William Green Says Reductions In Wages Are 'Indefensible'

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25. (UP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor vigorously protested against the "indefensible action" of the steel industry in reducing wages.

In a lengthy statement, Green proposed that tariff protection be withdrawn from the United States Steel Corporation and other corporations which have announced reductions.

Green denounced the cuts as "morally wrong and economically unsound," and said "no greater blow than this has yet been struck against the forces which have been and now are serving to bring about a return to prosperity."

Violated a solemn promise made to President Hoover and the American people at the November, 1929, White House conference, Green declared.

He estimated the wage cut "means that the employees of U. S. Steel will have $25,000,000 less to spend."

"Can reasonable-minded people believe that a return to prosperity will be accelerated through a reduction of the buying power of one section of the masses of the people amounting to $25,000,000?" Green demanded.

He said U. S. Steel should have shared profits with its employees when it declared a 40 per cent stock dividend in June 1927.

Governor Threatens Martial Law To Stop Bull Fight In Socorro

SANTA FE, N. M., Sept. 25. (UP)—Martial law in New Mexico threatened unless Socorro abandons its plans for a bull fight.

Gov. Arthur Seligman prepared to mobilize the New Mexico National Guard to place the town of Socorro under military rule.

The occasion for the bull fight is a fiesta scheduled for next week.

Promoters of the event issued placards announcing a bull fight, but their request for a permit for the fight was denied by Gov. Seligman.

Despite the denial, plans for the fight went ahead. Small advertising folders received here pictured a bull fighter making a pass at a bull with a red cloud. Typed on the folder was the statement "The Law is out of town."

Wild Scenes Enacted At Legion Convention As Veterans Approve Prohibition Referendum Plans

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 25. (UP)—The American Legion is on record as favoring either repeal or modification of the 18th amendment.

More than the necessary 798 votes — to carry the resolution against prohibition — were totaled with the voting still in progress.

Most of the opposition to the resolution appeared from the southern delegates and those from the middle western agricultural belt.

Kansas, Arkansas, Mississippi, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Tennessee, Utah and Wyoming cast solid state votes against the resolution.

The "wet" element got its strength from all sections of the country. Twenty-one delegates split the votes to cast for and part against the measure.

The "dry" votes were greeted with boos and cat calls from the packed galleries, while every vote against prohibition received a cheer. A Texas delegate, who arose and demanded a poll of his delegation after the state voted unanimously against the measure, received a big hand.

In a lull after the voting L. K. Robb arose and invited the legion of Australia "for a good wet time." That was a signal for more cheering and applause.

Efforts to introduce a minority report were drowned out by the shouts of "wet" delegates who demanded an immediate vote.

Even speakers favoring the resolution found greatest difficulty in addressing the convention. Constant heckling, shouting, cheers and boos filled the air as both sides gave vent to the high feeling running through the convention.

Cheers
 Prolonged cheering followed reading of the prohibition resolution.

After nearly a minute of applause and shouting, Massachusetts officially seconded the resolution to bring prohibition to a national vote.

A western delegate shouted that he rose to a point of order. "This is a political question and out of order," he said.

Cries of "sit down, sit down," drowned his last words.

Commander O'Neil ruled the question in order.

Lloyd Kain, Lexington, Nebr., introduced the minority report of the resolutions committee but was lost

W. G. Bailey, Jr., Is Recovering Splendidly From His Severe Burns

W. G. Bailey, Jr., has so far recovered from his seriously burned condition that he has been able to sit up for the past week and to take a few steps, supported by some one.

He plans to return to the Bivings and Barcus Hospital Saturday to have some skin grafted on his arm and elbow. Aside from his right arm which received the worst burn, his body is completely healed. But for almost 47 days he has been forced to lie on his back; during that time his back healed with no complications whatever. He does not yet have any use of his right arm but he is hoping that after the grafting operation that will be all right, says his father.

Recent Bride Honoree At Nice Shower

Mrs. J. C. Lang Hostess
Complimenting Mrs.
Geo. W. Hill

Mrs. J. C. Lane entertained at her home yesterday afternoon with a surprise bridal shower honoring her sister, Mrs. Geo. W. Hill, a recent bride. The house was trimmed with flowers from the hostess's garden.

Bride-and-groom games were the diversion of the afternoon. Mrs. Jimmie Mason was awarded first prize and Mrs. H. E. Meador, second. Miss Pauline Schubert had charge of the games. Miss Alma Rueckart presided over the register for the guests.

The shower was cleverly announced by two alarm clocks, one of them in the cedar chest filled with the gifts, in which the honoree was seated. The alarm sounded by the clock was the signal for her to investigate and discover the presents.

A plate luncheon was served at the close of the afternoon with gaily little brides and bags of rice for plate favors. The dining table was centered with a lovely wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom and banked with pink verbenas which carried out the pink and green color scheme of the party.

The guests who, in addition to the honoree, enjoyed this sociable occasion were Meses. G. M. Hill, mother of the groom, Harm Glover, L. A. Griffith, N. R. Smith, R. J. Barton, Evelyn Edwards, Jesse F. Hall, H. L. Mason, A. D. Meador, H. E. Meador, F. G. Scholte, W. B. Rose, John Price, Jimmie Mason, J. F. Skalicky, Ruth Weeg, J. F. Ory, Mimes Lillian and Pauline Schubert, Alma Rueckart, Katherine Meador, Billie Sikes.

The following sent gifts but could not attend the party: The employees of the Southern Ice and Utilities Co., where the groom is employed; Meses. T. S. Currie, B. Reagan, D. C. Maupin, E. L. Barrett, Blanche Richardson, Timmie Hill, E. G. Smith, J. P. Hawk, R. Schubert, J. P. Meador, Jimmie Eason, Joe Hill, Tom Slaughter, Wm. Fahrkamp, Lisa Davis, Plainview, D. D. Cake and Pie Contest To Feature Friday Session of Cooking School

The skill of Big Spring and Howard County women in the culinary arts will be displayed next Friday afternoon at the Herald's Free Cooking School.

A cake and pie baking contest under the direction of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen will be held as a part of the Friday lecture. The O'Feat West Mill & Elevator Co. of Amarillo, manufacturers of Amarillo Flour, is sponsoring the contest.

Twenty dollars in cash and one hundred and eighty-eight pounds of flour will be given as prizes in the two contests for which entries in both the cake class and for the pie group to be in the ballroom at 11 o'clock Friday morning. The prizes will be distributed in this manner: Cake Contest: first prize, $10; second prize, $5; third prize, 48-lb. sack of flour; fourth prize, 24-lb. sack of flour; fifth prize, 12-lb. sack of flour; Pie Contest: first prize, $5; second prize, 48-lb. sack of flour; third prize, 24-lb. sack of flour; fourth prize, 12-lb. sack of flour.

