HORNSBY AND KEN WILLIAMS ADD HOPES TO TWO BOSTON TEAMS

By HENRY MINOTT, United Press Staff Correspondent. BOSTON, March 7.—Strengthened by two important trades, Boston's big league baseball teams face the coming season, perhaps not with pennant hopes, but at least with confidence of finishing well outside the cellar.

The names of Rogers Hornsby, one of the National league's hardest hitters, and Ken Williams, one of the American league's long-range batsmen, loom large in the plans of the Boston Braves and Boston Red Sox for their 1928 campaigns.

In the case of the Braves, there is another reason for the hope that the new season may restore to the National league club some of its long-lost laurels. Jack Slattery, former Harvard and Boston college coach, has become manager of the Braves, and with this development fans have foreseen the possibility of an injection of college spirit into big league ball.

One of the Braves' principal weaknesses last season lay in its infield. It was in line with plans for strengthening the infield that Hornsby was obtained. With Hornsby at second Maurice Burrus at first, Eddie Moore at third, and Ed Farrell at short, the Braves will have an infield which should prove both "air-tight" and hard-hitting.

The Braves' veteran pitching staff has been augmented by eight twirlers from the minor leagues. Most promising among these, club officials believe, is 23-year-old Edward Brandt, a southpaw who came from the Seattle club.

Besides Brandt and the other newcomers, the Braves will have seven seasoned pitchers to carry the bulk of the season's hurling. Among them are Kent Greenfield, Bob Smith, Henry Wertz and Joe Genewich.

The trade of Frank Hogan to the New York Giants in the Hornsby deal left the Braves with only one catcher—Luke Urban. Club officials, however, felt that the purchase of Bill Cronin from Providence and E. B. Williams from Asheville would compensate for the loss of Hogan.

A veteran outfield completes the Braves' lineup for the coming season. Ed Brown, left, Lance Richbourg, right, and Jack Smith, center, will give the team the same staunch outfield as last year.

Pitchers and catchers already have begun training at St. Petersburg, Fla., and others on the team were due today. The Braves will start their schedule of 25 exhibition games March 9, and open the season with the Giants in New York on April 11.

While the Braves have concentrated on infield development, the Red Sox have centered their attention on building a stronger outfield.

Besides Ken Williams, who came here from St. Louis, new outfield material includes Denny Williams from Mobile, Douglas Taitt from Nashville, and Loepf from Nashville.

Last year Ken Williams hit for .323, Denny Williams for .350 and Taitt for .350, and President Bob Quinn of the Red Sox believes the addition of these hard hitters will give his team the necessary punch which was lacking last season.

"We will go into the new season with an experienced infield composed of men who have played at least one season together," Quinn said.

"Rothrock at short, Reagan at second, and Rogell at third, all looked good last season and should show even better this coming year.

