

Howard County Field Adds Two Producers

HOME TOWN TALK

By BEDDY

The Big Spring Chamber of Commerce recently went on record as opposing reduction of wages.

Shortly before that action was taken the manager, Mr. Watson, after receiving an inquiry from a citizen, wrote the United States Chamber of Commerce for its position with reference to wage scales.

The Herald has received a letter from Mr. Watson with which he encloses a copy of a letter received from D. A. Skinner, secretary of the U. S. C. of C.

Mr. Skinner's letter follows: To our great regret, response to the inquiry in your letter of May 1 has been delayed by reason of our occupation with the annual meeting of the United States Chamber of Commerce and the biennial meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce.

The representative of a labor organization about whose statement you inquire was in error. We do not have scheduled for discussion of the question of whether or not any effort should be made to reduce the wage scale, and we know of no likelihood of any such activity on our part.

The local Chamber was a member of the national organization until this year, when the membership was dropped.

We reproduce Mr. Skinner's letter here for information of the public, especially members of labor organizations.

There has been and still is a widespread feeling of labor organizations that the U. S. chamber opposes organized labor. This feeling arises, we have observed locally, from the chamber's non-partisan position. The national chamber often sends out questionnaires to local chambers affiliated with it. The answers are gathered and results of the polls on various questions announced.

Announcement of the result of a poll of local chambers, however, does not constitute a policy or official position of the national chamber. Its function is merely to gather and release for public information positions taken by various chambers, throughout the country.

The local Chamber of Commerce has ever since we have been acquainted with it favored a living wage and has never by word or deed sought to control wage scales of any kind.

One of the most remarkable and regrettable items of public rumor, which, like most all rumors, is absolutely without any foundation of fact, that we have ever heard was one that began circulating about two years ago.

Since then, when you could hear dozens of men declare without qualification that the Chamber of Commerce had tried to get a contractor on the Gregg street viaduct to pay lower wages to laborers, some of our people have lived in absolute belief that the Chamber of Commerce favors low wages.

The opposite is true. The chamber favors a living wage, has gone on record recently opposing reduction of wages, has never by word or deed as an organization attempted to exert influence with any person, persons or corporation to have wages reduced.

We make these statements in connection with the U. S. chamber's letter as a matter of justice to the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce.

Man Killed, Woman Shot; Leave Notes

'Our Only Way Out' Writes Texas Girl; Man From New Jersey

DALLAS, May 29 (AP)—Thomas E. Davis, 25, Verona, N. J., was shot and killed and Mrs. Fannie Anderson, 24, of Graham, Texas, was probably fatally wounded in a hotel room here today.

Similar notes found in the room said they wanted to be buried in a grave together. A note addressed to "Gus" and signed "Fannie" said "this is the only way out for Tommy and me."

Site Inspection For U.S. Building Is Started Here

W. P. Elder, site agent, treasury department, and Carl Bessner, postal inspector, who arrived Thursday morning will be here through Saturday inspecting sites and conferring with bidders for building of a site for the government building to be erected here.

"We want to see all interested parties as soon as possible," said Mr. Elder. They may be found at the Settles Hotel.

Thursday was spent in inspection of sites. Conferences with bidders began Friday morning. Thirteen proposals for sites have been submitted.

Luncheon Club With Mrs. Porter

The Thursday Luncheon club met this week with Mrs. G. R. Porter, Alta Vista apartments.

Mrs. Fred Primus won high score at bridge. Mrs. Shirley Robbins was the soloist.

Favors and tallies used by Mrs. Porter were tickets for gathered while on a recent trip to Miami, Fla., and Havana, Cuba.

A delightful two-course luncheon was served.

The club decided to hold its meetings moving through the summer months.

Announcement of the result of a poll of local chambers, however, does not constitute a policy or official position of the national chamber.

Since then, when you could hear dozens of men declare without qualification that the Chamber of Commerce had tried to get a contractor on the Gregg street viaduct to pay lower wages to laborers, some of our people have lived in absolute belief that the Chamber of Commerce favors low wages.

Speedway Victim

Largé Mortgage Filed In Angelo

A chattel mortgage and deed of trust for $1,219,486.32 was filed for record in Tom Green county Wednesday from the Hughes-Franklin Theatres Corporation to the RJI and P&R Theatres in connection with final details of turning over the large holdings to the Hollywood company. Sale of the theatres, including the Big Spring group, was effected as of January 1, 1931. The mortgage for the theatre chain includes security on the buildings and equipment in Oklahoma and Texas.

Brindley In Lime At 3280

Continental Oil company's No. 1 Brindley, eight miles southwest of Big Spring, is rated a 65-barrel producer, uncompleted. The total depth was unroofed by report. It to have reached 5,280 feet Thursday night. Drilling was continuing in lime, which was topped at 3,155 feet.

No. 1 Brindley is 660 feet from the south and east lines of section 18, block 28, township 1 south, T&P survey. It is three-fourths of a mile north of Continental (formerly Marland-Group D No. 1 Harding, which was completed four years ago and is now pumping approximately 15 barrels daily.

No. 1 Harding, a discovery, is approximately eleven miles from other production.

B.R.T. Urges Public To Use Railroads In Place Other Modes

HOUSTON, May 29 (AP)—The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen's national convention here today adopted a resolution urging shipping public to patronize railroads, and avoid other transportation.

The brotherhood also reaffirmed its position on the six hour day.

LAUGHING JACKASSES TO MAKE 200 MERRY

SAN DIEGO, Calif., May 29 (INS)—A dozen laughing jackasses from Australia are the latest addition to the city zoo in Balboa park near here.

The laughing jackass is not an animal but a species of laughing bird. Its bird name is kookaburra. "Why this type of kingfisher laughs is a mystery," says Edmund Heiler, noted naturalist. "However, its laugh is believed due to the bird's varied diet, which includes garbage, mice, snakes, lizards, birds' eggs, insects and any small living creatures."

Youth's Auto In Accident; He Kills Self

Belief Occupants Fatally Hurt May Have Led To Act

OKLAHOMA CITY, May 29 (AP)—After his new roadster had crashed into a parked truck west here before dawn today Ivan Van Pin, Kansas City, stepped behind the wreckage of his automobile and shot himself dead.

Several persons were injured, none seriously, in the wreck. Died Van Pin apparently died in the belief the accident had resulted fatally for some one in the trailer. He was enroute home from Texas with three other young men.

Poppy Sale To Be Held Here Memorial Day

Women of Big Spring will join the American Legion post here Saturday, Memorial Day, in the sale of poppies for benefit of totally disabled war veterans who are patients in government hospitals.

The veterans make these poppies as a means of "killing time" that weighs heavily upon them in the hospitals, and they are sold for the sole purpose of providing the broken boys of '28, who then were widely acclaimed as heroes, with a few cents of pocket money that they can use to brighten the weary days.

Commander L. W. Croft of the local Legion post said at noon today a number of women had volunteered to sell poppies downtown throughout the day Saturday.

Rites Saturday For Coahoma Man

Solomon Joiner, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. B. Wheat, Coahoma, at 10:20 a. m. Thursday will be buried there Saturday following funeral services from the Methodist church at 2 p. m. Rev. Keiser officiating.

Mr. Joiner was born July 3, 1840 in Illinois. He had made his home near Coahoma 15 years. He was married to Elizabeth Barnsdale November 14 1872 and is survived by his widow, a daughter, Mrs. Wheat; four sons, J. C. Joiner, Uniontown, Kansas, who was to arrive here at 5 p. m. Friday; W. L. Joiner, Hepler, Kansas, also due here this evening; A. V. Joiner, Davenport, Iowa, who will be unable to attend the funeral and George R. Joiner of Coahoma.

Pallbearers will be Ira McQuerry, A. W. Thomas, B. R. Thompson, A. W. Rowe, R. A. Marshall, F. Roberts.

Banks, Post Office To Observe Holiday

All banks will be closed Friday, Memorial Day.

The postoffice will be closed throughout the day with exception of the general delivery window, which will be open for service from 9 to 10 a. m.

City letter carriers will make only one delivery, that in the forenoon.

CREW OF PLANE KILLED IN SPEED TEST

These four men, the crew of the Chicago Daily News plane, "Blue Streak" were killed when the machines fell near Glen Ellyn, Ill., during an attempt to set a speed and endurance record. Left to right: Robert J. Gormley, mechanic; Lewis S. Rice, radio operator; Shirley J. Short, pilot; Richard K. Peck, co-pilot.

Telegram Is Used to Pass Bogus Draft

A man wanted here for obtaining money on a draft by means of a forged telegram of authorization eluded Abilene officers Thursday.

It was declared here today by L. A. Eubanks, manager Retail Merchants Association.

According to Eubanks, who has been handling the case, the man was formerly with a large wholesale drug concern of New York. He arrived in Big Spring and went to a local hotel where a telegram was being held for him.

The telegram, Eubanks said, was signed by the drug concern and authorized drawing of a draft for $40. The draft was paid by a local bank, and the telegram forwarded with the instrument.

Eubanks said today the man was in the act of duplicating the scheme in Abilene but failed to return to the telegraph office. Officers there had been asked to apprehend him.

Eubanks declared the man would send the telegrams to himself and present them for payment.

He is described as being about 26 years old, weighing 140 pounds, and being five feet, ten inches tall. He has brown hair, grey eyes, a small mouth and a small moustache. He wears a dark gray suit and a gray hat.

Charges of forgery have been filed against him in Justice of the Peace Cecil C. Collins' court.

Half-Inch Rain Covers County

Howard county was soaked Thursday night by a slow rain that totaled four-tenths of an inch. The total was increased to half an inch during the morning.

The rain started falling Thursday afternoon and continued through the night. Light rainfall was registered here during the morning.

Moisture laden clouds indicated additional precipitation could be expected this afternoon and tonight.

According to information reaching here the rainfall was general over the county.

HOUSTON, May 29 (AP)—Rains averaging one half to one inch were reported over the north plains wheat belt today and last night.

A downpour was reported west to New Mexico, south to the Horeford territory, and fifty miles north.

Porter Urges Civic Project

G. R. Porter, energetic civic worker and loyal Big Spring business man, is the author of a statement issued Friday in support of the city hall, fire station, auditorium bond issue of $300,000 which will be voted upon here June 16.

The old saying "If you are going to dance you will have to pay the fiddler," is as true today as it was when it was first uttered, and will apply to Big Spring today; for if we are going to have a beautiful and modern city, it is going to cost us some money. No one can get something for nothing. Those days never existed and never will. So if we want a new city hall, a city square, we are going to have to pay out a little money for it, so let's do it and then point with pride to what Big Spring is and what it is going to be.

R. W. Henry Is Made Leader In Lions Club

Robert W. Henry was elected president of the Lions Club at the regular meeting of the organization held at the Settles Hotel today.

Mr. Henry will succeed H. S. Fawcett, who has acted as president for six months. He will take office July 1.

Other officers of the organization will be named at the meeting to be held two weeks from today.

The club members voted to entertain their wives with a bridge party Friday night at the Settles. The party will replace the regular Friday noon luncheon.

Three Mexican Robbers Held

MEXICO CITY, May 29 (AP)—Police today announced a band of three men known as the Kochimilco pirates, had been captured. They are accused of a series of robberies along the narrow, picturesque canals of Xochimilco near Mexico City. They assertedly waylaid canoes there.

LOUIS U. S. DRAMATISTS PARIS, May 29 (INS)—America is the source of modern drama, declared Professor Charles H. Grandgent, Harvard Exchange professor at the Sorbonne in a recent lecture here. The Old World, he said, lacks dramatists equal to those of the period between 1850 and 1890. The New World is ready to supply them.

Among the better candidates, Professor Grandgent mentioned, Mr. and Mrs. Dubose Heyward, Marc Connelly, Maxwell Anderson and Elmer L. Rice.

WINSTED IS CHALLENGED WINSTED, Conn., May 29 (INS)—Winsted may be something of a trout fishing center but, according to Alfred Alexander, who works in New Haven, it has nothing on his new place of abode. Alexander came home from a week-end with a string of twenty brown trout he caught outside New Haven just before he left. The fish ran from ten to twenty inches and were just about of the ten-pound limit fixed by law.

