A Tribute To Annette Marie Love

You were the nicest girl I have ever met. Even though we never just sat and talked, no matter where we met, it didn't matter, you always came over and said, Hi, or waved. When I passed you on the road - a wave and a smile was always there. You never met a stranger, and made everyone that was around you feel special. You encouraged your friends and classmates to the fullest.

I will never forget you, Annette. You were a very special girl. You are missed greatly.

Here, tears are falling - sharing memories are valued, and will never be forgotten. There, I know you are in God's care, and I can see you now - "No Tears in Heaven" - standing with the angels, with that beautiful smile of yours.

We miss you, we love you, and your memory will be in our hearts forever.

Tribute To Norma Joyce Dennis

A tribute to Norma Joyce Dennis. To know her was to love her. She has left her mark on so many lives.

Norma Joyce (Tucker) Dennis was born in Eastland, Texas. She was a loving wife and mother, an ordained minister, pastoring at Taylor's Chapel near Comanche, Texas at the time of her death. She was a dedicated caring school teacher, having taught for some 26 1/2 years.

She passed from this life January 22, 1993. This poem speaks of itself for her,

Do not stand at my grave and weep;
I am not there. I do not sleep.
I am a thousand winds that blow;
I am the diamond glints on snow.
I am the sunlight on ripened grain;
I am the gentle autumn's rain.
When you awaken in the morning's hush,
I am the swift uplifting rush
Of quiet birds in circled flight.
I am the soft star that shines at night.

Do not stand at my grave and cry.
I am not there; I did not die.
I am standing at Heaven's door
To be with Jesus forevermore.

In the boys action the Panthers were ready to play and possibly get a spot in the playoffs, and came away with a 58 to 43 victory to cause a playoff game.

The Panthers got out to a 16 to 11 edge in the first quarter, then added another 17 in the second to take a 33 to 21 lead at the intermission. Then in the third the Panthers burned the nets for 21 points while holding the Buffaloes to just 9 to give them a larger cushion. Then in the fourth period the Panthers hit only 4 while the Buffs were scoring 13, but held on for the 58 to 43 victory.

Henrik Bodlund led the Panthers with 28. Jonray Childers hit 10. Chris Laminack got 8, and Neely Carter and Jade Warren each scored 6. Reed led Cross Plains with 13.

When You Can't Breathe Nothing Else Matters- New Slogan

Struggling for breath is a terrifying feeling. People with lung disease know this all too well. That is why the American Lung Association of Texas, the leading fighter of lung disease, has taken on a new slogan, "When you can't breathe, nothing else matters." This slogan will replace the nearly 20-year-old tagline, "It's a matter of life and breath."

With the launch of its new public service campaign this month, the American Lung Association of Texas is introducing its new slogan, thru television, radio, and print ads, to educate the public about the horror of not being able to catch another breath. Lung disaesa, which includes asthma, tuberculosis, pneumonia, lung cancer, chronic beonchitis, and emphysema, is the third leading cause of death in America. The spots are intended to be as frightening as lung disease itself.

"The new slogan is designed to instill in the public mind the urgency and relevance of lung disease," said Edwrad Carter, Executive Director. "Its message is simple yet challenging. It doesn't matter wgo you are, where you were born, who you know, or how much money you make. When you can't breathe, the only thing that matters is your next breath."

The American Lung Association of Texas is dedicated to the fight against lung disease. Along with its medical section, the American Thoracic Society, the Association provided programs of education, community service, advocacy, and research. Its activities are supported by donations to Christmas Seals and other voluntary contributions. Founded in 1904 to fight tuberculosis, the American Lung Association is the oldest nationwide voluntary health agency in the United States.

Q: We heat our home with propane but have an electric water heater. We've heard that we could save money by buying a propane water heater. However, we hate to buy a new water heater before the old one wears out. Could we really save money by replacing it early?

A: Yes. You could save nearly $150 a year by switching from electricity to propane for water heating. The Texas Railroad Commission staff calculated the comparison based on costs of 95¢ per gallon of propane and 8¢ per kilowatt hour of electricity. We used an average family's water consumption for our figures. If you pay $300 for the water heater, you would get your money back through reduced power bills in about two years. Looking at the long-term investment, if your water heater lasts 10 years, your total savings would be $1,470 minus the $300 purchase price, or $1,170 that you could save. Since today's water heaters are likely to last longer than older models, you'll probably save even more. And if you pay less than 95¢ a gallon for propane, you'll see the savings add up more quickly.

