

Dawson Asks Relief Plan Of Governor

By MAC ROY RASOR
AUSTIN (U)—Judges of 12 drought-stricken Texas counties told Gov. Allan Shivers today they face a crisis that is "no longer a matter of feeding cattle but a problem of feeding people."

They urged a six-point program to provide food and work for bankrupt farmers and hungry farm workers.

"We'll do everything within our power to help," Shivers promised. State Sen. Andy Rogers of Childress urged these immediate measures:

1. Allocation of surplus commodities to the drought counties to feed their needy.
2. Refunding of the 2 cents federal gasoline tax to the drought counties to finance public works.
3. State or federal assistance in water conservation projects, providing an interest rate of 1 1/2 per cent on financing bonds.
4. Reactivation of Childless Air Force Base to provide employment.
5. Liberalization of credit to land owners.
6. Allocation of funds for building roads, bridges, and fences to provide work for the unemployed.

The judges left their furniture in an early-morning conference, even before the public reception room doors are customarily opened.

They said unemployment and need for relief was skyrocketing under the prolonged drought.

"We wouldn't be here if it weren't getting worse," Collingsworth County Judge R. L. Templeton of Wellington said.

Farm income in his county, he said, had dropped $3,400,000 from the average.

Dawson County Judge R. F. Spraberry said there were 1,200 applications for work in his county and 119 families on relief.

"Some farmers have locked up their houses, sold their chickens and hogs, left their furniture, and gone off to get work elsewhere," he said. "Others haven't the means even to move."

If crops aren't made this year, he said, "it's going to be 10 to 15 years before we can get back on our feet."

Other judges told similar stories.

"The surplus food is a stop gap," Rogers told the governor. "We'd rather have jobs than breadlines."

Shivers told the judges the drought has been of "increasing concern" to him and he feared it "is going to get worse before it gets any better."

He said he thought the state should do everything it can to help and promised also to do what he could in obtaining assistance from federal agencies.

"On the state level," he said, "I think we can commandeer the services of the Texas Employment Commission."

"We will contact the State Highway Department and see what they can do toward hiring strictly local people on highway projects in that area."

"We'll also pursue the question to see if any help can be provided through the special session of the Legislature."

He urged the delegation to call on the Public Welfare Department to work out arrangements for surplus commodities, to talk with Employment Commission Chairman Harold Hart on the unemployment problem and to see William L. McGill, director of the state's Civil Defense and Disaster Relief headquarters.

"As the drought goes into its third, fourth and fifth years, it means we're all going to have to do everything possible to relieve the conditions that result," he said.

Represented at the conference were Motley, Terry, Lynn, Donley, Childress, Cottle, King, Dickens, Collingsworth, Hall, Briscoe, and Dawson counties.

Guatemala Raps U.S. For Asking Red Issue Talks

By E. L. ALMEN
CARACAS, Venezuela (U)—Guatemala accused the United States today of seeking to intervene in its domestic affairs by asking the Inter-American Conference here to discuss Communist penetration in the Western Hemisphere.

Guatemala's foreign minister, Guillermo Toriello, singled out the United States in a stinging speech at the conference's third plenary session as the leader of forces which want to attack the political and economic freedom of Latin America.

Toriello said he considered the placing of the Communist issue on the agenda as "a maneuver against Guatemala which has been maliciously and unjustly accused of being Communist."

U.S. Secretary of State John Foster Dulles told reporters that if the Guatemalan foreign minister meant what he said about defending democratic principles, "they should support our resolution."

The reference was to an anti-Communist resolution not yet introduced.

Delegates from Argentina and Ecuador also were scheduled to speak at the plenary session.

Toriello's attack came as delegates buckled down to the grind of committee work in an atmosphere of optimism and unity following Dulles' statement of U.S. hemisphere policy. The committees are studying politico-judicial matters, economic affairs, social problems and cultural topics.

Dulles did not mention Guatemala specifically in his policy address yesterday, but he hit hard at the theme that America must realize it is not immune from the Red menace. Not a single country, he declared, has been free from Communist penetration and the American republics must make clear their position to it.

Most Latin-American delegates expressed satisfaction with what they termed the frankness and earnestness of Dulles' speech, although many wished he had gone further into their specific economic problems.

Except for telling them that President Eisenhower's administration is opposed to artificial price ceilings on coffee and increases in U.S. import duties on wool, the secretary couched his economic remarks in general terms.

He called on the Latin-American governments to avoid "unnecessary" obstacles to the inflow of foreign capital for economic

Senate Panel Sets Hearings On Marshals

Strike Hits N.Y. Harbor

NEW YORK (U)—Wildcat strikers tied up New York's sprawling port today, defying a federal court order in a battle for union control of the waterfront.

Resentful members of the independent International Longshoremen's Assn. refused to work the luxury liner and other piers in Manhattan and stayed off the job at piers in Brooklyn and Staten Island.

Waterfront police reported the rival AFL union of the same name also refused to report to work at struck piers, apparently to avoid any brawling.

The two unions are fighting for control of the dock workers.

The striking I.L.A. longshoremen said they acted because of a federal court restraining order obtained against them in federal court yesterday by the National Labor Relations Board.

Passengers boarding the Queen Elizabeth were forced to carry their own luggage. The Cunard line mustered about 100 office workers to help out.

I.L.A. leaders ordered the men to stay on the job, but I.L.A. President William V. Bradley last night called the court order "discriminatory." He said the men "are so angry we can't tell what will happen."

New Moves In Gunplay Case May Be Made

WASHINGTON (U)—The four Puerto Rican Nationalists accused of wounding five congressmen in Monday's wild shooting spree face a court today.

Each has an opportunity to answer to a 10-count indictment, but their formal arraignment may be postponed if they have not arranged for attorneys to represent them.

Amid indications of official concern yesterday that President Eisenhower and others may have been marked by some aspects of the "show sample" which inter-actor Gil Jones presents.

End men, who caper during the second act, are Cliff Fisher, Byron Wolfe, Dr. C. W. Deats, Willis Underwood, Roy Worley, Jack Y. Smith, B. M. Keese and J. Henry. The 50-voice chorus is heard several times, including one number with Charlotte Sullivan as soloist. Bob Townsend does a soft shoe dance. Arnold Marshall sings "Big Bass Viol." Ella Andrews sings "Mighty Lak a Rose." Wayne Bartlett leads "Three Birds." and the H.C.J.C. dancers present "Taratella." In this group are Leon Sparrman, Peggy Jeffers, Vera Harrison, Cecil Niblett, Frances McClean.

Last performance is set for Saturday at 8 p.m. Tickets are available at the door.

Shell Explodes At Lecture, Kills Six

WITH 1ST MARINE DIVISION, Korea (U)—A mortar shell which exploded when dropped accidentally at a training lecture killed six U.S. Marines and wounded 30 yesterday, it was announced today.

The shell presumably was an enemy missile. The instructor was showing how an American-made fuse could be adapted to it and apparently thought it had been made harmless, a division spokesman said.

The shell exploded as it hit the floor of a quonset hut at the division's mine warfare school just behind the front. The blast ripped out doors and windows and hurled steel fragments through the walls.

The instructor was killed.

Four of the wounded were in critical condition. Four others were seriously hurt.

Names of all victims were withheld.

WOMEN'S MEET BACKS BOSS

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (U)—Two Texas Rangers of the rugged border county asked a woman reporter kept Allee from shooting him to death. A few minutes after the scuffle Parr was released on $1,500 bond on a charge of pistol carrying brought by Manuel Marroquin, a leader of the Freedom Party which was organized to oppose the Parr regime.

Allee and an associate, Juan Barre, face trial March 15 on the gun-carrying charge.

Marroquin and four other members of the Freedom Party yesterday urged famed civil rights attorney Arthur Garfield Hays of New York to switch sides and represent them instead of Parr. Hays, 73, represented Parr last week when he petitioned a federal court for an injunction against Allee and Barre. Parr claimed the rangers want to kill him and had violated his civil rights.

Ranger Indictments Dismissal Asked; Parr Foes Want Hays

The three-judge court dismissed the plea against Bridge and refused an injunction against Allee and Barre.

In the telegram to Hays, Marroquin, Donato Serna, J. L. McDonald, Cristobal Ybanez, and Manuel Sanchez claimed their civil liberties had been violated by Parr. They said Serna was beaten, Marroquin's tortilla business ruined by threats and intimidation, Sanchez intimidated and harassed, Ybanez beaten with a rifle, and McDonald arrested without cause.

The five men, who had unsuccessfully tried to intervene in Parr's injunction suit against Allee and Bridge, said many others had been treated similarly by Parr or his associates.

Hays said in New York last night he had not received the telegram and knew nothing of the request.

First Showing Of Minstrel Is Set For Tonight

Lions and their friends will lay on the burnt cork and grease paint this evening for the opening of the seventh annual Minstrel Show.

Curtain time in the City Auditorium is 8 p.m. The show, including intermission, will be less than two hours, based on the tempo established in last night's dress rehearsal.

Net proceeds of this year's show mostly go to support of the Lions Camp for Crippled Children. A small portion will be retained for providing glasses and minor surgery for indigent youngsters here who need help for better vision.

Louis Carothers, general chairman and director of the show, expressed appreciation to the cast for the manner in which they put the show together for the first time Thursday. Friday he and Mrs. Carothers, who has been co-director, were polishing the rough spots and pulling out a few kinks.

Traditionally a part of the production, the candy sales will be spotlighted this evening and Saturday evening, too. Forty firms have provided approximately 50 prizes valued up to $45.

Overtures from a 15-piece high school stage band will precede the show. The curtain comes up on Sig Rogers and his banjo, and Byron Wolf, Bill Pratt, Bob Spears and Bob Lougee form a quartet for "Here Comes the Show Boat."

Then comes "Queenie."

Uncle Tom's Cabin in Swingtime will be done by the Farrar Pre-School group with Bobby Settles as master of ceremonies. Others are Ann Puckett, Sue Boles, Linda McNew, Sherry Gentry, Donna Percy, Frankie Cherry, Suzanne Whalley, Cheryl Wilbanks, Sharon Bell and Janet Jones.

In the line dance group by Bingham students are Mary Jane Engstrom, Nancy Pittman, Sue Zollinger and Diana Dawson. An other dance and musical numbers, they will be accompanied by Mrs. James Y. Butts, who cues the show with her music.

Ella Andres and Charlotte Sullivan appear in a folk song duet and Arnold Marshall sings "Old Man River" with Leon Sparrman doing an interpretive dance before the curtain comes down on the "show sample" which inter-actor Gil Jones presents.

Happy And Hopeful Farmer

This much snow is fine, says wheat farmer Tommy Hewlett, as snow fell in varying amounts Thursday in many parts of the Southwest wheat belt. But as he measures the snow in his wheat field, he looks hopefully at the skies. The Southwest could use considerably more moisture. Hewlett is a farmer near Amarillo. (AP Wirephoto).

Reds Raid French Indochina Airport

HANOI, Indochina, Thursday, March 4 (delayed) (U)—French army headquarters announced that Communist-led Vietminh commandos raided Hanoi's big civil airport, five miles away at Gialam, and blew up an undisclosed number of airplanes today.

The exact losses were not disclosed. But army spokesmen said "several planes" had either been destroyed or partially wrecked in explosions.

In Saigon, the French high command announced that "about a dozen" aircraft were damaged or partially destroyed in the raid. It said most of the planes were C47s belonging to private companies and requisitioned by the army to transport military personnel.

McCorty Hopes To Show Reds In Lab

WASHINGTON (U)—Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) said he hopes, through six witnesses' testimony, to show today that "the Communist conspiracy" placed some of its members in jobs at the Federal Telecommunications Laboratories at Nutley, N. J.

McCorty declined to name any of the witnesses in advance of the public hearing to which they were summoned.

He said all are former employees at the big installation, owned by the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. and devoted largely to electronics and weapons research for the armed forces.

Atomic, Chemical Warfare Tests Set

Exercise "Spearhead" will run May 3-19 at Ft. Hood, Tex. About 22,000 men, including the 1st Armored Division, will see action. Equipment will include medium tanks and the new M59 armored infantry carrier.

The Army had previously announced Operation "Flash Burn" for April and May in the Ft. Bragg, N. C., area with about 60,000 men taking part.

Army Prefers Charges Against Cpl. Batchelor

Pretrial Probe To Begin Soon

SAN ANTONIO (U)—The Army today ordered Cpl. Claude J. Batchelor of Kermit, Tex., held on charges of "giving aid and comfort to the enemy" while he was a prisoner of war in Korea.

Fourth Army headquarters here said that a pretrial investigation will begin soon to determine whether the evidence justifies trial by court martial.

Batchelor was one of the American POWs in Korea who chose to remain with the Communists, but he changed his mind later. Another who changed his mind, Cpl. Edward S. Dickenson, 23, of Cracker Neck, Va., has been ordered to trial by a court martial.

Batchelor, 23, arrived at his home in Kermit, an oil and ranching town in West Texas, last Sunday and came to San Antonio yesterday for a physical checkup. He is in custody now.

The Army emphasized that the charges against him do not involve his temporary refusal to be repatriated.

He is alleged to have violated three articles of the uniform code of military justice, including "giving aid and comfort to the enemy" and collaborating with the enemy while in the prison camp; and by so doing caused other American POWs punishment and hardship."

Batchelor told reporters here yesterday he didn't believe he would be court-martialed for his activities in Red prison camps. He said he wanted a discharge when his enlistment is up in a few days.

"I don't know whether I'll enlist or not," he said. "I've made no definite plans. I want to combat Communists, but haven't decided which would be the most effective way."

Batchelor left a Japanese wife behind in Tokyo. He said he hoped to bring her to Texas. His parents and five of his eight brothers and sisters live in Kermit, where his father is an oil field worker.

