County Voting Strength Down

Howard county's 1942 voting strength appeared Saturday night to be approximately 600 smaller than in the two previous election years—1940 and 1938—on the basis of poll tax payments.

REVIEWING THE BIG SPRING WEEK

BY JOE PICKLE

Let's take time out from our worries to reflect on the balmy weather that has been ours of late.

We had just made up our minds to handle the gas company about a form letter on curtailing service to fixed schedules—without mentioning what the schedules were.

Congratulations to J. T. Thornton, who resigned his police chief commission last week, after a quarter of a century as a peace officer.

Plus this, we keep hearing of some outrageous price hikes, particularly in the case of used tires.

The Steers lost a basketball game by a slender margin Friday evening, but you've got to hand it to those boys.

Noting that the city passed its blackout ordinance last week and in dead seriousness began to consider a serious blackout reminds us of how all of us thought air raid warning plans last autumn were just so much fooliness.

Stamp and bond sales are not coming on as they should here, but with all merchants agreeing to stock and push them, they should pick up.

In the past two weeks at least six youths have been in trouble with the law for gasoline and tire thefts.

See where committees are considering what to do about the time change. Occurs to us the answer to that is simple.

Every Pay Day Bond Day—Salary Deduction Plan Of Bond Sales Outlined For Big Spring

"Let's make every pay day Bond Day!" Using these words borrowed from Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau, a drive will be launched here this week to put the payroll deduction plan into operation as the bulwark for meeting defense stamps and bond purchases quotas for Big Spring and Howard county.

Jack Y. Smith has been designated and has accepted the position of chairman of the payroll deduction plan, and said Saturday that he was planning to name his committee early this week and probably launch the drive the latter part of the week.

Object will be to sell employees the idea of authorizing employers to deduct a certain per cent of their salary each week for stamps. The absolute minimum is two per cent, and in order for the county to reach its quota, the figure ought to be 10 per cent.

Navy Slates Program Of Pilot Training

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Navy department announced plans tonight to turn out 30,000 pilots a year in what it called "the greatest aviation training program in naval history."

Facilities of four large universities will be leased, each university to become an "Aviation Center of the Air." The names of the four universities were not announced.

The announcement said that the new expanded naval aviation training program will be in operation by May 1 or sooner, and applications for training already are being accepted.

The plan involves the induction of more than 2,500 aviation cadets a month. Each candidate will undergo "an extremely rigorous toughening process deliberately aimed at making our sea hawks the strongest, most daring and most determined type of aviators in the world," the announcement said.

Secretary Knox said that the preliminary three-month toughening process would be "the most strenuous in the history of American military training." The men will learn to march "up to 40 miles from sunup to sundown, and will be set at such heavy labor as ditch-digging, wood-chopping and land clearing, and will be extensively schooled in such realistic self-defense arts as advanced judo, boxing, and rough-and-tumble fighting."

The program is a challenge to patriotic young American men who are proud of their ability to take it. Knox said.

"When they have won their Navy wings, they will have proved that they can both take it and hand it out. That's the kind of fighting pilots the Navy wants and the country needs."

After students pass the preliminary three-month course at one of the four universities, they will be sent to one of the 16 naval reserve aviation bases for actual primary flight training. From there they will go to one of the Navy's newest flying schools.

The Army's training program provides for turning out 30,000 pilots, bombardiers and other aviators this year but is pointed to an increase in 1943.

By Thursday it was apparent from reconnaissance that the Japanese, bleeding from the pounding they received at the hands of Dutch and American planes and warships in their abortive attempt to force the Strait of Macassar, direct route to Java, were maneuvering for a thrust down the Moluccan Passage.

In the Macassar waters to the west a Japanese armada had been battered and halted with nearly two score warships or transports sunk or damaged and its only achievement an empty invasion of Balikpapan, East Borneo oil port where the Japanese found oil fields and refineries in embers from the torch of the Dutch scorched earth policy.

British Retreat To Singapore Land-Air-Sea Battles Rage In Dutch Indies

Dutch Lay Waste To Prizes Enemy Seeks In Islands

BATAVIA, N. E. I., Jan. 31 (AP)—Furious battle on land, sea and in the air flamed today between the Dutch defenders of Amboina, the East Indies second naval base, and a Japanese invasion force which struck with great strength into the strategic bastion on the Archipelago's eastern flank.

Japanese troops were trying to clinch a beachhead from a fleet of four transports, three cruisers and six destroyers.

While a fleet of transports edged close to shore, Japanese cruisers and destroyers poured shells into the island; bombers and fighters pounded Amboina port itself, and a communique said, "the battle was raging everywhere."

Ashore the Dutch were engaged in a race with time to lay waste the facilities which—in the hands of the enemy—could menace the main Indies-Australian communications of the united nations and facilitate invasion of Java and North Australia.

4,811 Car Tax Stamps Issued Here

A steady bombardment Saturday ran the purchase of motor vehicle tax stamps to 4,811, it was announced after office closing time.

This represented a total of 1,485 issued through Friday and Saturday morning. Postmaster Nat Shick said that the office still had a supply of $21 on hand to meet the demand Monday.

W. A. Thomas, collector of internal revenue at Dallas, has ruled that Feb. 2 is the last day that the stamps may be purchased without penalty. Failure to have them on the vehicle in use will subject the operator to a fine of not more than $25 or a jail sentence of not more than 30 days.

Stamp sales at $2.00 each have netted $10,054.99 here thus far. The collection job was handed to the postoffice to avoid expense in handling, and in this respect Shick said that the cooperation of the public in buying steadily and at all save one window in the office had enabled the local office to collect the total "without one dime of extra expense here."

U.S. Forces On Batan Take Prisoners

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—General MacArthur reported today that in addition to holding off the Japanese, his forces have been taking some prisoners.

After a 48 hour lull, during which the enemy made ready for another brutal assault, there has been "sporadic fighting," he advised the war department.

Determined efforts to infiltrate the Batan Peninsula defense line were rebuffed, and in the course of these actions the prisoners were taken. As for a number of days past, there was virtually no enemy activity in the air, he said.

It was MacArthur's first report of prisoners captured, and some thought the effect might be to restrain the Japanese from such brutal treatment of American prisoners as the general complained of a week ago.

MacArthur said that on Jan. 12, the body of a Filipino scout, Fernando Tan, had been found face down in a stream. His hands had been bound behind his back and he had been bayoneted several times.

Backs To Wall For Last Stand

SINGAPORE, Jan. 31 (AP)—Jungle-weary British imperials gave up the fight in Malaya today, withdraw into the hot, tight little island of Singapore and prepared for a long and wasting siege in a desperate bid to hold this last inch of the Malay barrier until reinforcements arrive to reverse the tide of Japanese conquest.

"Our task is to hold this fortress until help can come, as assuredly it will come; this we are determined to do," said a proclamation of the Singapore commander, Lieut. Gen. A. E. Percival who called for ruthless steps against the enemy both within and without.

"Any of the enemy who sets foot in our fortress must be dealt with immediately. The enemy within our gates must be ruthlessly weeded out," he declared.

"For nearly two months our troops have fought an enemy on the mainland who has had the advantage of great air superiority and considerable freedom of movement by sea.

"Our task has been to impose losses on the enemy and gain time to enable the forces of the Allies to be concentrated for this struggle in the Far East. Today we stand beleaguered in our island fortress."

The final retreat of Australians, Scottish Highlanders, British Sikhs, Gurkhas and Malayan militia was carried out last night from a line which extended across the Malay jungles from 15 to 40 miles north of this island.

The transfer of this force across Johore Strait was aided by units of the British navy, and under the protection of the air force, but the Japanese did little to interfere, probably because the withdrawal was a surprise to them.

Then when the last truck and tank had rumbled across, the mines which had been set under the half-mile long causeway connecting the island with the mainland were set off, and chunks of the structure were hurled into the sky.

Defending the approaches to his fortress on which British have lavished $400,000,000 in recent years, the British in seven weeks of exhausting warfare had beat a retreat of 500 miles through the swamps, streams and rubber groves of Malaya, regularly outflanked by the infiltration tactics of Japanese sappers landed on each coast each time a determined stand was made on a natural line of defense.

The Japanese now have all the rich rubber and tin resources of Malaya, and the question was whether they can also reduce this fortress and thereby win a free passage into the Indian ocean and a strong position from which to attack Java, the citadel of the Netherlands East Indies.

The fall of Singapore would permit Japanese air and naval forces to sweep into the Gulf of Martaban and possibly choke off not only the source of supply for the Burma road to China, but also under the work which has been accomplished in building up a threat to Japan's flank in Burma.

By withdrawing into this island, 27 miles long and 14 miles wide, the British were attempting to do what Gen. Douglas MacArthur was doing in Batan Peninsula in the Philippines.

Johore Strait on the north is one-half to a mile wide, and the Japanese must cross it. The British for days have been preparing for the attack.

Barometers Of Business Hold Steady

One third of time-honored business barometers was out January while the two remaining ones reflected a steady to somewhat improved picture.

For the first time in the memory of the younger generation, the new car sales picture was a "stand-still" occasion, of course, by the government's freezing order as a part of the war effort.

Postal receipts, bright spot all of last year, were way up again, the $7,528,338 for the month being far and away the best January ever on record here. It was considerably better than the $7,734,550, the previous record. Naturally, it was under the postoffice's best December business of $10,800,255.

Building permits didn't set the world on fire, but they didn't fold as many expected. The month's business was $10,137, somewhat under the $11,922 for December and the $12,221 for January a year ago. Included was two new residential permits totaling $1,109 and three new business totals for $3,200.

'Go' Signal Received For Electric Line

Staking of lines for the B section of the Caprock Electric Co. cooperative will start Monday, getting the stage for a 165-mile extension of the REA unit, O. E. Bryan, superintendent, said Saturday.

