to direct the power of a gas engine easily. The fruition of his study was the first reversible clutch.

Over his long period of service in the industry, he has turned his inventive genius toward the perfection of several minor appliances, all of which he has passed on as helps to the business he has loved.

Steady progress was being made by the E. Frazier, at No. 1 Patteson in the northeast quarter of section 188, block 29, W&NW survey. The extension test south of the Continental lease is drilling past 700 feet in search of shallow sand production. It made 200 feet of hole with rotary Thursday.

Continental No. 8 Eason, outpost test southwest of proven production in the Howard-Glasscock field, showed 1,073 barrels a day on a two hour potential test Thursday. It pumped 84.7 barrels the first hour and 44.7 the second. It is located 440 feet from the north and west lines of section 7, block 32, T-3-S, T&P survey. Pay was topped at 2439 feet and it is bottomed at 2447 feet in lime.

The same company's No. 55 shallow test bottomed at 1245 feet in sand tested 416 barrels a day on a two hour run, showing 12.66 barrels the first hour and 17.35 the second. It is located in section 159, block 29, W&NW survey, and topped the sand at 1210 feet.

Put these two facts together and you'll know what eight to buy. You'll pick a Pontiac. Because Pontiac's smoothness is built-in smoothness. ### The Sports Circuit

By Tom Bousley

BIG SPRING golfers are really pulling for Mrs. Theron Hicks in the tournament at Mineral Wells, believe you me. Lack of practice probably caused Mrs. Gordon Phillips to lose her first match.

MRS. HICKS has a fine competitive spirit, and that's really necessary. She is Big Spring's city champion.

MAC HORNE, husky high school football captain at Childress, won first place among boy home economics students in a contest at San Angelo recently. His award came for his selection of useful and decorative home accessories.

THE FORT WORTH Cats appear destined to set some sort of record for losing in the Texas league. They dropped their seventh straight last night. They had a run of 12 straight defeats earlier in the season.

EVEN THE good players are in a slump but that is typical of a team playing lousy ball. A fellow usually goes about like the company he keeps. Take a good team and put it against a punk one. It will look like 30 cents before the game is over. A player can not perform in any kind of style unless those about him set the example.

ON FIRST thought it would seem to make little difference of what nationality a baseball player might be, just so he had the ability to field the old apple, wallop the daylights out of the horseshide and scamper around the bases with a sufficient amount of speed. But such is not always the case. The New York Yankees are really collecting the shekels because of the appearance of a couple of Italian boys in the lineup. DiMaggio and Cosselli by name. The former is the sensational rookie purchased from the Pacific Coast league who Babe Ruth, retired star, delude Cosselli isn't new to the New York fans but his fine work thus far this season is one of the principal reasons the Yankees are at the top of the heap. Yet it is the fact that they are descendants of Mussolini that causes thousands to pass through the turnstiles. City sports scribes claim that these two lads are causing the spaghetti eating fans to wave Italian flags and about with glee. It will be remembered by local fans that the great John McGraw tried frantically for many years to obtain a Jewish star, realizing that such would bring additional customers. What wouldn't the great leader have given for Hank Greenberg of the Tigers! Stars they must have but a variety seems to be the logical pick these days.

AMARILLO GOLFER HAS EDGE

MINERAL WELLS, May 15 (Sp) Mrs. Theron Hicks of Big Spring, playing in the second round of the Women's West Texas Golf association tournament here, was three down at noon today at the end of nine holes, to Mrs. J. W. Ross of Amarillo.

Mrs. Ross defeated Mrs. Gordon Phillips of Big Spring yesterday in the first round, 3 and 2.

Mrs. Rhea J. Vernon of Abilene was elected president Thursday night and Mrs. Lea Aldwell of San Angelo, vice president. Mrs. Gordon Phillips of Big Spring was re-elected secretary.

Directors elected were: Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Rhea J. Vernon, Mrs. Lea Aldwell of San Angelo, Mrs. Guy McAfee of Lubbock, Mrs. Joe Brown of Mineral Wells, Mrs. R. E. Winger of Fort Worth, and Mrs. Jess Rogers of Amarillo.

The 1937 tournament will be held in San Angelo.

SPORT SLANTS

NEW YORK, May 15 (AP)—Painfully aware that their international poloists have absorbed three sound trouncings from American teams since the war, Britain's experts are not kidding themselves much about the Westchester cup matches to be played abroad in June.

They think they might possibly, with rare good luck, squeeze out their maiden victory over an all-star American side, but they're not counting on it. The best combination they could put together would carry an aggregate of 30 goals by hand, while the American squad is bound to have 31 goals on the field, no matter what quarter is finally chosen from among Eric Pedley, Michael Phipps, Stewart Iglehart, E. T. Gerry, Robert Strawbridge, Tom Mather and Winston Guest.

