Russians Fall Back To The Caucasus Foothills

Million Prisoners Taken, Berlin Says

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), Aug. 12 (P)—The destruction of the bulk of the Soviet 62nd army, with capture of 57,000 prisoners, and the destruction of more than 1,000 tanks and 750 guns, was reported today by the German high command, which said this completed the great battle of the Don bend as other German troops were advancing deeper into the Caucasus mountains.

deeper into the Caucasus mountains.

Since the spring campaign began, 1,044,741 Red army soldiers have been captured, the high command reported.

It acknowledged that the Russians had resumed hot diversionary attacks northwest of Voronesh, on the south central front, and in the areas of Rahev, 130 miles northwest of Moscow, and southeast of Lake Ilmen and on the Volkhov front. All these attacks were reported repulsed, however, in bitter fighting, much of it hand-to-hand.

The Soviet attacks on the Rahev front were made by numerically-superior forces, the communique stated,

A special announcement pronounced the battle of the Don bend concluded and declared German troops and air forces "have annihilated the bulk of the 62nd Soviet army and strong units of the first tank army in the great Don bend west of Kalach."

More than 57,000 prisoners were taken in that battle and more than 1,000 tanks and 750 guns were captured or destroyed, it said. "Since the beginning of the spring fighting from the battle of the Berch peninsula up to the conclusion of the battle in the great Don bend," the special announcement added, "German and allied prisoners on the eastern front have brought in 1,044,741 prisoners."

War Output May Be Cut

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12 UP War plants which are running far ahead of schedule may be closed deliberately or slowed down for a time to ease the drain on scarce materials, under plans now being considered by the War Pro-duction Board.

The production cuts would be brought about by curtailments in the allocation of materials to such firms for the last three months of the year, it was disclosed by an official who requested that his name be withheld,

In many cases new or con-verted war plants are discovering that their output exceeds earlier expectations, with the result that parts they produce lie idle for weeks or months be-fore they can be incorporated in the finished product.

It's Sound Stage No. 6 at Paramount and Jimmy Lydon with a cast of talented youngsters is rehearsing a scene for the latest Henry Aldrich picture, "Henry Aldrich Gets Glamour." Henry has just won a fan magazine contest (no matter how) and is all set for a trip to Hollywood and a date with a real glamour girl. The girl, incidentally, will be Frances Gifford, who qualifies one hundred per cent. Henry has been having a rather bad time trying to date the campus glamour girl. bad time trying to date the campus glamour girl, newcomer Gail Russell, and now, in his moment of triumph, is all set to pay back the proud beauty for her past coyness. He has just come from a session with the high school principal when his class lets out and he is immediately Reed Johnston surrounded by a crowd of excited kids. His eye, however, is for THE girl.

dashes up saying, "I'll not be asking for a date for a few aks, Virginia. You see, I just won that movie contest and I'm ng to Hollywood." Virginia dead pans an icy look, turns to her I friend (a ringer for Veronica Lake) with a knowing look, and see the ball right back at Henry with, "Now isn't that just too, divine" — and cuts him dead.

Needless to say all this sounds very, very simple. But on the est take Henry blows his lines, and it's, "Let's go again." On as second take, as he retreats backward from the body blow lrginis has delivered, he stumbles on a slight rise, and another at is ordered.

We adjourn to Henry's dressing-room where we discover that immy Lydon is a real trouper, for he calls the shot immediately, aying, "Gee, it's over two years since I've seen you. Remember Tom Brown's School Days' at RKO? Was I a kid then! See low I've grown, just shy of six foot now — but you've got to meet Galil What a gal! We'll break for lunch in half an hour—

Fashion Scene

By Margaret McKay

"Backyard vacation" was the theme of one of my recent col-umns in which I urged those of you who, due to transportation restrictions, must stay at home this summer to "glamour up"

your ward-robes with some new clothes just as if you were carole Landis, who is going to do her "un-laxing" at home, after her current nicture, "Man-

Margaret McKay has purchased some new re-freshers for her wardrobe, and several items on her list are Especially two new bathing suits and one pair of patio pajamas. One suit is a dressmaker of pale grey shartex with design of moss green leaves. The other suit a white water-proofed crepe slashed with bands of royal blue.