Bryan signaled word that the "go ahead" signal had been flashed for the project, which enjoys a priority rating from the OPM.

McClure Electric Co., of Dallas, which holds the $91,844.63 contract, will be on the job in about four weeks. Material is due to be shipped around March 1.

The section would extend its lines around Luther, into southern Borden county, would reach to north of Knox, stretch into Brown county around Ashbury, angle off into Martin county around Brown, then up to Tarrant and Wickett, would circle from in south of Stanton through a tip of northern Glasscock county and then back to Howard county in the Lomax area. One extension would carry into Midland county, Borden, Dawson and Glasscock county will be served for the first time by the cooperative, which now has 215 miles of line already energized and serves 468 patrons. The new section would reach around 230 customers.

Uneasy Rests The Crown

LONDON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Frenzied tension was reported mounting throughout Norway tonight on the eve of the delayed ceremony elevating Vidkun Quisling to the German-appointed title of "prime minister of state."

While 5,000 quiblingists moved on Oslo for the pompous ceremony, 50,000 Norwegians from the country were watching the broadcast in cold and silent fury.

The formal coronation ceremony, which was postponed until tomorrow, has been abandoned since the king and queen fled during the German invasion.

Gene Tierney, Bruce Cabot In Ritz Romantic-Adventure Film, 'Sundown'

In Africa—The dark continent is the setting for an exciting adventure romance, "Sundown," which plays today and Monday at the Ritz theatre. Young and pretty Gene Tierney appears as Zia, the most dangerous and fascinating woman in Africa, and Bruce Cabot is one of the several white men interested in her. "Sundown" is from the Saturday Evening Post serial.

With a star-studded cast, boasting such names as Gene Tierney, Bruce Cabot, George Sanders, Reginald Gardiner and Cedric Hardwicke, Walter Wanger's first big production for the new season, "Sundown" is featured at the Ritz theatre today and Monday. Based on the Saturday Evening Post serial by Barrs Lyndon, "Sundown" pictures an entirely new background, the hinterlands of Britain's Kenya Colony in Central East Africa.

The picture, which was directed by Henry Hathaway, revolves around a small group of white men who rule over several hundred thousands blacks and are in constant danger of annihilation by semi-savage tribes, especially when the latter are provided fire-arms by enemy agents. Zia, the stellar character, is played by the lovely dark beauty, Gene Tierney. Supposedly the half-caste daughter of a rich Arab trader, the hauntingly beautiful Zia and her mysterious actions provide the story with spirited romance and breath-taking suspense.

'Great Man' Fields Wars On Suckers

The intangible W. C. Fields returns to the screen in his latest Universal comedy, "Never Give A Sucker An Even Break," offered today and Monday at the Lyric theatre.

Fields has one of his strongest supporting casts in the new picture, including such well known players as Gloria Jean, Leon Errol, Butch and Buddy, Susan Miller, Franklin Pangborn, Charles Lang and Margaret Dumont.

The film brings Fields to the screen as himself. He is W. C. Fields, the comedian, who arrives at his studio to sell a story about himself to Pangborn, the producer. In his wanderings around the studio Fields meets his friends, Gloria, Butch and Buddy, Errol and others, all of whom appear as themselves.

The screen story was written by Otis Cribbleobbs, extraordinary pen name for Fields himself, in collaboration with John T. Neville and Prescott Chaplin.

It takes the comedian and his screen friends on a fantastic journey to Mexico. The action reaches its climax on a mountain top where Miss Miller and Miss Dumont dwell in solitary grandeur.

Tense Moment—Just to give you an idea of the thrills to be found in "Flying Blind," here's a moment from the film which plays today and Monday at the Queen Jean Parker, Richard Arlen and Roger Pryor carry the honors in this new story of a battle against enemy spies in the sky.

Arlen-Parker In Drama Of Aviation

Setting a new standard in thrills, Paramount's latest melodrama of the airways, "Flying Blind," fills the screen of the Queen theatre today and Monday.

Starring Richard Arlen and radiant Jean Parker, this tale of foreign agents and airline pilots promises to be most exciting film fare. There's plenty of comedy, too, to relieve the tension.

Arlen, who scored from coast-to-coast in his two previous aviation thrillers, "Power Dive" and "Forced Landing," is chief pilot of a "Honey Moon Air Line" in "Flying Blind," the most swiftly paced of the three films.

Arten, a former Royal Air Force pilot, is one of Hollywood's ace aviation enthusiasts and, in addition to owning his own private airplane, he is also head of a commercial airline with a fleet of 14 transport planes. He flew his own plane during the shooting of several "Flying Blind" sequences.

Quiz On Bands New Mid-Day KBST Feature

"What's the Name of That Band," new audience participation feature, will make its debut on the air Monday at 12:15 over KBST. Nationally famous bands will be featured on the program, and the KBST audience will be asked to identify them and to name the selections played. Four tunes will be featured every day, each tune by a different band. Listeners will be invited to drop a card or letter to the program, in care of KBST, naming the four bands that appeared on the program, and the tune played by each. Each listener successfully identifying the bands and tunes played will receive two free tickets to any one of the R&R theatres.

This new program will take the place of the popular "Curbsone Reporter," which has been heard over KBST Monday through Saturday for the past five years. Cancellation of the "Curbsone Reporter" was necessary in order to comply with the new regulations issued by the United States Office of Censorship, which has banned all types of quiz programs from remote points.

KBST microphones were again placed in the city auditorium this afternoon at 4 o'clock, to bring listeners a broadcast of the regular weekly community meetings. The Big Spring community chorus, under the direction of Dan Conley, will be heard in several songs, and speakers will be heard on the subject of civilian defense. This week's meeting is under the sponsorship of the American Business Club.

Survivors Of Merchantman Reach Land

HAMILTON, Bermuda, (Passed By British Censor)—Jan. 31 (AP)—Thirty-four survivors of a British merchantman torpedoed early today were landed here this afternoon by a United States destroyer.

The crewmen said that after sending three torpedoes into their vessel the submarine tried unsuccessfully to smash the three lifeboats in which the ship's hands escaped.

Those arriving here were from two of the lifeboats. The third was understood to have been picked up by another rescue ship.

The survivors said their two lifeboats, lashed together, were sighted by an Atlantic patrol plane which guided the American destroyer to the rescue.

As they drifted through the bitterly cold night a portable radio brought along by one of the men was turned on and ironically, the first thing they heard was a New York station broadcasting a furrier's announcement: "Now is the time to buy your winter coats."

The National Gallery of Art, Washington, D. C., cited as the largest marble building in the world, took less than four years to build and cost about $18,000,000.

New Procedure Outlined For Registration Cars

AUSTIN, Jan. 31 (AP)—The highway commission today adopted procedural policies for issuance of automobile certificates of title aimed at preventing a possible bottleneck in registering motor vehicles for 1942.

Automobiles must be registered not later than April 1. The commission requested county tax collectors to accept applications for 1942 registration and issue plates where an applicant can show he has previously applied for a certificate but has not received it.

Collectors also were asked to issue license tags if any applicant presents a certificate of title which has been properly assigned to him by the previous owner of the car, providing he surrenders the assigned title and immediately makes application for a new title in his own name.

State law requires motor vehicle owners to possess a Texas title certificate prior to Jan. 1, 1942.

However since passage of the law at the last regular session of the legislature the title division of the highway department has been swamped with applications

Readjustment Prevails In Texas Firms

By The Associated Press
Business and industry in Texas reflected readjustments to new conditions created by the outbreak of war during January, the Federal Reserve Bank reports in its monthly business review.

mills in Texas were maintained at a high level during January with some mills increasing output through a longer work week. Value of construction contracts awarded, which had been exceptionally large during the fall, declined sharply in December, reflecting a temporary lull in the awarding of government contracts and the curtailment of non-essential building.

Resistance By Nazis Grows In Some Areas

MOSCOW, Jan. 31 (AP)—Soviet troops have broken through the German lines in the Ukraine and are racing forward after capturing 200 villages, while in the northwest ski-mounted artillery is enabling the Red army to wade deep into enemy-defended territory, Russian war reports said today.

The Kuliyshev radio said more than 3,000 Germans were killed in the Ukraine advance where the Russians have thrust to Losovaya, only 70 miles from the big bend of the Dnieper. Red Star, the army organ, mentioned the strongly fortified town of Berestovaya, as one the Soviet captured on the southern front.

Russian troops continued to advance, engaging the enemy in stubborn fighting, the midnight communique said.

The Soviet said they shot down four Nazi planes Friday in air combats and destroyed 18 others on the ground. Five Russian planes were lost, the communique added.

While frontline dispatches indicated stiffening German resistance on the western, southwestern and southern fronts, with fighting raging in all sectors, these reports said the Red army was continuing to make gains.

Some of the most violent fighting was going on northwest of Kallin where the Russians have thrust deep toward the Latvian border.

Everywhere German guns, mortars, trucks and other equipment immobilized by the snow are being captured, the Russians said.

A success on the Leningrad front also was reported in the communique, which said 14 German blockhouses were destroyed in two days.

Department store sales increased by less than the usual seasonal amount in December, but were substantially higher than in the corresponding month of 1940 and held up much better than usual during January.

HOUSTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Neal Polk was appointed sheriff and M. L. (Ray) Woolley was named constable of precinct one this afternoon by unanimous vote of the Harris county commissioners court.

Graham was slain last Thursday by Hill, who then killed himself.

Blimps Patrolling California Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31 (AP)—A blimp patrol was established over the central California coast line today, augmenting the alert watch of attack and bombing planes and surface craft.

In making the announcement the Navy's 12th district commandant observed "It has been demonstrated that the blimp can not only spot for and direct other fighting craft, but has a definite fighting power of its own with both bombs and gunfire."