Q: I'd like to switch my pickup to propane, but I've got a couple of concerns. First, will it be hard to find places to refill when I'm away from home? Second, will I take away too much cargo space from my truck?

A: Your concerns are certainly legitimate, but we think you will find the advantages of conversion far outweigh the slight disadvantages. Retail outlets are now open in all but 14 of the state's 254 counties, with 1,100 outlets open statewide. A typical conversion to propane would give you an equal or greater mileage range than you had with gasoline. Although your best economic and environmental benefits would come from a vehicle operating exclusively on propane, some individuals who convert their vehicles maintain a dual fuel capability. That is, the converted vehicle will run on either gasoline or propane at the flip of a switch. With the ability to use either fuel, your risk of running out of fuel is even less. Of all the alternative fuels, propane conversion takes up the least space in a vehicle. A 15-gallon propane tank, which carries enough fuel to take you as far as a typical gasoline tank, requires only 2.3 cubic feet of space, or less than 2 percent of the cargo area of a small pickup. To get the equivalent range with compressed natural gas would require a 7.5 cubic foot tank.

If you have questions about propane, please call 1-800-64-CLEAR or write to the Texas Railroad Commission, Alternative Fuels Research and Education Division, Capital Station, P.O. Box 12967, Austin, TX 78711.

Doris Richeson Morey Receives CMNT Awards

Doris Richeson Morey was presented with two awards for being a top national contributor in the Children's Miracle Network Telethon. The awards were presented at International Dairy Queen's San Diego Convention by Olympic Gold Medal Gymnast Mary Lou Retton and honored Richeson Dairy Queen stores for being among the nation's biggest fund-raisers.

The twin plaques are inscribed, "DORIS RICHESON MOREY - TOP NATIONAL 'DAIRY QUEEN' CONTRIBUTOR" In Recognition of Your Outstanding Commitment To Helping Children in Your Community Live Healthier and Happier Lives - Children's Miracle Network - It's Working Wonders."

Of the awards, Richeson says, "I am most proud of the achievement of being able to help those who cannot help themselves - our children."

The funds were raised by in-store donations, a golf tournament, an auction, a community dance, a rodeo and other functions voluntarily staffed by management and associates of Richeson Restaurants.

The CMNT is sponsored by the Osmond Foundation, a non-profit organization founded by the Osmond family of Salt Lake City, Utah. It benefits children's hospitals across the United States, with the local funds going to the local participating hospital which qualifies for the appropriate level of children's medical care.

Co-chaired by Marie Osmond and John Schneider, the Telethon is a 21-hour show, with 40 minutes of each hour devoted to a national broadcast from Disneyland and 20 minutes reserved for local programming. During the local programming Richeson personnel actually man the telephone lines at the television station and receive pledges from callers and attendees.

Dairy Queen has participated in the Children's Miracle Network Telethon, the nation's largest, since 1985, and plans to join in the 1993 Telethon, to be held on June 5th and 6th, although fund-raiser events are scheduled throughout the year.

TFP President Is Disappointed With Ruling In Midland

Waco — The president of the Texas Farm Bureau expressed disappointment with the ruling issued on February 3rd in Midland in the federal endangered species lawsuit.

S. M. True of Plainview, head of Texas' largest farm and ranch organization, said federal district judge Lucius Bunton's ruling could have dire consequences for Texas agriculture.

Bunton ruled that, in order to protect endangered fish, spring flow at Comal and San Marcos must be maintained at all costs. Under the ruling, human use of the Edwards Aquifer could not exceed levels that would threaten spring flow at those two points.

True, a cotton, grain and cattle producer, said the implications of the ruling are shocking. "We have a situation where a fish has more rights than a city of 1.5 million people, or an industry that provides abundant food and fiber for millions," True said.

The ruling is viewed as a victory for the Sierra Club in their suit against the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Services.

"This is not just a Texas issue," True said. "This will create problems for farmers and ranchers all over America."

Trus said the ruling will be closely evaluated by the Texas Farm Bureau and the American Farm Bureau, both of which were heavily involved in the suit.

The named defendant intervenor, Danny McFadin, is a Uvalde County farmer and president of his county Farm Bureau.

True said it is very likely the defendants in the case will pursue an appeal.

If the ruling is upheld on appeal, it would greatly extend the scope of the federal Endangered Species Act far beyond the current interpretation of the law.

