Ranger will play Eastland in a scheduled match of the Oil Belt Golf association tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 at the Ranger Country club. Eastland will be well represented and their strongest players will be present to uphold the prestige of the Eastland club.

H. J. Mendenhall, secretary of the team urges that every member of the Ranger Country club who can swing a club be present at the home course by 1:30 at the latest.

Ranger has been going well for the last two weeks and the players are waking up and turning in creditable scores for the course. There are a number of the Ranger team who are making the course in the eighties. The country club course here is much more difficult than the majority of the courses in this section of the country and 80 is a very low score. The fairways are in excellent condition and the greens are hard and smooth and the greens committee report that the rain did not hurt them in any way and if anything they are in a better condition.

Secret of Hardening Copper, Lost Many Years, Discovered

MECHANIC JUST STUMBLES INTO HIDDEN PATH

Finds Accidentally Valuable Secret Which Scientists Have Sought in Vain.

By United Press.

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 5.—The secret of hardening copper, lost more than 2,000 years ago with the passing of ancient Egyptian civilization, has been found accidentally by James Earl Cummings, 33, a switchman with an eight grade education. Cummings, who has a wife and six children between 1 and 10 years of age, today has a check for $1,500,000 paid to him outright for the discovery by a big copper company in Detroit.

Numerous salesmen besieged him today seeking to sell him one thing or another. "I guess I won't buy a car for awhile," he told them. "I've had this old bus for a long time and it was responsible for my discovery." Cummings was cleaning the copper gasket of his car and stuck them into a mixture which he figured would clean them best. He then discovered that the gaskets would spring back when he bent them.

"I told some of the boys at the shop about it and they said my fortune was made," he said. "I patented the formula and that about cleaned me out. Then the Detroit people asked me to submit tests, which I did. They were satisfied, it appears, for I got this check that almost staggered me."

Cummings said he would buy a home in University City, a suburb of St. Louis, where the children could get plenty of air. Then he will go to Montana and act as an instructor when his formula of hardening copper is being practically demonstrated.

COLLEGE NIGHT WATCHMAN NEARS 20,000-MILE MARK

DENTON, July 5.—Nearing his 20,000-mile mark, John Brock is still tramping the grounds at the college of Industrial Arts here every night, 350 nights during the year, as he has for the past five years. Brock estimates that he tramps 12 miles each night making his rounds of the buildings and the grounds.

The nightwatchman is a favorite among the students and on winter nights when the students are granted special privileges to pore over their books in the college offices the watchman is always on hand to brew coffee for the young women and to scare the bugaboos sometimes associated with darkness.

WALTER SPLAWN TO BE NEXT TEXAS UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT

Member Texas Railroad Commission and Former Professor of Economics Accepts Offer of University Regents.

By United Press.

AUSTIN, July 5.—Walter Splawn, for the last 16 months a member of the Texas railroad commission and formerly professor of economics in the University of Texas, today accepted the presidency of the University of Texas, when notified by Dr. J. S. Wooten and H. A. Wroe, members of the board, of his election.

Dr. Wooten announced today that he had received a telegram from Dr. H. E. Bolton of the University of California, who was elected to the presidency of the university in June, definitely declining the office.

Dr. Splawn was named by Governor Neff as a member of the Texas railroad commission to fill a vacancy and has made a wonderful success of his work. He not only has given the subject of railroad rates the most careful and conscientious study, but he has conducted a campaign of education of the people along the line of marketing. He demonstrated that not only was he an executive, but a student of the subject at all times, and his work as railroad commissioner has been satisfactory to shippers and railroad alike, because all parties have felt that he was at all times thoroughly informed and fair.

YOUNGEST SON OF PRESIDENT IS VERY SICK

Operation Necessary to Save Him From Blood Poisoning.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—An operation was performed early tonight on Calvin Coolidge Jr. in an attempt to save his life. "The operation accomplished all we hoped," Dr. Charles Richardson said on leaving the Walter Reed army hospital, where the patient was taken. This was all he would say. An official statement will be issued later.

It was learned at the hospital after the operation that young Calvin Coolidge was resting easily. Following the operation the attending physicians went into consultation. President Coolidge, his head bowed and his face drawn in anxiety, could be seen by watchers, entering a brightly lighted room on the third floor of one of the big buildings of the hospital. Mr. Coolidge stationed himself at a bedside for a while. Mrs. Coolidge was also in the room.

The boy was believed at that time to have come out from under the ether, at least partially. It was understood that neither the president nor Mrs. Coolidge would go to the boy until he had recovered consciousness. Neither was in the operating room.

Calvin Coolidge Jr. is 16 years of age, and the youngest son of President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge. He is fighting off the creeping threat of a dangerous attack of blood poisoning.

LA FOLLETTE CANDIDATE OF PROGRESSIVES

He is Formally Launched As An Independent Presidential Nominee.

By United Press.

MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM, CLEVELAND, Ohio, July 5.—Senator Robert M. La Follette was officially put forward tonight as the candidate of the progressive party for president of the nation. The convention endorsed La Follette's declaration of war on the two old parties and adopted his platform.

La Follette will immediately launch a campaign of opposition to the republican and democratic nominees, not as a third party candidate, but as an independent, bound to neither one.

The national committee of the convention will call upon La Follette after the democratic convention is concluded and ask him to name a vice presidential nominee.

The platform on which La Follette will base his campaign will demand economic reforms to kill the power of money over the government of the nation. The proposition for the formation of a distinct third party was delayed until after the November election. After a report of the organization committee was adopted it was agreed that the national executive committee would next January call another convention to take up the formation of a third party. This satisfied all elements in the convention and every step was taken with almost unanimous approval. Every action taken was with enthusiastic demonstration. The lone purpose of the convention was to crystallize a revolt against the major parties and organize a strong movement for La Follette, and it was accomplished.

Morris Hillquist, socialist leader, made an appeal from the platform for the unanimous adoption of the La Follette platform. It is practically the same as formulated by La Follette some months ago for his Wisconsin campaign. It sets forth fourteen planks, chief of which are: Calling for the extension of government aid; repeal of the Esch-Cummings law, tax reduction upon a larger scale on small incomes; demand for constitutional amendment to lessen the power of the federal courts to nullify acts of congress and other things he has fought for in congress.

