4,500,000 FOOT GAS WELL AT 564 FEET

SENATE COMMITTEE TO PROBE COOLIDGE PROHIBITION ORDER

450 BARREL DAY PRODUCTION SALE MADE

CONWAYS SELL ENTIRE OUTPUT OF CROSS CUT

Prairie Purchases Holdings; 410 Acres Involved in the Deal

An important sale, involving 450 barrels daily production on 410 acres in the shallow field at Cross Cut, has been made by W. D. and A. B. Conway, well known operators of Ranger. The leases are in the southern part of the Cross Cut field in Brown county. The consideration was not made public. The purchase was made by the Prairie Oil & Gas company and the deal has been consummated except for the detail of examining the title. Daily production is approximately 450 barrels from the 110 wells, some of the wells being among the oldest in the field. The pay is found around 1,300 feet and the oil is 42 gravity, which is an exceptionally good grade. Conway Bros. began the development of the holdings two years ago. The best wells had a production of around 300 barrels flush and the yield is steady and long-lived. Ranger rejoices at the success of Conway Bros. in the various fields in this district.

Misunderstood

Rafaelle Morello said "Esse la voluto," when arraigned for the killing of his wife, found shot to death in their Newark, N. J., home. "She brought it on," the interpreter said he meant—a confession of guilt. Now he translates Morello's obscure dialect as "It was her doing"—suicide and Morello has been paroled.

BOZE AWARDED CONTRACT FOR PYROTECHNICS

One of the greatest contracts for fireworks ever awarded in the Southwest has been given to James A. Boze, explosives expert of Ranger, who will provide the pyrotechnical displays at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Amarillo in June. Two carloads of materials will be required to produce the numerous elaborate effects and $12,000 in rain insurance will be taken out to protect the three big programs against untimely downpours. News that the contract had been given to Boze was contained in telegram he received today from his business representative, William H. Dyer, who has been in Amarillo. Fifty thousand visitors—the greatest throng that has ever attended a convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce—are expected to swarm into Amarillo next month and a lavish and unparalleled fireworks display worthy of the magnitude of the convention will be presented. Such features as a battle scene in which 20,000 "shells" will be discharged, the wreck of the Shenandoah, "Old Glory in the Sky," Niagara Falls, the Statue of Liberty, a Cascade of Jewels, a Sunset scene, an Air-Raid, Japanese representations—all traced in flame and dazzling hues upon the canvas of the sky—will be presented. Perhaps the most remarkable of all will be the representation of a cyclone, preceded by deep thunder with no flashes, then the whistling of the gale, followed by the lashing rain and the crashing lightning. Numerous comic features such as Barney Google, Sparkplug, Maggie and Jiggs, as well as patriotic scenes will be given.

FIVE LEADING JURISTS PLAN INVESTIGATION

May Call On Andrews And Attorney General To Testify in Matter

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Five of the leading jurists of the senate were designated by the judiciary committee today to enquire into the legality of President Coolidge's executive order designating state, county and municipal officers as federal prohibition agents. The members of the committee are Senators Albert E. Cummins, Iowa, chairman; William E. Borah, Idaho; Guy D. Goss, West Virginia; Thomas J. Walsh, Montana; and William H. King, Utah. Andrews will be called. In the meantime, the house also is getting ready to take a hand into the investigation. Just how far the investigation will proceed is not known. The anti-prohibition bloc with Edge of New Jersey leader is planning to make a real fight. It is generally known now that the prohibition question will be the fight for congressional seats. It is generally known that the eastern democrats will take up the anti-prohibition banner.