"The Endangered Species Act is tough to live with now. I can only imagine what's in store for us in the future," True concluded.

Stenholm Reintroduces Balanced Budget Amendment

Washington, D. C. — Congressman Charles Stenholm (D-TX) has once again introduced a Balanced Budget Amendment to the U. S. Constitution. The legislation, to be numbered H. J. Res. 103, has been co-sponsored by nearly 250 members and represents the consensus language agreed to last summer by several House and Senate members prior to the House's consideration of a balanced budget amendment. A companion bill has been introduced in the Senate.

"A Balanced Budget Amendment will provide a Constitutional guarantee that we will adhere to a tough deficit reduction plan," Stenholm said. "While this amendment will not solve the deficit problem by itself, it will give us a necessary tool to balance the budget."

The amendment has gained strong bi-partisan support, including the endorsement of many individuals who had opposed a balanced budget amendment in the past. It will require the President to submit a balanced budget for each upcoming fiscal year, and mandates that an increase in the national debt would require a three-fourths vote in both Houses. Increasing taxes would require a majority vote of the total membership in both Houses on a rollcall vote. The amendment could be waived during a war or a military conflict declared by Congress.

Commenting on several polls that demonstrated strong public support for reducing the budget deficit, Stenholm noted, "The public recognizes that bringing our federal budget under control is the most important step we can take toward improving the long-term strength of our economy. The election last year made it clear that the public is frustrated with a budget process that is unable to control record deficits and is demanding fundamental changes in our handling of the budget."

According to recent estimates by the Congressional Budget Office, gross interest payments will exceed $407 billion by 1998 without a change in current policies.

KOKOMO NEWS

By Zelda Jordan

We all had a good time at the Kokomo Extension Homemakers Club Stew Supper on Saturday night at the Kokomo Community Center. It was so nice to visit with all those who came. We appreciate the support of everyone. Our thanks to all. And a special thanks to Shawn McCauley and Candace Johnson for entertaining us with their singing.

Jimmy Little led the music at the Sunday morning service at the Kokomo Baptist Church with Wynelle Brown at the piano and Glynda Bond at the organ. Visitors were Joyce Gilbert of Katy, Larry Morrow and Randy Forbus of Plains, Bill and Glenda Priest of Abilene and Randy, Deliah, Christopher and Jonathan Lee Lewis of Ennis. This was Jonathan Lee's first visit at Kokomo with his grandparents, Delmon and Joyce Eaves.

Leona Wilson led the music at the Sunday evening service with Glynda Bond at the piano.

Following the evening service, everyone gathered in the fellowship hall of the church for stew, cornbread and cake that was left over from Saturday night, and it was just as good as it had been the night before.

Those from the Kokomo Baptist Church going to the Canterbury Villa in Gorman for church services on Sunday afternoon were Bro. Clarence and Leona Wilson, Joe and Glynda Bond, Jimmy Little, Nancy Hendricks, Hope Joiner, Johnnie B. Griffith, Bro. Joe O'Neal, Wanda Rainey and visitors Denzel and Fay Ables.

We are missing Wanda Rainey in our services at Kokomo Baptist, but we are happy that she can serve as pianist in the Family Bible Church at Gorman and fill the need there.

Larry Morrow and his neighbor, Randy Forbus of Plains visited during the weekend with Larry's parents, J. L. and Naoma Morrow, and also with his parents-in-law, Paul and Imogene Norris.

Neal and Joyce Gilbert of Katy spent the weekend with their parents Berneice Rodgers of Kokomo and Floyd Gilbert of Gorman. Carolyn Gilbert of San Angelo was also visiting in the Floyd Gilbert home. They all attended the stew supper at Kokomo.

Randy, Deliah, Christopher and Jonathan Lee Lewis of Ennis and Clifford and Doris Graham of Monahans visited Delmon and Joyce Eaves during the weekend and attended the stew supper.

Bill and Glenda Priest of Abilene spent Saturday night with her parents, Glenn and Zelda Jordan, and attended the stew supper. The Priests left on Sunday morning for a Valentine trip to Fredericksburg.

Frederick W. Franz A Religious Leader Dies In Office at 79

Frederick William Franz, a biblical scholar and president of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract Society, better known as the Jehovah's Witnesses, died on December 22 at his residence in the society's headquarters in Brooklyn. He was 99 years old.

