BOYS' DAY SCHEDULE CARRIED OUT WELL

PARADE AND TALKS ARE CHIEF EVENTS IN BOYS' WEEK CELEBRATION HERE

By HARWOOD DUNAWAY

The young manhood of Ranger certainly had their day today. Decked in many colored hats and carrying flags, banners, and canes they gathered at the corner of Pine and Marston streets and formed a parade.

The parade went down Pine and up Main street past the judges stand on the corner of Main and Rusk, where Mr. Murray and Judge Pearson acted as judges.

Mr. Peacock as "Master of Ceremonies," called the assembly to order and introduced as the first speaker, Mayor Alworth.

While all stood, the High School Band played that stirring patriotic song "America."

Representatives from the different ward's next spoke on "My Home Town," first prize going to George Allison of Merriman.

Primarily the Modern Woodmen is a fraternal insurance society. Secondary it is the promotion of friendship between its members.

In August, a trip will be made to prominent cities in Southwest Texas for a series of games with the Modern Woodmen, and plan to advertise Ranger throughout their trip.

CONSPIRACY TO DEFRAUD IS THE CHARGE FILED

Investigation Of Alien Property Is Foundation Of the Bill

By United Press

NEW YORK, May 7.—Harry M. Daugherty, attorney general in the cabinet of President Harding today, was indicted by a federal grand jury here on charges of conspiring to defraud the government.

Specifically the indictment charges Daugherty, Miller and King conspired to return to German and Swiss owners $7,000,000 of stock and assets of the American Metals which had been seized as alien property during the war.

The indictment reads that the three alleged conspired to defraud the government of its right and functions as distinguished from an indictment charging fraud involving property. The reason lies in the fact that the German property held by alien property custodians was not considered actual government property.

Daugherty is NOT UNEASY, HE SAYS

COLUMBUS, O., May 7.—Former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty is not apprehensive over his indictment in New York, he told the United Press today upon his arrival from his Ohio country home.

Daugherty was unaware of his indictment until he was informed at his law office here.

The case on which the indictment is based was decided nearly five years ago by a division in the Department of Justice, regularly authorized to pass upon claims of this character, Daugherty said.

FROM BOOK OF BOOKS
 The Lord's Side—"Then Moses stood in the gate of the camp, and said, Who is on the Lord's side? let him come unto me. And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together unto him." Ex. 32:26.
 Prayer
 O Lord, enable us to prove we are on Thy side.

BOYS' WEEK
 Ranger, as are many other towns and cities, is celebrating the second anniversary of international boys' week. Thanks to the thoughtfulness of some man or men who made possible the observance of this week throughout our nation.

We, the boys of "THE BEST TOWN IN THE WORLD" appreciate the interest the citizenship of the town has taken in us. True—that we are ignorant in regard to the management of a city, but no one is ever too old to learn and the citizens are making it much easier for the boys of Ranger to learn "How a Living is Made in Ranger."

No matter how poor a boy may be, if he has that one requirement—willpower—the otherwise long path will be short. If he keeps his presence of mind, the journey to success will be a rapid one. Many boys lay down the shovel when their high school career comes to an unsatisfactory climax; but it is right here that they should pick it up. It is a time when the young man takes the educational test. If he thinks he is prepared to enter the business world—he has several more thoughts coming—as the saying goes. This is the time when a young man or woman needs a friend. Once they are in college they realize that after all wisdom is at large.

Nothing pleases a boy more, even the older boys than to be appointed or elected to one of the honored offices or to a business concern of this city for the short time of one day. In fact he will learn far more acting as "the boss" of his respective position than he would have learned at school which he so joyfully missed in order to take up his duties at his "place of business."

What good is derived from such foolishness as letting the boys run the affairs of our city? Some inquisitors and pessimists will ask. Naturally it does not benefit the citizens, in fact the day is not set aside as a day beneficial to the officials of a town. It is the boys who derive the benefits from the observance of that day.

On this day it is the day of days for some boys. For once in their life they have the authority to arrest a man, to call a meeting of the commissioners, or to put an item in the paper about their old maid school teacher—and yet the boys do not take advantage of just this one opportunity but the responsibility that is on their shoulders for one day calls for those things that will promote the boys' intellectual welfare as well as the pleasure the townsmen have in taking the day off for swimming or fishing while the schoolboys are very ably filling their chair at the desk.

Not only does the United States boast of setting aside a week as boys' week, but even the heathen Chinese and the Japanese are following in our footsteps, as well as most of the other countries which makes it an international boys' week.
 Speaking for the boys of this town in behalf of the good, and industrious people of Ranger I can truthfully say that no town has a better spirit or co-operation among themselves than this town, and any city that will back and give support to the future generation is worthy of the highest commendation.

INFORMATION NEEDED
 Any information regarding Julius Clarke, 28 years old and who is an oil field worker, will be appreciated as his father is dead. Please notify the Ranger Daily Times.

HIGH SCHOOL STREET NEEDS TO BE PAVED

Nearly every street in the immediate vicinity of the business district of Ranger has been paved with the exception of one, and that is the one next to the most important. For some reasons it has been neglected which cost the city a small amount of honor that it would have otherwise had received.

The High School building which will be occupied by the new junior college is one of the best buildings in the state but the plain dirt street in front of it mars its beauty.

Next year will witness a higher step toward a high educational standard for Ranger. Many students will come from neighboring towns to attend the college and the conditions of the campus and the street in front of the building will influence them as much as the condition of the school curriculum.

Citizens of Ranger should realize the need of paving this one street above all others. The school system has so advanced in the past few years that it is deserving of this consideration. Get in behind this move and put it over.

HEALTH FOR CITIZENSHIP

Health, at all times is a large factor in the welfare of our nation. To win its victories both in war and in peace, the nation needs all its citizens with all their powers. About three persons out of every hundred living in the United States have some serious sickness. At least half of our national sickness can be prevented if the knowledge and resources that we now have were fully utilized.

Sickness has not only occurred in this generation but in generations before. It has been a religious, a medical, and a social problem in every age. From the time of Job the meaning has baffled philosophers; from this day to this day men have devoted their lives, searching for cures and cures. But before the middle of the nineteenth century little progress was made.

The invention of the microscope made possible a real understanding of sickness. Through this invention one could see tiny forms of animal and plant life. No one paid much attention to this until Pasteur, a Frenchman, proved that the tiny forms of animal and plant life, now called bacteria, cause putrefaction and fermentation, and also certain other diseases. Pasteur's discoveries were carried still further by other scientists, and has made possible the great achievements of modern sanitary science. For the first time in history sickness is no longer regarded as a punishment for sin.

The first public hospital was built in Rome, the fourth century after Christ, by a Patrician lady. But it remained for Florence Nightingale to give to the training its technical and scientific foundation, the profession of nursing.

Today there is a health nurse, or perhaps two, in almost every town or city to care for the school children, thereby making better and healthier citizens.

Prosperity Seen By Ranger Folks; More Industries

At a mass meeting of business men and citizens held Thursday night at the Chamber of Commerce it was definitely decided to introduce the Beet-Sugar industry in the vicinity of Ranger.

