Kelley, president Portland Cement association and president of the Heidelberg Cement company, Albany, sailed for London this morning on the Aquitania, where he will address common sense from various parts of the world attending a convention in London early in September to commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of the invention of portland cement.

Mr. Kelley, who has for many years been a leader in the scientific field of cement manufacture, is also a member of the American Society for Testing Materials, American Society of Mechanical Engineers and a number of other technical associations. Just before leaving he said: "It required the real pioneer spirit for Joseph Aspdin, an humble Englishman to whom we owe the discovery of portland cement, to thoroughly blend dissimilar materials, ground to extreme fineness and from them produce the portland cement by burning and grinding. His was the same Anglo-Saxon spirit which has explored and settled continents; the spirit which has examined and determined fairly the mutual relations of the men who peopled these continents."

TEXON WELL IN REAGAN COUNTY SHOWS PROMISE

Extends Proven District and May Develop into Best Producer in Field.

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Aug. 6.—Texon No. 1, the first of two new wells in the second drilling program of the Texon Oil and Land Co., the organization that discovered the Reagan county oil field, struck pay about 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon and, after filling up the hole, the oil shot over the derrick for fifteen minutes, beginning at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning. The bit is just in the sand. It will not be drilled in until storage has been provided.

While no well will ever mark such a turning point in the oil industry in this section as the Santa Rita, the importance of this new Texon well is almost as far reaching. With it, the Reagan county proven field now becomes the largest in extent of area of any oil producing ground in Texas. This well extends the field two miles east of the Santa Rita and extends it south for a quarter to a half mile. No. 1 is south of the Orient tracks about a half mile.

No estimate is possible on the size of the new well. But the fact that it is about 60 feet higher on the formation than the Santa Rita and probably 26 feet higher than No. 11 points to a big well—perhaps the biggest so far in the field.

Oil men point out that if Big Lake No. 3 or No. 10 were drilled into the sand as far as No. 11, that both of these wells would be much larger producers. Perhaps more than 3000 barrel wells. No. 11 is 26 feet into the sand. No. 9 and 10 are but 10 feet into the formation. At the same depth No. 11 made only 75 to a hundred barrels a day. Nos. 9 and 10 are making from 1200 to 1,500 barrels a day.

Big Lake No. 11 continued to flow at better than 3000 barrels a day throughout yesterday and a test shortly after noon today showed no slacking up in the production of this well.

ALIENIST ON WITNESS STAND QUOTES YOUTH

Testifies Loeb Cried Repeatedly "I Killed Him," Showing Emotional Nature.

CRIMINAL COURT ROOM, CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Richard Loeb struck the fatal blows that caused the death of 14-year-old Robert Franks, it was revealed for the first time today at the judicial hearing of Nathan Leopold Jr. and Richard Loeb, charged with the murder.

Dr. Bernard Gluck, psycho-analyst of New York, an alienist for the defense, made this revelation today. Up to this time each of the two youths had blamed the other for the actual attack on Robert with the uncovered chisel. Heretofore other alienists had testified they believed Loeb had struck the fatal blows, but none seemed confident of it.

Dr. Gluck, taking up the story of Loeb's actions before, during and subsequent to the murder, was asked by the defense attorney: "Did you talk with Loeb about who struck the blows that killed Robert Franks?" "Yes; Loeb told me that he struck the blows himself," replied the alienist.

TWO ARE DEAD, ONE A MADMAN, ANOTHER DYING

BEMIDJI, Minn., Aug. 1.—Two persons are dead and a third dying from the hands of N. J. Lindberg, of Portland, Oregon, today, who went mad on a Great Northern passenger train enroute from Oriston to Duluth.

Lindberg whose home is in Portland, Oregon, has been at Rosseau. As the train neared Cass Lake, he suddenly went insane, grabbed a heavy wrench from a heater kit and went through the coach striking passengers on the head. He leaped from the train at Cass Lake.

He was next heard of at the home of Charles Richards. Richards answered a knock on the front door and Lindberg asked him if he was a member of the American Legion. When Richards answered him in the affirmative, Lindberg struck him over the head and dragged him into the yard, where he proceeded to pound his head into a pulp with the heavy wrench. Nick Schatzky of Cass Lake was the next place Lindberg visited. There he obtained firearms and ammunition.