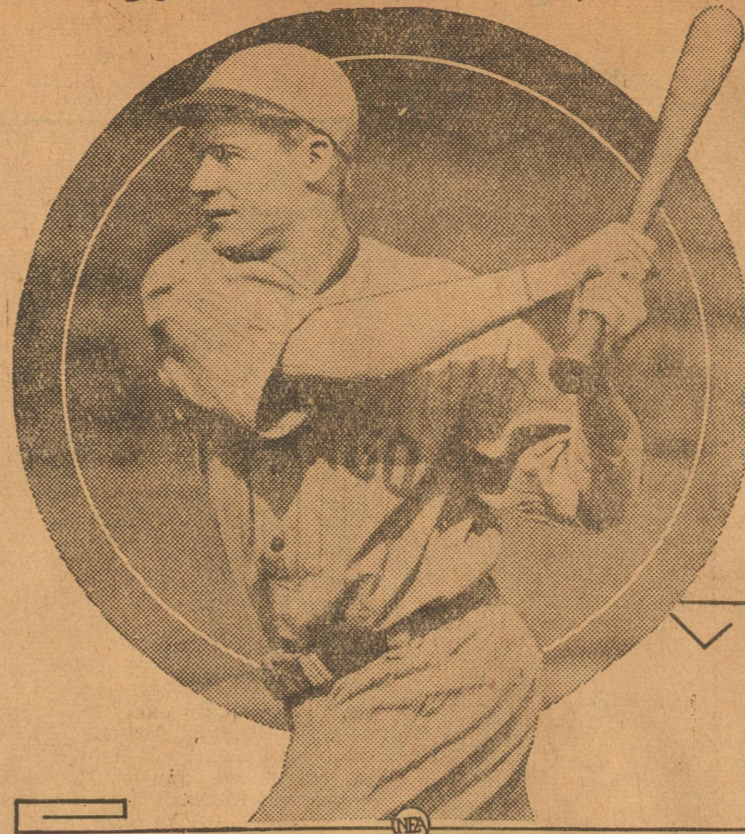

"A lack of co-ordination was our principal weakness last season. Coach Carrigan had a lot of inexperienced youngsters to work with and it took most of the season to mould them into a machine. Up to the Fourth of July we were terrible, but after that we played just as good ball as did a lot of the teams far higher up in the league standing.

"Of course we do not expect to win a pennant, but we do expect to make a much better showing than we did last year; a much better showing than we have made for the past several years.

"I expect 1928 to prove a turning point in the Red Sox career. I think it will mark a definite change for the better in our brand of ball and I am hopeful that during the next few years the Red Sox will climb slowly but surely back to the high places they formerly occupied."

With such veterans as Ruffing and Bryne Harris, President Quinn believed his pitching staff offered no cause for worry. Danny McFadyin,

Cost White Sox $123,000

Chalmers Cissell is the most expensive piece of ivory to be found in the training camps this spring. He is the property of the Chicago White Sox and hails from the Pacific Coast League. The tag attached to him called for $123,000 in cash and players.

SPORTSMATTER BY FRANK GETTY UNITED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Jimmy McLarin, who arrived at the forefront of fistic fame by virtue of a spectacular knockout victory over Sid Terris, now is being touted by his admirers as a second Joe Gans or another Benny Leonard.

Adulation to that extent is a bit premature. The little Irishman is clever, and he certainly nailed Terris with a beautiful right hand to the jaw, but Jimmy is not the boxer that Leonard was, nor can he be rated with Gans on the strength of his punch.

McLarin looks like the best lightweight to come along since Benny Leonard did his mother a favor a couple of years ago. But he must prove that appearances are not deceptive by beating Sammy Mandell.

Beating Mandell may take a bit of doing, as they say overseas. Because he has been so evasive, the present lightweight champion has come to be under-rated. Fight fans in the East forget that the little Albanian from Rockford is quite a devastating two-who broke into the big league game fresh from high school last year, is expected to develop into one of the team's star twirlers.

The Red Sox look to Fred Hoffmann, a veteran of last year, and John Heving, drafted from the Toledo club of the American association, to take care of the catching department.

Pitchers and catchers already have gone to Bradenton, Fla. Between 20 and 25 exhibition games are scheduled.

Irishman has done more to restore interest in the lightweight class than any fighter since Leonard retired. And if McLarin beats Mandell, Jimmy will be the most popular champion in any division.

Jack O'Sullivan, who refereed what there was of the McLarin shindig, is enthusiastic about Jimmy's hitting, because the blow which laid Sidney low traveled only about 18 inches. It is the short punchers who are the dangerous ones. Sam Langford, perhaps the greatest of all heavyweights, used to hit that way.

Young Girls Forfeit Game to Cooper; City Title Still In Doubt

Due to the fact that both the Young and Cooper school girls' indoor baseball teams were found to be playing ineligible girls, the city championship is still in doubt.

The series between Cooper girls and Young girls to decide who should meet Hodges Oak Park for the city championship was forfeited to Cooper after Young had won the series. It was found that Young was playing one girl over age and the deciding game was given to Cooper. Yesterday afternoon the Cooper girls defeated the Hodges Oak Park girls in the opening game of the championship series by the score of 25 to 20. The two teams will meet today on the Cooper grounds for the second game of the series.