The addition of Gerald Balding to the British squad was a decided boost to British chances. The British-born Balding, who has been living at Rumson, N. J., for a number of years, holds a handicap rating of nine goals and is rated second only to Tommy Hitchcock Jr. as a player. He replaces the veteran Captain Humphrey Guinness of the Royal Scot Greys, long one of England's greatest players, at back.

Convalescent First Sacker Coming Back Fast

ST. LOUIS, May 15 (AP)—Johnny Mize, the St. Louis Cardinals' rookie first baseman, is pounding the ball at a very merry clip for a convalescent. The gigantic youth is confounding skeptical surgeons who pronounced an operation on the pelvic arch last winter a sure sign that he would never play again.

An event-by-event comparison of the four relays gives the Longhorn school's ninth annual meet an edge on the basis of performances. There were 13 events in common among the four meets.

Dozen Home Runs

The injury continued to bother him and he saw service in only 65 games. He did pretty well at that, for he hit a dozen home runs and finished the season with an average well over the 300 mark. When the injury failed to clear up, Mize submitted to the operation. This apparently did the trick.

If Mize keeps up at his present pace he is likely to keep the slugging Ripper Collins on the bench. The rookie stepped in when Collins was suffering from a batting slump and moved along at such a fast clip that Manager Frankie Frisch has refused to break up a winning combination.

Speed To Burn

Mize broke into baseball with Greenboro at the age of 17. He was an outfielder, plenty awkward but a power-hitter at the plate, and with speed to burn on the bases.

In 1932 he was sent to Elmira, where he led the N.Y.-P. loop in

Harvard Looks To Pre-War Days As The Best In Its Track History

(This is the eighth of a series of stories on the all-time all-star track teams of the nation's leading colleges.)

By BILL KING
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 15. (AP)—Old John Harvard, who has seen his sons dominate most of the amateur sports at one time or another, is a bit chagrined over their skinny contributions to track and field records during the 20th century.

Many years ago, from 1880 to 1900, John's boys were among the rulers of the eastern intercollegiate cinder paths and jumping pits, just as they were on the playing fields and rivers. Harvard's greatest track star was probably its earliest one, Evert J. Wendell, who graduated just 84 years ago. Long before the advent of the crouching start or the professional coach, he started the track world by running the "100" in 10 seconds. Since his day, only five Harvard sprinters have bettered his mark.

Thirty-Year Record
The great Billy Schick, who competed for Harvard some 30 years ago, was the first of its representatives to do 9-4-5. Only one other pre-war Harvard athlete, Eddie Teachner, was able to equal that time, which three of the moderns, Al Miller, Art French and Tommy Mason did from 1934-30.

Schick also established Harvard's 1-2-3 record for the "220" and it still stands, although Reggie Foster, Bill Barron and Ted Meredith matched it during the stretch from 1909-17.

Westmore Wilcox, who competed about 20 years ago, still ranks as Harvard's greatest quarter-miler. He was clocked in 48 seconds, a college record that has never been threatened. Until Pen Hollowell appeared at the stadium, about seven years ago, Bill Bingham, now the university's athletic director and chairman of the U. S. Olympic track committee, was the ranking half-miler.

Bingham had the misfortune to be at his peak just when the great Ted Meredith was at his best.

WILLIAM J. BINGHAM

Track followers still recall their stirring duels.

Bingham's college mark of 1:54 2-5 stood from 1915 until 1931, when Pen Hollowell lowered it to 1:52 3-5. The latter, who continued his athletic career as a Rhodes scholar, does not expect to see a Harvard man equal his 4:12 2-5 mark for the mile for many a year.

Outside of Ed Gourdin, one of the first 25-foot broad jumpers, Harvard has not produced a really great-field performer since George Fearing high-jumped 6 2-4 more than 40 years ago.

Harvard's all-time all-star track team:

100-220 yds.: Billy Schick '05, Reggie Foster '11, Eddie Teachner '17, Al Miller '27, Art French '29, Tom Mason '30.

440-880 yds.: Bill Bingham '16, Westmore Wilcox '17, Pen Hollowell '32.

1-2 miles: Paul Withington '12, Billy Burke '23, Jim Reid '29, Pen Hollowell '32.

Hurdles: J. G. Willis '02, Eugene Record '32, Milt Green '36.

High jump: George R. Fearing '03, Robert Hall '26.

Broad jump: Oscar Sutermeister '32, Emile Dubiel '37.

