Many Die In Earthquake At Santiago, Cuba

Public opinion hereabouts seems to be strongly in support of the recent changes in the Texas statute governing punishment for driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

Several men have been convicted here under provisions of the law which allows the court to fix punishment not only at a fine and imprisonment but also to deprive the guilty party of the right to drive an automobile for a period up to two years.

We have before us a 26-page book issued by the Travelers Insurance company that provides some very startling facts as to the toll of life taken last year in the United States by motor accidents.

The title is "Tremendous Trifles, Minor Decisions of Major Importance." On the back are these statements: "Even worse than war, 50,510 members of the A. E. F. died in action and died of wounds during the 12 months of the World War. 132,674 members of the A. E. F. wounded, not mortally, in action during 12 months of the World War. 53,650 killed in automobile accidents in the U. S. in 18 months ending December 31, 1931. 1,576,940 injured not fatally, in automobile accidents in the U. S. in 18 months ending December 31, 1931."

Automobile accident deaths in the United States jumped from 58,552 for five years ending in 1921 to 92,551 for five years ending in 1928 to 152,752 for five years ending in 1931.

Persons killed during 1931 totaled 21,400. Persons injured numbered 927,600. Thirty-six per cent of the deaths resulted from collisions of automobiles with pedestrians. 46.7 per cent from collisions with horse-drawn vehicles, 5 per cent from collisions with railroad trains. 1.7 per cent from collisions with other vehicles, 1.5 per cent with street cars, 5.1 per cent by colliding with fixed objects, 21 per cent by colliding with bicycles and 15.2 per cent were non-fatal collisions.

Two hundred ninety-seven thousand and four hundred ten pedestrians were injured, not fatally, by automobiles. More than a half million—528,859 to be exact—were injured not fatally, in collisions between automobiles.

In 1931 a death occurred for every 20 accidents, in 1930 a death for every 26 accidents. The number of pedestrian fatalities dropped 3 per cent in 1931, indicating more caution among them. Drivers of cars on the other hand, apparently were not so careful as in 1930, because the number of fatalities that resulted from the collision of one car with another increased by more than 24 per cent.

Based on this very exhaustive study of automobile accidents the statement is made that at least nine of every ten accidents result from errors of drivers or pedestrians.

Quite Unusual! Rattlesnake Bite Kills Snake; Bitten Boy Returns To Play After Brief Interval. When a snake bites a boy and the boy dies it is a news item of more than casual interest. When, however, the snake is the one that suffers death as the result of the incident and the youth recovers sufficiently to play football, then it is—well, what is it? This phenomenon occurred in Big Spring High School Monday. A seventeen year old student, Walter Bunker, was bitten by a three-foot rattlesnake while examining the reptile in Chemistry class. He was rushed immediately to a physician and a serum administered. At first it was feared that he might suffer from the poisonous wound, but an hour later he was sitting at his desk. The snake was discovered dead in his box, dead.

SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP)—At least 100 persons were killed and an undetermined number injured in an earthquake here early this morning.

There were two major shocks, one at 1:41 a. m. and the second and most severe immediately afterward.

A great number of stone buildings were wrecked, crushing the occupants. Survivors were working to extricate many people buried under debris.

The roof of the maternity ward of the Civil hospital fell, killing many women and babies.

Santiago is the only city of any size on this end of the island.

Palm thatched native huts over the countryside were too light to be damaged by the quake and their occupants were not harmed.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A navy airplane from Guantanamo, sent to Santiago, reported ten killed there. Cables were broken, and communication with all American cities was reported safe. The destroyer Hopkins is going from Guantanamo with medical supplies.

Basketball Loop Formed By Four Clubs

The First Methodist Church will meet the First Baptist quintet in the curtain-raiser of the newly-formed city basketball loop Thursday evening in the high school gym. Monday evening the Herald club tangles with the East Fourth Baptists.

J. V. Tombs, former coach of Eden High School and a prominent official in local basketball circles, was elected president of the league in a meeting of the board of directors Tuesday night, and the sports writer of this paper was chosen as secretary-treasurer. It was voted to play a twelve-game schedule, to bar from competition all members of any high school quintet or outside club, and to confine all squads with the exception of the East Fourth Baptists to ten men.