It was decided to send Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce Moorman Wagner to Utah to study the large Sugar-Beet plantations there with the view of establishing this industry here.
 Mayor Knight, who has a large farm southeast of Ranger spoke at length upon the subject and heartily approved of it, saying: "that this industry would be a big asset to the community as the climate and soil in the neighborhood of Ranger is ideal for cultivation."

Mr. Gullahorn, president of the Ranger State Bank felt sure that this bank would be glad to help furnish capital for this worthy enterprise.
 Mr. Gholson, president of the Citizens State Bank said "that he would do all within his power to put this over." This industry when established in our section will be a source of great wealth for Ranger.

Optimism In Ranger

Who says there is no prophesy, that all the prophets are dead? Who says that Ranger is down and out, needs a remedy for his head? It's not the industries nor politics that gives a town its name. It's not the idler nor pessimist that brings the town to fame. A town is what its people are, with a spirit in their soul. A city is what you make of it, but not in terms of gold. A village may be the celebrity of every country known. And every citizen with a bank account, and a mansion for a home. But money isn't everything, as the Ranger folks have found. They have taken out the oil drill stems, and put the plow in the ground. So a town may live in solitude, and keep its thoughts within. But Ranger will spread the gospel, of a town that has made by men. Men who are known as optimists, who grasp the hand of the stranger. There's success in sight—and a future bright—for "THE BEST TOWN IN THE WORLD"—that's RANGER.

The probable lineup for the game is: McPherson, catcher; Judy and Henry, pitchers; Davenport, Whitehall and Shannon, first base; Jimmy Ward, second base; Nielson, third base; Shepherd, Brasher, Dackey and Peacock, outfield. Several additional ones whose names are not obtainable will possible play.

Scenic Railway Of John Remonte Now In Ranger

A scenic railway about seventy feet long has been constructed for the boys and girls of the neighborhood by Mr. John Remonte. The railway is unique in that it is an exact reproduction of the larger ones. It has special built car, and track. It starts at a height of six feet and goes the entire length of the track. The track has dips and waves all along it. The kids get a real thrill out of riding it, as it makes the dips and waves in the track.
 Mr. Remonte invites all the boys and girls out, boy's day to ride on the railway, or see it.

Dallas Plans Celebration For Air Mail

DALLAS, May 6.—The old fashioned gala day was celebrated here today when Dallas greeted the air mail service, the fastest means of transportation. A committee appointed by the Dallas Chamber of Commerce headed by Josef H. Noyes met the official party as they landed in Dallas this morning. After an automobile tour of the city the honor guests were entertained at a luncheon given by the Dallas Flying Club.
 The evening's program will be featured by a mammoth flying circus. Several nationally known flyers and American aces are here to participate in the event. Movies will be taken of the air events, indicating its wide importance. Pathe, Fox and International News Reel cameramen will be on hand to catch pictorial features of the day's program.
 A fireworks display in conjunction with the flying circus is planned. The display of fireworks from the ships will make this the most spectacular night air circus ever staged in the Southwest," said Fred Pruter, secretary of the flying club, which is assisting in the arrangements for the celebration.

THE IMPORTANCE OF GOOD TEETH.

By BETTIE LILLARD.
 When you come into the world you have no teeth that show but they are already formed, lying beneath your gums. These teeth cannot develop without the body being supplied with a sufficient amount of necessary building material. So we should be careful what the body eats and give it the right things to build the teeth.
 When the temporary teeth appear do not think that they are only temporary because they go away. They have a lot to do with the second teeth. If the temporary teeth are not cared for in the night, when the permanent teeth will not be good. The mother should train her children to keep their mouth clean because cleanliness is the key to proper care of the mouth and teeth. You should go to the dentist frequently for careful examination. This will help to prevent decay, and will prevent painful operations, so that you will have no fear of the dentist.
 You should be especially careful that the first teeth are not removed too soon or too late.
 The decay of the teeth is caused by the action of bacteria which lodges upon the less exposed teeth lodge upon the less exposed teeth come softened and the bacteria multiply faster. To reduce the decay of the teeth we must do two things. 1—To polish all surfaces of the teeth as far as possible. 2—To reduce the number of bacteria to a minimum.
 The same motion is recommended to brushing the teeth as the nails; in brushing your teeth, upon the surface next to the lips or cheek.
 Never use a tooth pick. It injures your delicate gum tissue which extends in a crescent shape mass between the teeth. Dental floss should be used because it may get the teeth cleaner and does not hurt the gums.
 The teeth should be carefully brushed after each meal. If this is not possible they should be brushed in the morning or just before retiring at night.
 Men find that the neglect of the teeth is the main cause for most sickness. It can nearly always be traced up to the teeth.
 People have made experiments with pupils who were very dull in school and have their teeth fixed and they would be the best pupils in the class.

Correct weight can be yours be shapely.
 I DO NOT want to be thin! I just want to be my right weight! I want these hollows filled out. I just want enough firm, plump flesh on my bones to fill out my figure.
 Of course you do. You want a figure that you can drape your clothes on—not just hang them on! What's the use of having pretty clothes, if they just hang on you?
 And what would you say if you were told you could have the figure you want? A graceful, well rounded body—firm, solid flesh—just enough—just your right weight? You'd be mighty happy, wouldn't you?
 Well, then, be happy—because you can have it! Put plenty of red cells in your blood and watch your weight go to where you want it! That's what's the matter with you! Your blood is impoverished. You need more rich, red blood. S. S. S. is the thing to put red blood in your system. S. S. S. helps Nature build red blood cells by the millions.
 You just try S. S. S. and watch how quickly you begin to fill out under your clothes. Notice your skin clear of unsightly blemishes—your appetite increase—strength come to flabby muscles and vim and vigor fill your whole system. It's red blood that does it. And S. S. S. surely helps Nature build that red blood. S. S. S. is sold by all drug stores. The larger bottle is more economical.

Infant Gardens New Features In Food Production

With our present knowledge of the requirements of scientific feeding of infants it seems amazing that past generations ever came to maturity. Now vegetables are regarded as necessary to the healthful diet of the infant from six months on. Chief of these necessities are spinach, tomatoes, string beans and beets for greens.

If there are small children and babies in the family these are essentials in the home garden. While orange juice is usually the start of outside nourishment, tomato juice is an acceptable substitute. Spinach is the earliest crop of infant food. It can be sown just as soon as it is possible to work the ground. The beets can be sown at practically the same time with safety and then follow the beans and tomatoes. This will give a succession of infant food all summer with a variety as well.

These foods are rich in vitamins which we now know are essential to building up the physical well-being of humanity and particularly useful to avoid rickets in children and make them sturdy and healthy. The early sowing of spinach should be in the ground now with later successions until mid-May, which is about as late as it can be planted with any prospect of a crop. Meanwhile the beets will be flourishing to make up for the departure of spinach. The Swiss chard is the most practical for a small garden as it gives an abundance of leaves and keeps on producing if the leaves are cut instead of pulling up the entire plant.

