Odie Brightwell To Mark 100th Birthday

NUMBER FORTY-NINE

Odie Brightwell, born January 1, 1901, will celebrate a century of living a day early on December 31, 2000, in Gorman, Texas. His seven surviving children are hosting a birthday reception the Sunday before new Year's Day at ZJ's Restaurant in downtown Gorman from 2:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Everyone is invited to help Odie begin his second century in style.

Born just after the turn of the last century, Odie has seen it all and, somehow, survived to tell the tale. And quite a tale it's been.

William McKinley was president when Odie was born. Since then he's seen 17 men hold that office and, as County Democratic Election Chairman for years, helped elect some of them. Right now, he's waiting, along with the rest of us, to see who will be his 18th president.

Odie was born to John Thomas and Minnie Blair Brightwell in what was then the Leon Community. Later, the family moved to the Grandview Community, where Odie was raised on the farm and attended the school his father helped build. Odie was the only boy in a family of seven children. Four of his sisters are still living: Emma of DeLeon, Zina of Gorman, and Johnny and Alice of Abilene.

In 1920, Odie began a 40-year career with Magnolia Petroleum at Desdemona. He married his childhood sweetheart Minnie Ola Jones at Ralls, Texas, on August 14, 1921. The two had been schoolmates in the Grandview Community school.

A favorite family story centers around the immediate aftermath of that wedding. On the way home to Desdemona, the open roadster Odie was driving was forced off the road by a bigger, faster automobile. The roadster overturned with Odie and Minnie, still in their wedding clothes, inside. They'd been splashed with battery acid and were covered with grassburs and sand, but otherwise were unhurt. Odie managed to drag himself and Minnie out, and, with the help of a larger and his mules, got the roadster righted and back on the road.

was only later, when they stopped at Stanford to spend their honeymoon night, that they realized their wedding clothes were in shreds and practically falling off of them, thanks to the battery acid bath they'd received.

The couple quickly settled down to the serious business of child-bearing and raising, and, by all accounts, were pretty good at it. They had nine children in all, beginning with twin boys, Gale and Dale. The twins are now deceased. The remaining children are Willa Dean Ormsby (Stephenville), Zella Mae Wright (Ballinger), Tommy Edwin Brightwell (Hurst), Betty Ann Hale (Brownwood), Minnie Beth Bryan (Arlington), Jimmy Lee Brightwell (Sweeny), and Myrna Sue Smith (Longview).

Somewhere in there, Odie moved his family to a new home in Gorman. He still lives on the same site, but in a newer home he and his bride helped design after all the fledglings had fled the nest.

No one's ever accused Odie of being lazy. At different times, he's served on the city commission, the school board, and has been a Steward in the Methodist Church. By the way, that's Odie's name there on the cornerstone of the new Methodist Church, which he helped build.

Odie retired from Magnolia (later Mobil and now Exxon-Mobil) in 1960 (after surviving both a deadly tornado and a raging fire at the plant) and began a new career as a peanut inspector for the Southwestern Peanut Grower's Association. Until 1986, he worked for Arlton Smith's Peanut Company every year during the peanut harvest.

Odie and Minnie celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary in 1991 before Minnie's death at age 88.

Odie still continues to be active in his newly adopted church, the Church of Christ, and still lives at home, still cultivates a sizable vegetable garden, still mows the grass, still does his own housework, and still drives to town daily for mail and shopping. He can be found most Sundays after church at ZJ's Restaurant, often accompanied by one or more of his seven children, 23 grandchildren, 46 great grandchildren or five great-great grandchildren.

In Memory of Odell Bethany

The "big little" man is gone, but all of his deeds will be remembered by those of use who knew him.

Maybe five foot tall and soaking wet he would have weighed one hundred pounds and was loaded with energy.

I knew him as a volunteer for the residents in a nursing home. Beginning in 1972 every two weeks he was there with is barber equipment to give each and every man a full haircut.

That was a whole morning task that the fellows looked forward to and knew Odell could fill them in on what was going on around town. It was their time for "man talk." Not ever was any money changed hands, and most entransi

That was Odells' good deed fro those confined to a nursing home. He re-She was preceded in death by her quested no publicity, it took away from what he enjoyed doing.

We also had a weekly night for Country/Western music that the residents participated in by listening, dancing and singing along with his old tunes.

