HIGHWAY COMMISSION IGNORES MOODY

COUNTRESS CATHCART GAINS ADMISSION INTO UNITED STATES

4 GOOD PRODUCERS IN 4 DAYS IS RECORD

RISING STAR IN THE LIMELIGHT AS OIL CENTER

Southwestern Section Of Eastland County Getting a Big Play

Four good producers within as many days is the feature of the week in the newly discovered oil fields just being developed near Rising Star in the southwestern portion of Eastland county.

Stree & McCarter's No. 1 J. H. Allen, which came in Thursday for an initial production of 500 barrels per day, headed the list of producers brought in during the week. Anderson, Shultz et al. No. 2, reported making 400 barrels per day, was a close second to the Allen in point of production. It was drilled in Tuesday. The J. C. Kilgore and the Hodnett No. 1 of the Humble Oil & Refining company, the former making 160 and the latter 75 barrels per day, make up the four producers.

Other wells that are due to reach the pay, most any time now are the States Oil Corporation's Earl Allen, two wells from Conway Bros. on the B. F. Dunn tract, and one by the Texas company also on the Dunn.

In the territory surrounding the wells just brought in as producers there is much activity and many locations for new wells are being made. Street & McCarter have made locations for two offsets, one to the north of their well and the other offsetting the drilling well of Barney Carter on the north on the church-house lot.

Abe Breman is making preparations for spudding in a well offsetting Anderson & Shultz's No. 2 Dunn to the south. The Humble will begin at once operations on an offset west of the Hodnett No. 1.

John Tyler, Moore & Curry have spudded in on an offset to Pete Hoffman's well on the Kilgore Bros. place.

Thomas & Reynolds have let contract for drilling their No. 1 Patterson, two miles southwest of Rising Star.

MUNITION EXPLOSION INJURES 80

PRAGUE, Slovakia, March 5.—Police and military units were mobilized today following the explosion of a munition transport as it was traversing the city.

The damage in the area where the explosion occurred was tremendous, and early reports indicated there had been a correspondingly heavy loss of life. Subsequent information is to the effect that there were reported killed and eighty injured.

TAKES FLING AT DAN FOR INTERFERING

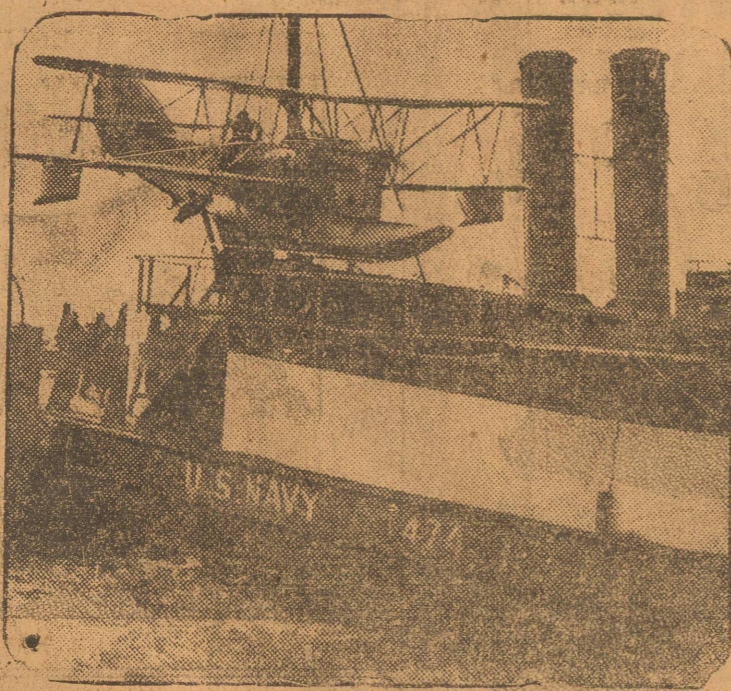

AUSTIN, March 5.—In a statement issued today to Justice of the Peace D. S. Burns of Manchaca, who fined John Cage $5.00 for an assault on Silliman Evans, a Fort Worth newspaper man, took a fling at Attorney General Dan Moody. Moody it seems is acting in behalf of Evans.

The justice said, "I thought the attorney general's office had assumed jurisdiction over the other state departments and the district courts of Travis county. That the grand jury of Travis county probably will keep Dan Moody fairly busy, but I am glad to know that he has taken 2,400 justices of the peace in Texas under his protecting wing.

NEW MURDER CHARGES IN OSAGE CASES

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 5.—New murder charges against several alleged members of the "Osage Murder Ring" will be filed in Osage county next week. C. K. Templeton, county attorney of Osage county announced today.

Use Powder to Launch Plane

First successful use of a gunpowder catapult for launching seaplanes was made at Haines Point near Washington, D. C., a few moments after this picture was made. The plane was shot down a 60-foot incline and into the air. Lieut. Com. E. F. Stone was the pilot.

'WETS' PLAN TO FORCE ISSUE IN LOWER HOUSE AT HEARING ON MARCH 31

By PAUL R. MALLON, United Press Staff Correspondent. WASHINGTON, March 5.—House "wets" intend to force the growing wet-dry battle in congress into the open with an unofficial hearing March 31, on prohibition.

After that is done, they plan to consolidate into a single measure various proposals for beer and light wine introduced from time to time, but hitherto without definite action thereon. This consolidated bill will be presented to the house.

Ministers will be called to testify in the coming hearing. Other men favoring a change in the present status of prohibition will also be given an opportunity to appear, but witnesses will be chosen carefully from the ranks of "representative citizens."

Wet Bearing. The decision to have what the drys term a "wet" hearing was made at a wet caucus which re-elected Representative John Phillip Hill, republican, Maryland, as its chairman.

The sixty wet house members alleged they had been balked in efforts to have an impartial investigation of prohibition's status. The wet forces have maintained that the house alcoholic traffic committee, which has insisted that it is the proper body for any inquiries is predominantly "dry" and would fail to get "both sides of the picture."

Meantime, democratic wets of the north Atlantic seaboard are planning to throw their forces into Illinois this summer to make that pivotal state their national battle ground for modification of the prohibition law.

Stamp Nation. An array of stamp campaigners which probably will include Gov. Al Smith of New York, Mayor Walker of New York city, Governor Ritchie of Maryland, and Senators Edwards, democrat, New Jersey, and Bruce, democrat, Maryland, may be paraded before the mid-western voters in an effort to secure election of George Brannan, democratic leader of Chicago, who has announced himself as wet candidate for senator.

Apparently blocked in their legislative maneuvers by the overwhelmingly dry congress, the democratic wets see their big new opening in the Illinois senatorial race which if Brennan wins would materially aid their cause.

The Illinois, political situation is ideal for the national wet-dry conflict.

In the primaries, April 12, Brennan is practically certain to obtain the democratic senatorial nomination. The hot republican contest is between Senator William McKinley and Frank L. Smith, Chicago. Smith is making his fight against the world court stand since McKinley voted for American abstinence.

Whether McKinley or Smith obtains the republican nomination, the wet-dry issue will not be subordinated. Either republican candidate will stand, according to information reaching political authorities here, upon the national republican platform for law enforcement and against modification of the Volstead law.