960 Barrels Initial Flow Of Settles 5

Continental Rigging Up For Offset; Merrick-Lamb Gets Well

Two new producers, one on the Settles lease and the other on the Clay, were completed this week. It was announced today by E. E. Andrews, proration umpire for this section.

The Settles C No. 5, belonging to the American-Mazarcob Oil Company, was completed for an initial production of 960 barrels.

The well is located 230 feet from the east line, 680 feet from the west boundary, section 6, block 72, T&P-R. R. survey.

It is producing from 21st feet. The Settles No. 7 of the Continental Oil Company is rigging up as an offset to the new producer.

Merrick and Lamb completed a well on the Clay with an initial production of 180 barrels. The well is located north of present production on the lease.

It is producing from a rich sand at 1,300 feet and 1,800 feet. The new well is located in the east part of block 29, section 125.

Local Dairymen File Federal Suit Against Creamery

ABILENE, May 29—Claiming the Snowwhite Creamery of Big Spring purposed one-year contract, to accept their daily delivery of milk with W. D. Coffey and A. F. Moore, operating partners of a dairy at Big Spring, have filed suit for damages from the company, alleging breach of contract. The case was entered in the United States district court.

Petition of the dairymen claims they entered into an agreement with T. W. Long, representative of the creamery, last July 1, to furnish 100 gallons of milk daily for one year; and that they were notified by letter the creamery would discontinue buying from them on December 28 of last year.

Damage through loss of the sales from December 28 to asserted date of expiration of the contract, is set at $15,149.60.

Coffey and Moore are represented by C. P. Rogers and Sullivan and Sullivan.

Regular Travel Over Oceans Via Airships Seen By Navy Officials

AKRON, May 29 (AP)—David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy, said in an address here today he believed rigid airships would become the accepted means of crossing the Atlantic and Pacific. He expressed regret that the Germans were establishing a weekly route to South America, this summer instead of to North America.

Veterans Bureau To Be Reorganized Says Washington Paper

WASHINGTON, May 29 (AP)—The Washington Post today said there would be a sweeping reorganization of the veterans administration within the next ten days. Coordination and consolidation of unifying medical and legal work with other groups under Administrator Hines was along lines which the Post said changes would be made.

AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN Services at the First Presbyterian church Sunday will include a sermon by the pastor, Rev. R. L. Owen, at the morning hour, with special singing featuring Herbert Keaton soloist, and a sermon at the evening service by Right Rev. E. SICK HEADACHE IS ONE PENALTY Neglect of Constipation Brings Painful Symptoms—For Relief, Take Black-Draught.

Mrs. Ruth Scott, of Tusculum, Ala., relates her experience of more than thirty years in the use of Theodor's Black-Draught.

"When a child at home," says Mrs. Scott, "my mother gave it to me for disordered stomach, and from then until now when I have needed something for biliousness, indigestion and headache, or for constipation, I take Black-Draught. It relieves me as no other medicine will. I don't believe there is a better one made."

"When I get constipated, I have a dull, aching feeling and if I don't take something, I get a headache. Black-Draught is the thing I take. That is why I recommend it—for the good it did me."

Constipation dams up poisons in the bowels, where they are absorbed into the general system, causing many serious symptoms. At the first sign of constipation, take Theodor's Black-Draught. This medicine is made of pure botanical drugs and contains no chemical ingredients. It has been in use nearly 100 years, with constantly increasing popularity.

MEDICAL TERMS
"He thought fillet mignon was a fish" is the delightfully humorous and psychologically effective caption of an advertisement which offers for sale a condensed course on culture.

This confusion in the meaning of terms is mild compared to the glowing errors which are made every day in the use of scientific terms.

The man who would be ashamed to admit that he didn't know what a carburetor is unashingly says serum when he means vaccine, and bacterium when he means microorganism.

There is more to knowing medical terms than escape from embarrassment.

To understand the significance of common technical expressions is in a measure to appreciate the scientific facts behind them.

Consider, for example, the disease germs. These are frequently lumped together under the term bacilli or bacteria.

Many of the common disease germs are bacteria, that is, one-celled living things belonging to the vegetable kingdom.

Other disease germs, on the other hand, are not bacteria but protozoa, that is, they are one-celled living things belonging to the animal kingdom.

In this latter group we find the germs of syphilis, malaria, African sleeping sickness, etc.

The bacilli are rod-shaped germs, typical examples of which are the germs causing typhoid fever, diphtheria and lockjaw.

Cocci, pronounced co-cal, are round or spherically shaped germs. The germs of pneumonia, gonorrhea and the common pus-producing germs belong to this group.

Germs or microorganisms are the terms that may correctly be applied to the collective groups of minute living things causing diseases.

Hollywood Sights
By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD—Clark Gable, a young man who has risen comet-like in a few weeks to a position near the top of the list of stars, spent three years in Hollywood pounding studio gates in vain, and the famous last laugh is his now.

But he took it in practical fashion as soon as he entered talkies.

Gable's movie experience before included only three days' extra work, and he spent most of his time, when he could find work, on the local legitimate stage.

After three days of it he decided he was hopeless as picture material, unless he became a regular extra, which his ambition would not permit. So he went to New York, became successful on the stage and was brought here for the lead in "The Last Mile." Talkies offers followed.

HORSEMANSHIP HOAX
The first he accepted was as a cowboy in "The Painted Desert." He was asked if he could ride, and he said "yes." But he'd never been on a horse in his life.

He went on salary at once, although the picture was not to start until five weeks later. During the five weeks he took riding lessons, day in and day out. This strenuous program brought him anguish. After a few days he was riding with his legs from knees to hips, a mass of blisters.

But, in time, he has been consoled in the thought that Hollywood was paying him for learning something by the way he was supposed to know it, and he has made more money out of this Hollywood which once turned him down.

Now there's a practical last laugh.

CAREER SAVED
His preparation, painful though it was, saved his talkie career. His first scene, taken on an Arizona location, was to show him riding down a distant hilltop into the camera.

There were no lines to speak, and everything depended on his riding. Had he failed, he would have been out of the cast at once. There's no difficulty in substituting a player when the unsatisfactory one has no scenes in the cast.

The upshot of it all was, aside from the fact that Gable has given up all other sports for horseback riding which he finds restful and refreshing, that Gable won other and better parts.

He made a hit in "Free Soul" with Norma Shearer, and now is set to play, among desirable roles, opposite Greta Garbo in "The Rise and Fall of Susan Lennox."

WOULD HAVE GUNS FOR ALL
BROWNWOOD, Texas (INS).—There would be less crime if all citizens carried pistols, as they did on the old Texas frontier, in the opinion of J. F. McCleary, who doesn't like Texas' pistol statute "If every man and woman had a pistol and understood how to use it," he says, "there would be much less robbery and other crime."

Mad Pursuit

BY JESSIE DOUGLAS FOX

SYNOPSIS: Nora Lake is a suicide victim's widow a few hours after she marries to escape from her troubled life as the motherless daughter of Julian Lake. She reproaches herself for not having sensed Nicholas Thayer's plan to jump from the ship's deck after the loveless marriage which gave her a claim on his home near Albany. At the station there Nicholas's brother, Jonathan, meets her with a scarcely concealed contempt. He observes her dismay at finding her aunt, Emily Durant, her cousins, Frances, with two children, deserted by their father, and the crippled Hallie, living in a drab home and not the mansion Julian had pictured. The next day, Nora awaits the coming of Jonathan to take her to the old Thayer place.

people could not give her security. They themselves were insecure; any day they might leave this dreary street and go to live somewhere else. She did not see that their interests were interlocked nor that their love was a stronghold against the world.

She heard the noon whistles blow and down the steps from the back yard two children came running. Alice came straight up to the kitchen table and observed Nora minutely.

"I like you," she pronounced after this scrutiny.

She was an exquisite creature. She seemed to rise out of her white dress like a flower. She had beautifully spaced gray eyes beneath fine black eyebrows. Her skin was fresh and delicate. Her fair hair shone about her face like the petals of a daffodil.

Four-year-old Dickie did not notice the newcomer. He was chasing a small brown dog around the kitchen. At last Dickie captured him and began to hug him lovingly while the dog bore it with an infinite whine.

"He loves Petie Baker," Alice said placidly, watching the dog roll out of Dickie's arms.

Hallie came hobbling down to get the children's lunch and Nora noticed how skillfully she managed to get about on her crippled feet.

When the children had left for school it was time to think about the afternoon. Nora, looking over her clothes, was struck with despair. The blue skirt was shrunken from the salt air, the breast had an old look and the scarlet blouse was a mass of wrinkles.

She dressed very carefully and went to find Hallie. Hallie looked up from her sewing.

"Look at me, I look awful!" Nora cried in despair.

Hallie hesitated and said nothing.

"I can't go, that's all. Oh, Hallie, what shall I do?"

Hallie began to jerk open drawers.

"I have a pair of gloves—someone gave them to me and haven't worn them yet—here they are. And I

A RIDE WITH JON
DESPITE Jonathan's coldness, Nora did want Nicholas' people—Jonathan, his step-sister, Darnell, and her father—to like her. "More than anything else in the world"—she had told Hallie, there in the attic room where she had spent her first night.

Nora, came over and stood beside Hallie, who was logging down at her hands. She thought this crippled cousin of hers was very ugly, but she found something in the face that interested her. It was not one of those faces which have nothing to say, but the lines, the pain, the laughter wrinkles about the eyes were like the map of a strange country.

"Your hands are beautiful," Nora said when she saw that Hallie had observed her scrutiny.

"But useless," Hallie said, a little sadly. "Here I am, day after day letting the others work to support me. Mother giving music lessons in all kinds of weather. Fran working all day in an office while I play watch dog at home." She sat frowning.

"But some day perhaps I will do something," she said with a kind of grim purpose.

When she was dressed Nora went downstairs. As she reached the last step, the dog of the front parlor burst open, and the young doctor with his hat in his hand clutching a bag, with the barest nod to Nora, rushed out of his office.

"Someone must be dying!" Nora cried to Hallie.

"Don't worry. He's just showing the neighborhood how busy he is," Hallie explained, smiling. "He's not had a single patient—except Petie Baker, the dog who hurt his leg—since he's been here. But twice a day he takes his bag and rushes around the block at break-neck speed."

Nora insisted on going down to get her breakfast alone, though Hallie offered to crawl down after her.

The basement floor contained the dining room and kitchen. Nothing more dreary than this kitchen could be imagined, with its small barred window that looked out on the back yard.

A gas stove stood against one wall. A table centered the kitchen and a glass-doored cupboard held rows of blue plates and cups. The kitchen table was scrubbed to a satiny whiteness and even the little stove by the wall had a black gleaming surface.

Nora sat munching toast and drinking warmed-over coffee at the kitchen table. She could barely wait until the time Jon would come for her. She was eager to leave the little red brick house. Her own think Fran has a new pair of silk stockings. Will this blouse fit you? Give me your skirt. I'll press it."

Nora began to dress again in Fran's white blouse with its round childish collar, to draw on Fran's silk stockings and try on the gloves. Hallie came back with the skirt just as the bell rung.

"Oh Hallie, I'm not ready!"

She watched Hallie hobble from the room again, heard her cautious descent of the stairs. She was cold with nervousness; she could picture Jan and Hallie in the back parlor, Jon restless and impatient and Hallie observing him with her sardonic eyes.

When she was dressed she decided she had never looked worse. But she would show Jon Thayer that she thought nothing of his opinion. She might be poor, but she must never forget she was Julian Lake's daughter. But her heart beat thickly as she went toward the back parlor.

Jon was standing with an open book in his hands as Nora came in. He put it down and took her chilly fingers in his for a moment.

"Are you feeling rested?" he asked indifferently.

He stood out against the background of the shabby room, young and arrogant. His deep-set eyes, neither green nor gray, rested on her. She saw his strong nose and insolent lips, and she wondered what his arrogance might conceal.