Carole believes every girl should have two swim suits on should have two swim suits on her vacation to keep up a "var-iety is the spice of life" idea among the masculine swimming pool kibitzers, and the pale grey suit caught her shopping eye because it is the first time bathing suits have used pale grey as a color. She also bought a pair of patio pajamas in shantung. Simulating the Orient, the tunic blouse falls to just below the knee and the trousers taper at the ankles. The trousers are chartreuse and the tunic in natural with print of red and orange - an exquisite color combination.

There are, of course, those who still travel on vacations. The old faithful tailored suit is always first choice for the train, but can be made more excit-ing with a dashing hat and ac-cessories. Hats with snoods or drapery are excellent for train or motoring to keep the hair clean and protected from dust.

Alice Faye is among the summer travelers, having trained to New York to see husband Phil Harris, who is touring with his band. Her idea for hot weather travel, in case you don't like tailored suits, is a good one. She wore a black crepe with jacket tightly fitted to the waistline where it ends in a narrow, gathered peplum — little more than a ruffle. A pencil slim skirt and a black straw hat with mash veiling draned around her mesh veiling draped around her chin like a medieval helmet, completed her outfit.

grit and scrappiness, no one in town built on a much larger last is Edith's equal. And it is well that she is not bound to the idea that the meek shall inherit the earth, or she might long since have given up. have given up. Edith, a lyric soprano with as-pirations to the classics, began on the stage when she was less than two years old. At three, she became sole breadwinner for herself and her grandmother and remained so through the years until the death of the grand-mother a few months ago. THE ONLY interest in the child THE ONLY interest in the child ever displayed by her mother, a woman whose life was a montage of marriages and divorces, came when Edith had won success in the movies. Burning motherly love then showed itself in the form of a lawsuit for thirty-five per cent of all Edith had earned up to that time, along with a claim for a goodly slice of what she made in the future. of what she made in the future.

Edith, who had come to know her grandmother as her true "mother," spurned this tender show of belated maternal devo-tion, though it cost her $25,000,

Strange to say, other lawsuits came tumbling down around her the moment she had money in the kick. It seemed that everythe Rick. It seemed that every-body sued her. "They swarmed around me like locusts," is the metaphor Edith uses. There were sixteen lawsuits in two years. She got to know the courtroom crew by their first names, and at each new suit, they would greet her with, "Well, how much does who want this time?"

A SINGING teacher who hadn't taught her, sued. A lawyer who, unsolicited, had sicked the singing teacher on her, sued. The head of a private school whom she owed nothing, sued. The owner of a piano Edith used to thump occasionally sued. to thump occasionally, sued.

This delightful attribute of some people taught Edith an early lesson and she is now flanked by lawyers, guardians, agents . . . even her Danish housekeeper, who lives with her in the Tohica Lake home she Toruca Lake hom owns (unencumbered), shares some responsibility in her wel-fare.

That welfare would seem to be in sound shape, for Edith has made four pictures the past eight months, not counting the one she is presently making for Mono-gram, tentatively called "Homi-cide Squad."

It Is Necessary to Mention This Newspaper

Columbia Pictures scooped the preview week in Hollywood with "THE TALK OF THE TOWN," an intelligent comedy drama which scores in every department and seems certain to take its place among the ten best pictures of the current year. The film stars Cary Grant, Jean Arthur and Ronald Colman and these exceptionally fine players have never been seen to better advantage.

Reviews of Previews

JOE FISHER'S

The story opens with Grant accused of the burning of a woolen mill and the death of a factory foreman in the fire. With the trial going against him he escapes and finds refuge in a farmhouse owned by Jean Arthur whose incoming tenant is to be Ronald Colman, dean of a law school, who is spending a vacation writing a legal book preparatory to his appointment to the U. S. Supreme Court. Jean acts as his housekeeper-secretary and, finding it impossible to conceal Grant, introduces him as her gardner. Innocent of the crime with which he is charged and accustomed to speak his own mind, Grant is diametrically opposed to all those things for which Colman's life work stands, and while they argue at length, each respects the other's opinions and they become fast friends.