TRAP IS SPRUNG FOR KENTUCKY NEGRO FIEND

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 5.—In a hush when the hostile crowd that were peering over the troops that guarded the walls of the jail were silenced, Ed Harris, a negro was dropped through the trap of the gallows early today. He had paid for his murdering a white man, his two children and the attack on the man's wife.

At the time of the trial of the negro, the city of Lexington was put under martial law, and troops heavily armed. While every highway into the city was guarded by machine gun units, and the courthouse and jail guarded to prevent a lynching.

13 SPIES FACE FIRING SQUAD OF SOVIETS

MOSCOW, Russia, March 5.—Thirteen alleged spies were shot, according to a dispatch from Leningrad. The men were convicted of the charge of espionage in behalf of Estonia, and of plotting terrorism in Leningrad. All were Russians.

CHILD FALLS FROM PLOW; LEG BROKEN

RISING STAR, March 5.—The 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Swift, who live near Rising Star, fell from a plow on which he was riding Thursday and suffered a broken thigh. One wheel of the plow passed over the child's leg. He is reported doing nicely.

CISCO NEGRO HELD IN JAIL, POSSESSING

Charlie Culberson, a Cisco negro, is being held in the county jail on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquors, following his arrest in Cisco Thursday by Deputy Sheriff Virgil Foster of Eastland.

Twelve quarts of whisky was obtained by the officers when they raided Culberson's home in Cisco and this was brought to Eastland for evidence before the grand jury which is now in session.

FEDERAL JUDGE DECIDES WOMAN CAN VISIT HERE

Habeas Corpus Writ Is Sustained; Ends Long Bitter Fight

NEW YORK, March 5.—Vera, countess of Cathcart, today was permitted unconditional freedom in this country, and entitled to all the privileges of a visiting alien, Federal Judge Bondy decided, when he sustained the writ of habeas corpus secured by her attorneys, when the countess was about to be expelled from the United States on the ground that she had admitted being guilty of moral turpitude.

The woman had been denied admission by the immigration commissioner on Ellis island, and the case appealed to the Commissioner of Labor Davis, who sustained the findings of the immigration commissioner. The case then was appealed to the federal courts.

Some several weeks ago, Lord Cravens, with whom she is supposed to have violated the moral law, skipped out of the country into Canada after charges had been filed against him.

Countess Cathcart had come to America to close a contract with a theatrical syndicate to appear on the stage and to sell some plays that she had written and which will be produced in this country. The case has caused considerable comment in the press of the nation, pro and con.

JOHNSON MURDER TRIAL SET

The case of C. A. Johnson, charged with murder in connection with the killing of John Harris at Pioneer some weeks ago, has been set for trial in Judge Elzo Been's court for Thursday, March 18 at 9 o'clock a. m. A special venire of 100 men has been drawn from which to select a jury to try the case.

Johnson was arraigned this morning and entered a plea of not guilty. He also filed an application for a writ of habeas corpus to make bond.

Hearing on the writ will come up Saturday morning before Judge Been. Johnson, appears to be about 60 years of age, told the court that he did not have an attorney to represent him; that his father came to see him a short while ago and was endeavoring to make arrangements with an Eastland lawyer to defend him, but that he took sick and died and that since then his brothers had taken the matter up, but had made no trade with the lawyer.

In reply to Johnson's statement that he had no attorney Judge Been said, "I'll appoint an attorney to represent you in this, the setting of the case, and should you not make a trade with other attorneys to represent you those appointed by the court will represent you in the trial of the case." Johnson replied, "Hate for this to have to be done." Judge Been appointed Judge Tom J. Cunningham and Judge R. N. Grisham to represent Johnson.

Other murder cases set for trial in Eastland this month are the Toro Ray case, which is set for Monday, March 8, and the R. H. Harrison case, which is set for Thursday, March 11. The Cleve Barnes case is set for Monday, March 15 and the Earl Hart case is set for Monday, March 22. Hart is to be tried for manslaughter, the verdict of a jury in a former trial of the case having reduced the offense from murder to that of manslaughter.

DAVIDSON TO OPEN HIS OFFICE SOON

DALLAS, March 5.—Lynch Davidson, candidate for governor, will open his state headquarters here about March 20, according to Campaign Manager A. A. Allison today.

Attorney General Moody, still here, maintained his customary official silence in regard to political matters. He refused to discuss them with anyone.

They Represent Kentucky

Two of Kentucky's most beautiful girls will represent that state at the Stone Mountain Memorial Ball in Atlanta, Ga., March 17. Each is a descendant of a Confederate veteran and each has worked to make the great memorial project a success. The large photo shows Miss Lela Mae Stiles of Elizabethtown and the inset shows Miss Gloria Bradley of Stearns.

12 BIDS OPENED FOR REPAIR OF ROAD PROJECTS

Prices Varied From 12 Cents to One Dollar Per Square Yard

AUSTIN, March 5.—Disregarding Attorney General Moody's veiled threat of litigation, the State Highway Commission today publicly opened the bids on the various highway projects, that of construction maintenance and resurfacing. Awards of contracts will not be made until Monday, however.

Moody, yesterday in a letter to Hal Moseley, chairman of the commission, declared that specifications as advertised were the same as those in the contracts of American Road Company and the Hoffman Construction Company, which have been adjudged unreasonable in a court of competent jurisdiction.

Twelve bids were. The bids ranged in price from 12 cents a square yard for bituminous asphalt for resurfacing to $1 a square yard for rock asphalt. The price paid the American Road Company was 20 cents a square yard.

The outcome of the controversy will be closely watched. Just what the head of the attorney general will take is not known, but it is rumored around the capitol that, probably, some court action will be taken to stop the work should the contracts be awarded. To some, it looks like a poker game with Moseley calling the hand of the attorney general for interfering in the affairs of the commission now.

FIRE SWEEPS MINEOLA, LOSS HEAVY

MINEOLA, March 5.—Fire breaking out at midnight destroyed the Mineola State Bank building, the C. C. Wood dry goods store and the W. D. Williams & Co. grocery store. The damage was estimated at $150,000. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained. The Moore dry goods store also was badly damaged.

The fire was brought under control at 1:30 this morning after a fire truck from Tyler arrived and assisted the department in extinguishing the blaze.

FORT WORTH, March 5.—With the completion of the Pioneer Chicago-Dallas air mail flight in sight, the two pilot planes landed here at 12:30 and 12:45 this afternoon. They expect to proceed to Dallas, thereby completing the trip. They will hop off this afternoon.

Must Catch Pig To Get Skin To Graft On Peter

SAN ANTONIO, March 5.—The escape of a pig from his pen has caused continuous suffering for little Peter Leavell, 6 years old, who lies in a hospital with part of his skin burned from his body. Surgeons were to perform an operation today of grafting skin from a pig on to Peter.

The animal had been selected for its age and healthfulness and placed in a pen to bring it to the stage of physical fitness for the operation. The operation will be delayed until the pig is recaptured or another put through the process of making it fit to have the skin grafted on Peter.