Nora turned to say good-by to Hallie as she went down the steps beside Jon to his car. He seemed anxious to hurry her away—not because he wanted to learn about Nicholas but in order to get the ordeal over.

He slid in the clutch of the low foreign car and drove down the street recklessly. There was a quality of daring in his driving that appealed to Nora.

"Driving too fast for you?" Jon asked.

"You couldn't drive too fast for me."

Jon turned to glance at her and looked quickly away. He said nothing more. At length Nora saw the blue gleam of the river and the river meadows yellow with wild mustard.

She was taking her to his home because it was a duty, a painful duty he did not trouble to hide. She felt that he did not like her, not with passive indifference but with an active and violent feeling. At last Jon turned into an old carriage drive that wound through poplar trees toward the house. Far back on lawns that seemed to flow like green waves it stood on a rise of ground. The house was of a pale brick, stained by rain and sun and wind to gray. Slender white pillars outlined the piazza. It was one of those old Dutch houses imbedded in its lands and fields and woods.

Jon said, as they climbed the stone steps, "You can see the river from here," as though she were a casual visitor who had come to see the view.

The trees except for the poplars beside the driveway had been cleared away from the house, so that the grass dipped and rolled down a gentle slope toward the river.

The room to which Jon took her ran the full length of the house. The feeling that the house gave her of being grounded in tradition was centered here. The white wainscoting, the high ceilings and wide fireplace, the mellow old furniture covered in a design of birds and flowers gave the room an austere beauty. On the bookshelves and tables were bowls of white lilacs.

She sat waiting for Damon, right with nervousness. This old house had made her feel like a tramp who had made her way in by mistake. She began to unwrap Nicholas' painting of the old peasant woman and when she looked up she saw Damon.

Nora hesitates tomorrow, weighing Damon's embittered invitation. So much depended on a word from Jon!

OPINIONS OF OTHERS
Scrambled Taxes

Wichita Falls Times:
THE MANNER in which the state senate attacked the revenue problem might be described as schoolboyish, but that would be unfair to almost any group of school boys that might be assembled. Juveniles who had grown as far as says the fourth reader, would at least try to gather and assort the essential facts.

An idea of the legislative state of mind with regard to revenue may be gleaned from a list of the proposals which the senate considered: A tax on mining of quicksilver, gold, silver, lead, zinc, copper and other ores; on bottled carbonated beverages; on soft drinks; on swimming pools and bath houses; intangible assets tax on all corporations; $100 annual tax on restaurants; on cosmetics; on soft drinks and toilet articles; and on electricity, per kilowatt hour.

All these were defeated. Some of them were proposed, not seriously, but in a spirit of game over the increase in the sulphur tax. The senate did approve a proposal for a 10 cent per hundredweight tax on cement, this amounting to 40 cents a barrel. That the senate did vote down these proposals is to its credit, but the proposal it did approve was utterly inadequate.

Commenting on the senate's work, Akonzo Wasson wrote in the Dallas Herald that it was "an example of the way in which the state's tax system comes into being when revenue is sought under the stress of emergency, rather than in pursuance of a rational plan."

The people have the right to expect calmer and saner consideration of the revenue question from a legislature that has had ample time to approach the question in an efficient way.

A DANCE STEP CLOCK
BERLIN (INS)—A clock which sounds each step of every dance for those who cannot get the rhythm of the music has been invented by Walter Carols, dancing teacher of the Berlin radio broadcasting station. The clock can be set for any kind of dance, in a tango, for instance, it sounds the steps, "tak-tak-tak, tak-tak-tak," and red and blue signs and figures on its face show when to cross your feet or make other necessary figures of the dance. With this clock being out of step is impossible, Carols says confidently.

Can You Prepare Dinner In Only Half An Hour?

By JOSEPHINE B. GIBSON

THIS time spent in preparing a meal is not always a suitable criterion by which to judge its goodness or attractiveness. Meals requiring the least time for preparation often are just as appealing and appetizing as elaborate ones.

Luncheon Is Served In An Oriental Scene

Mrs. Higgins Entertains the Progressive Club; Last Summer Meeting

The Progressive Bridge club was entertained by Mrs. T. J. Higgins Thursday with an unusually delightful luncheon at her home.

The four tables of players were seated in a Japanese-decorated living room, in which Japanese lanterns and Oriental accessories were used throughout.

Mrs. Baker made high score for club members; Mrs. Merrill for guests. Mrs. McDonald cut high. Mrs. Crouser won a prize for making the first grand slam.

Ace High Club Meets With Mrs. Larson Lloyd

The Ace-High Bridge Club met Thursday with Mrs. Larson Lloyd for its regular meeting.

Mrs. Pitman made high score for guests and Mrs. Marchbanks for club members. Both received sashette pictures.

At the close of the games the guests presented Mrs. Wheeler with many gifts in a surprise show.

The members attending were Mrs. Alfred Collins, Clarence Wear, Joe McGrath, Joy Stripling, Stanley Wheeler, Warner Neese and Lindsey Marchbanks.

Recent Bride Showered By Many Friends

Mrs. Jack Norrells, assisted by Mrs. Ray Reynolds and Mrs. Cecil Roe, gave a miscellaneous shower for Mrs. Roy King, a recent bride.

The members balloted on four applications for membership. The delegates to the convention at Wink gave reports of the meeting.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and lemonade were served to the following: Mrs. Della Bugg, Mabel Glenn, Myrtle Orr, Alma Burbee, Mabel Hall, Oselia Bugg, Annie Wilson, Thelma Plummer, Myrtle Bugg, Evelyn Van Oden, Emma Nelson, Sophie Corcoran, Lucy Lutz, Lillian Burleson, Eula Pond, Cleo Byers, Mary Lawrence, Brooks Martin, Belle Russell, Julia Wilkerson, Ruby Petty, Paralee Nabors, Ortry Boatler, Miss Clara Bailey and the visitor, Mrs. Ed Perkins.

Royal Neighbors Hear Reports Of Wink Delegates

The Blue Mountain Camp of the Royal Neighbors held their regular meeting in the Settles Hotel lodge room Thursday afternoon with 24 members and one visitor present.

After the business session the members held a social hour presided over by Mrs. Morgan, Martin, Nelson and Nabors. Mrs. Lutz was a prize winner in the lucky number contest.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and lemonade were served to the following: Mrs. Della Bugg, Mabel Glenn, Myrtle Orr, Alma Burbee, Mabel Hall, Oselia Bugg, Annie Wilson, Thelma Plummer, Myrtle Bugg, Evelyn Van Oden, Emma Nelson, Sophie Corcoran, Lucy Lutz, Lillian Burleson, Eula Pond, Cleo Byers, Mary Lawrence, Brooks Martin, Belle Russell, Julia Wilkerson, Ruby Petty, Paralee Nabors, Ortry Boatler, Miss Clara Bailey and the visitor, Mrs. Ed Perkins.

Handkerchief Shower Given Mrs. Robertson

The T.E.L. Sunday school class of the East Fourth Baptist church entertained with a handkerchief shower Thursday afternoon at the church parlors, honoring Mrs. J. M. Robertson, who is moving to Littlefield.

The time was devoted to songs and games. The handkerchiefs were presented to the honoree by Mrs. McCullough.

The hostesses served a delicious refreshment course to the following: Mrs. J. M. Robertson, H. Reeves, O. H. Harris, W. F. Merrick, A. T. Angel, Joe Miller, L. G. Malone, E. F. McCullough.

Christian Endeavor Program To Be Given Sunday Afternoon

The Christian Endeavor program to be presented at the Christian church Sunday afternoon will be as follows:

Special song service led by Mr. Bethel. Scripture reading by Mr. C. E. Brewer. Prayer in keeping with the service by J. H. Smith. Duet by Misses Nora Pearl Marchbanks and Beatrice Hill.

"Interpretation of Cooperation" by leader. "Cooperation within the Local Society" by Ben Allen, Jr. Special solo by Mr. Bethel. "Cooperation of Community Forces for Religious Motives" by Marcus Williamson.

The Misses Creath Honorees At Lovely Party At Mrs. Dunn's

Mrs. Chas. Dunn and Mrs. George Owen were co-hostesses last night in the lovely home of Mrs. Dunn on South Johnson street honoring Misses Helen and Evelyn Creath who have just returned from Georgia and from Randolph college.

The hostesses were assisted by Mrs. Blount, Miss Georgia Owen and Mrs. Louis Owen, in serving a delicious buffet supper consisting of home-broiled steak, salads, ice cream and cake. The cakes were decorated with the guests of honor's names.

After supper the diversion of the evening was forty-two and other games. Those present were Mrs. J. R. Creath, M. A. Berry, Misses Lucille Berry, Georgia Owen, Mildred, Helen and Evelyn Creath, Messrs and Mrs. D. W. Lindley, Joe Blount, Geo. Owen, Louis Owen, Chas. Dunn, Messrs Walter Bell and A. C. McClendon.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan Gould

Duncan is not appearing. Young Henry Cotton, too probably the most brilliant of British professionals—is conspicuous by his absence. It seems Cotton is in some sort of a jam with the P.G.A. over there—that he declined to conform to some regulation, and plans to invade the United States as a soloist. This will not restrain him by any means from constituting a distinct threat in our national open championship at Toledo, the week after the Ryder match.

But the passing of George Duncan and Ted Ray—the first captain of the British team—is noted sorrowfully by the sentimentalists of golf, of which I confess I am one. The old order changes, and it does not always make us any happier.

Bill Stevens, former Big Spring high school coach, has departed Stevens left today for Abilene where he will spend the summer. Stevens has not a coaching job for next year, but in all probability will place before the 1931-32 term. Any school that gets Stevens can be assured of a crack basketball team. Local fans will attest to that without hesitation.

Probably anything H. L. Mencken has to say doesn't have much of a place on the sports page. Probably it doesn't but here 'tis Mencken, editorializing, ridiculing college and university athletics, stressing the recent charges of over-emphasis. He speaks his authority, trusty, to wit, viz, and as follows: "This lunacy will last awhile and then go out. Even pedagogues, it appears, have a certain capacity for learning."

"But not much. In the matter of athletics they are hampered by bad training. Most of them, at least in the colleges, are themselves college graduates, and thus accept the campus scale of values. Inasmuch as the average boy of eighteen would far rather be a heavy-weight champion of the world than Einstein, that scale is heavily loaded in favor of mere physical prowess."

"The poor rogues, subscribing to it, can never quite rid themselves of a sneaking admiration for football stars. Practically every one of them, when he dreams at night, dreams that he is Sandow. Thus they cannot be trusted to make any really vigorous onslaught upon the college athletic racket. If a reform ever comes, it will not come from college faculties, but from college trustees, most of whom are fortunately without college training. But these trustees, alas, have their dreams too; they dream that they are J. P. Morgan or Otto Kahn. Thus the only way to get rid of the combat of gorillas which now bring millions to colleges will be to invent some imbecility that brings in even more millions. To that enterprise, I regret to have to report, I find myself unequal."

MITCHELL STILL ON TOP

Abe Mitchell, that sturdy veteran, once the longest driver in Britain—and still no abbreviated hitter—has a place in the batting order; Archie Compson, on spring chicken himself, is there again; and the Whitcombe brothers, Charlie, the British match-play champion and the most important money winner last season, being the team captain.

Fred Robson, another sterling veteran, who finished highest of the British competitors at Hoylake in the open last summer, also is listed.

The British association has conducted four trial matches in the last three months to decide the team personnel. They still are having test matches.

No long ago a competition was held over the Fulwell course near London, in which nine "probables" met nine "possibles," by way of ascertaining the exact probability of the first class.

Two upsets resulted—one of them further removing Duncan from the eligibility list, when he was defeated by P. H. Rodgers of Stannes, 2-1. The other upset involved no less a personage than the team captain himself, Charlie Whitcombe losing, 2-1, to Tom Green of Copt Heath. It is unlikely, however, that Charlie will lose his place on the team through this contretemps.

The other seven bouts went on the tops, which indicates that the selections to date are pretty sound.

