Felons Agree To Come Out, Are Denied Their Demands

LANSING, Kas., June 13 (AP)—A mutiny of 229 convicts in a coal mine at Kansas state penitentiary over silk underwear and food ended without violence today after the rebellious prisoners sent up word to Warden M. F. Amrine they would surrender.

No Concessions

The convict miners capitulated without any concessions from the warden to demands that they be permitted to continue buying silk underwear at the commissary and to eat bedtime snacks in their cells.

The strike lasted approximately four hours.

After sending word through Robert Murray, mine superintendent, who with 12 guards was held a prisoner in the 750-foot coal mine the convicts crowded into the elevator cage at the bottom of the shaft and began their return to the surface.

The decision of the convicts to give up was reached after more than 20 guards armed with machine guns and tear gas descended into the pits.

They were instructed to use their tear gas and guns and to bring the rebels to terms.

Amrine issued the orders after he had given an emphatic "no" to demands for extra food and greater freedom and after 22 of the 251 convicts voluntarily came to the surface.

Amrine sent Robert Murray, mine superintendent, with instructions all prisoners who would not work should come to the top. The 22 responded.

Murray sent up word shortly afterward he was having difficulty making the 10 or 12 guards among the mutineers understand his signals.

The plan was to back the prisoners to the gun cage at the bottom of the air shaft. From that position the prisoners could be fired upon if they refused to surrender.

The warden has ordered the prison commissary to stop selling the silk underwear to prisoners but said the fewer than 100 inmates now owning such underwear would be permitted to wear it out. Amrine said the wearers were "sex degenerates."

Warden Amrine recently issued an order against the convict miners warring on the amount of coal they produce in excess of their quotas. The strikers demanded to-day that the order be rescinded.

They also demanded greater freedom of the cell house at night and permission to take food from the dining room to their cells.

Amrine, since he became warden May 3, angered the convicts with an investigation which uncovered two liquor stills in the mine.

KING AND QUEEN IN NEW BRUNSWICK

FREDERICKTON, N. B., June 13 (AP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth arrived amid cheers in their New Brunswick capital at noon today after an automobile drive of 108 miles from Newcastle.

Crowds filled the tree-lined city, among them parading bands, militia units, veterans and boy scouts. The two-hour program included an official luncheon at the University of New Brunswick.

SAID THE PRESIDENT TO THE KING

Historically symbolic is this remarkable picture of a serious-faced King George as he listened to the words of President Roosevelt—symbolic of a new modern day accord between the two great English speaking nations. George Skadding, Associated Press staff photographer made this picture at Hyde Park, where the king and queen were guests of the Roosevelts.

RR Commission To Stand By East Texas Proration Plan

AUSTIN, June 13 (AP)—The State Railroad commission announced today it would stand pat on its plan of prorating the production of the big East Texas oil field.

The plan was threatened by a federal court decision yesterday enjoining the commission from enforcing its proration order against certain property of the Rowan & Nichols Oil company of Fort Worth.

Chairman Lon A. Smith of the commission announced an appeal from the decision by Federal Judge R. J. McMillan which was taken to the United States circuit court of appeals at New Orleans.

Judge McMillan had declared application of the order to five wells on a 24-acre tract of Rowan & Nichols in effect was confiscating property.

The order prorates production of the field, largest in the world, on a basis of 2.24 per cent of the hourly producing ability of each well.

"We think we have a fair, reasonable plan in effect in the East Texas field and intend to stand on it until the last court of resort overthrows it," Chairman Smith asserted.

Smith also announced a new statewide proration order would be issued Monday and probably would apply for three months.

Saturday and Sunday shutdowns of Texas fields, in effect now, would doubtless be continued, he said. The shutdowns would be for all Saturdays and Sundays, Smith said.

Smith further said the commission contemplates no general increase in Texas' oil production but intends to stay well within the estimates as to market demand made by the federal bureau of mines.

Formal decision to appeal from Judge McMillan's ruling was made at a conference between the commission and representatives of the attorney general's department.

Ernest O. Thompson, commission member and also chairman of the interstate oil compact commission, likewise declared the present plan of prorating the East Texas field was fair.

Thompson added: "We have an abundance of evidence to support its fairness. We will appeal so a high court may pass on the reasonableness of the order."

"The supreme court has made it plain that Jersey City like all other communities must open its streets and parks to public meetings," Baldwin said.

Thomas, who was ejected from a Journal Square meeting 14 months ago when he attempted to speak without a permit, told the crowd "it's a great thing the supreme court has done. x x x We have won the right to discuss. Now let's use it."

The former presidential candidate was the target of the only incident which marred an otherwise orderly meeting. As he left the square, a crowd, mostly youths, hooted and jeered.

They were silenced by squads of the same police who aided in ejection of Thomas last year.

STRIKE CLASHES ARE QUELLED BY POLICE

FLINT, Mich., June 13 (AP)—Police quelled three clashes between rival CIO and AFL divisions of the United Automobile Workers' union today at General Motors plants where the AFL group, headed by Homer Martin, has called a strike.

Martin, meanwhile, made plans to meet later today with Gov. Luren D. Dickinson in Lansing to discuss the situation.

Two mass fist fights occurred in front of the Fisher No. 1 body plant in South Saginaw street. Later fighting broke out at the Atherton avenue plant entrance, and workers were escorted into the plant by police.

AFL pickets were dispersed by police when they attempted to halt trucks at this entrance.

Tax Revision Completed By Committee

Calls For Abandonment Of Undistributed Profits Levy

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—The house tax committee completed the tentative outline of a tax revision bill today in preparation for expected house action on the legislation next week.

Expiration June 30
The proposed draft includes substitution for the undistributed profits tax on an 18 per cent levy on corporations which make more than $25,000 a year.

With the principal provisions tentatively completed yesterday, the tax committee—a ways and means sub-committee—prepared three more technical revisions this morning.

The committee's general outline was sent immediately to the legislative drafting service for final preparation.

Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn.) pointed out speed is necessary for reenactment of excise taxes which expire June 30.

As Cooper's committee agreed tentatively on major provisions of the legislation, the treasury estimated a federal revenue loss of only $17,500,000 would have been entailed had the new program been applied to this year's business.

President Roosevelt has insisted that tax revision should not bring any great curtailment of revenue. Present receipts from corporation taxes are about $1,000,000,000 a year.

The legislation's high spots, which follow a general outline by Secretary Morgenthau, would:

1. Substitute for the undistributed profits levy on next Jan. 1 a flat 18 per cent tax on corporations having a net income above $25,000.
2. Continue the present graduated tax on "little business" corporations with incomes of $25,000 or less. This scale ranges from 12 to 16 per cent.
3. Permit corporations to carry over their net operating business losses for two years, starting with 1939.
4. Repeal the $2,000 limit which can be deducted—in calculating taxable income—as an excess of capital losses over capital gains.
5. Give corporations the right on June 30, 1939, and again on June 30, 1940, to "increase" the declared value of their stock but not to decrease it.

PRISONERS ESCAPE, ARE RECAPTURED

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP)—Three military prisoners at Governors Island gained temporary freedom in a daring escape today after knocking a guard unconscious, seizing his pistol and leaping into the swirling waters of Buttermilk Channel.

Two of the men managed to reach the Brooklyn shore but were arrested there later by police. The third had to be rescued from the channel by two soldiers who leaped in after him when the escape alarm was sounded.

JOE RICKER GOES TO DALLAS JOB

Joe W. Ricker, for four years sales manager for the Westco Oil Co., left Tuesday for Dallas where he will take a new position.

Ricker purchased an interest in a service station equipment which serves all points in Texas. His work may bring him back to Big Spring occasionally, he said.

Dinner Group Meets At 6:30

Seventy-three reservations had been made at noon for the Richard goodwill dinner this evening, chamber of commerce officials announced.

It was planned to have men who are going to the affair to assemble at the chamber of commerce at 6:30 p. m. and leave for Richard 15 minutes later.

The dinner is fifth in a series of neighborly affairs being conducted by the good will committee of the chamber of commerce.