On Feb. 18, the Army ordered a court martial trial for Dickenson on charges he gave the Communists information about fellow prisoners in order to gain better treatment for himself. His trial is due to begin sometime late this month but the date has not been set.

The formal charge against Dickenson is unlawfully collaborating with the enemy.

Narcotics Trial Jury Selected

Jury was selected and five witnesses were sworn this morning to set the stage for the trial of Joe Gomez on charges of possessing marijuana, second offense.

First testimony was to be heard at 1:15 p.m. in 118th District Court.

Gomez was charged last fall following an investigation conducted by an undercover agent of the Narcotics Division, Department of Public Safety. The undercover man, W. F. Hendrix, was one of the witnesses sworn.

Other witnesses taking the oath this morning were Charles Smith, chemist for the DPS; Jake Bruton, who was chief of police at the time the state alleges Gomez was first convicted for possession of narcotics; and Margaret Hotzelter.

Two other persons were scheduled to be tried this week on narcotics charges. They are Wallace Ringo and Lorenza Barola.

Both Barola and Ringo were in a group of 10 persons arrested by Hendrix at the courthouse this morning. The 10 were placed in county jail, and sheriff's officers said they will be charged with vagrancy.

Godfrey Grounded For Six Months

WASHINGTON (U)—The Civil Aeronautics Board decided today to suspend Arthur Godfrey's pilot certificate for six months, effective March 16, as a penalty for careless flying at Teterboro, N. J., Airport Jan. 7.

The action came in the form of a recommended decision by CAB Safety Examiner Albert H. Ruppard. Godfrey has the right of appeal, but a recommended decision by a safety examiner customarily is adopted by the board as its own decision.

The recommended penalty was surprisingly severe in view of the fact that the Civil Aeronautics Administration had asked for a suspension of "at least 90 days."

WASHINGTON (U)—The Bureau of Labor Statistics reported today there were 400 strikes in January, the lowest figure for that month since 1950.

By EDWIN S. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON (U)—Farm officials of the Eisenhower administration face another barrage of questions today by senators opposed to their plan to make agricultural price supports less rigid.

But they got some tokens of support, too, notably from Chairman Aiken (R-Vt.) of the Senate Agriculture Committee, who lauded Secretary of Agriculture Benson as an "honest man" and said his numerous congressional critics are talking merely for political purposes and nothing else.

Aiken offered in support of his views voluminous charts which, he said, proved that 22 years of assorted farm programs had cost less than 500 million dollars a year.

"In my opinion it has been a good investment," he added.

Critical questions of farm prices and income dropping lower under the new program took up most of a lengthy session of the committee yesterday.

Secretary Of Defense Wilson Says Army Not Coddling Reds

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson says any "idea the Army is coddling Communists is just damn tommyrot" but that he is looking for better ways to handle security risk cases in the future.

Wilson was questioned yesterday at a news conference about the case of Maj. Irving Peress, Army dentist who invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about possible subversive connections. Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.), investigating the case, has sharply criticized the Army.

Wilson's comment stirred McCarthy, who only a few minutes before had vowed he was "all through" issuing statements, to retort that "no one has ever retailed that the Army as such is coddling Communists." But, McCarthy insisted, testimony had established that "certain individuals in the Army have been protecting, promoting, covering up, and honorably discharging known Communists." The senator said he was sure the secretary "will not disagree with that."

1. Using a "task force" from his office, he is setting out to determine the "who and why" element in the Army's sudden issuance of an honorable discharge for Peress months after Peress was said to have invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions about communism. Peress was indicted and commissioned under the doctors' draft law.

"I doubt he should ever have been made an officer," was Wilson's reply to a question whether he thought Peress should have been given an honorable discharge.

2. Secretary of the Army Robert T. Stevens was "technically responsible, because he's the boss," for the handling of the Peress case—but "I wouldn't think" Stevens would resign because of the matter. Wilson guessed Peress "could have been gotten out quicker by a little bit different administrative procedure."

3. His task force is covering "the whole incident, from Peress right through, so we'll know the facts, so we can handle things better in the future. . . . This is sort of a new kind of a problem; you wouldn't want a man to be able to dodge the draft just because he says he is a Communist."

Here Wilson was referring to another of the several points which confront the military, particularly in enlisted ranks.

The policy, as it stands now, is that if a volunteer for enlistment refuses to state whether he has or has had Communist connections, he is refused acceptance by the Army. If a draftee comes up for induction and refuses to answer the questions he is inducted, but assigned to a nonsensitive (no military security involved) job.

A second policy, applying to officers, was established by Secretary Stevens Feb. 20, and circulated to all Army commands, with instructions that handling of cases covered by it "be expedited." The order under that policy is that officers found to be security risks be given discharge "other than honorable." It specifies that refusal to sign the loyalty certificate or invoking of the Fifth Amendment shall be considered sufficient evidence that where there is conflict with existing regulations, the Feb. 20 Army policy shall govern.

But the Pentagon started for Capitol Hill yesterday proposed legislation which would provide for the retention in service—as enlisted men—anyone inducted under the Doctors Draft Act even though they refused to answer questions about communism.

The Pentagon said the object of the legislation was to "remove any doubt that may exist as to the authority of the armed forces to retain and utilize in a professional capacity in an enlisted rank" any doctor or dentist who was drafted or ordered to active duty. This meant that the military wanted the current law changed so that it wouldn't be mandated, have to commission these men but could hold them in service, as enlisted men, in such security-free jobs as drilling teeth or dispensing pills.

McCarthy told his Senate investigations subcommittee yesterday he is ready to show from testimony the Army has had "a very contradictory system" of handling personnel suspected of communism.

He said Peress got an honorable discharge, while a private who told his superiors he broke with communism as a teen-ager in high school got a less than honorable discharge, another private was kept in service although he refused to answer questions about communism and still another, a doctor, was assigned to duty at a hospital but denied an officer's commission.

One-Time Chicago Gang Baron Dies

CHICAGO (AP)—Terry J. Druggan, the volatile, dapper bootlegger who with Scarface Al Capone was one of the pioneer millionaires of the prohibition era, died yesterday. He was believed virtually penniless.

Druggan, about 55, the onetime beau brummel of Chicago's fabulous period of gang warfare in the early '20s, has been ailing for years. He had been out of the public spotlight for some 20 years, after his release from prison.

He died in a West Side hospital where he had been confined for a week. His name was in the headlines during the days when he teamed with Frankie Lake in peddling beer. Today his death notice appeared only in the paid obituary columns of the Chicago newspapers.

Prohibition made millionaire beer barons of Druggan and Lake as they fought and shot their way side by side almost to the top of the heap of gangsters and bootleggers. Mainly he served the Capone dynasty, operating seven breweries for Scarface Al. He was among the original 28 "public enemies."

Druggan dressed lavishly, owned country estates and property in Florida and always had a big bank roll for any emergency.

But the federal government caught up with him and Lake. They were among the first gangsters indicted for nonpayment of taxes. They pleaded guilty in 1931 to charges that they owed a total of about $500,000 in taxes and penalties dating back as far as 1922.

Druggan started a 30-month term for tax evasion in Leavenworth in 1932.

Hayward Seeking Actor To Play Lindbergh Role

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The story of Charles A. Lindbergh's flight from New York to Paris will finally reach the movie screens late this year.

Ever since his history-making journey, the Lone Eagle has remained Hollywood offers to dramatize the story on film. When he published his own version of the flight last year, studios began bidding for rights to the book, "The Spirit of St. Louis." Lindbergh turned down their bids for one of a man who has never produced a movie before. Broadway showman Leland Hayward.

"When the book first came out I didn't even read it; I had always been so tied up with aviation myself," said Hayward, who is a pilot and founder of Southwest Airways.

"Then I got around to reading it. I was fascinated. When I came to the part where his wheels touched the ground at Le Bourget in Paris, the tears came to my eyes. I didn't think he could make it!"

"It's a fabulous story. The Atlantic had been crossed before, but never from New York to Paris. It was a matter of the right man attempting it at exactly the right time, Lindbergh was that man. His feat had an electric effect on aviation, advancing it 10 years just by his single flight."

Right now Hayward is seeking an actor to play the flier, and he's getting plenty of help.

"Of course, every actor wants to play the part," he sighed, "and I have a great pile of photographs from unknowns who say, 'My mother always said that I looked just like Lindbergh.'"

"I would like to find an actor who is not famous. I think the public is jarred when it sees someone like Clark Gable portraying a well-known figure. You don't know whether you're watching Gable or the person portrayed."

Hayward has assigned Billy Wilder to write and direct the film. "The locations are a problem," he added. "It will be hard to find any place that looks like Roosevelt Field in 1927. And it is almost impossible to reproduce the coastal New England towns he flew over. Nearly every town on a large body of water today has TV aerials on the houses!"

Hayward said the picture would end when Lindbergh lands in Paris. The famed flier will approve the script and may be on hand as technical adviser.

Truman Sees No Hard Times Reason

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A two-way race for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator from Oklahoma shaped up today between a couple of millionaire oilmen, both ex-governors, in what promises to be a very spirited campaign.

Winning the Democratic nomination usually assures election in traditionally Democratic Oklahoma.

Roy J. Turner, 59, Oklahoma City oilman who owns a widely known Hereford ranch at Sulphur, Okla., said yesterday he will oppose incumbent Robert S. Kerr.

The standard work week in the United States was reduced from 72 hours in 1850 to 40 hours in 1950.

Famed Boll Weevil Gone From Statue

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—A $100 reward has been offered by the Montgomery Advertiser for the return of the boll weevil which disappeared from atop its monument in the city square at nearby Enterprise.

The famed monument was unveiled in 1919 as a tribute to the insect which damaged so much cotton that Alabama farmers were forced away from dependence on a single major crop.

With Franklin Reynolds

Delbert Donnelson, the Stanton FFA Chapter member who had the grand champion capon at the Abilene show this week sold the bird for $150 in the auction Wednesday.

T. J. Hogue who runs a store at Lenora says that the years when crops were good and business was moving along at a fast pace, he couldn't get enough West Texas eggs to supply the demand and had to buy eggs from Kansas to meet the demands of his customers.

In anticipation of more moisture to come and a consequent increase in the demand for eggs he has bought 200 pullets that he will put in a hens-in-cages plant behind his store. He expects these hens to go into production in July. They're still in the baby chick age.

One hundred of these are Hy-Lines from the Kasmeler-Sherill Hatchery at Bryan. As one-day-old chicks they cost about 60 cents each. The other 100 are White Leghorns.

The Hy-Line hatchery shipped him 102 chicks and he has lost them. The Leghorn hatchery shipped 110 chicks and four of these have been lost.

Hogue is going to convert a building already on the place to the cages layout.

Nath Allen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Nath Allen of Big Spring, was through here Wednesday with Henry Elder, secretary of the Texas Hereford Association, on their way to the Sand Hills Hereford Show at Odessa.

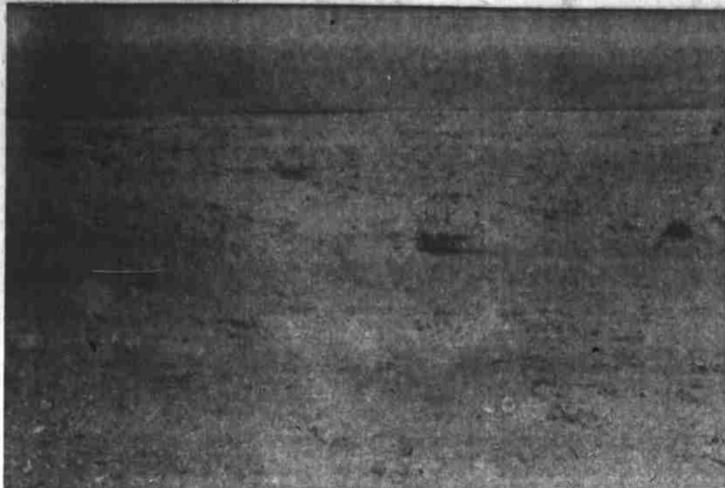

After that show, Nath will return to Fort Worth to establish his residence since he has resigned his job at Texas Technological College at Lubbock to accept one as fieldman with the Texas Hereford Association, succeeding Don Tarver, who resigned.

As a matter of fact Nath has been working with the THA the last several weeks but has been so busy with shows around the country that he hasn't had time to move his residence.

Carlis White of the Ackerly area owns a whirlwind terracer and builds the terraces on his place periodically. He is at it again now.

F. M. Trammell, who farms two miles south and five miles west of Lamesa, has had a conservation plan drawn up for his place.

Among other things, he says, he plans to plant all crops on the con-four; to practice stubble mulching, and to plant a lake area to Blue Panic Grass.

Trammell says he believes that if farmers would only leave more crop residue such as sorghum stalks, on their fields that wind erosion would be cut down to a minimum.

Jess Jenkins of the Lamesa Unit of the SCS has been watching with great interest the hairy vetch on the E. C. Mahoney Farm, two miles south of Lamesa.

It has successfully survived the recent bad blowing although it had to take a severe beating. Jenkins says SCS technicians observed the field during the worst of the blowing and found some soil movement.

Since then they have been back for a close inspection and say that while some of the top growth of the vetch was burned from sand, and some of the plants were almost covered, young sprouts from beneath the ground line are making a new growth.

The old cotton stalks are still standing and are helping to hold leaves that furnish protection for the vetch plants. The roots are continuing to form nitrogen-fixing nodules.

Mahoney has recently watered the field with a sprinkler system and there is deep moisture. The vetch is expected to make rapid growth as warmer weather comes on.

Technicians of the Soil Conservation Service have recently conducted some very interesting experiments concerning moisture penetration and runoff in this area.