Roy Jondal was Lindberg's next victim. Jondal and Severn Hole were looking for the madman south of town when they heard the fire whistle at Cass Lake and, thinking that the man had been captured, they stopped their car.

"I wonder if they found him," queried Jondal, as a heavily armed man approached the car. "No they haven't," replied Lindberg as he opened fire. Jondal was struck in the groin. He returned the fire and Lindberg was struck in the hip. He fired once more, hitting Jondal again and then turned the gun on himself and committed suicide. Jondal was taken to the hospital.

BUSINESS IS NOT EXCITED.

Business is not excited over the political outlook. Both Calvin Coolidge and John W. Davis are widely regarded as sound, level-headed men, having a thorough realization of the importance of maintaining business and employment on an even keel. Robert M. La Follette has been in public life for more than 30 years and has accomplished much good work. It is not believed he will be elected president, but if he should be business will not get excited. Financial and business leaders are not deluding themselves that Davis will conduct an innocuous campaign. His legal contact with powerful financial clients is not expected to stop him from proclaiming progressive policies, some of which may disturb the conservative. True, the nomination of Davis has diverted more attention to La Follette. But third parties have not been treated kindly by American voters. "What Roosevelt failed to accomplish La Follette is little likely to accomplish," one frequently hears.

Since anything is possible, the selection of our next president may be thrown into congress. But business is going ahead on the assumption that this is most unlikely to happen, and if it should happen business will go ahead just the same. No man or body of men can stop it.

Jewish tribes or settlements have been discovered in China, who are said to be a part of the Jewish people who were carried into captivity in Babylon in the seventh century B. C. Dr. E. E. Swift, for 44 years a successful New York physician, asserts that during all these years he has used oxygen as a tonic and bracer with excellent results, and finds it superior to brandy or alcoholic stimulants. Oxygen can be inhaled for two or three minutes every two or three hours oftener if necessary. Dr. Swift contends that it is a factor in human life and its administration should not be postponed until conditions become serious.

PLAIN HELPS FOR THE TABLE

Helen Harrington Downing of Calumet Baking Company Gives Helpful Advice.

Table etiquette is something that everyone wants to be perfect in and plain helps along this line are offered by Helen Harrington Downing of the Calumet Baking Powder company's department of education and inspiration. Mrs. Downing says:

"Without a doubt you have at some time or other sat opposite some man or woman on a dinner or in a cafe whose table manners were charming. Again, you have noticed in just such places people who drew attention to themselves by their questionable use of silver, napkins, china or water goblet.

We are so quickly criticized by these personal habits that it behooves each one of us to be most careful at all times and give as much attention to them as we do to our speech.

"There are many, many books on etiquette and regardless of the jesting about reading such books, how many times those who joke about it are found sadly lacking in the knowledge of correct table manners as well as other rules of etiquette.

"In the matter of etiquette, table manners occupy the position of most concern. So let us look back and see what the fundamental essentials of good table manners are. Regardless of our positions in life, we have a responsibility in this, whether for ourselves alone or as the mother or father of a family. A wise mother considers good manners as essential in the lives of her children as clean clothes, wholesome food, and correct speech.

"Let us pretend we are guests at a dinner. Providing the table is set correctly, we shall find the napkin at the left of the plate, although some authorities say the right, with the fold at the extreme left. Being seated, our chair should be drawn to the table until the chest is about eight inches from the edge of the table. The body is erect but not stiff, and the feet on the floor. The napkin should be picked up and unfolded lengthwise once and placed across the knees. Never tuck it in the neck or vest. And why, you ask? While it may protect a part of the garments in this way it is not in convenient from to use throughout the meal—the real purpose of the napkin. In using the napkin to wipe the mouth, use only the corner.

"A rule we should never forget is to always keep our knife and fork on our plate. Never allow them to rest on the table, and at the end of the meal they should be found side by side across the plate.

"When cutting meat the fork is inserted in the meat, tines down, with left hand and meat cut with knife in the right. Then the piece cut (and only one piece at a time should be cut), and as is the custom in this country, the knife is laid down and the fork transferred to the right hand before the meat is taken up. Both pieces of silver should be grasped by the handle only, never letting fingers rest on tines or blades.