The boys' series is still in doubt also. One game that was played between Cooper and Young teams was forfeited to the Young school and Cooper took the second from the Young aggregation by the score of 22 to 9. The two teams will meet this afternoon on the Hodges Oak Park grounds to decide the winner of the series. The winner of the Cooper-Young three game series will meet the Hodges Oak Park team in order to decide the city championship for the boys.

Rosenquest Visits Breckenridge Lions

Judge N. N. Rosenquest, district governor of Texas Lions, went to Breckenridge today to attend a meeting of presidents and secretaries from a group of 14 clubs over the district. This meeting was held with the Breckenridge club at its weekly meeting and luncheon.

Judge Rosenquest returned to Eastland Thursday from Winters and Anson where he had been on official business for the Lions. He says that the club organized this week at Del Rio made the twelfth club organized in his district since he took office as district governor last July 1.

Mable Flies at Last

Mabel Boll, "queen of diamonds," who since last summer sought to make a long non-stop airplane flight, has realized her ambition. This is the smile she took with her when she flew from New York to Cuba with Charles A. Levine and Wilmer Stultz in the trans-Atlantic Bellanca monoplane, "Columbia."

Huggins Has Big Job To Find New Third Sacker of Real Class

By GEORGE KIRKSEY, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, March 7.—The problems confronting the major league managers as they prepare their teams for the two pennant races are far from simple, but to the baseball fans they are, at least, a highly diverting fare.

Even Miller Huggins, pilot of the world champion Yankees, has a good-sized task to make life miserable for him down at St. Petersburg, Fla. The Yankees got by last year with first one and then the other playing third base, but Huggins wants a regular third baseman this season.

Joe Dugan might play the bag, but he has a trick knee. Gene Robertson failed with the Browns, and Mike Gazzella was not the type.

What may prove to be Connie Mack's last year at the helm of the Athletics is quite likely to furnish lots of excitement for the tall tactician. His foremost problem is at first base. Joe Hauser, back after two years at Kansas City, will get another chance to make good and if he fails, Jimmy Dykes, once a great third baseman, who has been turned into a handy man, will have the initial sack turned over to him.

No little interest concerns Tris Speaker and his niche with the A's. Ty Cobb failed to bring a pennant to Philadelphia, but Mack hopes Speaker will succeed where Ty failed.

The Yankees and Athletics are mutually concerned in the attempted come-backs of two former star hurlers who are almost done for. Stanley Coveleskie, the veteran Pole, is striving to get his "spitter" breaking as of old and win a berth with the Yankees and "Bullet Joe" Bush is working hard to make the grade with the A's.

Down at Tampa, Fla., the chief concern of Stanley Harris is how to get the best results out of two high-priced first basemen. The Senators already had Joe Judge and they bought George Sisler from the Browns during the winter. Harris may find the solution in shifting Sisler to the outfield.

The problem of most moment in the National League seemingly falls to the league's veteran manager, John McGraw, who is getting ready for his twenty-sixth season at the helm of the Giants.

With Rogers Hornsby gone, Mc-

Graw is hoping Andy Cohen, the Hebrew flash, will fill the gap at second and better pitching will offset the loss of Hornsby's offensive strength.

Among other things at St. Petersburg, just what part Hornsby will assume in the running of the Braves is not of least concern.

Out at Catalina Island the Cubs are experimenting with new players at second and third. And an interested fandom wants to know where Kiki Cuyler will bat in the Cubs' lineup.

The Pirates won a pennant last year without a reliable left-handed pitcher, but Donie Bush is searching among his rookies for a southpaw to take his regular turn this year. Fred Fussell, who hurled Wichita Falls to the Texas league pennant and Dixie championship, may fill the bill.

All eyes at Avon Park, Fla., are watching Chick Hafey, Lester Bell and Tommy Thevenow, who were on the sick and disabled list of the Cardinals last season for one reason or another. If Hafey, Bell and Thevenow round into 1928 form, the Cards may be stacked against the rest of the National league.