Finally the dean discovers Grant's real identity, and while vigorously disagreeing with Grant's actions, he undertakes his defense when Grant is threatened by an organized lynching mob. All of this sounds quite dramatic and possibly drab and dull: but the directional genius of producer-director George Stevens takes it all in stride, and with the skill that rates him one of Hollywood's top flight artists he intermixes drams with comedy, farce with suspense, the whole making an emotional build-up that you will not soon forget.

Cary Grant, with less flotage than the other two stars, successfully dominates the picture. Jean Arthur, in possibly her best screen performance, is thoroughly human, contributing no end to the comedy which George Stevens so cleverly interpolates into the story. Ronaid Colman (wearing a beard and looking very dignified during most of the film) is a joy to watch. He is at his best. Truth to tell the three stars all give four-star performances. star performances.

Strong support by a brilliant supporting cast adds punch to this super picture. Edgar Buchanan as Grant's attorney, is tops. He is for his client in court or out. Glenda Farrell, too long missing from the Hollywood scene, has several delightful se-quences where her flair for comedy never fails. Hex Ingram's performance rates a quote from one of the town's leading trade papers — "You want to wrap him up and take him home." Playing a devoted colored servant, he turns in an outstanding portrayal. Excellent, too, are Leonid Kinskey, Charles Dingle, George Watts and Emma Dunn. Capable players, they make

"RIDERS OF THE WEST," Monogram's latest entry in their Buck Jones. Tim McCoy, Raymend Hatten series, displays in above usual form the goings on of this trio of hard-bitten western players. Best performance is by Sarah Fadden, whose Ma Turner role leaves no doubt as to the down-to-earth qualities of the pioneer women who made the winning of the West possible. A picture definitely for those of us who like to vary the usual movie fare with an hour of action with plenty of rootin', shootin' and ridin'.

Berry Chalks Up No-Hitter For Tulsa

The disintegration of the Dallas Rebels, whose losing streak now extends to 31 consecutive games, shares interest in the Texas league with the no-hit, no-run performance turned in last night by jittery Joe Berry of the Tulsa Indians.

The Rebels, reduced to 13 players with the loss of two man to the armed forces and another sold yesterday, were not in the best fettle terday, were not in the best fettle to go up against the hungry Cats at Fort Worth. The Cats took the first game 1-0, despite a total of only three hits allowed by Johnny McPartland and Eddle Marleau of Dallas, and won the nightcap 3-0.

Berry's no-hitter enabled the

No Purchasers For Collapsed Bridge

OLYMPIA, Wash.—The nation may be short of steel, but getting scrap steel from the collapsed Tacoma Narrows bridge into the war program has proved no easy job.

The state toll bridge authority tried to get someone to dismantle the 3,600-ton towers and 3,800-ton cables recently. Only one company bid on the job and instead of offering the state money for the scrap.

ing the state money for the scrap, the company wanted $450,000 to do the job, besides getting to keep and sell the steel. Several weeks before the state tried to sell some 814,000 scrap steel from the roadbed. The successful bidder, however, offer-ed more than the OPA's ceiling price and the state had to reject the bid and advertise for new ones.

Capital Postoffice Has transportation units and utility lts War Problem, Too

WASHINGTON

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON-Of all the fantastic stories told about this war, one of the best is that which concerns the District of Columbia

The name Vincent Burke probably doesn't ring a bell in the minds of one out of 100,000 persons, but he is the No. 1 city postmaster. Every item of mail going in or out of the District passes through hands supervised by Vincent Burke.

Since Pearl Harbor, the mail revenue in Washington has in-creased 20 per cent a month, every month. Pouch mail has increased 35 to 40 per cent a month. Sack mail, which involves that going out of the War Department, well as mail from local camps to other camps and foreign stations, has increased 60 per cent a

In addition, there has been an increase monthly of 35 per cent in money orders; plus increases in the sale of war bonds and stamps that haven't even been

Add to this the loss of approximately 250 postal service men to selective service and voluntary enlistment (the Army and Navy were pretty keen to get experi-enced post office men), the necessary replacement of these losses and the hiring of at least "sev-eral hundred additional employes" to make up for increased work to date, and you will have some picture of what the Wash- If your mail is hours or a day ington post office has been up or two late, give this a thought.