SADE LONESOME

Speaking of the Fox we caught a glimpse of lonesomeness in the eyes of Earle Sande the day of the Derby. Earle was sitting in the sun on the roof of the grandstand at Churchill Downs, waiting for his turn to broadcast, while the year before he had been up on the winner of the big race.

"I'd sure like to have been out there on that track again," Earle admitted, "but it's getting increasingly tough for me to keep anywhere near riding weight. I've been sick this spring and my weight is up to 130. It's just plain torture to keep down to a jockey's size. It always was tough for me in that respect. Every time I ate anything substantial I didn't enjoy it because I knew I'd have to run the extra pounds off. I starved half the time when I was riding regularly."

FOX DIDN'T CARE

"It's a funny thing about horses," Sande went on. "Take the Fox. He almost went to sleep at the post in the Derby last year. Didn't seem interested. Kept leaning up against the sides of the starting gate and I was afraid he would lie down."

"The Fox never seemed to care much whether he was first, last or in the middle. I had to shake him up to get him going. Just the opposite of Man of War. I rode the Big Red just once, when I was a kid, in 1918. He was never satisfied until out in front."

"Zev was a bully and sometimes hard to handle. The easiest and probably the smartest horse I ever rode was Ormand. Almost seemed to sense what it was all about and do the right thing without trying. I rode him in the Derby in 1926 and finished second to Pony McAttee on Whiskery."

The British Ryder Cup golf team, named in more leisurely, and, I think, more sensible fashion than our own side for the international professional encounter June 25-27 at Columbus, is nearly complete. Seven of the eight regulars have been announced.

It is with sincere regret that an oldtimer notes the absence of George Duncan, the Black Scot, from the lineup. This is the first time since the beginning of the competition, in 1908 at Wentworth, then George's own club, that the Abilene's city league has declared a dividend! So great has been the enthusiasm that the $25 franchise deposit has been returned to each team, and at the end of every month the profit will be split among the six clubs. We note also that the Abilene city league has adopted a new form of courtesy toward the umpire. Instead of eighteen men rallying around the arbiter in a tight place, only two can now. The playing captain was given the power to do the fighting with umpires. Moss Sims is the official arbiter of the Abilene league.

Paul Tyson has moved out of the Texas high school grid picture. Although Waco high school gave him a year's leave of absence, it is generally accepted that the crack center will not again return to Texas to take up the reins. Tyson will go to Leland Stanford University for a year's study under Pop Warner. Waco high school, under Tyson's cutting hand, has been synonymous with state championship teams. They cornered the state championship in 1921, 1922, 1925, 1926 and 1927. Tyson, in addition to being a coach of the first rank, has always been blessed with an abundance of material. Big boned youths came out of the Brazos river bottoms just to learn under Tyson. Material was the thing Tyson never had to worry a great amount about.

Bill Stevens, former Big Spring high school coach, has departed Stevens left today for Abilene where he will spend the summer. Stevens has not a coaching job for next year, but in all probability will place before the 1931-32 term. Any school that gets Stevens can be assured of a crack basketball team. Local fans will attest to that without hesitation.

Dean Stingy With Hits As Bisons Defeat Galveston; Spuds Down Herd

WICHITA FALLS, May 29 (AP)—The Spudlers went ahead in the Dallas series, two games to one Thursday, defeating the Bisons 4 to 1 behind the pitching of Dick Florid, who weathered several pinches and received excellent support afield. Grady Atkins was weak in only one inning, the third, when the Spuds staked him for four hits and three runs.

CATS IS SPORTS 5

SHREVEPORT, La., May 29.—Paced by Larry Cox who hit three doubles and drove in two runs in addition to scoring three times, Port Worth took the third game of the series with the Sports last night, 15-5. Seven runs off Oscar Tuero in the third inning on seven hits and three errors decided the game in favor of the visitors.

INDIANS 3, SHIPPERS 1

SAN ANTONIO, May 29.—Heath's double with Orr on base in the fourth inning proved the winning run here last night as Beaumont's two tallies in the seventh fell one short of tying the score. San Antonio won 3-2.

Carson singled with Nash and Orr on base in the second, scoring both for the other two Indian runs. Holley, with Beaumont trailing three runs, hit the first ball pitched in the 7th out of the park. Taylor then tripled and was pushed home on Goldstein's single.

Reg Robbins May Try Flight To Japanese Capital

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 29 (UP)—Reg J. Robbins, who broke the all-endurance record in 1926, is planning a non-stop, refueling flight from Fort Worth to Tokio, Japan, friends say.

Robbins bought a Lockheed Vega plane Tuesday from Eric Halliburton, Tulsa. It is being repaired and reconditioned at Meacham Field.

Whether Robbins will make the flight is said to depend chiefly upon his eligibility for a $25,000 prize offered by Seattle for the first plane making the non-stop hop. The offer requires that the plane be refueled over Seattle.

Robbins, friends said, wants to refuel over Nome, Alaska.

A Tokio newspaper is offering another $25,000 for the first non-stop flight.

GAVE SOUVENIR TO THE KING OF SIAM

REGINA, May 29. (INS)—A souvenir in the form of a beautifully designed brass perpetual desk calendar was presented to the King of Siam, who recently travelled through Western Canada, by the management of the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference which is to be held at Regina, Saskatchewan, July 25 to August 5, 1932.

Similar souvenirs were presented last summer to each of the official representatives of the 45 nations that took part at the World's Poultry Congress held at the Crystal Palace, London, England, in which Canada was a conspicuous participant.

The Kingdom of Siam has accepted the invitation to be officially represented at the World's Grain Exhibition and Conference. Sixteen other countries have up to the present accepted a similar invitation.

CAT CARES FOR 2 PUPS PITTSBURGH, May 29 (INS)—Rescuing five pedigreed collie puppies has won Mary, an understanding cat a place today in the large dog family of Louise, the collie mother. The pets are owned by W. H. Brenneman and live on his estate near here.

When Louise, the collie, was compelled to care for five puppies in a tree, she left behind a second litter of five tiny ones in a cold barn. Mary, the cat, had just lost three kittens on, with true mother instinct, she found her way to the abandoned pups and nursed them until help came from the household.

Immediate Calling of Special Session Opposed by Lieutenant Governor; Figures Are Quoted

AUSTIN, May 29 (INS)—The question of a special session of the Texas legislature, within the near future, was discussed with renewed interest today following the registering of an adverse vote on the question by Lieutenant Governor Edgar Witt.

Mr. Witt registered his opposition after compiling a list of the appropriations made by the 42nd legislature as compared to the 41st, the possible revenues, and the possibilities of enacting proration legislation, which he declared were all in a belief that adequate oil conservation laws would be asked by the governor should he decide to convene the lawmakers into extraordinary session.

"The 42nd legislature, in my opinion, has justified itself from every point of view, and I can only hope the powers that be will let its members stay at home for a few months at least, and let us see what course time will bring about in the various matters involved," Witt said at the end of a three page summary of his views.

He expressed the opinion that there was slight chance the legislature would enact oil legislation by a sufficient majority to make it immediately effective, and hence, if such legislation were passed, it could not become effective for five months.

Figures—It seems to me, he said, that during the passage of some such period of time, either the need of legislation would be so generally recognized as to bring about its enactment by a vote that would put it into immediate effect, and the situation be remedied as quickly as if enacted within the next 60 days; or the situation would have worked itself out so as to make the legislation unnecessary.

Figures compiled by Senator Beck of the Senate Finance Committee and his secretary show that total net appropriations for the 41st legislature were $52,982,836, and total appropriations by the 42nd legislature of $53,723,857, an increase by the 42nd legislature of $740,021. The 42nd legislature appropriated $1,000,000 for payment of pink boll worm claims and tick eradication claims, and educational construction items totalling more than one million dollars.

Witt pointed out, has indicated disapproval of these two appropriations, especially the pink boll worm measure, and his veto of this item alone would reduce appropriations to a total below the appropriation of the 41st legislature.

Governor Witt also defended other appropriations, especially those for state government, pointing out the difficulty of reducing state staffs because of the depression, and the further fact that depressed conditions threw more work on several departments.

Blue Pencil—"But if the governor should disagree with the legislature in the totals," he added, "it would seem possible to me for him to use his blue pencil on specific items and reduce the aggregate and not again throw these appropriations in toto back to the legislature which has already spent weeks, working day and night on the same; and having given so much of time and thought, what prospects would there be that a renewing of their efforts would bring about any further reduction."

To meet possible objections that decreased revenues would make decreased appropriations imperative, Witt declared that "if it were possible to run the government with a substantially lesser amount this would be true; but never before has a legislature made such a slight increase for a biennium and experience has shown that if a greater reduction is made it will merely mean an increase in a deficiency to be allowed later on."

He also stated the 42nd legislature had provided a larger revenue from special taxes than any session "within my knowledge" enacting the cigarette tax to bring in $3,000,000 to $4,000,000; the gas tax, between $400,000 and $600,000; the cement tax, between $100,000 and $200,000; the sulphur tax between $400,000 and $600,000 and other taxes between $100,000 and $150,000.

"FRICTION-FIGHTERS ONLY!"

—that's the call to arms for molecules that go into

HUMBLE 997 OIL

Heat and friction are engine destroyers. To lick them, motor oil must fight for its life. So when we pick the crude oil base for 997 we choose only the part that has natural friction-fighting molecules. The rest is rejected.

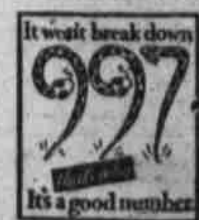

Then we take those recruits and refine them, drill them, realign them. Result:—A new high in boiling points—997° Fahrenheit. This guarantees a protection heretofore unattainable against heat and loss, and assures lower oil consumption. It's a fact that 997's low consumption and economy will be an eye-opener to any motorist who now uses ordinary oil.

That's what thousands of Texans are finding out about 997. If you, yourself, haven't tried a crankcase of this new oil, let the nearest Humble dealer remedy that oversight today.

Above all else, you want one thing in a motor oil

Daylight Savings Time Used By Only Two Texas Cities

(By The Associated Press)

Two Texas cities have adopted daylight saving hours for their employees, but a partial canvass of the state indicated there was no demand for embracing the plan generally, although 438 cities in the United States had accepted it for the summer periods.

Texas normally is one hour behind Eastern Standard time, one hour ahead of Mountain time and two hours ahead of Pacific Coast time. But with daylight saving adopted universally in the East, Texas time is two hours behind that section of the country, the considerable lagging on part of our time pieces working what some claim is a hardship in transaction of business. For instance, when at 3 p. m. the Texas business man is just getting back from lunch, the New Yorker is going to dinner.

Voluntary

Marshall and Beaumont municipal employees have voluntarily accepted daylight saving hours, going to work at 7 a. m. instead of 8 a. m. and leaving the office at 4 p. m. in preference to 5.

H. J. Grasser of Marshall, city manager, said that "during this time of depression" he believed the adoption of daylight saving time would "be of great advantage especially to those who could utilize the long evenings to profitable advantage."

In Beaumont, not only had city employees embraced the 7 a. m. to 4 p. m. schedule, but oil refineries in that section had adopted it.

Mayor Jack A. Pearce of Galveston said he favored daylight saving time, but expressed the opinion the people should adopt it voluntarily instead of the city government attempting to enforce it.

Mayor Walter E. Monteith said he saw no objection to adoption of the plan but had noticed no public demand for it. He had asked city employees for an expression and declared that if a majority favored it he would submit the matter to the city council for action.

Mayor Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo believes all Texas cities should go in for daylight saving. "We should be treating ourselves to an extra hour of play each day by adopting this plan," he said.

Mayor Pro Tempore A. E. Thomas of Fort Worth saw no need for his city adopting the plan. "The daylight saving plan here

Increase In State Ranger Force May Be Possible Soon

AUSTIN, May 28 (AP)—If the governor signs the departmental appropriations bill, the money to increase the state ranger force from 3,100 to 4,000 men will become available September 1.