An eight-member board of directors is selecting his successor at the organization's new residential tower in Brooklyn Heights. Founded in 1879, the Jehovah's Witnesses is a Christian denomination that believes the end of the world is near and advocates door-to-door evangelism. It claims 4.4 million believers worldwide.

Mr. Franz was elected president of the society in 1977 and remained in the post until his death. Despite impaired vision in his mid-90's, he remained active in administration and continued to contribute to the society's publications.

Versed in Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek, Mr. Franz published many translations. He traveled extensively addressing audiences around the globe, often reciting large portions of the Bible without notes.

A high point in his career was the 1985 convention of the Witnesses, when he addressed an audience of 253,922 people from 123 countries gathered at Yankee Stadium and the Polo Grounds. The stadiums were linked by loud speakers.

Born in Covington, Ky., he developed an interest in the Bible at an early age and entered the University of Cincinnati intending to become a Presbyterian preacher. There he studied biblical and classical Greek and Latin.

Introduced by a brother to the teachings of the International Bible Students, as the Witnesses were then called, Mr. Franz was ordained as a minister of the faith in Chicago in 1913.

There are no immediate survivors. (This article was taken from the New York Times, Thursday, December 24th edition.)

won't charge you sales tax for the tune-up.

Getting a spring tune-up on the lawnmower

With spring just around the corner, it's not too soon to take the old lawnmower in for a tune-up.

If you do, you'll pay sales tax on the parts and labor necessary to do the job. That's because lawnmower repair is a taxable service.

By the same token, if you go to the hardware store and buy new parts—like spark plugs or a fuel filter—you'll also pay sales tax on the cost of those parts.

Getting the car tuned up

When you take the family car in for a tune-up, whether you'll pay sales tax depends upon how the repairman totals the bill.

Say the repairman offers you a separated price contract—$24 for parts and $35.50 for labor—you'll pay sales tax on the parts.

There is no sales tax on labor to repair a motor vehicle.

On the other hand, suppose the repairman offers a lump-sum price—maybe $59.50—for parts and labor necessary for the job. Under a lump-sum contract, the repairman pays sales tax to the supplier for the parts.

In other words, the repairman

Adding a deck to the house

This is the summer—when it finally arrives—that you plan to add that long-promised deck to the back of the house.

You'll probably need a hand-held electric saw, a good hammer, a lot of lumber and a whole bunch of nails.

You'll pay sales tax on each of those items when you buy them at the hardware store or the lumberyard.

Another option is to hire a contractor to build the deck. Because this is residential construction, the contractor can offer you either a non-taxable turnkey price under a lump-sum contract or a separated contract that will require you to pay sales tax on materials such as nails, lumber and concrete—but not on labor.

The contractor will pay sales tax to the supplier on the cost of his tools.

For more information on sales taxes, write to the Comptroller of Public Accounts, Austin, Texas 78774. Or call us toll-free at 1/800-252-5555.

Perry is from Haskell County, which is in Stenholm's 17th Congressional District.

"For 14 years, U. S. Rep. Charles Stenholm has done the kind of job that has earned the respect of his constituents. His understanding of agricultural issues and his kinship with rural voters have been apparent throughout his legislative career.

"Rep. Stenholm has shown strong conservative leadership on the House Agriculture Committee, the Rural Health Caucus and the Rural Democratic Caucus. He has worked tirelessly -- to influence farm bills, to restructure the Farm Credit System and most recently to pass legislation protecting livestock and animal research facilities the animal rights terrorists.

"In West Texas, we know Charles Stenholm as a man who votes on principle. No one is more deserving of Progressive Farmer's 1993 Man of the Year in Service to Agriculture Award."

Children May Benefit From New SSI Rule

"Children who have disabilities may benefit from a new method Social Security now uses to compute the effect of their parents' income on their monthly Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments," said Glyn Hommons, Social Security manager in Abilene.

The parents or guardians of two groups of disabled children are encouraged to contact Social Security to see if the new rule affects their SSI eligibility:

- * children whose applications for SSI benefits were filed before November 1992 and who were denied benefits based on their parents' income and

- * children for whom no application was filed because it was believed that their parents' income would make them ineligible.

According to Hammons, the SSI program provides monthly benefits to more than a half million low-income children under age 18 who are blind or have disabilities. These children may qualify for disability benefits under SSI even if their parents do not. The children must meet Social Security's definition of disability or blindness in addition to meeting income, resources, and other eligibility requirements.