Judging in both classes will be done by Mrs. Dougan, lecturer at the school. All cakes and pies entered in the contest whether or not they win prizes are to be sold by the Ladies' Auxiliary to the B. of R. T., sponsoring organization, and the proceeds used for expenses of their convention which will be held in Big Spring in October. The committee of the women's organization in charge of the affair is composed of: Mrs. N. R. Smith, Mrs. E. N. Ralph, Mrs. S. M. Stinson, Mrs. F. S. Stinson, Mrs. F. G. Powell, Mrs. C. A. Schull.

Cakes and pies remaining after the sale at the end of the lecture will be sold at a special window sale the organization will hold at the Handy-Andy store on the Saturday following the contest.

The only requirement of the contest is that Amariyllis Flour must be used in the baking of all pies and cakes entered in the contest. Any type of cake or pie may be entered but they must be brought to the ballroom of the Settles Hotel by eleven of the morning of the contest. Mrs. Dougan will announce further details of the contest during her other lectures of the school.

The B. of R. T. Auxiliary has been working for many months for funds to use during their convention when they will entertain nearly one thousand delegates from all over the state at the annual meeting here. Funds secured from the pie and cake sale will go to their convention fund and will be their only return for their efforts in directing the contest.

INGENIOUS PROCESS STOPS VARIATION IN FLAVOR OF COFFEE

Wonderful Flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee Is the Same in Every Pound

Many people have wished for a coffee that didn't vary in flavor. Hills Bros. Coffee is such a coffee. It is roasted by the patented, Controlled Roasting process that absolutely prevents variation!

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the exquisite, unvarying flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time.

Controlled Roasting is different from the ordinary method of roasting several hundred pounds at once. The results—as a cup of Hills Bros. Coffee shows—are very different. There is a refreshing smoothness that no other coffee has, because no other is roasted the same way. And remember, this marvelous flavor never varies!

Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans. Air, which makes coffee go stale, is removed and kept out of these cans. Even ordinary, "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. But Hills Bros. Coffee can't go stale! Order some today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab-trade-mark on the can.

P-T-A President To Address Mothers Of School Children

MRS SIDNEY T. GILMORE

Mrs. Sidney T. Gilmore, president of the Sixth District P-T-A, will be in town tomorrow and will speak to the members of the various city and county P-T-A's, members of the school board, teachers, and everyone else interested in the welfare of the school children, at the Settles Hotel ballroom at 1:30. The mass meeting is open to all parents, regardless of their affiliation with the P-T-A.

This is the first official visit of the district president in a year or more. She is an experienced hand in P-T-A work and will answer any question anyone wants to ask about the relationship of the child and the school. She prefers answering questions, says Mrs. Bernard Fisher, who is a district committee member, to making addresses, and if the teachers and parents desire, the meeting will be turned into a forum.

Officials of the P-T-A. Council especially request, urges Mrs. Chas. Koberg, Council president, that every P-T-A. in the county have a good representation to welcome Mrs. Gilmore and Mrs. Head.

Rescuing Bread Pudding

How often you have heard the peevish words: "Oh, I hate that old bread pudding!" Here are two ways to rescue bread puddings from such condemnation and make it not a penalty but a delight:

Hawaiian Bread Pudding: Scald two cups milk, add one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, and pour over two cups stale bread (pieces not crumbs), letting it stand until soft. Add two beaten eggs, and pour into a large shallow baking dish. Lay the drained slices from a No. 2½ can of Hawaiian pineapple over the top, and bake in a slow oven, 250 degrees, for from forty-five minutes to an hour. This serves eight very liberally. Serve with the following:

Sauce: Smooth together one-half tablespoon cornstarch, one-third cup sugar and one-fourth cup cold water. Heat the syrup from the pineapple, add, and cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Add two tablespoons lemon juice and a few grains of nutmeg.

Try Whole Wheat Pineapple Pudding. Toast four slices of whole wheat bread, butter and cut into small squares. Place in bottom of a baking dish and whether it is by taxation or by loans. The country should respond completely to the President's warnings against added Treasury burdens when it is struggling with an already unbalanced budget.

Mr. Hoover's closing appeal, in his Detroit address, goes to every hopeful American heart. "This is an emergency," he said "and these are the times for service to which we must put full heart and purpose to help and not retard the return of the happy days we know are ahead of your country and mine."

By HERBERT PLUMMER: WASHINGTON.—They'll probably be telling the saga of John N. Garner years hence in Texas if that ruddy faced touse-headed gentleman from Uvalde, Red River county, becomes the next speaker of the house of representatives.

For certainly the "Honorable Jack" will have made himself the central figure of a story which lends itself to repetition wherever politics is discussed.

Two years ago he assumed leadership of the democratic party in the house under conditions which would seem to make melancholy the most optimistic political strategist.

Democratic membership had been whittled down to the point of a real minority party.

But was Garner downhearted? Hardly. He boasted that under re-consolidated leadership he had hopes that his party would operate more effectively than had been possible for years.

This division of leadership resulted from the illness and death of Claude Kitchen of North Carolina, leader of the house during war times.

Kitchen delegated Garrett—a master parliamentarian and one of the fastest thinkers on his feet the house has ever known—to look after the floor.

He turned over committee assignments to the next ranking democrat on ways and means, Garner was fourth on the committee, Kitchen being No. 1, Hull of Tennessee (now senator) and Rainey of Illinois next.

Then came the Harding landslide and out went Hull and Rainey. This left Garner arbiter of minority committee assignments after Kitchen's death.

After Garrett's defeat the Texan was left with the whole works. The democrats once again had a unified command—a thing invaluable in any kind of warfare.

Garner started right in with the bag of political tricks his then 13 consecutive terms in the house had taught him.

He was secure in his seat, for in democratic off years he seems to have no more trouble in coming back to congress than in on years.

He soon evidenced that he knew what to do with his wide leadership powers.

And he didn't do it by making speeches. He doesn't like that sort of thing.

Sometimes his friends down in Texas fear that he will not be re-elected. He will make no campaign talks. Yet he always has been victorious just the same.

SAM BY FREEMAN LINCOLN

SYNOPSIS: The unexpected proposal to Sam Sherrill that she marry Peak Abbott, wealthy young owner of the newspaper for which she works, leaves Sam perplexed.

her evening wrap, and went out the main door. There was a faint mist of fog that dimmed the bright lights along the drive.

She crossed the deserted pike and descended a short, steep little hill at the station. The dimly-lit platform was empty, and Sam waited in the shadows.

The train arrived five minutes later, and Freddy, the only passenger to alight, walked directly to where she stood. She noticed, in the pause before the noise of the departing train had died away, that his face seemed strained and pale.