Panned for trading Lou Blue and Heinie Manusch to the Browns for Harry Rice and Elam Van Gilder, George Moriarty, if no one else, is convinced that Rice will speed up the Tiger outfield and that Van Gilder will steady the frequently woozy Detroit pitching staff.

Johnny Mostil is the center of attention at the White Sox camp at Shreveport, La., where he is attempting to win back his center field berth from Alex Metzler. Just about this time a year ago Mostil attempted self-destruction, and was out of the game most of last year, playing in only 13 games near the end of the season.

It will be interesting to see what comes of Phil Ball's wholesale shake-up of the St. Louis Browns. Except for Blue at first, Howley is up against the problem of playing rookies at three infield positions.

Roger Peckinpaugh has one of the most difficult jobs in either league in assembling the Indians. Among the principal problems facing Peckinpaugh in his first season as manager are finding a center fielder and

Everything is in readiness for the wrestling bout which will be staged tonight at the Ranger Athletic club headquarters, in the basement of the Gholson hotel, at 8 o'clock, between Harry Mamos of Boston and Gus Hakensmidt, of Evansville, Ind.

B. Demittraff, manager of the club, has had constructed in the basement of the hotel a large ring and was busy this afternoon arranging ringside seats for the opening bout of the new location. He will erect elevated seats before the match next week, he said today.

The match tonight bids fair to be a hard tussel from the beginning, both wrestlers weighing around 194 pounds. Mamos, the Boston heavy-

"Me Too" Button Sales Going Slow in County

The "Me Too" buttons which sell for a dollar for the purpose of assisting in financing the bringing of the national democratic convention to Houston in June, are not selling as rapidly in Eastland county as they should, according to Major Harry Breakford of Eastland, who has charge of the selling campaign.

The bringing of the big convention to any place in Texas is a great advertisement for the remainder of the state, as well as for the convention city, it is pointed out, and the citizens of the state in general are invited to contribute at least the price of one of the buttons.

Sunday School Lesson for Sunday

By H. W. WRYE
JESUS FEEDS THE MULTITUDES
Mark 6:31-34.

Golden Text—"I am the bread of life; he that cometh to me shall not hunger, and he that believeth on me shall never thirst."—(John 6:35.)

The scene of this story is in the region northeast of Sea of Galilee. Leading up to the lesson, we find Jesus hearing the apostles tell of the things they had accomplished while touring the country "two and two" as authorized by Him in last Sunday's lesson. About the same time, John's disciples appear and report the foul murder of John and the story of Herodias and her daughter. These delegations found Jesus in the vicinity of Capernaum. His usual headquarters when in Galilee. The excitement on account of Herod's desperate crime might end in a political revolt, which was contrary to the principles of Jesus in inaugurating His kingdom, and yet He might be involved in it, or seem to be, if He remained. Moreover, the Twelve needed rest. Then for certain the latter reason is given for crossing the Sea to an unpopulated place in the province of Herod Philip.

The Multitudes Follow
The people saw Jesus and His apostles depart and they "ran afoot thither out of all cities, and outwent them, and came together unto Him." The great highways to Jerusalem passed near the head of the lake. These were thronged with people from all sections going to the Passover, who had time to stop and see and hear the great Prophet. They flocked from every direction as it was reported that He was sailing towards the northeast. Jesus was "moved with compassion towards them, because they were as sheep not having a shepherd." He welcomed them weary as he was, and in search of needed rest. Jesus is never impatient at eagerness and importunity of suffering humanity. He healed their sick and taught them many things. It is quite probable that the disciples were active, doing what they could to help, and learning how to do their work better in the future.