There was a group that never failed us. Odell came with his fiddle, the same size he was, Olin and Edith Brownlee, Raymond Moore and Mr. and Mrs. Orvill

We had residents that the only activity they came out for was the fiddling, the picking and grinning.

If you have never lived in a nursing home or worked as a program planner, you have no idea what those faithful, dedicated volunteers bring to their daily lives.

Odell planted a garden the size of a "truck patch." The fruits of that hard, sweaty labor was shared and enjoyed by people all over this town from early spring to late winter.

At the age of ninety-five the "big little" man is gone and as he passed through those "Golden Gates," I'm sure St. Peter handed him a fiddle, hair clippers and Emma, along with you, we will always miss him.

Le Elle Morris

Odell Bethany touched many lives in his 95 years on this earth, and for 62 of those years he lived in DeLeon.

He was a neighbor, a barber, a fiddler and a renowned gardener. His skill with a razor and a pair of scissors, or with an old time fiddle, or a hoe was the envy of all. His ability to plow a straight furrow was evident in his garden and in the way he lived his life.

He will be missed by the many who had the good fortune to know him.

for domestic use in accordance with the statutory formula for establishing the quota. The announcement of the final national poundage quota must be made by December 15, 2000, for the 2001 marketing year, which begins August 1, 2001.

The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, provides that the national poundage quota for the 2001 crop of peanuts shall be a formula quantity equal to the estimated quantity of peanuts needed for domestic edible and related uses, excluding seed, in the 2001 marketing year. The formula quantity, together with an allowance for the possibility of underdeliveries up to 17,000 short tons, totals 1,180,000 short tons.

The national average 2001 quota price support level is set by statute at $610 per short ton. The price support level for additional peanuts must be established by February 15, 2000.

"SPEAKING THE TRUTH IN LOVE"

(Ephesians 4:15)

.....Biblical truths brought to you by the church of Christ in Gorman

The Bible shows us that many sincere souls, possibly like yourself, have begun their search for God only to become sidetracked and experience failure. Why is it that some people fail in their search for God? Some have failed because they began this task with false expectations (Matt. 13:20-21). Others have failed because they weren't prepared for the God that they found (Matt. 19:22). Some in the Bible were searching for God, but because of the religious people that they became involved with (trusted and listened to their advice), they actually ended up in a worse condition (Matt. 23:15). Sadly, many people who are searching for God will fail in their attempt according to Jesus, Himself. For in the end many will claim to have a relationship with Jesus, but in reality they will not have one (Matt. 7:21-23). It is my hope that you can avoid the pitfalls that are all along the road to finding favor with God. I write as one who has been along that road, who has seen "the narrow way that leads to eternal life" and "the broad way that leads to eternal destruction" (Matt. 7:12-13). One who has seen the counterfeits of the truth that the devil has set up (2 Cor. 11:13-15). I write as one who can give guidance (Acts 8:31) and a warning (Eze. 3:17-21). Next week we will continue with "Searching For God." But what about

Are you searching for God? Are you a Christian? Have you obeyed God's Plan of Salvation? Have you obeyed the pure Gospel of Christ (2 Thess. 1:7-9)? Jesus said one must HEAR the word of God (John 5:24) and BELIEVE that Jesus is the Son of God (John 8:24). One must REPENT (Luke 13:3) and CONFESS that Jesus is the Son of God (Matt. 10:32-33). One must then submit to New Testament WATER IMMERSION for the washing of one's past sins by the blood of Christ (Mark 16:16; Acts 22:16; Rev. 1:5). One must then continue to LIVE FAITHFULLY and IN OBEDIENCE to God all of their life (Matt. 7:21-23; 10:22; Luke 6:46). If you haven't done these things you cannot go to Heaven according to Jesus. Have you obeyed the words of Jesus? Call or write us if we can help you in any way. We offer free Bible correspondence courses, free home Bible studies, or email us any Bible questions that you may have. Tune in to radio KYOX FM 94.3 from 9:30 to 10:00 or TV cable channel 4 at 8:00 and 8:30 Sunday mornings if you want to hear Bible based sermons. Of course all visitors are welcome for our Bible classes or worship services. We look forward to seeing or hearing from you.

God Bless you all and may you have the merriest Christmas and holiday season of all.