The chief accomplishment was an arrangement for a national movement. It will start a campaign in every state to back La Follette and aid the progressive movement.

Borah Hesitates To Probe Expenditures Of the Delegates

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Senator Borah, chairman of the senate committee named to keep tab on campaign expenses and contributions, today sent a wire to Timothy P. Ansberry, alternate delegate at large at New York convention, and opponent of McAdoo, in reply to Ansberry's request that the committee investigate contributions to delegates to the convention. Borah sent his wire to Ansberry, "care so-called democratic national convention," and in it said: "I doubt if the resolution under which the committee is acting covers any investigations other than those pertaining to candidates after nomination. Consult with Senators Caraway and Bayard, who are in the convention, and advise me as to their views. Jones and Shipstead out of city. If it appears that we have authority and facts that will justify, I will undertake to get the committee together."

The senators referred to are members of the committee.

BOOKLET ON TANNING HIDES ISSUED BY A. & M. COLLEGE

By United Press.

COLLEGE STATION, July 5.—So many inquiries have come to the A. & M. college about tanning hides on the farm that the extension service has published a brief pamphlet of instructions on the subject of tanning skins, which will be sent free to all who request it. The book advises that a chemical tan is more advisable for the farmer than a bark tan since it is much more rapid and can be completed in from three to four weeks, instead of requiring several months as the bark tanning process.

BALLOTING FOR PARTY LEADER THROUGH DAY

Democratic National Convention Groans on Like Weary Dray Horse.

By United Press.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, July 5.—Groaning on with deep stupidity, the democratic national convention took up its sixth day of balloting today, apparently no closer to a choice of a presidential candidate. The first ballot of the day showed no change, McAdoo getting 528½ ballots and Smith 333½ ballots, with the remainder distributed over the field. The galleries were virtually empty, with scarcely more than half of the delegates present. Each state's spokesman arose wearily and announced the delegates' choice in a hollow voice. Women delegates in the California section waved their brightly colored banners and flags automatically when the McAdoo votes were announced. They have been doing this all week.

Seventy-first Ballot. Balloting began this morning with the seventy-first ballot, which gave the following results: McAdoo 528½, Smith 333½, J. W. Davis 68, Underwood 37½, Glass 25, Robinson 21, Owen 2, Ritchie 16½, Salisbury 6, Baker 56, Bryan 2, Walsh 1.

Seventy-seventh Ballot. McAdoo 513, Smith 367, Underwood 47½, Glass 27, Robinson 24, Owen 4, Ritchie 16½, Salisbury 6, Baker 1, Walsh 2, Cox 1, Ralston 6½, Bryan 4, Roosevelt 1.

ACTRESS GETS WORST OF BATTLE WITH POLICE, THREATENS TO SUE

By United Press.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Rosette Duncan, the "Topsy" of the "Topsy and Eva," now playing here, will seek heavy damages of the village of Cicero, Chicago suburb and two of its patrolmen, she said today as she lay in bed in her home with a broken nose, two broken ribs and other injuries.

She charges that the officers beat her when she and her brother, Harold, laughed after being arrested for a minor traffic regulation. She charges that the policemen had been drinking. Theodore Scobods, policeman, indignantly denied the charges. "It was the automobile party that had been drinking," he said, "and it was Miss Duncan who started the battle."

COMPROMISE CANDIDATE IS LATEST PLAN

Convention Leaders Hope to Agree on Man to Be Nominated Monday Morning.

By United Press.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, July 5.—The nomination of a compromise candidate, Monday, is now the program of the democratic national convention. After hours of fruitless balloting today, followed by conferences of the leaders, the convention at 3:40 o'clock this afternoon, adopted a resolution calling on the various candidates and their representatives to confer with Chairman Walsh and Cordell Hull, chairman of the national executive committee, on a program of procedure and selection of a man who can be nominated.

It was significant that the man who presented the resolution was Tom Taggart of Indiana, campaign manager for Ralston, whose name was withdrawn yesterday in the interest of harmony at Ralston's request.

UNITED PRESS HEADQUARTERS, July 5.—In the room of Cordell Hull, chairman of the democratic national executive committee, representatives of more than a score of candidates whose names have been presented to the democratic convention through nomination speeches or votes, gathered tonight in an attempt to agree on a candidate for the nomination.

After 77 futile ballots, during which McAdoo and Smith were in hopeless deadlock, the convention today adopted a resolution for a conference of the delegate representatives of all candidates.

The clerk called roll after roll and there was little difference in the votes. Then leaders began to see that unless something was done the still fail to name a nominee. Tom Taggart of Indiana leaped into the breach and called Cordell Hull, chairman of the national committee, from the platform. Hull called Walsh, permanent chairman of the national convention. They in turn called representatives of McAdoo and Smith together. Then Taggart suggested that the resolution be presented to the convention calling for a conference of the representatives of the various candidates.

UNITED PRESS HEADQUARTERS, July 5.—Two striking personalities clashed in head-on strife for the presidential nomination during the present democratic national convention, leaving a wreckage of blasted conditions and a shattered party. The bitter struggle between William G. McAdoo and Al Smith has never been equalled in the democratic party. Delegates who were voting and perhaps the people as a whole, saw the fight between a man, William G. McAdoo, well known as former secretary of treasury and director general of the railroads, and a man, Al G. Smith, the most popular governor New York ever had but not well known throughout the country.

Catholic vs. Protestant. Bound up in the remnants whirling about the standards of each of these men there developed these points in the controversy: Wet vs. dry. North vs. south. Conservatives vs. radicals. Eastern big business vs. western hostility to Wall street. Machine organization vs. independent enthusiasm. Personal ambition vs. personal ambition.

Long before the convention gathered, the differences between these basic factors began to enter. Then, fired by atrociously bad judgment by some parties in the camp of one or the other, the issues involved overshadowed all else at the convention (Continued on page four)

Motion To Adjourn To Kansas City Is Easily Voted Down

By United Press.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, July 5.—Still floundering in a deadlock, with bad temper rising, the democratic national convention today entertained and then voted down a resolution to adjourn the present session and reconvene in Kansas City, July 21. Other similar resolutions are expected to be presented unless some means are found of breaking the deadlock in balloting for presidential nominee.