"A fork should be used to cut all entrees, croquettes, fish, salad, etc. Even for ice cream a fork has been devised. A salad should never be cut with a knife, even hearts of lettuce can be cut with a fork with a little manipulation. The practice of cutting up an entire salad with a knife and fork before eating it is inexcusable.

"A fork should be used with all vegetables except those that are so liquid as to require a spoon."

How to build up your Weight

To be under weight often proves low fighting-power in the body. It often means you are minus nerve-power, minus red-cells in your blood, minus health, minus vitality. It is serious to be minus, but the moment you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, you begin to become plus.

That's why S.S.S., since 1826, has meant to thousands of underweight men and women a plus in their strength. Your body fills to the point of power, your flesh becomes firmer, the age lines that come from thinness disappear. You look younger, firmer, happier, and you feel it, too, all over your body. More red-blood-cells! S.S.S. will build them.

S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

HIGH SCHOOL P. T. A. WORKS ENTHUSIASTICALLY

In spite of the extreme heat the devoted members of the high school P. T. A. club made cakes, arranged for tables and serving and supplies of ice cream which they sold Tuesday night at the band concert. With the club treasury completely exhausted and obligations soon to be met, these women felt it imperative to start a campaign for funds immediately. Under the wise leadership of Mrs. E. C. Shipp, newly elected president of the high school parent-teacher association, it is expected there will be a rallying to actual needs of the school and the young folks and a progressive year of club work is expected.

Although the proceeds of the ice cream sale were not as large as hoped for, the fund raised will be a good start toward the work in hand. This club expects to pay its share of the school nurses salary and also of the free milk fund as well as to supply other needs in the high school. All those interested in the work are asked to communicate with Mrs. Shipp.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. McEnery of North Marston street are the proud parents of a 10-1-2 pound boy born at their home Tuesday night. The newcomer has been named Fred B. Jr.

OLIVES BEING RAISED IN LOWER RIO GRANDE VALLEY

HARLINGEN.—Another tropical fruit was added to the list of valley products this week when olives began ripening on the Stilles plantation northeast of Brownsville.

The olive trees will be 10 years old this fall. Last spring they bloomed profusely and the fruit set fairly heavy. This year the yield will be good for the first year crop, according to experts. As far as any records indicate, this is the first olive grove to bear fruit in the valley. However, old settlers of Brownsville tell of a famous old tree which grew to a great size and bore quantities of fruit in a secluded garden behind the walls of an old Mexican home in the city. The tree was destroyed by the fire or cut down.

"I didn't know them and I know of no reason for the attack," she said.

WARNING AGAINST STATE MEDICINE BY CITIZENS MEDICAL REFERENCE BUREAU

In view of the aggressive campaign of the political doctors in Texas, it is important to ask the press of the state to publish and discuss the merits of the following paper, which in the main is quoted from the Report of the Secretary of The Citizens Medical Reference Bureau (226 W. 47th St., New York City), and the Address of the President of the Bureau at the annual meeting on June 2:

"The Bureau stands for the liberty of the individual to choose for himself and his children the treatment, if any, which they shall receive. Its sole concern is that no individual and no school of healing shall have legislative or bureaucratic authority for imposing uninvited treatment upon any resident of the United States of America. It is as firmly opposed to any form of State Medicine as it would be to any form of State Religion. The Bureau is against organized medicine. It recognizes the fact that the higher classes of physicians are as a rule too fully and satisfactorily employed in caring for their private practice to join in raids on legislatures and executives for authority to compel involuntary patients; but it also recognizes the fact that there are enough of the aggressive or so-called political doctors to constitute a menace to a vital liberty of our people—the liberty to control their own bodies. These political doctors, organized, and closely allied with the manufacturers of drugs and serums, present the aspects of a trust—intolerance of competition, and a purpose to monopolize, so far as possible, for power and gain. The medical trust, therefore, constantly seeks legislation, both Federal and State, which will give it authority to override individual objections to its methods and enable it to put through whatever program it may deem advantageous.