"For a child who is under 18, unmarried, and living with his or her parents, Social Security may count some of the parents' income and resources as the child's. This process is called deeming," explained Hammons. "Under the new rule, Social Security will use a single formula to calculate how much of the parents' income is deemed to the child, whether the income is earned, unearned, or a combination of the two. (In the past, a different formula was used for each.) The new rule applies only when one or both parents are working."

If the new rule applies to a child now receiving SSI benefits, Social Security will recalculate the payment amount and adjust future payments if warranted. Parents of children previously denied for SSI because of the parents' income should contact Social Security to find out if the child is now eligible under the new rule.

To find out more about the new rule, or to obtain information about SSI for children, call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, business days between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. or contact your local Social Security office.

Area Veterans To Get Free Help From DAV Fan Visits

Olden and area veterans and their families aren't alone if they're concerned about the effects of Dept. of Veterans Affairs (VA) benefit changes on their lives. But they'll get straight answers--free of charge--when a national service officer of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) visits Olden. The DAV van will be parked from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the First Station (North Access Road, IH20 east of Eastland) in Olden on March 5th.

The DAV veterans' benefits expert on board is fully qualified to help veterans and their families file new and reopened claims for the full range of veterans' benefits. Veterans need not be DAV members to take advantage of these free services.

"For several years," said DAV National Service Director Arthur H. Wilson, "veterans have heard many news reports on changes in veterans' programs and services, cutbacks in veterans' health care, and proposals to slash disability compensation payments. Also causing concern are changes in Social Security disability programs."

"The DAV can explain what all these changes mean to disabled vets in the Oldea area," said Wilson. "We can explain the impact on veterans' families. If veterans are worried about their rights, they should be. That's why the DAV is coming to the Olden area soon. We're here to serve you."

The DAV has sent its vans, called field service units, to communities across America for 19 years now. To date, half a million veterans, dependents and survivors have used the free services offered by the highly trained DAV national service officers staffing these traveling offices. Their questions covered a broad range of programs, including disability and educational benefits, Social Security disability payments, VA medical care, military benefits, veterans' employment and training programs, and more.

Texas Oil & Gas...

WHOLESALE'S LEGISLATION WOULD INCREASE TEXAS GASOLINE PRICES

By Robert L. Looney, President,

Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association

An Austin-based trade association representing gasoline and petroleum product wholesalers -- the Texas Oil Marketers Association (TOMA) -- has drafted legislation to be introduced in the 1993 regular session of the Legislature that will increase the price of gasoline and petroleum products for Texans. This misnamed legislation -- the "Fair Marketing Practices Act" -- is blatantly anti-consumer.

The wholesalers are rationalizing this legislation with a fraudulent claim of anti-competitive pricing practices by refiners/suppliers. They say these alleged practices are designed to drive others out of business and, ultimately, to achieve domination of the retail market. In reality, a recent survey by TOMA of its members indicated that wholesalers sell about 70-percent of the petroleum products marketed in Texas.

The intent of this legislation is to regulate the prices of gasoline and petroleum products to ensure that a guaranteed profit margin for wholesalers is built into these prices, without regard to competitive forces in the marketplace. This bill, if enacted into law, would eliminate competitive, free market forces that historically have resulted in competitive gasoline prices in Texas.

According to TOMA's figures, this legislation could increase the average price of gasoline by as much as 14-cents per gallon to retailers who, in turn, would be forced to pass some, if not all, of this on to consumers.

Provisions in the bill would discourage a service station operator from reducing prices in order to attract new customers: A serious loss to the motoring public.

This legislation would allow wholesalers and retailers price discounts for functions that are performed as a matter of course in normal business operations. These "functional discounts" are nothing more than an opportunity for merchants to recover their "cost of doing business," regardless of how they run their businesses. These "costs" would include labor, rent, maintenance, workers' compensation payments, insurance, advertising, transportation, and certain other costs of doing business. Moreover, these "functional discounts" would apply at the wholesale level as well as the retail level, even before a "profit margin" is added.

The claims of unfair pricing practices which are used as the rationale for this legislation simply have not been supported by the facts. The Department of Justice, the Department of Energy, the Federal Trade Commission, and economists have conducted numerous documented studies of these allegations as they pertain to the marketplace and have testified that they have found no evidence of predatory pricing in the petroleum industry.

The ultimate results of this legislation would be twofold: Higher fuel and lubricant prices for Texas motorists and more profit for wholesalers. Neither can be justified.
