Nations Charter in the Senate on July 28, 1945.

I was never satisfied with the United Nations Charter and stated my criticism definitely at the time. The fundamental difficulty is that it is not based primarily on an underlying law and an administration of justice under that law. I believe that in the long run the only way to establish peace is to write a law, agreed to by each of the nations, to govern the relations of such nations with each other and to obtain the covenant of all such nations that United Nations. they will abide by that law and by The theory of an international

I criticized the Connally resolution, because it omitted any reference whatever to the establishment of a rule of law. It is extraordinary that the original Dumbarton Oaks proposals for a United Nations Charter omitted all reference to justice. The CA Tractor is actually a new size in the Allis-Chalmers line. Here is a two-plow tractor with all the snap and power you could ask for.

Watch the way it handles its Two-Bottom plow in all kinds of soil. It hustles every job with extra traction and reserve power.

Ten-inch tires on ten-inch rims put more of the tire in contact with the ground - for increased traction. Slower low gear and optional Two-Clutch control give unusual power take-off capacity.

Perhaps it may assist in establishing more friendly relations with Russia.

But as far as military policy is concerned I see no choice except to develop our own military policy and our own policy of alliances, without substantial regard to the nonexistent power of the United Nations to prevent aggression.

The very adoption of the Atlantic Pact seems to me to constitute recognition of the impotence of the

Not the Same

Peace and security are not synonymous with justice. It might well be that the Security Council, acting in full compliance with the charter, could take property from one nation to which it justly belonged and give it to another, because it felt that would promote peace. So Mr. Chamberlain agreed to the transfer of Sudetenland to Germany

Was It Legal?

When the North Koreans attacked this nation the greatest power for on June 25, 1950, it happened that Russia was boycotting the Security Council, and the resolution calling for action against the North Korean aggression was therefore passed

Not Like Us in 1787

The whole idea is based on the union of the 13 colonies in 1787. But those colonies were made up of men of similar origin, similar methods of thought, similar ideals, with similar forms of government. They lived approxmately the same kind of life, with similar standards of living. Even in that case one single difference resulted in a violent civil war about 75 years later which almost destroyed the Union. Here we would be attempting to unite peoples who do not understand even how their new fellow citizens begin to think; we would join democ-It seems to me that peace in this racies with dictatorships, Moslem world is impossible unless nations states with Christian states, the Brahmin with the Rotarian, men their relations with each other and who talk only Japanese with men who talk only English. We would attempt to unite the most highly civilized with the aborigines, the workman who earns twenty dollars a day with the coolie who earns twenty cents a day. The difficulties of holding together such a Tower of Babel under one direct government would be insuperable.

Anyone who suggests such a plan is proposing an end to that liberty which has produced in this country the greatest happiness, the greatest production, the highest standard of living the world has ever seen. He is proposing to tear up the American Constitution which has made good in the world, setting an example of successful popular rule to the entire world.

Marking Time In The March Of Time

. . . is somewhat like fishing without luck - there's no thrill to it. But there is real thrill in moving forward, serving humbly and doing some one thing well. We never heard of an abstracter getting rich as such, but we have heard of those who have spent a life-time, as we have, building up title institutions that are assets to their communities. Yes, we get a thrill out of every order and a real joy in producing it into a quality product.

"But the fruit of the Spirit isfaith." (Galatians 5:22) Many times as a Christian have felt the need of deeper faith in God during times of special trial. What Christian in a sinful world has not. Since we all know that God would have His children be strong in faith let us consider briefly these two questions:

(1) Why is it we are so often weak in faith? and (2) How can we come to be strong in faith? As we find the answer to the first question we will be well on our way to the solution of the second. The above scripture tells us that faith is a fruit of the Spirit. We would all be quite surprised if we were to see a tree which had been uprooted bearing fruit. We may well be much more surprised if we were to ever see a person living contrary to the Spirit of God and bearing the fruit of the Spirit - - faith. As the tree is dependent upon the soil for its productive powers so is the Christian life dependent upon the Holy Spirit for faith. It is sin which grieves the Spirit and thus causes our lives to be without victorious faith.

How then can we, who have our life in and through the indwelling Spirit of God, come to be stronger in faith? In verse twenty-five of the same chapter Paul tells us, "If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit." As the Spirit of God leads us through His witness to our conscience and the illumination of the Word let us walk in obedience and faith shall be one of the fruits of the Spirit in our lives.