The ranges on which the experiments were made were free of brush and the land was flat to moderately sloping. Water was applied equal to heavy intensity rains.

On land with good cover the following results were obtained: Heavy tight soil, no runoff; medium-textured soil, four per cent runoff; and on sandy soil, eight per cent runoff.

On range land where the cover was poor the experiments showed: Heavy tight soil, 71 per cent runoff; medium textured soil, 95 per cent runoff; and sandy soil, 79 per cent runoff.

In these experiments about 2,000 pounds of cover which includes both grass and litter was considered as good cover. It was also determined that one inch of rainfall that goes into the soil will grow 540 pounds of Buffalo Grass, and that thus four inches of rainfall into the soil will grow the required cover. It was also shown that Buffalo Grass would make twice the growth in pounds per acre if not grazed than if it is grazed moderately heavy throughout the season.

The experiments were conducted over a five-year period and represent an average.

Wichita Falls Film House Burns Down

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—Fire destroyed the Strand Theater in downtown Wichita Falls early today.

Theater officials estimated the loss at $100,000 to $150,000. Nobody was in the building at the time of the blaze.

The theater, originally in the Interstate chain, was sold last week to Trans-Texas, a new chain headed by Lou Novy of Austin.

Fire officials said the blaze may have started in an attic space over the projection booth where electricians had been working in the past few days to install new 3-D equipment.

Fort Worth Men Are Eisenhower's Guests

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Fort Worth, Tex., residents were on the list of invited guests for a White House stag dinner given last night by President Eisenhower. In all, 17 persons were invited.

The two Texans were Amon G. Carter Jr., president of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram; and Perry R. Bass, a Fort Worth geologist.

British Envoy Says Don't Sell His Land Short

DALLAS (AP)—Don't sell Great Britain short and relegate the "old war horse" to pasture.

That's the advice offered by Sir Roger Makins, British Ambassador to the United States. He spoke here last night at a dinner, one of two major speeches he plans in an 8-day tour of Texas.

"It is fashionable in some quarters," he said, "to speak and write of Britain as if she were an old war horse, good in her day but tired now and almost ready to be put out to grass."

"No picture could be further from the truth," he added.

Makins said Stalin's death brought reduced international tension, that British and American objectives in the Far East are the same, and that Britain regards American forces in Britain as "one more British contribution to the defense of the West."

"We make your servicemen as welcome as the British climate allows," he said. He said American troops in England were not regarded as an infringement of British sovereignty.

The ambassador said present British armed strength of about 890,000 men are deployed outside the British Isles with no strategic reserves in the home islands.

The identical objectives of the United States and Great Britain in the Far East, he said, meant that any further Communist penetration or aggression would be met with resistance from both countries.

Twisting the British Lion's tail and ruffling the American Eagle's feathers, he said, are historic but harmless trans-Atlantic sports, if not overdone when it comes to the serious business of world affairs.

Makins praised the patient diplomacy of Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Foreign Minister M. Bidault at the recent Berlin conference. He said he welcomed any renewed contact between foreign ministers of the east and west.

Chemist Joins Hospital Staff

A biochemist has been added to the staff of the Big Spring Veterans Hospital. He is Henry B. Dirks Jr., who came here from the VA Hospital at Louisville, Ky.

Dirks and his wife Libbie and two children arrived here Monday and are presently staying at the Westward Ho Motel. As soon as their furniture arrives, they will move to 1906 Nolan.

Dirks is from Michigan, where he graduated from high school and college. He received a bachelor of science degree in chemistry at Michigan State in 1940. Upon graduation he attended the University of Michigan to do graduate work in biochemistry.

It was while working in the university hospital he was engaged in a medical project for the United States government concerning salt metabolism.

Following his service in the university hospital, Dirks moved to Appleton, Wisconsin, where he worked for a company as a research chemist for four years. Then he went to the University of Iowa, where he spent two years in special research on the thyroid gland function.

Entering the government service through civil service, Dirks was stationed as a biochemist at Fort Mead, South Dakota. Then he went to Louisville, and finally Big Spring.

The 36-year-old chemist says that the laboratory at the Big Spring VA Hospital is among the best. "It is a little small, but it has all the equipment, and that equipment is modern," he said.

Over 750 School Pupils On Hand For Webb Circus

Quickly picking up the cue to answer a circus clown's cry of welcome, over 750 Big Spring school children, guests of Webb Air Force Base personnel, had a severe case of circus fever yesterday afternoon. Cotton-candy, flavored ice, popcorn, peanuts and candy kept many kiddies running from concession to concession while other youngsters found there was nothing like playing with the clowns. Then the whistle announced the big shows' opener and aerial artists, chimpanzees, trained dogs, and horses romped through the sawdust right into the fascinated kids' hearts. Buchanan's 2 1/2-hour all-star circus was brought to Webb AFB for two performances by the base. Military personnel conducted a two-week campaign which provided free tickets and transportation for Negro, Latin-American, and caucasian school children from Big Spring. To say they enjoyed themselves is an understatement. No adjective in the English language could describe the youngsters' glee and happiness as they laughed, shouted, and were completely fascinated throughout the show. Webb's motor vehicle, maintenance, supply and pilot-training units were the backbone of the duet drive which resulted in free tickets for over 750 Big Spring youngsters. Webb AFB personnel turned out in large numbers with their cars to help bring the circus-bound children to the base, and then home again.

Local Driver To Get Award

R. L. Thomas, driver for the O. H. McAllister Trucking Company of Big Spring, is one of two drivers recommended for special awards. He and Robert Elliott, Dallas, C. & H. Transportation Company driver, were credited with saving lives. The Haulers Council of the Safety Supervisors division of the Oil Field Haulers Association recommended them for meritorious award certificates when the unit meets Tuesday in Austin. Thomas is credited with saving the life of a passenger car driver. He administered first aid after the driver had been injured critically and stood by to help until the patient was given medical treatment. The mishap occurred in May of 1952. Elliott flagged down motorists to warn them that high voltage lines were across the highway near Halstead, Kans. last July 21. A jet plane had sheered tops of utility poles before crashing into an adjacent field.

Two Vehicles Are Bought By County

County commissioners purchased two truck chassis this morning to be equipped with dump beds. Driver Truck and Implement Company submitted the lowest of five proposals for supplying the county with the two trucks. Both two-ton vehicles cost $2,500.

FARM

He said it also could force wheat farmers, who cut plantings from 7 1/2 million acres this year, to "go down as low as 55 million acres." Questions indicated that in addition to Young, Senators Mundt (R-SD), Thyne (R-Minn), Ellender (D-La), Clements (D-Ky) and Johnson (D-SC), would prefer extension of the existing rigid price supports for basic crops. But Sen. Williams (R-DeI), in a separate interview, said: "I favor the flexible price support program and I think it will gain strength as our hearings move along." Sen. Holland (D-Fla) also indicated support for the program. Williams said those who favored extending the high-level wartime supports are under obligation to show what is to be done with some five to eight billion dollars worth of surplus farm products already piled up under that plan. The Eisenhower proposal includes a 2 1/2-billion-dollar "set aside" of these farm surpluses for special uses outside regular trade channels.

Former Resident Injured In Fall

Mrs. Levi Robinson, former Big Spring resident, is reportedly resting well after breaking bones in a fall at Napa, Calif. a week ago. Mrs. Robinson fell at her home at 587 Seymour and underwent surgery on Saturday morning. She sustained a fracture of the hip and left arm. At last reports, she was getting along well.

Collision Reported

Molotov Reiterates Warmonger Charges

By RICHARD KASISCHKE MOSCOW (AP)—Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov said today results of the Berlin conference can be measured only by what happens when the Big Four meet April 26 with Communist China and other nations at Geneva to discuss peace in Asia. In a 7,500-word report on the Berlin talks, which ended 15 days ago, Molotov reiterated Soviet charges that Western defense preparations point to a third world war. He blamed the United States, Britain and France for East-West disagreements that remained unresolved. The statement, played up in all Moscow newspapers and broadcast by the Moscow radio, criticized U.S. Secretary of State Dulles for making speeches about the conference "representing himself as a zealous champion of the freedom of peoples and the champion of free elections." "Certain defenders of freedom like such freedom as gives exploiters and militarists a free hand and a life of plenty, while the laboring people live under the constant shadow of war and fresh annihilation," Molotov said. He said the Berlin conference was worthwhile because it aired various world questions and cleared the road to the Geneva parley—"of definite international significance"—on Korea and Indochina. "Chances of settling the seven-year-old Indochina war at Geneva," he said, depend on "the position of the French government and also on the position of the U.S.A., which is increasingly interfering in the affairs of Indochina." "The main thing, however," he added, "will depend on recognition by all the conference participants of the need to settle the question of peace there not through continuing a hopeless (French Union-Vietminh) war, but through an agreement conforming to the principles of freedom and the national independence of the peoples." The other big issue is a Korean peace treaty.

Stanton Chief Is Designated Fire Marshal

RALPH YARBOROUGH

STANTON (SC) — Chief of Police Ed McCain has been designated Stanton fire marshal by the aldermen, and City Secretary G. B. Shelbyburne has been appointed to serve as city building inspector. In the same meeting the aldermen directed that action be taken to collect past due taxes, and approved plans for the better control of traffic through Stanton while Front Street (Highway 80) is under construction. This will include the installation of a traffic control signal at the intersection of St. Mary and St. Anna streets and a stop sign where traffic enters the highway from the T&P station. The aldermen have also agreed to submit to popular vote the proposition of closing the Old Highway west from St. Francis Street, past Stanton City Schools, to Highway 80, thus eliminating fast and heavy traffic from near the school buildings.

Area Democrats Meet Saturday

SWEETWATER—Loyalist Democrats from over the 24th Senatorial district of Texas will gather here Saturday evening to hear Sen. Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma. Sen. Kerr will be speaker at a Jefferson-Jackson Day Dinner scheduled for 7:30 p.m. in the Blue Bonnet Hotel. He will be introduced by Ralph Yarborough of Austin who made the race for governor in 1952. Both Sen. Kerr and Yarborough have passed up invitations to a Southern States Democratic meeting Saturday in Miami, Fla., to attend the event here. Yarborough wired National Democratic Chairman Stephen Mitchell Thursday that he would "be on the firing line for democracy" at the meeting in Sweetwater. A reception is to be held for Sen. Kerr at 6:30 p.m. Saturday and the dinner will begin an hour later. The Oklahoma senator is due to begin his address at 8:30 p.m. It will be broadcast over several radio stations, including KTXC in Big Spring. A delegation of some 50 persons from Big Spring is expected here for the meeting.

USAFC47 Is Missing

NICE, France (AP)—A broad search was pressed over the Ligurian Sea and the French Alps today for a U. S. Air Force C47, missing with 20 men on a flight from Rome to Bitburg, Germany. A midmorning report that the craft had been spotted in the mountains north of Nice proved false. Police said the report came from authorities in the village of St. Etienne de Tinea 40 miles north of Nice. But several residents of the region told of hearing the noise of a big plane yesterday afternoon and French ski troops based in the area moved out in patrols of 20 to 30 men each to look for clues. A three-nation x x x 3rd grad taso eliminating last grad. A three-nation air-sea search was under way for the plane, missing since shortly after noon yesterday with 20 Americans aboard. Its last radio report—"all normal"—was sent as the plane was over Corsica, 75 miles after it had taken off from Rome's Ciampino Airport.

PERFECT END TO TOUGH DAY

The absent minded professor has nothing on Sam Sonntag, administrative assistant at the Big Spring Veterans Hospital. After a particularly hard day at the office this week, Sam and a friend knocked off work at 5 p.m. and went to the front of the hospital to await the arrival of Mrs. Sonntag in the family automobile. Around 6 p.m. the two men decided Mrs. Sonntag had forgotten to pick them up, so they struck out walking home. About six blocks later, Johnson Street to be exact, the friend asked Sam how he got to work that morning. "My gosh," he said, "I drove."

McAlister Animal Takes Top Honor

Champion bull of the Sand Hills Livestock Show at Odessa has been exhibited by O. H. McAllister of Big Spring. The animal, M. Proud Mixture 17, was winner of the summer yearling class before going on to the grand championship in the breeding classes. McAllister practically swept show honors with nine first places in various classes. Reserve bull of the show was FO Symbol 31, a junior yearling from the Fair Oaks Ranch at Boerne. It had been champion at the San Angelo show. Winston Bros. of Snyder had the top female, WB Lady Seth 9.

Youngster Wants To Hear From Friends

Jan Rivard, 5, alone in a hospital room at Tulsa, Okla., would like to hear from his friends in Big Spring. He was reared here and his mother is the former Pat Stalcup, now a member of the classified advertising department of the Tulsa World. Jan is seriously ill with nephritis. For the past two weeks he has been in the St. John Hospital. Nothing cheers him so much as a card from his former playmates and other acquaintances, said Mrs. Rivard. He is in Room 673-D, St. John Hospital, Tulsa, Okla.

Robbery Suspects Are Released Here

Two men arrested here by police Thursday afternoon for investigation of an armed robbery at Fort Stockton were released when identification showed they were not involved. Sheriff's officials from Fort Stockton came to Big Spring to check on the two men. Local police arrested them on West 3rd as they were hitchhiking through. They were also checked concerning a robbery in Odessa. Treasury Department agents have been checking into the income tax returns of Parr, who once served a nine-month term in federal prison for a similar offense. State authorities, headed by Sheppard, have been probing figures of Duval County and its school districts. Postal authorities also have been reported looking into financial affairs of the area. Parr inherited much of his political prestige from his late father, State Senator Archie Parr.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A leader of the revived Citizens for Eisenhower movement reported today requests for help from 120 congressional districts for aid in the 1954 election campaign. There are 435 districts.