"Hello," he said abruptly at last. "Where's your hat?" Sam smiled. "I don't often wear hats to parties. What's your news?" Freddy said: "I'm quitting my job, tomorrow. I'm going west."

Chapter 4: CRUSHED ORCHIDS: She found the booth and closed the door behind her. The voice from the other end of the wire came to her clearly. "It that you, Sam? This is Freddy."

"Oh," she was relieved. "Hello, Freddy. Happy new year." "Look here," he said urgently. "I've got to see you tonight—right away—it's important!"

"But Freddy—" Sam said. "Please don't argue. I tell you it's important! I'm in the Broad Street Station and there's a train leaving in two minutes. The club is near the station, isn't it?" "Yes. It's across the street, but—" "I'll keep you only five minutes. Where will you meet me?" Sam saw it was useless to argue. "I'll be at the station."

"Good." He hung up the receiver. Ten minutes later she retrieved all that may be required is a means of support for the weakened or strained vein. This may take the form of an elastic band or stocking.

In recent years much progress has been made in the production of effective and inconspicuous supports, so that there is little objection warranted.

In the more serious forms, the dilated veins may require some form of surgical treatment. The affected vein may be tunneled out from the surrounding tissue or it may be obliterated by the so-called injection treatment.

What can I find a minister? He looked about him, wildly, as though expecting to find a cleric lurking on the right of way. "These must be a minister around here somewhere."

"Please be sensible," Sam pleaded. "Talk to me. Tell me what would happen if you married me. Where would your freedom be?" "That doesn't matter."

"Oh, yes it does. It matters so much that you'd hate me in a month. And where would I be?" "You'd be married to me."

"Yes, and we'd be poor forever. So would Sonny and Fourth." She shook her head wearily. "No, Freddy, I'm afraid it's no go."

How will the interview end, on Monday? Sam spends a strange New Year's day.

The ever skeptical reporter thought he was being kidded for when he looked out at the sky from his office he saw nothing but dull gray clouds and even heard the thunder punctuating the storm.

Norman B. Conger, the meteorologist, was called to verify the freak storm, but instead explained how a trick of light rays had caused the belief.

"There weren't any snowflakes," he said. "We don't have snow with the temperature at 65. What the woman saw was the light

Brides And Old-Timers Invited To Hear Lectures

"Come to the cooking school!" That is the invitation, both special and general which the Herald is extending to its women readers. For this event, the Herald is bringing to Big Spring noted authority in the world of home economics, Myra Oliver Dougan.

Club women, especially, are invited to attend the lectures, since Mrs. Dougan always anticipates their attendance at her schools, and has come in contact with many noted club women during her travels. It is hoped that clubs whose programs fall on the afternoons of the cooking school will arrange to "take a day off" and attend the lectures in a body. It will be well worth their time, it is believed, because Mrs. Dougan will touch upon many topics in her lectures of particular interest to club women—household management, budgeting, diets, menus for children—those things which call for special attention and preparation in the home.

The lecturer also urges that young women, brides and brides-to-be, attend as many lectures as possible. Never-to-be forgotten information may be stored away in romantic young heads, and some day, when the thrill of the honeymoon is over and inexperienced young cooks are faced with the necessity of preparing meals on time for busy husbands, back will come some sage of the cooking school—and an embarrassing situation may be gracefully salvaged.

Special invitation is also extended to women residing in the suburban sections or trade territory of Big Spring. The lectures are to be so timed that women living outside the city will have plenty of time to get back to their homes and prepare the evening meal on time.

The cooking school will have no admission charge. Daily attendance is the only request which the Herald makes of its women readers, and promises them a series of interesting and informative programs.

SUNKEN CEDAR FOREST FOUND ON CAPE COD

BOSTON, (INS).—Marked only by parga patches of sea grass, shooting up through the water, a sunken cedar forest has been unearthed on Cape Cod, in the Centreville section.

The trees, in an excellent state of preservation, were believed to date back hundreds of years. The first trunk to be brought to the surface, measured 25 inches in diameter.

The find was made by a dredger at work deepening the channel in Centreville, in response to motor boat enthusiasts who had trouble with the eel grass at low tide.

The scene incidentally, is near the summer cottage of the Faithfull family, of New York, whose daughter, Starr, was found mysteriously dead on Long Island.

Red And White Stores In Big Spring Area Open Saturday

H. O. Wooten Grocer Company And Independent Merchants Of Sixty Counties In Group

Saturday and Monday Red and White independent-home-owned grocery stores will open their doors to the public as members of the great Red and White Stores, marking the first entry of this nationally known grocery and market service in the Big Spring section.

The franchise which brings the Red and White Stores to Big Spring and West Texas has been secured by the H. O. Wooten Grocer company, with a supply house in Big Spring and general offices in Abilene, which will service stores in sixty odd West Texas counties, together with portions of western Oklahoma and eastern New Mexico.

Simultaneously with the opening of the Red and White Stores in Big Spring, Red and White Stores will open for business in four other towns of this section, offering the same service as that of Big Spring Red and White Stores. These towns are Stanton, Forsan, Lamesa and Odessa.

Transformation of the interiors of several member stores has been going on for the past several weeks, and with the formal opening Saturday and Monday every store will be uniformly presented in the general color scheme of red and white.

Just around the corner from everywhere—individually owned and uniformly operated—are the phrases which have proven a near magic formula for the more than 30,000 Red and White Stores, independently owned over the United States and Canada and which become familiar to Big Spring and her territory for economy and convenience with the stores of this region open for business.

The Plan

Briefly, the Red and White plan is a union of independent manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, banded together in a cooperative way to market grocery products to the consuming public. The plan is credited by economists as the most economical method of food distribution yet devised. It insures the permanence of the independent merchant. The plan is substantially a merger of purchasing power without any merger of capital structure. The Red and White plan recognizes the wide public acceptance of the multiple chain store methods, and it therefore uses many of the popular features upon which these stores capitalize. The Red and White organization is building around only high class expert merchandisers. Because of its international scope it is constantly on the alert for the newest merchandising trend and developments and is considered an unchallenged leader in its field.

According to G. C. McDonald, head of the advisory board in this area, the Red and White stores offer the following outstanding advantages for the patronage of the public:

Merchandise of the highest grade at the lowest price, made possible by the tremendous buying power of the Red and White organization.

Convenience of selection of merchandise, through scientific, attractive arrangement of store interiors.

The individual, personal interest of the store's owner to his customer's needs and the "as you please" service to the consumer which means "help your-

Advantages

Proponents of the Red and White System claim for it that: It substitutes the store owner for the hired man;

Store arrangement and window display are made to conform to the latest standards;

The economy of purchasing from one supply house is recognized;

Group advertising, in cities especially, is prorated among the members as a small unit cost;

Members are kept posted on market conditions through bulletin service from the supply house;

Its controlled products are made by only high-class manufacturers who also are a part of this great cooperative enterprise; It gives real values to the public;

Last, but not least, it contemplates a new confidence between manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer who recognize that these three agencies of distribution are not antagonistic but one and a part of a harmonizing whole.