Shot put: Charles A. C. Eastman '24, Johnny Dean '34.

TEXAS RELAYS CLAIMS EDGE IN CARNIVALS

AUSTIN, May 15 (AP)—Statistics give the nation's "infant" track and field carnival, the University of Texas relays, a good-sized nod over the more famed Penn, Drake and Kansas relays this spring.

An event-by-event comparison of the four relays gives the Longhorn school's ninth annual meet an edge on the basis of performances. There were 13 events in common among the four meets.

Best performances in five of these 13 events were made by athletes competing under a March sun in Texas. Four best performances were established at the Kansas relays two weeks later and only two each at the Penn and Drake relays.

Unequaled at any of the "foreign" relays were the winning pole vaulter's swing of 13 feet 9 7-8 inches; the shot put of 51 feet 9 3-8 inches; the discus heave of 152 feet 1-2 inches; Glenn Harvin's 400-meter hurdle gallop of 54.9 seconds; Sam Allen's 120-yard high hurdle flight of 14.5 seconds and the University of Texas' mark of one minute, 26.6 seconds in the half-mile relay.

The man with the pencil also figured that the Texas relays would come off best if compared with the other three meets on a dual, performance - to - performance test. Event by event, the Texas relays outdid the Penn relays in seven of 13 events; the Drake relays in eight of 13 and the Kansas relays in nine of 14.

As for the Texans themselves: Alton Terry, Hardin - Simmons university javelin hurler, threw the spear 222.65 feet at the Drake relays for a new American record.

The University of Texas' great quartet of sprinters - Harvey (Chink) Wallender, H. V. Reeves, Beverly Rockhold and Tiny Grunissen—cracked a nine-year-old Penn relay record in the 440-yard relay and shattered the listed world's record in the 880-yard relay.

His outfield play hadn't improved, so the master mind decided to make the most of his slugging by playing him at first base.

He reported to Rochester in that capacity and soon replaced the veteran Art Shires at the initial sack. He showed some improvement in fielding his position and ran bases well enough. But it was at the plate that he was a sensation. His big war club battered down fences in every park in the International league through the 1933 season, and established him as one of the greatest natural hitters in the minors.

POLO PLAYERS TAKE MOUNTS TO THE EAST

By United Press
Texas polo players, who made "riding like a Texan" mean to polo what "riding like a Cossack" does to the cavalry, were far afield Thursday—carrying with them strings of home-grown ponies for sale.

The last player-horse raiser to take his mounts and mallets eastward was York Ratliff, of Llano. Ratliff has been breeding and training ponies for sale to eastern sportsmen for nine years.

This year, he shipped 15 horses bought in the ranch country west of San Antonio and trained at Llano. In recent weeks the ponies were used in competition in central Texas.

Ratliff will be player-manager of the Ox Ridge Polo club at Darien, Conn. for the third successive year. His handicap is two goals.

Rube Williams, the ex-cowboy who became one of the world's leading polo players, carried to New York 60 ponies trained by him and George Miller, of San Antonio.

England's poloists will have a chance to buy some of the finest Texas ponies ever trained. Cecil Smith, highest-ranking American shotmaker, is in England with C. B. Wrightman, Houston. Smith is the hardest riding of Texas' hard-riding crew. His mounts this year are described by horsemen as the best ever rode.

Other Texans playing in Europe include Tom Mather and Carl Crawford, who will appear in matches in England this summer.

Several other Texas ranchers raise polo ponies. Among those who have sent horses east for sale this summer are Lee Downs of Brady, who has six, and Jack Semons of San Antonio, with 17 to sell in Massachusetts.

Polo horses will be sent away, but the Texas Centennial is keeping the choicest rodeo stock at home. Col. W. T. Johnson, director of the Dallas rodeo, which will run from June 6 to 22, has collected 190 outlaw horses at his "Bird's Nest ranch" near Del Rio. The bronchos will be shipped to Dallas soon.

Johnson also has purchased 100 Mexican steers for use in bulldogging contests.

Something new in the rodeo world will be Yerne Miller's show at Fort Worth's Frontier Centennial starting July 1. Miller and Billy Rose, the New York producer, are collaborating on a musical round-up.

A 2,500-acre Centennial ranch north of Fort Worth holds dozens of Brahms steers and half a dozen buffalo. The rodeo, with musical accompaniment, will be novel in that contestants will cut their roping calves and bulldogging steers from a herd. Ordinarily, the animals are released one at a time from "chutes."