PRESBYTERIANS FACING BATTLE ON LIBERALISM

BALTIMORE, May 27.—The long standing controversy between Fundamentalists and Liberals formed the chief issue expected to come before the 138th annual General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church which met here today to continue in session until June 2. The General Assembly is composed of approximately 1,000 commissioners, ministers and laymen in equal parts, representing the 299 Presbyteries in every state in the Union. It is the supreme judicatory body in the church. The Fundamentalist-Liberal controversy will come before the Assembly on account of complaints against the New York Presbytery and through the report of the Special Peace Commission appointed by the General Assembly in 1925. Rev. Walter D. Buchanan, heading a minority in the New York Presbytery, has announced his intention to charge that the Presbytery is derelict in duty in refusing to license any candidates for the ministry during the past year. The New York Presbytery was rebuked by the last General Assembly for licensing ministers who were regarded as unsound on matters of doctrine such as the Virgin Birth or the Miracles of Christ. The Special Peace Commission, the report of which is also expected to bring the Fundamentalist-Liberal conflict before the Assembly, was charged by the 1925 Assembly with investigating the causes of unrest in the Church and with discovering some way of reassuring the parity, peace, unity and progress of the Church. The Commission, which consists of 15 leaders of the denomination under the chairmanship of Dr. Henry C. Swearingen of St. Paul, Minn., has met several times during the past year to hear witnesses on both sides of the controversy. The report of this Commission, probably the chief point of interest during the Assembly, is scheduled for presentation Friday afternoon but the docket prescribes that discussion and consideration of the report shall not take place until late the following Monday. The relative strength of the Fundamentalist and Liberal groups in the Assembly will probably disclose to the afternoon session during the balloting for the election of a new Moderator. Two candidates are in the field, Dr. Lapsley A. McAfee Berkeley, California, is the avowed candidate of the Fundamentalists. His rival, Dr. William O. Thompson, recently retired from the Presidency of Ohio State University, though himself also regarded as a Fundamentalist is receiving the support of the more liberal element in the church.

GORDON SECTOR SHALLOW FIELD LOOMS UP GOOD

Ranger Interested In The Development Of Palo Pinto County

The territory surrounding Gordon, active little town in Palo Pinto county, some 25 miles east of Ranger, is witnessing the greatest oil play it probably has ever known, declared R. H. Keown, well known citizen of Gordon, who was in Ranger this morning. A 4,500,000-foot gasser at 564 feet has just been drilled in the Lone Star camp area, eight miles north of Gordon, on the Chenault tract by Cowen & Moore and associates. Another location has been made nearly a quarter of a mile south by the same operators. That there is a pool in that section is the belief of oil men as near the big gasser is a well that was completed for 10 barrels of oil and 3,700,000 feet of gas in the shallow level. Three-quarters of a mile west of Gordon, between Mingus and Gordon, the 475-foot wildcat well of J. M. White and associates of Ranger, on the A. P. Wilbar, was reported a 10-barrel well and that area is receiving attention.

A block of 1,100 acres, east of Gordon, has been obtained by Keown and W. R. Ringo, president of the Guaranty State bank of Gordon, and arrangements have been made for tests. The Nelson Oil syndicate is drilling three and a half miles south of Gordon and also is putting down a well north of the town, near the Lone Star camp or Chenault well. Two and a half miles northwest of Gordon, a standard rig has been built for a deep test. It is planned to drill to 3,800 feet unless oil in paying quantities is found at a lesser depth.

In the past few days, oil men from Fort Worth, San Antonio and Wichita Falls have visited the Gordon sector. Ranger is deeply interested as much of the play in progress and in prospect is by Ranger men and "the city of flowing gold" is headquarters for oil activities over a great district from Gordon to Cross Cut and from southern Stephens county to the Coleman and Blake fields.

AMERICANISM.
Free speech, free press, right to worship God according to the dictates of your own conscience and equality before the law is true Americanism. It was for these principles that the forefathers of the nation braved the elements and came across the Atlantic in sailing vessels and conquered a wilderness. It was for these principles that Solomon Hyams, a Jew, gave to the forefathers of this republic $700,000 to finance the Continental army under Washington and for which he never received a penny in return and neither have any of his heirs received any payment.
The principles of Americanism oppose mob law. There is no necessity for any organization to be fostered that breeds mob law. If every citizen would do his duty by serving on the jury there would be no need in some organizations that are really plagiarizing the name and using it as a subterfuge. Every true American will do his duty. The enforcement of the law is with the juries of the country. Let every good business man do his public duty and serve on the jury when called upon to do so, thereby eliminating the calling of hangers on around a courthouse.
There is no need for organizations to foster that. Every man should know his duty and do it. There is no need to say the public schools need protection. The men or set of men who would ever attempt to try to injure them would soon get his or their just deserts. We must watch that religion is kept out of the schools. That is the first move usually made to connect church and state. Church and state must forever be separated. It is one of the fundamental principles of this government.
No one has a right to pass on the patriotism and Americanism of his brother. The Indians are the real Americans. Progress pushed them back. They are rapidly disappearing. The remnant that are left are easy prey for the scallawag, and many of them have been robbed of their holdings.
In the great world war, no questions were asked a man what his religious belief. He offered his services and was accepted. Jew and Christian fought side by side in the trenches. Today there is walking around the world, a young man bereft of his sight, a Jewish rabbi, who went over the top from the trenches under leaden hail and clouds of gas to save a comrade a non-Jew. That was the American spirit.
The lost battalion expressed the true American spirit, when they sent word back to the enemy, "Go to hell we won't surrender." That lost battalion was composed of young Jewish men from the Eastside of New York and young men from Greek and Italian parentage. They were real Americans. One organization that went under the subterfuge of Americanism that is practically dead now is being succeeded by another under another name. You know, the Bible tells about wolves dressing in sheep's clothing. Aesop wrote a fable about a wolf putting on the skin of a sheep. Investigate first before you join. Any organization that does not foster the doctrine of the "fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man" is unsafe.