The string beans usually are held back until the second week of May over most of the country to be sure of reasonably warm weather. It is advisable to try a few rows by May 1 if the weather is at all favorable and take a chance on their escaping frosts. Often this chance is successful.

Asparagus is another useful vegetable for the youngsters. An asparagus patch should be started as it will last for generations, increasing in productiveness each year with a minimum of care.

Von Hindenburg Has A Relative Living In Texas

Mrs. Kruse she is two years older than Von Hindenburg. She is 81. She came to America when just 21. She was in correspondence with the Hindenburg family until shortly before the war. Since that time she says she has not heard from any of them.

The relation is on her mother's side, says Mrs. Kruse. Her mother's name was Beinz. She was born on the North Sea, a short distance from Hanover, the birthplace of Von Hindenburg.

Pastor Perrin Puts Practical Turn to Proverb

By United Press.
DALLAS, May 6.—Dr. T. O. Perrin, pastor of Westminster Presbyterian church here is giving some practical turns to his work as evidenced in the following message appearing in the church bulletin:

"Train up an automobile in the way it should go and when it gets old perhaps it will not be so hard to trade it in. Use it for others. Point it in the direction of the church; fill it to capacity on Sunday with people and train it in the path that leads to the door of the church. When you discard it for a new one you may do so with a well done, good and faithful servant."

RESIDENTIAL SECTION NEEDS IMPROVEMENTS

By JACK SANDERFORD
"The residential section of Ranger needs more paving and more side walks," said City Engineer Bill Shaw today in an exclusive interview to a Times reporter.

And he stated further that while he acknowledged that the city is in no position at present to finance such a proposition, he suggested that a thirty-year bond issue of $100,000 would provide sufficient revenue for the undertaking.

In the substance of his talk the engineer admitted that all the residential streets need not be paved at present, but that the main leads, such as Young and Porshing streets in Young addition, could be paved, and the intervening and side streets could then be provided with gutters and gravel.

Another plan advanced by this industrious official is that the city could own or control a gravel pit, and hire two or more trucks to haul gravel to put on the streets and that the property owner could pay the expense of hauling while the trucks were hauling to his property, and thus the city would be out no expense.

The boys staff of The Ranger Times and the boys who are holding offices offer the town wish to thank the Rotary Club, and anyone else who was responsible for the successful result of the day's exercises.

Through these good citizens of Ranger, the boys were enabled to become acquainted with the different businesses of their home town.

LIONS-SALESMEN TANGLE AT 5 P. M.

The Lions will attempt to scratch and paw the City Salesmen for all they are worth, this afternoon, while the Salesmen swear that they will sell the Lions something they can't wear. As both teams say that the game is theirs we can't come to a definite decision as to the victor until the game is played. It will be called at 5 o'clock at Nitro Park. As today is Boys' Day, all the boys will probably attend the game for the "big feed" which is scheduled after the ball players get tired chasing around the plate and the umpire receives his expected "black eye."

The finals in track and field will be held tomorrow.

Big Dam Loboes And Fort Worth Will Play Today

The Fort Worth Central nine, conquerors of Dallas and Fort Worth high school contenders, will meet the Cisco Loboes this afternoon in the Big Dam City for the championship of West Texas.

Contrary to the usual arrangement there will not be a series but the title will be decided by the single game. The Loboes enter the fray handicapped by the absence of Pinky Alsabrook, hard-hitting first baseman, from the lineup. Pinky wrenched an ankle in the game against Ranger a week ago.

Petty, the little left-hander, will pitch for Cisco. The Fort Worth team is a slugging outfit with lots of speed in the field.

On Tuesday, the Loboes will play De Leon in Cisco. The Wildcats are the only team this year who have won over the Loboes on the diamond having broken even in a two-game series early in the season. The Abilence Eagles will play Cisco during the coming week. If the Loboes weather all these storms, they hope to meet Waxahachie for the State title.

Oil Belt League Pennant Chase Resumed Sunday

The pennant chase in the Oil Belt League will be resumed Sunday with games at Thurber and Breckenridge. The league leading Dynamoes, who have yet to taste defeat, will meet the Eastland Tigers on the Breckenridge diamond, while the Ranger Magnolias journey over to Thurber for a tilt with the Miners.

Eastland has broken into the win column as the opening game of the season which was postponed until a later date was forfeited, Thurber failing to appear at the time agreed upon. Notice that the Miners could not play was not given to the Eastland club until a few hours before the game and the officials of the club have notified Boyce House, league president, that they are taking the game via the forfeit route.

Don't forget some packets of seed of annual vines to drape the fences, clothes poles and other unsightly spots, morning glories, cypress vines, cardinal climber, climbing nasturtiums, wild cucumber, hyacinth bean and other favorites.

Bulldogs Make Future Schedule For The Season

Although the Ranger Bulldogs have lost out in the race for the county championship, the old spirit has not gone yet. They are coming back with a determination to defeat some of these teams who think they can put up a fight with a Bulldog. The last of two games with Cisco which resulted in a 2 to 0 victory for the Loboes proved that the Ranger Bulldogs were determined not to let them run up a large score as was hoped by the Loboes.

The games for the remainder of the season are with Mineral Wells at Ranger May 13, Ranger at Mineral Wells May 14, Eastland vs. Ranger May 18, Ranger at Eastland, May 21. All of these will be fine so get in behind the boys and help them win.

Youthful Golf Players Worry Staid English

By MINOTT SAUNDERS, United Press Staff Correspondent. LONDON.—Quite aside from the disposition of the Walker cup and the ambitions of Americans and Argentinians in the open championship here this year, British golf is facing a serious menace which would seem to require the most drastic measures. This menace takes the shape of the schoolboy player who crowds the fairway, frolics on the green, gives his governor a stroke a hole and beats him.

Golf in England is a tradition, "one of the very few excusable things that Scotland has done for the empire." The tradition is that golf is best played by gentlemen of matured minds and jerky joints. Boys may be boys, but as such they should play football and cricket and leave the subtler science of golf to their superiors.

That is the substance of an outburst from many classical clubs this season which are campaigning to bar boy players during the week-ends. Golf courtesy is one thing, but to stand aside for mere boys who drive better and move faster on the links has never been a part of the game and should not now be endured.

"These young novices are always hindering the more experienced players," said the secretary of one of the best known London clubs. His indignant complaint is against the crowding of 18 of the 19 accepted holes. But another club secretary said:

"More boys and girls than ever are taking to the game. If the invasion continues some of the clubs must seriously consider placing a ban on schoolboys. I must say, however, that a large number of the lads play much better golf than their parents. Many of the older people resent their presence simply because the boys can often give them a stroke or two and a beating."

The truth is that the youth of England have been reading for weeks about the Bobby Joneses of America and they are convincing themselves that golf, like every other game, may better be played by the young man. The English sporting press, analyzing the reasons for the Walker cup scores, have published columns about the advantage of young blood in golf and have cited the American teams as examples. Critics have advocated younger blood in English teams. In this way the boys have been encouraged.