I attended the funeral of one of my "old friends" on Monday. Oscar Henry Lucke of Abilene was laid to rest on Monday. He was a longtime friend and he went into the Air Force with me in 1951. He retired after more than 20 years in the service and has been employed in Abilene since his retirement. He and his family lived in Gorman for many years and Oscar attended school here. We will miss him.

And remember to smile--because God Loves You!!

Pause To Think

The Christmas Story is the most beautiful story of all times, and the most phenomenal as well. Let's look in Luke 1:26-31 And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, To a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary. And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women. A n d when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and cast in her mind what manner of salutation this should be. And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God. And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS.

Let us also read in Luke 2:4-14. And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:) To be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child. And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn. And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid. And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

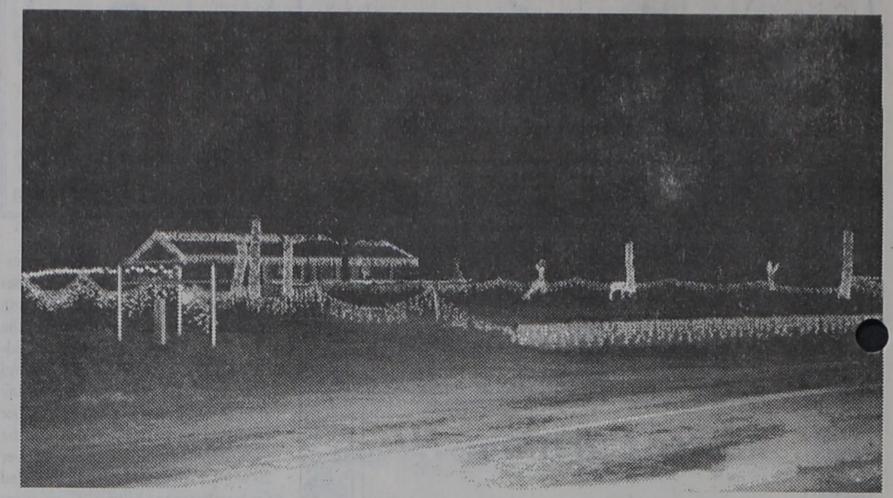

Let us also look in Matthew 2:1-2. Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, Saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship

And finally, Matthew 2:8-11, And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child; and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also. When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.

There are several aspects of this story that make it a most intriguing story: a virgin birth, angels speaking and singing to shepherds, the wise men who followed a star, the gifts they brought, and the fact that the baby was

Emmanuel, God with us. Why did God come to earth in the flesh as a little baby? He came to bring

Mend The Electoral College, Don't End It

The people of America sent a message November 7, but it's taking a little time to figure out exactly what it is. As we learn about dangling chads, the drumbeat is also beginning about the reform of our election process. Should we change election day from Tuesday to Saturday? Should we open and close the polls at a uniform time nationwide? More fundamentally, should we scrap the Electoral College?

This final idea would require amending the Constitution. As we consider that, we should begin by examining the intent of its Framers. Their clear vision during the Constitutional Convention of 1787 was that we remain a collection of states united in their common interests. The delegates in Philadelphia never really considered any form of electing the President that did not involve a process by which the states themselves had the final say, with the particular concern of small states holding sway throughout. The Electoral College was established as the best means by which to ensure popular expression of will, weighted by the influence of individual states. Although many schemes were considered and rejected, Alexander Hamilton pronounced of the final effort, "If the manner of it be not perfect, it is at least excellent."

He was right. Consider how closely the fortunes of both Vice President Gore and Governor Bush were tied to the decisions of the people of smaller states such as West Virginia, New Mexico and Oregon. Each candidate spent considerable time in these states. The combined population of these three states is about 6.8 million. By comparison, the Los Angeles-Long Beach metropolitan area has 15.3 million inhabitants. Would another candidate for the highest office of the land ever step foot in tiny West Virginia were the fortunes of the election based solely on the popular vote? Presidential races in the future would instead be the pursuit of the vote in major urban centers of the country, characterized by frequent run-off elections as proliferating smaller party candidates siphoned off sufficient votes to prevent an absolute majority.

This is often the unfortunate result in many countries around the globe and one we've avoided for two centuries. In just three of 53 presidential elections has the process established in the Constitution failed to yield an electoral majority. That's not a bad record, considering the emergence of political parties, the establishment of universal suffrage and the rapid growth of our country. What has not changed is that we remain a confederation of states with common purpose and a system with enough checks and balances that those who lose do not feel threatened or disenfranchised. Scrapping the electoral system would gravely undermine that principle.