The First Methodists, who have been playing under the name of the Big Brothers Sunday School team, are favorites to capture the championship of the newly-formed loop, with the First Baptists coming in second. The East 4th quintet is handicapped by their own set of eligibility rules while the Herald team has yet to be organized.

Importers Of Oil Asked To Accept Tariff

House Committee Leader Says 'Sacrifices' Must Be Made

WASHINGTON (AP)—J. Howard Pew, Philadelphia, representing the American Petroleum Institute, told the house ways and means committee today that the federal tax on gasoline would be unworkable. He stated the states already were taxing heavily on gasoline. A federal levy, Mr. Pew said, would harm the states and prove unfair to consumers. Representatives of electric and gas companies protested a plan to tax their products.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oil importers were asked by Acting Chairman Crisp of the ways and means committee to be prepared to "make sacrifices" to meet the treasury deficit.

Opening a hearing on a proposed tax on oil imports, the Georgia Democrat, who is presiding during the illness of Chairman Collier, told the importers that "unless the financial stability of the government is made secure, economic chaos will follow."

The oil importers, headed by Robert Stewart, president of the Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Company, were gathered to resist a proposed import on petroleum.

"Every citizen of the United States will be affected adversely unless we balance the budget," Crisp said.

All Suggestions Opposed "Every suggestion the treasury has made for taxes has been opposed in the three weeks we have held hearings. I am making this statement to present to you the picture that confronts the country and our people."

Crisp said many special taxes would have to be levied on commodities because increases in income, inheritance and estate taxes would not yield sufficient money to bring a balanced budget.

Crisp said the administration's $320,000,000 tax program would lack $200,000,000 to $300,000,000, annually, of bringing the amount the treasury estimated.

Stewart, the principal witness, said a two cents a gallon tax on imported oil would not raise any revenue at all.

"The importers would be gravely injured and importers would not be said," he said. "The price of gasoline as well as of crude and fuel oil would be raised by this measure. How the opposite can be held... is hard to understand."

Increase Bunker Oil Cost Stewart said the tariff commission figures on the differential between Venezuela oil and that from the midcontinent field was not $1.03 a barrel, as asserted last week by Wirt Franklin, president of the Independent Producers' Association but only six cents.

"It would be utterly impossible for any operator to import its crude or any derivative of crude with a handicap in the form of any tariff or excise duty whatever," he said, adding: "Particularly a tariff varying from 84 cents per barrel in the case of fuel oil, to 10 cents in the case of gasoline."

Franklin had recommended a four cents a gallon tax on imported gasoline. H. B. Walker, of New York City, representing the American Steamship Owners' Association, said the proposed tax would increase the cost of bunker oil for American ships.

Crystal Gazer Furnishes Fun For Rotarians

Harold Homan's Program One of Best In Months

Members of the Rotary club were treated to an exhibition of crystal gazing and fortune-telling at its regular weekly luncheon at the Statler Hotel, with Dr. G. T. Hall acting as official "gazer."

The program was in charge of Harold (Snooks) Homan, with Dr. M. H. Bennett serving as master of ceremonies. A special apparatus was installed for the occasion, and several members of the club were brought forward and placed on the machine, which gave their weights. The crystal gazers read the weight of each, and gave their various characteristics, including hobbies, favorite screen star and weaknesses. Those given the test were: Dr. Ellington, weight 144, weakness, pulling molars; E. B. Ribble, weight 252, favorite screen star, Louise Fazenda; Max Jacobs, weight 144, has a true sense of values, and a weakness for bankrupt merchandise; J. G. Galbraith, weight 156, weakness withheld from public; J. B. Pickle, weight 178, has a weakness for low rates; Shine Phillips, weight 189, favorite screen star, Edna Wallace Hopper, who also sponsors a favorite cream preparation; W. C. Blankenship, weight 188, weakness, school teachers; Mrs. Bruce Frazier, club pianist, weight 298, the machine broke at this point, no weaknesses disclosed; E. J. May, weight 292, denotes a very sunny attitude toward life; no weaknesses.

The tests provoked much laughter, and proved a very entertaining feature of one of the best programs staged by the club.

G. H. Hayward gave a three-minute talk on "Fellowship," stressing the duties of the club service committee in bringing about better fellowship between members.