Britons Praise Little For Turning Professional

LONDON, May 15. (AP)—White disappointed that Lawson Little turned professional without having tried to win his third consecutive British amateur title at St. Andrews this spring, British players and critics have been loud in commending him for his forthright attitude.

"We must admire him for making a clean break of it," comments one well-known writer. "He has displayed a finer character than many of his contemporaries, both in England and America, who continue to call themselves amateurs while making a handsome livelihood by their skill."

"A thrill we had come to expect will be missing, though, from this year's amateur."

Little champion, was a favorite to slip the Western amateur title here last summer but suffered a recurrence of a "baseball knee" on the eve of the tournament and was unable to compete.

Church Faces Kara

The featherweight finals brings out another national A.A.U. champion, Joey Church, to face a mid-western star. He meets Ted Kara, Cleveland Golden Gloves champion, who won his way into the finals with a three-round decision over Lou Gevinson, Washington, D. C.

Andy Scrivani, Chicago veteran, draws Tommy Tedesco, Buffalo, N. Y. in the lightweight finals and Chester Rutecki, Chicago, will meet Howell King, Detroit negro, in the 147 pound division. King's greatest piece of work in the early trials was to eliminate his hard-hitting teammate, Johnny Harbaga.

Clark Carries Dynamite
The fiercest sock of them all is concentrated in Jimmy Clark, Jamestown, N. Y., 160 pounder. Clark, the National A.A.U. champion, was sorely pressed to win his semi-final match from another knockout specialist, Frank Nelson, of Davenport, Ia., but he remains a wide choice over Ord Fink, Syracuse.

William Townsend, sole representative of the United States army to get by the first round, meets Carl Vincoquerra, Omaha, for the light heavyweight crown. Townsend is willing and upset Johnny Lainski, Brooklyn, the National A.A.U. champion, but Vincoquerra's pressing style makes him a favorite.

Neither heavyweight Art Oliver, Chicago, nor Willis Johnson, Detroit, had much trouble moving into the finals. Their exact ring efficiency is difficult to determine, but Oliver is the choice.

Broadmoor Course Cinch For Colorado Linksman

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., May 15. (AP)—L. R. (Bud) Maytag, manufacturer and amateur golfer of Newton, Ia., and Colorado Springs, apparently still has the mountain-bordered Broadmoor course "hicked."

Maytag is resuming his sub-par attacks on the layout just where he stopped last year. In three rounds within four days recently he shot 66, 67 and 65. The latter was five under par and within a stroke of the course record.

FUTURE AVIATION BUSINESS

A great deal of discussion in recent weeks has centered on the possibility of American Airlines discontinuing its plane stops in Big Spring, and this development has served to create more interest in the proposal for the city to acquire, improve and operate the landing field.
 Abandonment of the American Airlines stops would be unfortunate for Big Spring; and The Herald, with all other interests here, hopes that such a step will not be taken.
 This paper believes, however, that the question of municipal ownership of the airport involves much more than the retention of services provided by the aviation concern. The municipal ownership question must be considered from the longer view, with future developments kept in mind.
 If the port were purchased by the city merely to assure continuation of American Airlines service, the cost involved would be too great; but a $42,000 outlay—$36,000 for purchase and $6,000 for improvements—is not a great amount when the future needs of the city in encouraging aviation interests as a whole are considered.
 The time must come—and it may not be distant—when a north-south air service, connecting San Antonio and South Texas cities with Amarillo and northern points, will be inaugurated. Where that line crosses the east-west continental air line will be an important aviation point. Big Spring could be that point if it prepares itself to accommodate the air services. The first need, logically, would be an improved landing field.
 Even if American Airlines should abandon the stops on its transcontinental schedules, it is reasonable to believe that auxiliary service will be provided for intermediate points and Big Spring could share in this service, provided it had the port facilities and furnished an adequate volume of mail and passenger business.
 The private plane business is an item not to be overlooked. Other points in West Texas are showing revenue in the servicing, fueling and berthing of private planes, and Big Spring can share in this income if it provides the port facilities to attract private fliers. Such facilities can best be provided if the field is maintained and operated by the city.
 The future commercial and private plane business must be kept in mind. It is a business that no progressive city wants to miss and Big Spring can have its share if it meets the opportunity as presented in the airport referendum on next Monday.