In fact, that's why attempts to change the process will fail. The approval of the legislatures of three-fourths of the states is needed to amend the Constitution. Just 14 states could sink the proposition. Twenty states have a population of fewer than three million and would see little interest in ratifying their loss of influence over the selection of the President.

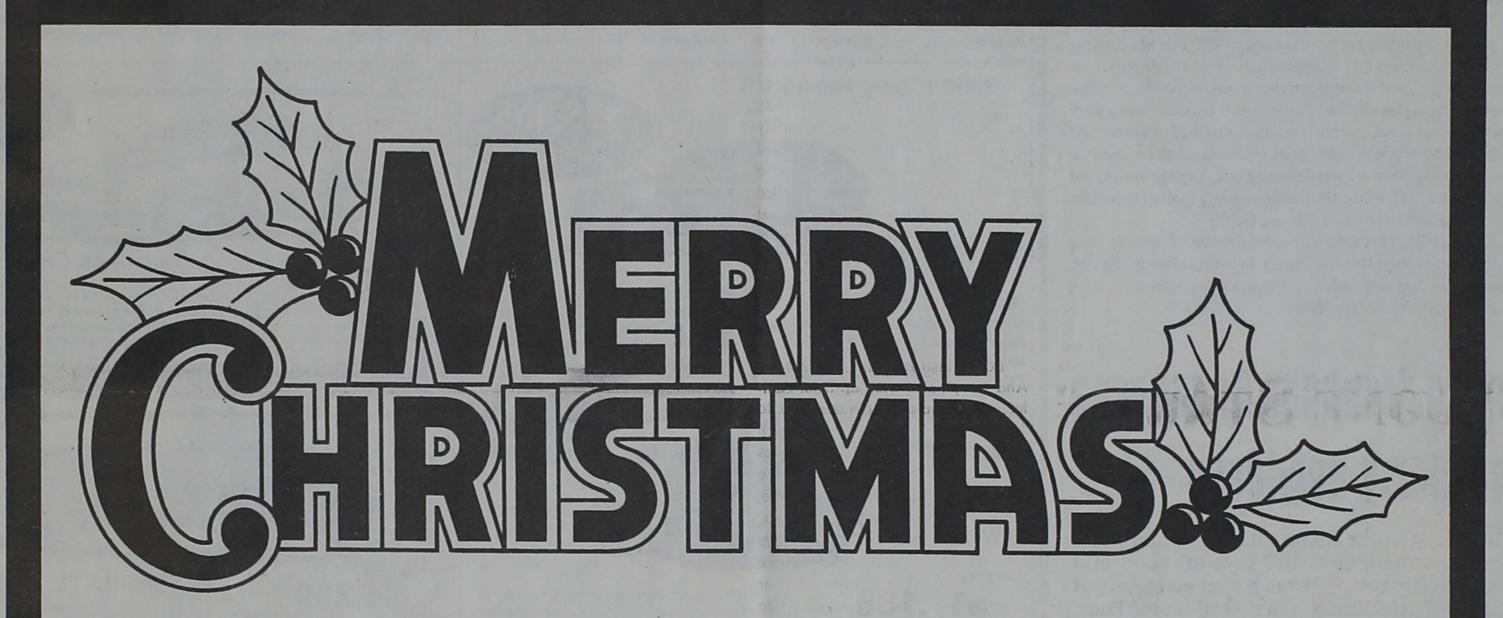

This doesn't mean there is nothing we can do to improve the process. To reach a more expeditious conclusion in a close election, we might define a finite period for the casting of federal votes. Establishing a uniform voting period tied to a single time zone (9 to 9 CST, for example) would ensure that all Americans are voting in the same real-time period. Setting the election on a Saturday instead of Tuesday should be considered. We might also require absentee ballots to be post-marked on a specified date prior to the election. These simple changes may produce more open access and uniformity while confounding the ability of news organizations to affect the vote in one part of the country based upon early and erroneous calls from another region — as well may have happened regarding Florida on November 7.