The motion to adjourn to Kansas City was defeated by the time New York was reached on the roll call. It required only a majority vote to carry it, but the McAdoo forces voted solidly against the idea.

BIBLE THOUGHT.
THOU HAST A MIGHTY ARM; strong is thy hand, and high is thy right hand. Justice and judgment are the habitation of thy throne; mercy and truth shall go before thy face.—Psalm 89:13, 14.

THE NEWSPAPER.
There is no greater responsibility than that resting upon the editor of a newspaper. The late Dr. Talmadge said: "The newspaper is the great educator of the nineteenth century. There is no force compared with it. It is book, pulpit, platform, forum, all in one. And there is not an interest—religious, literary, commercial, scientific, agricultural or mechanical—that is not within its grasp. All our churches, and schools, and colleges, and asylums and art galleries, feel the quaking of the printing press."
Every man who has anything to do with the making of a newspaper should take special pride in giving it a character for truth and wisdom. "I saw it in the newspaper" ought to be sufficient evidence of the truth of an assertion.
But newspapers are human institutions, and are good or bad, in precise proportion to the character of their makers. Some are avidacious and look at all questions through the business office, some are timid and sycophantic, and some are weak and foolish. To put them all in a class would be as unjust as to put all men in the same class.

The world would be a stupid place to live in if it were not for the newspapers, and it would also be a much more cruel and tyrannical world. Besides being a terror to evil doers, the newspaper inspires heroism, patriotism, philanthropy and integrity. When the newspaper becomes a traitor to its trust, and the people lose faith in its sincerity, God help the republic!

THE COATLESS QUESTION.
Now that genuine summer weather has arrived, hung up its hat and announced its intentions of staying a while, the question of coat versus shirt-sleeves once more rears its head.
The women retain the proud privilege of wearing the shirtwaist ubiquitously. For church or shopping or evening party the shirtwaist is an enigma for femininity and, apparently, always will be.
The man who would venture to remove his coat in church would be looked upon as mentally deficient, and fashionable hotels and restaurants will not countenance his presence.

Regular pastors, sweltering in their heavy black frocks, often envy the Rev. Billy Sunday who not only removes his coat in mixed audiences, but also collar and dress shirt when talking to men only. But, then, he is an evangelist and is answerable to no one.

Court judges cling to precedent no less resolutely than the clergy. Some courts refuse permission to sweltering jurors to remove their coats while others encourage it.

With the exception of church and court room, there are few places where a man could not wear his shirtwaist, sans coat, if he really wished to do so, but it is man himself who is responsible for the popular attitude toward his mode of apparel. If the shirtwaist man were numerous enough, he would meet with no opposition. The women are not greatly concerned over his fashions, so it is a question for man himself to settle. Humiliating as may be the confession, man is the prize sartorial coward.

Woman has nerve enough to adopt the most outlandish and hideous fashions which human ingenuity can conceive, but the lords of creation don't dare to take up a new style that's sensible.

It is man's own fault that he is conventional rather than comfortable.

ARMY OF TAX EATERS IS THIS COUNTRY'S BIG PROBLEM

It is fair, says the Youth's Companion, to think of the annual tax bill as the interest on a blanket mortgage placed on all the wealth of the country. Regarded in this way the tax mortgage amounts to 170 billion dollars. This is more than one-half the value of all the property in the United States.

There are today 544,671 civilian employees of the national government, and the number of officials of all sorts supported by the tax levies is put by the National Industrial Conference at 3,400,000. The public pay roll consumes about four billion dollars. There are twice as many as there were twenty years ago, though the population has increased by only forty per cent. If population and the extension of governmental activities increase in the same ratio for another forty years, one out of every five workers will be a government clerk or official supported by the wage-earners and taxpayers of the community.

In a recent address at Chicago, Dr. Charles E. Brown, dean of the Yale school of religion, mentioned several of the causes that brought about the fall of the classic civilization and found them all active here and now to corrupt and corrode our own social system. One was a greedy and thoughtless indulgence in luxury; another was the weakening of the family through easy and frivolous recessive taxation; and a fourth was course to divorce; another was the lowered standards of citizenship and civic responsibility.

HISTORY OF THE STUDEBAKER CORPORATION

It is Written by Albert R. Erskine and is Both History and Biography.

The outstanding book of the year is not a novel, or philosophy or a fantasy, but is a combination historical-biographical sketch. "The History of the Studebaker Corporation," written by Albert Russell Erskine, president of the Studebaker Corporation, and dedicated to the memory of John Mohler Studebaker. It is an amplified second edition of a history written several years ago for Studebaker stockholders, dealers and other friends.

The Studebaker brothers, and their father before them, were blacksmiths, woodworkers and wagonmakers by trade," says the preface. "Stretching over a period of two generations, they developed and expanded the Studebaker horse-drawn vehicle business until it reached world-wide proportions. Frugality, industry, self denial and honesty characterized their lives and built the foundation upon which the trade name Studebaker rests today so securely. No trade name in American industry enjoys a better reputation.

There is so much in the book that is interesting that it is difficult to properly review it in a brief manner. It tells of the arrival of the Studebaker family in America, from Rotterdam to Philadelphia, September 1, 1794, and of the first home of John Studebaker, father of the five brothers, near Gettysburg, Pa., where he built a brick house and established a blacksmith shop. He resolved about 1835 to go west, built a covered wagon and migrated in it with his family to Ashland, Ohio, where he established the Studebaker shop and home and built wagons.

The sons scattered as they became of age, but none went far except J. M. Studebaker, who spent several years in California. The business at South Bend, Indiana was started by Henry and Clem in a very small way, but eventually the five brothers became interested in it, and yet later their sons and their sisters sons. An interesting picture in the book is a page showing the five Studebaker brothers, each wearing a long beard and three of them with the upper lip shaved in the old style.