In charge of the affair will be Alfred Collins and Dr. E. O. Ellington will serve as toastmaster.

Entertainment includes the Melody Maids, members of which are Mrs. Marie Baird, Juanita Cook and Beatrice Peck, the Sunnyside Quartet, composed of Tilman Bryant, Woody Cason, Vernon Payne, and Wayne Nance, and the Dix Bros. String band.

Following a welcome by some member of the Richard community, Dr. F. W. Malone will respond. Dinner will be served by the Richard F.T.A. under the direction of Mrs. J. E. Norris.

Those who made reservations Tuesday were E. M. Conley, John R. Hutto, Gene Thomas, H. O. Lytle, Bernard Fisher, D. K. Howze, Texas Electric Service, J. D. Arthur, Big Spring Cotton Oil Mill, Roy Cornelison, Floyd Bonar, Luke LeBlanc, Jack Smith, Max Jacobs, L. W. Croft, S. W. Galbraith, W. H. Perry, Sherrill Smith, Henry Edwards, (2) Elton Taylor and Sam Enson (2).

House Joins In Fixing Next Wednesday As Quitting Date

Members Agree On June 21 Adjournment; Another Test Scheduled On Pension Tax Amendment Issue

AUSTIN, June 13 (AP)—Amid cheering and shouts of "we're going home" the house voted today for adjournment of the legislature one week from tomorrow.

The house decision made the action final since the senate had voted similarly yesterday. The session will last 163 days, 50 days longer than any previous meeting. The constitution suggests that biennial sessions be limited to 120 days.

The principal remaining unanswered question was whether the lawmakers would adopt the sales-natural resource tax constitutional amendment advocated by Governor W. Lee O'Daniel. On five occasions the house has rejected it or a similar plan but proponents probably will make a sixth try tomorrow.

An effort to kill the sine die adjournment resolution was rejected by the house, 79 to 57. Rep. Alfred Petch of Fredericksburg then proposed June 24 instead of June 21 as the quitting date but howling representatives snatched his motion under, 93 to 40. The resolution was adopted on a 98-47 vote.

Cheering broke out in the senate when that body was advised the house finally had agreed to set a quitting date.

The status of the constitutional amendment was this: Proponents insisted they would bring it before the house for the sixth time this week.

Opponents said the resolution was dead.

Unless an opponent moves to reconsider, the resolution must muster a two-thirds vote of those present before it can be brought up. Then for passage it must garner 100 votes. Nones insisted it would never receive the necessary 100 votes and gave it little chance even of receiving a two-thirds vote for consideration.

Rep. E. H. Thornton, Jr. of Galveston, handling the proposal in the house, refused to say definitely when he would make his next move, but when the resolution was beaten last Thursday he said "the proposal is a cinch to pass next week."

Other moves on the pension front were: Rep. Lon E. Alsop of Carthage obtained house permission to introduce a bill which would reinstate the old pension law pending federal approval of the new liberalization bill. On the other side of the capitol, Senator Clint Small of Amarillo introduced, then with a proposal postponing operation of the new statute. He argued the new law would add at least $5,000 to the pension rolls and contended it should not be operative until money was raised to meet it.

Aside from pension taxes, appropriation bills were being studied by legislators.

Perusal of the totals of the major money bills shows an increase in the cost of operating the state, this notwithstanding herculean efforts of an economy-minded appropriations committee.

Whereas departmental, judiciary and eleemosynary expenditures have been slashed, higher education and rural aid and vocational education expenses have increased to the extent of wiping out the saving by approximately $1,000,000.

Miss Betty Bostick Claimed By Death

Miss Betty Elizabeth Bostick died at her home, 706 East 11th street at 6:35 p. m. Monday after an illness of some time. Funeral services were from Eberley Funeral home Tuesday afternoon at 5 o'clock with the Rev. G. C. Schurman, pastor of the First Christian church, in charge. Burial was in Mount Olive cemetery.

Miss Bostick was born in McLennan county, Tex., in 1880 on July 13th and had been a member of the Christian church for the past 30 years.

She is survived by one brother, Houston Bostick, of Hot Springs, N. M., fullbearers were Tom Slaughter, Mitchell Reed, Cecil Westerman, Hollis Lloyd, L. L. Guiley and Buster Cole.

Nieces and nephews surviving include E. C. Boatler, T. T. Boatler, M. H. Boatler and U. M. Boatler, all of Big Spring; E. J. Boatler, Fort Worth; Mrs. E. F. Russell, Mrs. R. J. Kelly, Rube McNew, Miss Billie Marie Boatler, Alton Bostick, Leeman Bostick and Horace, James, Ernest and Miss Ella Bostick, all of Big Spring; John Boatler of Hot Springs, N. M., and Freeman, Gene and Bill Boatler, all of Dallas.

Specific accusations against him were firing through the window of the Princess Royal, sister of King George and wife of the Earl of Harwood, on June 4, and one day later shooting his rifle near the Duchess of Kent, the king's sister-in-law, as she was leaving her Belgrave Square home.

The attorney for the defendant said Lawlor was eager to let the public know at the first opportunity that he had no desire or intention of causing harm or injury at either of those places and "had no designs on any members of the royal family at all."

His motive, however, remained a mystery. Immediately after proclaiming the absence of criminal intention, Defense Solicitor Leslie Marks said: "I don't think it desirable to say any more at this stage."

He entered a formal plea of innocence but did not disclose details of the defense.

Report Czech Legion Being Organized

Prague, June 13 (AP)—Reports that Vojta Benes, brother of the former Czechoslovak president, Eduard Benes, had slipped into Poland after living obscurely in Bohemia for some months heightened interest here today in a so-called Czech legion being formed across the frontier.

Czech quarters in Prague estimated General Vladislav Prchal, who commanded Czechs in resisting Hungarian occupation of Carpatho-Ukraine in March, had gathered about him in Poland 18,000 able-bodied men and that the number was increasing daily.

Hundreds of young men have been disappearing from Prague, Bruenn and other communities in the protectorate on Bohemia-Moravia.

They have gone, their friends whisper, to join the legion of Czech patriots being formed by General Prchal. After a dramatic escape from the protectorate, the general reached Poland May 28 and predicted Germany would have serious trouble with the Czechs in case of a German-Polish war.

Whether Vojta Benes was in any way connected with organization of the legion could not be established here. It was known, however, that many of the legionnaires were his best friends.

The question arousing speculation was whether the legion was getting any underground encouragement from Czechs in the United States. Ex-President Benes is now in America.

Only after certifying to their satisfaction reports that Vojta Benes had gone to Poland did his friends admit he had been living quietly in Bohemia.

They said he came from the United States in January and was here when the protectorate was occupied by the German army.

WORK ON SQUALUS

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., June 13 (AP)—Aided by a new type re-circulating helmet, divers laboring to salvage the sunken submarine Squalus and its cargo of 28 dead struggled today to complete the dangerous and difficult task of tunneling beneath the hull.

"Then they jumped me and took me over on the grass. Somebody scratched my neck with something. I couldn't see who did it or what it was they did it with."

Dr. David Wegelin, superintendent of schools, declined to comment or release the names of those suspended. Members of the accused group said they had not scratched the boy, but had taken a swastika on his forehead. They denied anti-Jewish feelings and said it was a schoolboy joke.

Morton Rosen, 15, a friend of Bridge, was charged with disorderly conduct and suspended after he allegedly attacked two of his youths. He is to be tried today.

JEWISH STUDENT ATTACKED BY GROUP; 18 ARE SUSPENDED

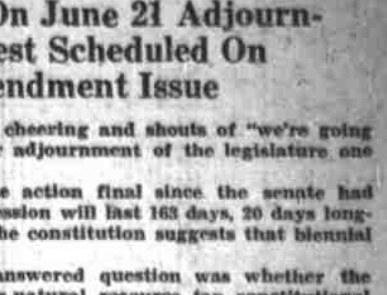

BALTIMORE, June 13 (AP)—School authorities suspended 18 high school students today in an investigation of an alleged attack by 40 boys on a Jewish youth who accused them of having carved the letter "H" on his neck after they licked swastikas on their arms.