The outbursts from the traditional old clubs have resulted. Most of the Old Boys call it a menace to British golf, but a few are far-seeing enough to interpret the popularity of the game among boys as a menace to England's rivals. For the only trouble with the boys seems to be that they are in the way, not that their golf is at fault.

The Golf tournament will be held at Breckenridge May 10. There will be twenty-three other West Texas towns competing for the championship of West Texas. UNITED STATES PREPARES TO MOBILIZE CITIZENS ARMY AT SUMMER CAMPS

By LUDWELL DENNY (United Press Staff Correspondent) WASHINGTON. — Arrangements have been completed by the War Department to train 35,000 young men in fifty-one Citizens' Military Training Camps this summer.

Over 25,000 applications for attendance have been already received by the department announced. The Fourth Corps Area, comprising the South Atlantic States, is leading in applications with almost 80 percent of its quota filled.

Candidates are received who are American citizens between the ages of 17 and 31. Three courses are to be given, two of men, with previous military training. Mornings will be devoted to drill and military instruction, and afternoons to athletics.

Courses run for a month. The government pays all expenses of transportation, uniforms, food and medical care. In many parts of the country, employers have reported that they will continue the salaries of employees attending these camps. "The object of these camps," according to the official announcement of the War Department, "is to bring together young men of high type from all sections of the country on a common basis of equality and under the most favorable conditions of outdoor life; to stimulate and promote citizenship, patriotism and Americanism; and through expert physical direction; athletic coaching, and military training, to benefit the young men individually, and bring them to realize their obligations to their country."

The list of camps, with dates of courses and estimated attendance, follows:

First Corps Area
 Ft. Adams, R. I., 500, July 1-30;
 Camp Devens, Mass., 1550; Aug. 2-31; Ft. McKinley, Me., 675, Aug. 2-31; Ft. Ethan Allen, Vt., 425, Aug. 2-31; Ft. Terry, N. Y., 500, Aug. 2-31.

Fat Chance of Catching Anything Now

English Accuse Hoover of Playing Rubber Politics

By SIDNEY J. WILLIAMS, United Press Staff Correspondent. LONDON. — "When Hoover 'howls' about a British rubber gouge he's talking as a politician, not as a business man," said Sir Alfred Mond, one of Britain's captains of industry, in an exclusive interview today with the United Press.

"Informed circles in Britain," added Sir Alfred, "are positive the outcry in the United States regarding the high price of rubber is purely a political move. Whether we have fathomed the move or not I am not in a position to say. But tell your countrymen that prominent American business men have apologized to me for the ravings now taking place in your country."

"Now look at the other side of the picture," continued Sir Alfred. "There prevails in the United States today an arrangement between the various copper concerns which keeps the price of that commodity low—due solely to powerful competition. Supposing they got together and raised the price. Believe me, Britain wouldn't 'howl'. We wouldn't consider that our American friends had taken advantage of our position. We would consider it as merely a business move in the ordinary way."

"American business is more or less all combinations and trusts. Why, even now you're responsible for the high price of wheat."

"Let me attempt to clarify the position," continued Sir Alfred. "The price of rubber—as with all other commodities—is largely a matter of supply and demand. At the time the Stevenson scheme was introduced rubber was being produced at a loss, and the industry was in a very bad condition. The Stevenson restriction project was agreed to by all parties concerned—producer, manufacturer and consumer alike—as necessary for the existence of the industry."

"Consumption has grown much more rapidly than production. This has produced a world shortage, with a consequent rise in price. This will be corrected in time by new capital being introduced into the industry, and new plantations being developed."

"The world's cotton industry has passed through similar crisis. Not many years ago the price of cotton was extremely low. Cotton growers immediately left their cotton plantations and began to grow maize. Suddenly the price of cotton rose. The cotton growers of former years began to grow cotton again."

"Let me tell you," asserted Sir Alfred, "those responsible for the production of rubber are acting on the best of advice as to what is and what is likely to be the world's demand. In my opinion, the increased price is largely due to the demand for automobiles in the United States."

"There has been no deliberate effort on the part of the British government to raise prices. It so happens that nobody has been more surprised at the increased price of rubber than the plantation owners. Anyway Britishers are paying more for their rubber, so why all the fuss."

"No," concluded Sir Alfred, "politics and business don't mix. It creates ill-feeling."

Lady Says She Took Cardui and Never Saw Such Improvement—Was So Weak Couldn't Stand.

Weathersby, Miss.—Mrs. James M. Hall, of this place, writes that she was "getting weaker all the time" when Cardui, the woman's tonic, was first brought to her attention. After she had taken Cardui a while, she writes that she "never did see such an improvement."

"I suffered all the time and had pains all over," says Mrs. Hall. "I was so weak I could not stand. My skin was cold and flabby. I did not have any color. I had always been a very active woman—used to outdoor exercise, walking and going where I pleased, and to get down, not able to get myself a drink, was indeed a hardship."

"Nothing seemed to help me, till I began on Cardui. The first bottle seemed to strengthen me, and I sent for five more. By the time I had taken these, I was on my feet, going around, doing my work, gained in health and strength."

"I took two more bottles, and I am well and strong. Can work my garden. I haven't had any more sickness."

De Molay Degree Team Plans To Go To El Paso

The master councilor of the Ranger chapter, Order of De Molay, Floyd Killingsworth, is at present engaged in forming a complete program for De Molay social and fraternal activities.

To assist him in carrying out his program he has appointed numerous active committees, among which are: The sick committee, composed of the 21 officers of the chapter; the entertainment committee, composed of Jack Sanderford, Jack Galloway, Cecil Cole and Ray Knott; the equipment committee, composed of Jack Galloway, Jack Sanderford, Ernest Shelton, Clayton Long, and other committees, such as the finance committee, the auditing committee, and all others necessary to carry on a complete program.

The chapter has been especially interested of late in its De Molay degree team, which confers the De Mo-lay, or second degree of the order. The present team, composed of Jack Galloway, Floyd Killingsworth, Jack Sanderford, Cecil Cole, John Stacks, Clyde Alworth, Homer Shipp and Ed die Williamson, has been very successful, but in order to give other members a chance to show their stuff, and to provide competition, a second De Molay degree team has been organized, composed of Byron Reeves, Ernest Shelton, Clyde Alworth, Henry Holly, Homer Short, and others. From the best members of each of these teams will be composed a team which will compete with El Paso in a degree team tournament this summer, and it is the hope and purpose of the present officers to also challenge Fort Worth and Dallas to competition, and also Cisco. The challenge has already been made to the El Paso chapter, and a favorable reply received, so that all that is now necessary is to arrange the details for the competition.

The chapter is at present considering giving a get-together banquet for all De Molays and their friends, at which time the aims, purposes and ideals of the order of De Molay will be revealed to those who are in attendance. The purpose of such a program would clearly be to give those boys interested in the order a true conception of its functions and purposes, so that in case they should ever care to apply for membership they would know definitely to what sort of an organization they were pledging allegiance.