The development of the Studebaker corporation and, at the same time, the growth and development at South Bend, is described in pleasing and interesting manner. The book contains many pictures of buildings and scenes in South Bend. But of chief interest are the pictures showing the growth and progress of the Studebaker, the types of vehicles turned out in different periods, pictures of the plant, of the officers, staff and other employees, and finally pictures of the automobiles manufactured by the Studebaker Corporation, including many of the latest models.

The book is well written in a style that holds the interest both of those who are concerned in the development of the Studebaker products and those who like to follow progression along industrial lines. It is, as stated heretofore, both history and biography and as such is entitled to a cherished place in any library.

BURKETT DECLARES HIS OPPONENTS ADOPT HIS ANNOUNCED PLATFORM

MT. VERNON, Franklin County, July 5.—In speaking of his platform, Joe Burkett told his audience here that over one year ago his platform was published and that now every one of his opponents had from one to six of his planks, parading them as their own. And, he said, they were the only constructive ones on which they stood. Senator Burkett said: "About two months ago I sent in to several of the big daily papers my views on the penitentiary system, which had already been published in my platform one year ago, and again in January of this year, but I went more into detail in this article. Two days later Lynch Davidson had an article in the papers advocating practically the same thing that I had given to the press. He knows so little of government and governmental principles that he can't have any original views of his own along these lines. All of my opponents waited until they saw whether the people looked favorably upon my platform and now they take as their own the thing that the people give as their reason for supporting me.

"Will Lynch Davidson tell the people of Texas why he waited so long to give his views on the highway and the penitentiary questions? Will Mr. Davidson tell why he takes these things which were advocated by me and gives them to the people as reasons why they should vote for him? Mr. Davidson will soon be as strong for my platform as Mr. Robertson is. I am glad they like it, but I want them to be fair enough to give me the credit for these ideas, since they are my own. But you know some people are like that. If either of these men were old enough they would claim the authorship of the declaration of independence. I wouldn't be surprised at them doing so anyway. They think that the people are ignorant enough to believe them. But I am going to tell you that the people of Texas know my platform and know that my opponents are copying it. I have told over 250,000 people what I stand for and they are not going to forget it."

Battle of Giants. McAdoo and Smith tumbled into this wreckage today after many hours of futile balloting. McAdoo, of magnetic personality, remarkable persuasion and an inspired following, maintained a lead in the voting throughout.

Before the convention adjourned this afternoon to permit the candidates to struggle for a compromise candidate, the bitterness of the struggle had actually developed two parties fighting each other in the camp of one.

RIOTING AND BASEBALL WITH THE N. Y. YANKS

By FRANK GETTY, United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The New York sport writers have been shedding bitter tears because President Johnson of the American league plastered a $100 fine and 10 days' suspension on Outfielder Bob Meusel, while he gave Cole, the Detroit pitcher, a small fine for their part in pulling off the Detroit riot.

Their demands for Cobb's punishment were based on the somewhat feeble claim that Cobb had given his pitchers orders to "dust off" opposing batters and that Cole hit Meusel in an effort to drive him from the plate. The general attitude was that the Yanks are God's anointed and therefore are sacred.

But that is just how the charge against Cobb is. Cobb is admittedly a hot-headed southerner, but no one who knows him well will believe for a minute that he would give orders that might result in the serious injury to a fellow ball player.

General opinion in baseball circles, out of the fanatical Yank fans and writers, is that Meusel didn't get half that was coming to him. He deliberately started the riot which he knew would result by his attack on Cole before a hostile Detroit crowd.

Meusel is a man of some intelligence, and if the riot day was one of his thinking days, he must have known that he was starting something he couldn't finish.

Baseball writers all over the circuit are of the opinion that "Ducky" Holmes inflicted unnecessarily heavy punishment on the St. Louis Browns for the little flareup on the St. Louis grounds recently. Johnson's suspension for Sisler, Collins and Austin was, of course, based on Holmes' report. Sisler, as manager, certainly had a right to protest in a gentlemanly way if he thought his team was getting a raw deal and no one who knows Sisler believes that even in the heat of the game, he would so far forget himself to make anything but a gentlemanly protest.

HINTS FOR THE CAMPING DIET

Hikes, Fishing and Hunting Trips and Motor Tours Require Proper Lunches to Give Pleasure and Benefit to the Outings.

With the approach of summer, many housewives are confronted with a new phase of the food problem. The whole family, or some part of it, begins going off on hikes, fishing expeditions, camping trips, motor tours.

Or if it doesn't, it should. Getting outdoors is a growing national custom, and one that means more for health than almost any other you can think of. The automobile has brought the country and even the wilderness within striking distance of the city dweller.

Most camp menus are deficient in fruits and vegetables, and this is especially true of hiking and canoe trips where economy of space and weight is necessary.

Fruits and vegetables supply vitamins, minerals such as lime and iron and cellulose or roughage, which are just as necessary to health in the long run as sugars and proteins.

Dried fruit affords one of the most convenient methods of balancing the too-heavy camp diet and wise outdoor men know this.

Dated sugar is a prime necessity of the man who is undergoing hard physical exertion and exposure. They contain protein, in a small quantity, but enough so that the Arabs are able to live and do hard work on dates.

The same is true in large measure of figs, which have a little less food value than dates, but have a specific action on the bowels that makes them especially valuable as an element in a too-concentrated diet.

Prunes and dried apricots are two other fruits that should go with every camper for the sake of his health. The secret of preparing these fruits is to let them soak in water over night.

Don't let indigestion spoil that trip. A little intelligent thought before hand is much better than a pill afterward.

Collecting County Exhibit For State Fair In Dallas

While it is sometime before the Texas State Fair opens at Dallas in October, representatives from the various chambers of commerce in Eastland county are working now to collect and arrange an agricultural and poultry exhibit for Eastland county to be shown there at that time.

Considerable time, some expense and much work is necessary to get a good exhibit of this kind, hence those engaged in the work are urging that every farmer, land owner, business man and others interested in the welfare of the county cooperate to the greatest extent in helping to arrange this exhibit.

Eastland county is known the world over as an oil and gas producing country, but is now so well known as an agricultural and poultry producing country. It is becoming known as the latter, however, and the secretaries of the chambers of commerce are receiving many inquiries along that line from people all over the United States who are seeking location for that line of business.