Peter was severely burned in a gasoline explosion on Feb. 8.

LEAPS FROM PLANE AFIRE, PARACHUTE

MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., March 5.—Capt. Frank Hunter, in charge of operations at Selfridge Flying Field near here, successfully leaped in a parachute from a burning plane 500 feet over Lake St. Clair today and landed on the ice with minor burns and bruises. His plane was wrecked when it crashed.

Muscel Shoals Resolution Vote Up Next Monday

WASHINGTON, March 5.—Unanimous agreement was reached by consent in the senate today to vote on the Goodloe Muscel Shoals resolution next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The resolutions authorize a special congressional committee to negotiate a lease on the project.

FAMILY GONE, ALL VICTIMS OF LAKE ERIE

LEAMINGTON, Ont., March 5.—A deserted farmhouse here with a modest amount of stock in the barn, today, furnished mute evidence of the disappearance of James Phipps, his wife and their three children, believed to have plunged to their death in Lake Erie during an auto trip from Pelee Island last Monday.

Phipps banded his young family into a small sedan five days ago and made an 1,800 mile trip over the ice to the island, where he visited relatives. On the same day, according to word his brother brought yesterday, the family struck off on their return trip. Nothing has been heard from them since. The general belief is that the sedan either plunged through the ice or became stalled resulting in the death of Phipps, his wife, their three children, two young boys and a girl.

BOOST THE BETTER FARMING PROGRAM.

Too much cannot be said or written about the value of the "better farming" program that has been inaugurated in this county. It must be put over. More feed and more food must be raised. More hogs and more hominy are needed. It is said that Eastland county spends approximately $1,000,000 a year for imported pork products that she could raise at home. Better farming means more hogs.

CAREFUL DRIVING PREVENTS ACCIDENTS.

Slippery roads and streets are not conducive to fast riding. More than 75 per cent of the auto accidents are due to carelessness and fast driving under all conditions. Wanting to pass the man on the road who is careful in driving his car usually causes some one to get turned over in a ditch and some necks, limbs or ribs to be broken. Often failing to stop at a railroad crossing and looking up and down the line causes accidents that could be averted. If you are close enough to read the license plate on the rear of a car, you are most too close for safety. Folks who are hurt in accidents usually contribute more than 50 per cent of the cause of the mishap. This is peculiarly true of auto accidents. The average autoist ought to remember that hurry makes worry, and haste makes waste. The highways are slippery now, so let's be careful and not speed. You may get there in plenty of time by not speeding, whereas, if you speeded you might not get there at all. It's always better to be safe than sorry.
 Safety does not mean that you should drive recklessly in town or on the state highways. Just here we want to mention that the drivers of the West Texas coaches are careful drivers and make the time without in-fracting speed laws. It might be a good idea for some auto drivers we have seen cutting corners around town, that those who will not heed must be made to feel. And accidents are caused by not heeding.

KEEP UP YOUR CHICKENS.

Beautiful flowers growing in the front yard of a home and vegetables in the rear of the premises are civic attractions. Considerable interest has been manifested this spring in the development of these civic assets.
 This paper has fostered the planting of vegetable gardens and trees and flowers. They can't be made to produce either beauty or food if chickens are allowed to run at large. Old Lady Arabella Hen and Baby Biddy are sworn enemies to flower gardens and vegetable plots. This paper has ever sponsored the production of poultry. To fix up a poultry yard so that your chickens will not intrude on your neighbor's flower and vegetable gardens will not cost a great deal, and besides keep down animosity. Sometimes chickens allowed to run at large costs heavily. It has been known to cost human life. The man who has chickens in his back lot ought to pause a minute, and repeat the Golden Rule a few times before he allows them to run at large. He can clip their wings and put up chicken fence that will keep them in.
 There is an ordinance against allowing chickens to run at large. The enforcement of that ordinance will help. Sometimes when the officer who has the enforcement of anti-chicken ordinance in charge has to face a tongue lashing. He is often asked, if the fact was not reported by the neighbor who strenuously objects because of his vegetable and flower gardens. If the officer is indiscreet, he may cause trouble. However, the man who has chickens in his back lot should obey the law and keep them up at this season of the year.

 at 2:30 o'clock at the Christian Church. As many members as can be requested to represent Ranger at this meeting.

PERSONALS
 Miss Eleanor Norton was an overnight guest of Miss Sue Dean, Wednesday night, returning to her home in Eastland yesterday.
 Mrs. George Bryant is still ill at her home in Eastland, however, her condition is much improved. Mrs.
 Charles Moore is helping out at the City Hall in Mrs. Bryant's absence.
 Mrs. P. J. O'Donnell who has been in Best for the past few months is home for a while. Mr. O'Donnell is going to spend a few weeks at Hot Springs, Ark., before returning to his oil drilling work at Best.
 Mrs. R. W. Bonner and Mrs. Rom
 O'Daniel left today for Weatherford after almost a week's visit with Mrs.

 R. J. Bates of Eastland. Mrs. Mabel Lewis accompanied them home for a

BLUE BONNETS SUPPLANT HATS
 At a meeting of the 1920 Club yesterday afternoon Texas Blue Bon-nets cleverly made, replaced the hats of the members and made the scene look like a field of real blue bon-nets, for it was a Texas Independence Day program. Roll call was answered with description of Texas beauty spots and so many and varied were they, going from the bay, to the Cap Rock of the Texas Plains, that one felt that they had not yet seen the Lone Star State. Our own local beauty spot, the Thurber Hill came in for its usual amount of appreciation and of course Inspiration Point at Mineral Wells, was not forgotten. Other Eastland county points were mentioned.
 Mrs. M. K. Cole talked on early Texas art, Mrs. M. H. Hagaman on some of the beautiful buildings of Texas, outstanding among these of course being the State capitol, and Mrs. C. E. Maddocks talked of the present day Texas artists and sculptors.
 Mrs. John Thurman, who was a guest of the club, exhibited some of the work of her talented sister, Mrs.
 Margaret Neubauer and told something of her life, her work and her ambitions. Here again the Texas blue bonnet came into its own, for one never thinks of Mrs. Neubauer's work without simultaneously thinking of blue bonnets, for she interprets the spirit of our state flower with a cleav-erness that expresses her love and knowledge of the heaven-hued flowers. However, all the artistic talent in that family evidently does not go to this outstanding Texas artist, for in a contest for drawing the most perfect Texas Flag, Mrs. Thurman excelled and carried home a silk Texas flag as a tribute to her skill.

 After the program there was a brief business session and it was then announced that next year's study would be "American Literature."
 Refreshments of molded fruit salad, topped with whipped cream, and adorned with tiny American flags was served with coffee.

 street. Mrs. Welsh is quite an active club woman, being associated with several clubs in Fort Worth, and the honor guests at several functions prior to her departure for her new home.