The Multitude Have Supper
The sun was sinking fast behind the western hills. His disciples suggest that the crowds be dismissed so they might go into the country around about and buy food. Jesus replied,

"Give ye them to eat." Their comment was that 200 pennyworth of bread would furnish only a little for each individual. (That amount of bread at the present time would be equal to about $300. Thus we can get some idea of the multitude.) Andrew reported that a boy in the crowd had a lunch with him amounting to 5 loaves and 2 fishes. Jesus commanded that the people be seated. He took the loaves and fishes and "blessed" and break them, and distributed by the apostles to the hungry throngs. "And they did all eat, and were filled. And they took up twelve baskets full of the fragments, and of the fishes." 5000 men were fed to say nothing of the women and children supplied.

A Lesson for Innumerable Multitudes
The greatness of this miracle and the lesson involved is emphasized by the fact that all four of the evangelists record it. Healing the sick, casting out demons, stilling the wind and the waves and raising the dead, are all monumental testimonies to the divinity of Jesus Christ. This miracle teaches us the importance of promoting the welfare of souls by being considerate of the physical condition. The compassion of our Lord, is a manifestation of spirit that we must have, or else forfeit the distinction of discipleship. (Rom. 8:9.) The world is hungry for the Word of God, which is the bread of life. It has been "fed up" on theology, misinterpretation and impracticable unscriptural propositions so much, that many have lost their appetite for Christianity and are starving. Disciples are too often prone to excuse themselves on various pretences, especially on that of poverty. They argue limitation in Scriptural conversational ability, what little they might say would do no good, they claim. The prayer spirit is so little, that they would be ashamed to offer it, and when it comes to contributing money to the cause of salvation, they raise a poverty howl that would scare a pack of hungry wolves in West Texas. Ah, listen, "Give ye them to eat," commands Jesus. A little, properly managed, and brought to Him for His blessings will go further than it is commonly supposed. He does not, in general, give His disciples a great fund to begin with; but He disposes them to make a proper use of a little; and when this is done in "the obedience of faith," it increases in their hands, and they are enriched rather than impoverished. Have we ever read a more discouraging summary than that which the disciples presented to the Lord. The place is barren, the time is late, the people are many, the need is real and the task is gigantic. This type of men today are forever drawing dark pictures, you remove one difficulty and they introduce another. In the face of this creative illustration by miracle, let us profit. The Word of God was delivered by Jesus, and He gave it to the apostles, and they have given it to the world. If all the things said and done by Jesus, had been recorded "the world itself could not contain the books." (John 21:25.) Notwithstanding, enough has been written and distributed by the apostles that "we might believe Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing, ye might have life through His name." (John 20:31.) To merely believe that the "loaves and fishes" were good food or that it would satisfy hunger without eating thereof, is unreasonable. Equally so, to read the Word of God distributed by the apostles, and to understand and believe it inspired, is not enough to save the perishing soul. "But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?" says James. Man does not get credit for his works, but for the faith that actually acts. If we receive the Word into our hearts it will increase until the whole man is filled and he may walk through the valley of the shadow of death, without the fear of evil and "dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

"There Must Be Pioneers—"

Colonel Lindbergh, who flies because he likes to, was just a little resentful when he heard that officials are concerned about his personal safety and want him to make no more long-distance flights. "There must be pioneers to show the way," commented the flyer. The flags painted on the bow of his "Spirit of St. Louis" indicate where he has been "showing the way" during the 40,000 miles the ship has flown.

State Treasury May Set New High Mark

AUSTIN, March 8.—A new high mark for the state treasury is predicted for April by State Treasurer Hatcher. In past years April has been the banner month. The high mark of the state treasury by years has been: 1920—$16,661,738. 1921—$12,016,452. 1922—$7,990,918. 1923—$9,496,005.

1924—$13,131,638. 1925—$12,349,209. 1926—$12,104,684. 1927—$19,557,458. 1928—$23,528,758. The money does not actually remain in the state treasury department. It is distributed among depository banks and earns interest for the state. Under the law the county tax collectors are supposed to make their payments to the state by February 25. Failure to do so, it is estimated, costs the state a heavy loss of interest.

THE CANARY MURDER CASE

THE STORY THUS FAR The jewel case in the apartment of the murdered Margaret Odell had been opened with a steel chisel after a futile battering with a poker.