★ Man About Manhattan ★

By George Tucker

NEW YORK—One of the town's most persistently upsetting factors is that one never is quite safe from tradition. History always is ready to intrude into private lives.
 Take May 6th (you take it) for instance. On that date just 310 years ago Peter Minuit bought Manhattan from the Indians. Smart hombres, those braves! Now we're stuck with it and it gets screwier every day.
 Another pertinent fact that keeps forcing itself upon my unwilling attention is that Captain Kidd, whom history greatly maligns, once lived at 56 Wall street, which shows that the Captain was born just 100 years too soon.
 Old Kidd, if one must discuss him, gets as much airing in the newspapers today as George Washington, another early resident who tarried for a while at No. 1 Cherry street. Every time somebody starts a treasure hunt the captain's name pops up. He was supposed to have buried a lot of swag out on Long Island as well as in secret nooks along the East river. Now if you traverse the unpopulated districts on Long Island you'll find many "gopher" holes where misguided citizens have dug a vain for the Captain's booty.
 An Aura of tranquility now hangs out over the scene of Washington's Cherry St. abode, but there was a time when it was one of the town's liveliest sections. New York's dead liest gangs used to roam its gnarled, crooked streets, fighting on sight. Lonely duels were staged in the spasmodic flare of the gas lamps, and the echo of running feet resounded hollowly from the cobble stones which in that day served for asphalt.
 There were no skyscrapers—only low-roofed shanties which afforded few obstacles to furtive fellows fleeing from the guardmen. This today is the Brooklyn Bridge section of Manhattan, within a stone's throw of old Park Row where all the newspapers used to be published before they grew prosperous and moved uptown.
 Hovering on the fringe of the Bowery is a colorful yet drab part of Little Italy. Most of the families living there are Italian in origin. Their homes are decorated in lively hues so much admired by the Latins... red and green front-ages... yellow curtains... sometimes a crucifix or some other religious emblem over the door.
 This religious atmosphere is quite authentic and dates back to provincial customs of the old country when Italy was little more than a loosely strung together group of dukedoms. That's why you'll find a priest in almost every square urging words of wisdom upon the elders and cautioning the children to keep out of the street and not to bring grief to their old mothers.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—White House Secretary Marvin McIntyre is enacting a new role. Not only is he handling the president's appointments, as always, but now has also voluntarily assigned himself the job of adviser on shipping legislation.
 This question is the most strident- ridden one of the congressional session.
 The ship operators, backed by Secretary Dan Roper and Sen. Royal S. Copeland of New York are trying to put through a bill that would throw the treasury wide open to their demands. Sen. Joseph P. Guffey of Pennsylvania, with the support of the post office department, has offered a measure abolishing the exorbitant ocean mail grants, substituting instead a moderate and carefully safeguarded ship subsidy plan.
 Copeland, by quick parliamentary strategy, got his bill reported to the senate. But progressives, both democratic and republican, have announced that if he attempts to secure enactment they will filibuster.
 And to emphasize their determination to end shipping raids on the treasury, the progressives struck the $28,000,000 item for annual ocean mail payments under the existing contract system out of the post office appropriation bill.
 This maneuver put the ship operators, and their champions Roper and Copeland, in a dilemma. They have not to come to terms with the progressives—or there will be no more treasury funds.
 The shipping lobby, one of the most active in the capital, has been moving heaven and earth behind the scenes in an effort to get the operators out of this hole. And a few days ago McIntyre brightly volunteered a solution to the president.
 He proposed that a rider be attached to the second deficiency appropriation bill, now in the senate, restoring the $28,000,000 ocean mail item "for a temporary period."
 Close friend of McIntyre's is Jim Barnes, lobbyist for the ship owners association.

Vice President Garner
 Vice presidents of the United States usually are best known for their homespun qualities.
 Vice President Marshall, in Woodrow Wilson's day, became famous for his remark: "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."
 Charlie Dawes was famous for his "Hell n' Maria" profanity. Charlie Curtis became famous as a diner-out, and Jack Garner probably will go down as the greatest poker player in the history of Capitol Hill.
 Jack is a member of the Boars' club, where the stakes are high and the sky is the limit. The minimum pile of chips with which you can enter a game costs $500.
 At the end of one congressional session, Jack figured up in his mind the black book that $68,000 was still owed to him. All of it, incidentally, was paid, except for a few hundred owed by one man.
 By saving his winnings, and by careful investment in real estate, Jack Garner at one time just before the depression was reputed to be worth a million dollars—chiefly from poker.