It is stated that the chapter will seek to give to its members a very enjoyable program especially during the summer months.

Town of Flowing Gold' Also Grows 'Ice Box' Inventors

By DOY LAWSON
Ranger, Texas, now being carried to all parts of the United States in different ways.

No doubt, Ranger doesn't know that she has an inventor in her midst. Orders are coming in from all points of the United States for the new patented cooling container for Electrical refrigeration, invented and designed by John Remonte of the Electric Shop.

Finding some of the electric ice machines inadequate for big jobs, such as grocery and meat counter boxes, especially meat boxes where warm meats were put in the refrigerator, Mr. Remonte set to work to find out the cause of the inefficiency and if possible to remedy the situation. As a result he designed a special cooling container which is now patented and already has working models in Syracuse, New York, Detroit, Michigan and Milwaukee, Wis. Each of these containers carry the name plate which reads: "Pat. Pending, Made by J. Remonte, Ranger, Texas."

Letters are coming in every day asking for more information in regards to this improvement in the refrigerating game. The larger refrigerating companies seem the most interested. Mr. Remonte has requests for cuts, test reports, and models from the Delco-Light company, Keivinator Company, Servel Ref. Company and the Copeland Products Corp., and many others. These four mentioned rank above all the other electrical refrigeration companies in sales of electrical machines during the years of 1924 and 1925 in both household and commercial jobs.

This container is so designed as to increase the efficiency of the machine more than 100 percent over the old type of container. The Valiant Flower Shop, Ranger, has one of these specially constructed containers in connection with their electrical refrigerator. Also Adams & Company, Ranger, have one in their freezer counter in connection with a Lipman machine. Both business houses are more than pleased with the results.

Future Looks Bright As New Prospects For New Buildings Appear

By RIGBY VALLIANT
Quite a number of commercial buildings are being erected or planned for Ranger. Texas National Bank building being erected by that bank of Fort Worth is nearing completion and will probably be finished by the twentieth of this month. William Sprengle will occupy the garage on the corner and is busy installing equipment for the filling station and garage, which he will run.

Other stores will move to the new building including the Bernardo Barber shop, the Ranger Tailoring Shop, and a restaurant.

Dirt is being broken for the new building to be erected by Albert Brin of Dallas. This will be occupied by the Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, with a fifty foot front leaving the remaining fifty feet to others figuring on it. The building is to be one hundred feet long by seventy-five feet deep. This building will be completed in seventy-five days. Plans are also being made for a building fifty-five by sixty feet adjoining the Langston Barber Shop. An other filling station is also being erected on the Strawn Highway.

While the buildings in the downtown district are being built a number of residences have been erected or remodeled. Dr. Lauderdale has nearly finished rebuilding his home, which was burned a short time ago, into a beautiful two story house.

All these show that Ranger is fast building up as a city of homes and a city of beautiful buildings instead of the town of shacks, which she was during the historic boom.

DID NORSEMEN REACH AMERICA?

MacMillan Seeks To Prove They Did—500 Years Before Columbus Discovered The New World.

Donald B. MacMillan at the wheel of his schooner, the Bowdoin. Below, one of the early Norse ships such as the tenth century explorers used.

By NEA Service

CHICAGO, May 7.—A thousand years ago, when this continent was hidden in darkness and the roads of the ocean led mostly to an unknown death in the shadow of great waves, certain low, black ships with gaily painted sails crept westward from Northern Europe to see what lay beyond the mysterious sunset rim of the Atlantic.

Just what happened to these hardy voyagers is not definitely known. It is believed, however, that they reached North America and established colonies there.

And now a twentieth century American, Donald B. MacMillan, is going north to find out. Within the coming year he expects to have definite proof that the Norsemen discovered and settled North America nearly 500 years before Columbus.

For Field Museum

MacMillan leaves Miscasset, Me., in his schooner Bowdoin on June 19. He is making his trip under the auspices of the Field Museum here, with Frederick Rawson, Chicago millionaire, financing it.

"Our operations will carry us to a point about 70 degrees north latitude," MacMillan says. "This will bring us about 300 miles beyond the arctic circle. For three months we will work in and about Labrador, Biffin Island, South Greenland and Ellesmere Island."

It is in this territory that MacMillan expects to find proof of early Norse settlers. Particularly in this true of Labrador.

The old Norse sagas tell of a land beyond the ocean that was colonized by daring voyagers. It is MacMillan's belief that this land included not only Greenland, which the Norsemen are known to have reached, but part of the North American continent.

He hopes not only to find such things as weapons, grave stones, buildings and the like; it is his belief that there exists hidden away in this wild land remnants of a tribe of Norse settlers; people who can be identified as actual descendants of these pre-Columbian colonists.

If he succeeds he will add one more bit of evidence to the great daring and skilled seamanship of those semi-barbaric sea rovers of the ninth and tenth centuries A. D.

The average Norse ship measured about 100 feet in length, bore a single mast and carried some twenty pairs of oars. The central part of the boat was decked, and on this deck the rowers sat, each on his own sea chest which contained his belongings. At each end of the boat there was a short raised deck, underneath which there were living quarters for the ships officers.

The seamen worked and slept in the open. They could not "go below," as there was no space under the amidship deck. At night, or in stormy weather, a sort of tent-like covering of canvas was stretched over them.

Couldn't Cook Food

On long voyages everyone ate cold food; these early ships had no galleys and no coxks. The Norse sea captains had no compasses, steering solely by the stars.

These ships had high bows and sterns, carved usually into dragon heads and tails. The big mainsail was usually made of wool, generally gaily painted in big vertical stripes. Each rower went armed, hanging his shield over the side.

It was in such ships, frail and dangerous by modern standards, that the Norsemen crossed the Atlantic. MacMillan, incidentally, plans to do a little northern Labrador colonizing on his own hook.

"For 18 years I've been running back and forth," he says, "but this summer I'm going to pick a site there to build an entire community as a permanent base which I will keep open for five years. In 1927 I want to try again for the north pole and I want to make this base my headquarters, so that I can send back for supplies and still remain on the top of the world."

People who have endured tortures from itching eczema will be happy to learn that a means of relief has been perfected and is already enjoying unheard of popularity on account of the quick way it gets rid of the awful disease of the skin which nobody seemed able to figure out before. It is called Black and White Ointment.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HARRY MORTON, in a quandary because his adopted daughter, AUDREY, and NONA, a Scranton stage girl, are both in love with him, is visited in his Crofton office by a woman who tells him that her husband threatens to sue her for divorce on account of Morton.

Morton, rich, unmarried, middle-aged, is extremely attractive to women. He maintains his home in Crofton and an apartment in Scranton.

At the end of the last chapter, his secretary, JOHN PARRISH, has just announced that the woman's husband is waiting for him outside.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY (The names and situations in this story are fictitious.)

CHAPTER XXXV

A small man, with graying hair, was ushered into the room. His clothes were neat and carefully pressed. His hat, which he held in his hand, was of college-boy type. He stood, waiting apologetically, until Morton told him to sit down.