"Time and space forbid cataloging the various attempts now being made to bring the public into subjection to the medical trust. The latest, most audacious, and by far the most injurious or dangerous attempt, now in vigorous progress, is to get control of the children in the public schools, by means of physical examinations, lectures on disease, the vogue for throat operations, and the purely experimental injection of vaccines and serums into healthy children. The trust has already had some success in inducing boards of education to give the agents a free hand; so that no time is to be lost if this reprehensible program is to be checked. The ostensible purpose of the doctors in this campaign is to check disease, but by implanting the fear of disease works the contrary result. Any modern psychologist will tell you that to spread the thought, fear, and the expectation of disease, is to spread the disease itself. Every school lecture on gonorrhea, cancer, diphtheria, scarlet fever, smallpox, tuberculosis, etc., is simply broadcast ing a seed calculated to bear a crop for medical practice. To submit our children to this blind and barbarous experimentation, which is for no purpose but for the gain of the political doctors and the medical trust, is reprehensible in the extreme.

"The work of this Bureau is purely educational. The press of the country is in a position to serve the public by an increased use of our communications. Our statements are always verified, and our language dignified and parliamentary. Reliable information, in the form of bulletins, pamphlets, and multigraphed statements, are being furnished to educators, legislators, and the press throughout the country. Special information has been compiled for use at legislative hearings, and before boards of education.

"Some idea of the commercial possibilities involved under a system of compulsory medicine may be gained from the fact that if every one went to a physician each year for a medical examination, as recommended by the boards of health, it would mean an added source of revenue, conservatively estimated, of one billion dollars annually to the physicians of the United States.

"The endorsement of certain vaccines and serums by boards of health has opened the way for a gigantic commercialism in the sale and distribution of these products. Forty-three establishments have been licensed by the U. S. Treasury Department to sell vaccines and serums. Therefore instead of serving as a protection to the public, the tendency would be to place the Federal, State and Municipal Governments in the position of aiding in the exploitation of the public by these self-seeking classes.

APPARENT FAILURE COULD NOT DISCOURAGE LINCOLN

When Abraham Lincoln was a young man he ran for the legislature of Illinois and was badly swamped. He next entered business—failed—and spent 17 years of his life paying up the debts of a worthless partner.

He was in love with a beautiful woman to whom he became engaged—and then she died.

Entering politics again, he ran for congress and was badly defeated. He then tried for an appointment in the United States land office, but failed. After this he became a candidate for the United States senate and was defeated.

In 1856 he became a candidate for the vice presidency, but lost the race. In 1858 he was once more defeated, this time by Douglas.

In the face of all this, he eventually became one of the country's greatest men, if not the greatest.

CARPENTIER SHOULD RETIRE FROM THE RING

His Bout With Tunney Rounds Out 16 Years of Boxing Career.

