Tim Woods Kills A Mammoth Wolf With Few Teeth

A wolf tipping the scales at eighty pounds, black in color, with hair about two and one-half inches long, was killed a few days ago by Tim Woods, on his ranch near Ranger. The wolf was so old that his head and legs were gray and his teeth almost all worn away. When Woods shot the wolf he sent for his boys to come and see whether it was a wolf or not, as it resembled a great German police dog in many respects, and quite a few people who went down to the ranch to see the dog and himself, he took his rifle and follow-have seen its picture concluded that it must be crossed with some large and large wolf make such large tracks.

And wherever Camels are lighted, men come together in more friendly understanding. No other cigarette ever had or made so many friends or brought so much added friendliness to the world as Camel, for Camel's quality is a universal language.

Camel is more than a cigarette. It is an experience in smoking enjoyment—the finest this old earth affords. Camels contain the choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos

IN THE home, or at the club—in grown, and these fine tobaccos are superbly blended, as in no other cigarette. The enjoyment of Camels goes on forever, for they never tire the taste no matter how liberally you smoke them. They simply never leave a cigaretty aftertaste. No other cigarette in the world is like them. Millions of experienced smokers who could well afford to pay more will buy and smoke only Camels.

Whenever and wherever you meet a friend, let that be a standing invitation to the sheerest enjoyment that ever came from a cigarette.

JOSEPH DRY GOO

"Ranger's Foremost Department Store" Ranger,

WIET OF DEST?

The new Texaco is a "dry gas." Petroleum engineers have been trying for years to perfect a motor gasoline which would vaporize to a dry gas under engine conditions and overcome the bad effects of a wet mixture. The new Texaco forms a dry gas at a temperature much lower than others on the market.

A wet gas, as it would appear in the engine manifold, is a mixture of gasoline vapor and fine drops of liquid gasoline. It is the cause of unequal cylinder distribution and excessive crankcase dilution, and the result of high "end point" and low volatility. A wet gas chokes power. Liquid drops separate from the mixture at every bend of the manifold, and following the straightest path, concentrate at the end cylinders. That is why the spark plugs of the end cylinders are fouled more frequently than the others.

A dry gas, no matter how greatly magnified, is absolutely invisible—a perfect mixture of vapor and air. Dry gas conserves power. It equalizes cylinder distribution and reduces crankcase dilution to a minimum, and is the result of low end point and high volatility.

The new and better Texaco, with its new low boiling point and low end point, its higher volatility and balanced distillation range, now provides an entirely new motor fuel—a dry gas of unequalled qualities.

The result is a far better manifold distribution, which permits a leaner carburetor setting, and means no flooded cylinders, less crankcase dilution, easier starting, maximum acceleration and more mileage.

Start today with a stop at the pump displaying the Texaco Red Star and Green T. You don't have to ask for the new Texaco—it's there at the regular place from the regular pump. And there, too, you can get the clean, clear, golden Texaco Motor Oil, famed for its lubricating value and freedom from carbon formation.