James L. Murphy of San Francisco, chairman of the Citizens for Eisenhower Congressional Committee, said in an interview such requests have come from incumbent Republican representatives and, in districts where present representatives are Democrats, from Citizens for Eisenhower groups.

Rescue To No Avail As Two Die From Truck Trailer Fire

CORSICANA (AP)—A relief truck driver pulled the unconscious driver and the body of a woman companion from a blazing truck trailer here early today.

Police quoted the relief driver, Wendell C. Ragney, 31, Houston, as saying that Mrs. Tom Rankin, 28, Houston, was dead when he pulled her from the truck. The driver, Johnny Lee Williams, 27, of Houston, was still alive, Ragney said, but died within minutes.

Police said Williams, married and the father of a 14-month-old son, and Mrs. Rankin, mother of two daughters, apparently suffocated from smoke caused by a fire started by a cigarette thrown among the truck's cargo, mostly new furniture.

Ragney said he started driving somewhere between Buffalo and Hearne last night when Williams asked him to take over. He said he noticed smoke coming from the trailer when he stopped for coffee at an all-night cafe here. The interior of the truck burst into flames, he said, when the back doors were opened.

You Can't Scare Joe Jet

This composite photo shows a pilot ejection seat flying out of a cockpit during tests at Republic Aviation Corp. on Long Island, N.Y. The seat features a device which automatically unhooks the pilot's safety belt at the peak of the arc. Joe Jet, 163-pound dummy created by research men as a stand-in for pilots, somersaults 35 feet into the air out of the cockpit, finally falling free as would the pilot before pulling the parachute rip cord. An explosive charge propels the pilot and seat out of the cockpit at 60 feet per second. (AP Wirephoto).

Democrats Claim They're Only Party Of Responsibility In U. S.

By JACK BELL
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Democrats gathered here for a unity-emment rally claimed today that the Eisenhower-McCarthy split among Republicans has left them as the nation's only "party of responsibility."

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Senate Democratic leader, sounded the keynote of this South-eastern party conference when he said in an interview that "we are giving to the country what the Republicans promised—unity."

"We will go to the people next November on our record of performance and our record as the party of responsibility," he said. Johnson, one of the speakers at a $100-a-plate dinner here Saturday night when former Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois will give the principal address, declined to comment on the most recent dispute between President Eisenhower and Sen. Joseph McCarthy (R-Wis.), except to say "that's a Republican problem."

Sen. Richard B. Russell of Georgia, who flew in from Washington last night, said he has advocated a single, joint Senate-House investigating committee. Officials in the executive department must, with several congressional investigations operating, "spend too much time on the Hill" testifying before committees seeking the same answers, Russell said.

"A single committee would eliminate the mad rush for headlines and sensationalism," he said. "But as a practical matter, I don't know how you're going to control a chairman."

Democrats were streaming into this resort city from all parts of the country for a meeting that has been billed by National Chairman Stephen Mitchell as a demonstration that the wounds of the 1952 presidential campaign have been healed.

In that campaign President Eisenhower carried four Southern states and split wide open the traditional hold on Democratic Dixie.

Sen. George Smathers (D-Fla.), one of the hosts for this unprecedented conference, said in an interview that he believes a new form of Democratic harmony will be represented here.

"All segments of the party are participating in our meeting," he said. "Actually, we are developing more harmony than the Democrats ever had before."

As evidence of this new-found unity, National Committee officials announced that not only Southern Democrats but members of the party from Northern states who like to call themselves liberals will participate in the program.

On the speakers list were Senators Murray (D-Mont.), Magnuson (D-Wash.) and Jackson (D-Wash.). Mrs. Dorothy Vredenberg, secretary of the Democratic National Committee, said in an interview she senses a revival of Democratic unity in the South. She said she thinks Democrats who bolted or sat on their hands in the 1952 election are showing signs of coming back home.

Mitchell cautioned his party colleagues against overoptimism about Democratic chances in this year's campaign for control of Congress. He said he expects the Republicans to use "every trick in the bag" in an effort to retain control of both houses.

He said he thinks the time has come when Eisenhower himself should be the primary target of Democratic attack.

Republicans are trying to play both ends against the middle, he said. "They are using Eisenhower on the high road and McCarthy in the muck."

But there is no way of separating Eisenhower and McCarthy within the party, he said.

Central Airlines seeks new route. WASHINGTON (AP)—Central Airlines, Fort Worth, has asked the Civil Aeronautics Board for permission to operate between Fort Smith, Ark., and Dallas and Fort Worth.

Central said yesterday Fort Smith lacks direct air service with the Dallas-Fort Worth area and has an immediate and substantial need for it.

The airline said that while this service would warrant adding a daily round trip to its schedule, it could be provided by rerouting one of the two daily round trips now serving McAlester, Okla., through Fort Smith instead of McAlester.

Class Sponsors Chili Supper. A chili supper will be held tonight at the Big Spring Junior High School gymnasium between 5:30 and 8 p.m.

Mrs. Keith McMillan, whose Spanish class is sponsoring the supper, said that approximately 200 tickets have been sold for the occasion. Cost of the tickets per customer was 50 cents, and the money is to be used for a class trip.

The trip will be to Monterrey, Mexico, during the Easter holidays. Mrs. McMillan said the group will leave on Friday, April 16, and return Monday, April 19. Some 40 students have signed up for the journey.

Other projects held to raise money for the trip have been a dance, bake sales, and rummage sales. The Spanish students will also sponsor the assembly program in the near future and perhaps hold another "sock hop" to raise money. "We're shooting for $400," Mrs. McMillan said. "We already have about $200."

Spanish students have been selling tickets to the chili supper for the past few weeks. Lee Underwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willis O. Underwood, was the high point salesman. Mrs. McMillan said tickets will not be sold at the door.

Warren Urges Public Activity By Lawyers. PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Chief Justice Earl Warren has urged lawyers to give more of their time to the cause of good government.

He said last night that although no group is more aware of the necessity for sound government, "far too many lawyers become so immersed in the affairs of their clients that they have little time for the consideration of the general welfare."

Warren spoke in dedication ceremonies for a new law school building at Temple University.

A Bible Thought For Today—

"Though an host should encamp against me, my heart shall not fear; tho' war should rise against me, in this shall I be confident." — Ps. 27:3. It took measureless courage and faith in ancient times to endure the wars and captivities that befell Israel, but God did preserve his people, tho' their conquerors are lost in history.

People Stand To Gain Most By A Strict Observance Of Barricades

It seems to us that the city and contractor have been more than reasonable in requesting people to respect street parking barricades. Driving around barricades, even in times of excavation or form installation is annoying and obstructive. But when it comes time for base materials to be shaped and then given its prime coat, there is absolute necessity of keeping traffic off the street or streets. Certainly, when the asphaltic concrete is placed, there must not be any traffic until the surface has been rolled and allowed to "set." To do otherwise will create permanent grooves in the pavement. People run the risk of getting messy hot asphalt on their cars by running through barricades on to these streets. They run the risk of undoing tedious work of getting base material just exactly right. They create the danger of actually damaging the finished surface of new city streets. In doing any one of these things, they are penalizing themselves. Most anyone can swap a few days of discomfort and inconvenience by parking the car a block away from home or on a side street until the prime coat can be shot and the surface installed. Thinking people will understand and cooperate. There are ways to deal with those who disregard the common welfare, and the city will be fully justified in taking necessary action.

Conspiracy Or Not, Reds To Make Maximum Use Of Puerto Rican Plot

Possibility of a Communist tie-up with the Wild West shoot-'em-up in the House of Representatives brightened, with the finding of a cache of Red propaganda by New York police, and revelation by the New York employer of the woman in the case that he had been asked by the FBI weeks ago to keep an eye on the woman for possible Communist activity. Governor Luis Munoz Marin of Puerto Rico, flying to Washington to offer his regrets to President Eisenhower and to protest "this outrage" by his fellow Puerto Ricans, told newsmen "the behavior of these people" indicated a possibility of Communist activity. Tie-in or not, the sensational shooting offered Communist propaganda organs a juicy chance to depict the United States as an oppressor of its Caribbean ward, and since the Reds can do more with a lie than with the truth, with which they are unfamiliar and to which they are antagonistic, the House incident was a bonanza. Some committee of the House might have a look at the organization which openly backs these fanatics. The head of the New York wing of the Puerto Rican Nationalists called the three men and one woman involved in the incident "patriots," and added: "We shall do all in our power to aid and defend our four compatriots in their hour of trial." One wonders how long an organization like that must be tolerated, in view of the activities of its members in the field of violence. Two tried to assassinate former President Truman, and recent threats upon the life of President Eisenhower have caused extra guards to be placed around the White House. If a conspiracy against the lives of congressmen and the President exists, every agency of government should be brought into play to expose the plot and punish the plotters. The Nationalists represent a small minority of Puerto Ricans. The overwhelming majority, like President Munoz Marin, are loyal to the United States and all it stands for. Puerto Rican troops fought alongside our own men in Korea. The misdeeds of a few should not be held against the island people.

Washington Calling—Marquis Childs Headlines, Movies Are Giving Europe Strange Image Of U. S.

BERLIN — A film called "The Golden Garden" is drawing crowded houses here in Berlin and throughout West Germany. It is a documentary made in color in Southern California by Hans Dominick, an able and enterprising German photographer. What German audiences see in the hour-and-a-half-long picture might as well be something happening on Mars. With some brilliant photography, Dominick presents a completely mechanized civilization — super highways down which thousands of cars are speeding, vast parking lots, three-minute car washes, trailer courts, drive-in restaurants with waitresses in snappy uniforms. One of the long sequences is of a jalopy race with cars careening and crashing against the side of the speedway and occasionally an ambulance moving in to take out an injured driver. A clever commentary goes with the film and the audience alternately roars with laughter and gasps with amazement. No one walks in "The Golden Garden" because to do so in this highspeed world obviously would be far too dangerous. In spite of all the shocks of the past 15 years the German still regards his home as his castle and as permanent as the earth itself, and so the sequences of the Los Angeles house-moving company of Meyer and Meyer sawing a hole in two and moving the two halves from the old site to a new one astound the Germans. The end of the film is a huge rodeo with bucking bronchos and Brahma bulls and every form of dangerous riding. All this raises some interesting questions about the image of America in the European mind and about the profound differences in outlook, habit, wants and desires between the old world and the new. In the view of one of the keenest American observers in Berlin, who knows Europe as well as Germany, the image is still golden. But the emphasis is on the word still.

propaganda attack on the United States. This propaganda may have the opposite effect from the one intended by Moscow, since what Moscow broadcasts is so blatantly exaggerated and false. The belief is taking hold that all is not well in the mechanized civilization across the Atlantic. Europeans see such plays as Tennessee Williams' "Streetcar Named Desire" and they incline to transpose its neuroticism literally to all of America. They wonder why America is so fearful. They take as a symptom of this fear the extraordinary difficulties attached to obtaining an American visa even though the visa may be merely for a few days' visit in transit. In every country of Western Europe the story of the struggle to obtain that rare stamp of approval is told. Sometimes it involves humiliating questions about the applicant's personal life. The idea of being fingerprinted suggests to the casual European visitor a police procedure foreign to his concept of America with its freedoms and its vaunted welcome to the downtrodden and the oppressed. A year ago the impact of what the European calls McCarthyism was perhaps greatest. That was the time of the uproar over the United States Information Agency libraries when the charge of book-burning was widely circulated. This coincided with the sensational visit in Western Europe of the McCarthy team of Cohn and Schine. The two young investigators made sensational headlines as they dashed from city to city, summoning American officials before them in what appeared to Europeans to be a star-chamber proceeding. Since then McCarthyism has had less attention in European newspapers. Yet the interest and the concern persist, particularly among intellectuals who have a great deal to do with shaping opinion. Recently a professor of political science in the Free University of West Berlin, one of the remarkable institutions brought into being since the war with American help, was asked by his students to conduct a seminar on McCarthy and McCarthyism. A few questions by the professor developed that most of them had only the haziest notion of the phenomenon formed by the headlines of the past year or two. So he set out to put it in the proper perspective. America is still the goal of millions of Europeans who feel that life on the old continent is too traditional, too rigid, opportunity far too limited. That is especially true in West Germany which is overcrowded with ten million refugees. Europeans know of America's vast wealth and of how a part of this wealth went as a free gift helped to save Europe from communism. But the image of the past — of the Statue of Liberty and its bold and passionate meaning — is blurred. And whether it is brought back into focus depends on how Americans themselves assert their rights to freedom in the time just ahead.

Solution To Nothing

HERITAGE DAYS

By MILLARD COPE

THE SIEGE OF THE ALAMO reached its climax the morning of March 6, 1836, when 182 Texans, spurning surrender, fought for "Victory or Death" to the last man. Denied Christian burial, the bodies of the heroes of the Alamo that afternoon were cast upon a flaming funeral pyre.

March 5 was a quiet day in Texas in 1836. Houston received his instructions as commander of the Texas army. Fatigued Texans within the Alamo got their first rest in days. Before dawn, though, on the Sabbath, morning of the sixth, Santa Anna's hordes stormed the Alamo. At the head of 4,000 attackers was Santa Anna. Twice they charged and twice they were repulsed. Of 830 men in Toluca's battalion that commenced scaling the walls, only 130 survived.

This Day In Texas

By CURTIS BISHOP

Born in a slave house on a Mississippi plantation on this day in 1843 was Richard Henry Boyd, who achieved nation-wide fame as a Baptist leader. Boyd came to Texas with his master B. A. Gray, about 1849 and worked on his large plantation in East Texas until the outbreak of the Civil War. During that conflict the slave accompanied his master and his three sons in their military service, and when all four died, returned to Texas to manage the plantation. About 1870 the ex-slave decided to enter the Baptist ministry. Completely uneducated, he sought and received help from numerous white friends in learning to read and write and attended Bishop College at Marshall for two years. As secretary of the Negro Baptist Convention of Texas, Boyd in 1894 prepared the first Sunday School pamphlet for Negro Baptist churches and three years later organized the National Baptist Publishing Board which issued the first Negro Baptist literature ever published. The Baptist home mission board in 1896 named him a missionary to Negroes in the United States. Boyd continued his preaching, missionary work and religious writing until his death in 1922.