War Due To Bring More Industries Into Texas

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—The military, naval and defense industrial establishments that have come to Texas in the past two years may be expected to increase in number as the war program gains momentum.

One of the big developments likely to occur is the thorough utilization of the state's vast oil and gas deposits. New synthetic rubber and aviation gasoline plants are to be constructed, and Texas is in a favorable position for a share of them. Equally non-military fuel needs of the northwestern part of the United States.

Big scale development of the long-idle iron ore industry in East Texas may come as the war progresses. Already the war production board has approved plans for a $10,000,000 iron ore blast furnace at Dalgard, according to Representative Wright Patman, and the matter of its financing now rests with the Defense Plane Corporation.

The total cost of the blast furnace and a steel mill would be approximately $20,000,000. Sponsors of the project, hope that eventually the steel mill will be added. With out the mill the smelted ore probably would be shipped to Houston for processing and then be used in the great shipbuilding program on the Gulf coast.

At Rusk another iron ore blast furnace, combined with a chemical works, would be constructed under plans sponsored by bankers and others in that area in cooperation with Representative Patman of Crockett.

East Texas pines would be converted into charcoal to be used in ore smelting. By-products in the charcoal making process would include several chemicals highly necessary to the war program. Patman said plans for the proposed plant should turn out daily among other things 2600 gallons of wood alcohol; 2600 pounds of acetic acid, used in making plastics; 2600 gallons of wood tar.

From all parts of Texas come sponsors of various projects. Here for days of conferences, urging location of various kinds of projects in their area has been a delegation from Amarillo including Mayor Joe Jenkins; Gene Howe, Publisher of The Amarillo Globe-News; Oscar D. Randal, businessman; Colonel E. A. Simpson and Rex Baxter, president and manager, respectively, of the chamber of commerce.

Also here during the past week has been a delegation from Brownwood, asking for defense housing facilities for that city and urging establishment near Lake Brownwood of any kind of defense project that could best use the available railroad, water and other utilities there. They mentioned the suitability of the site for a shell-loading plant.

The possibility that Texas oil fields may be relied on for supplying fuel needs of industry and homes in the northwest is one which has been discussed privately. But it is understood that plans have been arranged for pumping enormous quantities of Texas oil by pipe line to Whiting, Ind. refineries of two of the nation's biggest companies.

Goat's milk should be pasteurized for the same reasons that cow's milk is pasteurized, according to the department of agriculture.

Half Of Texas Women, Fourth Of Civilian Men Aid War Effort

By JOE BELDEN
Texas Survey of Public Opinion
AUSTIN, Jan. 31.—By the end of January more than half of the women of Texas and one-fourth of the men—exclusive of those in the armed forces—reported that they were already personally performing some type of work to aid the war effort.

While less than one-third had taken part in practice blackouts, an all-state study conducted by Texas Surveys of Public Opinion reveals that there is little dissatisfaction anywhere on the mannot civilian defense organization is progressing.

While it is impossible for all in the rank and file to know authoritatively whether local defense measures are adequately and effectively being set up, the feeling of the general public as to their own security and participation contributes largely to their morale.

Judging from their own comments given in face-to-face interviews, morale among Texans is high, as these questions and tabulations of answers indicate:

"Are you doing any kind of war work at this time?"

Men	Women
Yes 25%	54%
No 75%	46%

"Did someone ask you personally to do this work, or did you ask for it yourself?" (Asked only of those doing work.)

Men	Women
Yes 45%	31%
Asked themselves 47%	63%
Don't remember 8%	6%

"In your opinion, is civilian defense in our city being adequately organized?"

Men	Women
Yes 67%	76%
No 13%	12%
No opinion 20%	12%

"Have you taken part in a practice blackout?"

All

No 69%

Cotton Market Breaks Again

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—The cotton futures market took it on the chin today for the second time this week.

Prices broke $1.90 to $2.85 a bale as a result of President Roosevelt's ruling that government-owned stocks of grains and cotton would be released to war production agencies.

The decline swept the market as it fell $6.15 a bale away from the 12-year high scored earlier this week.

Heavy selling from all sources disclosed that the market had little stomach for the offerings. Final prices were about the lows for the session.

Social Security Payments Increase

AUSTIN, Jan. 31 (AP)—Texas social security payments—and the number of persons receiving them—are increasing.

State Senator Vernon Lemens of Waxahachie announced he would be a candidate for the democratic nomination as lieutenant-governor.

Lemens served four terms in the house of representatives and is now serving his second term as senator.

Jessie James, state treasurer since last Oct. 25, announced for election to the office to which he was appointed by Governor Coke R. Stevenson following the resignation of the veteran Charley Lockhart.

Halley E. Ragdale of Crockett, president of the Texas Dirt Farmers Congress, asserted he would oppose Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald who is seeking re-election.

As contest lines drew somewhat tighter, poll tax payments lagged behind those of last year in most counties.

A number of reasons were assigned, including a general lessening of interest in politics because of the war.

There appeared to be no prospective death of candidates, however, and many more hats were expected to be tossed into the arena.

Rupert Harkrider Of Abilene Dies

ABILENE, Jan. 31 (AP)—Rupert Harkrider, 61, who rose from delivery boy to vice president and general manager of the West Texas wholesale firm of J. M. Radford grocery company, will be buried tomorrow.

Suspect In Bank Robbery Released

MEXIA, Jan. 31 (AP)—Employee of the Prudential-Smith National bank, which was robbed of $20,000 Wednesday, today failed to identify a suspect as one of the robbers and he was released from custody.

The man, against whom a charge of robbery with firearms was filed before employees confronted him for identification, was arrested last night by federal bureau of investigation agents in San Antonio. County officials said the charge, though still standing, would not be pressed.

Most Texans To Switch Over To Daylight Time

By The Associated Press
Texans voluntarily are bracing themselves to meet a quiet revolution which comes into their lives Feb. 8 when, by a simple twist of the wrist, the sun is made to rise and set one hour later.

On that date, at 2 a. m. local time, daylight-saving time will have arrived. The repercussions, though not violent, will be felt from Brownsville to Farwell, from Texarkana to El Paso.

The change-over is mandatory only for federal offices and for common carriers. For all other states, cities, private businesses—the hour leap-ahead is voluntary. From all sections it appeared Texas was getting on the bandwagon.

Aside from wanting to do whatever the government thinks will help win this war, the feeling seemed to be summed up in a comment from Bryan.

"We will be on daylight saving time whether we want it or not," prophesied City Manager W. W. Scott. "The communities which do not act under this federal legislation will be an hour behind those that do, which will be the great majority."

Daylight saving works this way: At 2 a. m. Feb. 8 clocks will jump ahead to 3 a. m. (if that's inconvenient save it until a more pleasant hour after sun-up) this brings the sun up an hour later, around 8:22 a. m. and down at 7 p. m. instead of 6. Thus the government hopes to have some billions of watts of electricity, on the assumption that people used to retiring at 10 p. m. will continue to do so.

NORFOLK, Va., Jan. 31 (AP) Survivors of the tanker Rochester, sunk off the Virginia coast yesterday, disagreed after their landing here today about the size of the attacking submarine but agreed that the German U-boat-men were "bum shooters."

The tanker, owned by the Socoy-Vacuum Company was struck by two torpedoes in broad daylight, killing three of the crew. The submarine then came to the surface and fired 13 shells, several of which missed their target.

Chief Officer L. J. Davidson, of Little Falls, N. J., said the "Germans were bum shooters, but even though they couldn't shoot they sure were polite."

"When the sub started shelling the ship we were between the two vessels (in a lifeboat) and in the line of fire," he added. "The submarine waved us away, and someone on her shouted in English 'Get out of the way. We are going to fire.'"

Charles McDonald, of Wichita, Kans., radio operator, said he saw the submarine clearly and believed it was much smaller than the usual run of undersea craft. Several crew members, however, disagreed with him, asserting they saw about 90 feet of the underwater craft and that all of the submarine was not showing then.

Captain A. L. Clark said he did not believe the submarine was large enough to cross the ocean,

Some Unusual Happenings During Fray

Home Crowd Draws A Penalty; Bobcat Scores For B'Spring

There were some strange goings-on, as well as a lot of basketball, over San Angelo Friday night, as the Big Spring Steers tangled with the Concho lads in a game that had quite a bit of bearing on the district 3-AA race. The Big Springers were in the lead nearly all the way, but it was San Angelo that was leading when the final whistle blew, and that's what counted. The score was 33-31.

As a consequence, Big Spring was back in a four-way tie with Angelo, Lamesa and Abilene.

Some of the oddities included a San Angelo player tapping in a field goal for Big Spring; and the penalizing of San Angelo for a noxious crowd that interfered with Horace Bostick's attempt at a free throw. That penalty, incidentally, gave the Steers a point.

The Big Springers were hot from the start, with Peppy Blount again leading the scoring parade. His evening's total was 15 points. The Steers had an 8-7 lead at the end of the quarter, still had a one point margin 18-17, at the intermission, and had pulled four points to the good, 28-24 at the end of the third canto.

In the fourth, the Steers were still finding the basket, but Anderson, Kearney and Williams sank tosses for Angelo to move up the score to 30-30.

Each side garnered a free tom, the Bill Jones of San Angelo popped in a long one, with only a little more than two minutes to go. The Angolans stalled as much as possible from there on to the final whistle.

The case that saw the referee fouling the home town customers came when a tremendous roar of boys answered the calling of a free throw for Horace Bostick. Bostick asked the official to get the crowd quiet for his attempt at the basket, and the referee made the public request. He didn't get any cooperation, so the referee promptly ruled another free shot for Bostick.

