CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—Railroad mans agers today prepared for the return to work of striking switchmen, yardmen and engine men in the Chicago switching district, following the men's vote last night to return to work after being on a "va-eation" since last March. The past year has witnessed a remark able development in the dramatic powers of Mae Murray. Flashing into favor in the 1915 edition of the famous Ziegfeld Follies, Miss Murray mae a name for herself as a beauty and an exponent of the modern dance. Her engagement in pictures followed soon afterward, and she was featured by Famous Players-Lasky in "Sweet Kitty Bellairs" and "The Primrose Ring." In "On With the Dance," Miss Murray graduated from the pretty ingenue class into an appealing emotional actress. Her remarkable por-trayal of the heroine of that picture surprised even her warmest admirers. She is going to surprise them again in

David Powell is one of the best liked leading men in pictures. A Welshman by birth, he received his early experience on the London stage with Sir Beer-bohm Tree. OFF TO ABILENE.

The Nitros and Eagles hurried into their civies after Sunday's game, slung their bats in the sacks and dashed off westward on the Sunshine. The game today, at Eagle park, probably will see Red Hill or Tommy Harding facing Gomez Hill, who has turned in the best game so far for the Eagles. It is hardly probable that Manager Jim will call on Nick Carter, after two days' rest, but it's anything to win today. If the series goes to three all, toss-up iwll decide where the deciding game is played—Ranger or bi

We'll Miss Paul."

It is to be regretted. Another umpire will be sent out by President Walter Morris, or one will be dug up in these parts, but none to equal M'sieu Sentell will be produced.

It was all because Bugs Young, who uses his head with his feet and claims he can run as fast as any youngster in the league—should we say any other youngster—with the exception of Buzz Ezell, snared home on Carl Hill and Grady White in the third reel of yesterday's 4 to 1 victory for the Nitros, and brought much displeasure into the Eagle camp.

It was not the deciding marker of the game. That had been carried home on the heels of Dude Mooney, whose blow in the pinch in the second round assault on Carl Hill had secred Jimmy (Callowyr with Paragraf first yn).

Young was hit by pitcher, with one down, in the following round. Galloway grounded out to Eddle Kizziar and Bugs took second. Tate busted a single to left and Bugs could not come home, because of Bob Milam's quick play.

The Nitros took sweet revenge on Carl Hill, who has been bad medicine all year. Segrist fought Young's hopper after two were down. White caught Young in an attempted theft.

Manager Jim led the second with a bass. Tate pushed a good bunt toward third and Segrist had to hurry the throw o Allison, covering first, to get him, Jim aking second. Dude Mooney, whose hiting has been seen a wonderful improvement in the title series, crashed to right, scoring Jim and himself taking second on the throw-in.

Jim took a chance and showed good head in scoring. Robinson, in the right garden, probably figured that Manager Hill closely and as the Eagle went into his elaborate wind-up, Bugs strode out for the home dish. So accurately had he calculated the theft that he was only a step or two from the pan when Grady took the peg. Tommy Lovelace stepped over the plate to get out of the way. White dropped the ball, Bugs was safe. He had it about tied anyway.

THAT "DEPOT."

Whether or not lack of depot facilities was the reason for the Texas & Pacific being unable to furnish a special train to carry Ranger fans to the Abilene playoff of the championship series is unstated. Probably not. Except as a contributing factor it could have no importance.

The depot facilities here were not ample for a town of less than 1,000 persons. How, then, can they be ample for a city of 16,000? For two years the depot has been packed and jammed at the coming of every train. There is not room in the waiting room for one-fifth of the passenthe platform.