Quannah, Memphis, Snyder, Spur and Frederick, Okla.

Executive committee for the Big Spring area is composed of Hayes Stripling, J. J. Bugg, J. I. Duckworth, John Whitmire, Pat Allen of Big Spring, R. L. Henson of Stanton and Dee Hull of Lamesa. G. C. McDonald, sales manager of the Wooten company, will serve ex-officio, on the twelve other executive committees.

Functions

What is the executive committee? What is its function? McDonald gave the following explanation:

"Each Red and White unit is a separate and distinct organization in so far as carrying out the plan as laid down by the national organization. This executive committee is composed of six retail merchant members who are elected by their fellow merchants. They control the organization in all respects, they pass on prospective members, pass on all advertising, confer with the supply house on all merchandising suggestions, instruct the jobber and pass on all outside arrangements that are made for the dealers for items that are not handled by their

ANSWERING THE QUESTION; WHAT IS RED AND WHITE

By H. O. WOOTEN, President, Wooten Grocery Co.

The Red and White plan is a union of independent manufacturers, wholesalers, and retailers banded together in a co-operative way to market grocery products to the consuming public. The plan is credited by economists as the most economical method of food distribution ever yet devised. It furthermore insures the permanence of the independent merchant. The plan is substantially a merger of purchasing power without any merger of capital structure.

The Red and White plan recognizes the wide public acceptance of the corporation multiple methods and it therefore uses many of the popular features which these stores capitalize. The Red and White organization is building around only high class expert merchandisers.

Because of its international scope it is constantly on the alert for the newest merchandising trends and developments. It is the unchallenged leader in its field. Now just where in is the Red and White plan a superior program of merchandising. Its advocates say:

It substitutes the store owner for the hired man.

Store arrangement and window display are made to conform to the latest standards.

The economy of purchasing from one supply house is recognized.

Group advertising, in cities especially, is prorated among the members at a small unit cost.

Members are kept posted on market conditions through bulletin service from the supply house.

It owns and controls the most complete line of grocery products and sundries in America.

Its controlled products are made by only high class manufacturers who are also a part of this great cooperative enterprise.

Last but not least, it contemplates a new confidence between manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer who recognize that these three agencies of distribution are not antagonistic but one and a part of a whole.

54,000 Grocers In Cooperative Groups

(From The Wholesale Grocer News) The Federal Trade Commission made public recently a report requested by the Senate on cooperative grocery organizations, of which it estimated there were about 395 in the country in 1929, with a membership of 53,400 retail stores.

These transacted business of $600,000,000 to $700,000,000.

The commission defined a cooperative chain as an association of independent retailers acting cooperatively, either by themselves or with wholesalers, to obtain advantages in buying, advertising and other merchandising activities.

Economy Aim Of Buyn'g By Red & White

Full Cooperation Of Local Units Reduces Overhead

By GEO. C. McDONALD
Sales Manager, H. O. Wooten Grocer Co., and Advisory Officer, Red and White

Several years ago every forward thinking retailer and jobber in the country was giving serious thought to the problem of maintaining profitable volume in the face of ever growing chain store competition.

The chain store had several decided advantages not enjoyed by the independent, including economies in buying, cooperative advertising, expert merchandising counsel, experience in skillful, efficient store and stock displays, the "price special" and the wholesome respect of the buying public for the principle upon which the chain store was founded.

To offset these advantages the independent merchant was a local citizen, with a personal acquaintance among his customers. In most cases he was providing the extra service of credit and delivery. In addition, he had the vital incentive of money invested, to urge him to make his business show a profit.

Obviously if the independent merchant could secure the advantages enjoyed by the chains without losing the advantages he enjoyed as an independent, he would have nothing whatever to fear from his chain store competitor.

Buying System
The first step in this direction was necessarily an effort to effect cooperative buying for the various groups of retailers, but with a few exceptions, these early projects were not very successful, due chiefly to lack of proper organization.

The Red and White corporation was originally formed for the purpose of effecting the economies of cooperative buying for a number of wholesale grocers and merely acted as a buying agent of controlled brands of packaged food products. The plan worked out so successfully that it was later enlarged to include retail grocers. From that time on the growth of Red and White has been truly phenomenal.

The Red and White stores is a cooperative organization of packers and manufacturers, independent retailers and wholesale grocers which now extends from coast to coast in America and the central and western portion of Canada.

Full cooperation exists between the manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer. Each one retains sole control and ownership of his own business, and as the packer or manufacturer employs no salesman to sell the wholesale and the wholesaler employs no salesman to sell the retailer, this reduces the operating cost of each factor as compared with the usual old-time methods. Through the close cooperation of the three branches, manufacturer, wholesaler and retailer, these savings are passed on to the consumer. The retailer owning his own store, buys his supplies by mail or telephone and in consequence is able to devote his entire time to the constructive end of his business such as selling, collecting and keeping his store in good order. His vital interest in the success of his own business, plus the advantage of the wider experience gained through chain store movement, enables him to make rapid and substantial progress.

Cooperative
The movement is cooperative in every way. Much of the usual operating expense is eliminated by both retailer and wholesaler. The retailer is enabled to carry a smaller and fresher stock and to increase his cash and credit sales. In consequence he gets a more rapid turnover. Prices are standardized wherever possible. Duplication of lines is to a large extent, eliminated. The merchant, through cooperative advertising, becomes much better known in his own community. He is kept fully posted as to new goods, prices, etc., and has direct contact with new merchandising plans and ideas.

The wholesaler in each jobbing center organizes a number of carefully selected, reliable retailers with a reputation for honorable and fair dealing, and as these selected Red and White retailers secure their supplies from the local Red and White distributor without the ex-

The consumer is further assured of not only obtaining his supplies at the lowest possible cost, but in the purchase of the famous Red and White brands, featured by the Red and White stores, he is assured of absolute uniformity as to quality.

While the Red and White organization today comprises many wholesale grocers located in Canada and the United States, and several thousand independent retailers, it is worth remembering that this plan does not introduce several new stores in any community, but both the wholesalers and the retailers are local men

RED & WHITE

About ten years ago, a number of far-seeing men realized that the owners of average grocery stores would, some day, be greatly handicapped by their inability to meet the price competition of independently owned chain stores which were opening throughout the country. These great organizations combined their buying power while the independent grocers could only buy to suit their own limited requirements. The first outstanding step taken in the U. S. to combat the chain competition was made by a group of independent grocers, carrying out the Red and White plan originally started in Buffalo, N. Y. It is one of the outstanding cooperative movements of all times; a plan that enables the average retail grocer to sell the highest quality products at the most moderate prices and to offer values equal to those of any corporation-owned stores.