On the trip to the Philippines last autumn, Jack was engaged in a poker game when at midnight Mrs. Garner tried to induce him to come to bed. But Jack was between $300 and $400 in the hole. He refused.
 About 3 a. m., however, he came into his stateroom.
 "How much did you lose?" inquired Mrs. Garner sleepily.
 "A hundred dollars."
 "Go on back there and win it back," said his wife.
 And he did.
 Allies
 Chief Justice Hughes and Postmaster General Jim Farley see eye to eye on one issue.
 This is not an April Fool story. Here are the facts:
 Early this session a bill was introduced to create two new federal judgeships in the southern New York district, to relieve overburdened courts in that area. The measure had the warm backing of the bar and the courts.
 It was all set for passage when suddenly Sen. Royal S. Copeland claimed that the bill was "personally obnoxious" to him. In keeping with senatorial senate law, the New York senator's wishes were deferred to and the measure was tossed in the waste basket.
 Not many remembered it, but last year Copeland introduced a similar bill. And that was why this new bill was "personally obnoxious" to him. It involved New York patronage and Jim Farley had not consulted him.

But several hours after the caption-wearing New Yorker had scuttled the bill, Chief Justice Hughes made a speech before the American Law Institute, in which he spoke of the urgent need of relieving congested court calendars.
 "There are still some sore spots," he added, "and where delays are so serious they are due to a failure to provide an adequate supply of judges to attend to the work of the courts. That is notably the case in the southern district of New York. The judicial conference has repeatedly recommended that additional judges be provided."

SAME ALLOWABLES FOR EASTEX FIELD ARE RECOMMENDED
 AUSTIN, May 14. (AP)—V. E. Cottingham, engineer in charge of production for the Texas railroad commission, recommended at the monthly production hearing today that the allowable of the East Texas field for June be unchanged from 440,000 barrels estimated production as of May 1.
 The recommendation, generally indicative of the commission's action, was made despite a drop in the reservoir pressure.

ECONOMIC, SOCIAL SECURITY REVEALED AS VETERANS' GOAL

NEW YORK, May 15.—Seventy per cent of the $2,000,000,000 bonus to be paid to veterans the middle of June will be spent toward the attainment of economic and social security for the more than 3,000,000 beneficiaries. It was revealed today with the announcement of the results of a nationwide survey just completed by the American magazine.

The detailed analysis of the many and varied estimates of where the money is going, both geographically and by industries, is published in reply to inquiries from businessmen all over the country "who are citing their cash registers in anticipation of the bonus payment," the magazine stated. The analysis is based on private investigation, following examination of figures supplied by the American Legion, the department of commerce and other organizations.

The two largest items, according to estimates based on inquiry among the veterans themselves, will be the payment of back debts, and the purchase or improvement of homes. These alone will account for some $600,000,000 each, or considerably more than half of the entire bonus payment. The third largest item, approximately $185,000,000 will be spent for the purchase of new businesses, business equipment, and on education to increase earning power.

In a geographical division of the bonus, New York tops the list with $221,374,457.50, followed by Pennsylvania with $155,594,469.25 and Illinois with $141,472,589.16. Nevada trails the parade with $1,771,846.11.

The survey revealed that large industrial organizations as a rule do not anticipate any sort of boom to result from the bonus payment. For example, the statistical bureau for a national organization of automobile manufacturers stated that the $122,000,000 of the bonus money which is expected to go for cars and trucks will be "only a drop in the bucket." Nevertheless, the department of commerce

Only Karpis Yet to Be Sentenced in Bremer Kidnaping

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 14 (UP)—Trial of Alvin Karpis, co-leader of the Barker-Karpis gang, will clean up the Edward G. Bremer kidnaping case, federal authorities said today.
 Karpis is the only one of 26 indicted in the kidnaping left alive or unsentenced. Fourteen were slain either by federal agents or fellow gangsters. The other 11, including Harry Campbell, have been imprisoned.
 Campbell, captured from a clue wrested from Karpis during prolonged questioning, pleaded guilty Tuesday and was sentenced immediately to life imprisonment.
 He listened disconsolately as U. S. District Attorney Sullivan related how he drove the captive St. Paul banker to a Bensenville hide-out, assisted in guarding Bremer for 21 days, and finally returned him to Rochester, Minn., for release after payment of $300,000 ransom. For this he received between $6,000 and $7,000.
 Campbell, chained to a federal officer, mumbled his plea of guilty, shook his head when asked whether he had any statement, and was led off.
 Officers said 120 hours of constant questioning had failed to make Campbell reveal anything which might assist in Karpis' prosecution. Campbell will not be asked to testify against his former associate, Sullivan said.
 Karpis will be tried in November for the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr. Result of that trial may determine whether he will be prosecuted in the Bremer case.

FIX $6,000 BOND IN MURDER CASE

GREENVILLE, May 15. (UP)—Bond of $6,000 was set by Judge Charles Berry today for Mrs. Velma Patterson, Commerce worker charged with murder in connection with the alleged poison death of her daughter, Billie Pao McCasland, 11.
 Mrs. Patterson was acquitted two weeks ago on a similar charge in connection with the death of Dorothy Leon McCasland, 12.
 The second case will be carried over until the October term of court, when a trial date will be set.
 Attorneys for Mrs. Patterson expect to furnish bond and said she would go to El Paso to visit a sister, Mrs. Clara Purcell.