EVOLUTION BOBS UP AT CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, May 27.—A split over evolution arose as a distinct factor between the Fundamentalists and Modernists in the Northern Baptist convention here today following a victory of the Modernists in an immersion controversy. A resolution stating the belief that the story of the creation as told in Genesis is the only theory that orthodox Baptists may teach or accept has been prepared by followers of J. Frank Norris, fundamentalist leader of Texas. An attempt will be made to bring it before the convention late today. Norris has been a stormy petrel in the Texas Baptist association and was at odds with the teachings of science at Baylor University. He failed to get recognition in the state meeting. He also was at odds with the administration of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary at Fort Worth and with the other Baptist pastors in that town.

Seventh Day Adventists throughout the world are united in their belief that the world will return in this generation and they are coming to Milwaukee to learn how near accomplished is the program the church has undertaken in giving the gospel to every nation, kindred, tongue and people in this generation, according to officials in charge of the convention. The forty eight states in the Union and the provinces of Canada are divided into twelve conferences, all of which are represented at the sessions here. Europe has sent eleven delegates at large from the division headquarters, and there are also delegates present from the Baltic states, Great Britain, Germany, France, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Italy, Poland, Scandinavia, Russia, Jugoslavia and Greece. Radio Fan Mail Is Growing Less; Novelty Is Off

By WILLIAM J. FAGAN (United Press Radio News Editor) NEW YORK, May 26.—Radio fan mail is not what it used to be. Quite naturally. The business of radio listening has developed from a novelty into something of real permanence. The radio listener has developed from the bewildered being who sat tensely rigid with awe written all over his face to the discriminator who sits back and listens critically to broadcast entertainment. Radio broadcasters contend that he is like the user of a free pass for the theater. The free list is usually the most critical, while the paying customer thinks he must get something out of it to justify himself in buying in at the box office. I think the broadcaster is wrong. The broadcaster is not giving away anything for nothing, as some would have us believe. The radio manufacturer who operates a broadcast station is only providing the buyer with the guarantee that he'll at least have one wave to tune in on the set sold him by the manufacturer. Those educational institutions which operate stations efficiently and with common sense receive the benefits of increased prestige, although to be sure their motives are mainly those of genuine service. The listener has every right to be critical. The volunteer or unpaid artist appearing on a radio program in nine cases out of ten entertains the hope that he or she will be found good enough to be employed on a commercial program. The amateur is entitled to justice tempered with kindness, but there is absolutely nothing to be gained in the encouragement of mediocrity.

TEARS WIN SWEETHEART WHO RELENTS

All the world loves a lover but in a case that came up in Justice court at Eastland last night, the man was not only a lover but a hero as well. Wednesday he filed charges against his sweetheart, a young lady of Pioneer, whose home is at Kansas City, alleging that she had stolen his car and $90. She was arrested as she drove into Eastland with the car later in the day. Before Justice Sam Day, the same night, the woman appeared to answer the charge and as the man saw his sweetheart with her eyes full of tears he relented, took the girl in his arms and said it was all his fault, that he had been drunk and the girl getting disgusted had taken the car to drive to her home. The man pleaded with the judge to release the girl and drop the charge. This raised a knotty problem as the county had been put to some expense over the case and these expenses had to be paid, but Judge Day came through with his usual sagacity. He dismissed the charge against the girl and filed one against the man for drunk and the resultant fine met all the costs in both cases. Justice was satisfied and the lovers left the court happy.