Parrish shut the door and went out. "I rather thought you'd be in," Morton said. "What's all this about?"

The little man crossed his feet nervously. "My wife said I ought to come and see you," he explained.

"She was in to see me today," Morton told him. "She said you were going to start divorce proceedings against her because of me."

Mr. Carver cleared his throat. "She said I ought to do that," he ventured.

Morton surveyed the other man. "Then it wasn't your idea, this divorce proposition?"

The visitor shook his head. "My wife thought I ought to take some action," he said.

He looked uneasily about the room gazed at the two or three pictures that hung upon the wall, and finally returned his gaze to Morton.

"My wife," he continued, "tells me that she has been seeing you in secret, and that she doesn't see how any man in his right senses can stand a thing like that. You see," he smiled deprecatingly, "you have a reputation among the ladies." He leaned back, as if the entire matter had been left in Morton's hands.

Morton looked him over in wonderment and finally smiled. "Carver," he said, "I think I know what's the matter. The fact is, I met your wife at the same time I met you, at a dance, two or three months ago. She has been at my office three times, on trifling errands. That is, they were trifling except this last one."

He arose and put his hand on the little man's shoulder. "Is this thing worrying you?"

The other shook his head. "I can't say it is, exactly," he said. "I haven't been able to understand my wife for the last year or two. You know—he shifted uneasily—"I didn't put much stock in this story of hers. What would you do about it if you were I, Mr. Morton?"

Morton sat down again. "It's like this," he told the little man. "There comes a time in many women's lives when their husbands are prosperous and they themselves haven't much to do at home. That's your case, isn't it, Mr. Carver?"

His visitor agreed. "We started out poor," he said, "but I'm well fixed now, and my wife doesn't have to do anything at all, unless she wants to."

"That's just the trouble," said Morton. "It's the trouble with lots and lots of women. Their real duty in life is done. Their hands are idle. So they look around for something to entertain them. Some of them get into mischief; some join clubs. Your wife has decided that she wants a bit of excitement. I happened to be a good target. She came up here once or twice. I didn't pay any attention, but evidently she elected to use her imagination a little. Does she—er—imagine other things?"

Mr. Carver said she did. "I can't make out the facts half the time," he said.

"I have an idea she'll settle down," Morton told him. "She'll find something to do that really interests her and she'll drop this sort of thing. I hope so, anyway."

Mr. Carver was getting up, but Morton motioned to him to be seated.

"Maybe you're to blame, too, Carver," he continued. "Do you do anything to amuse her—take her around places?"

"The little man thought it over. 'I take her every place she tells me to,' he said.

"That isn't enough," Morton said. "Suppose you make a great to-do about taking her to dances, and out to dinner, and to the theatre, and on trips to Scranton and when you get her there, take her to a lot of jazz places where she'll see some excitement—and see it with you. Maybe you yourself are a little bit humdrum."

"I AM humdrum," said Mr. Carver, sadly. "She tells me that almost every day."

Rising, Morton offered a final bit of advice. "Remember what you used to do when you were a boy, in courting her," he said. "Put on some of those stunts now. It'll please her after she gets through being surprised."

The little man went out the door. "Thank you, Mr. Morton," he said, earnestly. "I hope she don't bother you any more. She drives me almost crazy, sometimes," he added, as he passed into the hall.

After dinner that night Parrish drove up to the house in his little, black, two-seated car. It rattled to a halt and Parrish descended. Opening the hood, he looked anxiously into the interior, made a cautious exploration with his hand, buried himself, and blowing on his fingers, turned to the house. Morton and Audrey were seated on the porch, the right company for me? Anyhow, those girls in Scranton are broad-minded."

"Too broad-minded, maybe," Morton remarked. "It's a good idea to be broad-minded about other people, but mighty watchful of your own conduct. Those girls are apt to be broad-minded about themselves, too."

Parrish had been sitting with his elbows on his knees, and his chin buried in his hands. Now he raised his head and turned.

"I wish you'd marry me, Miss Morton," he said, loudly and unexpectedly.

The man and girl were genuinely startled.

"What?" cried Morton. "The young man repeated. 'I wish Miss Morton would marry me.'"

The girl only stared at him, her lips half open. Morton, however, pursued the question further.

"Are you proposing?" he wanted to know.

"I suppose you can call it that," Parrish said. His tone was stubborn. "I can take care of her, anyway. Nobody's ever going to say anything

While negotiations between the two organizations regarding actress services were in progress, she demanded a salary of $1,000 a year. watching him. Night had fallen but his movements were illumined by the street lamp, on the sidewalk, and by the light that hung above the door of the Morton home.

"Would you like to go riding in my flivver?" he asked Audrey, as he sat on the steps, hat in hand.

"Come in a minute before we settle that problem," Morton said. "Sit down."

He tossed a cushion to the young man, who seated himself on the top step.

"Audrey's been having an adventure today," Morton continued. "Some ladies have been in to sympathize with her."

"The old cats!" Audrey observed. Parrish looked up with inquiring interest.

"It seems that Nona's visit to Crofton not long ago has created much debate in our circle," Morton proceeded.

"These people next door wouldn't speak to us this morning, you remember. These ladies came to tell Audrey how sorry they were that I am a miserable old rake."