Pampa Gas Rates Appealed By Firm

AUSTIN (AP)—Pampa's rejection of a plea for higher gas rates was carried to the 126th District Court here yesterday. The Empire Southern Gas Co. filed an appeal from a schedule of rates set in an order issued last month by the Railroad Commission. The rates are so low that they are unjust and unreasonable, the gas concern claimed. The company had appealed to the Railroad Commission after the city refused to boost the rates. Hearing was set for March 15.

Around The Rim—The Herald Staff

Evidence Indicates Impatience Is Taking Ever-Increasing Toll

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are solely those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald.—Editor's Note.

Although nobody seems to have a handy remedy for it, there is general agreement that people nowadays are mostly in a hurry. Impatience swells at the first hint of a delay, whether it be the waiting room of a railroad station, the checking counter at a super-market, or a newspaper office when the deadline for a column approaches. And, as you can plainly see, it can lead to serious consequences. But overlook the nearest example for a moment and consider what impatience may lead to ultimately for those millions of people who form the prime target for concern whenever "older heads" begin to feel philosophical. We're speaking of the nation's young people. The exact age bracket, of course, depends entirely upon the person or persons, spouting philosophy at the moment. Anyway, if young people are more impatient than their elders, and older people today are more impatient than they were in years gone by, then young people of today must be getting mighty impatient about a lot of things. Scarcely a day goes by without producing evidence that young and old alike surrender to impatience when seated under the steering wheel of an automobile.

The consequences of such practice is well known, but it makes little difference. There's something about a steering wheel and an accelerator that makes people want to be now where they should be an hour hence. And some try to do it. If some other objects in daily use develop an influence similar to that of the steering wheel of an automobile, our plight will be sad. And there is evidence that such a trend is under way. One shred came to light recently in New York City, which is reported to be far advanced in the field of impatience. A woman there went to court and asked to have her marriage annulled. Her reason for such action smacked of impatience. She told the judge that before the ceremony, her husband promised faithfully that they would have six children and a home of their own, but he hadn't made good. The judge pondered the case briefly and then denied the annulment. Although there was nothing in the report to indicate that the judge mentioned impatience when he announced the decision, it was clearly implied. The woman was 22 and her husband was 23.

Some Still Believe People Of Russia Can Save Themselves

Soviet Russia has, thus far, more or less won every diplomatic conference and has increased its realm from 130,000,000 persons to 800,000,000 persons since 1938. The question then arises as to whether the Soviet Universal State will continue to expand and to destroy free peoples or whether it will be destroyed by an internal revolution. Eugene Lyons, whose knowledge of the subject cannot be doubted, has written a book, "Our Secret Allies," which is being widely read by our policy-makers and which sets out to tell the story of the seizure of Russia by the Bolsheviks and the inner resistance of the people to them. Lyons belongs to the sentimental school of experts on Russia, which draws fine lines of distinction between the Kremlin and the millions over whom it rules. He almost treats the Kremlin as though it were the seat of an alien, conquering host. The Russians, while often admirable and always fascinating as individuals, have shown little capacity for freedom throughout their history. Conquered by aliens and ruled by them for a thousand years, their society has accustomed itself to autocracy. After a few months of freedom to the point of anarchy in the Kerensky period, the Russians returned to the absolutism to which they are accustomed in a new and worse guise under Lenin and Trotsky, and after them Stalin and Malenkov. There has never been a democratic revolution, such as Western peoples have witnessed, in the whole of Russian history. Eugene Lyons, once the United Press correspondent in Russia, then for many years the editor of "The American Mercury," is now a senior editor of "The Readers Digest." In the late 1930's, his book "Assignment in Utopia" became a best seller and an eye-opener for thousands of Americans hypnotized by their illusions about the "great experiment" in the USSR. His "Red Decade" is a most important contribution to the study of communism. Therefore, when Lyons writes on Russia, he must be taken seriously even if one disagrees with his present position that the forces of revolution against the Kremlin are readying themselves inside Russia.

His thesis is that the overwhelming mass of Soviet citizens has never accepted the Red dictatorship. Despite nearly 40 years of propaganda and terror, despite the fact that a new generation has grown up, he argues that the regime has failed to win the loyalties of its subjects. What has been going on in Soviet Russia since 1917, Lyons says, is "a permanent civil war" in the first years open and military since then largely concealed and political but even bloodier. Once you grasp this fact, much about the Soviet scene that seems baffling begins to make sense. The many millions who have perished in the struggle against the regime, whether finished off in police dungeons and slave camps or starved in man-made famine, are the casualties in that war. The great hordes of inmates of prisons and concentration camps are its prisoners of war. The perennial purges, the liquidation of this or that class of the population, the abolition of entire Republics, and "autonomous regions" are battles in the war, and the incessant thunder of propaganda is the psychological offense that has become an essential part of modern warfare. There are those who believe that the desire for liberty is ever existent in man and that while, for a period, he may submit to tyranny, ultimately he will strike out for freedom. Although there is evidence to support a phase of Lyons's theory, namely, that the Russian government has had to struggle to exist, there is no evidence that the opposition comes from the masses. It has been a conflict for power within the Communist Party. Nothing has yet appeared to prove that the millions of non-political persons living under a despotism will risk much for freedom. The 1917 revolutions were not mass uprisings. The Kerensky government was the end of a palace revolution, the Bolshevik seizure of power was the effort of a small group of intellectuals. The Stalin purges were all against his associates in the party and government. Malenkov murdered Beria to get rid of a rival. "Our Secret Allies" projects Soviet life from a novel viewpoint. Lyons has retold the history of the Soviet epoch in the struggle between the masters and the slaves.

Issue Is Rapidly Boiling Down To Eisenhower Vs. McCarthy

WASHINGTON — Two victories for President Eisenhower, both in the Senate, were somewhat obscured by the much more dramatic duel between Secretary of Army Stevens and Senator Joe McCarthy in which, judging from reaction in the country, the Administration came off badly. While everybody was concentrating on the ring where the Army Secretary and the Wisconsin Senator were having it out, the Senate finally threw out the Bricker amendment and all its appendances and also, at long last, confirmed the nomination of former Governor Earl Warren of California to the office of Chief Justice of the United States which he has occupied since last October 5. Both were victories for the Eisenhower wing of the Republican party. The proposed Constitutional amendment of Senator Bricker (R-O) was in original inspiration a maneuver by the nationalist, staunchly conservative wing of the Republican party, though many not of this persuasion were roped into its support, including Democrats. In the appointment of Earl Warren as Chief Justice, the President had recognized the moderately progressive, internationalist wing of his party. Both triumphs, however, were much belated. In the case of the Warren confirmation there was the long delay and the action of Senator Langer (R-N. Dak.), Senate Judiciary Committee chairman, in admitting to the record a rash of reckless and unsubstantiated charges against the former governor of California. In the case of the Bricker amendment there was little consolation in the fact that the President's supporters, a minority of the Senate, were barely able to beat off the ultimate threat in the compromise substitute sponsored by Sen. George (D-Ga). They got a skimpy 21 votes, only one over the necessary one-third of those present to prevent submission of a proposed Constitutional amendment, and only 13 of the 31 were Republicans. The Bricker issue was costly to the Administration, other than by its revelation of the yawning schism in the Republican party over foreign policy, the conduct of which would have been seriously crippled had the Brickerites won out. For weeks the Bricker debate put up a blockade against the President's legislative program which still is moving very slowly. With two months of the session already gone, and with all of the House and a third of the Senate anxious to get away and back home in early summer to campaign, the Administration is becoming aware that it must put on pressure if it is to get even a passable legislative program out of this Congress. This dramatizes the conflict within Republican ranks over the party's course. A factor in that conflict is how Senator McCarthy should be handled. Whereas the President believes that the Administration must have a substantial legislative program to offer the voters in the Congressional elections, a number of his party leaders in Congress regard this as of secondary importance, if that much. They believe they can win, instead, with Senator McCarthy and his issue of Communists in government. That's why they constantly advise humoring and appeasing their colleague from Wisconsin. This, as we see, has built him into a veritable swaggering Frankenstein who is willing to endanger the morals of the Army of his country to keep himself in the limelight. His aim now is to find Communists in a Republican government which some Republicans think is going too far. The reaction from the Stevens-McCarthy affair is showing that many people are coming to look upon the fight against "McCarthyism" as a moral crusade. They would like to enlist the President in this on behalf of the rank and file of people.

Dublin Rodeo Performer Ahead In Top Cowboy Race

DENVER (AP)—A professional rodeo performer from New York, Harry Tompkins, is ahead in the race for the 1954 All-Around Cowboy championship.

The first tabulation of point awards released today by the Denver office of the Rodeo Cowboys' Assn. showed Tompkins holds a commanding lead over his nearest competitor, Joe Madden of Lusk, Wyo. He has 7,572 points to Madden's 4,817.

Tompkins, who now makes his home in Dublin, Tex., also is the leader in two rodeo events—bareback bronc riding and Brahma bull riding.

For the first time in years, Casey Tibbs of Ft. Pierre, S.D., is not among the first five in saddle bronc competition. Top man in that department is Deb Copenhaver of Post Falls, Idaho.

The calf roping leader, Don McLaughlin of Smithfield, Tex., has 8,707 points. His nearest rival is Doyle Riley of Ballinger, Tex., with 4,117.

The bulldogging leader is Jim Bynum of Waxahachie, Tex., who took heavy money out of the 1954 National Western Stock Show Rodeo here in that event.

A number of top contestants have been sidelined with serious injuries. Latest accident victims include Sonny Lavender of Holliday, Tex., whose chest was crush-

North Dakota's Wild Bill Langer Goes His Own Way In Congress

By BEN PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Wild Bill Langer of North Dakota takes somewhat the same approach to both the Republican party and cigars.

When it comes to cigars, Langer is a mauler. He chews on his own party with equal gusto whenever the mood suits.

There is one difference. In the case of cigars, the 67-year-old son of the soil leaves the wrapper on. (He never smokes them.)

Langer is as independent as a hog on ice.

It also is safe to say that no other senator has had a public career remotely resembling his.

In his lifetime he has been convicted in a federal court, ousted as governor of North Dakota, weathered determined efforts to unseat him as senator and experienced enough adventures to give a more sedate man ulcers.

While he accepts the Republican label, the party never knows what he will do. However, it's almost a lead pipe cinch that future GOP dispensers of patronage will consult him on postmasterships for North Dakota.

He is chairman of the Judiciary Committee, and as such he was called upon to consider the appointment of Earl Warren, former governor of California, as chief justice of the United States.

Langer said there was no connection but committee approval of Warren's appointment was delayed and delayed. Then Langer blantly made public a whole stack of unsupported charges that Warren hadn't been exactly an above-board governor. Just one of those things, he said, the public ought to know about. And he denied there had been any undue delay.

Hastily the committee met and voted 123 to confirm Warren's appointment. The whole Senate concurred this week.

Without batting a bushy eyebrow, Langer voted with the majority in support of the man whose appointment he had held up and whom he once supported for the presidency of the United States.

The Republicans still are wondering whose side he was on in the 1948 presidential campaign.

He ignored the Republican candidate, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, but had kind words for Democratic President Truman, running for re-election.

In 1952, when President Eisenhower turned up in his state on a campaign tour, Langer was off on a speech-making trip. But when Truman arrived on behalf of the candidacy of Adlai Stevenson, Langer greeted him warmly.

On foreign affairs, Langer is strictly isolationist.

Once when he heard British Prime Minister Churchill was planning a visit to the United States, he telegraphed the Old North Church in Boston to expect another redcoat invasion and to break out the lanterns used to set off Paul Revere's ride.

He voted against acceptance of the United Nations Charter, the North Atlantic Treaty, transfer of 50 destroyers to Britain during World War II, the Marshall Plan and all foreign aid.

He also voted against extension of the draft law after World War II.

He has introduced some 400 bills in the Senate which would permit some 1,500 aliens due for deportation to remain. Yet he has voted consistently against liberalizing immigration quotas.

A 1906 graduate of the University of North Dakota, Langer became governor of his home state in 1933 and produced a real whinging administration.

He embargoed the shipment first of wheat and later of cattle out of North Dakota until depression-level prices should rise to what he considered a fair level. He called out the National Guard to enforce these decrees, which were later declared unconstitutional.

Langer, who was born on a farm near Fargo Sept. 30, 1886, used executive decrees to suspend mortgage foreclosures and evictions for nonpayment of rent.

In 1934 he ran afoul of federal law. He was convicted of requiring relief workers to contribute part of their pay to a political newspaper.

The federal judge fined him $10,000 and sentenced him to 18 months in jail.

His opponents held that his conviction rendered him ineligible to hold the state's highest office, and they were supported by the State Supreme Court.

He resisted for a while but finally gave in, turning the governor's chair over to the lieutenant governor. He fought his conviction, however, and after a third trial was freed. He then ran again for governor, as an independent, and was elected.

In 1940 he was elected to the Senate but had to fight to keep his seat. The Senate Elections and Privileges Committee voted 13-3 to bar him from taking office.

At a hearing it was charged that he had exhibited "gross impropriety, rabble rousing breach of the peace, tampering with court officials and conspiracy to defraud the federal government."

During this episode Langer told some of his adventures.