Meanwhile, City Councilman Leon Abramson said he would try to find out why school authorities did not report the matter to police when it occurred Friday.

Mevin Bridges, 14, told this story of the assault: "I was playing ball when about 40 of these boys came up. One of them said to me: 'Are you Jewish?' I said, 'Yes, and I'm proud of it.'"

PAT STASEY'S 8TH ROUND HOMER GIVES BARONS 5-4 VICTORY

The Sports Parade

By HANK HART

All local women bedecked in western regalia who go to Lubbock tomorrow as a part of the Big Spring Rodeo and Cowboy Reunion motorcade will be admitted free to the Lubbock-Big Spring baseball game, guests of the Lubbock club.

A special section of the Lubbock grandstand has been reserved for the Big Spring fans by Harry Faulkner, Lubbock business manager. The largest Big Spring throng to ever see a game in Lubbock is expected to be in attendance.

Since it is the only chance of the week afforded Big Spring fans to see their team in action the motorcade should be unusually large.

The Barons move to Clovis after completing their series with Lubbock, returning home Sunday to face Pampa's Oilers in a twin bill.

Incidentally, the locals will be home for five days, playing Pampa again Monday night, then tangling with Lubbock Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. Friday they move to Lamesa for three games.

Hurlers of other WT-NM league teams are fast learning it is wise to walk Pat Stasey after the sixth frame. The only trouble with that kind of baseball is that Billy Capps becomes the No. five and that combination is fast becoming recognized as the best "one-two" punch in the family.

Tex Walton, Baron center fielder, was missing from the lineup last night, having gone to Wichita Falls to attend the funeral of a relative who had drowned. Lefty Janick, the young slab artist, filled in capably, moving into right field with Stasey going to center. Janick's double in the sixth set the stage for Capps' home run.

Aspiring to manage the Midland entry, which has been without a pilot since the resignation of Charles Smith last week, Red Robert, the old Wink hunter, is at present recovering from injuries received in a January auto accident. Red would pay dividends.

Ossie Bates, Lamesa back stop, will be out of action a week due to a thumb injury suffered in the Lubbock-Lamesa ball game last Sunday. H. Williams is filling in capably.

Red Hay, Jodie Tate's Lobo twirler, should be setting the pitching pace. Like the Boston Bees Jim Turner, he's been around a long time, is even older than Jim.

Speaking of Tate, he thinks if he had the Big Spring twirling staff

Open Reversal A Bitter One For Craig Wood

Has Come Nearer To Big Titles Than Any Man

PHILADELPHIA, June 13 (AP)—When the final history of golf is written by the great official scorer, there should be somewhere near from a special section devoted to Craig Wood, the man who came closer to winning more big championships than any divot digger who ever lived. And who continued to smile as he went to the next tee.

Craig completed his reverse "grand slam" yesterday when he lost by three strokes to young Byron Nelson in the second 18-hole playoff for the National Open title at the Spring Mill course.

Wood now has lost playoffs for the four greatest titles in reach of a professional. Denny Shute outlasted him in the British Open. Paul Runyan beat him in a 36-hole final for the P.G.A. crown. Gene Sarazen shot his famous "double eagle" to tie Wood in the Augusta Masters, then trim him in the playoff. Yesterday Craig must have drained the last, bitter dregs, but he entered the locker room with a quip on his lips.

Nelson, of the youthful "royal family" of American golf, was explaining exultantly from an adjoining bench that he thought he had won the playoff on the 14th hole, where he sank a 10-footer to go three up.

Early Advantage "Nope, it wasn't there," said Wood. "It was those holes in one he shot into me right at the start."

He was right. Nelson practically stiffened his man before the battle was well under way. A brilliant birdie three on the third hole, then a sensational eagle two on the 453-yard fourth put him four strokes ahead of Wood and virtually erased any doubt of the outcome.

Not that Wood didn't fight back. For the remaining 14 holes he actually outscored Nelson by a stroke. Wood seems to be plagued by the outlandish long shots his opponents sink in the final stages of a tournament.

Sudden Rally This time in the third round Saturday morning that Nelson, apparently running well out of the money, holed his second shot on the 354-yard third. With that he suddenly caught fire, came back with a 68 in the afternoon to land in a three-way tie with Wood and Denny Shute at the end of 72 holes, then went on steadily through two tense extra rounds to win.

Nelson was heavily backed in the tournament at 10 to 1. He is a tall, thin man, inclined to be solemn, but pleasant enough. His first professional job was at Texarkana, Texas, then he was taken under the wing of George Jacobus, president of the P.G.A., at Ridgewood, N. J.

Last February he set a world record for P.G.A. tournament play when he won a 54-hole tournament at Phoenix with rounds of 68-68-68. Wood says he is the greatest iron player in the world today. He was a member of the American Ryder cup team that invaded England in 1937 and shot the best score of any of the Americans in the British Open at Carnoustie, won by Henry Cotton.

SIX RUNNERS CAPABLE OF 9 1/2 SECONDS

LOS ANGELES, June 13 (AP)—Mulling over prospects of excitement when the lads get together Friday and Saturday in the national collegiate track and field championships, everyone seemed agreed today that the 1939 meet promises a full share of bitter competition.

The 100-yard dash, for instance, boasts entries of sprinters capable of threatening the world and N. C. A. A. record of 9.4 seconds. There are no less than six athletes slated to go who have done 9.5 at one time or another.

Heading the list as the defending N. C. A. A. champion is Mosel Eberle, Tuskegee, Ala., negro, undefeated this year. The rest of the 9.5 group includes Clyde Jeffrey of Stanford, pride of the West; Earl Wiltcher of East Texas State, Wilbur Greer of Michigan State, Fred Wolcott of Rice, the burdick champion, and Jack Emigh of Montana.

The 9.4 record is held by Frank Wykoff of Southern California fame, Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette, and Jesse Owens and George Simpson of Ohio State.

Lonsford Again Tames Devils For Forsan

Limits Champs To 1 Hit; Ford Wins, 9-7

Limiting the opposition to a lone hit and whiffing 16, Willie Lonsford expertly piloted the Forsan Buffs to a 3-1 victory over the Anderson Devils in a Muny softball league game at the city park Monday evening.

Lefty Wells accounted for the champions' only bingle in the fourth frame when he singled with one out. He was left at the bag when Bobby Savage and Alton Bostick fanned in succession.

The Buffs made two unearned runs in the first round off Savage who throughout the game twirled two-hit ball. V. Cowley stroled and Bennie Asbury followed with a long fly to the outfield that was dropped. Both runners scored.

The Forsans tied again in the sixth when Lonsford singled, pliffed second and came home on a wild heave by Wells, Anderson catcher.

A. Bostick came home in the seventh frame for the Devils' only run when L. Bostick rolled out to McKinnon.

In the opening battle Big Spring Motor had difficulty in quelling a late Jack Frost riot but won out, 7-3.

TYLER ADDS TO STRING IN 3-2 OILER VICTORY

By the Associated Press Tyler's Trojans, turning in the very respectable percentage of nine wins in 11 starts, fought off a ninth inning rally of Henderson's Oilers in last night's game at the East Texas league leaders, 3-2. In addition to adding to their own record the Trojans stopped the Oilers' winning streak at nine straight. Another close battle saw Longview's White Sox shade Jacksonville, 3-2. The second place Texarkana Liners defeated Palestine, 6-4. Getting 14 safeties off Grover Miller, Pal Tompkins, Pa., are expected to compete. Sam Sneed, Gene Sarazen and Tommy Armour were included in the entry list released today but they are expected to remain at home to compete in the P. G. A. at Paunonico, July 9-15. Sarazen and Armour are former champions.

Marek Earns 9th Mound Triumph

Billy Capps Clouts One For Circuit In Sixth

LUBBOCK, June 13—The redoubtable Pat Stasey, wiry cleanup hitter, clouted out a home run with Van Marshall on base in the eighth frame to give the Big Spring Barons a 5-4 victory over the Lubbock Hubbers here Monday evening.