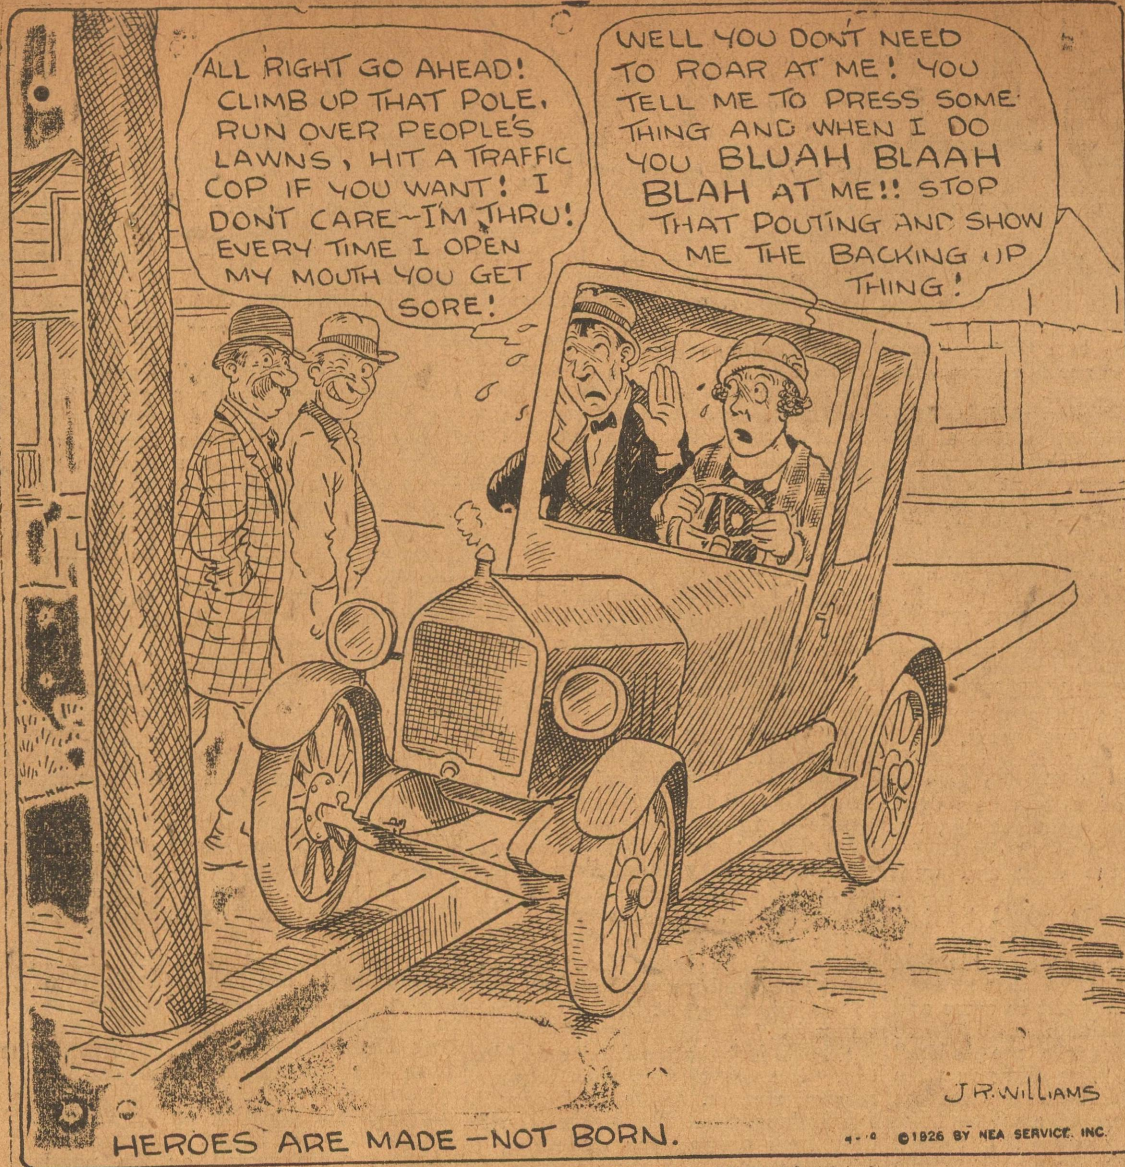

"I know," Parrish said absently. Audrey took him up. "You think GAL TWO—THESE WOMEN the same way yourself?" she accused.

Parrish did not deny the charge. "I told you and Mr. Morton what I thought," he said, stiffly. Then, his tone changing: "But I don't like these people to be talking about you, Miss Morton. Or you either, for that matter, sir," he added, turning to Morton.

The older man smiled. "I thought when we came back here that Audrey would be associating with her old companions. However, it appears there is so much talk about me, that she is not likely to be happy. I'm afraid she is going to have to fall back on you for company again."

"That will be fine," said Parrish earnestly

Thin Diaphragm Invented For The Radio; Important

WASHINGTON, May 7.—A super-thin diaphragm, so thin that it is possible to read or take photographs through it, has been perfected in Berlin, the commerce department has been advised.

The device is said to be a most important development in the electrical field, especially for radio. Microphones, telephones, loud speakers and phonographs can be improved upon by the invention, which is credited to Dr. Carl Mueller of the Physikalisches-Technische Reichsanstalt in Berlin.

"The construction of this new instrument is claimed by the inventor to be so simple and cheap that almost any radio fan can construct it," the commerce department stated.

"The microphone consists of two parallel metal membranes. Between these two membranes and from one to five millimeters distance from each, is stretched a very fine silk tissue which is plated with gold silver or platinum. A 200 volt current supplied by storage battery is passed through the silk-metal tissue."

Unsteady Nerves, Weak Muscles Keep Women Irregular

Now Proven That Catarrh of the Generative Organs Is the Cause of Nine Cases Out of Ten of So-called "Female Trouble."

It is positively alarming to see the many girls and women who go through their daily work nowadays with little or no enthusiasm and pleasure in what they are doing. The reason for this is very plain when you talk to some of these unfortunate ones for just a minute. They invariably unfold a story of a condition which makes it impossible for them to enjoy the pleasures of home life or the society of their friends. It is equally astonishing to see the remarkable changes brought about in the condition of thin, frail, nervous women and girls by the consistent use of St. Joseph's G. F. P., the wonderful medicine which is being introduced here, and which is doing almost miraculous things for these victims of the dreaded malady—Catarrh.

The business woman and the school girl, as well as the housewife, find relief and renewed ambition by taking St. Joseph's G. F. P. Those painful, sick spells which caused them to lose two or three days from business or school every month—confined to their bed or room with aching head, back or sides, nausea, cramping spells and nervousness, quickly disappear when they begin taking St. Joseph's G. F. P.

There is nothing to compare with the enthusiasm of those women and girls who are taking it. The wonderful improvement in their appearance, the return of their vitality and ambition, the joy and buoyancy they feel from the rich, red blood now pulsing through their veins and arteries, supplying the tissue with nourishment and the muscles and nerves with strength and steadiness knows no bounds, and they literally force their friends to listen to them while they tell of the wonderful changes in their condition brought about by St. Joseph's G. F. P.

Oilbelt Makes Record IN Automobile Sales Week Ending April 30

By HARRY HEATH.

The Oilbelt Motor company has made a record in selling cars for the past week ending April 30, having taken in over $27,000.

According to Mr. Newnam, manager of the Oilbelt Motor company, the Chevrolet car led in the sales, exceeding the Studebaker.

The sales for the past week include Chevrolets, Studebakers and used cars.

It is now evident that the Chevrolet car is coming into prominence as set out by the sale of them.

Mr. Newnam states that last week was the largest they had had, but they expect to exceed even this in the weeks to come.

The salesroom of the Oilbelt Motor company is very attractive, being covered with cars of both kinds, in sport models, closed models, and open cars. The Oilbelt has a very nice looking sport model Chevrolet roadster which would catch the eye of any man interested in a good-looking car.

LEAGUE'S CAMPAIGN TO CURB ARMS INDUSTRY IS HALTED BY AMERICA'S FAILING TO JOIN

By HENRY WOOD,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

GENEVA.—The fact that the constitution of the United States fails to give the federal government any control over private industry in the different states will probably afford the much desired pretext sought by the rest of the world for refusing to establish any governmental control over the private manufacture of war material.

As a result of this situation in the United States, a questionnaire has just been sent by the secretary of the League of Nations to all of the rest of the nations in the world asking them if their constitutions present obstacles to the conclusion of international agreements for the control of the private manufacture of war material.

As it is generally conceded that there is no nation in the world at the present time that is at all anxious to curtail its private industry and commerce in this respect, it is frankly expected that the great bulk of the nations will be able to reply to the secretariat in an affirmative manner on the subject.