Bill Jones of the Bobcats, in the first half, while scrambling under the basket, actually boosted in a two-pointer for Big Spring.

District Again In A Four-Way Tie

The see-saw district 3-AA basketball chase is right back where it was a week ago—but the story is due to be changed again this week.

Big Spring's Steers and the Lamesa outfit went into Friday's game sharing the top spot—with two others. That was because the San Angelo Bobcats edged the locals, 33-31, in one of those screwy games; and Lamesa was tripped, 34-17 by the Abilene Eagles.

It was a four-way tie again. Tuesday's tilt will change things, however, because the four leaders mingle among themselves again, the Lameasans coming here and the Bobcats traveling to Abilene. Other Tuesday schedules pit Colorado City against Sweetwater at the latter place and Midland vs Odessa at Odessa.

On other fronts Friday night, there was a surprise staged at Midland, as the much-stopped-on Bulldogs came up with a 25-20 win over Sweetwater. It was the second in a row for the Midlanders. Colorado City Wolves kept their record straight by losing another, with Odessa on the long end of a 38-16 count. It was also two in a row for Odessa.

The Abileneans staged a strong comeback over Lamesa after trailing at the end of the first quarter, 2-4. Led by Gene Spiras,

Minors Due To Get Along OK In 1942, Asserts Bramham

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Heading the vanguard of baseball notables coming here this weekend for the annual dinner of the New York baseball writers and various meetings, President William G. Bramham of the national association arrived today with a hopeful outlook for the coming minor leagues.

"Thus far we have been officially of only three leagues that do not intend to open the 1942 season but, of course, we all know there will be others that will have to fold their tents," he said.

"However, even if six or eight leagues are unable to continue it will not destroy the structure of organized baseball and we will be able to come back after the war as strong, or stronger, than ever," he named the Florida State, Coastal Plain and Arizona-Texas circuits as the three which definitely are lost for this year.

"Judge" Bramham said that from October 1940 to date, the minor leagues had given 406 players to the nation's military services and 147 others have been granted voluntary retirement, many of them presumably finding more profitable employment in defense industries.

He pointed out that some clubs in leagues that fold will be able to enter other circuits.

Some major league club officials also arrived today but most of the leaders of the diamond sport, including Commissioner Gensaw M. Landis, were due tomorrow.

Landis will preside over a joint meeting of the major leagues Tuesday. The National and American league have separate meetings scheduled for Monday.

In addition he will be one of the speakers at the dinner tomorrow night when the baseball writers will award plaques to Joe DiMaggio of the Yankees as the outstanding player of the year; to Mel Ott, manager of the Giants, for meritorious service to baseball over a long period of years; and to Sgt. Hank Greenberg, former star of the Detroit Tigers, for "extraordinary service to baseball" through his exemplary service in the Army.

Uncle Sam Calls HSU Cage Captain

ABILENE, Jan. 31 (AP)—Hardin-Simmons' basketball team lost its captain to Uncle Sam today when Claude Brown, veteran guard from Tyler, was called into the emergency construction service.

Brown is a qualified acetylene welder with civil service status.

Durocher To Pilot 'Bums' Another Year

Signs Contract And Loses Third-Sacker To The Navy

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (AP)—Leo Durocher, who piloted the Brooklyn Dodgers to the National League pennant last year in his third season as manager, signed a new one-year contract today and learned at about the same time that his regular third baseman had enlisted in the naval air corps.

President L. S. MacFarland coupled his announcement of Durocher's signing as a player-manager with the disclosure that Harry (Cockley) Lavagetto had joined the Navy as a pilot at Alameda, Calif.

Lavagetto, who played five seasons with Brooklyn and for the last four years was named to the National league all-star team, took flying lessons last summer along with his fellow Californian and teammate, Dolph Camilli. Both earned amateur pilot licenses.

Although the terms were not disclosed, best estimates seemed to be that Durocher would receive about $22,500 for this year.

Chet Palmer A Power On The Rice Squad

HOUSTON, Jan. 31 (AP)—Chet Palmer is like the old-time fire horse.

He starts slowly, but when he arrives, bells are clanging, people are screaming and the house is burning down—the excitement is terrific.

Palmer, senior guard on Rice's basketball team, began his court career in undistinguished fashion. Critics observed the Elk City, Okla., boy hustled.

But he lacked polish that comes with experience.

This year it has been different. Palmer is considered generally as almost as valuable to the Owls as Bob Kinney, the center nonpareil.

In fact, Palmer might be called Bob's left bower—the two work smoothly together. Many of Kinney's points have been made because Palmer, under permanent strategy, adeptly shoots high passes toward the basket.

Kinney, waiting, leaps and taps the ball into the basket.

Palmer is the fastest man in the southwest conference and the nearest ball-stealer. He frequently darts up from behind an opponent, tapping the ball away and whirling at the same time, and then dribbles toward his own goal so swiftly the victim is left confused, embarrassed and highly chagrined.

Two Bowling Teams To Go To Tourney

Big Spring will be represented not only by one team in the American Bowling Congress 42nd international tournament opening in March, but by two, it was learned Saturday.

A squad wearing the Douglas Hotel colors will attend from here as well as the Cosden Petroleum Corp squad, which was announced two weeks ago. Curiously, the Cosden team is made up of members of the old Douglas team, the corporation having agreed to send the unit to Columbus to the tourney.

Saturday, however, Jake Douglas said that he had conferred with Billy Simon, owner of the local alleys, and reached an agreement for sending another team to Ohio to be known as the Douglas squad. Entry application was wired Saturday a few hours ahead of the deadline. The two Big Spring teams, only ones from this part of West Texas, will bowl in the tournament on March 24 and 25.

Idaho Hunters Kill Deer To Save Them

By PHILIP HARRING AP Feature Service

BOISE, Idaho—Idaho state fish and game department officials have decided that there's only one way to save the giant herd of deer in the state's primitive game haven.

The plan is to kill deer. It's this way: In the center of the state, bounded by the Middle Fork of the Salmon river and mountains rearing to sheer heights of more than 10,000 feet, lies a remote region so removed from civilization it might well be back 100 years in time.

The section, officially declared a "primitive area" to be left free of roads or other marks of man's accustomed world, is the home of 12,000 mule deer.

There's the rub, sportsmen explain. Favored in the late years by systematic eradication of their natural enemies and by mild winters, the deer have increased until their winter range, close to the tumultuous Middle Fork and to the innumerable creeks and lakes of the section, would be inadequate in a season of unusually deep snow and biting wind.

To prevent virtually the entire herd from being wiped out in such an event, the state fish and game commission sought to reduce the deer population.

A special hunt for two deer per person, an innovation in Idaho's modern fish and game history and one of two such hunts in the West, was instituted last fall.

Boundaries were 500 square miles along the Middle Fork. Participants had two months to get their deer. The animals, unaccustomed to humans other than the few isolated families in the area, were as easy to shoot as cows, hunters reported. But the hunt yielded only 1,588 deer.

"And that's not enough to make up for the natural increase," one official commented.

The difficulty, he explained, lies in the inaccessibility of the area. It can be penetrated only by airplane—there are four rude airports—or by pack train.

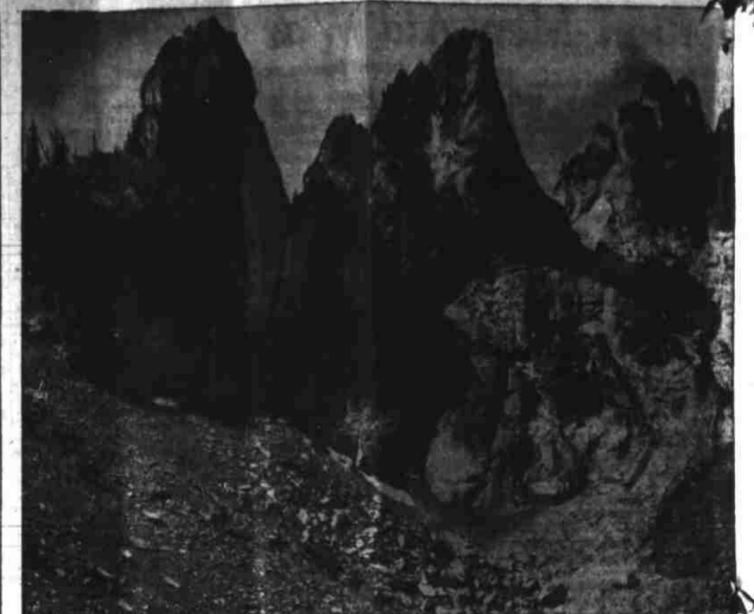

Moreover, there are not enough packers. Of the packers there are, most of them living deep in the wild country the year round, some betray more or less resentment toward "duke" hunters from the lowlands and expeditions from Sun Valley, resort located 100 miles south of the primitive area across a 9,000-foot summit.

Residents of the section oppose the two-deer hunt. They insist that sheepmen instigated it because they want the range for their wool. The buckskins, argue the old timers, can take care of themselves and don't need to be thinned out.

Sportsmen have countered by declaring the section too inaccessible for sheep ranching. As for the range being adequate for the deer, it is said that residents of the country are familiar only with their particular halfwicks, and do not know the extent to which the forage has been eaten generally.

Next year, it has been indicated, the commission probably will set another two-deer hunt and hope for better luck.

Big Horn crags are part of the ramparts that guard Idaho's remote primitive area from the casual tourist. To give you an idea of their hugeness, those black dots in the lower left are a deer-hunting pack train.

After Big Batting Averages -- Texas League Adopts Livelier Ball

DALLAS, Jan. 31 (AP)—The Texas league is going after those bulky batting averages that impress and bring joy to fans but that lead to more home runs and fewer tight pitching battles.