William W. Sterling, adjutant general, pointed out the bill proposed that the new men should be enlisted only at the discretion of the governor in case an emergency arose. Any additional rangers will be selected by a board consisting of the adjutant general and the ranger captains, Sterling said. He advised applicants not to come to Austin nor procure endorsements, stating new men would be selected strictly on merit and not upon political preference.

PILLS ARE OFTEN DANGEROUS

Most laxatives have to be taken in ever-increasing doses. Otherwise, they lose their power. The body needs roughage.

One of the most natural ways to obtain this roughage is by eating a delicious cereal: Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Read what Mr. Albert F. Parker of Massachusetts has to say:

"I am 52 years old and have put in years suffering from constipation. Bought all kinds of pills and drugged myself with them and awoke lots of mornings with a headache.

"Haven't taken one pill since I began on Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I am now feeling the best I have felt in 20 years."

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are guaranteed to give relief. At your grocer's, in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Living Room Improvements

A Total Of Almost $100 Spent In County To Improve Living Rooms Of Families

This month marks the close of living room improvements for the current year. Howard County had eleven club women to enter the contest as demonstrators, women who endeavored really to make over their homes. In addition to these eleven sixty-nine cooperators, or women who made various improvements, made reports.

Eight demonstrators completed their rooms, one spent most of the spring in the hospital, and the other two were forced, because of finances to wait till later in the year to complete their rooms.

The following report is a summary of the work done by the eight demonstrators who completed their work.

Mrs. W. C. Rogers of R-Bar made over her room by sheetrocking the walls, papering, putting in a new floor, and refinishing throughout. She bought six pieces of furniture, a card table, library table, magazine rack, flower stand, book case writing desk combination and chairs, and refinished an old piano and moved it in at the last minute, thus making a room to fit the needs of her family.

Mrs. Akin Simpson, Luther Club, kalamintined over dark paper, brightening her room, added an end table her husband made from a piece of old furniture, and hung a mirror above. Her husband brided cotton rope to make a frappe for it. This frame was painted silver, and produced a pleasing effect. A magazine rack was added. Pictures replaced poor ones.

An old trunk was moved from the room and the furniture rearranged. She spent $18. She won third prize in class 1, a subscription to the Daily Herald.

Mrs. Reece Adams, Mrs. Harry Graham of Soash, Mrs. W. A. Langley and Mrs. J. W. Wooten of Fairview, rearranged their rooms, varnishing their floors and adding tables to make writing and reading centers.

Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Graham, and Mrs. Langley added old leather chairs. Mrs. Langley and Mrs. Adams hung new draperies. All of them made the money spent for improvements. The demonstrators spent a total of $223.30.

The goal for cooperators were: Make a braided rug; improve the floors of living rooms; arrange for scientific or historical subjects, are not included. Any person who sells or keeps in stock for sale any such printed matter shall be considered as engaged in the business of selling printed matter, for the purposes of this ordinance, whether such person is engaged in such business by itself or such printed matter is kept for sale in connection with some other business.

Section 2. The license above provided for shall be called "License to Sell Printed Matter." The term "Printed Matter," as used in this ordinance, shall mean and include all magazines, periodicals, books, papers, pamphlets, cards, pictures, and all other kinds and styles of printed matter designed of intent for sale to the public. Provided that papers or publications devoted to scientific or historical subjects, are not included. Any person who sells or keeps in stock for sale any such printed matter shall be considered as engaged in the business of selling printed matter, for the purposes of this ordinance, whether such person is engaged in such business by itself or such printed matter is kept for sale in connection with some other business.

Section 3. All persons desiring to obtain a license to engage in the business of selling printed matter shall make written application to the City Secretary for such license. Such application shall give the name and street address of the business in which such printed matter is to be sold; and it shall state the nature of the business or other business. Upon the presentation of the application in the form above required, the City Secretary shall issue to such applicant a license to engage in the business of selling printed matter, such license to be effective until January 1st next after such license is issued. Licenses issued hereunder shall be renewed annually; applications for renewal licenses shall contain the same requisites as original licenses; applications for renewal licenses may be filed at any time during the month of December for each year and licenses issued at any time during the month of December for the next succeeding year, to become effective on January 1st.

Section 4. There is hereby created and established a board to be known as "City Board of Inspectors of Printed Matter," of the City of Big Spring, Texas. Such board is referred to in this ordinance as the Board. The membership of the board shall consist of three members, of which one member shall be Chairman. The following named persons shall constitute the first membership of the board, viz: Mrs. Chas. Koberg, who shall be chairman of the board; and Mrs. Ira Driver and Mrs. J. E. Dodger, the other two members. The members of the board shall hold office at the will of the City Commission, and the members may be removed and new members appointed by the Commission at any time it is deemed advisable. Vacancies created in the board by resignation or otherwise shall be filled by appointment by City Manager with approval of City Commission. The members of the Board in accepting appointment, agree to serve without compensation of any kind. The members of the board shall qualify by taking the official oath required by other City Officials. As soon as this ordinance becomes effective, and the members of the board have taken office, the Chairman of the Board shall convene the board and the board shall meet and determine its own organization and methods of procedure, except that in its procedure it is in any respect prescribed by this ordinance, such procedure shall be followed. The concurrence of two members of the board shall be necessary to any act or ruling of the Board, and when any two members of the board concur in any act or ruling, the same shall constitute the act of the Board, regardless of form in which ruling is made or action taken. The certificates of the Chairman of the Board shall be prima facie evidence that the matter certified to is the act of the Board. When any act or ruling is certified to by as many as two members of the Board it shall constitute the act of the Board regardless of form in which ruling is made or action taken. It shall be the duty of the Board to inspect all items of printed matter which are kept for sale, or displayed or offered for sale within the Corporate limits of the City of Big Spring, Texas. The Board shall make such inspection and examination of all such printed matter as it finds necessary to determine the character, kind and nature of contents thereof, and it shall determine and pass upon, with reference to each and all items of such printed matter, whether it is immoral or indecent or calculated to corrupt the morals of the youth or public generally. If the said Board finds and determines that any item of printed matter is immoral or indecent or calculated to

HOW'S YOUR HEALTH

ARTHRI-TIS
In chronic arthritis the joint, or joints, affected should be looked upon as local involvements which bear witness to a general systemic condition.

Hence, the treatment of arthritis for one thing involves the effort to reduce local pain, destruction, and loss of function at the joint and for another systemic treatments to take care of the constitutional condition.

In recent years, and particularly in the so-called Boston School of Orthopedics, much attention has been paid to the adequate treatment of the local process involving the joint.

It has been possible according to the routine they advise to restrict substantially the local damage suffered by the joints even when the underlying systemic condition had been much altered.

However, since it has been observed, "once an arthritic always potentially an arthritic," the arthritic sufferer needs careful study in terms of his local affliction and of his systemic weakness.

The relation of focal infection, such as for example may exist in the teeth, tonsils, gall bladder, etc., to arthritis has already been mentioned, and it is but simple logic to urge the immediate removal of such focal infection.

Study, however, has shown that focal infection alone is not adequate to account for many cases of arthritis. Two other important factors enter into this disease picture, namely, chronic fatigue and disturbed metabolism.

Rest for the body as a whole is a curative agent of the first importance. The affected joints, on the other hand, may require either exercise or rest, depending upon the type of arthritis involving them.

A low calorie diet is another measure by which arthritis appears to benefit. It must be borne in mind, however, that there is no routine treatment suitable for all arthritides. Each case requires careful study and usually a long, careful, and persevering treatment.

Mr. Rogers' Degree
WILL ROGERS, in declining to accept an honorary degree from Oklahoma City university, takes a fall out of the old American custom of conferring honors upon men from whom assistance has been or is expected.

Many a prominent man in this country proudly wears an LL.D. or a Litt.D., by strength of his good right hand—in the performance of that charming act, check writing. Of course there was no thought of bribery or subversion or anything of the sort; certainly not. But when Geohew College thinks about conferring an honorary degree on George Tinsington Tingle, soap manufacturer, the fact that he has given the college a new dormitory or an aquarium won't hurt his chances of getting the said degree.

There is nothing wrong in that, of course. It is the approval of custom extending over a period of time almost as long as the republic has stood. Honorary degrees are given in recognition of achievements or of services rendered, and certainly it is no mean service to provide funds to an educational institution that needs them. A man who goes out and makes a fortune, and then gives most of that fortune to the cause of education, is as much entitled to respect and honors as the man who spends a lifetime writing a thesis on the exciting subject of the mating habits of the road runner.

We think Mr. Rogers should accept this degree. He has made no mean contribution to the cause of education, himself.

Hollywood Sights
By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — C. Aubrey Smith, six feet two, with heavy brows overhanging his blue eyes, looks like a dignified version of every stock Englishman we have seen on screen or stage or in fiction.

But—and this is remarkable—once he has Hollywood typed in any of his roles, he is a character of the sort. He played the little role in "Dancing Partners."

He appeared for a flash in the closing sequences of "Trader Horn" as the Irish trader at the post. In "Cheri-Bibi" he plays a French banker, and in "Never the Twain Shall Meet" he is an English father. He switches to the stern garb of an Austrian general in Ramon Novarro's "Daybreak," and now, in Robert Montgomery's first starring picture, "The Man in Possession," he plays—of all things—a self-made man, a merchant chief.

SEASONED VERSATILITY
Perhaps the secret of his escape from Hollywood's penchant for typing players lies in a versatility of 39 years' professional stage experience, with a few movies thrown in.

His stage vehicles, in England and America, have ranged from "Jim the Penman" to "Shakespeare," and he has played with such stars as Sir John Hare, Sir George Alexander, Sir Johnston Forbes-Robertson, Mrs. Langtry, Grace George, Billie Burke and Maude Adams.

ABOUT ALLEGED FILTH
Out of his long experience he voices the opinion that the stage is constantly improving, for all the current attacks on its alleged filth and degradation, which he considers just another cycle in its development—a cycle similar to that of a hundred years ago, when the same cry was being raised against the theatre.

And the cycle is passing, even now, he believes.

Just the same, looking over the movie fare of the present, one sees many of the film adaptations of stage plays which have had to be reconstructed for screen purposes. The censors simply won't stand for some of the goings-on. But maybe next year's stage crop will be different.

Will Rogers spends part of his spare time riding with cowboys on the immense Rindge ranch, located near his own 300-acre Santa Monica Canyon ranch. The Rindge ranch extends for nearly 30 miles along the Southern California coast line.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS
Unfair To Us
Sweetwater Reporter:
THE Forty-second Legislature adjourned with the problem of restricting unsolved.

Both houses refused to approve a plan which had been recommended by committee to create the three new congressional districts made possible under the 1930 census.

Texas, under the last census, is entitled to three new congressmen. The Metcalfe bill, approved by committee, would have given South Texas one of these new districts, central West Texas an extra member, and the Panhandle a third. It is in these districts where population gains have been made since 1920, therefore the division of new districts was equitably arranged.

The Panhandle territory which now comprises the eighteenth district has ample population for two congressmen. The Metcalfe plan recognized this condition. Under this bill the Panhandle-Plains would have two members to represent it at Washington.

Redistricting was defeated in Austin last week by East Central and North Texas members of both houses. Although there had been no population gains to warrant new districts in those sections, their representatives at Austin deliberately blocked the redistricting plan because the three extra congressmen would be elected by the people of West Texas and the Rio Grande valley.

THREE LON CUBS NOW LEADING A DOG'S LIFE
SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—Three tiny offspring of full-blooded African lions at a Zoo here are leading a puppy dog's life.

All three are sharing board and lodging with a black pup of assorted breeds.

Four days after the cubs were born, they were abandoned by their father, and scorned by their mother, Khartoum.

So George Hlstany, superintendent of the zoo, found a stepmother for the forsaken litter. He put the three orphans out to board with a female dog who was supporting one pup. The young cubs are thriving.