How Red and White Members Cooperate

The retail Red and White membership is composed of merchants who, owning and successfully operating their own stores, have seen the many advantages offered through this membership. They have joined Red and White voluntarily and without cost. They pay no initiation fee and they pay no dues. They operate their stores as independently as stores could possibly be operated. They are under no man's authority and are in no way financially related. These retail members work together with independent wholesale distributors throughout the United States and Canada, in the continuous study of better and cheaper distribution methods, lower costs, fresher stocks, quicker service, and every possible phase of servicing the public more acceptably.

Thousands of Retail Stores Owned Outright and Operated by Home-Town Merchants

These owners of grocery stores or grocery departments in general stores have joined the Red and White organization for business reasons as they might have joined a church for religious reasons or a lodge, for social reasons. Their object is to combine their buying power and to get the opportunity of cooperating with their fellow town men and getting more out of life. They would not give up their individuality by joining a church or lodge and they did not give it up when they joined the Red and White organization. Their church or their lodge would not be in joining any of these organizations, and neither is their Red and White organization.

Red And White Has Merits Of Chain System

Plus Advantage Of Home Ownership, Control And Independent Action

By S. F. DURKHEIMER
Wadhams & Co., Inc.
In Groceries, Inc.

There is no justification for the success of every man who may wish to establish himself in business. Neither is there a secret formula which guarantees success of the minority who do not engage in business. There is a truism however, an economic factor that does prevail, namely, it is the inequality of human ability that makes one man a success and another a failure.

Possibilities for volume production has prompted the growth and establishment of huge industrial plants. Mass distribution has justified the structure of chain wholesale and retail outlets.

Should the independent dealer be denied the opportunity of equal advantage just because he is "padding his own canoe"? If, then, a commercial structure can be devised that will and does match every physical outline of the corporation-owned chain store—and may excel it in other features—should equal buying power be denied. If certain commercial practices were successful for the corporation-owned chain store, why should they not be equally good for the independent, provided he could adopt them?

That, in a nutshell, is the justification, the reason, the explanation for Red and White, one of the greatest movements yet devised to bring independent grocery merchants into a group association of mutual benefit to themselves and the public.

Stores are painted uniform in appearance, identified by a suitable membership sign. Our retailers advertise collectively each week with newspaper copy and feature merchandise specials similar to any other well organized merchandising concern. We do not encourage the featuring of "loss leaders." We do however, work to the end that many items can be specialized by price appeal at figures comparable to and in some instances less than competitive chain organization—and that the ads that appear do at all times bear favorable comparison with those issued and published by any other chain organization. The retail grocer's average purchases from his wholesale approximate 35 per cent of his requirements. His formidable competitor, the corporation-owned chain store, buys 100 per cent efficiently. To minimize this disadvantage we have created a buying arrangement with associated firms. Records that operating merchants have compiled invariably show improvement. Naturally, gains are of a varying degree, dependent upon the personal equation and the grocer's previous merchandising practice, but the fact remains that each dealer shows improvement. Several merchants have trebled their sales volume, many have doubled, according to statistics in our hands.

LILLIAN GENTH ON WAY TO PAINT KING OF SIAM
NEW YORK, (INS).—Miss Lillian Genth artist who gained fame and fortune by specializing in the painting of nudes only to abandon the practice three years ago, has departed for the Orient where she will paint a portrait of King Prajadhok of Siam.

As she travels to the Orient by way of the Pacific coast, she hopes to obtain studies of wrestlers, especially in Japan. If successful in finding the types of figures she wishes to paint, Miss Genth intends to remain in Asia approximately three years.

When Miss Genth announced she would never again paint an undraper figure, the entire world was surprised. It was this form of artistic expression which earned her membership in the ANA as well as a considerable sum of money.

ALL HAVE RIGHT TO LOOK NORMAL, SAYS PHYSICIAN

MADISON, Wis., Sept. 24. (INS).—People have a right to look as near normal as possible and much more can be accomplished in this direction than in past years, Dr. Gordon B. New, Rochester, Minn., declared at the session of the State Medical society of Wisconsin.

"Today, deformities of the face and neck, such as the loss of the nose, an ear or part of the face and neck, may be replaced with an excellent chance of good cosmetic as well as functional result being obtained," Dr. New said. "Reconstructive surgery requires a great deal of patience on the part of both the surgeon and the patient. While the results appear quite dramatic, they are accomplished only with the greatest care in handling the tissues and repeated and exacting operations carried out over a period of time."

ON MASTODON'S TRAIL

CLARIDA, Ia. (INS).—Further investigation is to be made of the skeleton of a huge mastodon, discovered on a creek bank just over the Missouri State Line south of here as soon as the creek waters recede sufficiently. Three huge teeth, weighing more than a pound each, and an immense ankle bone were unearthed by Wyatt Huston, student of the medical school of Northwestern University, and this led to the discovery of the huge skeleton.

A SUPER-BOOSTER

TUCSON, Ariz. (INS).—When Herbert Drachman, Tucson realtor and super-booster, travels he requires two pens and two different kinds of ink for registering at hotels. He signs his name and address on hotel registers as follows: "Herbert Drachman, Tucson, (Climate), Arizona," writing the word "climate" in red ink.

Kuner's vegetables "grown in the shadow of the Rockies" are not just ordinary vegetables, because the same Colorado sunshine that puts sweetness into Colorado sugar beets (and vitamins into everything)—the cool summer nights that put crispness into Colorado celery—and the rich, mineral-laden soil and pure mountain water that puts flavor into Colorado cantaloupes, also puts sweetness, flavor, crispness and nourishing vitamins into Kuner's vegetables.

But that's not all—in six modern factories Kuner scientifically prepares and packs these vegetables, using the most up-to-the minute machinery invented and packing in the new "cans with the golden lining."

No canner anywhere uses greater care in seed selection, growing supervision, chemical analysis, and sanitary packing than Kuner. That's why Kuner's vegetables "grown in the shadow of the Rockies" always taste so exceptionally good.

Grocery Business Is 'First Love' Of Wooten, Pioneer West Texan, Whose Life Has Seen Much Labor

"Horace, why don't you go into business?" President J. P. Massey of the brand new Farmers and Merchants bank asked of a 23-year old grocery broker as they talked on a street corner in the new West Texas town called Abilene. That was in the early summer of 1890.

"Because I don't have the money," the young son of a pioneer replied.

"This town needs more business. I'll let you have the money," said the banker, who until a few months before had been a farmer exclusively.

"I'll think it over," the young man answered.

Horace Wooten did think it over, and as a result of that conversation took $2,000 in borrowed capital, established a grain business in Abilene and began slowly to build the fortune which has made the name of H. O. Wooten known throughout the southwest.