We might consider one other modification. In two states now (Maine and Nebraska), electors are chosen in a bifurcated way. Of each state's total, two are chosen by the winner of the popular vote statewide, with the rest allocated to the winner of each congressional district. If this procedure were in place in every state, candidates would not only focus on individual states to cobble together a victory, but be able to spend time in potential strongholds within a state he or she might otherwise lose.

The Constitution is infused with the Framers' understanding that popular passion must be modulated to ensure true consensus in what they knew would be a country of diverse tendencies. There are many examples of this, but none more fundamental to our federal identity than the creation of the Electoral College. They knew that it may sometimes be difficult to select a chief executive through the sheer popular will, and developed a systematic process to handle those cases. Indeed, it was only after considerable deliberation and explicit rejection of every imaginable alternative that the delegates to the Constitutional Convention settled on the system.

In the heat of a closely contested election and its aftermath, we're unlikely to improve upon their work. This matter should be debated, and we should seek improvements to assure fairness and stability. However, I believe the current process is not some 18th Century anachronism ill-suited to modern times, but rather the practical expression of our essence as a nation.

NATIONAL TRUST ANNOUNCES PRESERVATION WEEK 2001

"Restore, Renew, Rediscover Your Historic Neighborhood Schools!" National Preservation Week Poster Contest To Award Thousands In Prizes

(Washington, D.C., Dec. 18, 2000) - Before the age of sprawl, before malls and mini-marts and express lanes, children walked to school. They passed friends, neighbors and familiar merchants on their way to a school built just for them in the heart of town, a school whose style and scale reflected the spirit of the neighborhood. Children grew up knowing they were cherished and integral parts of the community, just like the local schoolhouse.

Then the era of the mega-school began, and anonymous new campuses went up on the outskirts of town. Children were bused away from the center of town and community life - and now, only one in eight children walks or bikes toschool.

What are we saying to our children when we move the school out of town and let the lowest bidder decide how it will look? How can kids believe they are valued and unique when their schools resemble malls and prisons?

To reverse the trend, preservationists and children across the nation are making a stand for their historic neighborhood schools. The National Trust for Historic Preservation announced today that the theme of Preservation Week 2001 is, "Restore, Renew, Rediscover Your Historic Neighborhood Schools!" Preservation Week will be celebrated May 13-19, 2001.

"At the heart of every American community is the neighborhood school," said National Trust President Richard Moe. "In this age of sprawl, it's more important than ever to rediscover the role historic neighborhood schools play in towns and cities across the nation. If your school is endangered, fight to save it. If it's been saved, celebrate it. Preservation Week is a time for students, families and communities to come together and rally round these marvelous and irreplaceable neighborhood anchors."

Special this year, the National Trust is sponsoring a Preservation Week poster contest. It is open to non-profit groups, schools, school districts and state and local governments involved in promoting the continued use of older and historic neighborhood schools as educational facilities. The schools featured in the posters should be at least 50 years old, although exceptions can be made to the age guideline. They should have architectural merit, serve as community anchors and be currently in use as educational facilities. Cash awards of $2,000, $1,000 and $500 will be awarded to the first-, second- and third-prize winners. For more information about the contest, contact Rob Nieweg at 202-588-6107. Deadline is March 31, 2001.

Older and historic schools, if properly renovated and adequately maintained, can provide a first-class, state-of-the-art learning environment for new generations of students. Historic neighborhood schools allow young people to walk to class, enjoy a smaller, more intimate facility with neighborhood friends, be surrounded by distinctive design, and be more closely connected with the community. Schools in random, isolated locations out of town afford little of this. They promote isolation, loss of identity and sprawl.

Last month, the National Trust released the report, "Historic Neighborhood Schools in the Age of Sprawl: Why Johnny Can't Walk to School," in which it contends that public policies, including excessive acreage requirements, funding formulas and planning code exemptions, are promoting the spread of mega-school sprawl on outlying, undeveloped land at the expense of small, walkable, community-centered schools in older neighborhoods. The National Trust calls on school administrators and public officials to establish policies that will preserve and upgrade historic neighborhood schools. Among its recommendations, the National Trust suggests eliminating arbitrary acreage standards, funding biases, and certain zoning exemptions that undermine the public's ability to maintain older and historic schools as centers of community life and learning.

In June 2000, the National Trust named historic neighborhood schools to its list of America's 11 Most Endangered Historic Places. In listing historic schools, the preservation organization was responding to requests for assistance from grassroots advocacy groups throughout the country.