Mad Pursuit

BY JESSIE DOUGLAS FOX

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Thayer, Nora Lake's husband of a few hours, jumps to death from the steamer carrying them to his home in America. She realizes then that she has married her to provide the home denied her while trailing her father, Julian, in his quest for painting scenes. Faced by her father's marriage, she had impulsively effected the loveless union. When Nicholas' brother, Jonathan, meets her at the station in Albany, he does not remember her from a previous meeting, and withers her by unspoken condemnation. Coldly he arranges to take her to his stepfather, Damon, the next day. After telling him they live in a big house with servants, Nora is dismayed to find Aunt Emily and her cousins, Hallet and Frances, in a dinky, middle-class place.

Chapter 14 LOST HAPPINESS
FRANCES left the room with Jonathan and as Nora heard his step retreating down the stairs she sat down on the bed, completely wretched.

She would leave tomorrow and never return. Nora knew all the signs of poverty that brought back to her the memory of her own wandering and homeless life. These people were like her father, poor, gay, hopeful, living in a mean little brick house, from which they might move next week.

Nora stripped off her wrinkled dress and pulled the oodle jacket out of her bag. When she went into the bathroom she found Frances picking up stringy wet towels, and small underclothes that were scattered about. The water spouted spasmodically into the tub. A limp curtain hung at the window and the walls were of wood painted white.

When she returned to the attic room Frances was spreading this "balm" on the bed. Aunt Emily looked at Nora's wretched small face. Nora attempted to smile.

"Don't try to be too brave, dear," she said.

Nora looked back at her aunt with her magnificent beak of a nose, and the deep lines on either side of her mouth. "The eve, held an unquenchable zest for life."

She could see how sorry for her her aunt was as she said good night. She did not deserve it. The shock of Nicholas' death had unnerved her; but she did not wish him back.

Nora looked at Frances Lindsay over the brim of a cup of hot broth she had brought her. Frances was 30 but looked younger. Her face with its warm coloring and dark eyes, the smooth dark hair brushed straight back from her forehead, was arresting. She had a low throaty laugh that was heart-warming.

"Shall I stay with you or would you rather be alone?" she asked.

"Stay with me!"

Frances looked at Nora. Nora's cheeks blazed fiery red, the blue eyes deepened and darkened with emotion. Frances had thought she was rather plain but now she was dazzled by her loveliness.

"We are all so terribly sorry," she said softly.

"Don't! I can't bear pity!"

All at once Nora longed to pour herself out to this dark-sweet woman.

"Do you remember my father?" Nora asked.

"I remember he was an exciting person, with a voice you never forgot," she said, smiling, as Nora's heart rushed out to her.

"Are you the bride?" she asked.

"Alice, go right back to bed!" Frances said, rising. She scuttled off but the question still hung in the air. Nora began to talk with the breathless rush. She poured out the whole story, from the night when she had first seen Nicholas coming up the path in the moonlight until that last bitter night when she lay down alone. She spared herself nothing.

"I hated it all, all the worry and the borrowing and the running away. When Julian was going to be married I felt desperate. When he—" she could not say Nicholas' name. "asked me to marry him I was so thankful. He said he'd bring me home. I was a little afraid of him. But those last days I liked him, I really liked him."

Frances was looking at her with something strange and puzzling in her eyes.

"You don't understand! You have to live it to understand. Always to hide from people because you owe them money. I would have married anyone at all, who would have saved me from that!"

"But there is one thing that is killing me. If I had loved him, I could have known what he was going to do!"

Suddenly Nora regretted bitterly that she had told this dark quiet girl about herself. And then Frances said impulsively:

"You think I don't understand. But perhaps I do," Frances went on steadily. "I thought my husband loved me. But he ran off with another woman."

"Do you still love him?"

Nora saw a tremor pass over the still body.

"Not now. Not any longer. That's all gone. I have the children. You didn't see Dickie, did you? He was in bed when you came. We were poor, you see, and it was a fearful struggle. Alice was a delicate little thing and always sick. There were doctor's bills, and I was deadly tired all the time. Sometimes," Frances said, smiling oddly, "I used to be so tired by six o'clock, I would cry. I was 25 then," she went on reflectively as though she were speaking of someone long dead. "I could always see David coming home and the house quiet and peaceful, the children asleep and a delicious dinner smoking hot on the table."

"But as it was—" she smiled again. "Oh how young I was then! If I had it to do all over again—but I haven't." Her dark eyes brooded and then she looked up at Nora. "I never told this to anyone before. But the thing is, the days go by and something happens to you and you begin to be happy again. And you have something that you want dreadfully just ahead, as you used to want money and all the other things," Frances ended on a breath.

Nora lay very still. What was that thing that Frances had found? The kind of happiness that swept over her sometimes under the open sky. Would she ever be happy that way again?

"You will be, you will be," Fran whispered, bending over her as though she understood.

Frances turned out the light and stood before the window pulling up the shade so that she could see the stars. How small and insignificant they were, their minute problems etched against the night sky. All the hot turmoil, the unrest, was quieted. When she turned back and bent over Nora she saw in the pale light that Nora was asleep.

The sunlight was alighting in through white blinds when Nora woke next morning. She felt as though she were waking out of a dark dream into this unfamiliar room.

Someone had come tiptoeing in to open the blinds. It was her cousin Hallet.

"I feel—different—as though for the first time I was real."

Hallet had stopped before the painting that Nicholas had given Nora.

"Did your father do that?" Hallet asked.

"Nicholas did it," Nora said in a low voice.

The sunlight seemed to pour from the picture, to touch the small plaiting panes, the brushed earth floor, the blues of the old peasant's dress. Hallet stood looking deeply at the picture, her thin bony hands clasped before her.

"How happy he must have been to do that!"

"He was the most unhappy person I ever knew," Nora said.

She got out of bed and turned away. "Take it away, please. I can't bear to see it."

Hallet stood looking at her with pity and understanding.

Hallet Durant was a woman of strong feeling shut into a twisted shell of pain. She was not afraid of pain; she had met it too often and too stoically. But each day it must be conquered afresh. Now as she stood looking at Nora she was frankly envious of that young strong body, the slim white rounded legs, the delicate wrists and splendid throat. To have a body like that so free and beautiful!

Nora said, "I have to go out to see my people this afternoon. Do you think they'll like me?"

"Why do you care?"

"I care more than anything else in the world!"

Hallet reflected that she would not like to be young again. It was the unhappiest time of your life. You suffered too much, expected too much, without either the philosophy or wisdom to guard you.

IS IT YOUR STOMACH?
Pineland, Texas—I suffered from stomach trouble ten years, was treated by many doctors but grew worse. My constitution was a rundown and I took the 'flu', was totally confined to bed for four months. I could eat but very little. I was so discouraged I had almost given up hope, I wrote Dr. Pierce and he advised me to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and the 'Favorite Prescription'. Words can't express the benefit I received.—Mrs. O. B. Fultz, Dealers.

68,270 Barrels Taken From Storage In Permian Basin Area During Week of May 13

Daily average production of 247,287 barrels in the Permian Basin, including Lea county, New Mexico, during the week ending May 13 fell short of meeting the demands for crude by 68,270 barrels daily and that amount was drawn from storage. During the preceding week a daily average of 39,958 barrels was withdrawn from storage. Heavy withdrawals over long periods in the past often have been the forerunner of crude cuts. An increase of 21,622 barrels in daily average pipe line runs, a gain of 6,254 barrels in daily average tank car shipments and an advance of 3,101 barrels in daily average runs to refineries within the district accounted for the increase in daily average distribution during the week ending May 13.

History of First Year's Activities Of H.K.E. Club and Its Membership

THE ORIGINAL MEMBERSHIP OF H.K.E. CLUB

By PAULNE MORRISON Club Reporter This week has been an anniversary week for the H.K.E. Club. One year ago a group of girls met at the high school to go on a hike. There were 12 of them. During the day it was decided that the club be organized and that it be called the H.K.E. Club. One of the girls graduated at the end of school and that left only 11 members. At this beginning of this past school year, the club continued its work and took in 5 new members in the fall. During the year the girls have gone on numerous hikes and attended many social events. Their aim has been to hike 100 miles, after which each member was to be given a school letter; one hike had to be 20 miles. Out of 18 girls twelve won their letters.

Ruth Nichols, Society Sportswoman of the Air, Holder of Many Records, To Try for Ocean Hop

She Has Flown Faster, Higher Than Any Other Woman (Editor's Note: This is the first of a series of five articles tracing during Ruth Nichols' career from debutante to premier birdwoman).

By RICHARD MASSOCK NEW YORK, May 23 (AP)—Ruth Nichols, a society sportswoman of the air, hopes to fly the cloud route to Europe—the lonely Lindbergh trail. She, who has flown faster and higher than any other birdwoman, is poised for the great adventure of aviation. Alone and unaided, she intends to drive her pet monoplane over 2,600 menacing miles of green greeds ocean, with a confidence born of skill, training and keen air-mindedness. If weather and gasoline permit, she will continue to London or, possibly, Paris. No amateur thrill-seeker is this competent daughter of society. While other debutantes prepared themselves for the pampered life of dancing and frilly clothes, Ruth Nichols let her thoughts soar to a new sphere for women. Self-Supporting Careerist Out of her social background she became a record-winner aloft and a self-supporting careerist. Now, with four records in her book, she is going after another. When Ruth Nichols was born in New York, Feb. 23, 1901, there was no thought in the minds of her parents that some day she would fly over the family housetop. Aviation then was still the dream of visionaries, and few indeed were even the boys who thought of a career as wings. Her family was prosperous. Her father, Erickson Norman Nichols, is a retired broker, who had a membership in the New York stock exchange. Her mother is the former Miss Edith Corlies Haines. The family home is in Rye, fashionable suburb.

Ruth Nichols, who prefers ocean hops to the ballroom variety, and the plane in which she will attempt her solo flight of the Atlantic. The map below shows the course the aviatrice will follow; from New York to Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, thence to Europe. Thrill of the five minutes was a loop. Ruth was captivated by the experience. Then was born her desire to fly a plane herself. Learned to Fly in 1922 But it was not until four years later that she learned how. She was in Florida on a visit. There she saw flocks of hydroplanes zooming over the water. They fascinated her, and she stayed out of Wellesey a year to learn to fly the sea birds. Her instructor at Miami was Capt. Harry Rogers, with whom she later was to make her first sensational exploit—the first nonstop flight from New York to Miami. Her first solo flight was in 1923. Returning to college, she was graduated from Wellesley in 1924. Her future had become a certainty. It was bound to fly. (Tomorrow: Her first record flight) DOROTHY ELLINGTON LEAVES Dorothy Ellington is leaving for Abilene, where she will join Mrs. E. E. Hall and daughter, Vera, for a month's motor tour that will carry them to Virginia, Florida, Mississippi and New Orleans. They will attend final functions of the school year at Washington and Lee University. Mrs. Hall is the mother of Mrs. Harry Hurt of Big Spring.

Cunning Coyote Menace Of West Faces U.S. Grip

DENVER, May 25. (INB)—The coyote, the most cunning of all animals, goes hand in hand with civilization and has supplanted the wolf as the chief menace to stock-raising in the West, according to Paul G. Redington, chief of the United States biological survey. Redington was in Denver recently attending the 'bifurcal meeting of the division on predatory animals. More than 100 representatives, from every state and Alaska, attended. 'Our purpose is the control and limitation of predatory animals and rodents,' Redington explained. 'The complete extinction of any species, even the wolf or mountain lion, is not desirable. 'Among all predatory animals, the Norway rat is the most prevalent and the most destructive. He is universal and even an inland city like Denver has hundreds. One campaign, aided by Boy Scouts, resulted in destruction of four million rats in only a few counties of Texas last year.' The wolf has largely passed from the picture, Redington said. In Colorado it has been almost exterminated, although many are still found in Arizona, 150 having been killed by biological survey men alone last year. Coyotes and prairie dogs have supplanted the wolves in other states. The work of the bureau in this region, which includes Colorado, Wyoming, Montana, Utah and South Dakota, is to be enlarged in pushing the campaign against predatory animals. Special attention to the examination of stomach contents of animals will be given. 'It is most important to ascertain what constitutes the food of wild animals,' Redington declared. 'We must coordinate our work with changing conditions. We work for the protection of stockmen, poultry men, farmers and warehousemen and in harmony with the game preservation people. 'We must learn the diet of predatory animals to ascertain what damage they do in what direction. For this purpose we intend to enlarge our Denver force and place men in the field who are capable of analyzing the stomach contents of animals killed or trapped.' The spread of the coyote over parts of the country to which it is not indigenous has resulted from our modern civilization, Stanley P. Young, head of the division of predatory animals and rodents, pointed out. 'The coyote is indigenous to the plains country, but has spread over much of the east and south,' Young said. 'He has been introduced into southern and eastern states by tourists who captured young coyotes and took them home as pets. Later he is turned loose. Since the gold boom in Alaska the coyote has become numerous there, even as far north as Point Barrow. He probably was introduced as a pet by miners going to the gold fields. He is not indigenous to the far north. We find him as far east as Indiana.' The cunning of the coyote has long been noted by workers in the Texas Teachers' College in Denton. He has been known to upset a steel trap, thereby setting it off.