Club owners and officials of the league, holding their annual schedule meeting here today, voted to adopt a livelier ball—one that adds 18 feet on a drive when given the 360-foot test.

This ball, especially manufactured by the concern that holds the league contract, compares with that in use in the Southern Association, officials said.

It was argued that the higher averages of the Southern Association, made possible by the lively ball, brought better prices for players in the big leagues.

The livelier ball was adopted at the second session of the first day of the annual meeting after the initial conference had produced one brief flurry over the Shaughnessy play-off system.

This, however, ended with the advocates of the plan still in command although they had to be content with a tie vote on the question of naming the straightaway winner the champion with the play-off merely to decide a team to represent the league in the Dixie series.

Dallas was named as the 1941 pennant winner. The Rebels finished fourth but won out in the Shaughnessy play-off. This was one of the points stressed by Fred Ankenman, president of the Houston club and leading opponent of the Shaughnessy plan, when he made the motion concerning the straightaway winner being awarded the pennant.

His motion came in the midst of an harmonious session which had just finished adopting a 154-game schedule opening April 12.

Ankenman's Houston club four times finished in first place and once in second only to be eliminated in the first round of the Shaughnessy play-off.

Bonneau Peters of Shreveport declared a team could finish in fourth place and still have the best club at the close and that he believed any team able to win out in the play-off was deserving of the championship.

The schedule adopted calls for 149 playing days, the season closing Sept. 7.

The opening games are: April 12, Oklahoma City at Fort Worth, Tulsa at Dallas, Houston at Beaumont, Shreveport at San Antonio, Beaumont at Houston.

The club owners and officials all agreed that twilight ball should be tried because of daylight savings, and most of them plan to start their games at 8:15 p. m. (Daylight Savings Time) so they can play part of them in twilight and finish under the lights.

ANNOUNCING...

FAUGHT DRY HOLE PITSON RINGS

My own brand packaged here in Big Spring — for West Texans

WHY?

Of the several "Big Name" Piston Ring lines I have sold, none have satisfied me. I have specialized in parts for motors, especially Piston Rings, and during the five years I have been in business in Big Spring, I have personally "miked" thousands of motors, and have studied Piston Ring performance.

What Is Different About This Climate?

We have an abrasive dust present the year round that cuts out cylinder walls, crankshafts, and other motor parts at an alarming, unbelievable speed. There is no complete protection against this dust.

Are Faught Dry Hole Piston Rings of Top Quality?

Yes. They are manufactured by one of the largest independent firms in the world, making their own castings in their own foundry, reportedly the largest under one roof in the world. They have been in business continuously since 1908.

What Is My Proposition?

Specialized service in Piston Rings and Motor Parts. You bring your car to your regular repair man. Have him call me to "MIKE" it up after he has it torn down—I will tell him the true condition of the inside of the motor—he will tell me what parts he wants. This service is available at any of my regular accounts. There is no extra charge where I furnish the parts.

Will Rings Plus Piston Peening "Fix" All Motors?

No. I have found definite limits for satisfactory ring jobs, and always report to the shop man my exact findings. This gives him the true condition of your motor so that he can advise with you, if necessary, before going ahead.

Are My Prices Right?

Yes. I have two types of rings: The BEST for those who want the BEST, and the ECONOMY line for those who want a popular priced ring. Prices are in line with competitive Piston Rings.

I want to sell a lot of these rings, but I want each set to do a real job, so I am not going after "VOLUME BUSINESS." I will appreciate your asking your mechanic to use my Piston Rings and Motor Parts, when you have your motor overhauled.

Denton Coeds Write To Men In Services

DENTON, Jan. 21 (SP)—Attention service men! Are you lonesome? Yes—Well, then, do something about it. It's very simple. Just address postcard, or a letter if you prefer, to:

Miss Jo Frances Worley, General Sweetheart, Service Sweetheart Corps, North Texas State Teachers College, Denton, Texas.

That's all you have to do — and you won't be sorry, either. For Miss Worley (some of you certainly saw her picture in newspapers recently) promises to see that your letter is answered by a good-looking co-ed.

She'll even let you be choosy. If you prefer a blonde (she is one), a brunette, or a blonde with a pleasant job of answering your messages. She even might be able to let you have your choice of color.

Like the armed services, General Sweetheart has organization, and her outfit is known as the Service Sweetheart Corps. It will answer letters of any member of any branch of the armed services: Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Air Corps, etc. Even RAF boys in the midst are eligible.

Just let the Service Sweetheart Corps know that you are lonesome.

Private Alvin C. Reed of Bowling Green, Ky., might take some time for the corps.

Private Reed became slightly irked when he heard that a student poll at NTSU revealed 60 per cent of the co-eds preferred financial reasons to wait until the end of the emergency before enlisting.

He wrote a letter of protest to President W. J. McConnell of NTSU and asked if any co-eds were willing to correspond with him about the matter. President McConnell turned the problem over to Miss Worley, who, in short time, went to work on it.

A few days later Private Reed had a letter from 108 co-eds — and Miss Worley had her picture in the paper from coast to coast.

Then Miss Worley organized the Service Sweetheart Corps.

And now, girls, keep 'em (let-'em) answered!

Letters For Service Men—These smiling North Texas State Teachers College co-eds are members of Service Sweetheart Corps, formed to write letters to lonely men in the armed forces. Organizer and "General Sweetheart" is Miss Jo Frances Worley of Claude, who is wearing the Marine Corps cap. Her assistants (left to right) are Mary Lu Smith, Houston; Billie Newton, Ferris; Mary Lee Kemp, Corpus Christi; (Miss Worley); Betty Jane Timblin, Wichita Falls; Babbette Cockerell, Athens, and Anne Calhoun, Dallas.

Dinner For Youth Held At Church

A covered-dish supper and program was held by the young people of the First Christian church Friday night at the church to close a youth week observance.

Ray Ogden gave the address on "Youth's Obligation to God and the Church."

The program included a solo by Jeanné Young of Coahoma, "The False Prophet," with Mrs. J. H. Kirkpatrick at the piano. A piano number, "Road to Mandalay," was given by Cella Westerman. Jack Stiff led a sing-song and Mary Evelyn Lawrence played a piano selection. Mary Evelyn Lawrence gave the invocation.

Red and white colors and the valentine motif were used in the decorations. The rooms were lighted by candlelight.

In charge of the program were Paul and Tommy McCrary and Jeanné Young.

The meeting closed with the friendship circle and group singing of "Tape."

Others attending were Grant Young, Jr., George Moore, Fannie Sue Hall, Robbie Elder, Fatty Holcombe, C. A. Smith, Fatty Toops, Mrs. H. W. Halslip, Letha Holcombe and sponsors, Mrs. Paul McCrary, Mrs. J. H. Stiff, Mrs. Grant Young, Mildred Creath.

"Poor Little Rich Girl" To Be Presented Here Tuesday At The City Auditorium By Players

The play is the second in a series of three plays being sponsored here by the American Association of University Women. Season tickets already bought are good for admission. Tickets may be bought at the door for 39 cents.

Pictured at right is Jane, played by Irene Riker, the poor little rich girl's nurse. The girl, Gwen, in a delirium believes that Jane is being made to "dance attendance" to her.

This scene occurs in the second act which shows the child in a land of fancy inhabited by creatures who have the physical form of such bewildering adult phrases as "man made of money," or "social bee in her bonnet" and "two-faced."

The play tells the story of the little girl who had all the material pleasures that a great deal of money will buy. But she really had none of the things she wanted, like friends to play with, parents to love her, and childish pleasures to enjoy.

Jane must dance . . .

Miss Laneau's Notes

By MARY WHALEY

A bicycle built for two may cause some to lapse into romantic song but a bicycle built for one but ridden by two—now that's something.

First of course, you have to find somebody who doesn't mind doing all the pumping, while you just go along for the ride. Then your part is to balance yourself.

Just as on the bar, keep your feet out of the wheels and pedals and hold a secret prayer in your heart that you won't see your best beau until you get to town.

In a short jaunt, you notice for the first time the number of bumps that are in the city pavement. It's amazing. Riding in an automobile, the streets feel terribly smooth and nice!

If you go for a longer ride, it must be supposed that you get so numb that one more jolt, or one more bump, just doesn't make any difference to you.

The point, though, is not to grab the handlebars away from the willing peddler as this is bound to make him angry and may land you on your noggin in the middle of the road.

Also important is letting out a wild yelp if a car gets too close. Funny how big a car seems from the handlebars of a bike. A well-timed scream will also scare the motorist into giving you the right-of-way, and that helps too.

You may think all this advice is unnecessary but with the tire shortage . . . you'd better take note. You may be traveling this way soon, yourself.

Pancho Nall Asks Re-election As Commissioner

The Herald is authorized to announce the candidacy of R. L. "Pancho" Nall for re-election to the county commissioners court from precinct 3. Nall's name will be on the ticket in the July 25 democratic primary.

In his announcement, Nall said: "I wish to take this opportunity of thanking the voters of my precinct for the good will and support given me in my first race, and during the first year of my term in office. "While I claim no personal credit for accomplishments in my precinct during the past year, I have worked at the job and I think I have been able to learn quite a bit that will enable me to make a better commissioner. My chief aim has been to cooperate with other members of the court in conducting the affairs of the county on an economical and business like basis, and to serve all the people in my precinct with due consideration of their problems and those of the county as a whole. "I will greatly appreciate consideration of my record and any help that might be given my candidacy in view of this record."

Fashions Answer To The War Is Color And Still More Color

What will we girls be wearing this spring? Well, it seems that war or no war, the girls will dress up for Easter as they've always done.

There is lots of color predicted for the spring season with femininity more important than ever. Casual suits and soft two-piece dresses will be important and will be fashioned with a new easy drape and softness. Afternoon dresses will be dressier, more colorful and frankly feminine.