REINSTATED

"And yet you came—" Mrs. Morgan repeated.

"Let's not go into that. Lots of water under the dam, Iris is still my friend. I couldn't let Iris down. I told her she couldn't go up against all this. What I meant was Georgia, but I couldn't tell her that, either. But she's honest, Granny, as the day."

"And what about the business of her pretending she had Southern ancestors when they were honest immigrant workmen?"

He threw out his hands.

"Granny, Iris didn't know people ever lied for 'pleasure or profit,' as the Virginian said. Not real people, I don't suppose it ever struck woods of Woodlands. She had so loved the place.

Camilla broke into her reverie, speaking abruptly beside her.

"Owen left before we did, I came to see him."

There was nothing Iris could say. She only said her hand out and pressed Camilla's strong brown one, steady on the wheel.

The Elizabethan entrance hall was half lighted; but as they came close they saw the gleam of Owen's shirt-front. He rose and came to them.

"It was a great success," he said. "Phina will be proud of you, Iris. Oh, Camilla, I beg your pardon, I didn't see you. I watched for your number. In spite of the draperies her that Phina could or would tell a story like that if it wasn't true."

"I thought I was right about her," said his grandmother. "Oh, my dear boy, to think you're alive! She began to cry helplessly. Presently she checked herself, dried her eyes, and said: 'I'm a weak old woman. But I'm bossy, Jimmy. I'm going to make terms.'"

He laughed. "Gosh, it's good to hear you laying down the law again!"

"You won't laugh," said his grandmother with tremulous mockery, "when you hear my terms, my boy."

"She's in her dressing room," said the attendant. He knocked and entered.

Iris sprang up from where she had been sitting alone. Morgan stood there; very much about Morgan's old. Before she remembered that he belonged to Kay, she had jumped up with a low cry of "Oh, Morgan, Morgan, you made it! It's heaven to see you—" She stopped herself. She mustn't let him know she cared. He belonged to Kay.

"Yes," he said, holding her hands fast (and she could feel the warm current of confidence flowing from them into her own, making her feel safe, happy, taken care of). "I've made it. I've seen—Mrs. Morgan. It's all right. I was rough last time I saw you, my dear. Sorry. I wish you all the luck—and happiness in the world. . . Good-by, Iris. Here's a note from Mrs. Morgan."

His hands loosed her. His strong presence was gone; she could hear his footsteps on the boards outside. . . Jeasens, dying. He was gone, and there was nothing for her to do but go on with her act. She opened the note:

"I have spoken to Miss Blair about her mistaken idea of your character, my dear Iris. She will apologize in due time. Meanwhile, don't let this upset you. Go on and stop the show."

She went through it even more brilliantly than she had at the afternoon rehearsal, the mothers in the wings told her as she came off after three encores.

Iris found Camilla in her dressing room.

"I'm not going to wait for the rest of the pageant," she told her. "I can't tell you how grateful I feel!"

Camilla interrupted her. "I'll drive you to Woodlands; I'm going there too."

It felt strange, there in the lighted room, dark summer evening, to know that this was the last time she would ever smell the scent of the flowering trees, made sharper by the salt air, that always meant the tall beautiful wrought-iron gates outside the gardens and

Ohio Revenue Is Small From Use Tax Law

Levy On Goods Bought Outside State In Four Months $40,300

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 15 (UP)—The Ohio use tax law, which in effect levies a three per cent sales tax on goods purchased outside the state, has brought approximately $40,300 into the treasury during the first four months of its operation, the state tax commission reveals.

When the cost of administration is deducted from the proceeds, the remainder will go into the state public school fund. Although the exact administrative costs are not available now, it is believed the use tax will yield a comparatively small revenue. The law was enacted by the legislature late in 1935 to supplement the Ohio sales tax on articles purchased in the state. The use tax was designed to prevent the state from losing tax revenues on articles purchased outside Ohio but consumed or stored in Ohio.

Law Expires Next March

The use tax law became effective Jan. 1, 1936. It will expire on March 31, 1937, unless re-enacted by the legislature.

The three per cent tax is levied in the same manner as the sales tax; one cent for a purchase of from nine to 40 cents; two cents for a purchase of from 41 to 70 cents; three cents for a purchase of from 71 cents to $1.08.