Reaches Top of Ladder

Having reached the top of the ladder of success, Mr. Wooten has satisfied a long-felt desire by building something permanent for the benefit of the city. The Hotel Wooten, a 15-story architectural gem, was opened in June 1930—less than a fortnight before his 60th birthday anniversary—and with it the Paramount theatre, finest in the West, also built by Mr. Wooten.

Horace Wooten was the first son but the second child, in a family of six children. He was born June 15, 1870, in Tyler, Smith county, Texas. There he went to school until he was twelve years old. Misfortune overtook his father and he left school to set type—from the oil-style hand-set typesetters in use in those days—for L. M. Green, publisher of the Tyler Courier. He was "printer's devil" for two years when his father decided to transplant the family in the "new" land of West Texas—there to try to recoup his fortune.

Comes by Wagon

Horace was 14 years old when his father loaded the family and its possessions into a wagon and started for "the promise land." After several weeks on the road, the Wootens arrived at Buffalo Gap—October 17, 1878. Indians had been on a rampage the year before in the country they crossed, but the red men were quiet then and did not molest the group.

Soon after their arrival, the elder Wooten bought land, five or six miles southwest of Abilene. Horace in six years on that land, worked with his father at the back-breaking, man-building labor of building fences, clearing out mesquites, preparing the soil for cultivation.

With his family—always first in his thoughts and plans—well situated on a tillable, cleared farm, young Wooten indulged his yearning for a knowledge of business by going back to Tyler to "learn". This was in the fall of 1886; a few months after he had become of age.

Takes Only Job

After six months in the business school, Wooten took his only "job" he ever had as a man. For something more than a year then, he held down a job as bookkeeper for H. Freeman, a merchant.

Remembering the beauty of life in West Texas, and especially the charms of Miss Ella Hunt—whom he had known at Buffalo Gap—Wooten returned to Taylor county and was married to Miss Hunt October 23, 1889, on a ranch near Bradshaw.

Faced with the responsibility of establishing a new family, Wooten moved to Abilene and began selling groceries to merchants in and around Abilene. He sold the good from a St. Louis house, on a commission basis. In that business he had a living, without the necessity of having capital, until 1890.

Borrows First Capital

After his conversation with Massey, the banker-farmer who had known him and his father on the farm for several years, Wooten studied the business possibilities of Abilene. He found that farmers and ranchers were buying large quantities of feed for their stock.

Wooten borrowed $2,000 from the bank on his signature—and without collateral. With that money he rented a building and bought grain. The grain he sold to the farmer, who were opening up the country, but who had not put enough land in cultivation to raise their own feed stuffs.

During the first year he paid the bank, lived and had a net profit of $600.

Gets Nucleus

Business grew better as more and more people settled in West Texas. Soon there were two Wooten grain houses in Abilene, one north and the other south of the T. and P. tracks. For several years there was no competition, and the young business man built up the volume of trade. In eight years of hard work and thrifty living he accumulated $10,000.

Believing that Abilene would become a distributing center for West Texas on the Texas & Pacific west of Fort Worth, Mr. Wooten backed his judgment by abandoning the grain business and going into the wholesale grocery business. The business was established October 1, 1898.

His Broad Interests

During the past thirty years, Mr. Wooten has made many investments outside of the grocery business. He has owned farms and ranches; was for six years a director of the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas; he was one of the organizers and is now vice-president and traffic manager of the Roscoe-Snyder & Pacific railroad; he was one of the prime movers in the building of McMurry college in Abilene and was first chairman of the school's board of trustees; he has been directly interested in the agricultural, oil and business development of West Texas. His first interest, however, always has been his wholesale grocery business, one of the largest and soundest in the West, with many branch stores. Abilene is the home office and operating headquarters—as it is with Mr. Wooten's newest venture, the association of independent grocery merchants of 60 counties of West Texas, western Oklahoma and eastern New Mexico into the Red and White organization.

H. O. Wooten is the head of a family of five children and nine grandchildren. He is proud of his family and makes all his plans with their interests considered first. He and Mrs. Wooten have had six children, but a son, Ollie, died several years ago. The other children are Mrs. Ina Wooten Jones and Mrs. Ona Wooten Lee, Abilene; Horace W. Wooten, Crystal City; Mrs. W. S. Thomas, Denver, Colo.; and Sterling Wooten, Abilene.

An obelisk 6 feet high, dedicated to the memory of Theodore Roosevelt's forest conservation work, is to be unveiled near Summit on the Roosevelt highway Oct. 25. The obelisk will be placed in the center of the highway over Marias pass. It will be located at the boundary between Lewis and Clark and Flathead national forests.

All of the state highways in Hale county, Texas, are now paved with concrete, a total of sixty-seven miles radiating in four directions from Plainview.

self, ask the clerk or telephone."

Another feature of the system is that "your grocer" will conduct his business as he has always done. Those who have delivered groceries in the past will continue delivery service and other services will be just as they always have been.

"Perhaps the greatest factor entering into the Red and White system is the fact that it does not deprive the small grocer of his independence. The member Red and White store operator will still own and operate his business. There are no membership fees, brokerage charges, royalties or 'dues.' All that is required of him is that he arrange his store according to the plan as outlined by the Red and White system cooperative with other members in the buying of goods and operate his store under the Red and White plan, said Mr. McDonald.

Not Exclusive

"For those member owners who desire to stock it, a complete line of choicest grade merchandise is offered by the organization under the Red and White label. Stocking the Red and White trade-marked goods is entirely optional with individual store owners, however, as a complete line of nationally advertised goods will be available at the supply house.

To facilitate transformation of the member stores, an official of the Red and White organization has supervised the work of rearranging the supply house to meet the demands of the store owners and in the decoration and equipment of the individual member stores. The store designs call for uniform interiors with fronts decorated in the Red and White color scheme.

"In evolving this remarkable system of operation, of which the individual store designs form a part the Red and White organization for the past 10 years has solicited any suggestion looking toward the improvement in the operation of the great system.

This son of Big Spring is known as one of the most experienced grocers in this section of the state. He was "born" in a grocery store and manages the Allen Grocery, 207 East Third street, one of the Red and White Stores. He is a member of the Big Spring area unit board.

"The Red and White system has been in operation for more than a decade and has had ample opportunity to eliminate any unsound principles which might have developed in the organization and so successful have been the operating principles of the system, that expansion has been rapid and sound until Red and White at present is international in its scope, with buying power equal if not superior to any purchasing organization in the world.

"More than 30,000 stores, operating through 200 wholesale houses which buy through one source, situated in three-fourths of the United States, and from Montreal to British Columbia in Canada bear witness to the gratifying success of the Red and White operation. It is not necessary to point out the fact that the system embraces the largest group of individually owned stores in the universe.