Mrs. Paul Darrow, who has just returned from Waco where she attended a spring fashion forum conducted by Miss Olive Smith, nationally-known stylist and fashion authority, says that the wartime influence on fashion will bring more color. Pastels will be lighter in shade, being made that way to use a smaller amount of dye chemicals now important for defense.

Another interesting sidelight is the importance of washable garments for spring. They are not only good fashion, but good patriotism, too, since they do not require dry cleaning," says Mrs. Darrow.

Skirts are slightly longer, the pompadour pillbox is still to be the favorite with the younger set and the off the face flared hats are generally preferred. Small hats will be good styled, small affairs especially, with bennets in sailors.

Accessories run the gamut of colors. Costumes use two, three, or even four colors with hat, bag or gloves to lend contrast to basic costume colors. Handbags are still large with plenty of room for gadgets.

THREE THRIFTY AMERICANS

Washington, Lincoln and You

Abraham Lincoln knew about thrift in a log cabin on the Sangamon River in Illinois. He learned economy splitting rails, putting up fences, keeping a store in New Salem. George Washington was thrifty too, on a plantation in Virginia, not through necessity, but because he was a wise manager and a good business man. You're thrifty because it's smart to be that way regardless of circumstances; because these troubled times call more than ever for the old-fashioned virtues of working and saving. First National Bank is always working toward these ends.

We're grateful for Democracy. We have faith in Liberty... in free enterprise... in the resources of this country... and in the ability of the American people to preserve their rights. We believe that the American dollar—like Democracy—is worth saving. To these purposes we pledge our resources and our energies.

Editorial — — It's Up To You To Find Your Own Place In The War Effort

Do you have that useless feeling, that sense of wanting to do something but not knowing what that something is?

If you do, please don't admit it!

That's the type of a person that won't contribute anything to this war effort, the type that will grumble about high costs and low income, about stiff taxes, about how smart Mr. So-And-So thinks he is because he gets into every war organization that comes along. Likely as not, that's the type that has nothing better to do than to spread tales and become frightened at every reverse our military may suffer.

Holla Thompson, airline official, said a lot here last week in an address when he declared that in a democracy it was the "duty of an individual to find his place" instead of the easier but dangerous formula of being told what to do under a totalitarian regime.

In this same connection, James H. McGraw, Jr., speaking for his publishing company, has something fine to say. To quote him, there is one thing everyone can do and—

"That one thing is simply to deliver an honest day's work wherever we are called to serve. Honest work will win this war. Loafing will lose it. The showdown will be whether Hitler can drive his people to work harder than we are willing to work. There is no one to drive us. We must drive ourselves."

There it is—good old two-fisted talk, good old down-to-earth talk. It applies to machines as well as men. It applies to anything that can be made to produce.

Certainly there is something you can do in this war effort, whether it is sacrificial buying of defense bonds and stamps or whether it is serving with some civilian defense committee or knitting sweaters for the boys in the service. There is something for you to do and if you cherish America and its institutions, you will get busy and find out where you can best serve. But remember, nobody is going to beg you or make you. This is still America whether you want to keep it that way or not.

Hollywood— Kay Kyser Working On Fourth Film

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—It seems hardly credible when you consider that Kay Kyser is making his fourth picture, with three hits and no errors in date, but the good professor is still attending the College of Cinema Knowledge.

Tay Garnett is directing "My Favorite Spy"—and what Ah mean, Mistuh Gaw-nett is doin' the tellin', and the professor is right happy to be lettin' him, because after all, Mistuh Gaw-nett's been around here a long time and he shurely knows his business. You-all will have to pardon my South-east accent today, because when Ah get around this Kay Kyser it just comes back, faster'n a possum skinnin' up a tree.

Between Mistuh Gaw-nett and Ha'ld Lloyd, Mistuh Kyser says he just goes in there and blams well does what he's told.

Germany's Flower Fades Before — — Sixth Column On Russian Front

By DOROTHY THOMPSON

In the second half of January they entered the war on the Russian front.

Nobody saw them come.

Over the white wastes a few airplanes zoomed. The temperature registered thirty below. In that still frigidly the engine would not turn over, and the oil congealed in frozen jelly. Strange high tank-like ponderous black noses over the drifts and from them spurted flame.

Sometimes, from the East, wildly riding on stocky horses, come weird men in white wool and sheepskins: tall fur hats on their heads, and machine guns mounted on their saddles.

And in the white nights hordes of white-hooded runners came skimming over the snow, lavishly, until some short black things in their hands shattered with red flame the doors and windows of the hut.

(Auf Wiedersehen, Maria, ich komme bald zurueck!)

A god-forsaken country, he had thought, marching forward, forward.

The radio had said, "Was machst Du jetzt in Russland?"

Dirty wooden villages, muddy squares, and rutted roads. Lebernaum.

(In the summer the little steamers went chug chug from Cologne to Mainz past vine-covered villages; the wine was crisp and flowery under the chestnut trees; the white ships had moved handsome as duchesses into Hamburg; in Oberstdorf, in winter, one sat with one's back to the green tiled stove and drank mulled wine. Deutschland Deutschland... Was machst dich jetzt in Russland... Heil... Heil!)

On to Leningrad! On to Moscow! On to Kharkov, Rostov, on. It was different when we walked to Paris in the spring.

These it spread out like a scene in the theater, broad alleys (thick green leaves over white streets, glassy pavilions with little marble tables, curving bridges over the river, pitched green roofs, secretive palaces, the great Place de la Concorde, the Place de la Madeleine and the surprised haughty, painted look the people had. Billie stockings for Maria then, and perfume, and a good bed. A job for a Heerenvolk... taking Napoleon's town.

Napoleon.

He went to Moscow, too.

January, February, March, April, May and spring would come again. Just hold on, hold and fight, till spring. It's fairly equal now. But in the spring.

Then came the silent, the invisible gray army.

It marched gray and still through the cracks and doors of the enclosures in Poland... to the new ghettos. Marching by he had looked in and his stomach had turned over. Those blue and hollow faces with the sunken staring eyes. Those writhing bodies clad in filthy rags. "Der lebende Leichnam"—the living corpse. He'd seen that play once... in Berlin... some cursed Russian wrote it... Tolstoy.

He averted his eyes. My God, why do they have to mean like that?

Dirty Jews. Why don't they all die?

The Fuehrer knows best. Trust the Fuehrer.

The gray army was silent and invisible. It crept along the gutters, along the walls, after the passing soldiers.

It had fought in Eastern campaigns before; long ago the Russians had met it and fallen before it. But there was a law that those who had once met it and survived need never fear it again.

But here were new armies for it; clean, hygienic, arrogant. Master-folk.

The gray guerrillas, if you saw them, made you shudder with disgust. Fat little bodies, and tentacle-like legs, made to crawl, to stick, to cling. Hunger, cold and dirt their element. Wool, and fur, hair, and the warm, close bands of brown collars around throats.

The German armies in the last war knew them well. Therefore they made no winter campaign. A stalemate from December to May. And every eight days every man relieved from the front to go back to hot water, soap, clean clothes, carbolic, camphor.

The damned Russians were practically immune.

In the shattered hut, he picks them off his shirt—looks in the neck band, the armpits—picks them out and drops them in the stove.

Disgusting. Make you feel like a pig. But, "Krieg ist Krieg," all in the day's work, and only one in a thousand harmful, probably, if you can put up with the itch.

Heil Hitler!

Nobody shot him. Then why this binding, hideous, searing pain across the brows, that scalps a man, not once, but many times?

Just now his finger froze on the trigger of his gun. Did it freeze or did it burn? His finger is afever, his head, his limbs, his heart. A heart that beats 130 to the minute suffocates the breath; the temperature is 98 below zero; but the tongue burns and swells at 105 degrees of fever.

The sun glares in burning eyes and grows dark. The arms drop, the limbs crumble.

No Russian comes. No gunfire, no planes, no tanks. Crazy he feels himself burning to death in the ice, the dying brain delicious, the burning tongue licking at the snow.

In a base hospital in a strictly quarantined ward, they could pump camphor into paralyzed veins to stimulate an exhausted heart.

But where are the hospitals? There are not enough doctors. In the pig pen of the ghetto from which the gray troops poured are doctors—Jewish doctors, dying, too, like this.

Perish the Jew!

The boy's eyes glaze. The burning body freezes where it lies. The gray guerrillas crawl to the next soldier. They multiply as they move. And the word of their coming spreads panic.

Their element is hunger, dirt and cold. They begin their campaign in the last weeks of January. They reach the peak of their Blitzkrieg at the end of February. They continue their death crawl into March.

Civilized hygienic men are least immune.

The Sixth Column.

DANGEROUS BAGGAGE

BY ELEANOR ATTERBURY

Chapter Six
A STRANGER CALLS

"Going to a movie," Dennis wrote. "I borrowed a twenty from your grocery money. Pay you back tomorrow. You were in the shower so I couldn't ask. Hope it's okay. Have a good time."

Sharon shook her head. She hadn't been in the shower when that phone call came. And you didn't need twenty dollars to go to a movie. More probably it was a poker game somewhere. Just a "friendly" little game—among people who were anything but friends!

Her thoughts still anxiously peering him, she unfastened the square white box, folded back the green tissue. Camellias! Lovely waxy pink blossoms pressed flat against their own polished green leaves. How exquisite!

Her attention caught back, she opened the envelope, read Tom's card.

"Pink Perfection they call these roses. Which fits the bill—your Perfection and so I'm in the Pink. Eight o'clock seems a long way off. T. S."