Rotary Wheel Gives Preacher Subject of Talk

L. A. Webb, presiding elder of the Cisco district spoke on the Rotary Wheel, at the meeting of the Rotary Club Wednesday noon, while
 Rev. W. H. Johnson of the first Baptist Church Ranger, told the tale of some early Rotarians, way back in the time of Jesus Christ.
 Rev. Mr. Webb said that every member was a cog in the great Wheel of Rotary and that if a member fell down on his job as a Rotarian there were rough cogs in the wheel, which interfered with it functioning. He said any wheel could not run long without being properly oiled, and that human kindness was the oil that kept the wheel of Rotary in good and running condition.

 Rev. Johnson said that he knew those four men who braved all kind of difficulties to carry that sick man to Jesus Christ so that he might be healed were Rotarians. That it took real men to do a deed like that. It was unselfish, nothing of personal gain was to be had out of it. The path was hard, the multitude crowding around so that the only way that they could take this poor sick fellow to Jesus was to let him down through the roof and it took a full fledged Rotarian to conceive this plan and carry it out.

"JUST SUPPOSE"

The most stupendous, colossal and magnificent picture this favorite has ever made. Thrills, love and romance a-plenty.
 The love story of a dashing prince, who knew how to be a sportsman when his country called, "Play the game" and love beckoned from the side-lines.

The story of an ace who trumped a king for a queen—played in hearts.
 When a boy would rather be a peasant in the kingdom of love than emperor of a nation.
 —that's romance.

Baker's Dream To Ride in Rodeo To Come True

No more RHEUMATISM

IT'S GONE! That awful agony! Rheumatism can't stand the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build.

But rheumatism will bring pain and misery to your joints and muscles just as long as you are without plenty of rich, red blood in your system.

It's the red-blood-cells that S. S. S. helps Nature build that drive out of your system the impurities that cause rheumatism. And until you do build up your blood to where it is pure and rich and red, you simply can't get rid of rheumatism.

And S. S. S. is the thing. Red blood conquers rheumatism. Everybody knows that.

S. S. S. means millions of red-blood-cells—means health all over. No more rheumatism. Nights of rest—days of joy, filled with the happiness of accomplishment—made possible by a body brimful of red blooded life, energy and vitality.

That's what the end of rheumatism means—that's what S. S. S. brings to you. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

are hotbeds of bitterness.

Weisbord is a thin, nervous, untiring enthusiast. He wears a cheap suit and a brown flannel shirt entirely out of keeping with his early environment as the son of wealthy parents. Benjamin Gitlow, Forest Bailey and other well known labor organizers and sympathizers come occasionally from New York to consult and advise but Weisbord is complete leader of his forces.

The mill owners say Weisbord is a communist and atheist and introduce photostat copies of an article written by the youth to prove it. He does not deny the charges.

"I don't see how my politics and my religion matter," he said when asked about reports that he was a communist. "The demands asked by the workers are not radical."

These demands are for the retroactive abolition of a recent wage cut and a 10 per cent increase in addition, time and a half for overtime, the 44-hour week, improved working conditions and recognition of a union now in progress of organization. The strike is in its fifth week.

The average pay, according to the strikers, is $18 a week, while the employers put the figure at $20.

Binghamton, N. Y., shoe factory gave its employes $1,153,842 as bonuses. There's money in stockings, too.

Taylor Murder 4 Years Old And Still Unsolved

NEW YORK, March 5.—The solution of the mysterious murder of William Desmond Taylor, motion picture director in Los Angeles, four years ago, is today no nearer solution than ever, according to District Attorney Asa Keyes, of Los Angeles. Keyes, now stopping at the Hotel Belmont here, put to rest rumors that he had come East in connection with a reopening of the investigation of the case when interviewed.

It had been reported that a long sought witness believed to be Edward Sands, valet to Taylor, who disappeared after the murder, had been found. Keyes denied having heard anything of this.

Other rumors had it that Keyes had come to New York to question

Mabel Normand, film actress, who is living here, and who is probably the last person, save the slayer, to see Taylor alive, for additional evidence.

"My coming to New York has nothing to do with Taylor case," Keyes said. "The investigation has not been reopened."

Taylor, who was one of the best known movie directors, was shot to death in his apartment in Los Angeles.

Bailey Predicts Over Supply Of Gas In 2 Years

FORT WORTH, March 5.—There will be an "over supply" of gasoline within two years due to heavy production in foreign and domestic fields and increased efficiency in gasoline engines, according to Edward P. At the closing session of the mid-continent oil men's meeting Thursday taxation and convention business was to be discussed.

Veteran Ring Champion To Retire At 60

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Sports Editor)
NEW YORK, March 5.—"I've left all sports, horse racing, pinocle and poker behind and I'm going to become a business man at the age of 60 and who knows but that I may become another kind of a champion." In these words is the rather tragic story is told of Jack McAuliffe, the retired undefeated lightweight champion and the only survivor of those three immortal Jacks—Sullivan, Dempsey and McAuliffe.
It is also a brief and punchy story of the sharp line that has been drawn between the fighting champions of the old days and the commercial artists who hold the titles today.
McAuliffe fought in the old days when the sheriff followed fighters and when anyone connected with the prize ring was not welcomed in first class social circles.
He fought in the days when a fighter would have to stick up a bank to get $30,000 and when a purse of $500 was a big risk for a promoter.

DETROIT, March 5.—"Drive on, Gilbert," declared Mrs. Elizabeth Goff when her efforts to have her husband arrested for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor failed.

And Mrs. Goff did "fix it"; for one block from the meticulous patrolman, Gilbert was arrested. Later his license was revoked for six months, and he was placed on fifteen months' probation.

Autos Supplant Horse Shows In Southern Wales

By United Press.
LONDON, March 5.—Due to the increasing interest in motoring and the decreasing interest in horses a number of horse show societies in South Wales have decided not to attempt to hold any shows during the present year.
This is an abandonment of a custom that has endured in Wales for hundreds of years. Some of the individual horse show societies have been in constant existence for more than 250 years.

Even though the revenue from the ring was trivial there were other ways in which a champion could capitalize on his reputation.

Jack McAuliffe at several times was worth a fortune but he went through several of them; as he admits without any kind of a complaint. "The standards of living were different in those days," he said. "Any one who had money had to be and wanted to be a royal good fellow."
Now the veteran champion, the only one who ever retired from the ring without ever having been defeated, is going to work for the Pringle Conduit Company, a New York concern, for a small salary and a commission.

Even though the revenue from the ring was trivial there were other ways in which a champion could capitalize on his reputation.

Considering the hardships of his youth and the wear and tear that he went through in the old bare-knuckle days, Jack has retained his youth almost remarkably. He hasn't a blemish on him as a trade mark of his early profession and in appearance, even when things were not going so well, he could have been taken for a successful middle-aged business man.
Endowed with a rare Celtic wit and a genial disposition that has always kept his face in a smile, McAuliffe has made friends all over the United States.
He was too old to go when war came but he gave up a profitable booking on the vaudeville stage and went to France with the A. E. F. as a K. of C. secretary.
He has no college degrees but he has educated himself in the school of hard knocks and he has not only the personality but the mental qualifications of a successful salesman.
He gave away fortunes but he never asked for sympathy when they were gone and anyone who tried to patronize him now would risk a tap on the chin from a fist that still has a lot of drive in it.
He deserves to be a success in anything that he attempts and he has countless friends who believe that he can become a champion business man.