Mr. Briggs, secretary of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, stated Saturday morning that it was very necessary that choice lots of certain fruits, berries, etc., should be got together at once as some will soon be gone.

Napoleon Bonaparte, when he was first consul of France, decreed that Parisienne barbers should not wash women's hair with inflammable liquids, as "such action presented grave dangers."

LUFKIN.—The new telephone system for this city has been completed and is now in operation.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Home canners of the country are now in the midst of the annual food conservation battle. Mrs. Housewife and Little Miss Housewife have "put up" the small fruits and now wait for the big ones to be put under the rubber ring.

In the United States about five million long tons of sugar are used every year. The part nature plays in providing with this sugar reads like a romance, says the American Nature association. In the colonial days sugar was seventy-five cents a pound.

Sugars of commerce are derived from sugarcane and from sugar-beets. Sugar-beets will grow in different climates if the soil be favorable, but sugarcane is a grass that requires the warmth of the tropics. The consequence is that much more beet than cane sugar is produced in continental United States.

Cane (long tons) Cuba, 3,602,910; Hawaii, 469,000; Porto Rico 338,456; Philippines, 264,000; Louisiana, 203,478; Texas, 2,810; Virgin Islands, 1,739; Total, 4,942,455.

Beet and Cane Sugar. Beet sugar is produced in seventeen states—Washington, California, Nevada, Utah, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan, Indiana, and Ohio.

Production of cane sugar begins in the tropics. Cane fields are planted with cuttings about a foot long, which contain two or three seed buds. The method of planting is necessarily primitive, owing to the rough character of the soil.

He is followed by another man who, with a pickaxe, makes a hole in the ground into which he thrusts the cane cutting, tamping the earth above it with his feet.

Must Cut by Hand. When the cane is harvested the stalks must be cut by hand, although many attempts have been made to produce a machine that will cut cane.

Manufacture of beet sugar, unlike the refining of the cane product, is a direct process. To obtain high grade cane sugar, raw sugar is first made of the juice which is pressed from the cane.

ELKS TO MEET IN BOSTON THIS WEEK IN ANNUAL CONVENTION

BOSTON, July 5.—Seventy-five thousand members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, their friends and families, it was estimated, were either here, or nearing this city today for the opening, Monday, of the Elks' national convention.

Every train entering the two railroad terminals carried hundreds of "Bills," their wives and children, while other hundreds entered this old city in motor cars, flying Elks pennants, and guided over the roads by signs indicating the "Elks' Trail" to Boston.

It is expected that the convention will bring to this city nearly a quarter of a million people. Practically every hotel in and about the city has been taken over for the most part to house the visiting Elks, while there are countless others who will be entertained at the homes of members of the Boston lodge and of lodges in nearby cities.

For the past few months, members of various committees have been working night and day to make certain that the 1924 Elks' gathering will not only be a success, but the best in the history of the order.

spectacular fireworks and electrical displays, and the famous Elks' parade.

The Elks' Parade.

One of the features, if not the main feature of the entire convention, will be the parade on Thursday afternoon. It is planned to make the parade the most picturesque ever held at a grand lodge convention.

The parade will form in Boston's ultra-fashionable Back Bay, and will move down Commonwealth avenue, Arlington and Beacon streets to the State House, where Governor Chandler H. Cox, a member of Boston lodge, No. 10, and other state officials, will review it.

Elks and their friends throughout the country, who are unable to attend the convention, but who are owners of radio sets, will be able to "listen in" to nearly all that will take place during the convention.

The opening services in Trinity Church tomorrow evening will be sent over the radio. The services will be conducted by Rev. John Dysart of Jamestown, N. Y., grand chaplain of the order. The opening exercises in Mechanics Building Monday evening will also be radiocasted.

Radio at Parade. The radio will also be brought into use during the parade on Thursday, when a microphone will be installed at a reviewing stand, through which the "listeners-in" throughout the country will be able to hear the bands as they approach and depart.

Boston presents a gala appearance in honor of the visiting Elks. Nearly all the buildings in the downtown sections are decorated.

While the decorative scheme will be carried out in detail on Boston Common, where many of the outdoor features will be presented, the illumination of the Common it is expected will surpass anything ever before attempted in this city.

All the buildings occupied by the Boston Elks during the convention have been decorated inside and out, and these include the Elks home on Somerset street; Tremont temple, where the grand lodge sessions will be held, and others. Elaborate floral displays are to be seen in the public gardens and on the triangular grass plot in Copley Square, in front of the Copley Plaza hotel, convention headquarters.

WAR MEMORIAL MEASURE FOR SUBMISSION TO LEGISLATURE

GALVESTON, July 5.—Charles Theobald, county attorney, is working on a proposed legislative bill for the Galveston War memorial association that will authorize the cities and counties of Texas to expend money out of their general fund or assist any order seeking the erection of any memorial, it was announced after a meeting of the association recently.

The legislature may from time to time make appropriation for preserving memorials to the history of Texas by means of monuments, statues, paintings and documents of historical value, according to the provisions of the bill. It will not apply to bond issues or tax levies.

A copy of the proposed bill will be put into the hands of all members of the legislature at the January session. A letter requesting various lodges and organizations to contribute a small sum to finance the campaign for the new law will be sent out from Galveston, it was announced.

A committee consisting of J. U. Smith, J. M. Burke and P. W. Colter was appointed to draw up a letter of condolence for the late A. T. Webster, former member of the central committee.

Expedition Starts To Borneo To Look For Flying Fish

CHICAGO, July 5.—If you should happen to see a fish climbing a tree, don't blame it on synthetic gin, for it former Mayor Thompson of Chicago realizes his ambition it is only a matter of time before the tree-climbing fish appears. Today Thompson's expedition to Borneo to photograph and bring back the tree-climbing fish got under way. In a 60-foot boat, Thompson and his crew started down the Illinois river, bound for Borneo and way stations on his trip around the world. Thompson will go as far as the Panama canal. Captain A. J. Duncan is the skipper and will lead the way in the hunt for the tree-climbing fishes. Duncan convinced Thompson that they really exist. He said that he had seen fish go ashore and climb trees. Thompson has put $50,000 into the enterprise. He figures that the moving pictures taken of the fish will make him a fortune.