Idiot! But in the watery hall mirror, Sharon caught herself smiling happily. Fingers stumbling, she plucked the lovely flowers against the soft grey fur of her cape, and couldn't help loving the effect. He had nice taste, that smarty Tom Stafford, even if he hadn't grown up yet. Of course, she added fairly, not many boys educated in American colleges had the cultured charm Harvey Goodwin had acquired. It wasn't really fair to compare them. Perfect manners, dignity, charm simply wasn't collegiate. Personally, Sharon smiled into the mirror again. She'd take the charming manner.

Promptly at eight, the buzzer rang. Tom, of course. She pressed the door latch. Simultaneously, the phone rang.

"Dennis Davis there?" A strange voice demanded.

"No, is there any message?"

"Who's this talking?"

"His sister. Who shall I say called?"

The strange voice didn't answer her. She heard him speak, instead, to someone at the end of the line. "The kid ain't there now."

Some dame. Says she's his sister.

Sharon couldn't hear the muttered reply. Then.

"Okay, sister. Tell him Gates wants to see him. He'll know."

"Mr. Gates?"

"Yeah, dearie. Mister Gates." His laugh made Sharon recoil. "And tell him to make it snappy."

"Very well," Sharon replied, masking the alarm in her voice. "I'll—"

But the strange Mr. Gates had hung up.

Alarmed, Sharon replaced the receiver, staring at it helplessly. Who was Mr. Gates and what could he want of Dennis—demand of him, rather, in that rough, threatening manner? A man like that—his voice—his bullying attitude—surely Dennis couldn't—

Tom was tapping a Morse code on the door. Sharon still hesitated. Still, there was nothing she could do now. With Tom waiting, and besides she had no idea where Dennis had gone, when he'd be back.

She snatched up a pencil, scrawled the message. She'd leave it by the phone where Dennis would see it when he came in. If only she could think of someone, some way to send help. Because, some intuition told her, Dennis was in trouble and he would need help and need it desperately.

The music was sweet. The lights were soft, and Tom was smiling at her across the table for two just on the fringe of the crowded dance floor. "It had been perfect, the whole evening. Cocktails at smart Four Seventy Seven first. Then dinner here at the Skyway. Sharon slipped her black coffee, accepted the cigarette Tom proffered.

"Having fun?" he asked.

Smiling, she nodded. "Perfect fun." It had been, too. Tom was so genial a host, so quick to laugh, his company was comfortable as an old slipper. Right from the moment she'd opened the door, Sharon felt the flutter in his instant admiration, she'd felt her responsibilities slipping like weights from her shoulders. "I don't think I've ever had such a good time."

And suddenly she realized just how absolutely she'd enjoyed the evening, and how completely she'd forgotten her job! She hadn't learned anything about Tom save his preference in music and cocktails and steaks. She'd let the whole evening fill up with silly banter and smooth dancing. And while of course that was a good way to lay the ground work for some future reconnoitering, still she had let a lot of time escape!

She looked across the table at the profile Tom turned toward her. He sat, relaxed, smoking, watching the dancing couples. That man, she reminded herself, was a dangerous agent of a dangerous enemy. His job was to betray, to destroy, to defile. Mr. Goodwin knew that. And here she sat actually enjoying him as if he were an old friend. No doubt that was exactly as Mr. Tom Stafford had intended it should be, too.

She drew a long breath. How easily, how nearly she'd come to letting herself be fooled to by that deceivably "open" countenance Tom wore so convincingly.

Tom heard the sigh, turned to her instantly. "Tired?"

"Oh, not—then she remembers— a little. It's so crowded here."

Deliriously crowded with San Francisco's smartest people, with excitement, with lovely music. Regretting it, Sharon assumed a bored little smile. "Besides I really must drop in on Mr. Goodwin's housewarming," she added, carefully casual.

Tom's smile disappeared. "That's my again?"

"He asked me to come. He's having a few friends in to see his new penthouse."

"And you really want to go?" Sharon met his eyes. "I think I should go. I hate to leave you but—" She watched him, held her breath.

"You're not leaving me," he replied, pushing back his chair. "If you must go to anybody's party you're going under my personal supervision."

Sharon could breathe again. That had been almost too easy. "I was hoping you'd say that. I'd rather dread going alone."

Tom looked at her sharply and for a minute she thought she had gone too far. Then,

"Don't give me that, my sweet," he said, laughing. "You're not pulling any wool over anybody's eyes!"

For anxious moments, Sharon tried hard to decide whether he was just teasing her about Mr. Goodwin or—but he couldn't suspect her of anything more, really. Tonight's light-hearted raillery had put him off that trail. Still, being a Mata Hari to Tom Stafford, she realized, wasn't going to be any steal!

Enter The Countess

Mr. Goodwin's penthouse was really very special. Built on the tallest apartment building on Pacific Avenue, the long drawing room opened wide windows to a whole world of light-spattered hills of dark Bay waters laced by the topaz lights of the bridges.

The room was full of beautifully dressed, distinguished-looking guests. But Mr. Goodwin's smile welcomed Sharon as if he had been really waiting just for her.

"You did come," he said, clasping her hands, "I was afraid you'd forget."

Thrilled so that her breath heaved her throat, Sharon could only smile, turn politely to include Tom.

Goodwin's greeting to him was casual but friendly.

"Hello, Stafford. Glad to see you," and shook hands cordially. Then, turning again to Sharon, "I want my friends to meet you, Sharon. You'll like them. I'm sure. And—" almost as an afterthought, "you'll like them, too, I hope, Stafford."

Sharon was instantly aware of

Tom's smile disappeared. "That's my again?"

"He asked me to come. He's having a few friends in to see his new penthouse."

"And you really want to go?" Sharon met his eyes. "I think I should go. I hate to leave you but—" She watched him, held her breath.

"You're not leaving me," he replied, pushing back his chair. "If you must go to anybody's party you're going under my personal supervision."

Sharon could breathe again. That had been almost too easy. "I was hoping you'd say that. I'd rather dread going alone."

Tom looked at her sharply and for a minute she thought she had gone too far. Then,

"Don't give me that, my sweet," he said, laughing. "You're not pulling any wool over anybody's eyes!"

For anxious moments, Sharon tried hard to decide whether he was just teasing her about Mr. Goodwin or—but he couldn't suspect her of anything more, really. Tonight's light-hearted raillery had put him off that trail. Still, being a Mata Hari to Tom Stafford, she realized, wasn't going to be any steal!

Enter The Countess

Mr. Goodwin's penthouse was really very special. Built on the tallest apartment building on Pacific Avenue, the long drawing room opened wide windows to a whole world of light-spattered hills of dark Bay waters laced by the topaz lights of the bridges.

The room was full of beautifully dressed, distinguished-looking guests. But Mr. Goodwin's smile welcomed Sharon as if he had been really waiting just for her.

"You did come," he said, clasping her hands, "I was afraid you'd forget."

Thrilled so that her breath heaved her throat, Sharon could only smile, turn politely to include Tom.

Goodwin's greeting to him was casual but friendly.

"Hello, Stafford. Glad to see you," and shook hands cordially. Then, turning again to Sharon, "I want my friends to meet you, Sharon. You'll like them. I'm sure. And—" almost as an afterthought, "you'll like them, too, I hope, Stafford."

Sharon was instantly aware of will? If you could say that Ah'm NOT tryin' to imitate Ha'ld, mebbe folks wouldn't mind. Any laughs in the picture'll come from the situations, and from the extra polish Ha'ld and Tay dream up.

"Like the way they show me knocked out by those Marines. This won't be jes' an ordinary knock-out. They're shootin' my feet, jes' my feet. They show my feet goin' up and out of the scene, then my hat fallin' down, then me landin' and stittin' on my hat. That's what Ah mean. Things like that. They jes' dream 'em up."

So you see, folks, the good professor is still Kay Kyser, fourth hit comin' up, but still not takin' over the reins and tellin' directors and producers how to make Kay Kyser pictures. How y'all?

Naval Supply Bill Approved By Committee

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (UP)—A record $28,495,268.474 naval supply bill won approval of the senate appropriations committee today, but not before members had acted to prevent the transfer of any of the Navy's big fighting ships to other nations.

Because, members said, of reports that the administration planned to lease some war vessels to Latin-American countries, the committee voted to limit presidential authority over the transfer of ships to smaller types built under a $1,000,000,000 allocation for emergency construction.

The 1,709 vessels in this category might include destroyers, mosquito boats, convoy vessels and others of this type.

Senator Overton (D-La.), floor manager for the measure, said senators felt that an original request of the budget bureau to permit the president to lease any naval ship to another country was too broad. There was evident opinion, he said, that it was "better to have our own men manning our ships."

The mammoth appropriations bill, including $22,728,868,474 in proposed cash outlays and $2,766,400,000 in contract authority, is scheduled for senate consideration Monday.

"Kindly save this for war effort" is being imprinted on all paperboard containers manufactured in Canada, the department of commerce reports.

Church People To Go To San Angelo Mission

Many Big Spring church people this week may be found in San Angelo where a program of the National Christian Mission is operating for six days, starting today.

Dr. E. Stanley Jones, missionary to India and world famous author of religious books, will be the featured speaker, addressing mass meetings each evening at 7:30 o'clock in San Angelo's city auditorium. Dr. Jones is possibly the best known missionary-evangelist in the world today.

Others on the list of speakers are Dr. Dana Dawson, pastor of the First Methodist church in Shreveport, La., one who has served as an exchange pastor abroad, an outstanding scholar and Methodist leader; Dr. Roger T. Noos, pastor of the Vine Street Christian church in Nashville, Tenn., who serves as a professor of theology at Vanderbilt, a lecturer and writer on world peace; Walter L. Gray, prominent Baptist layman from Oklahoma City; and the Rev. Guy Newman, pastor of the Memorial Baptist church in Temple, Texas, a leader in Baptist young people's work in this state.