The YELLOW STUB

by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Henry Rand, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket.

Janet Rand, his daughter breaks her engagement with Barry Colvin because of the "disgrace." Jimmy Rand, his son, goes to Waterton, where the theater is. The stub is traced to Thomas Fogarty, a political boss, who says he gave it to Olga Waynard, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with Mary Lowell. Later he encounters Olga. She faints at hearing police want her for murder. Mary, out with Samuel Church, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Waterton and later is attacked by two men but escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Jimmy accuses her of marrying for money.

Jimmy and Olga, out one night, see a man they both recognize as the man who got the stub, he as one of his assailants. The man escapes. They identify him by his police picture as the Jensen.

Church, motoring with Mary, runs over a dog. His heartlessness breeds hatred in her and she breaks their engagement.

Lieutenant O'Day, a police friend of Jimmy's, invites the latter to his house. There he tells him that he knew Henry Rand as a boy in the town of Durbin, N. Y. Henry Rand, he said, had had a boyhood love affair which resulted in hiselopment with a girl named Marie Real.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXXI

"Yes," repeated O'Day, "there was hell to pay when Harry and Marie came back." He fell silent, chewing on the end of his cigar.

"Go on," Jimmy had turned quite pale. He lit another cigar, and puffed at it nervously.

"The whole town was up in the air," resumed O'Day. "I can still see them now, the way everybody oozed about the affair and hung around to see what had happened. They were mighty curious to know whether the kids had got married. Whether they had or hadn't, it was something to talk about."

"And had they?"

"Of course not. They had tried to. Marie could lie about her age and get away with it, but Harry Rand looked too much like the kid he was."

"They held the kids for a while at the town lockup, waitin' for their parents to come after them. When Thaddeus Rand and old Angelo Real got there, Angelo listens for a minute to their story and then he turns to Thaddeus and demands that Harry marry Marie."

"My girl will have a bad name," he says. "There's nothing else to do."

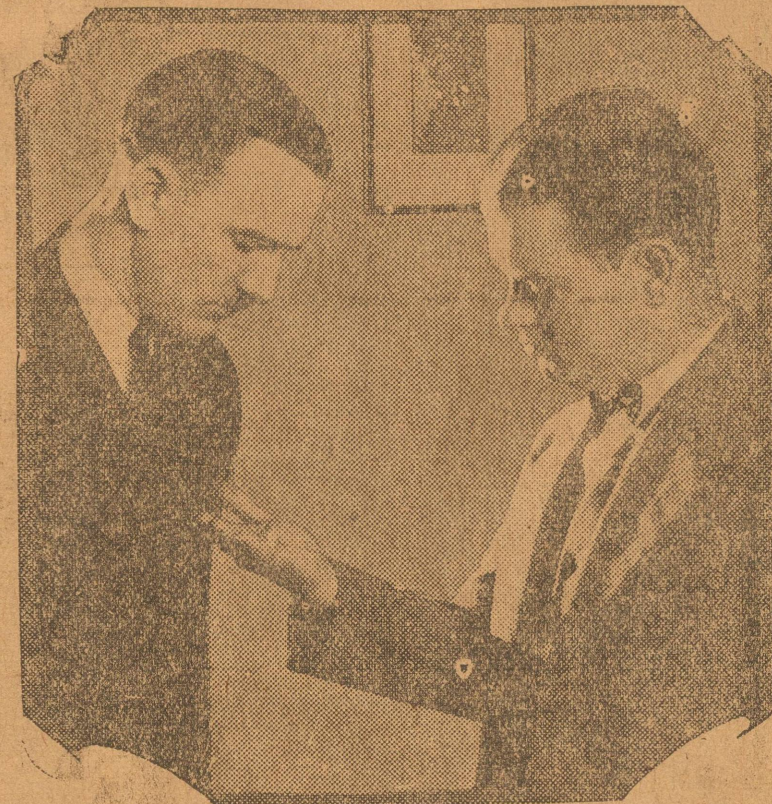

"Thaddeus Rand doesn't say a word. He just looks at Angelo, his face white as a sheet. Finally he says, 'I thought that's what you were after,' an' turns to Harry. 'You come home with me,' he says."

"Neither of 'em—Thaddeus or Angelo—understood. The kids hadn't done anything wrong. They were just nuts about each other, so they made up their minds to defy their parents an' get married. They couldn't, an' that's all there was to it."

"But all Angelo could think of was that his daughter had run away with this boy an' they'd been gone for a day an' a half. So in his ignorant way he thought the only way to save his daughter from bein' the laughin' stock of the town was for her to marry Harry Rand."

"An' Thaddeus—he thought it was just a scheme of old Angelo's to marry into the Rand family. That was proud old Thaddeus all over."

"He marches Harry home to the drug store, still silent, an' when he gets him there, he goes over an' picks up a shiny stick

In his outstretched hand Barry Colvin held a ring

—he used to sell 'em—an' he says to Harry, 'I told you not to have anything to do with this girl.'

"Harry doesn't say a word. He just stands there. Then Thaddeus says, 'What happened?'

"'Nothin', says Harry. 'You're lyin', says Thaddeus. 'What happened?'

"'Nothin', says Harry, an' my brother, who saw it all from a corner of the drug store where he was hidin', says he looked the old man right in the eye. 'Real proud, you understand.'

"Well, Thaddeus stood there for a while, firin' questions at your father, an' then he accused him of bein' a disgrace to the name of Rand. He went crazy mad, because Harry wouldn't say he was sorry of anything, an' he swung that shiny stick, he was holdin' an' gave Harry the most unmerciful beatin' a boy ever had."

"Harry just stood there lookin' at him. He didn't say a word, an' he didn't try to get out of the way. He just stood there an' took it."

"God!" Jimmy breathed.

"It was terrible, Rand. Finally Harry just fell to the floor, an' my brother, sick at the stomach at the awful sight, ran out an' grabbed the stick out of Thaddeus Rand's hand. Thaddeus takes a look at your father lyin' there on the floor an' he says to him, 'Get out of my house an' don't come back.' Then he walks out of the back of the store."

"My brother had to pick Harry up. He had fainted. An' for several days after that he couldn't walk. The blow that had knocked him to the floor was a crack on the knee that was terrible. It was enough to cripple him for life."

"I know," said Jimmy. "My father's left leg was stiff. He limped when he walked. But he never did tell us how he got it."

"Well, it must have been that awful beatin'. My brother took him home to our house, where we had the doctor for him. He was with us for four days, with never a word from his father. Then he left town, after thankin' my mother, an' not a one of us ever saw him again."

"O'Day coughed heavily. "It was a rotten shame," he growled. "But nobody could blame Harry. The lad had spirit. He couldn't go back after what Thaddeus had said. The old man simply didn't understand."

"And Angelo Real? What did he do?"

"Oh, Angelo was all right. He had one of these hot tempers that flared up quick an' died down just as sudden. He forgave Marie right away. He even went around to tell Thaddeus that he didn't mean what he had said about the kid's marryin'."

"And my grandfather—what became of him?"