FAMOUS BANKER HAD HIS FORTUNE IN TAX EXEMPTS

"The banker, Jacob H. Schiff," says Collier's Weekly, "left an estate valued at nearly $35,000,000. The net taxable income from the whole of it worked out at scarcely 1 and one-half per cent per year. The bulk of his estate was in tax exempt bonds, because the surtaxes on other investments would have left him a lower rate of return than did the bonds. Schiff was a business man. Tax schedules did not tax him, but only forced his money out of business uses into governmental uses. He had to invest his money not with those who built up industry but with those who spend the proceeds of state, city and national bond issues. The information contained in such wills as that of Jacob H. Schiff is disquieting to those who want to 'make the rich pay all the taxes.'" When James J. Hill, famous railroad builder, died he left his widow an estate yielding $365,000 a year, but by the simple expedient of converting Hill's securities into tax-free bonds the widow's net income was raised to $730,000 a year. And the difference represented what the government lost in taxes.

FROG FARM IN THE SOUTH.

DOVER, N. C.—Youths in the "swamp country" near this town propose a new industry, the raising of bull-frogs for market. Their plan calls for a small area fenced with poultry wire, the bottom of the fence to be below "burrowing depth" in the ground. The wire will be small of mesh, to exclude snakes and other enemies of frogs. Ditches, puddles and pools, planted to marsh grass, will be included in the plan. Frogs to stock the farm will be taken from the swamps in the neighborhood. The first crop will be ready for marketing in the fall.

There are now 5,826 plants in the United States and is dependencies which generate and distribute electricity for general use. Of these 3,701 are privately owned and 2,125 are municipal properties. During 1923 the total electrical energy generated in the United States was 55,874,435,000 kilowatt hours of which all but about 3 per cent was produced by privately owned generating stations.

THIRD DEGREE ONLY WAY TO CHECK CRIME

Police Reporter Declares There Is "Law in End of Night Stick."

A defense of the third degree—in the present low state of criminal law courts, lax juries and disgusted prosecuting officers, the hard-pressed police have been driven to take enforcement—as set forth in the June issue of McClure's Magazine by Herbert Mayer, for many years a police reporter. With crime overwhelming the courts, he subscribes to the maxim of the old-time policeman: "There's more law in the end of a night stick than in a thousand courts." To picture the situation, Mayer only one person was convicted of "Hampered as they are by law says that in 128 murders in New York from Jan. 1 to Oct. 30, 1923, murder in the first degree. the law into their own hands," the article in McClure's states.

"In some cases, at least, they are using methods outside the law to check the situation. Their methods are illegal, brutal even, to be sure, but what else would you have them do? With courts, grand and petit juries turning criminals out, with bail bond companies releasing notorious thugs to commit new crimes to pay the very bail fees, what other methods can the hard-pressed police employ and give protection to life and property?"

"The 'Third Degree' is simply torture, usually administered in the form of a beating. I have seen it imposed a number of times, and bad though it is for officers of the law to beat, bully, kick and knock about their prisoners to secure evidence and a confession, I'd a whole lot rather see a thug whipped half to death than to see a policeman killed by a thug. "Not only is the rubber hose used on prisoners but punishment is given with feet, billes, anything that will not leave marks for so long a time as to permit their use by attorneys for the defense. In getting a confession from a luckless Filipino who brutally murdered a young nurse, the police used lighted ends of cigars on his chest—at least he said so afterwards and I saw the marks—but were it not for that he would not today be on his way to the chair. "I believe there's more law in the end of a night stick than in a thousand courts—and in America today that's nearly all the criminal law we've got."

LAMB THEATRE.

A man's fate hung on the accuracy of a clock. Death was to be the penalty if he were found guilty. A jury was weighing the testimony of a number of interesting witnesses, representing every walk of life. His foster father had been slain and he was accused—by his own foster brother. Both foster brothers loved the same girl, who had chosen the man being tried for his life. Kenneth Winthrop, the accused, testified that the time was 11:30 at night when he left the house of the dead man. The taxi driver insisted it was 12 by the time on a clock in a neighboring butcher shop. The butcher swore that his clock was accurate, it being set hourly by wireless. The dead man had been struck by clock, which had stopped as a result, at eight minutes to 12, five minutes before Winthrop is leaving. It was admitted that the dead man had been in the company of Winthrop and Edith, the victim's fiancée on that fatal night and had written a letter to Robert Armstrong, his other foster brother who brought the accusation against Winthrop. Where was the letter? It had been posted, that was admitted; but Armstrong could not produce it. This raised a perceptible question of doubt as to his sincerity, in the minds of the jury. The letter must be obtained at all costs, thought Madeline, who had married Winthrop. She wanted to effect her husband's release at all costs. She had offered everything she possessed, her very soul to Armstrong if he would give her the letter. The letter really failed to arrive. He could not possibly make her happy, he swore, though he loved her deeply. With Norman Kerry and Claire Windsor in this Universal super-Jewel, at the Lamb Sunday.

MUNICIPAL BAND URGED BY CARL BARNES POST

Plans for a municipal band for Ranger to be sponsored by the Carl Barnes post of the American Legion are rapidly nearing completion and direct action will be taken on the subject when the members and prospective members meet Tuesday night at the fire hall, Elm street. All persons interested in the organization of a band are requested to meet at the fire station Tuesday night at 8 o'clock and plans will be outlined by director James King, of Eastland. The invitation is cordially extended to beginners, students and advanced musicians and all who have instruments are asked to bring them.

EASTLAND COUNTY WEATHER SPLENDID FOR CROPS

Reports from over Eastland county say that the rain of July 4, while not being nearly so much as was needed for crops, will be of material benefit. Crops and especially corn were beginning to need rain very badly. The cool weather that has prevailed for the past few days will also be of assistance to growing crops, farmers say.