Inspection Of Dairies Made Here By State

State Supervisor Reports People Being Protected By City Survey of the dairies serving Big Spring was finished Saturday by M. Pierson, state milk supervisor for the state department of health. 'I find the public has reason to congratulate itself on its milk supply, which is being well supervised by the city,' said Mr. Pierson after finishing his work here. His report to the press follows: 'Public health should always be valued above the dollar, and a city that protects the health of its citizens is in reality conserving its financial resources for sickness and disease is a great financial loss besides the suffering it entails. 'Short-sighted people fail to realize this. The prevention of disease is the basis of humanity. There are a number of diseases that are preventable and in this day when we live out of tin cans and milk bottles supervising the production and handling of food becomes a necessity. 'Because milk is necessary for the proper development of children and because it can be a vehicle for the transmission of disease, it is necessary that its production, processing and sale be properly supervised. 'The standard milk ordinance which the city of Big Spring has adopted simply provides that milk shall be labeled according to its sanitary quality so that the consumer may know what kind of milk he is buying. He has a right to know this. 'The city's obligation ceases when it sees to it that the milk labels reflect its true sanitary quality and safety so that mothers may know what kind of milk they are feeding their growing children. 'This is a benefit also to the dairy farmer for when you increase the public's confidence in the milk supply the public will use more milk. This is the case where the standard milk ordinance is properly enforced. These are modern times and we are not living in a past age. All progressive citizens will cooperate with the city for a well protected milk supply.'

Teachers Scatter All Over The State at the Close of School to Rest and to Study

Many Plan to Go Out of Texas; Most Big Spring Residents Will Spend their Summer in the Cool and Breezy West Texas With the close of the school year, which ended officially Friday, the annual exodus of the teachers has commenced. Many of them are planning to attend summer school sessions in various parts of Texas. A few are planning to go out of the state, cool Colorado claiming the most of those. Most of the teachers whose homes are in Big Spring find it pleasant enough to consider remaining here all summer. North Ward has the largest percentage of teachers going off to study—more than 50 per cent. Of the high school faculty, commencing with the superintendent of schools, W. C. Blankenship, it was learned that he hopes to put in the last six weeks of the summer in S. M. U. in Dallas, if he can make it. The principal, George Gentry, and Mrs. Gentry have already left for Austin; they intend to study at the University of Texas. Ralph Houston and Miss Kitty Wingo will also study there. Miss Verda Ruth Graham plans to go to Boulder to the summer session of the University of Colorado. So will Miss Mary McElroy. The following will remain in Big Spring: Mrs. H. A. Stegner, Frank Etter, Miss Ethel Vandagriff, Miss Clara Pool, Mrs. W. O. Low and Bill Stevens, who will divide his time between baseball in this city and in Lubbock. Those who will spend the summer in their home towns will be Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Coffey who will go to Sulphur Springs; Miss Pearl Butler, Abilene; Mrs. Mary Bumpass, Ft. Worth; Miss Elvise Agnew, San Marcos; Wayne Matthews, Alva; Miss Helen Fay Bonner, Corsicana; George Brown Lubbock; Frank Boyle, Village Creek; Farris, Arlington; Miss George Kirk Davis, Midland; Miss Helen Beavers, Denton; Miss Clara Cox, Celina; Miss Katey Hart, Cisco. Junior High Principal D. H. Reed, of the Junior High faculty, has the most attractive summer outlined of all the teachers. He and Mrs. Reed will go to Corpus Christi for a visit and from there to the University of Colorado. Miss Lena Drake will also go to Colorado. Miss Mattie Ramsey will spend her time at home in Big Spring. Mrs. C. A. Cowan, in San Marcos, Miss Grace Mann in Colorado Texas; Miss Marie Johnson in San Marcos. Miss Ethel Evans will return and spend six weeks or more in Big Spring with her art class as she did last summer. Miss Clara Secret will go to Baylor University to work on her A.B. degree. Mrs. Frances Glenn will go to the University of Texas. Mrs. W. N. Paulsen expects to travel. Miss Letha Amerson will teach in the summer school. Miss Lorena Hugens will go to her home in Honey Grove and from there to the Texas Teachers' College in Denton. Miss Nell Hinton will go to the University of Texas. The following will remain in Big Spring: Mrs. C. L. Wasson, Miss Agnes Currie, Miss Dorothy Jordan; Miss Jeanette Pickle, Miss Frances Melton. West Ward Olin Cox, principal of the West Ward School, and Mrs. Cox will go to their homes in Celina and later to N.T.T.C. in Denton. Mrs. J. H. Lloyd will also go to N.T.T.C. Mrs. Leo Smith will return to her home in Brownwood. Mrs. George Fowler to her home in Huntsville, and Miss Eleanor Antley to her home in Forest. Mrs. J. A. McDonald is undecided where she will go to school but she will return to her home in Troup. The following will remain here: Mrs. Della Arnold, Miss Zelma Chadler, Mrs. Robert Parker, Mrs. R. L. Haber, Miss Jane Harvey. North Ward Miss Lois Carden, principal of the North Ward school, expects to motor through the country to home in Klene. She will spend the summer at school in Baylor College, Helton. Miss Mildred Creath expects to go to West Texas State Teachers' College, Canyon. Mr. Ed Low will go to Sul Ross College at Alpine. Mrs. Lynn Hatchet will remain in Big Spring. Mrs. V. L. Patrick will visit her son in El Paso. John R. Hutto, principal of the Mexican school will spend the summer in Abilene; so will Miss Eupha Barton, who will go to Simmons University. Miss Myrtle Jones and Mrs. W. E. Martin. East Ward Mrs. J. J. Thron, principal of East Ward School, expects to spend the summer in Big Spring. Miss Audrey Phillips plans to attend summer school at West Texas Technological College, Lubbock. Miss Bertie Bow Brinow will go to her home in Stanton. The following will remain here: Misses Arthur Hawk, Mrs. Grady Acuff and Mrs. James Wilcox. South Ward Miss Rogers, principal of South Ward School, has not yet made up her mind in regard to her plans. Mrs. S. M. Smith is going to Sul Ross College. Mrs. L. C. Dahme and Mrs. Dahme plan to spend the summer in San Antonio. Mrs. Hubert Rutherford will go to West Texas Technological College. Miss Lucretia Paxton plans to go to the Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati. Miss Ola McEler will spend the summer at her home in Denton.

Hail Damages Automobiles West of Here

Farm Home Struck by Lightning; Family Uninjured Windshields and tops of automobiles were damaged late Sunday afternoon by a terrific hail storm that struck between Stanton and Big Spring. The storm cut a swath across that section of Howard county but did not extend either to Big Spring or Stanton. Cars which were caught in the storm were damaged by the stones. According to motorists the hail stones were as large as golf balls and fell thick and fast. The hail followed a sandstorm that swept this section. A heavy rain fell in the same vicinity. Heavy clouds threatened rain in Big Spring, but only a light shower fell. Lightning struck the home of Ben S. Redell, six miles northwest of Big Spring, demolishing a chimney. Although the family was at home, no one was injured.

District Court Term Closed

The May term of district court was closed Saturday by Judge Fritz R. Smith. During the three weeks of the term in session, approximately 100 civil and criminal cases were disposed of. The docket now includes eighty-one undisposed of suits. The majority of the civil cases were tried before Judge Smith without a jury. In a number of instances those charged with felonies chose to take advantage of the new law allowing trial before a judge without a jury. When court opened there were 123 civil cases and thirty-one criminal cases pending disposition. Seventeen criminal cases were added during the term. The grand jury returned 21 indictments during the term. Judge Smith left Saturday for his home in Snyder.

Child Study Club Holds Annual Social Reception At the Parish House

Program Presented on 'Music and Books' by Club Members Before Number of Friends; Benefit Plans Announced

The Child Study Club observed its annual guest day Friday with a party at the Parish House of the Episcopal Church. The place was beautifully decorated with bouquets of roses.

Mrs. H. E. Glaser was in charge of the program. The subject was "Music and Books." Mrs. E. D. Norman conducted a discussion on "Cultivating a Love for Good Books." Mrs. Robert Henry talked on "My Daughter Chosen to Read Trash."

Mrs. W. D. Cornelison sang "Gypsy Love Song." Mrs. H. S. Faw talked on "Popularizing the Practice Hour." Mrs. W. H. Martin spoke on "The Importance of Teaching Rhythm and Music to Children."

Mrs. M. R. Shewalter, public health nurse, made a talk emphasizing the importance of the August health clinic for pre-school children.

Mrs. Corn-Bow and Mrs. R. E. Blount sang as a duet, "A Lovely Night." Mrs. Glaser was the piano accompanist for all musical numbers.

A delicious refreshment plate was served to the following members and their friends: Miss L. Stewart, W. D. Cornelison, W. H. Martin, Geo. L. Wright, M. R. Showalter, C. A. Brewer, D. R. Lindley, H. S. Faw, W. C. Dunn, A. M. Underwood, Robert W. Henry, A. Kriegerbocker, Robert E. Lee, Dallas F. Whaley, E. J. Heywood, Ernest Duff, W. B. Ross, H. East, Glaser.

The Child Study Club has practically completed its plans for the exhibit benefit bridge which will be held in the ballroom of the Crawford Hotel Thursday evening, May 28. Both men and women are invited to attend.

The purpose of the benefit, as everyone knows, is to raise more money to pay for the removal of diseased tonsils from needy children. The club hopes to do as much as possible of this before fall so that the children may get a good start in their school work.

There will be six prizes in all. The first prize for women contract players will be a ten-dollar oil-filled lamp permanent fixture. The first prize for women auction players will be lingerie from Davenport. Exclusive shop.

The first prize for men contract players will be a electric toaster from the Texas Electric Service Company. The first for men auction players will be a maroon stand from Ritz Furniture Co.

The first prize for women will be $20.00 of base from Austin-Jones. The first for men will be a combination prize, a pair of socks from A. P. McDonald's Men's Store and a tie from Elmo Watson's Men's Store.

A generous ice course will be served for refreshments.

Magnolia And Moody Tied For Lead
In a rather listless and drab affair Magnolia defeated Moody Thursday afternoon to go into a deadlock for leadership in the Oil Belt League. The score was 3-3.

Walden was topped for three hits by the fifth while coupled with at bat made by his teammates, netted Magnolia three tallies. Hines relieved him and things got no better fast. He gave up four hits and three runs in the sixth. Conway took over as the batsman.

Cramer, twirling for Magnolia, had a fair margin to 1943 his way through the majority of the contest.

Two Girls and Boy Making Highest Averages In the Graduation Class of the High School

CARMEN COMPTON ROBERT KIDWELL ZILLAH MAE FORD -All Photos by Bradshaw

The three graduates, whose pictures are shown above, are the honor graduates of the Big Spring high school for the term just closed. Carmen Compton, with a four-year's scholastic average of 91.64, was the valedictorian of the Senior class. Zillah Mae Ford, with a four-year's average of 91.03, was the salutatorian. Robert Kidwell, the boy making the highest average during his high school years, had an average of 89.50.