Embarrassing.
The League of Nations is in the somewhat embarrassing position of being obliged under the covenant to see what it can do about controlling the private manufacture of war material. The covenant contains a clause declaring that such private manufacture is open to "grave objections" and most pacifists, including certain commissions of the league itself, have been loud in declaring that one of the principal causes of war are the great war material producers such as the Krupps, the Schneiders and others who have every interest in seeing that wars are provoked and maintained the longest time possible in order to create a market for their output.

Incidentally the United States now ranks as one of the world's largest producers and exporters of war material.

World Monopoly.
It is largely because of the position the United States now occupies in this respect that the other leading nations in the matter of the private production of war material, have made known to the league that they cannot impose on their private manufacturers any restrictions which are not accepted by the United States. To do so would be merely to create for America a world monopoly on one of the largest items of international production and exportation.

On the other hand, the United States has made known to the league that it has no constitutional authority for interfering with private industry in the various states making up Uncle Sam's union.

Situation.
Under the circumstances the league has deemed it advisable to find out whether an analogous situation exists in other countries, and hence the questionnaire that has just been adressed to all of the governments of the world.

The replies to this questionnaire are to be sent into the league before June 1, so that the regular meeting of the council on the first Monday in June will be in a position to know just how far it can go in attempting to establish some sort of international control over the private production of war material.

In general, league circles already accept the fact that about all that can be done will be to launch an international protocol pledging all signatories to send in to the league for publication full annual statistics on their manufacture, exportation and purchase of war material.

In this way it will be possible to see whether any one nation is purchasing large quantities, and also what nations may be supplying others with the material necessary to go to war.

Leaguers remain convinced that this system of publicity will be sufficient to attain the desired ends. They are convinced that if the statistics show that any one nation is exporting war material into another to such an extent as to create a menace of war, that the public opinion of the entire world will be sufficient to create a check.

'FIGHTING BUCKAROO' BATTLING RACE FOR GIRL AND GOLD MINE

Buck Jones in "The Fighting Buckaroo," the latest Fox Films production which will appear at the Liberty theatre today and Saturday takes full advantage of the wide possibilities in this vivid picture.

From the minute the buckaroo leaves the steamer gangplank on his return to the United States until he arrives at his Arizona ranch he is racing or fighting for a girl and a gold mine.

Sally Long has the role of Betty Gregory the society girl who owns the ranch where the mine has been located. Frank Butler has the part of Percy Wellington, an English friend of the buckaroo.

Plant a few gourds on the garden fence for the kids to play with. Wait until it is warm before planting. They make lots of vines in a hurry.

A NEW and BETTER GASOLINE

The New Low 400 End Point

A low end point, assured through the more accurate fractionating control of the gasoline runs, checked frequently by the volatility tests, leaving no heavy ends, promotes complete vaporization and burning of each cylinder charge.

Less Crankcase Dilution

—better cylinder lubrication, more perfect piston seal and greater mileage before the changing of crankcase oil becomes necessary.

The Low Initial Boiling Point

With the low boiling point, due to regulation of the still operations to retain the lighter fractions of the crude oil in the gasoline runs, the new Texaco provides a "high test" gasoline of greater volatility.

Easier Starting

—less load on the storage battery, and more power with below-normal engine temperature.

Anti-Knock Qualities

Successfully producing certain desirable aromatic and naphthene hydrocarbons in the final new Texaco, the Holmes-Manley Process produces an exceptional gasoline with combustion characteristics in the finished product which give it exceptional non-detonating qualities.

Smooth Engine Operation

—and more power, better hill work without retarded spark, and a quicker pick-up.

A Balanced Distillation Range

The distillation range, controlled by the Holmes-Manley proportioning of intermediate boiling fractions, provides a volatile fuel with a combustion rate balanced to engine requirements. The new Texaco works best on a lean mixture.

Maximum Acceleration

—quicker pick-up and more power on the hills. The new Texaco takes the acceleration load.

The New Volatile Range

By shortening the distillation range, the new Texaco Gasoline provides a higher volatility, which gives the maximum acceleration with a leaner mixture while the engine is warming up.

Greater Mileage

—no unburned heavy ends, greater gasoline economy (more air, less gas), and lower cost per mile.

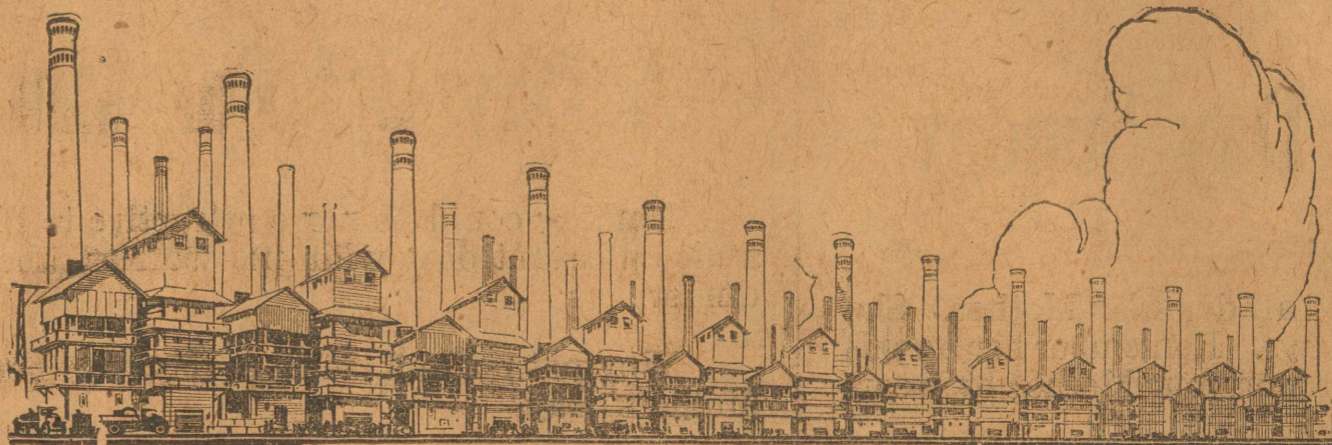

THE TEXAS COMPANY, always active and aggressive in the development of high grade petroleum products, now offers the American motoring public a new gasoline with a combination of qualities never before attained in a motor fuel.

It is a product of perfectly balanced distillation range, more volatile, and vaporizes to a dry gas.

The new gasoline is made possible through the Holmes-Manley Gasoline Process, owned and controlled by The Texas Company, representing an investment of millions of dollars and many years' efforts of refinery experts.

The new and better Texaco Gasoline has all the good qualities of any gasoline or motor fuel, regardless of price. It contains no chemicals. It needs none. Over two million barrels of this new product are now on hand.

Stop at the first Texaco pump you see. All tanks and pumps now supplied with the new product. Fill with Texaco Gasoline; and Texaco Motor Oil, the clean, clear, golden oil, known everywhere for its quality, full body and purity. You will note with pleasure the improved operation and condition of your engine.