He passed the bar examination in 1907 at age 18 but had to wait until he got his law degree at North Dakota University before he was admitted to practice. He took a bachelor of arts degree at Columbia University in New York City in 1910, returned to North Dakota to practice law and four years later was elected state's attorney for Morton County.

He recounted how as a lawyer he broke into a jail once and swiped the keys from the sheriff's desk in order to interview an Indian client.

He told too of the time he led a raid as state's attorney on three houses of prostitution with the aid of 30 men—40 private detectives and 10 others to watch the 40.

To prevent any tipoff, he held up the local telephone agency and forbade any calls. He later was acquitted on a charge of inciting to riot.

The Senate committee, in recommending against seating Langer, based its case primarily on his acceptance of $56,800 for farm lands he sold to a broker doing business with the state and $25,000 for stock he sold to an attorney representing a railroad seeking a tax reduction.

He eventually was seated by the Senate and has twice been re-elected as the candidate of the Nonpartisan League a faction of the Republican party in North Dakota.

THE RAISING OF LAZARUS

CHRIST SAID: "OUR FRIEND LAZARUS, BUT I GO TO AWAKE HIM."

Scripture—John 11:1-44.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.
VERY FEW are the families who have never felt the anxiety of having a beloved member taken seriously ill, and most of us have suffered the grief of losing some one we dearly loved by death.

The poignant story of the family of two sisters and a brother in Bethany, of the curious illness of Lazarus, the brother, and the grief of his sisters, will recall our own moments of agony when such an event occurred to us.

This home in Bethany and the family it contained were especially dear to Jesus. Often in His wanderings He made it His headquarters, and was, we surmise, always warmly welcomed. These three beloved implicitly in Him, and felt blessed by His presence.

Word came to Jesus from Martha and Mary about two days' journey from Bethany. "Lord, behold, he whom Thou lovest is sick." Jesus told those with Him, "This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby." The disciples must have been somewhat puzzled at Jesus' words, and the fact that He lingered two more days before starting for Bethany. Furthermore,

He, though he were dead, yet shall he live. And whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die. Believest thou this?"

Martha said: "Yes, Lord; I believe that Thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the world."

Then Martha left Jesus and went to Mary, saying, "The Master is come, and calleth thee." Mary rose and went to Jesus. Her friends, thinking she had gone to weep over Lazarus' tomb, looked over her.

However, Mary fell at the Master's feet, weeping, and the others also wept, and Jesus Himself "groaned in spirit," and wept. Then He asked, "Where have ye laid him?"

They led Him to the tomb—a cave with a stone rolled to the entrance, sealing it from intruders of any kind. Jesus told them to roll the stone away, and when it was done, He cried with a loud voice, "Lazarus, come forth!"

"And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave clothes; and his face was bound with a napkin.—Jesus said unto them, Loose him and let him go."

Seeing this wonderful thing, many believed on Him.

How did the Pharisees react to

MEMORY VERSE

"I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in Me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believeth in Me shall never die."—John 11:25-26.

they were troubled about going again to Judea, as they reminded Him that the Jews there had recently tried to stone Him.

He comforted them, then said, "Our friend Lazarus sleepeth; but I go, that I may awake him out of sleep."

The disciples thought that if Lazarus slept he would soon be well. They did not realize that Jesus meant that Lazarus was dead. Jesus said to them then, "Lazarus is dead."

The disciples also grieved for Lazarus, and Thomas said, "Let us also go, that we may die with him."

When they came near to Bethany they found that Lazarus had been dead four days, and many friends were with the sisters, trying to comfort them. Martha, however, came to meet her Lord, saying sorrowfully, "Lord, if Thou hadst been here, my brother had not died. But I know that even now, whatsoever Thou wilt ask of God, God will give it Thee."

"Jesus said unto her, Thy brother shall rise again. Martha saith unto Him, I know that he shall rise again in the Resurrection at the last day. Jesus said unto her, I am the Resurrection and the Life: he that believeth in this, believeth in Me, and he that believeth in Me, shall never die. Did they too, seeing Jesus? We know they did not. They feared that the whole population would now believe in Him, that this was indeed the Christ, and they thirsted more than ever to put Him out of the way.

The high priest of the time said: "It is expedient for us that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not." Jesus was the Man the priest prophesied should die to save the people from heresy.

How wrong this haughty priest was! Jesus did indeed die for a nation—and a world—but to save them from perishing of their sinfulness.

The high priest's name was Caiaphas, and if he could visit the world today, how astounded he would be to see that the believers of the Man he wanted put to death had spread all over the world, with many millions, instead of hundreds or thousands as in his day.

From that day the Pharisees took counsel together to put Him to death, and Jesus "walked no more openly among the Jews; but went thence unto a country near to the wilderness, into a city called Ephraim, and there continued with His disciples."

FAITH ALONE can guide man's footsteps into the future

In these days of swift change and catastrophic events the eyes of thoughtful men turn from the present to the unknown future. What does it hold for them, their families, their friends and their world?

Behind the dark veil that separates today from tomorrow may lie strange, new forces, treacherous tides, innumerable hidden dangers and new foes of human life and happiness. These are the great uncertainties of life.

The man of today, like his primitive ancestor, peers anxiously, even fearfully, into the future and tries to solve its mysteries, but the effort is futile. His vision is unable to pierce the darkness that shrouds tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow.

Yet man has risen from primitive degradation, through all the difficulties and dangers of the revolving years, to his present civilized estate. He has fought the beasts of the forests, the diseases of the jungle, the pangs of hunger and the sting of cold—and has survived.

He has survived and become preeminent in the world because he possessed faith—faith in himself and his race, and faith in a Supreme Being who drew the pattern of the universe and made the laws that govern human destinies.

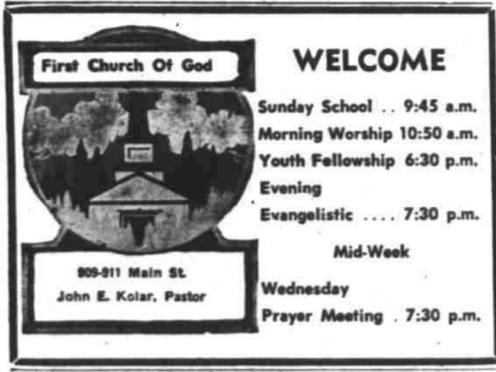

This is the golden thread that runs through human history. It is the key to all the uncertainties and mysteries. It is the light that has guided man's footsteps into his eternal futures.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship, strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake, (2) For his children's sake, (3) For the sake of his community and nation, (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

A preacher and a singer take a train ride

Two tired men hurried through the railroad station at Glasgow, Scotland. One of them paused, bought a newspaper and took it into his pocket. On the train they took seats facing each other. One of the men was Dwight L. Moody, the great evangelist of the time. The other was Ira D. Sankey, who sang to his own accompaniment, and if not the greatest gospel singer of the past century, certainly one of the greatest. The pair had just closed an extended revival in Glasgow and were on their way to Edinburgh for a belated engagement.

Moody waded into a bundle of unopened letters from his home in Chicago. It was 1874. His church had been destroyed three years earlier in the great fire and he was anxious about progress on his new tabernacle. Sankey scanned his newspaper, was about to toss it aside when he noticed a poem written by a little orphaned Scotch girl named Elizabeth Clephane. He read the lines over and over—the poem out and put it into his pocket.

In Edinburgh Moody preached on the subject, "The Good Shepherd." Came time for Sankey's solo. He had not expected the sermon and had no appropriate number. Then he thought of the poem. He put it on the music rack. His hand hit the keys. He started singing.

This is, perhaps, the only case in the history of hymn making where a tune was composed note for note just as it stands today, while the composer sang it for the first time.

But none of the ransomed ever knew
How deep were the waters crossed;
Nor how dark was the night that the Lord passed thro'

Ere He found His sheep that was lost.
Out in the desert He heard its cry—
"Sick and helpless, and ready to die."

But all through the mountains, thunder riven,
And up from the rocky steep
There arose a glad cry at the gate of heaven
"Rejoice! I have found My sheep!"
And the angels echoed around the throne,
"Rejoice, for the Lord brings back His own!"

"Lord, Thou hast here Thy ninety and nine
Are they not enough for Thee?"
But the Shepherd made answer "This of mine
Has wandered away from Me;
And although the road is rough and steep,
I go to the desert to find My sheep."

Seven Records Are Shattered

By BO BYERS
AUSTIN (AP) — Seven new records already were in the book and one other had been tied as the state schoolboy basketball tournament went into its second day.

Today's first contest matched Class B's defending state champions, the Cayuga Wildcats, with Krum in semi-finals play. They were followed by two high-scoring outfits, Big Sandy and Evant, the other Class B semi-finalists.

Conference AAAA and AAA were to see their first action of the three-day tournament this afternoon and tonight.

Bowie, boasting the state's longest winning streak, chalked up No. 68 last night with a 66-37 blistering of Childress in Class AA.

Temple Tucker, Bowie's 6-10 center, led this onslaught with 29 points, tying his Class AA record of a year ago. It bolstered his point total for the season to 943 in 31 games.

Almost unguardable because of his tremendous height, Tucker is the main reason Bowie is favored to stow away its fourth straight state championship trophy. Bowie already holds the exclusive honor of taking three straight titles.

Overwhelming as the final score appeared, Bowie had to come from behind to win. Childress, which had lost an early-season game to the Jackrabbits, got off to a fast start on a 10-point performance by Derrell Nippert in the first quarter.

Nippert scored 15 for the game. Spring Branch of Houston won a finals berth opposite Bowie with a hard fought 23-17 conquest of Lamar Consolidated (Richmond-Rosenberg).

Four of the seven new records were rung up in a Class A semi-final contest which saw Sweeney Buns in a racehorse overtime affair, 74-72.

Big Russell Boone, a 6-4 center, rang up 39 points for a new individual scoring record in Class A. The previous mark was 33 by Junior Carrington of East Mountain in 1947.

Sweeney's 74 points surpassed the team scoring record of 69 set by White Oak last year. Sweeney and Buns' combined scoring of 146 broke the tournament record of 143 hung up by Stephen F. Austin and Poly of Fort Worth last year and wiped out the Class A record of 122 set by White Oak and Denver City a year ago.

Three more records were rewritten yesterday when Evant, a tournament newcomer, shellacked Rankin, 85-52.

Evant's total was two points more than the tournament record of 83 for a single game hung up by South Park, Class A, in 1933. It also broke the Class B of 73 set last year by Big Sandy.

The two-team aggregate of 137 points by Evant and Rankin supplanted the Class B record of 130 tossed in by Big Sandy and Hutto a year ago.

AUSTIN (AP) — Today's state schoolboy basketball tournament schedule:

Conference B Semi-Finals Krum vs Cayuga, 8:45 a.m. Evant vs Big Sandy, 10:10 a.m. Conference A Consolation Buns vs New Boston, 11:35 a.m. Conference AA Consolation Lamar (Richmond-Rosenberg) vs Childress, 1:45 p.m.

Conference AAA Semi-Finals Glenna Park vs Sherman, 3:10 p.m. Alamo Heights (San Antonio) vs Plainview, 4:35 p.m. Conference AAAA Semi-Finals Pampa vs Wichita Falls, 7:30 p.m. Crozier Tech (Dallas) vs Milby (Houston), 8:50 p.m.

Take Over, Buddy

DOZEN PLAYERS SIDELINED

Injuries Already Taking Heavy Toll In Players

By ORLO ROBERTSON
AP Sports Writer

The baseball training season has not much more than started but already injuries have started to take a heavy toll among veterans and rookies alike.

At least a dozen players have been sidelined with just everything from a sore arm to Ted Williams' fractured collar bone. Williams' injury, which threatens to keep the Boston Red Sox veteran out of action until after the regular season starts, made the biggest headlines but the hopes of other clubs also have received blows, although probably not so serious.

Bob Porterfield, Washington's ace hurler, hasn't yet returned to serious work after being beamed by a line drive. Alex Grammas, a rookie who figures to plug the shortstop spot for the St. Louis Cardinals, is back taking light workouts after tearing a shoulder muscle in his throwing arm but he's not expected to return to the lineup for another week or more.

Tom Alston, Cardinals' first rookie, is suffering from a sore back; Bob Trice, Athletics Negro pitcher, has a bad shoulder; and Walter Linder, Milwaukee's broken catcher, is nursing a broken thumb.

And to this list yesterday was added Ernie Banks and Gene Baker, highly regarded Chicago Cubs' shortstop-second base combination; Bill Miller, Yankee pitcher; Ted Kazanski, Philadelphia Phillies shortstop; Howie Judson, Cincinnati hurler; and Jerry Jacobs, rookie Baltimore infielder.

Banks was hit on the back of the head by a pitched ball in an intrasquad game at Mesa, Ariz., shortly after Baker sprained his right knee running out a single. Banks, knocked down by a pitch thrown by rookie right-hander, Don Elston, was taken to the hospital in a semi-conscious condition.

Miller was felled when hit on the left leg by a line drive from the bat of Elston Howard. X-rays proved negative but he'll be on crutches for several days and probably sidelined for a week.

Kazanski may not be available for the Phillies' first exhibition game against Detroit as the result of a spike wound. Stan Lopata stepped on the shortstop's foot rounding second.

Judson came up with a sore arm and as the result, Manager Birdie Tebbetts has changed his mind about starting the veteran against the White Sox tomorrow. Jacobs was forced to the sidelines with a strained muscle in his left forearm.

A quick glance at other training camps: Minnie Minoos became the last Chicago White Sox player to sign when he agreed yesterday to sal-

Middlecoff Has 1-Stroke Lead At 18 Holes

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP) — Cary Middlecoff, to the surprise of practically no one, held a one-stroke lead today in the $30,000 Houston Open.

The former Memphis dentist yesterday repeated his usual custom of finding a magic putter in Houston. He ignored an aggravating head cold while methodically beating or tying par for a first round 66 on the 7,300-yard, par 72 Memorial Park Course.