"I'll see to it at once. Drop in at the club around five, if you feel like it. I'll have the officer there then, as Cleaver is sure to come in before dinner."

Housewives Now Can Do Their Cooking By Means of the Radio

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—Fryless fried eggs and unbaked baked apples are stunts or radio cooking made possible by development of a new high frequency radio tube announced recently at the General Electric Company's laboratories here.

Demonstrations which a few years ago would have been relegated to the realm of fairy tales are being shown at the laboratories where a short wave radio, an innocuous looking vacuum tube five inches in diameter, set down in a wooden cage, does the work of a cook stove, and electric warming pad, or an electric lighting plant. An incandescent lamp, pulled from its socket for the first time, lights to full brilliancy without wires or socket; a copper bar lying on the floor, blisters the hand that picks it up, though the metal is cold, and a neon tube suddenly floods the room with its lurid red glow when merely touched by a spectator.

The tube is surrounded by a network of wires, condensers, and electric meters. The tube operates as a self-excited oscillator on a wavelength of six meters, and is capable of radiating from 10 to 15 kilowatts of high frequency power—probably 50 times as much as any short-wave tube has heretofore been able to produce. The tube is connected through a coupling system to a copper bar approximately three meters long, which constitutes the tuned aerial circuit, and is able to radiate into space the full 15 kilowatts generated by the oscillator.