State tax commission officials have indicated that the use tax law is directed at firms or other large purchasers buying supplies outside Ohio and thereby escaping the sales tax. It also seeks to prevent the purchase of automobiles outside Ohio to escape the sales tax.

Applies To Individuals

Although the law is applicable to individuals, small purchasers in most cases have not been forced to pay the use tax.

Any article purchased outside the state for resale in Ohio is exempt from the use tax, of course, because that article eventually would be subject to the sales tax. To prevent evasion of the tax, the tax commission studies invoices, bills of lading, and other records of shipments in Ohio. Various fines may be assessed for violation of the law.

California Consumers' association.

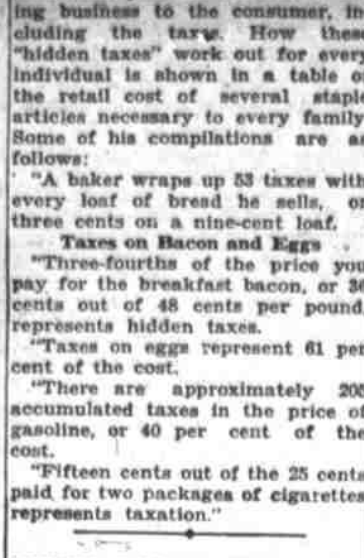

Even these imports, however, represent only 10 per cent of the actual taxes which the public bears, he states. The other 90 per cent of the tax burden, he declares, consists of "hidden taxes" which the average consumer knows nothing about or never takes into consideration, because they are not paid directly to some governmental agency.

The California organization has launched a statewide campaign to inform the public regarding "hidden taxation." It hopes eventually to place the campaign on a nationwide basis.

Defines "Hidden Taxes"

"Hidden taxes," Frazier explains, "are taxes which are passed on to the consumer in the price he pays for all commodities and services. It is one of the oldest tricks of legislative juggling to deceive the common man, or person of low income who comprise 75 per

HITLER URGES SPORTSMEN TO ALL PULL FOR GERMANY

BERLIN, May 14. (UP)—The Reichsportblatt, "official Olympic periodical," represents the Nazi idea of presenting sports without propaganda, but to foreign observers it seems to raise controversial issues.

A recent number contains the statement that the Reichsportblatt has "won the friendly attention of the sporting world as well as of the sporting fans in 46 countries." Its sub-titles are printed in English, French and German.

The cover of this issue pictures Adolf Hitler greeted with the Nazi salute by cheering track athletes. Under the photograph, the following quotation from the Fuehrer is cited in three languages:

We Are Forced To Take Action

Delinquent Taxes Must be Paid,-- or Present Rate and Values Increased

PAST EFFORTS

Notices have been mailed, letters have been written, personal solicitation has been patiently extended and still there are hundreds who have not responded in the least.

WHAT MORE CAN WE DO?

$67,110.71 Delinquent School Taxes

PRESENT EFFORTS

Duty forces us to take definite action on delinquent tax accounts we feel that should be paid. Consideration must be given those who have sacrificed to pay. We must collect or raise rates or values.

WE MUST COLLECT, NOT RAISE TAXES!

As a taxpayer of the Big Spring Independent School District I wish to say my only source of income is small rent houses. Two years delinquent taxes amounting to $173.85 accumulated but with improved rental conditions and tenants working I have been able to pay all back and current school taxes and believe there are many others just as able.

I am one who thought I was not able to pay my School taxes and allowed five years to stack up on my small filling station business on the West Highway amounting to $50.00 but I have paid this by dropping a quarter in a can every night I closed and when the can had $5.00 in it I carried the money to Mrs. Purser, to be applied on my taxes.

Hundreds of others Sacrificed, to Pay Current and Delinquent Taxes

FACTS OF INTEREST

A few years ago we had a $10,000,000.00 tax valuation, with around two thousand children to care for, TODAY we have over THREE THOUSAND children to educate with a tax valuation of a fraction over $7,000,000.00. Our problem is to take care of one third more children with ONE THIRD less taxes. This within itself should explain the need for every tax dollar and our cause for definite action on delinquent accounts.

WE HAVE CARRIED ON AND MUST CONTINUE TO DO SO

JUNE 15,
1936

COOPERATION IS OUR DESIRE

Every consideration will be given those who desire to cooperate.

NOTICE! From date to June 16, 1936 will be given to delinquent taxpayers to present their side of the problem. Forms are on file at the School Tax Office, in the Court House, designed to give the Board the proper information regarding the taxpayers intention and ability to meet his tax obligation.

We do not want to hurt or embarrass any one, but unless we have acceptable information on forms designed for this purpose by June 16th, we will be forced to submit to court procedure.