"In the practical working out of cooperative features of member stores, the affiliated dealers have formed a local advisory committee, selecting officers from their own membership, the personnel of which will have charge of matters pertaining to the successful operation of the local organization.

"Feeling of buying power and the great number of stores not only effect greatest possible savings in the purchase of merchandise, but make practicable group advertising, thus materially reducing operating cost of each store. This fact permits Red and White stores to do more advertising at less cost than other organizations operating in this territory, officials of the organization declare."

"Your Own Grocer"

Reverting to the reasons for the support which the public is giving to the individually owned stores, one member put it adequately when he stated:

"When you trade with your local Red and White store you are patronizing your own neighborhood grocer. He and his money are important business assets to your community. Red and White store principles and procedure are the very foundations upon which this and future generations of individual merchants must depend for an equal opportunity in business."

What the individual Red and White store does and how it does it may be stated in a few words: "For the merchant there are no fees, royalties, or franchise charges of any nature, but the procedure is one of loyalty and cooperation between the manufacturer, jobber and retailer. The Red and White system is very particular in that it ob-ligates the merchant to cut out all waste in his business and shows him how to do it.

Independents Unite

"Each local unit, being a separate and distinct organization carries out the plan as laid down in the national system. The executive or advisory committee, composed of retail merchant members are elected by their fellow members. They confer with the supply house on merchandising suggestions and pass on all outside arrangements looking to the conduct of their business.

"The Big Spring membership in the Red and White organization includes some of the largest independent retail outlets in the city as well as older established concerns.

"The H. O. Wooten Grocer company, with the interest of local and West Texas grocers in mind, securing the franchise of the Red and White system for this territory with the idea in mind for the betterment of the grocery business for the independent store owner.

"H. O. Wooten, who heads the organization as president, is enthusiastic in his belief that the Red and White system is the one great institution for the independent grocer and declares with pride that 'nowhere in the United States has there been a failure of the Red and White organization, and that there is not an instance among the member grocers where there has been dissatisfaction as to the results.'"

EDUCATORS' SCHOOL

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (INS)—The effective summer school for educators will be limited in number of students and in that way much more beneficial for those who attend, according to Prof. Clyde M. Hill, chairman of the Yale department of education, who recently closed the first of a three-year experiment here. Eighty per cent of the group who attended the summer school for educators this year have signed for next summer.

-MOOSE MOVE TO CAPITAL

ATLANTIC CITY (INS)—The construction of a $2,000,000 building in Washington as the national headquarters of the Loyal Order of Moose has been approved by the order. Upon its completion the headquarters, now located at Mooseheart, Ill., will be transferred to the capital city. Two million dollars is also being spent in construction work at the children's village in Mooseheart. Included in the program are a vocational school and a "house of God" where children may worship in the faith of their parents. Residences for a catholic and protestant clergyman will also be built.

CRASHED; CLAIMS RECORD

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (INS)—Although Richard Devine, glider pilot, smashed his rocket glider on the jagged rocks at the base of the bluff along the coast here, he claimed a new glider record. Devine took off from the Palms Verde Hills and set off his rocket torches until they all had been fired. The last rockets sent his light craft soaring over the bluff eight miles from the takeoff. A down current sucked the glider to the rocks about 100 feet below. The flimsy craft was demolished. Devine was knocked unconscious. Japanese fishermen rescued him from the wreckage.

TO CHECK ELK HUNTERS

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (INS)—Wyoming is going to keep a close check on elk killed in the Jackson Hole country this fall. Checking camps are to be established at entry points and as the hunters enter the region their names will be taken and, when they return with elk, coupons will be removed from their hunting licenses to prevent their entering the region and kill elk a second time. Stockmen believe that the checking system will prevent unscrupulous hunters from killing cattle, as well as keep a check on the elk.

STEADY HARITS' RESULTS

HARTFORD, Conn. (INS)—People in "the land of steady habits" are holding well to their title. Savings bank deposits, despite the depression, gained $8,841,295 in three months ending June 30, last, while the same period. So George J. Eastman's total resources of seventy-five million, state banking commission, says banks jumped up $10,659,859 in reported.

Group Buying Modern Way

Red And White Stores Hold Independence, Get Advantages

"Group buying is the modern way of successful merchandising. We used to make deliveries with horses and wagons; we use trucks now and that's why we are members of the Red and White stores. We don't want a horse and wagon store. Our business has always made money, and we have figured that we are counted among the successful retail grocers of our city. Competition, however, has become keener and sharper, and when we looked around and saw that the chain stores were doing a lively business we decided we might just as well add some of that volume to our own business. So we got together with other independent grocers like ourselves and provided a buying power that exceeded even the greatest chain," wrote a Red and White grocer in Amarillo.

"We buy all our goods from one wholesale house. We give concessions to customers who buy in case lots, so imagine the concessions a manufacturer is in a position to give if his product goes in to several thousand stores.

"We buy for turnover. Our system demonstrated how this could be done the best, so now we do business on a much smaller stock, always have fresh goods for our customers, our buying power gives us a good profit at popular prices, and our total volume has increased steadily. Many of our members have cut their stocks in half, and we are not sold a thing, we buy the things we want and in small quantities. When deals come along we buy at the deal price in as small amounts as we desire. It doesn't make any difference whether we buy 'cut price leaders' or our own high quality label—our wholesaler is there to supply us with what we want, not what he wants us to take. That's just one of the many reasons why we would never buy from more than one wholesaler again.

Customer Attention
"Customers like to have individual attention from the owner of the store. Personal service means a lot in developing a big business. Our customers now receive the utmost in personal service, for we devote to them the time we used to spend ordering from salesmen, checking invoices and checking shipments from four or five houses. Besides this, we have time to see that our clerks are giving proper service and that deliveries are prompt and accurate. Little things count.

"Accurate accounting records did not mean much to a grocer a few years ago, but the grocer who stays in business today has got to know what it costs him to do business, what his turnover is, where the leaks are. We can check these things under the group buying system, for trained men help us find the leaks, and raise our profits. The experiences and average records of all stores are every material help to each individual owner. We can watch our collections closer now, and when we have slow accounts we turn them over to the collecting department, with the result that our accounts are in better shape now than before.

"Yet we own our store, control it and make all the profits. The wholesaler uses his own capital to furnish us goods and we use our own capital to run our own business. All the extra profits coming from the increased efficiency go to us. In addition, we buy practically every other item associated with the retail grocery business at a distinct saving and our members in the country buy general store items on a similar basis. General store merchants have had the same success with their entire store stock that we had had with groceries.