Stasey's terrific blow, his fourth game-winning home run of the past seven games, was the second Baron home run of the evening. Billy Capps having slapped one into the great beyond with Lefty Janick aboard in the sixth frame.

Jodie Marek survived a shaky fifth frame in which the Hubbers counted three runs to gain his ninth hill triumph of the season. He surrendered but seven base blows and gained strength through the late innings. He lost his control momentarily early in the game, passing four batters in the first two innings. Sully Parker's blooper in the fifth that found the Big Spring outfield playing out of position and which the Hubber manager made three bases was the feature of the fifth inning assault.

The Barons counted in the initial frame when Bobby Decker greeted Mel Kramer, Lubbock slogger, with a single, went to second on a sacrifice and scored on Stasey's first of three hits.

The victory was the second Marek has scored over the champions and the fourth in five starts for the Barons over the Hubbers.

Manager Tony Rego will probably send Lefty McGahan in to throw against the Parkermen in the second game of the series tonight. The Hubbers will probably rely upon George Amthor, ace right-hander.

Score by innings: Big Spring ...100 002 020-5 6 1 Lubbock ...001 030 000-4 7 1 Marek and Berndt; Kramer and Miller.

Babe Ruth Still Baseball's No. 1 Hero, Shines In Celebration

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., June 13 (AP)—Baseball's No. 1 hero still can steal any big league show he sets his mind to.

From the moment he stepped onto the train and spread his infectious grin over the crowd, Babe Ruth really took over yesterday's celebration of the 30th anniversary of the national game.

Ruth was in the center of the largest crowd, writing his name on baseballs, score cards, envelopes and everything autograph hunters could find. When Ty Cobb arrived for the ceremonies, a bit later, he walked unrecognized.

They called 10 of the 11 living members of the game's Hall of Fame out to answer roll call at the dedication of the baseball museum. There was applause for Connie Mack, Hans Wagner, Eddie Collins, Tris Speaker, Walter Johnson, Grover Cleveland, Cy Young, George Sisler and Napoleon Lajoie. Then Ruth stepped out and brought down the house.

Later, most of the immortals donned their old-time uniforms and formed a board of strategy for two teams of modern stars chosen by Eddie Collins and Hans Wagner. The final hit was a home run by Babe Ruth, who picked up a part.

Mrs. Parnell Muny Medalist

DALLAS, June 13 (AP)—Mrs. Johnny Parnell of Dallas, defending title and medalist with an 81, squared off here today in the championship first round of the state municipal golf tournament against her fellow townswomen, Mrs. George Huckaby, who qualified with a 90.

A stroke behind Mrs. Parnell in qualifying, eight over women's par, was Mrs. Don Zepernick of Dallas. Mrs. E. H. Wohlfahrt of Houston; Mrs. J. L. Head of Harlingen; and Mrs. O. N. Anderson of Dallas, were tied for third with 87's.

Mrs. Zepernick was paired with Mrs. C. W. Robertson of Terrell, qualifier with 91; Mrs. Head faced Mrs. C. B. Kindred of Dallas, whose score was 92, and Mrs. Wohlfahrt was matched with Mrs. W. L. Holmes of Dallas, who shot a 94.

Other pairings, with qualifying scores included: Miss Virginia Rutledge, Dallas, (86), vs. Mrs. A. J. La Fort, Jr., Harlingen (95).

Mrs. O. N. Anderson, Dallas, (87) vs. Mrs. B. Ingalls, Austin, (94).

Cunningham Decides To Compete With Englishman At Princeton

PRINCETON, N. J., June 13 (AP)—Having mullied the situation carefully, the end-of-track flyers, led by Glen Cunningham, are accepting bids to the Princeton invitation track meet almost as fast as Washington dowagers accepted invitations to Lady Lindsay's tea party.

Up until last night it looked as though the Princeton athletic authorities would have to draft Johnston and a couple of lay goldings to compete with Englishman Sydney Wooderson in the mile run at Palmer stadium Saturday.

But friend Cunningham, a Kansas speedster, wiped away the worry when he telephoned from Cornwall-on-Hudson last night that he felt in fine fettle and would have a bit of a go with Mr. Wooderson over the fast Palmer track.

Finishing close behind Cunningham in acceptances was Johnny Woodruff, University of Pittsburgh's negro star who changed his mind a second time within a few hours and decided to run in the 880 here instead of appearing at the N. C. A. A., at Los Angeles.

Soon after Woodruff's capitulation came word from Denton, Tex., that the Rideout twins were en route from North Texas Teachers College, one of them with a bride.

Just before leaving, Wayne married co-ed Emma Jean Watson at Henderson. He also is bringing with him a handicap of 30 days' absence from training because of a muscle injury.

Blaine Rideout will make a fourth in the mile which pits Great Britain's world record-holder against Cunningham. Chuck Penack and Archie San Román, Wooderson, holder of the outdoor record of 4:06.4, arrived from England yesterday and hot-footed it here for a spin around the track which he said might turn up a 4:03 mile Saturday.

He expressed eagerness to meet Cunningham, holder of the indoor record of 4:04.4.

Scrap Feature Of Houston-Dallas Go

By The Associated Press

Epps, Davis, and Turner singled in succession in the eighth, the singles brought a run, the run broke a tie, Dallas failed to rally in the ninth—the Houston Buffs won 5-4 last night and went into a deadlock with the Rebels for first place in the Texas league.

Two men were down and the count was 4-4 when the Buffs made their winning bid in the bitterly-fought game. The next inning climaxed in a near fight, with Les Mallon, Dallas second baseman; Harry Brecheen, Houston pitcher, and Buffs' first baseman Hopp as participants.

Merv Connors socked a homer in the first with one on as Shreveport beat Fort Worth 8-4.

Ed Cole found the going rough in spots but weathered it to pitch San Antonio to a 4-3 victory over Tulsa.

Oklahoma City backed up Orval Grove's pitching with a 15-hit attack sparked by Norman's homer to trounce Beaumont 7-4.

In the exciting ninth at Houston the Rebels had two on base and one out when Harry Brecheen relieved Ted Wilks on the mound for the Buffs. Mallon was in the box as Brecheen tossed a warm-up pitch. Several of them came close to him. Objecting, he dropped his hat, walked to the mound, and hit the Houston pitcher. First baseman Hopp grabbed him, and the two went to the ground, and the fight was over.

Some of the overflow bleacher crowd swarmed out, but the field was cleared after a short delay and Mallon went back to bat.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BHRETZ
COOPERSTOWN, N. Y., June 13 (AP)—Centennial edition: There is a barber here who knows exactly how Sam Snead felt Saturday night. During yesterday's rush he got a summons to do a command performance before Babe Ruth—but had to turn it down. "If I wasn't the owner of the joint, I swear I'd walk out," he said. P.S. The royal mane went unshaved.

Ty Cobb looks swell... So does Ruth, but the Babe is worrying about his golf game which has soared into the low 80's again... Bill McClellan admits to close pals he is getting a bit skittish about his pitching... Any town of 2,000 with a slicker ball park than Cooperstown's can go to the head of the class in our book.

Everybody had fun. Al Schacht couldn't make the celebration, but Clark Griffith supplied the comedy touch by going around telling the Yankees would collapse in August, haw.

Cooperstown folks said when the specials from New York and Chicago roared in it was the first time a passenger train had stopped here in seven years... The minor leagues will take over the town July 9... The ball players greeted the news that Tony Lazzeri has caught on with Toronto with the prediction that it's just a tune-up for a managerial job in the majors next year.

Moving day. They were busy today moving the baseball capital of the world, transferred to Cooperstown for a day, back to the Yankee Stadium.

Last week the National Semi-Pro Congress sent letters to 5,000 mayors checking up on semi-pro activities. Only 12 replies were received. One of those who was not too busy to reply was the mayor of the country's biggest city—LaGuardia of New York.

Today's tall story. Down at Murphy, N. C., Mr. Paul Onesby stepped up to the first tee and fired a mighty drive, which later was converted into a beautiful slice... The ball curved just like a rainbow, struck a rock 80 yards from the tee, bounded high in the air and rolled into the cup on the ninth (and last) green for a course in one.