This left him one stroke ahead of Freddie Haas of New Orleans, winner of the January Palm Springs Open. Bill Nary, the young Tucson, Ariz., pro, was one stroke behind Haas at 68.

The first round was played in a bitter 45-degree wind. Higher temperatures were expected for today's second round but scattered showers also were forecast.

The field of 149 will be cut to the low 90 and ties after today's 18 holes.

Ten players withdrew or picked up yesterday. Among them were winter golf's leading money winner, the veteran E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, Ardmore, Okla. Harrison withdrew just before being called to the first tee. The cold wind had irritated an old back injury.

Middlecoff, Haas and Nary were not the only ones who gave Memorial's par a beating yesterday. Seven stars were grouped at 69. Included were PGA Champion Walter Burkemo, Franklin, Mich., Marty Furgol, Lemont, Ill., the 1951 winner here, and a former Canadian professional hockey player, Bill Ezinicki, Lynnfield, Mass.

Others just three strokes behind the defending champion were John Weltzel, Hershey, Pa., Al Besseink, Grossinger, N.Y., who shared the first round lead with Middlecoff last year, Felice Torza, St. Charles, Ill., and Joe Moore Jr., White Plains, N.Y.

Except for two holes, the tee markers yesterday were at their maximum distance but 35 players still beat par and another 18 had 72.

Middlecoff, after starting with a 35-foot putt on the first green for a two-under 3, finished with a pair of 33s. He scrambled a bit on two holes but still matched par. He also gained strokes with a 10-footer on the fifth green and rolled one in with a putter four feet off the green on the 12th. His last two birdies, on 15 and 17, had putts of about 10 feet.

Haas had a 33-34, with one bogie. Nary had a 33-35 that included an eagle and four bogies.

National UGCA Junior Champion Rex Baxter Jr., a University of Houston freshman, was the low amateur and among the 14 players with 70s. The others included Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N.Y., who got a hole-in-one with a hooking three wood shot on the 237-yard seventh.

Among those at 72 were two long hitters who had been bracketed with Middlecoff as pre-tournament favorites, John Palmer, Charlotte, N.C., and Roberto de Jovicenzo, Buenos Aires, Argentina.

AMARILLO (SC) — Both San Angelo College and Odessa's Wranglers were eliminated in the opening round of the Region V (junior college) basketball tournament here Thursday night.

Despite a 48-point effort by Bill Barker, the Angelo club lost to the host team, Amarillo, 91-82. Tom Boyd led the Badgers with 41 points.

The Rams were playing without the services of Tom Milford, star forward, who was not eligible to compete here.

Cameron A&M of Oklahoma, one of the favorites in the meet, ousted Odessa, 66-60. Al Love paced the Sooners with 34 points. Lou Lester of Cameron and Duane Jeter of Odessa each had 17.

In other first round games, Frank Phillips of Berger nudged Eastern Oklahoma A&M, 59-53; and Cooners State of Oklahoma subdued Clarendon JC, 74-62.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Tommy Hart

Members of the 1953-54 Howard County Junior College basketball team showed much respect for Keith Lane, Frank Phillips' great eager, when it came time to select an all-opponent team.

Lane, who practically beat the Hawks single-handed on two occasions, placed on every first team cast by the Hawks.

The first all-opponent team selected by the local collegians had, in addition to Lane: Bill Barker, San Angelo; Carroll Smith, San Antonio; Frank Massey, Decatur; and Warren Haggard, Wharton.

Haggard beat out his teammate, Bruce Davis, by one vote. Others on the second team were Hollis Neese, Del Mar; Tom Milford, San Angelo; Bill Frazier, San Antonio; and Duane Jeter, Odessa.

Robert Burrow, the Lon Morris wizard, didn't make the team because the Hawks didn't meet the Bearcats. Yes, the Jacksonville team played here, but not against HCJC.

The collar bone break suffered recently by the Big Spring High School footballer, James Washburn, isn't his first.

He fractured the bone back in the fifth grade while taking part in a game of "Wolf Over The River."

If James is the smallest of the Washburn boys who have taken part in high school athletics here, he is also the scrawpiest.

Coach Carl Coleman concedes now the Steers will have a fine backfield and good end play next fall. He can cease to worry about the center position, where Jerry Graves returns.

He admits the team will be up there, "if the tackles and the guards come around."

The outlook is not exactly dark at either position, what with Bob Jones, Dickie Milam, James Slate, Roy Hughes, Blanton Dees, Glenn Jenkins, Preston Bridges and others available to man those positions.

The Stanton-Coahoma football skirmish could well become identified as "the big game" of this immediate area, now that Coahoma has been placed in District 4-A.

The two schools have always been spirited rivals. The Buffs are already looking forward to avenging that narrow defeat suffered at the hands of the Bulldogs last fall. They had Coahoma down three touchdowns late in the game and then let the decision get away.

It still ranks some of the Stanton players.

The communities are so close to one another (28 miles) the visiting team always takes most of their rooters along with them. Usually, for that one game, the two schools could combine the seating facilities of their two stadiums and still not take care of all the fans.

Frank Glimmer, a Chicago tight roofer, said it: "The big drawback in judging a fight via TV is that you can't assess the damage of the punch."

Sweetwater High School may lose one of its best football prospects in history, Dickie Allan. The boys' parents are supposed to be contemplating a move to Fort Worth.

The young freshman back, who has only one eye, beat the Big Spring Yearling almost by himself last year. He scored something like ten touchdowns in two games against the locals.

SAM BAUGH
... Monday Guest

Coahoma Fans To Hear Baugh

COAHOMA (SC) — Sammy Baugh, one of the greatest professional football players of all time and now an associate coach at Hardin-Simmons University, will serve as speaker at the barbecue honoring the Coahoma High School football team here Monday evening.

The party, which gets under way at 6 p.m., will be held in the High School Cafeteria. Patrons of the school are staging the banquet. Tickets for the event sell for $1 each.

The program will largely be informal but Coach Fred Salling of Coahoma said several musical numbers will be heard.

Jackets will be presented to members of the 1953 Coahoma team, along with other awards.

Coahoma won District 5-B championship honors and drove all the way to the Regional finals before losing to Rochester. The Bulldogs won 11 of 12 games and emerged as one of the highest scoring football teams in West Texas.

Garden City Track Team Working Out

GARDEN CITY (SC) — Nine boys are undergoing track and field drills at Garden City High School under Coach Targe Lindsey.

The only seniors in the group are Richard Carter, Terry Tittle and Bill Robinson.

Carter is a dash man and broad jumper. Tittle runs the mile and the hurdles. Robinson is a 440-yard runner.

Others out include Leroy Wooley, Jimmy Smith, Lorin McDowell Jr., Doug Gray, Jimmy McCorquodale and Rob Childers.

Wooley throws the shot, runs the 220 and 440 and broad jumps. Smith is a quarter miler and half miler. McDowell runs in the same events, as does Gray. McCorquodale competes in the weights and Childers in the half-mile run.

Lindsey said he plans to enter the Bearcats in an invitational meet at Forsan and the district meet, which will also be in Forsan.

SWC Cage Gate Shows Increase

DALLAS (AP) — Southwest Conference basketball attendance was up more than 18,000 over last year, a check of the conference schools showed today.

This year 72 home games drew 161,242 spectators. Last year 64 games drew 152,615.

Showing increases over last year were Baylor, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian, Rice, Texas and Arkansas with only Texas A&M registering a loss. The increases by Baylor, Texas Christian and Texas were the result of playing more games.

HOUSTON (AP) — A sellout crowd of 6,400 is due tonight when Rice and Texas open their three-game series to decide a place in the NCAA Basketball Tournament.

It will be the fourth time this season for the two teams, co-champions of the Southwest Conference, to play before a packed house. They did so in the finals of the pre-season tournament here and when they met in conference play at Austin and Houston.

The second game of the series is scheduled for Austin Monday night and a third, if needed, will be played at Waco Tuesday night.

Wayland and East Texas in NAIA

By The Associated Press

East Texas State and Wayland will represent Texas in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament at Kansas City next week.

East Texas, champion of the Lone Star Conference, beat North Texas State, champion of the Gulf Coast Conference, 69-54, last night at Dallas to win its way to the NAIA, where it is fourth last year.

Wayland, an independent, whipped Howard Payne, champion of the Texas Conference, 84-74, at Plainview to join East Texas in the trip to Kansas City.

Park Hill Opposes Central Saturday

The 1954 championship of the Ward School Basketball League goes on the line here Saturday morning when Central Ward squares away with Park Hill at 10 a.m. in the Junior High School Gym.

Central is unbeaten in two years of competition and a slight favorite to win its second straight city crown.

Park Hill was upset recently by Kate Morrison, which itself was in the running until it suffered a surprise defeat last week at the hands of West Ward.

Central is coached by L. D. Spradlin. Park Hill by Billy Mack Sheppard.

Central depends largely upon the ability of such performers as Don Masters, B. J. Davis and August Joe Lueddecke to hit the basket.

The newly formed club will hold a social gathering at 2 p.m. Sunday, during which members plan a preliminary shoot somewhere in the vicinity of the City Memorial Park, formerly the old Birdwell tank.

The club will also meet at 7 p.m. on Thursday, March 11, in the school shop.

Ex-Resident Wins Table Tennis Title

SAN ANGELO (SC) — Mrs. Raymond Covington, a former resident of Big Spring, capped the championship in the women's singles division of the YMCA table tennis tournament here recently.

Mrs. Covington has been active in the Y table tennis club since moving here several months ago. She was awarded a trophy by the club after winning the city-wide event.

Netters Clash With Forsan

The Big Spring Steerettes will be favored to sack up their 13th volley ball win in 14 starts when they host the Forsan Buffaloes in a 7:30 o'clock contest this evening at Steer Gym.

The locals were surprised by Sweetwater earlier this week, at which time their long winning streak came to a close.

Despite the upset, however, the Big Springers—who are coached by Arsh Phillips—are supposed to have their best team in history.

The Steerettes have already won championships in tournaments at Odessa and here.

Big Spring gets a chance to avenge the Sweetwater loss here Thursday, March 25.

B teams of Big Spring and Forsan open this evening's program with a 6:30 o'clock contest.

COAHOMA (SC) — The Coahoma girls' basketball team, 23-B champion, was to leave early today for Brownwood where at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon they meet the winner of the Lpan-Bronte game in the Regional Meet.

Lpan and Bronte were booked to play at 9 a.m.

Making the trip were Mackie Burns, Mary Massey, Beverly Meador, Patsy Owens, Donna Huston, Martha White, Gail Neill, Shirley Graves, Joyce Francis, Charlene Williams, Madge Talene and Sue Buchanan.

Buchanan, one of the best forwards on the team, was due to be used sparingly, if at all. She is recovering from the mumps.

The Bulldogs will carry a 163 won-lost record to the tournament. Winner of the meet takes part in the State Tournament at Austin.

Ultra-Precision Gyroscope Now Being Mass-Produced By Firm

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—A new type "floated" gyroscope, capable of such minute jobs as measuring off the width of a city block on the moon, is being mass produced by Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Co.

The ultra-precision instrument, cylindrical and weighing less than three pounds, is claimed by company engineers to be the most sensitive airborne implement ever devised.

Officially called the Hermetic Integrating Gyro (HIG), the device is capable of detecting motion 3,000 times slower than the movement of the hour hand on a watch.

It was designed for the Air Force for use in automatic flight control systems for supersonic and piloted aircraft, and for bombing and weapon firing controls. Other nonaerial uses already being made of HIG range from 60-ton tanks to ocean-going vessels.

Engineers said today that HIG's near-miracle performance is due to the fact that friction among its moving parts has been cut almost to zero. This was accomplished by floating the gyro's delicate, jewel-mounted spin mechanism in a special oily fluid.

If a boy on a sled could reduce friction comparably, these experts said it would be possible for him to coast about 1,000 miles down a "hill" only one foot high.

Work on the gyro was started five years ago after initial designs were laid out at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology under direction of Dr. C. S. Draper. More than 10,000 HIGs have been produced so far.

So sensitive is the mechanism that one speck of dust weighing one one-thousandth of a gram would have the same effect on the HIG as the dropping of a handful of gravel into an automobile transmission.

As proof of its ruggedness, engineers said they have used a demonstration model to drive nails through a board without affecting its performance.

A spokesman said "fantastic" was the only way to describe the small gyro's capabilities. For example: If a man walked around a circle so slowly as to take him five years to complete his journey, the gyro could record the motion. If he suddenly speeded up to complete the circle in a second, the Gyro could measure and control that rate of speed also. If a man standing in Los Angeles could read a newspaper held up in New York, the instrument could detect the angle of change of his eyes as they traveled from the first column to the eighth.

Zwicker Gets Home Support

STOUGHTON, Wis. (AP)—A Veterans of Foreign Wars post in this home town of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker has adopted a resolution attacking Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) for what it termed "outrageously abusing and insulting" the general.

McCarthy, in a Senate hearing, told the general he should be removed from command.

Richard Bakken, commander of the VFW Badger Post No. 328, said the resolution expressed the post's "confidence in the patriotism of Gen. Zwicker and its gratitude to him for the valiant service he has rendered in the battlefield against the enemies of democracy."

The resolution, according to Bakken, attacked McCarthy's war record. It accused the senator of "resigning from the service before the war with Japan was over and at a time when his Marine Corps comrades faced months of bloody fighting in the Pacific ... false claims about wounds which in fact he did not suffer ... claims that he was a tail gunner when in fact he was a Marine Air Force ground intelligence officer ... claims that he entered service as a buck private when he entered as a commissioned officer ... and efforts to promote decorations for himself."