"We have a uniform store sign which is just the same in New York as it is in Minnesota, Oregon, Toronto, Winnipeg or Vancouver. Our membership has never cost us a cent, no fees of any kind, no charge for a sign, no stock. We have our own executive committee through which the membership expresses its policies and activities. Our wholesaler works with us very closely and we are furnished market infor-

SHE'S CHAMPION STORY TELLER

When all others in the contest ran out of tales, Consuelo Dawn continued telling a group of children fairy stories in a recent contest held at Los Angeles. Miss Dawn's knowledge of Cinderella, Puss in Boots and Hans Andersen in general won her the title of champion story teller.

FOUR LOSE LIVES IN TRYING TO SAVE A DOG

LONDON (INS)—Thousands of holiday-makers at Torquay, one of England's most popular seaside resorts, were forced to look on when four persons, including a girl of only sixteen, lost their lives in a raging sea in a vain endeavor to save the life of an Airedale terrier.

While crowds were watching the tremendous seas break over the front, a young girl rushed down the slipway to catch the terrier which was in a perilous position, and was washed away.

Two young men who also lost their lives were James Smith, 31, and Jack Wych, 16. When the girl dashed forward to secure the Airedale, Wych went to her assistance. At that moment a huge wave broke over the slipway and carried them out to sea.

Smith then tried to throw a lifebuoy to them, but the raging seas carried it away. He then plunged into the water in a last desperate effort to save them but failed and was drowned. Another life was lost when a young unidentified girl was attempting to assist him as also swept into the sea.

LAMED-PELICANS HAVEN

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (INS)—"Market street sanctuary" is the name given to a dumping grounds which has been turned into a home for infirm or injured sea gulls and pelicans. Jack Paynter, shore boat skipper is responsible for the haven. Paynter brings disabled birds to the "sanctuary." In the best sea gull and pelican circles, it is said, Paynter is given credit for saving the lives of hundreds of birds.

DICTIONATION BY TELEPHONE

BOSTON, (INS)—Telephone dictation is now in use in some of the telephone departments, with the prospect that it will be adopted by other large concerns. Instead of calling a stenographer to take letters, an executive merely calls the regular switchboard operator and asks for "telephone dictation." He is then connected with the stenographic bureau, and a typist, with a telephone operator's aid, takes the dictation.

Haskell county now boasts its first paved highway with the completion of pavement between Haskell and Stamford, Texas.

BANK KEEPS GOING, LOCKED UP FOR SAFETY

FOX RIVER GROVE, Ill. (INS)—This village lays claim to having the first "speakeasy" bank. Although the doors of the First State Bank here are locked, neither the depositor nor the officers both of them, are worried about it. Tired of being prey to armed bandits, the officers decided that the only safeguard against gunmen was to lock up the doors to everyone. Now they go serenely about their business, safe behind barred doors, and dare any bold highwayman to enter.

Every person wishing to enter the bank must run the gauntlet of identification before gaining admittance to the building. The rule holds for everyone, bank examiners, officers and depositors. The bank has been robbed twice within two months, once for $1,300 and again for $2,000. On both occasions Cashier Richard Novak looked into the barrels of menacing revolvers.

COTTON CROP IN MEXICO

TORREON, Mexico. (INS)—The cotton crop in the Laguna district, heart of Mexico's cotton belt, will reach a total value of nearly 50,000,000 pesos this season. Abundant rains insured a much larger crop than expected. Pickin' has already begun and will continue until November.

BURNS CAMPAIGN IN CELL

CHESTER, Pa. (INS)—Inconstable D. Harvey Sykes makes a strong bid to be termed the most optimistic person in the world. From his cell at the county jail at Media he authorized his friends to carry on his campaign for re-election. He was convicted of extortion and bribery last January, fined $3,500 and sentenced to six years in jail in addition to losing automatically his post as constable.

FINDS FAKE COINS IN CELL

PITTSBURGH, (INS)—A flood of silver dollars streamed down on John W. Thompson as he was removing a hollow steel pipe between two cells while engaged in raising an unused police station. After shining them up and congratulating himself on his good luck—he was informed by U. S. Secret Service agents that they were coins, all right—but fake ones.

WOMAN'S RELATIVE WORTH

TORONTO, Ont. (INS)—Women are worth only half as much as men in the economical makeup of Canada in the opinion of R. H. Coats, Dominion statistician. In a speech here Coats declared: "Every male is worth $9,000 to Canada the day he is born. At 25 he is worth $30,000. A woman has only half the economic value of a man."

The slide for the proposed $185,000 federal building at Big Spring has been secured.

FOR HIGHER INCOME TAX

MEXICO CITY (INS)—The Mexican government has under consideration a proposal urging abolishment of internal revenue taxes in favor of a higher income tax. The National Chamber of Commerce has repeatedly petitioned the government to carry out the plan, arguing that suppression of the internal revenue stamp system not only would prove a boost to national industries, but that it would effect a large saving in administrative expenditures.

RAINS HALT PIPE LINE

VERA CRUZ, Mexico (INS)—Rains have delayed completion of the 223 kilometer oil pipe line from Palma Soia to Mexico City, but the line is expected to be in operation within a few weeks. Seven pump stations have been built to regulate the oil flow.

CALIN AND ABEL BATTERY

BRAINTREE, Mass. (INS)—Calin is still throwing things Abel's way. George Calin and Charlie Abel furnish the battery for the Braintree A.A. This modern Calin has the Indian sign on opposing banners, while Abel directs Calin in the art of fooling the batsmen.

Twenty-six graduates received their bachelor's degree from the Sul Ross Teachers College at Alpine, Texas, at the close of the summer school term, and one hundred and twenty teaching certificates were issued.

WON'T RUN FOR MAYOR

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (INS)—James W. Hook, formerly of Ames, Iowa, was twice drafted by Connecticut interests, once to come here to manage a great manufacturing plant, and again to take charge of the state's unemployment situation. But Mr. Hook has decided he will not permit New Haven to draft him as candidate for mayor. Mr. Hook's success with the state job had attracted the public notice, but when he was asked to run for mayor, he said emphatically, "Wouldn't consider it for a moment."

ITS INTERNATIONAL

"In other words, it is a purely cooperative system organized on an international basis and the advantages it gives to the individual retailer merchant mean greater profits and a lot of fun out of being in business. We are the heads of our own businesses, live in the community which we serve, not on them, pay taxes, take our parts in local affairs, are a tangible part of the community personnel and our money is spent with our neighboring dealers. Our whole organization is composed of men who are interested in the welfare of the community and in rendering their community a better service in the distribution of goods.

"Group buying has more than justified its existence with us."

Confesses Shooting

Denver police said John Markham (above) of Collinsville, Ill., confessed he shot and killed Stanley Moore, Michigan school of mines student, near Holyoke, Colo., after he had given Moore a ride in a stolen car. Markham boasted of 47 robberies from Toledo, O., to Los Angeles.