"Well, now comes the strange part of the story. I think at last we came to realize what he had done an' he was sorry for it, although he'd never admit it to a soul."

"The whole town turned against him. You see everybody was in sympathy with the son. He hung around his store, pale an' silent. Every body knew he was waitin' for Harry to come back, or maybe for a letter from him. But none ever came to the postoffice. The postmaster had his eyes open—you can be sure of that."

Thaddeus must have remained in Durbin for another six months. Finally it got too much for him. He could feel the town's hostility on every side of him. People refused to come to his store. They wouldn't speak to him when they saw him on the street. If you've ever lived in a small town, Rand you'll know what a terrible thing it is to be boycotted like that."

"Finally he found a man who was willing to buy his drug store. He opened up a little to him an' took the money he had been—what he had learned a great lesson. He said he was convinced that his unreasonin' anger had lost his son to him forever. 'Everybody's against me,' he says, 'an' I don't blame 'em. I'm goin' away where nobody knows me. I'm not fit to bear the name of Rand any more.'

"You see, remorse finally got him. As soon as he had sold his business he left town. But first he went around to call on old Angelo Real."

"I'm sorry," he says to Angelo. "For what I said to you. I hope you'll forgive me."

"So Angelo shook hands with him. Thaddeus Rand left town that night an', just like your father, he dropped completely out of sight, as far as the folks in Durbin were concerned."

"And that's all!" Jimmy's face will still very white.

"That's all, lad. Nobody ever heard a word from either one of them. Your father was proud, too."

"Yes, he was. . . poor dad." Jimmy stood up. "And Marie Real? What became of her?"

"On Marie. You see, old Angelo had ambitions for her to become an opera singer. He spent money on her voice, an' she did have a pretty good one. She graduated from high school an' then she went away to take vocal lessons somewhere. I think she did go on the stage, or become a concert singer or something. Nobody got to know very much about it, because Angelo moved away shortly after she graduated from high school."

Jimmy glanced at his watch. "Good Lord, I didn't know it was so late. It's after eleven. We've been talkin' here for three hours. I'm sorry, keeping you like this."

"Why? You know I'm a night owl myself."

"Well, thank you. You've told me more about my father than I knew myself. I think I can understand why he was always silent about his boyhood days. . . . The recollection of them must have been bitter."

Jimmy stuck out his hand. "Good night, Lieutenant. You've been very kind."

"Good night, lad."

Jimmy stepped out of O'Day's house and into a cold, wind-driven rain. He had only a short time to wait for a street car, which carried him to a stop just two blocks from his rooming house."

Twice on the walk home from the car he stopped nervously and looked back. He could have sworn that he had heard someone following him. He had the same sensation of being watched that he had experienced the night he was attacked on the very corner he was now passing."

He listened, but all he heard was the howling of the wind. The thought of the anonymous warnings he had received again flashed through his mind. There was the last one, especially, that had threatened his life unless he left town within three days. . . .

But as he mounted the steps of the porch he put it all down to his imagination. He went up the stairs to his room. A light was burning; he could see it shining from the crack under the door, and he thought it strange.

He opened the door. There, sitting very comfortably in the easiest chair, his legs draped over the arm, was Barry Colvin.

Jimmy started, then he recognized him. "Barry, you gave me a fright."

Barry laughed. "Your nerves are getting bad, Jim. I've been here all evening. Had a heck of a time persuading your landlady to let me in. Finally had to show her one of your letters. She seemed pretty suspicious."

"What's on your mind, Barry? Why did you come? Anything wrong at home?"

"News from the front, Jim." Then, his tone getting more serious, "there's something that's just come to light. It belonged to your father."

He fumbled in his pocket. "Have you ever seen it before, Jim?"

In his outstretched hand Barry Colvin held a ring.

"SPIRIT OF U. S. A." SHOWS AT LAMB

Your last chance to see, Emory Johnson's great motion picture, "The Spirit of the U. S. A.," released through F. B. O., will be shown at the Lamb Theater today. A.," in addition to being a film which teaches the fine lesson of universal amity through the medium of music and thrilling melodrama, is filled with that honey, homely quality which is best known as "human interest."

The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted

By DOROTHY A. F. MARCELL

Copyright 1925, Warner Bros. Pictures Inc.
 "THE WIFE WHO WASN'T WANTED" with Irene Rich is a picturization of this novel.

SYNOPSIS
 Bledsoe, politician, has confessed to John Manning, district attorney, that the finding of Mrs. Manning in a notorious inn when it was raided was the result of a plot to accomplish his defeat for reelection. The two men are speeding to a suburban town where Mrs. Manning and Diane Bledsoe are, when they see a forest fire ahead and fear for the safety of the wife and the daughter.

CHAPTER XIV—Continued
 Bledsoe got to his feet, bending forward, and a great fear was in his eyes.
 "There is only one forest in that direction. It surrounds my lodge. Diane is there."
 "And Meadville?" said John softly, his face ghastly white.
 "Yes, and Meadville!" cried Bledsoe, and shouted at his chauffeur: "Drive, drive, man, drive as you never drove in your life before!"
 So long and so heavily did Eileen sleep that when she awoke her faculties were befogged for a time. This strange, shabby little room... she was still dreaming? Ah... she remembered now... Bob... John... surely it was all a dream? She must really wake up. Such horrible things were not possible. But those hoarse, excited shouts... that sound like the tramp of running feet on a wooden sidewalk? Was that a woman's scream? What could have happened? And this strange red glare which lighted the room so fitfully, was it day... sunlight?

Diane Bledsoe drew back to cringe against a post.