E. A. Kelly gave an instructive and interesting talk to new members of the club, outlining the aims and purposes of Rotary, after which adjournment was had.

The following visiting Rotarians were present: Pete Peters, Lubbock; N. H. Moore, Fort Worth; Bill Riddle, Midland; C. E. Boydston, California; V. H. Fletwell, Big Spring. Songs were led by E. E. Farhenkamp, accompanied by Mrs. Bruce Frazier, club pianist. Prior to beginning of program, two songs, "Pack Up Your Troubles," and "Let the Rest of the World Go By," were sung by the club, and according to Mrs. Frazier, it was one of the best singing demonstrations ever put on by the club.

Japanese Air Attack Upon City Related

American Eye-Witness Tells of Slaying of Many Chinese

Editor's Note: The world stood aghast only a few days since to learn that in the days of the World War, bombs had been dropped from the air on an open, defenseless city. The story of this raid, with the subsequent fire and battling on the ground, has been told only piecemeal. Today the United Press presents the story of an eyewitness, Walter Brown, a Shanghai resident and special United Press correspondent who saw the bombing from atop the Japanese Club.

By WALTER BROWN United Press Special Correspondent (Copyright, 1932, By The United Press)

SHANGHAI (UP)—I watched last Friday the aerial bombardment, without warning, of an open city, defenseless city, and saw how Japanese spectators capered in joy, shouting Banzai (hurrah) and embracing as explosions spread fire and death in Chinese territory.

It was a terrible sight, this dropping of bombs on a crowded territory, the fate of many Chinese, caught without a chance. There were 100 or more of us on the roof of the Japanese Club, a stone's throw from the Hongkew police station, as the Japanese planes swung aloft. To the Japanese sharing this vantage point the spectacle seemed to be an outing. An uncounted number of Chinese were killed or maimed by the bombardment and the ground fighting.

Illusion Once during all this havoc, I noted that the Chinese police chased a group of planes high above the international settlement—under the pathetic illusion that the planes were Chinese down from Nanking to beat off the invaders.

Tuesday Chapei had a new baptism of fire, minus aerial bombs, piling up the ruin which was done in the first Japanese action. The Friday action left much waste territory, heaps of smoking brick and stone and wood, thousands of peaceful Chinese driven out to the cold, many in hospitals and others left to fill unmarked graves.

Friday morning, when the Japanese marines came ashore, 40 were clipped off by Chinese soldiers and snipers. From that moment the unforgotten city was doomed. The first sign was when a Japanese bomber dropped a light over the Jukong road district. This lighted the territory and gave the aviator a clear view.

He left off a small "fizzer." Then I could hear two high explosive bombs. Down below I could see houses and shops tumbling down, with folks inside. There still ate bodies buried in those ruins.

Joyful The Japanese watchers were joyful. Then their countryman circled again, dropped another light, and a couple more big bombs. All merrily wounded and dying were taken into St. Lukes' hospital. 22 French and Chinese youth were taken into St. Lukes' hospital. (Continued on Page 2)

Hoover Holds All Conditions Must Be Met

Imperial Government Repeats Opposition To Arbitration Plan

SHANGHAI (AP)—Chinese headquarters announced that forts on the Wousung river, 16 miles from the city, sank a Japanese destroyer and damaged two others. Japanese authorities claimed the forts had been destroyed.

Infantry and airplanes again attacked the Chapel section. Fighting was believed to have reached the most severe stage since the Japanese attack began.

Bombs again started numerous fires. Soldiers on a British troop ship ascending the river barely were missed by shells. Destroyers withdrew at nightfall but were expected to return.

Colonel Richard Hooker, commanding the American marines, notified Washington that he had arranged with Japanese to evacuate part of the international settlement which they had taken over from Americans.

OFFERS PROPOSAL TOKYO (AP)—Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa said Japan was unalterably opposed to neutral participation in negotiations over Manchuria.

He said Japan maintained a different attitude toward the Shanghai situation. The foreign minister had just returned from a visit to consult the aged Prince Saino, one of Japan's elder statesmen.

He said a formal reply to the powers' proposals would be made tomorrow.

