It is said on good authority that the mote it be. Texas & Pacific recently issued new securities in the sum of $15,000,000, the money derived from their sale to be used in improvements. Quite possibly the road can be induced to spend some of this money in Ranger. But a vague promise to do something at some future date is no longer satisfying.

Ranger is fast proving it is not a flash-in-the-pan boom town. Its continued building program, its continued high standing as a transportation terminal despite the fact that the center of feverish drilling activity has moved away from the town's immediate environs.

Let alone the inadequacy of the present facilities at the passenger station, its very appearance is something that the city must overcome. Its down at beels appearance and obvious inadequacy give the traveler who knows nothing of the situation the right to assume that this is no bustling city, and that the crowd which surges around the train is not the normal flow of the community's traffic; that there must be a special oc casion to bring it to the train.

The present depot facilities hamper Ranger in two distinct ways: Inadequate accommodations for the traveling public, and adverse advertising to the through traveler. The travelers on a train judge the importance of a town by its depot. If Ranger is to be judged by its, it loses possible business every

GALVESTON'S MORALE.

This Galveston, Texas, is a hard luck city. It reminds one of that small boy living in every town, who has the sprained ankles and stone bruises and measles and mumps about as much as all the other youngsters in town together. Galveston is always having some physical disaster which spells monetary loss. If storms defer their visits or if they come and pass without tearing great chunks of concrete from expensive causeways, then fires rage, or governors send troops to the town to put down "lawlessness." or in some other manner the town receives unfavorable publicity as well as material loss.

The end of Galveston has been predicted many times, but after each blow it rises stronger and more vigorously than before. The Island city serenely goes on its way without worrying over its latest disaster, whatever it is. It calmly replaces the damage and announces "business as usual." That is civic morale. It is a lesson that many towns could take to heart and profit by.

There is a big squabble over whether the state or the suffragette shall tip the ounty clerk for issuing the exemption certificates which enable the holder to vote. Personally, we prefer to let the lady do it, but the idea of letting her off for 15 cents while we kick in $1.75 s obnoxious. That's not equal privilege.

Actually, the difference is not worth debating. The money comes out of the pocket of the taxpayer in either instance, and also the overhead expenses which acrue while the legislature is debating it.

No presidential candidate has ever beaten an opponent by a number of votes equal to the number of wearers of Blue Buckle OverAlls—6,000,000 pairs worn a year

T isn't brass bands or stump speaking that's made these millions of men think alike about overalls. It's the overalls themselves.

The first pair of Blue Buckle OverAlls was made twelve years ago in an old deserted Virginia church.

Today, Blue Buckle OverAlls are made in the largest, most up-to-date overall factory in the world. Millions of pairs are now turned out annually.

Every year more and more men have bought Blue Buckles for just one reason.

And that reason is Blue Buckles.

Men have come every pair of Blue Buckles they buy always gives full value.

Long wear is woven into the tough, thick denim cloth. Every pair is always big and roomy—always comfortable. The wide, double-stitched seams never rip. The heavy brass buttons and buckles don't rust or break. Every detail has the same sturdy, first-class workmanship—the same careful attention. WIRE FENCES REPLACE HEDGES IN FRANCE

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 1.—French government officials have informed the centenary conservation committee of the Methodist Episcopal church here that the centenary American farm school in France is proving its value to agricultural France by bettering farm conditions. This is being don chiefly through demonstrating the value of modern machinery and training French orphan boys in scientific methods.

American wire fencing, for instance, is replacing the ancient French hedges uncut for a century, thus reclaiming, from the thorn ar thistle thousands of square feet o soil for cultivation. This innovation at first regarded by the peasants a ROME, Oct. 1.—Orientals say they o not believe that a new vocane was