Bewildered, Eileen sat up on the edge of the bed and coughed, then she rubbed her eyes. How they smarted! This heavy, pungent, resinous odor... pine... smoke? She leaped to her feet and made for the window.
 She gasped. Was this the end of the world? Around the edge of the great hill which overlooked the town a wall of flame, red, yellow, golden, was eating its way through the forest. Above it in a hellish pyrotechnic display sparks leaped up to the skies and great billows of smoke blotted out the stars.
 Her eyes dropped to the street below. Lighted by the lurid glare of the oncoming flames a panic-stricken mass of men, women and children, bearing every conceivable burden of pluming and excited homes, of honking automobiles, was fleeing the awful red horror bearing down upon the town.
 Slowly Eileen turned, but only to hesitate. She remembered everything, all. Why hurry? Why not end it all... here?
 Then came the remembrance of Bob, and her face grew firm. She opened the door and passed out into the hall. The smoke seemed thicker, and she coughed as she groped her way amidst those unfamiliar surroundings. She reached the stairs and descended to find the room below deserted. She moved on and came out on the porch which spanned the building at the front.
 A fiery glare lay over the doomed town, and the crash and roar of the approaching flames could be plainly heard. Heat as from a mighty furnace beat against her cheek. The crowd had thinned, and only a few stragglers were passing. Yet even as Eileen emerged a frightened girl stumbled up the stairs leading to the porch and paused breathless to gaze back at the approaching flames. Hardly heeding the newcomer's presence Eileen was upon the point of passing her when she turned and perceiving Eileen screamed.
 "Diane!" cried Eileen, stepping towards her.
 But, terror-stricken, Diane Bledsoe drew back to cringe against a post.
 "I know—you're come for me! But I intend to give myself up," she cried wildly.
 Startled and amazed, Eileen stared at her.
 "I didn't mean to go so far—I wouldn't have let them send me to prison!" sobbed Diane.
 "Who?" said Eileen, trying to get her arms about the girl and soothe her.
 But Diane wrenched herself away.
 "Bob!" she cried hysterically. "He didn't kill that woman—he wasn't driving the car when she was killed."
 "What do you mean?" demanded Eileen with sudden fierceness.
 "Well—you see, I—I was fooling." sobbed Diane. "And Bob said, 'If you want to drive, drive.' Then he slipped out on the running board, and I—I took the wheel and gave her some gas. Then Bob shouted, 'Look out!' And before I could do anything—it happened."
 "But why didn't Bob say so?" breathed Eileen quickly.
 "Er—he must have been knocked cecukoo and forgot—er—he was just a good sport and wouldn't squeal," concluded Diane weakly.
 Either way she had no reason to be ashamed of her son, and joy leaped up in Eileen's heart, but only to die before a great bitterness as she turned upon the sobbing girl. Her cowardice, her weakness, had wrought all the evil of the last few days. Had Diane but spoken, but told the truth! Ah, the pity of it, the crime of it! In sudden hatred Eileen clenched her fists as if to strike the girl.
 A strange thing happened. Groping blindly in her grief as Diane thrust forth her hand it touched Eileen's arm, touched those muscles tense with enmity towards her. Before such helplessness the sympathy of that mother heart was quick to intervene. Her own wrongs forgotten, Eileen's face softened. With all her faults, Diane was but a child. Now her arm was about the weeping girl.
 "Come," she said gently, and as falling sparks and that ominous roar recalled her to their peril, "we must go."
 "No," protested Diane hysterically. "They will get me in jail."
 "Listen, dear—we can't stay here. All the people have gone—look!" The nervous, staccato of Eileen's voice grew to a cry of fear.
 And well it might, for that oncoming wall of flame, licking at the edge of the town, sending a fiery shower of sparks about them and scorching them with its hot breath, was not all. As if aroused to greater rancour by the scared mortals, feeling its approach as might a bill of disturbed ants, the flame terror had crept swiftly around the heights which overlooked the town. Now bursting forth from below, a new advance sent a blazing host of skirmishers leaping forward to close the line of escape.
 Even as Eileen watched, the swift moving flames formed a veritable arch of fire above the last departing fugitives. She and Diane were alone in a town beleaguered by fire.
 Still she did not despair.
 "Come!" she cried, and then uncertainly: "But where can we go?"
 "The river!" cried Diane, started from her apathy and pointing to the left.
 They rushed away in the direction she had indicated. At the edge of the town the encompassing flames were upon them.
 "I can't—I can't!" screamed Diane as a blast of withering heat beat down upon them.
 "You must!" shouted Eileen. And seizing the girl's arm she literally dragged her forward to plunge blindly into a veritable inferno of smoke and heat and of singing flame.
 Stumbling, coughing, choking, gasping for the very breath of life, they struggled on for what seemed an eternity.

Women Are Spared Much Suffering And Expense By G. F. P.

Women Are Saved From Operations—G. F. P. Relieves Quickly Where Other Methods Which Promise Relief Fail.

The popularity of St. Joseph's G. F. P. here and throughout the country seems to know no bounds because of the remarkable success it is having in relieving the pain of the dreaded disease—Gonorrhea—which has been proven to be the direct cause of most of women's ailments.

"I am not surprised at the rapid growth in popularity of G. F. P. in this territory," says the representative of the discoverers of this medicine, "because it has been received literally with open arms by thousands of girls and women wherever it has been introduced."
 "I attribute this popularity to the quick way in which it acts on those women who are using it," she continued, "because when they see the amazing way in which it restores their vitality and strength and the speed with which it enables them to pick up their weight, nothing can keep them from purchasing it and telling their friends about this wonderful medicine."
 Judging from the many statements being made publicly here endorsing G. F. P. it is felt that hundreds of dollars are being saved by the women who are taking St. Joseph's G. F. P. Many cases are known where suggested operations have been found unnecessary and continued bills for medical services have been entirely done away with by the timely use of this wonderful medicine, which seems to invariably succeed in restoring health and vitality to those women who are using it consistently.

Women Now Depend on St. Joseph's G. F. P. To Restore Their Vitality

American art would be better if there were more pomp and ceremony in government, according to Frank O. Santisbury, English painter, who is visiting in this country. The lack of color and dignity in official circles creates a corresponding lack in material for artists, he believes. This picture shows President Coolidge as he would appear in the state robes of the King of England.

GALVESTON IS FAVORED BY OIL MEN

By United Press.
 DALLAS, March 5.—Oil men testified today in the interstate commerce commission differential freight rate hearing between New Orleans and Galveston, that Texas gulf ports had a natural advantage over New Orleans, which shippers and ports ought to be permitted to enjoy, and which has not been denied any other section except the southwest.

The witnesses agreed that Galveston rate should be reduced four cents per hundred pounds. Under the present rating it was brought out that the Shreveport refineries can undercut all others except those on the coast.

'Broken Out' Faces Are Not In Style

The girls who can't wear clothes which are in style because they have eczema, rash, tetter, scrofula or a "breaking out" where it would show are more to be scolded than pitied, because there is no need for them to be unattractive in out-of-style dresses when they can get rid of these skin troubles so easily now.

Black and White Ointment, and Soap, are surprising thousands of girls who have had to deny themselves the attention which more attractive girls get, because they quickly remove all trace of these skin troubles.

They are economically priced, in liberal packages. The 50c size Ointment contains three times as much as the 25c size. All dealers have both the Ointment and the Soap.—Adv.

Hungarian Film Producers Plan War on America

By United Press.
 BUDAPEST, March 3.—Hungarian film producers have issued invitations to producers throughout Europe to meet in Budapest for a conference on ways and means to break the semi-monopoly enjoyed by American films in Europe.

In Hungary as well as in most other European countries local producers are finding it next to impossible to meet the keen competition of the American film industry. Half-bankrupt producers, jobless actors, and idle scenery builders are increasingly disturbed by the increasing number of American films shown in their theaters.

The Budapest conference is looked forward to with great interest by laymen as well as by persons interested directly in the trade.

Communism Destroys Idol Worship in China

SHANGHAI, March 5.—Gods before whom millions of Chinese have knelt and idols which have had the reverence of generations are being ruthlessly torn from their temple altars in many sections of the province of Kuangsi, South China, according to reports received here.

Some of the idols were thrown into creeks and rivers, others were decapitated, and still others were stripped of their robes and left out in the streets to shift for themselves.

In some of the smaller towns, however, the gods were more kindly treated. Hearing of the orders for their destruction, their devotees hastily hid them in mountain caves.

The temples which housed the now deposed lords of the upper and neither regions are being used for other purposes. Most of them have been converted into market places, and in one town a temple which formerly housed a realistic model of hell now houses a market where second-hand clothes, old iron and junk are bartered.