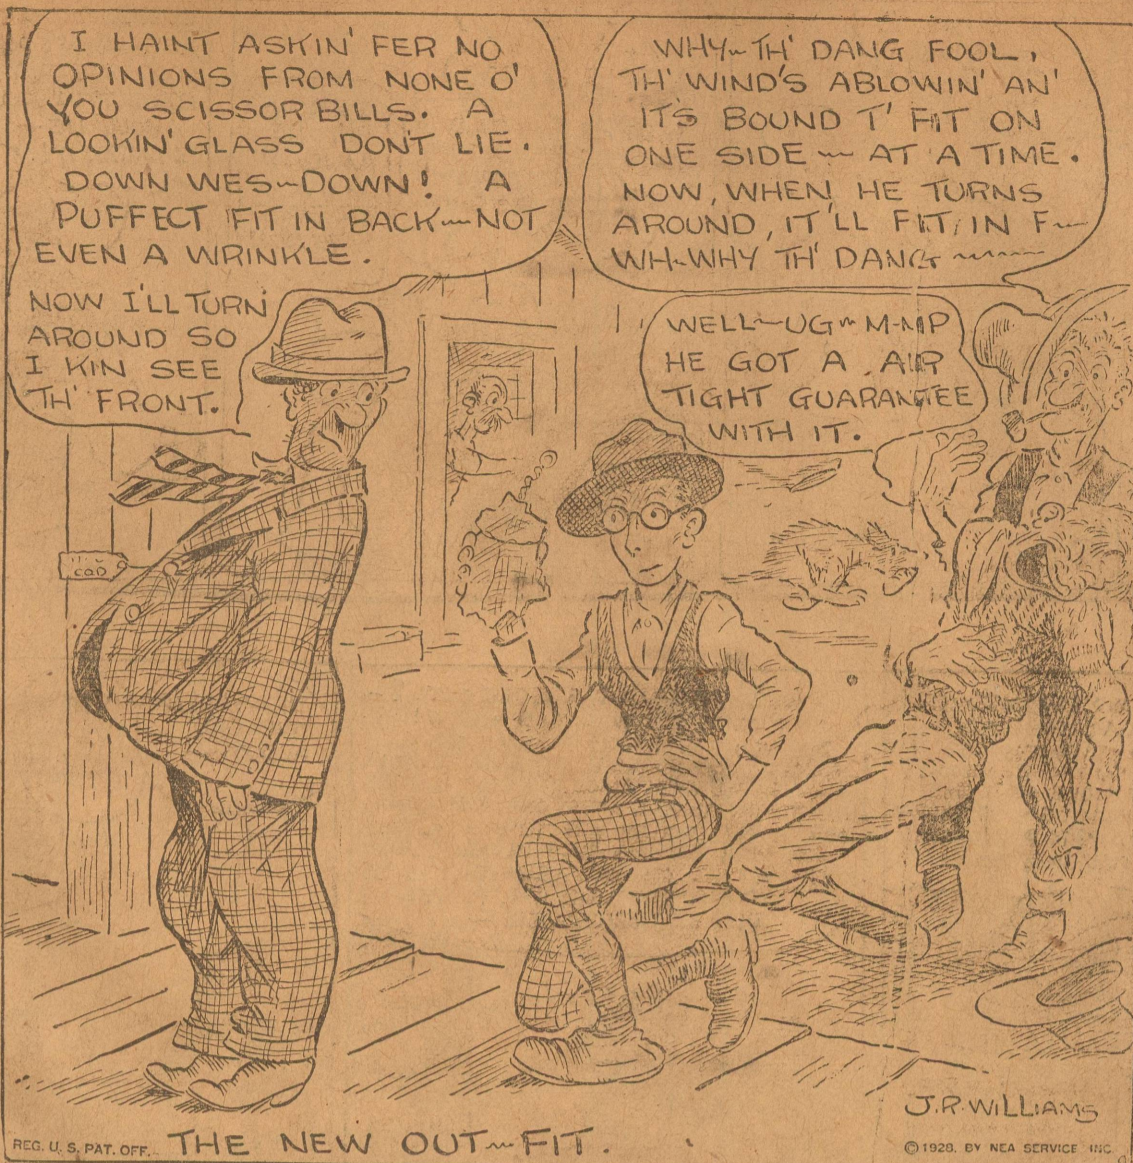

"This 6-meter tube has nothing new in principle," said H. J. Nolte, who is actively engaged in high-power vacuum tube development. "Very short radio waves have always been easy to produce at low power. Also, very high power has for some time been available at the longer wave-lengths. This is the first time, however, that we have been able to combine the two, so as to get relatively large power outputs on the short wave-lengths. This new tube is a step in the development of short-wave radio transmission, on which we have been intensively engaged for several years. At present we can generate the power, but we have not yet devised a method of controlling its frequency within the close limits necessary for commercial operation."

When asked what plans were underway for the future of the high-power short-wave investigation, L. A. Hawkins, executive engineer of the Research Laboratory, said that General Electric had no definite plans for this investigation.

"The proposition was to build a high-power tube of this type," he said, "and our time has so far been taken entirely with the development of the apparatus itself. Vacuum tube technique had to be improved considerably before it was possible to design and produce an oscillator which would give the large power output we were seeking. We have not studied the applications of the new tube at all, except to make a record of the interesting sidelights which its operations has brought out. The demonstrations indicate that many of the high-frequency phenomena may be worth investigating, and it is likely that in the future applications will suggest themselves, as they always do when a new field is entered."

In the radio cooking a wire was suspended over a table at some distance from the radiating aerial, and parallel to it. A sausage, placed in a glass tube, was hung from the end of this receiving aerial, and in a few minutes it began to steam. On being removed, it was found to have been beautifully cooked by the high-frequency currents induced in it, although no flames or other visible means of heating were applied. A fry-less fried egg was also prepared in the glass tube, and served hot to the spectators. An apple was impaled upon the end of the receiving aerial, and in a short time was thoroughly baked to the core.

BELL 700 YEARS OLD RINGS IN OLD SWEDISH CHURCH

By United Press.
STOCKHOLM, March 9.—A 700-year-old church bell with a tone of unusual beauty still rings each Sunday in the little village of Saleby in the west of Sweden. According to the inscription on the bell, it has been in continuous service since 1228.

For the first time known, a shark and a white sturgeon were caught recently at Nova Zemba, the Arctic Island in the Kara Sea, and observers there say that this indicates that a warm ocean current has shifted so that it now skirts the shores of the island.