Chicubs Have Work Cut Out For Them

CHICAGO, June 13 (AP)—Those rabid North Side baseball fans should have some rather conclusive information on the pennant chances of the Chicago Cubs within the next three weeks.

Tomorrow the National League champions, after floundering around the first third of the race, begin a home stand for 20 of their next 23 games—a period that probably will declare them in or out of the flag race.

So far the Cubs haven't been in the chase. For every misfortune that has struck the team the once jovial countenance of Manager Gabby Hartnett has grown a little longer.

Statistics alone tell an eloquent story of mediocrity of the Cubs. None of Gabby's regulars are hitting over .300, only two starting pitchers are above the .500 mark in the won-lost column, and Bill Lee, the National League's top hurler last year, has won only four games while losing seven.

The Cubs are seven full games behind the front-running Cincinnati Reds and Hartnett's boys can't expect the aggressive Reds to back out of the race late in the season as Pittsburgh did a year ago, enabling the Cubs, braced by a 10-straight winning string, to sneak into first place the last week of the season.

Every club except Pittsburgh comes to town for a series between now and July 4 when the home stand ends. Baseball tradition has it that the leader on that holiday is the ultimate flag winner—a tradition backed by figures. So the flag-hunting Cubs have their work cut out for them.

Will Roosevelts Return Monarchs' Visit? That's The Big Question

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Now that this admiring capital is catching its breath after the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth, the big tea-table topic is: Will President Roosevelt and the first lady be guests at Buckingham palace this fall?

Many Washingtonians argue that the king undoubtedly issued an informal invitation to Mr. Roosevelt before their farewell at Hyde Park Sunday night. Whether he did so, of course, probably will never be known officially unless the president should accept.

The subject wasn't mentioned in a telegram which the British sovereign sent Mr. Roosevelt late yesterday.

The message, received by the chief executive while he was returning to Washington from Hyde Park, said the king and queen were deeply grateful for your hospitality.

"Though this was our first visit to your great country," the message continued, "and though it was necessarily only a brief one, it has given us memories of kindly feeling and good will that we shall always treasure."

The consensus here is that the Roosevelts will not return the visit while the president is in office, though such a trip would not be entirely unprecedented. Woodrow Wilson has been the only American president to visit Europe while in office, but five others—including Franklin D. Roosevelt—have gone outside the United States.

Theodore Roosevelt went to Panama, and William Howard Taft visited Panama and Mexico. Warren G. Harding was in Canada in the year of his death, and Calvin Coolidge visited Cuba to open the Pan American conference in 1928.

Several presidents have gone abroad after leaving office. Officials would not be surprised if President Roosevelt would do likewise.

Cosden Earnings During Month Of May Total $43,065

FORT WORTH, June 13—Henry Zweifel, president of the Cosden Petroleum Corporation, has announced that the company earned, after fixed charges, $43,065, or more than $1 per share of all outstanding preferred stock for May, and further that with today's price condition and gasoline demands remaining the same throughout the year, that the company would meet its preferred stock dividends plus the unpaid approximately $20,000 accumulated dividends for the past two years in 1939.

Zweifel further said that during the past year purely administrative expenses had been reduced more than $100,000 per year without impairment of efficient operation of the company or at the expense of any essential function.

Says Church Should Find A Way To Use More Of Its Men

Rev. Oliver D. Cox, pastor of the St. Mary's Episcopal church, left a challenge with the Brotherhood of the First Baptist Church Monday evening to seek a way in which to use more men in the program of the church.

Pointing out that this was one of the chief reasons for disinterest in the church's activities, Rev. Cox urged the men to seek to "grow in the image of God" in order to find a solution to the problem.

Music for the meeting was furnished by the Sunnyside Quartet, composed of Vernon Payne, Woody Cason, Wayne Nance and Tilman Bryant with Mrs. Marie Baird at the piano. Mrs. Baird subsequently favored with a piano selection.

Dr. P. W. Malone presided over the meeting. The next session of one to which wives and families of the Brotherhood will be an outdoor members are invited.

PRE-MARITAL TEST MEASURE STILL IS BEFORE SENATE

AUSTIN, June 13 (AP)—Wedged in the senate's calendar whose log jam might or might not be loosed before sine die adjournment of the legislature is a measure which would make Texas the 18th state requiring uniform pre-marital examinations.

Friends of the measure, which passed the house by a big majority, have argued it is one of the essential steps necessary to combat venereal disease, now placed high on the list of public health enemies.

Texas law requires pre-marriage examination only for the prospective bridegrooms and proponents of the bill contend its rejection or death on the calendar will result in continuance of 5,000 syphilitic births each year, based on state health department statistics.

The Effects Of Liquor Cannot Be Repealed

CREATING DRUNKS

The enemies of society are developing the shrewdest technique of high-powered salesmanship for liquor propaganda ever devised by the wisdom of the serpent. They have purchased the advertising columns of the largest number of newspapers and magazines that ever sold their souls to the enemies of the home. Among these owners of newspapers and magazines are eminent men. Before prohibition and during prohibition to sell liquor or to promote the selling of liquor was to lose good social standing. Even the innocent members of the families of those who dealt in the sale of liquor suffered socially. Now the daily newspaper or the magazine that refuses a liquor advertisement is an oddity. And how attractive that advertising is! The advertisements portray smiles of satisfaction. They picture lovely women. Much of this advertising has no more honesty than had Ananias and Sapphira. The poet described women as "uncertain, coy, and hard to please." Liquor advertisements do not so represent her. Candy and flowers may disappoint her, but the Lady of the Liquor Ads is sure to be thrilled! But at what? There is a terrible name applied to profiteering munition makers. They are called "Merchants of Death." This is just as appropriate a name for those who capitalize on the weakness of drink victims. Makers of drunkards are true merchants of death.

In place of the old saloon, which at least branded the business as dangerous and segregated it as undesirable, we have attractive stores of various kinds, as well as periodicals, that openly and fascinatingly appeal to people to become drinkers of liquor. (Submitted by and published at the request of the local WCTU).

RANSOM DEMAND IS BELIEVED A HOAX

CHICAGO, June 13 (AP)—Police and federal investigators sought to determine today whether someone intended to extort $75,000 from Lawrence F. Stern, a banker, or merely wrote a ransom demand as a hoax.

A note falsely reporting Stern's daughter, Susan, 14, was a kidnap victim and demanding $75,000 for her release fell into the hands of the police last Friday before it could be delivered to Stern.

The investigators learned a man asked a small boy to deliver the note to Stern's home on Lake Shore drive. Unable to find the address, the boy turned the note over to Joseph Aloisio, 18, and Steven Smelzer, 16.

A traffic policeman became suspicious when the youths asked for directions to Stern's home. He took the note.

Stern discounted the threat, and said the note was "obviously the work of kids." His daughter has not been missing, he said, and was not under guard.

HER PHONE CALLS HAVE DECREASED

NEW YORK, June 13 (AP)—This was a great day for Minnie Smith—she's in the New York telephone book only once now.

It's about time, too, thinks Mrs. Smith, for you've no idea how many curious folks had nothing better to do than call all 12 of the previous listings in her name.

Even a couple of the district attorney's young men paid her a visit to inquire what it was all about.

The explanation was simple: Mrs. Smith had been listed as the subscriber for telephones she installed for several of her tenants, all at the same address.

Now that a new telephone directory is being distributed, she and the tenants hope for a bit of rest.

Telephone Teamwork in Texas

Some people are surprised to learn that there are 396 telephone companies serving Texas. The Southwestern Bell Telephone Company is the largest, it is true. But there are others—395 of them—which have the important job of providing telephone service in about 830 Texas towns and cities.

The Southwestern Bell is glad its lines connect with the lines of these other Texas telephone companies, blanketing the state with a vast network of wires—so that boundaries between companies are not barriers to quick, state-wide telephone service.