Charging conspiracy to defraud the Government, a Federal Grand Jury in Washington, D. C., has indicted Albert B. Fall, of New Mexico, former Secretary of the Interior; Harry F. ### ELECTRICAL INFORMATION HOUSEKEEPERS SHOULD KNOW

By SALLY E. DAVIDSON. Although women generally are making use of electricity in the home few know the meaning of even the simplest of electrical terms. Yet knowing these is a very important factor in the purchase, operation and care of electrical servants. Many women overload electrical circuits or waste electricity merely because they do not understand the first thing about it. To them all electrical appliances and all varieties of electricity are the same. Hence, many of them have money invested in perfectly good electrical appliances which are stored on top shelves of closets or in the cellar or attic. The fault is not in the appliances but in the person who purchased them. How many women have been nonplussed when buying an electrical appliance by the clerk's simple question: "What kind of electricity do you use?" "I'm sure I don't know—are there different kinds?" And the clerk for perhaps the hundredth time that day must explain there are two kinds of electricity—alternating and direct. Then, to save her face, and rather than plead total ignorance the woman will suddenly remember that it is alternating, only to find when she arrives home with the appliance that it is direct after all. Then she has the trouble of exchanging the appliance or storing it shamefacedly away in one of the above mentioned places. Direct current is electricity which flows continuously in the same direction. Alternating current is electricity which periodically reverses the direction of its flow. To ascertain what kind of electricity is being used one need only telephone the local electric company or consult the electric meter. Every electric meter has marked on its dial or name plate the type of electricity it measures. It is very important to know what kind of electricity you are using when you are purchasing any of the motor-driven household electrical devices such as a washing machine, refrigerator, dishwasher, kitchen utility motor, fan, cleaner, sewing machine and the like. Some motors are designed for use with alternating current, others for direct current, and still others, known as "universal" are adapted for use with either. In purchasing lamps and the heating and cooking appliances one should know something of electrical measurements to prevent the mistake of purchasing appliances and lamps of too high or too low voltage. Watts, volts, and amperes by which electricity is measured instead of by inches, yards or pounds, are now common terms and should be learned by everyone. The watt is the unit of measurement of the working of electricity. This is important in purchasing lamps. The volt is the unit of measurement of the force or pressure which causes the electricity to flow along the wires. In purchasing heating and cooking appliances such as grills, waffle irons, irons and toasters, it is important to find out if they are marked for approximately the same voltage as that you receive at home. If an appliance happens to be of a higher voltage than you receive do not buy it for it will not work satisfactorily. That is, it will never heat sufficiently or cook rapidly enough. On the other hand an appliance marked far below the voltage you use is equally as bad, in fact even worse, for it will constantly overheat and eventually burn out the heating element. Besides the watt, or the working power, and the volt—the force, electricity is also measured as to the volume of current. These units are called amperes. All these are named after the men who discovered these characteristics of electricity: James Watt, a Scottish engineer; Alessandro Volta, an Italian university professor; and Andre Marie Ampere, a French mathematician and physicist. Often electrical appliances are marked with only amperes and volts. To find out the wattage of these appliances you only need to multiply the number of amperes by the number of volts and you will thus get the wattage. A plate reading "amperes 3, volts 110," thus multiplied will equal 330 watts. A kilowatt is 1,000 watts. A fuse is a piece of soft wire which melts and breaks the circuit in case of excessive flow of current. An electrical circuit is the path followed by electric current.

TON OF COAL SENDS 17 TONS OF GAS UP FLUE

Only a fraction of a ton of coal burned in the family furnace is actually used to heat the house. At the same time, seventeen times as much, in actual weight, as is shoveled into the furnace is sent up the flue in the form of gas.

Sixteen tons of this gas, consisting of the gases of the atmosphere, oxygen and nitrogen, are carried along with the coal gas for every ton of coal that is burned. In this way much of the heat efficiency of the coal is lost which would otherwise be recaptured if distributed through mains as in the case of city gas. Twelve of these tons and a little more are of nitrogen, which goes through the fire unchanged. Almost four tons of oxygen, necessary for combustion, are also sent up in the form of carbon dioxide, sulphur dioxide and water vapor. Most of the coal, one thousand five hundred pounds, or so, also escapes, less than one part in a hundred forming smoke. Most of the five hundred pounds remaining are ashes. As compared with gas heating, this coal has a steam raising efficiency of only 40 to 50 per cent where the former has from 78 to 83 per cent. In heating by hot air distribution, coal usually has an efficiency of considerably less than 50 per cent at best, whereas the average for gas is around 70 per cent.

TEXAS MOTHERS AND TEACHERS LOOK AHEAD

June Bulletin of Their Congress Indicates Progressive Work Under Way.

The June Bulletin of the Texas Congress of Mothers and parent-teachers associations, is full of "food for thought" in the many fine reports of activities being carried on by individual, county and state organizations of this great body of women who are working for the greater good of the home, school and community.

Schools of instruction in the work of the association have been held during the last month in the many of the State Normal schools of Texas, the closing session to be held July 8 to 12 at the State University at Austin. Later in the month, from July 28 to August 2, there will be a P. T. A. encampment at San Marcos on the beautiful river of same name, where a number of speakers of note will present a course of lectures to parents destined to be of real value to them in the problems affecting children.

Throughout the various clubs of the P. T. A. in Texas a special incentive has been given to music through the efficient service of the state chairman of music, Mrs. Laura Hubbard Jaccard of Fort Worth, one of the state's most gifted musicians whose love for children of all ages gives her an insight into the music best suited to their tastes.

A seasonable aid to individuals or to groups of mothers is being given by Mrs. B. F. Morris of San Antonio, chairman of Home Economics for the council of Mothers of that city, who is giving free instruction in the canning and preserving of fruits and vegetables. Many other clubs report a continuance of study groups during the summer, with social features attached, in order that interest in the work may not suffer a lapse.

One of the most stirring articles in the bulletin is the appeal for better films written by the national chairman, Mrs. Hilda E. Merriman, who presents a strong plea for censorship and the presentation to the public of only such films as would be accepted by the board of censors.

The Bulletin of the Texas Congress of Mothers is filling a long felt want among the P. T. A. associations of the state and in Dallas alone is being sent to 1,000 subscribers as the result of the recent drive led by that ever energetic and capable leader, Mrs. Edward Kneeland who is now vice president at large of the Texas Congress of Mothers and parent-teacher associations and continues to be as she has always been, a potent element in the advancement of the vital work of the congress.