The Thrill That Comes Once in a Lifetime

Lewter Speaks To Kiwanians

Kiwanis Club members honored County Agent Durward Lewter and two of his champion 4-H club feeders at their luncheon meeting Thursday in the Settles Hotel.

Ann and Sue White and their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd White, were introduced, and Lewter spoke briefly on the 4-H club livestock feeding program.

The two White sisters have the distinction of showing champion steers at four major livestock shows in less than 18 months, taking top honors at Dallas, Fort Worth, Chicago and San Antonio.

Lewter praised local citizens for their interest in 4-H club work, declaring "you business men have played an important part in helping Howard County boys and girls produce champions."

He urged all Kiwanis members and guests to attend the 17th annual Howard County Fat Stock show next week, at which time 25 steers, 200 lambs and 150 capons will be shown by 4-H and FFA members.

The program was arranged by Dr. W. B. Hardy, chairman of the Kiwanis Club's committee on agriculture and conservation.

Congress' Pay Issue Held Alive

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) said today the issue of a pay raise for members of Congress and federal judges "is definitely still alive and I think something will be done about it" this session.

However, he agreed in an interview there was little or no chance action would be taken by March 15, the deadline set for consideration of a report recommending a substantial salary increase.

This report was presented to President Eisenhower and other top government officials Jan. 15 by an 18-member commission on judicial and congressional salaries set up by Congress last year.

The commission recommended hiking the pay of senators and House members by $12,500 to $27,500. It proposed raises for federal judges which would mean salaries ranging from $27,500 for district judges up to $40,000 for the chief justice of the United States. The range now is $15,000 to $25,500.

The law creating the commission, which Dirksen sponsored, stated that Congress must act on the report within 60 days after it was filed. But there is no way to enforce this.

Dirksen said he thought it was entirely clear Congress could act on the report any time this session. He said he was not committed to the full raises recommended by the commission, but was convinced some increase is needed.

Bad Luck Descends With Full Strength

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP)—Harold Murphy of nearby Summit was laid off from his job a week ago at the Agmco Steel Corp. plant here.

Wednesday night, the family's house was destroyed by fire. All belongings, except a few blankets, were lost.

After the fire, Murphy was searching for a place to live when his car stalled on a railroad crossing. Efforts to move it failed. It was demolished by a train.

On top of all this, his seven children—ranging in age from 12 days to 19 years—all have the chicken pox.

'Live' Shell Found In Lady's Basement

HUBBARDVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. Helena Munson decided yesterday that some of that junk in the basement had to go. She called a scrap dealer.

He turned up a 75mm. artillery shell—vintage 1916—among a cluster of old pipe and other scrap. The dealer notified state police, who called on Sgt. Frank Shipley, a World War II infantryman stationed with the Air ROTC at nearby Colgate University.

Shipley discovered the shell was "live." He removed its primer and fuse before the shell was carted off to Griffiss Air Force Base at Rome.

DONALD DUCK

UNCLE RAY'S CORNER

DENNIS THE MENACE

Among the world's famous books are the two volumes of the Doomsday (also spelled "Domesday"). These volumes are grouped together under the name of Doomsday Book. They were written by hand 800 years ago.

After William the Conqueror won control over England, he wanted to know the wealth of the country and how much he could raise in taxes. For this reason he sent men far and wide to make a survey of the land, houses and livestock. The facts which they gathered were set down in the Doomsday Book.

"Not a single piece of land was left out of the record," said an Anglo-Saxon writer. "Not even an ox or cow or hog was left out."

Those statements were too strong, but the tax agents did obtain as many facts as possible for the Doomsday Book. Instead of being kind to the Anglo-Saxon nobles, William took away the estates of many of them, and gave them to Norman lords and bishops.

To Bishop Odo, a close friend, the king gave land in 17 counties. Later in his life, however, this Bishop lost royal favor and was put in prison.

About two million persons lived in the places reported in the Doomsday Book. Records of several cities (including London) and of a few counties were left out of the two volumes. It is possible that other records were placed in a third volume which has been lost.

The entire population of England at that time probably was about three million. Fourteen times that many people live in England at the present.

The Doomsday Book was used to decide the lawful owners of land. Some persons called it the Book of Doom, and this is believed to explain the Doomsday name. Other popular names for the collection of records were King's Book and Judgment Book.

Printed copies of the Doomsday Book have been made. The original handwritten volumes have been kept in a museum in London.

DATE DATA

'Fresh' Approach Is Seldom Appreciated

By BEVERLY BRANDON
 "Hi ya honey. You're in luck. I'd like to date you up for Friday night. How about it?"

Steadfast? Joking friends? Nope. That's Forward Fred talking to Judy Johnson. They haven't even met before but he knows who she is because she was on last week's assembly. He's taken a fancy to her and has decided he will bestow the favor of his company on her for Friday night. (Thrill, thrill.)

Our mother's generation would have called him fresh. To Judy his line sounds pretty stale. On it flows bubbling with words like honey, sweetheart, and baby. According to Fred this is the fatal approach to use on women. He doesn't know just how fatal. He's a dead duck.

Judy is a modern girl and not nearly as gullible as "My Friend Irma." Her reactions are normal and average. Instead of being flattered she feels sick at her stomach. What's the matter with her, she wonders. She must be slipping if that's the kind of boy she attracts nowadays.

Could it be she's gained a couple

Green Hair Bothers All, Lady Finds

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A pretty young miss whose hair was green for a day returned to work at Douglas Aircraft Co. today as a brown-haired girl and plane production resumed a steady pace.

Mrs. Lucille Ballinger of Fullerton, a tool crib clerk, told a friend one day at work. "When you cut your waist-long hair, I'll color mine green." The friend cut her hair.

So yesterday Mrs. Ballinger appeared on the job wearing a bright red blouse and green tresses. The lacquer she applied had made her hair grassy green.

"I suppose 200 or 300 workers came by to stare," said Mrs. Ballinger. "I didn't think it would cause such a commotion. I must admit it stopped production."

A foreman ordered her to cover her hair with a bandana, but that didn't help much. Finally he ordered her to go home, saying: "Please be brown-haired again by tomorrow morning." She was driven home in a company car.

Mrs. Ballinger said that when her husband Jimmy, who also works at Douglas, saw the green locks, "he ordered me to wash the stuff out by the end of the day." She added: "I'll never forget the look on his face when he saw me."

Mrs. Ballinger applied soap and water to her locks last night. Said her husband, "There'll be no more of that going on."

Said Mrs. Ballinger, "Well, anyway, I kept my promise."

Successful Rain Bettor Dies At 93

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — C. L. (Cal) Waggoner, who in 48 years compiled an average of .792 in betting it would rain in Decatur on May 10, died yesterday. He was 93.

Waggoner, a bank auditor for more than 65 years before his retirement in 1950, started betting it would rain on May 10 in 1905. In 48 years he made the wagers he won 38 times and lost 10—for an average of .792. He said he could recall no reason for the date or the tradition. Waggoner's bets never were large and usually were for cigars or for cash—a dollar or less.

Male Cinderella Sought In 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Michael Menander is looking for a male Cinderella whose size 12 shoe flew off as he was running to catch a bus. He caught it, but the shoe crashed through the window of Menander's restaurant.

For the one whose foot fits the shoe, Menander has an $80 bill for the window.

Guest Rescued In Hotel Fire

Firemen aid Gordon Shillinglaw of Yonkers down a ladder from the fifth floor of the Hotel Parker House as 500 guests were routed by fire in the 14-story structure in the heart of downtown Boston, Mass. The fire was largely confined to the fifth floor and no serious injuries were reported. Man in window at right, next to be rescued, is Joseph C. Fitzgerald of Coral Gables, Fla., who was taken to a hospital suffering from minor burns and smoke inhalation. (AP Wirephoto).

There's Good, Bad In Business Reports

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Pollyanna and Cassandra could have quite an argument over sizing up today's state of business news.

The glad girl could point out that a number of things look a little better than they did—or at least they aren't getting worse at as fast a rate as they were a short time ago.

The original prophet of doom could point out that the day's news mostly shows that the decline is still on and it's much too early yet to call the turn.

Joblessness is a case in point. The number out of work continues to rise. But not quite so many are lining up these days to apply for unemployment compensation as a few weeks back. And advancement of new layoffs today are pleasantly offset by reports of men going back to work this week in some of the auto plants.

Department stores sales are running about 3 per cent behind a year ago, the Federal Reserve Board reports. But Dun & Bradstreet thinks that retail trade as a whole is holding about level with last year.

Mail order houses report their February stores well below a year ago. But they take cheer in the fact that the drop was smaller than it was in January.

Installment buying had been off sharply so far this year, indicating that consumers are wary about taking on more debt. But they go on saving, and that shows they aren't too hard pressed. Savings accounts are gaining. And in January sales of life insurance were up 10 per cent over the previous year.

A number of businessmen feel sure that buying is going to pick up sharply in some presently deflated luxury lines—such as furs, jewelry and entertainment—if the excise taxes are cut. And they gleefully point to the indications that Congress seems set on doing it soon.

Personal income totals have been falling, as work weeks were clipped and men laid off. But the latest Department of Commerce figures show that the total is still high—by comparison with anything but the peak—and is still running two billion dollars a year higher than it was a year ago.

Manufacturers report their sales dropping this year. But they trimmed production even more, so the Commerce Department figures show manufacturers' inventories reduced a little from the high level that Cassandra has been shaking a sorry head over.

Two other economic barometers still point to pretty fair weather. Use of electricity still outruns the like 1953 period in the nation as a whole, although the gain gets slimmer each week. And machine tool orders were reported picking up smartly in January from their December level.

Financial circles are split today over the meaning of the U.S. Treasury's decision to stay out of the long-term bond market for the time being and offer short-term tax anticipation securities instead. This led bond traders to bid up U.S. securities on the ground that the Treasury move meant that yields would continue downward.

Treasury officials deny that offering a long-term bond would have been deflationary, but they admit that some people might have thought so, and this psychological reaction might have affected moves to halt the recession.

The Treasury's move seems to mean there will be more investment money around looking for employment in business or in mortgages.

A final note: where one American had a $5,000 or better income before World War II, the Census Bureau reports, nine do now. The eight lucky newcomers, however, may wonder a little after they add up their bills as to just how far this bigger income of theirs goes these days.

Mother Says Son Had Head Injuries In Court Testimony

DENVER (AP)—Attorneys for LeRoy A. Leick called more witnesses today in the district court trial of the dapper office worker accused of the strangulation slaying of his wife last Dec. 1.

The 30-year-old Leick, who has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity, sat emotionless as his mother testified yesterday.

Mrs. Alma Schreiber, 63, of San Antonio, Tex., recalled her son twice suffered head injuries as a youth at Westhoff, Tex. "We couldn't afford medical attention for the injuries," she said tearfully. "We were too poor."

Police testifying before the state board rested its case Wednesday said Leick and Gene Dukas, 20, formerly of Jesup, Ga., admitted plotting a holdup slaying of Mrs. Leick to collect her life insurance but each claimed the other throttled her. Dukas is to be tried next week.

Ex-Mental Patient Admits Son's Death

DALLAS (AP)—Mrs. Carroll A. Sinclair, 40, sobbingly told police yesterday she killed her 4-year-old son "because everything was hopeless."

The former psychiatric patient was charged with murder after making a signed statement. The badly mauled body of John Michael Sinclair was found in his bed Wednesday.

"I tried to cut out a dress for my little girl, Diane, 7," she said, "but kept getting mixed up. I decided that I ought to kill him because everything was hopeless. I looked for something to kill him with and got a brass vase and hit him on the head. Then I hit him in the head over and over again."

CinemaScope Has Drive-In Speaker

NEW YORK (AP)—A speaker that will enable drive-in theaters to show CinemaScope was demonstrated today by Claude Eszell, owner of a chain of Texas drive-ins.

Spyros Skouras, president of 20th Century-Fox, gave his approval to the device.

The hope was expressed that Ezzell Theaters either in Dallas or Corpus Christi would be equipped to put CinemaScope, with stereophonic sound, on the screen by the end of the month.

Drive-ins have been unable to show CinemaScope because their sound speakers could not reproduce the sound that goes with CinemaScope.

Boys Nearly Kill Aged Woman With 'Pranks'

BARI, Italy (AP)—A band of boys showered a 71-year-old woman with firecrackers and flaming paper and set her afire last night in her home here.

The victim, Mrs. Annunziata Vericelli, drove out the boys, but fell in the chase and broke a leg. She rolled on the floor to put out the flames in her clothing and that set the house afire. Neighbors rescued her.

Her condition today was critical. Police hunted the boys.

Bethea Says State Hospitals Are Still Badly Overcrowded

WACO (AP)—Dr. James A. Bethea says the state's mental hospitals and special schools hold 20,656 patients and students in space designed for only 14,000.

Bethea, as a brigadier general, was the war-time commander of McCloskey General Hospital at Temple. Now executive director of the Board for State Hospitals and Special Schools, he spoke yesterday before conference of the Texas Society for Mental Health.

Bethea said conditions have been eased considerably since a special session of the state Legislature in February 1950 used an increased cigarette tax to raise $4,000,000 annually for a building program.

By next year, Bethea said, the state will have completed or under construction 5,580 units of bed space, including 4,155 new beds and 1,425 replacements.

Brinks Job Suspect Sentenced To Prison

SMETHPORT, Pa. (AP)—Joseph (Spec) O'Keefe, named by the FBI as a suspect in the million-dollar Brinks holdup at Boston in 1950, was sentenced to prison last night for stealing five revolvers from a Kane, Pa., sporting goods store four years ago.

O'Keefe, released recently from a Pennsylvania prison, was sentenced to 2 to 12 years in Western State Penitentiary after being found guilty of burglary. His attorney said an appeal would be filed.