Through teamwork and friendly co-operation, 396 Texas telephone companies work together to furnish Texas with telephone service that is fast, accurate, and dependable.

Long Distance in Texas is cheap. You can telephone 100 miles for 60 cents (3 minute conversation, day rate, station-to-station).

'If I Had A Million--'

Here's What Some Folk Would Do If They Came Into The Heavy Dough

"What I wouldn't give to have a million dollars" and "If I only had a million bucks" are just two ways to frame the thought that has occurred to everyone at some time or other. Preceding the days of billion dollar debts and budgets, a million dollars in the minds of both old and young has been the epitome of success and the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow.

Hi, There, Pardner...

GUESS yore gittin' ready to join the drive to end o' trail—Big Spring—next week ain't-cha? All the boys over here are goin'—fact is, they've been slickin' hoses rollin' beddin', cleanin' boots, washin' shirts, britches 'n' sprucin' up in general for several days now, gittin' ready for that big

6th Annual Cowboy Round-Up and Rodeo

WE'VE also heard in these parts that a mob o' stamp lickers from Post Offices all over Texas are goin' to be corgalled there 'long about the same time . . . That bein' the case, things will be mighty crowded around the chuck wagon . . . but then them Big Spring folks know how to handle round-ups like that in such easy style, there caint be nothin' but a big time in store for all of us.

EVEN all them Big Spring tenderfoots are gonna be spruced out in fancy pants and stuff—just for us . . . Probably scare the stock into a stampede, but that'll just make the rodeo better.

SO plan now to leave yore section in time to reach that old Buffalo wallowin' ground in time for the three-day blow-out—

JUNE 23, 24, 25

TAKE yore wimmin folks too. They'll probably git in yore way, but then you can palm 'em off on some of them entertainin' organizashuns they got there.

O'Daniel And His Microphone

So Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel, in his general disapproval of being denied so far his greatly-desired constitutional amendment scheme of taxation, has fired another blast at the newspapers. He used the radio microphone to do it, and today is evidently overlooking the fact that the Texas press gave full coverage to his speech, including the ridiculous charges of "propaganda" in the newspapers.

The newspapers reported his Sunday talk, because any public utterance of the chief executive of a commonwealth is to be regarded as news. The papers treat his Sabbath babblings as such. Similarly do they treat the remarks of legislators; and if there are legislators who have something to say against the governor and his sales-resource-constitutional amendment taxation dream, then they are deserving of getting a recorded place in the press, too.

The governor lauds the radio because, he said, "it is one avenue left open whereby the great masses of common citizens may get facts rather than propaganda about public affairs." The point there is, governor, that what is one person's facts may be another's propaganda; and while the microphone carries forth your "facts" alone, the press remains fair enough to give the other man's "facts," too, so that your beloved "great masses of common citizens" may not forget that there are two sides to almost every public issue. The truth is, governor, you want your story, not fully and impartially, but one-sided.

The abuses such as Mr. O'Daniel heaps upon the press are not altogether new. Any newspaper voicing even mild disapproval of a proposed demand for this or that government subsidy, dole or handout, knows this is true. Such newspapers are attacked from here and there, the attacks mostly being in the form of calling the publishers and editors hirelings, propagandists or worse, with no attempt to argue the newspaper is wrong, or any evidence to show that it is wrong. Plain abuse is the usual reply.

A newspaper, being a human agency, is not always right. But it attempts to be fair, or it would not last, being inevitably defeated by its own uselessness. Being fair means the presentation of all points pertaining to an issue. And that goes for Governor O'Daniel's issue, too.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Everytime the Normandie or the Queen Mary puts into port people go down and have their pictures taken against them. There is always a crowd of photographers with their buckets of developer hanging from tripods at the foot of the streets that lead to the piers.

But the pictures aren't very good. You get only a blurred background, and nothing of the graceful lines of an ocean palace. However, if you wander into any of the small dime studios in 14th street, you can have an excellent picture of yourself taken—against the Queen Mary or the Normandie. These are but crude imitations painted on a canvas backdrop, yet in picture form they are far more realistic and lifelike than the originals.

Billy the Oysterman is an important key to those who would understand something of the real old New York of sentiment, mellow days. For more than 50 years he has been a dictator to Manhattan eaters.

He has two restaurants now, fancy, impressive ones, in place of the waterfront spot the original Billy opened. The original Billy, bluff, hearty, was the checked-apron type, opening his oysters with huge oyster knives for his guests. He prospered and became almost legendary in Manhattan history.

And now Young Billy has become as important as his father. Although he has sold millions of oysters he never eats them. Nor has a pearl ever been found in one of his restaurants. The reason he never eats oysters, he says, is not because he dislikes them. It is because he never thinks to order them.

They tell a story of his father who was going about his business one night when a stranger walked in and ordered a lobster. He had never before eaten a lobster. When the dish was placed before him the young man glanced at the red, shelled creature and said, "What do I do?"

"I'll show you," announced Billy. Wherefore he pulled the plate before him and proceeded to eat the lobster. Then, turning to the astonished guest, "You may pay for the lobster, but there will be no charge for the lesson." He and Billy became warm friends and he always dined with Billy when in New York.

The current Billy always has claimed that nationality was never an indication of food preferences. Because a man is Italian he, to Billy, no sign that the fellow dots on spaghetti. He knows celebrities by the score and can recite, on request, the special dishes admired by all. Grover Whalen, for instance, is an oyster connoisseur, but Ruby Keeler is frantic over stews and thick gravies... Charles Hanson Towne, the critic, likes finnan haddie with a mug of ale... Alexander Woolcott prefers grilled pig's feet.

Gene Fowler, whose cub reporter days might conceivably be written about under the title, "Disillusion in Denver," is putting the finishing touches on a novel called "Illusions in Java."

THE CANDID CAMERA SHOT OF HIS FAVORITE HE-MAN COWBOY MOVIE HERO

FOUR BLIND DATES

By Edwin Rutt

Chapter Seven
The Unholy Three
 At the mention of lucre an almost intelligent expression appeared on the Ape's face.

"Oh, yeah?" he said.

"There's no doubt in my mind," continued Miss South, "that the early Van Rypers were probably some of the boys who gyped the Indians out of Manhattan Island for twenty-four bucks and a handful of collar buttons. That wouldn't mean a thing to a gorilla like you, of course. But to a smart guy it says jack, dough, amaretto, tin greenbacks, spondulix, cash and what do you use for money just off Division Street?"

The Ape was interested, but still unconvincing. He strove to bring the conversation back to its original premise.

"Okay," he said. "Mebbe it does. But wot's dat got to do wid you double-crossin'..."

"Oh, shut up," interrupted Miss South, exasperated. "Nobody's double-crossing you, you poor sap. And, by the way, where do you get the idea that I'm a softie about you. I wouldn't take you on a wedgewood platter and smothered in watercress. Who do you think you are, anyhow, Clark Gable?"

"All right, all right," said the Ape hastily. "Lay off'n me, baby. Let's hear some more about dis Van Ryper set-up."

"Harkness to you," said Dorothy. "Well..."

The house telephone interrupted her.

"Send him up," she said, into the mouthpiece.

"Now who," inquired the Ape suspiciously, "is coming here?"

"Just a guy," Dorothy told him, "who can use his head for something beside a golf course for barbers. If you've got to know, it's the Chiseler. Now that I'm getting palsy-walsy with this Harkness laddie, we could do with the Chiseler's advice."

Between one Chiseler Jennings, Mr. Ape Coletti and Miss Dorothy South there existed a clubby, if platonic, little arrangement patterned roughly after the manner of Design for Living. Mr. Jennings and Miss South were smart enough to take this for what it was, a business proposition. Mr. Ape Coletti, on the other hand, was inclined to look upon the tri-cornered partnership with jaundiced eyes. His was one of your charitable natures that, until disillusioned, sees naught but good in its fellow man. Mr. Coletti rarely waited to be disillusioned. He was suspicious first and believing afterwards. It often seemed to him that his whole life had been spent in protecting himself against such adverse catastrophes as the run-around, being two-timed and double-crossed. The result of this life, to date, had been to make him wary. It had also fashioned him into no mean double-crosser in his own right.