REA Safety School Held

First of a monthly series of safety and job training programs for REA cooperatives in this area was held here Friday with Jack Huddleston, Texas A. & M. extension service as instructor.

Three line crew members from Big Spring, a like number from San Angelo and two from Colorado City were here for the initial meeting. The morning was spent in a round-table parley on job procedure and in the afternoon some practical demonstrations were given on the line.

While on demonstration work, the men uncovered a ground connection that was shorting on some hardware, causing radio disturbance for a few miles down the line.

Other sessions will follow at four-week intervals, said O. B. Bryan, Caprock Electric superintendent, and will alternate between the three cities involved. The course will continue through 1942.

Scout Court Of Honor Monday

Boy Scouts of the Big Spring district will have their regular monthly Court of Honor Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the First Methodist church basement, Stanley A. Mate, field executive, announced Saturday.

At the same time, Dr. W. B. Hardy, district chairman, had called an important district committee parley to follow the honor court session and strongly urged that all members of the body attend.

Boys were asked to make every effort to be at the Court of Honor, not only to receive awards earned, but to hear plans for Boy Scout anniversary week, which starts on Friday.

Welders Walkout Of Shipyards

TACOMA, Wash., Jan. 31 (UP)—A walkout of welders disputing with AFL unions took 1,654 men off their jobs in Puget Sound shipyards today in the face of a flat refusal by the war production board to recognize their independent organization.

The walkout left 1,180 welders idle in the Tacoma yard of the Seattle-Tacoma Shipbuilding Corporation, 454 at the Seattle yard of the same company, and 20 at the Associated Shipbuilders at Seattle. Several other yards in Seattle and the huge Boeing Aircraft plant reported that all their welders were working, although Welders' Independent Union officials there had predicted 1,800 would be off the job by tonight.

Japan Takes Burmese Port

By DANIEL DE LUCE RANGOON, Burma, Jan. 31 (UP)—The picturesque Burmese seak and rice port of Moulmein fell to the Japanese shortly after dawn today and British defense forces which had held out against attack after attack dropped back to the west bank of the Salween river.

They apparently they manned the first main defense line of Burma, blocking the course of the Japanese-Thai drive toward Rangoon, port for the road to Mandalay and the back door to China. Military observers predicted the invaders would find the north-south Salween river line and the defenses beyond it considerably tougher to crack than anything they encountered in the 70-mile push from the Thai frontier across the Dawna range to Moulmein.

The official announcement of the withdrawal across the Salween from Moulmein said rear guard action held off the Japanese until all stores and equipment were removed.

The Japanese were said to have suffered heavy casualties in their assaults. Moulmein, famed in Kipling's poem where a cheroot-smoking Burma girl waited beneath a pagoda for her British soldier, normally has a population of somewhat less than 70,000 and is the principal city of the Tenasserim section of lower Burma, jutting down the peninsula toward Malaya.

Horton Shoots Ace In Crosby Tourney

RANCHO SANTA FE, Calif., Jan. 31 (UP)—Straight hitting Horton Smith provided the late afternoon thrill of the Bing Crosby golf tournament today.

He scored a hole in one on the 205-yard fourteen hole, using a three iron. The ace was the first registered in the six year old history of this tournament, and the seventh in the career of the youngish looking veteran from Pinehurst, N. C.

Murder Trial Set Here For Monday

Trial of Francisco Costillo on indictment charging murder of Alesjo Gaura is set for Monday morning in district court. A special venire of 60 men, in addition to the regular venire, has been summoned. Costillo entered a plea of not guilty to the charge when arraigned before Judge Cecil Collings January 20.

Chicago Relays Set For March 20th

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (UP)—The sixth annual Chicago Relays, an event which draws star trackmen from every section of the nation, will be held at the stadium Friday night March 20, it was announced today by the Chicago Daily News, sponsor.

Forsan Beats Coahoma 51-1

FORSAN, Jan. 31—The Forsan Buffs continued their march on the comeback trail Friday evening, overwhelming the Coahoma Bulldogs by a 51-6 score.

The Coahoma conquest followed on the heels of a 23-15 victory over Garner and helped set the stage for a do-or-die effort this week against Sterling City, leader of district 22-B.

Tuesday Forsan goes to Garden City, one of the cellar dwellers, and then Friday invades the Sterling City den. If Forsan can trip Sterling, a tie for league honors is virtually assured. A loss will clinch it for Sterling.

In volleyball games, the Forsan girls Friday beat Coahoma, 15-4, 15-4, and 15-4.

Scoreboard table with columns: FG, FT, TP. Rows include Wadsworth, Porter, Long, Grant, Smith, McDonald, Cowley, Lujan, Dunlap, Peck, Coahoma, Kitts, Bell, Wheeler, Duncan, Warren, Sandridge, Tonn.

Country Club's Greens Coming Along Nicely

There is little activity on the country club golf links these days, but that fact has its bright side. Pro Jimmy Gamewell reports that the bent grass on the greens is really getting a substantial grip on the soil now. A couple more months without extremely cold weather and the grass will be in well-nigh perfect shape, he says.

That grass was seeded out only last mid-June, but before cold weather set in had gained a good hold on the soil. By summer it will be ready for a lot of divoting.

Rules Provided For Auto Sales

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31 (UP)—All new automobiles now "frozen" in dealers' hands, except a government stock pile of 100,000 units, will be sold by the end of this year under the pending rationing program, Price Administrator Leon Henderson said today.

Simultaneously, Henderson announced that, beginning February 12, dealers would be permitted to deliver new cars sold but not delivered before the original freezing order January 1.

Rationing of cars will not begin until February 28, Henderson said, allowing local rationing boards two weeks in which to handle disposition of the automobiles bought before stocks were frozen. To obtain delivery of these cars, purchasers will be required to present specified "evidence of purchase" to the rationing boards.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 31 (UP)—The sixteenth annual tournament of the Women's Trans-Mississippi Golf association, scheduled for the Denver (Colo.) country club, June 8 to 12, was postponed today for the duration of the war. Mrs. C. R. McCurbin of Kansas City, president, announced.

High School Students Want Minister To Stick To Bible

Big Spring high school students, possibly typical of those over the nation, demand that ministers use the Bible intelligently, often and as authority if they are to say that "my pastor preached a good sermon."

This is the conclusion reported by the Rev. Homer W. Halslip, pastor of the First Christian church, writing in the Jan. 25 issue of the Lookout, national Christian church publication.

Students were asked to outline sermons they heard their pastors preach, wrote the Rev. Mr. Halslip, and were asked what was the most interesting part of the sermon, the most helpful part, the part best remembered, and what use did the minister make of the Bible.

Answer to the latter question predominated the survey, according to the analysis by the Rev. Mr. Halslip, who found that "young people have a genuine respect for the Bible and desire that it be given a central place in all preaching."

One student reported the minister did not make use of the Bible at all, but this was a mistake. The minister quoted from memory, but never gave reference, and a disappointed young person was the result.

"My pastor preached a good sermon, but he should have used the Scriptures more," commented another. Still another said the preacher used the Bible at the outset and "never referred to it again."

One young man thought use of the Bible was unique, for he said they were "streamlined," that is illustrated and given power through the medium of well chosen stories. From the survey, the Rev. Halslip arrived at this conclusion: "In our effort to explain the Bible and apply its teachings, many times we muddy the waters and fill the skies with clouds by substituting our own feeble, erroneous opinions for the inspired Word. Men are not half so confused about what the Bible teaches as they are about what men teach about the Bible."

Goodwin's consummate skill in making it seem as if she were the important guest and not, as she well knew, Tom Stafford himself. Tom would certainly never suspect that all this was planned for his benefit. Or rather for Goodwin's benefit! She smiled thoughtfully as Goodwin presented her.

Charming people, his guests. Many of them with very foreign-sounding names. One was a Countess.

"Countess Cayetuna," Goodwin introduced her. "May I present a good friend, Miss Doyle."

The Countess smiled, a lovely, graceful gesture that was, Sharon sensed at once, completely without sincerity.

"Such a pleasure to meet you, Miss Doyle. Her voice was deep, musical. "Harvey has spoken of you so often."

Then she gave her hand to Tom. "How do you do," and raised longorous dark eyes to his for a long, dramatic moment.

Sharon saw Tom flush uneasily and with difficulty repressed an exultant giggle. If anyone could upset Tom's nonchalance it looked as if it would be the Countess.

"You must be a stranger, Mr. Stafford," her smile letting him have charm that dazzled. "I don't remember having seen you here before."

"I am a stranger here, your — I mean—Countess."

"How many there are of us. I too have only been here a short while. But of course, you are not a stranger."

"Well—no," Tom grinned, master of himself again. "Not exactly — unless Hitler has started blitzing Pittsburgh since I left."

"Ah—Pittsburgh. You must tell me about that lovely city." The Countess slipped her hand through Tom's arm as they moved along.

Catching his glance, Sharon smiled wickedly. "She's charming, your Countess," she whispered to Goodwin as they went from one group to another smiling, acknowledging introductions.

Goodwin guided her into the dining room where Pavio, his houseboy, presided over a completely equipped, portable bar.

Poloists To Have Another Try At Lamesa Riders

If the weather man is at all cooperative, there'll be some action out on Bennett field this afternoon, around 2 o'clock.

The local polo gang will be entertaining a fast-riding, hard-hitting quartet from Lamesa, with the hope of evening things up for a Lamesa victory last Sunday. Whether they will be successful is problematical, and M. H. Bennett already has a good alibi, in that one of his top ponies is sick.

Joining the doctor on the local team will be Lewis Rix, Lloyd Wasson and Gus White, Jr. The Lamesa outfit will consist of Gus White, Sr., Spen Barron, Eric Barron and Sol Cleveland.