Missionary informants attribute this fall of the gods to the rapidly growing influence of the "Reds" in South China.

U. S. PRISON POPULATION ON INCREASE

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, March 5.—Criminal convictions under Federal statutes have increased 350 per cent in the last twelve years, causing an overcrowding of Federal penitentiaries far beyond their normal capacity.

Encouragement for Weak, Rundown, Nervous Women

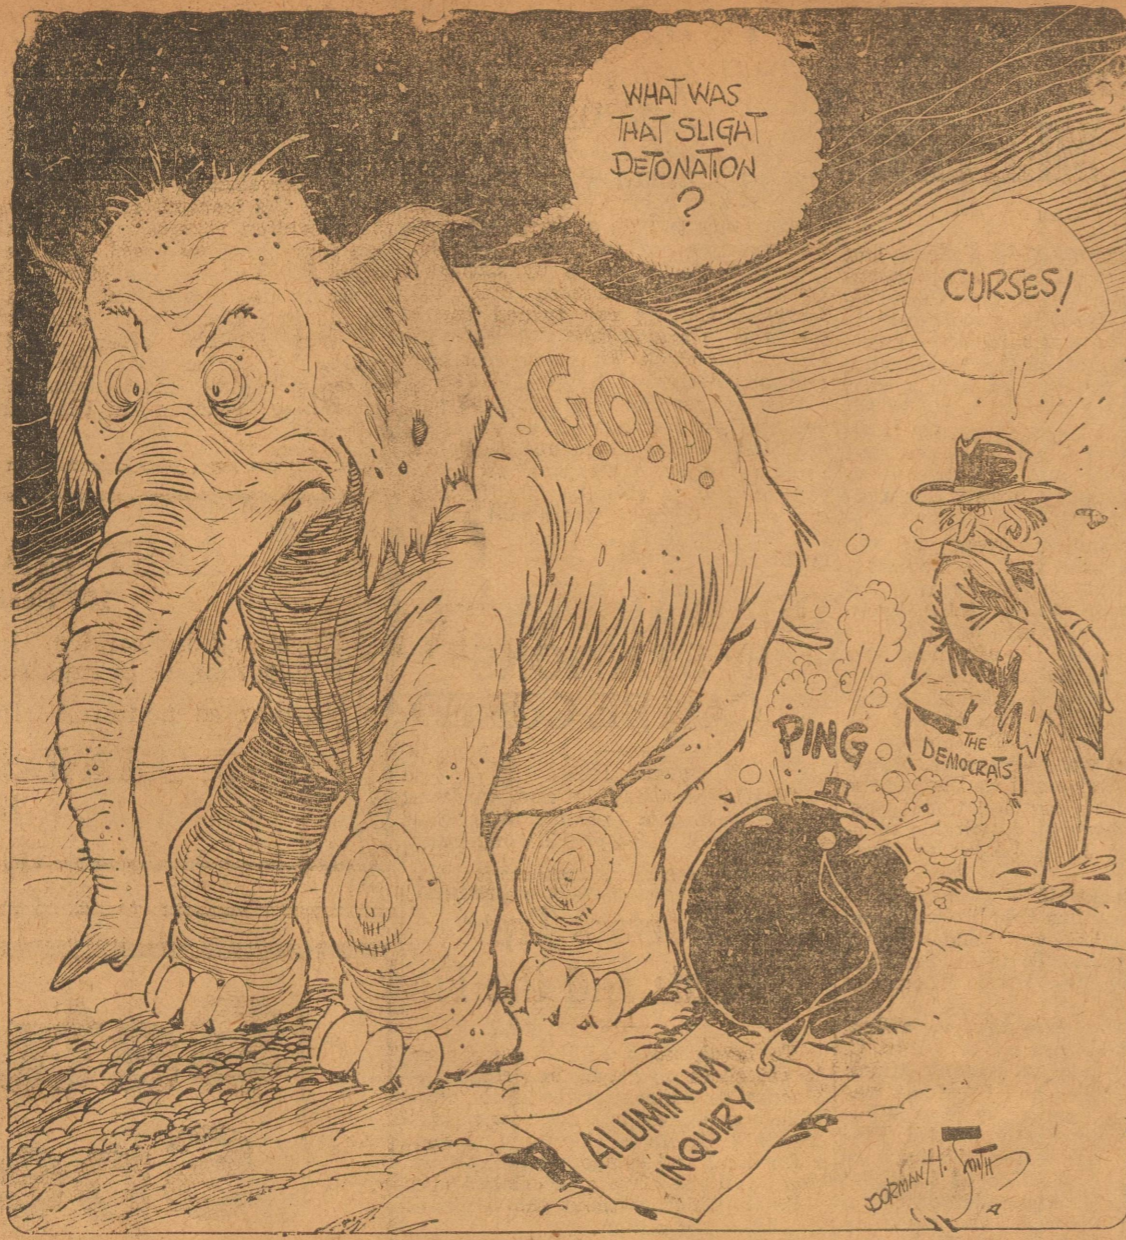

Dallas, Texas.—"I have never found a remedy for feminine trouble as good as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, nor anything to build up my general health like Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I was rundown in health, weak and nervous, I took two bottles each of these remedies and was completely cured."—Mrs. R. Tyson, 2112 Gould St.

Obtain these remedies of Dr. Pierce's now from your nearest dealer. You will soon feel their beneficial effect. Write Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

Something Went Wrong With the Fuse

Penitentiaries at Atlanta, McNeill Island and Leavenworth, house about 7,000 Federal prisoners now with 2,000 other Government convicts housed in State penal institutions, Justice Department officials said today.

now returning hundreds of convictions a week and it is expected the federal prison population will increase to more than 8,000 before July 1. Should the number increase above 8,000, the Government will have no place to house its prisoners, L. C. White, superintendent of prisons said.

State officials caring for Federal prisoners have complained to Attorney General Sargent against the practice and the Government must soon provide other accommodations for the convicts distributed in state jails. Prohibition, officials admitted, is partially responsible for the overcrowded conditions. Seventeen per cent of all Federal convicts have been convicted of violating the Volstead Act.

BILIOUS ATTACKS

From Which Kentucky Man Suffered Two or Three Times a Month, Relieved by Black-Draught.

Lawrenceburg, Ky.—Mr. J. P. Nevin, a local coal dealer and farmer, about two years ago learned of the value of Theodor's Black-Draught liver medicine, and now he says:

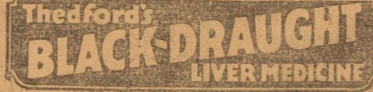

"Until then I suffered with severe bilious attacks that came on two or three times each month. I would get nauseated, I would have dizziness and couldn't work."

"I would take pills until I was worn-out with them. I didn't seem to get relief. After taking the pills my bowels would act a couple or three times, then I would be very constipated."

"A neighbor told me of Black-Draught and I began its use. I never have found so much relief as it gave me. I would not be without it for anything."

"It seemed to cleanse my whole system and make me feel like new. I would take a few doses—get rid of the bile and have my usual clear head, feel full of 'pep' and could do twice the work."