CHINA ACCEPTS WASHINGTON (AP)—China has already accepted the Anglo-American peace proposals. The cabinet is awaiting a Japanese reply. President Hoover is insistent on the inclusion of an acknowledgment for the effectiveness of the Kellogg peace pact in any negotiations under American auspices.

It is generally believed the situation is now encouraging. The American destroyer Edsall has been ordered from Shanghai to Nanking. Admiral Simpson is already there.

The senate foreign relations committee deferred action on Dill resolution to ban munitions shipments.

"Howdy, Mister Big Hat!" he replied. "My name is Rock." "Abbot had that reckoned," returned the rider, guardedly.

"The hell you say!" ejaculated Peoples. "An' how about your connection with Preston. Speaks high for him to have you in his outfit. True Rock, clean an' square ranger!"

Trueman Rock stroled to his hotel. Ash Preston was in town hiding. Ash had confided this bit of misleading news. He had discovered it quite by accident, through a Mexican and believed that Ash had ridden in under cover of night.

Rock, I reckon it was, if she's what you seem to think," responded Peoples, staring hard. "Shore you know more about me than I do about you. It ain't a very square deal all around."

First Cavalry Soldiers, Soon To Be In 'Mechanized' Regiment, Pass On Final Review Before Mounts

By R. D. SHUFFLER ODESSA—The brilliancy of all former reviews of the First Cavalry stationed at Fort D. A. Russell, Marfa, was eclipsed Monday morning when the entire regiment, including officers and enlisted men passed in review before their mounts paying farewell to their faithful friends, many of long standing.

Picket lines were strung and the mounts tied to the lines. Col. Austin, in command, and the entire regiment, on foot, led by the famous Black Hawk band passed in review before the horses. As each troop passed, the order was given for the salute, the regiment using the famous Fascist salute.

As troop by troop marched by those famous "four-footed soldiers" sensed the unusual and pricked up their ears, as they witnessed their master passing in review.

Men and officers realized as never before that the First Cavalry, the oldest in the American army, was bidding farewell to the mounted service, and that "boots and saddles" would never be sounded again for the majority of them.

The cavalry uniform is to be changed and the proud name of the "Black Hawks" perhaps changed to that of "The First Mechanized Regiment." Orders have been received for the distribution of the horses to other posts and preparations are being made to carry them out.

Japanese

(Continued from Page One) some babies. They had no bombs or machine guns. At daylight six planes were over Chapel, each with a load of bombs. Every time they circled, they passed over the supposedly neutral settlement.

The Japanese flew about 1,000 feet up and then came down close to the ground. The Chinese rifle fire seemed like shooting at an elephant. Finally the bombs came down on the station and did a lot of damage to the building—and to some of the soldiers.

The Commercial Press burned fast. The wind off the Whangpoo river spread fire westward. Nothing could stop it. The less substantially built houses went up like kindling. Poor families ran out in panic.

They grabbed up what they could bear, mattresses, a handful of clothes, sometimes a bird cage, and with their loads on their backs or on wheelbarrows set out in a daze to find a shelter where bombs and fire would not follow them.

Early Production of Potash From Midland County Deposits Expected

Early production of potash from the great deposits in Midland county is seen with the survey made in Southwest Midland county last week by Joseph M. Perkins, geologist connected with the Texas Potash Corporation.

The survey was made for the purpose of determining the cost of sinking a shaft 2100 feet deep, at which depth it is believed potash salt in great quantities and purity lies. Core tests years ago on the Jones ranch established the presence of polyhalite in great beds, deposited, no doubt, over a great area in which evaporation of a great inland sea was under way.

It is intended to sink a shaft 52 inches in diameter and to set 2100 feet of 42-inch casing. Ore will be brought out of the shaft in great buckets working in grooves, and ladders will be built in for workmen in case of emergency.

According to the information in Midland, the project has been financed amply by President J. L. Lancaster of the Texas & Pacific railroad, and by associates said to be in the cotton business.

No information on the exact location of the test could be learned, however.

The corporation is ready to receive bids from drillers, it was authoritatively learned.

For years, it has been understood that possibly the greatest potential wealth of Midland and Ector counties is to be found in potash deposits. Recently improved commercial methods for treatment of potash salts has made production of potash a much less costly enterprise, and the eventual plan is to develop the beds of the counties through sinking several shafts.