If this were all, the Washington mail situation could be reduced to fundamentals. But it into orders the blueprints sent isn't. Mail trains (those scheduled over by the designers and archito arrive for certain local deliveries) and mail planes are apt to York street, a plaster throne for be very late. Unofficially. I can cite an illustration which applies to Washington, but which might well fit any city in the land. One of the most important mail trains from northern metropolitan centers arrives here at 5:30 a. m. Most days now tan cities) miss the first deliveries. In some sectors of the city. the second delivery is based on maximum weight or there's none at all. That means that the first delivery can't possibly get around until afternoon.

If this weren't an election year and a war year, Washington prob-ably would follow closely the pattern of the rest of the country. It follows that pattern now, but in most instances a score of times over. Only the mushroom cities in military and war industry centers can match stamps and cancella-tions with Washington, D. C., these days.

HOLLTWOOD - Another side f Hollywood: It has nothing to to with our town's drinking hab-ts, but Hollywood is getting 'plastered" more generously as the war progresses.

Shortages of lumber, metals, other building materials have thrown new work to the studio plaster shops, where in short or-der they can turn out sheets of "bricks," impressive "wooden" columns, realistic "iron" work. They turn out trees, too-palms to redwoods-and mountains, and any number of items you see in every picture. There is no rationing of plaster. The studio shops are filled with overalled workmen, white with plaster dust, pouring and stirring at their bins, setting molds, pouring and stirring again.

He had a swarthy skin an ironic gleam in steps were subconsciously slowed his eyes and an aplomb that was an entree to any social group. But perhaps his greatest value to Sandy was his disposition. Goodtempered, adaptable, blindly loyal, he acted as a balance wheel.

> And on this expedition in particular such a balance wheel needed. For there was Helen

It was through Gil that Sandy had met the young widow. Some-where in Gil's wanderings he had come across the Brothertons-that was before Lang Brotherton had died. But Gil never forgot a face, and when he saw Helen Brother ton one day in the Regis Hotel Bar in Mexico City, he had not hesitated to renew his acquaintance. It appeared, then, that she was having a fling at seeing the world and that she was finding it a little disappointing.

She talked vaguely of "wasting" her youth, and of wishing she had some goal besides aimlessly spending her late husband's money. She commandeered Gil to show her the sights of Mexico City, declaring she wanted to understand more about the Indian mind.

After a few of these excursions, the renewed acquaintance having grown with rapid strides, Gil told Helen about Sandy and his itch to search for an ancient Mayan city in Southern Mexico. The result of Gil's suggestion was a meeting, and before Sandy could whistle up a wind, Helen Brotherton had offered to finance the expedition. The joker was that she insisted upon being one of the party. Excess Baggage
At first Sandy refused flatly,

Probably To Be Widened

TULSA, Okla., Aug. 12 UF There is a growing belief in the oil industry that gasoline rationing will be extended gradually across the nation and that the midwest will feel its restrictions in the near future, possibly before the November elections. Observers here predict that four states—Ohio, Indiana, Michi-gan and Illinois—will be drawn next into the rationed area. Deputy Petroleum Coordinator

Ralph K. Davies himself gave support to this theory during the week when he declared if other areas were rationed because of transportation shortages, "they will have to accept it as an inevitable consequence of the war."
Members of the OPC staff forecast the midwest would be the only area likely to feel a transportation pinch in the immediate future. The rationing threat wasn't the only thing the oil man had to worry about. He was harassed on one side by a serious labor short-age and on the other by his inability to get drilling equipment-due to the expiration of order So had was the shortage of skilled oil field workers that contractors expressed the opinion such workmen should be made xempt from the draft.

Many contractors already are working their men on 12-hour shifts, which means an obvious increase in operating costs as well as a loss in efficiency because of the longer hours.
Order P-98, which gave the oil industry priorities for obtaining drilling equipment, expired at midnight, July 31, and since that time the industry has had no means of getting materials for either derelopment or maintenance work.

Unless the order is extended quickly or a substitute is drafted a drastic curtailment in field operations seemed in prospect.

Authorities of Zurich, Switzer and, have recommended that children be required to go barefooted during the summer to conserve leather, says the Department of