Continue, as they Have for the Past Five Years, to Lead in Low Prices

The large volume of business given us during the month of June (the largest volume of any month this year), makes it possible for us to continue the low prices as announced the first of June when we started the great consolidation sale. If you will keep the volume up, we will keep the prices down. Everything points to a banner crop year. ### LORAIN APPEALS TO RANGER CITIZENS TO AID STORM SUFFERERS

Mayer R. H. Hodges, of Ranger, received a telegram from George Hoffman, mayor of Lorain, Ohio, appealing for the sorely stricken city. Lorain was hard hit by the cyclone that swept the northern part of Ohio and suffered heavy loss of life and property. All contributions should be sent to Lorain chapter of the Red Cross. The national organization of the Red Cross will supervise the distribution of the supplies. The telegram is as follows:

"Honorable Mayor, Ranger, Texas: Lorain is sorely stricken. Loss will fall largely upon people homeless and without resources. Ohio's governor acting to secure aid throughout the state. This will not suffice. Lorain needs every contribution possible from municipalities or individuals. Send contributions Lorain Chapter Red Cross, National Red Cross will supervise distribution. George Hoffman, Mayor."

MASSACHUSETTS CITIZENS SEND GREETING TO COOLIDGE
 BOSTON, July 5.—There were some 20,000 citizens of Massachusetts who did not forget that July 4 is President Coolidge's birthday. They sent their greetings in the shape of a huge birthday card, four feet high and two feet wide, with the 20,000 signatures attached. The idea was started by local business men of Massachusetts. They forwarded the card by a messenger boy who wore a big tag reading, "I am delivering a birthday message from Massachusetts to President Coolidge."

CHORAL CLUB OF THE QUINN NEGRO COLLEGE TO SING IN RANGER

A concert of unusual interest will be given Wednesday night at the high school auditorium when the choral club of the Paul Quinn negro college at Waco will give a program of negro folk songs and other music.

A letter from Miss Dacca Lamar West, historian of the Texas Federation of Women's clubs, to Mrs. Arthur G. Jury, president of the New Era club of Ranger says: "It gives me great pleasure as a club woman to endorse the work of this club, which is a part of the system of Paul Quinn college (negro) of Waco, Texas. In the interest of the study of negro folk-lore music, I ask you to urge the attendance of your citizens at this concert which I can assure will be most enjoyable and is for the promotion of worthy objects."

Through the efforts of Mrs. Jury the consent of the school board was obtained for the use of the high school auditorium, and a large patronage of the Ranger citizens is expected.

AMERICAN SEEDS ARE FOUND UNSUITABLE TO CLIMATE IN RUSSIA

By United Press.
 MOSCOW, Russia, July 5.—Reports of widespread starvation in Russia appearing in American and other foreign press reports are unwarranted, according to leading officials of the soviet. They attribute blame for the partial crop failure in the lower Volga valley and the north Caucasian region to insufficient snowfall, followed by a period of intense heat and protracted dry weather, and to the inability of imported American seeds to withstand the drought. These seeds, which were shipped to Russia soon after the famine of 1921, are now regarded unsuitable for a semi-arid country.

ONE MAN NOW DOES THE WORK MANY USED TO DO.

Advances in invention and industrial methods and practices since 1800 have enabled production to increase to meet the needs of the people of this country in a manner that has never been equaled in the world. The production per day per man has increased during the period as follows:

- Iron, from 500 pounds to 5,000 pounds.
- Lumber from 100 feet to 750 feet.
- Nails from 5 pounds to 500 pounds.
- Shoes from one-fourth of one pair to 10 pairs.
- Coal from 20 square feet to 200 square feet.

The class one railroads of America last year moved commodities aggregating 423,000,000,000 ton-miles with 1,800,000 employees. Under transportation methods of 1800 this movement would have required 70,000,000 drivers and 140,000,000 horses.

MARLIN, July 5—Sterling Wheeler was instantly killed Friday while on a fishing trip near here when a shotgun was accidentally discharged. The gun was dropped by Carl Windom, his companion, when Windom slipped and fell in a boat in which they were fishing.

PORT ARTHUR.—Flag etiquette here has improved noticeably. During a recent parade, attention was called to the fact that scarcely a man bared his head as the flag passed. During a parade a few days later every man snapped to attention when the flag passed.

W. F. SULLIVAN CHARGED WITH ASSAULT, INTENT TO KILL

Members of the sheriff's department arrested W. F. Sullivan, who lives four or five miles southwest of Cisco, Friday, and filed a complaint against him charging him with assault with intent to murder. He was brought to Eastland, but was later returned to Cisco, where an examining trial was to be conducted.

Sullivan, according to officers, fired a shot that only missed his wife's head a few inches. It is said that Sullivan claimed that he had no intention of shooting his wife, but was shooting at a tin can and the bullet glanced.

OGLESBY TO BE BROUGHT BACK TO EASTLAND COUNTY

Deputy Sheriff Ed Bettis left Saturday night for Tulsa, Okla., to get Cole Oglesby, who is being held by officers there and who is wanted in Eastland county on a charge of theft. Oglesby, whose mother is said to be a sister of the Newton boys, said to have been implicated in the holdup and robbery of a mail train on the C. M. & S. P. railway, June 12, when more than $2,000,000 in cash and securities were stolen, was thought by some to have been connected with the Illinois robbery.

Department of justice agents were in Eastland recently looking up records and other information regarding the Eastland county men said to have been members of the gang who held up and robbed the Illinois train.

INSANE MAN SUFFERS FROM BEATING HEAD AGAINST BARS

Jim Maynard, a young married man, 24 years old, who was adjudged insane by a jury in the county court at law here Thursday, is in a serious condition at a local sanitarium where he is suffering from the effects of wounds sustained Friday, when he struck his head against the bars in his cell at the county jail where he was being held awaiting an opportunity to get him into the asylum for the insane.

Maynard, who lives in the Pleasant Grove community, struck his head several times against the bars before he could be stopped, according to Deputy Sheriff John Hennessy.

At last reports Saturday afternoon his condition was said to be improved some and it was believed that he would recover from the wounds.