"Hey, kid!" he said suddenly. "Ain't we due? Why we gotta cut de Chiseler in on dis? Wot's wrong wid us knockin' off dis Harkness lug an' divvin' de swag?"

Miss South regarded him pityingly.

"You would come through with one like that," she said. "It crosses your mind that it would be a good idea to lure Mr. Harkness to a vacant lot and tap him with a black-jack. You think, I suppose, that he carries his fortune in his sock? Listen, Ape, you're one swell fellow in a street brawl, but when it comes to foresight you string along with the laughing hyenas. No, we need the Chiseler. He's got more brains in his little finger than you have in your whole family."

"In amongst it?"

The doorman rang. Miss South opened the door with her own lily-white hand.

"Hello, honey," she said. "Welcome to our city."

Chiseler Jennings was a tall, spare individual with pale, bulging eyes and a magnificent pair of straw-colored mustachios. His high cheekbones and prominent forehead gave him a professorial aspect, such as is enjoyed by those who dispense such delicacies as economics in our better universities. He beamed now first upon Miss South, then upon Mr. Coletti.

"Ah, Dottie," he said, twirling the mustachios by which he set great store. "And Coletti! And how are you today, Coletti?"

Miss South spoke for the Ape. "Coletti," she said, "is all very well physically. But mentally—well, he'd better not let the squirrels see him."

"I got your message, Dorothy," said the Chiseler, "and hurried right over. I take it there is some little problem confronting you." He spoke in a soft, pleasing voice. The Chiseler was a man of some education who, in his youth, had been taught to eschew murdering the King's English. He was simply, as Marlowe puts it, a branch that might have grown full straight.

"Hardly a problem, Chiseler," said Dorothy. "As far as I can see, it's merely a matter that we ought to look into, that's all."

The Chiseler clasped his hands behind his back and bowed his head.

"State the proposition," he said with dignity.

"Very well," Miss South said, settling herself in a chair and lighting a cigarette. "When you decided that it would be a good idea to set me up in this gilded cage, my job was to try and get in amongst the rich and lofty, wasn't it? I mean, so that you and Angel-Face here—she indicated Coletti—" could strut your stuff better?"

"Quite so," assented the Chiseler. Miss South made a fan of her crimson-tipped fingers. "Okay. I'm in amongst it."

"Splendid," said the Chiseler approvingly. "What's the story?"

"The story," Miss South continued, "is roughly this: A few days ago, just as I was leaving this apartment house, a young gent drives up to the curb. And what do you think he drives up in? A very snooty Isotta-Franchini. And you know as well as I do, Chiseler, that young gentlemen who ply up and down the streets of this village in Isotta-Franchinis are not exactly on relief."

This appeared logical to the Chiseler. He nodded. "Proceed."

Miss South laughed. "That's exactly what I did. I proceeded. No sooner had I lapped this baby in this ritzy bus than I proceeded to put my left foot in front of my right foot in such manner that I could not help stumbling over it. I landed on my silken knees right alongside of the Isotta-Franchini. As I did so, I let my handbag fly one way and my gloves another. And did it work? Well, ask me, boy! The young gentleman was out of the car like a shot and began helping me up! Of course, I put my hand to my forehead and pretended to be hurt.....

"An' you wunt' hoit, huh?" cut in Coletti, in a burst of keen penetration. "Geez, dat's a hot one!"

"Pretty work?"

The Chiseler waved him into silence. "Go on, Dorothy! What happened?"

"Well, he picked me up. And then he wanted to know could he take me anywhere. Of course, I said no right away... I said I was all right, except that my knee felt a bit funny. I doubted if I could walk very far on it. So he said where was I going and I told him shopping. So he said he'd take me."

"In de Isotta?" inquired Coletti, just to get things straight.

"No, sweetheart. In the back of his watch. So, Chiseler, after a decent amount of girlish hemming and hawing, I planted these old bones in the Isotta and said drive on, James."

"Well, the young lad was a fast worker. We hadn't gone half a block before he said how about skipping shopping and taking a breeze through the Park? All this time, mind you, I'd been giving him the double-o and I saw he had class and how."

"So, after a little more maidenly hesitation, I said that the shopping was always with us, but with all the panhandlers and dishonest people going around nowadays, one never knew how long we'd have the parks. And this Isotta baby laughed and headed her into Central via the Fifty-ninth street entrance. Pretty work or pretty work?"

"You appear, Dorothy," said the Chiseler, "to have exercised considerable perspicacity in this matter."

"I should hope to tell you! And would you hear the rest. I had, of course, to find out who this bird was. I began by asking him if, by chance, he lived in the same apartment house that I do. He said no, but he'd been just about to call on a girl who did live there when I came down on the sidewalk like a duck full of buckshot. He added that as soon as he saw me it occurred to him that the other girl could wait. He didn't know this girl that he'd been going to call on. And the next minute he pulled one that nearly floored me. He came straight out and asked me did I know a girl named Dorothy South who lives in this building. Because, he said, that was the name of the girl he'd been going to see before he decided that I looked neat enough to be given a whirl through the Park."

"Well, I don't know if you've noticed or not, but I'm a cagey gal. It took me just two minutes to get my head clear after this haymaker, but when I did I began to do some heavy thinking. I said to myself, Dottie, I said, here's where a smart lady would tiptoe on eggs. You get it? For all I knew this fellow might be a detective all camouflaged with an Isotta and a pongee suit. And a girl can't be too careful. So I said, why how strange! I do know Miss South, but just slightly. And the young gent said well, what a break."

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON—It is no longer possible to turn the heat on congress in June and July. Both houses have air-cooling this year.

That may sound like something trivial but it isn't. The heat around this place would roast a jungle monkey. For years it was taken for granted that congress would rush through its business in early June to escape the heat. But now a member of congress can come to work in the cool of the forenoon, remain in an air cooled region throughout the day and go home in the evening without facing a touch of the old torrid blast.

The senators have the most elaborate layout, which is possible because there aren't so many of them. The senator drives to the capitol in the morning, into an underground garage where an attendant takes it over and parks it for him in a reserved spot.

OUT OF THE SUN
 Not again during the day must the senator get out into the blazing sun. He strolls through a cool underground passage in the Senate Office building, entirely air conditioned this summer for the first time. Only part of it was finished last summer. It isn't true that the democrats air-conditioned their offices first.

The senator may work in his office or an air-conditioned-hearing room until noon when the senate convenes.

Senators used to sweat, and take off their coats as their collars wilted, but not any more.

At noon the senator can take the underground trolley for a noisy two-block ride over to the capitol.

An hour or so of debate may drive him to eat, so he rides down the senate's private elevator to the senate restaurant where a dozen negro waiters know all his whims and fancies. The menu is varied and the food moderately good. He can't have beer. The members voted against it. The house permits it in their restaurant, however.

COOL RIDE HOME
 The senate usually adjourns for the day at 5 o'clock or earlier. Back to his office by trolley, the senator can work a while longer or go out into the buried garage and take a cooling ride home through the busy Rock Creek canyon, which is one blessing this city shares above all others.

It is so hot here during summer that important peace negotiations once were transferred out of the city so the delegates might be cool and collected instead of hot and cantankerous. That's why the Russo-Japanese war of 1905 was settled by the treaty of Portsmouth, New Hampshire. Theodore Roosevelt asked them to come to Washington and make peace, but they came in June and that was no time to make peace in Washington. If they had had air conditioning they might have stayed here and Portsmouth would have lost an important place in history.

We don't mean to imply by the above that congress is going to work on through the summer just because they can do it coolly. But summer work is no longer the broiling death-dealing business for eager congressmen that it used to be. Now they can fight it out on this line if it takes all summer—provided the cooling machinery holds out.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—Back in Ohio the snow is long gone and the farmers have scratched the rich earth once again in spring planting, and here in Hollywood farmer Louis Bromfield is a-pining for his "old Ohio home," just like the fellow in the song.