To Carmen and Robert go the numerous scholarships which colleges of the state give to the boy and girl making the highest average. Zillah Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Ford, came into high school as valedictorian from Junior High. She has twice represented her class in the Latin tournaments and for four years taken part in tennis meets, going to finals in the district this spring. She was class editor of the "El Rodeo" last year and editor-in-chief this year. She was president of the National Honor Society. In her sophomore year she was elected by the students as sophomore favorite; this year she was elected by the high school students and by the faculty as May Queen. She was active in the debating club and was president this year of the Pep Squad. She is a Rainbow, has been elected as Worthy Advisor and will be installed Wednesday evening. She has been a member of the following clubs: Golden Peppers, a basket-

Will Rogers Indulges In Outburst Of Adjectives To Relate Wonders He Discovered In Carlsbad Cavern

By WILL ROGERS
Well all I know is just what I see and say. Brothers, I have seen something right here lately. Couple of weeks ago I was prowling around Mr. White and I, trying to scare up something new to see. We have hummed-around ever quite a bit of these United States and fragments of Europe, so just any little thing wouldn't make much of a dent on us. But we sure did run into something that knocked us back on our reserve supply of astonishment.

If you was looking for unusual and new things to see you would never look up or ahead would you? You would be looking along with your head down working to see anything astonishing down around your hoofs would you? No you would be looking for a Smith's Sky-scaper, the tallest building in the world, the one he built he could look down on the Republicans. Its big enough to hold all the Democrats and give each a different room so they can meet and disagree.

Course if you had never been around America much and started out to see the sights of it, due to not advertising you would perhaps see for Niagara Falls if you could dig up a new wife to take along to the Grand Canyon, or the Yellowstone Park, or the great Virginia Natural Bridge. Now all of these are everthings, they are tracked up to be and no one should miss em. But we got a new wonder in our country. Its sprung up in the last few years and the most astonishing thing about it, its not a thing but a hole in the ground. Now off hand that don't seem much to get excited about does it? Well I didn't know there was so much underground. We think the ground is just practically filled with dirt. But there is a place where there is a hole in the dirt, the dirt is pushed back and there is the most wonderful sight in this vacuum you ever saw.

Its down in the South eastern part of New Mexico, at Carlsbad. Its a little hole in the ground, a regular Oasis on what is sometimes called a Desert. Its on the Pecos River. I was through the place years ago when they used to call it Eddy's, and it was a good town water there that will cure you of a lot of minor ailments. Course you got to go to Claremore, Oklahoma. That's the place that will keep you right out of the Oblivion column. But this old time Eddy will help you a lot. Well I don't look like a place that if it falls in search of another wonder to add to the world, he would head for there. There is not much to give you any indication that you are prowling around over-formation of the most fantastic formations that were ever sprung up to the nose of man. Its just a rocky old hillside, not even two much grass. But its in a New Country, and many years ago the old timers used to know it was there as the bats would fly out of there by the thousands. Well anywhere a bat comes flying out of a particular fair minded person's going to go prowling in the hole to see what made the bat come out. But finally so many come out they know there must be a great big hole in order to hold all of em. Its not a prett big sized entrance and always did have they say, and very great effort on anyone part that happened to be riding in that end of the State.

It wasn't the find of the hole it was the going inside and seeing what it was there, was the main thing. A Cowpuncher named White, with more curiosity than any one I ever came in contact with, for they are generally mighty leary of any hole in the ground, is supposed to really have been the one to go in there and discover that while there was bats off in the one end, in other parts there was the most unbelievable formations of water turned to stone. You really prowl around in there by well formed trails for over five miles. There is rooms in there with a ceiling of 400 feet. One tremendous room is almost a mile long. With all these marvelous formations of Stone, Lites, and Stalagmites. There are big words, but I know what they mean

Dog Nomenclature Makes City Register Interesting

BY BOBBY CAMPBELL
"And in that town a dog was named 'Sally'." "As many dogs there be, Both mongrel, puppy, whelp and hound, And ours of low degree." So wrote Goldsmith in his elegy on the Death of a Mad Dog. So say those at the city hall in charge of issuing licenses to owners of dogs.

The dog lovers come, dollar in hand, dogs at the heels in some instances, pedigree (if any) on the tip of the tongue. It costs one dollar to make the canine a legal animal. One hundred and eighty-eight licenses have been issued since the city passed an ordinance requiring that all dogs in the city obtain a numeral.

Manufacture and Sale of Beer Supported by State Federation of Labor; Parks Again Elected

EL PASO, May 22 (UP)—With only one vote in opposition, the Texas Federation of Labor approved a resolution which urges modification of the Volstead act to allow the manufacture and sale of beer.

Another resolution adopted seeks the establishment of an eight-hour day and a six-day week for Texas oil workers. The resolution urged the U. S. Department of Labor to call a conference at which the shorter work hours would be discussed for oil field workers. It is claimed the oil fields now operate on a 12-hour day and seven-day week.

When the resolution proposing modification of the Volstead act came before the convention there was no discussion. A vote of acclamation was taken and only one voice was raised in opposition to the resolution.

The resolution declared that the 18th amendment and the Volstead act have failed and that "crime and racketeering have increased enormously during prohibition. Millions of dollars would be placed in circulation with the restoration of the brewing industry and were earned now unemployed would be given work, the resolution states.

Marriage Of Beth Crain to Occur Soon

Mrs. E. L. Crawford Gives Unique Party For Bride-to-Be

Mrs. E. L. Crawford entertained for Miss Elizabeth Crain Thursday evening announcing the approaching marriage of the bride to J. R. Craven Jr. of El Paso.

The announcement was made over radio station LOVE with Dan Cupid as announcer. Following the announcement a program of interesting games was broadcast from station HAPPY. Each guest was asked to give her impression of the groom, the bride, the average man and advice to the bride.

The wedding colors of Miss Crain, pink and green, were carried out in the house decorations, pink cut flowers being used in pink and green vases.

Refreshments of lime ice and pink angel food, with the words Beth and James written on them in green icing, were served to the guests. On the pink and green refreshment plates were favors of sweet peas and cupid place-cards.

Each cupid carried a pink heart on which was printed a secret and on the back the wedding date of June 14.

The guests were Misses Alma Alma Reueker, Mary Burns, Mildred Crabb, Elizabeth Owen, Jimmie Reeves, Thelma Troupdale, Clemmie Lee Crain, Misses W. N. Crain, Frank H. Eiler, Victor Mellinger and T. R. Reeves.

The eternal triangle—two women and a man—brought Sadie Robinson and Fannie Washington, negro women, into county court Saturday morning.

In addition to the triangle included a club and a chain pistol, both of which were used handsly. In county court Saturday morning the negroes pleaded guilty to simple assault, and were fined $5 and costs each.

It was alleged that the two women had a mutual feeling for the man. One with a club endeavored to reduce to a certain extent, the feeling of the other. The other produced the pistol and fired three times.

In county court Saturday morning the negroes told Judge Dehennert they weren't "mad at each other" and "don't care anything about the man anyway."

Some of the important posts proposed for abandonment are Fort Davis, Va.; Fort Brown, Brownsville, Tex.; Fort Hunt, Va.; Camp Harry J. Jones, Ariz.; Fort Lincoln, N. D.; Camp Stephen D. Little, Ariz.; Miller Field, N. Y.; Fort Missoula, Mont.; Fort A. Russell, Tex.; and Chanute Field, Ill.

Abandonment of these 10 posts alone would involve removal of nearly 5,000 officers and enlisted men. Consolidation of army stations has long been desired by the general staff, but political considerations have prevented it heretofore. Even now a flood of protest from various interests is looked for.

MRS. 'ALFALFA BILL' SHOWS OKLAHOMA FIRST LADY CAN STILL DO HOUSEWORK

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. (UP)—Mrs. William H. Murray, wife of the governor of Oklahoma, doesn't let the duties of "first lady" interfere with her domestic work.

She still goes about her household tasks just as she did back in the little Murray cottage at Tishomingo.

Often during the conference "Alfalfa Bill" holds with legislative leaders in the mansion at night, the governor feels the need of a cup of coffee or other refreshment. Mrs. Murray thereupon dons her apron, goes to the kitchen and prepares the lunch.

The governor dropped a few words of tribute to his wife recently when the appropriation for maintenance of the executive residence was under consideration by the house of representatives.

The item for running the mansion had been increased from $500 to $500 a month following a statement from the floor that Mrs. Murray asked the larger amount. The governor thereupon sent a message to the house requesting that the original figure be restored.

"It doesn't take more than $450 a month to run the mansion," he told newspapermen. "I wouldn't want any more than that unless I wanted to steal."

Mrs. Murray did not ask that the amount be increased. Mrs. Murray does not interfere with any authority.

The City of Big Spring will not use bond money for purchase of a site for a city hall and auditorium building in case the $200,000 bond issue submitted for a vote on June 16 is approved by the people, municipal officials pointed out Friday in answer to questions from several residents.

Abandonment of 33 army posts valued at $22,000,000, is contemplated by the war department, it was announced last night.

The posts are designated by the general staff after a survey ordered by the president. Their abandonment is General Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, said, will contribute to military efficiency as well as economy. Only 13 of them now are garrisoned. Others may be added to the list, MacArthur said.

Annual Tournament of Big Spring Tennis Club To Be Held June 7-9

The opening dates for the annual Big Spring Tennis club tournament, restricted to local players and a few invited racketeers, have been set as June 7, 8, and 9 by H. B. Dunnagan, president. As in the past awards will be given in both senior and junior divisions. Matches can be played to suit the convenience of the players, the only requirement being that the finals be reached by Sunday, June 9th.

Eligibility rules are simple. Anyone living in Big Spring or that receives an invitation is eligible. There is no limit to senior competition in either color or sex, but only players under 19 years of age, the national eligibility standard, can enter junior competition.

It is not probable that the tournament will be graded by a single defending champion. Rayborn Brown, senior singles titlist, is now living in Gladewater, and Curtis Bishop, junior champion has announced that he will not enter the younger division though he is eligible for a fourth title.

Whitehurst, Brown's partner in the doubles winning combination, is also living out of the city. Carroll Barnett, city champion in 1929 and 1928, will also be missing from the roster.

Some twenty odd racketeers are expected to vie for the various championships. Bishop finalist last year, is the logical favorite, but by no means considered as the probable winner. Seeded players will probably be drawn from Wayne Matthews, Walter Beall, and H. B. Dunnagan, Tommy Hut and high school captain last year, is expected to make a great bid for both the senior and junior championships as is Joe Davis, another high school product.

Other local players who are expected to enter are Berry Duff, Ben Anthony, Ben West, Harold Harvey, Harry Jordan, Milburn Barnett, Joe Allan, Davidson Dwight Heblin, Pat Beall and Winsty Manuel.

An entrance fee of $1 will cover play in both singles and doubles in either division. Players are asked to register early through either H. B. Dunnagan or the sports department of the Herald.

The Mexican Tigers took the long end of a 13 to 10 tally Sunday afternoon to defeat the Bankers at Dusty Diamond.

The slugging Mexicans rapped Crouch and Williamson for a total of thirteen hits, while the Bankers contributed freely to the Tiger score by booting ten errors around the lot.

Yanck and Lopez twirled for the Tiger contingent, and gave up ten hits between them.

Williamson relieved Crouch in the fifth, while Lopez was called upon to take over the burden in the second frame.

The Tigers pounded out four runs in the third inning, added three more in the fourth, piled on an additional three in the sixth, and just for target practice ran three across in the eighth.

The Bankers, after tallying four in the first inning of Yanck, were unable to catch up with the Tigers, although they did amass six runs in the ensuing innings.

PARIS, May 22 (UP)—In a realistic interpretation of the American economic depression Roy W. Howard, chairman of the board of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, told 300 business men at an American Club luncheon that the current slump has benefitted the United States, that reconduction of sound business is going on, and that Americans have not yet added a "yellow stripe" to their National Emblem.

He predicted radical changes in the business and economic structure which will give Americans a quality standard of life not approached by any other nation.