By FRANK GETTY (United Press Staff Correspondent) NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—George Carpentier should retire from the prize ring. At 30 years of age, he rounded out a boxing career that has spanned more than 16 years by losing to Gene Tunney, American light-heavyweight champion, on a technical knockout July 24. The riotous scenes that accompanied his passing were not to the credit of the game. The Frenchman claimed he was fouled in the 14th round, and the United Press correspondent, at the ringside directly in front of where the fighters were struggling, thought that a vicious left hook of Tunney's, the hardest blow struck during the bout, landed a little low. Georges exclaimed with pain as the champion's glove smacked home, and sank writhing to the canvas. Tunney, with a look of disgust on his face, made no further attempt to strike his opponent, but walked to his corner, muttering disgustedly: "Faker." The scenes that followed beggared description. Francois Descamps, Carpentier's volatile manager, attempted to rip off George's trunks to show he had been fouled. There were several free-for-all fights, and the bout ended amidst pandemonium, with the Frenchman obviously in no shape to continue, bent nearly double, pushed into the ring with his second standing nearby, motioning with a final heroic gesture for Tunney to come on and finish him. The American stood uncertainly until Referee Andy Griffin raised his hand and declared him winner. Griffin could have disqualified Carpentier because Descamps and Gus Wilson, his trainer, were in the ring after the bell for the 15th round, but, instead proclaimed Tunney winner on a technical knockout. Was Carpentier fouled? The question probably never will be answered satisfactorily. In the first place, let it be said emphatically that if he was, it was unintentional on Tunney's part. Moreover, the referee, by chance, and despite what he says, was not in a position to see exactly where the blow landed. The United Press correspondent was of the impression that the Frenchman was the victim of an unintentional foul blow, for two reasons: (1) The blow that brought him down seemed to land low, and the apparent suffering of Carpentier immediately thereafter was convincing; (2) If Georges had been "faking," he would have realized that the claim of foul had not been upheld, and when called upon to finish the fight, would have ignored the claim momentarily and fought out the 15th round, trusting to being able to stay the limit. Both he and Descamps would have no shame in doing this, if they thought he could last, as he certainly could have if not seriously hurt. This was the situation, then, the morning after the fight. But what cast grave doubt upon the affair was a supplementary statement, issued by Carpentier, saying it was Tunney's knee that fouled him, not the blow. If this is Georges's story, then there is reason to doubt it. As a matter of fact, in the heat of conflict, a boxer does not always know what has happened. Tunney, for instance, disclaiming having struck a foul blow, said he struck Georges in the stomach with "a right uppercut." The United Press correspondent, disclaiming infallibility, thought it was a left hook—which is what the slow-motion pictures showed. Incidentally, these pictures were so blue-penciled that the whole story is not there. So much for the foul. Aside from that, Georges was a beaten man. He absorbed terrific punishment, just as he did in his fight with Dempsey, and with Tommy Gibbons. At infighting, where the Americans excel, Carpentier is helpless, and the only wonder is how his ribs hold out. The Frenchman made a gallant fight of it in the tenth round, when he was floored in the first 15 seconds by a sudden left smash to the jaw. He went down repeatedly, but came up each time, refused to permit the referee to stop the bout to save him from punishment, and was actually forcing the fighting in the ensuing rounds. But aside from the off-chance that one of his erstwhile powerful right-hand swings would connect on the button and put Tunney out cold, the Frenchman never had a chance to win. The sight of Carpentier serving as a punching-bag for our light-heavyweights is not a pleasant one.

Yet that is about all he is good for. Carpentier should retire. He has fought some good fights, which he won, and lost some poor ones. He was at the height of his career in the second round against Dempsey at Jersey City. He was at his worst against Tunney. He can quit with credit—for his courage is not disputed, albeit he and Descamps have laid themselves open to charges of trickery—and quit he should.

TEMPLE.—Everything is not tea that has a cheering effect, is the belief of Police Chief Grimsinger here. While strolling through a suburb of downtown, the chief heard voices and proceeded to listen in. "Boy, I sure believe we have a good scald on this batch" were the words which greeted the chief. Both offenders pleaded with Grimsinger, adding they felt faint and "were only making ourselves some tea." Both gave bond.

The Result of Careless Buying. Motor repair bills and part replacements are most often made necessary thru carelessness in the buying of lubricating oil. Many motorists seem to be of the opinion that "any old oil will do"—but this is not the case. In order to properly lubricate all bearing surfaces in the motor and protect under the trying conditions of heat and load to which it is subjected, an oil must have certain qualities—it must hold its lubricating body under high temperatures and under heavy loads; it must be viscous enough to properly lubricate and protect, and yet light enough to reduce internal friction to the minimum, and to "splash" readily; it should have a low carbon content and should be uniform in its body, free from deleterious substances, and be clear, clean and pure. Humble Motor Oil is an unblended lubricant, made from high-grade Gulf-Coast crudes and is specially designed and refined to meet all of the severe service conditions encountered in the motor. It is the safe oil for your car. Look for the Humble Signs. Humble Oil & Refining Company. In 1926, there were four "horseless carriages"; now there are more than 15,000,000 motor vehicles—thanks to the combination of a simple motor and a cheap and effective fuel.

DISCOVERED—A new process of completely renewing the finish or nap of worn woolen clothing. Many garments are thrown away for no other reason than that the original nap has worn in spots. Serges, Tricotines, Twills and hard finished Worsteds are usually discarded because of the "shiny" appearance after one season of hard service.

For short time factory representative will (for the purpose of demonstrating machine) completely refinish your suits, overcoats, coat suits, dresses, etc. Price very reasonable, ranging from $4.00 to $7.50, depending upon the condition and kind of garments. We guarantee not to injure the fabric and if the work is not satisfactory no charge will be made.