Farmer Bromfield, more than six feet of him, blue-slacked and dark-shirted, sprawls on a couch in his studio office during time out for a cigarette and a chat and gives forth with the why and the how of his presence in Hollywood whence a few years ago he took a walk.

They're making at 20th Century-Fox the film version of "The Rains Came," his best-selling novel of India. And they're going to make the story of Brigham Young, which is the real reason he's here—despite the pull of his 400 acre outside Mansfield, despite the call of his first real spring as a country squire there.

"I couldn't resist Brigham Young," he says. "For a long time I've been studying the Mormon migration to Utah—in fact, I've been planning a novel on Joseph Smith. When Darryl Zanuck wired me, I had to come. I already had the background at my fingertips; all I need to do now is to freshen my memory a little—and write it. But next time I hope I can make Hollywood in January, February—get home for spring. No, I'm not playing at farming. I'm a dirt-farmer. Write two hours in the morning, two in the late afternoon. And we're going to make the farm more than pay its way. Oats, corn, soy beans, wheat, alfalfa. Chickens, cattle, some horses, hogs, and goats."

Nearly half of Bromfield's novels have been made or bought for pictures, but "Brigham Young" is only his second screen original. His first, nearly 10 years ago, was "One Heavenly Night," a stinkero if ever there was one. His rupture with Samuel Goldwyn over it was one of the celebrated author-producer battles of its time, but today Bromfield, after mellowed by time or cognizant of higher film standards, is kinder to Hollywood.

But despite offers he hadn't been back since—until "Brigham Young" came up. Only incidentally, he has been interested in the filming of "The Rains Came" and has been more than pleased, he says, at the treatment given it. "A very fine script," he pronounces it. "Changes? Only for the sake of necessary brevity. Some eliminations had to be made—otherwise the picture would take three or four days to see."

Authors versus Hollywood? Bromfield believes the movie-makers on the whole are doing justice to the works of writers. He adds, however, that it pays a novelist to stay in Hollywood only briefly; once or twice a year; that in the long run the writer makes more money, enhances his prestige, and does better work when he is not a permanent resident. (Bromfield is one of America's most successful writers financially as well as in literary respect.)

He'll be here about two months before heading back to that "old Ohio home." It was there that he began, at 12, dabblings in fiction which led, after home-town newspaper work, college and war-service, to the New York City room of the Associated Press—and thence to his first best-seller, "The Green Bay Tree," in 1924.

The Japan-American conference, held to promote friendship between college students of the two countries, will meet at the University of Southern California in August.

The slang expression, "I see my duty and I do it," was a characteristic phrase of former Gov. Jeremiah Rusk of Wisconsin in the 1860's.

Defense Need Stressed To Army Grads

WEST POINT, N. Y., June 13 (AP)—The fledgling officers who will direct the future might of America's armies heard President Roosevelt assert Monday that while King George's visit had emphasized that nations without fears could be friendly, this country's "desire for peace must never be mistaken for weakness."

During recent months, Mr. Roosevelt told the graduating class at the United States Military Academy, "international political considerations have required still greater emphasis upon the vitalization of our defense, for we have had dramatic illustrations of the fate of undefended nations."

Not by name did he mention Austria, Czechoslovakia or Mamel, the states absorbed in whole or in part by the German Reich, nor did he speak of international concern over those assimilations.

And he referred to the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the United States as "a courteous recognition of the cordiality and good will which prevails between two great nations."

Although Mr. Roosevelt declared "we seek peace by honorable and pacific conduct of our international affairs," he laid stress anew on America's intention to build up her armed forces.

"The machine age has laid its iron grip upon the world's armies; and technical developments have demanded modernization of our military establishments, a program which has been prosecuted vigorously during the past six years," he said.

The chief executive declared the coming of the machine did not mean elements, courage, heroism, intelligence and morale, will have departed.

"So, far from submerging men," he said, "the modern developments emphasize their responsibilities. Recent conflicts in Europe, the Far East and Africa bear witness to the fact that the individual soldier remains the controlling factor."

The object of developing aviation, motorization and mechanization, the President asserted, is to attain the highest possible degree of mobility. He explained that mobility of armaments was essential to the United States because even if fixed defensive installations are vital, strategic centers were desirable, the vast territorial expanses of America would make their maintenance economically impracticable.

Los Angeles county's charity budget has risen from $25,000,000 to $42,000,000 in two years.

Sets New Mark in Over-Water Gliding

FRANKFORT, Mich., June 13 (AP) Give young Ted Bellak, who flies gliders for fun and for business, another 25 or 30 years at it, and perhaps he'll try soaring all the way over the Atlantic ocean. The 27-year-old Newark, N. J., pilot, who traversed Lake Michigan as smoothly as a bird last night for what is claimed to have been the longest over-water glider flight, to date predicted one flight via sailplane "in 25 or 30 years." He said "we may learn enough from meteorological studies by that time to be able to do it."

Results Vary
In Vote To End
Sea Strike

HOUSTON, June 13 (AP)—Officials of National Maritime Union locals at Texas ports announced varied results of a vote taken yesterday on the question of continuing a strike against the shipping of four companies.

F. P. O'Donohue, who resigned last night as business agent of the Houston local union, said the Houston unit voted to end a tanker strike against the Standard Oil company of New York, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, C. D. Mallory company and Tidewater Associated Oil company.

With the New Orleans union, the Houston branch voted to set up the Gulf district of the N.M.U. as an autonomous unit, O'Donohue said.

Jim Crow, chairman of legal and publicity committees of the Beaumont N.M.U., said 200 striking seamen there voted unanimously to continue the strike. Port Arthur strikers likewise voted unanimously to continue, J. H. Leche, N.M.U. local official, announced.

Union officials at Galveston, where picketing of local service stations operated by tanker firms or using their products ended Sunday, withheld comment on the vote there.

Arthur Thomas, Gulf district executive committee chairman, resigned at New Orleans after charging "bureaucratic dictatorship" had been set up by "top officialdom at New York" and he was opposed to having the union having "its policies formed by the communist party."

The New Orleans union voted to end the strike and adopted a resolution to set up a system under which the Gulf district would operate separately from the eastern district.

O'Donohue in his resignation said he concurred in the sentiments of Thomas. Kenneth Miles was elected to succeed him.

"I feel all the officials in the union who do not go down the line with the communist party clique are being hampered at every turn," O'Donohue said in his resignation statement.

The New Orleans resolution on autonomy provided that "all funds, dues, assessments, and any other income be retained in the Gulf for the purpose of running the union here, until such time as the organization on the east coast is put back on a democratic basis."

PLANS CHANGES IN WPA ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, June 13 (AP)—Col. F. C. Harrington, Works Progress administrator, told a house appropriations committee today he proposed to make administrative changes in WPA, including reorganization of the Federal Theatre project.

The theatre project has been criticized in testimony before the house committee investigating WPA as having been dominated by the Workers Alliance.

Proposing reorganization of that branch with a view to "improved administration and efficiency," Harrington at the same time disputed many charges against WPA as "inaccurate" and "obviously unfair."

Before his appearance, informed legislators said the new relief bill, scheduled to go before the house tomorrow, contained a broad provision intended to block any efforts of such organizations as the All-

THEORIZE FUGITIVES WILL STEAL AUTO

BUENA VISTA, Colo., June 11 (AP)—Searchers predicted today news of an automobile theft would disclose the flight direction of two state reformatory prisoners who eluded officers while four companions in a warden-kidnaping break were captured.

Warden Walter H. Johnson, released after being threatened with death while he was the fugitives' hostage, reported no trace found of the two still at large in a blood-hound hunt in the rugged Buffalo Peak country north of Buena Vista last night.

He expressed the belief the two youths, James Williams, 17, of Lawton, Okla., and Robert Blair, 19, of Denver—would attempt to steal an automobile if they had not done so already.

The four others who surrendered without resistance to two officers who found them huddled around a small camp fire were Eugene Nebeker, 17, of Granville City, Ill., James Cowan, 19, of Fort Collins, Colo., Clarence A. Burkett, 22, of Denver, and Needham Ferguson, 23, of Denver.