Driving Home Better Farming For Eastland

The feature of the Better Farming meeting at Yellow Moand Wednesday night was the large number of Eastland men and women who with the interest of the movement at heart swelled the attendance and lent their aid with music and enjoyable singing that was greatly appreciated by the farm men and women of the district. Senator H. P. Brelsford, president. Senator Brelsford was careful to explain to the farmers that the people from the city had no selfish interest at heart in their propaganda for the better and more scientific farming. The prosperity of the county in which they all shared was the motive. He related how the movement for better farming started in the county and the object of the bankers and the various clubs in the giving of cash prizes as an inducement to make good. The boys must also get in the movement, he said, and in passing stated that every farmer stood an equal chance to win a prize as none of them had made any special land preparations. Discusses Chickens The speaker also discussed for a time directly to the boys urging them to take the offer of chickens and pigs to be donated by the hatcheries and clubs, and pointed out that this was something unique, in that they were the only boys in the state that had the chance to share in what would bring them real money with little cost to them for labor and feed. Musical selections and vocal solos were rendered during the intervals by Miss Elizabeth Garrett, Captain W. H. Scott, of the Eastland Telegram and George Hargus which was greatly appreciated, the singing of Miss Garrett being loudly applauded. Ed Castlebury Ed Castlebury, farming in the community, asked if the costs of planting corn was to be added to the cost of production in the various competitions. This point, which was a new one to the committee, was dealt with by R. H. Bush, Eastland county agent, who stated that while this extra cost would not figure against competitors, the committee would like to have the figures for a matter of record. Production was what counted and they were working in the interest of production only, he said. Referring to the advent of the competitions Mr. Bush carefully explained all the various events that were open and strongly advised farmers to get their applications in. There were still more prizes than entries, he said, while the majority of the events could be taken up for sixty days of a given period during the year. Among those present were Jess Carter, C. D. Knight, George Harper, W. E. Mitchell, Homer Brelsford, and wife, George Hargus, J. W. Turner, Horace Butler, E. C. Satterwhite, J. F. Owens, R. L. Perkins and Homer Johnson and many others. Miss Ruth Ramey, county home demonstration agent announced a meeting of the club one day next week.

Excavation To Be Completed

WASHINGTON, May 27.—Pueblo Bonito will get its last housecleaning this month. Dr. Neil M. Judd, leader of the National Geographical Society expedition to this ancient Indian apartment house in New Mexico, is leaving here shortly to complete the six year job of excavating the pueblo. Thirty Indian workers, probable descendants of the builders of the prehistoric pueblo, will aid in clearing away the last of the debris that has obscured the communal house for centuries. Dr. Judd will be accompanied by eleven other scientists, who will attempt to define the race and are of the founders of the pueblo. Visitors will be allowed to visit the pueblo this summer. It is part of the Chaco Canyon National monument and should attract thousands. Dr. Judd believes Pueblo Bonito was probably the most important Indian city of the southwest in pre-Columbian days and its 800 room apartment a veritable storehouse of Indian lore.

Leveille-Maher Team Loses To Legionnaires

The American Legion team in the city league took the Leveille-Maher club into camp Wednesday afternoon in a rather one-sided game, score 10 to 2. With the exception of the first inning, when the Legionnaires chalked up 9 runs, the game was hard fought and well played by both teams. After Hodges took over the stunt in the first inning, the ex-service men could make but two runs and one of these was due to errors that were excusable.

Judy of the soldiers had the game well in hand throughout the four and a half innings he pitched. Yonkers was the only man that could find him for anything like a hit. He kept the others guessing and fanned seven men. Hodges made two whif.

B. Peacock, city engineer tapped one for a home run in the first inning. Umpire Nurse was there with the goods and for an amateur is one of the best umpires in Texas.

Score by innings: Legion 9 1 0 0 x-10 L-M 0 0 0 2 0-2

LOVE AND POLITICS IN NEW PHOTOPLAY

A woman who has gained happiness only after suffering and humiliation, who has come from poverty to luxury, from misunderstanding to love, is faced with the question of whether to ruin her husband's career and keep her happiness, or give up everything that his political interests may not suffer. That is the theme of "The Golden Cocoon," the Warner Bros. Classic of the screen for today only at the Lamb Theatre.

The Warners chose Hellen Chadwick for the role of Mollie Shannon, the girl who comes from a small Texas town to wealth in a big city and who makes the sacrifice of her happiness for her husband. Miss Chadwick is said to have scored a triumph in the role. Huntly Gordon plays Gregory Cochran, governor of Texas, who marries the grubby little caterpillar and makes it possible for her to burst the golden cocoon and emerge a beautiful butterfly. Richard Tucker and Frank Campenu are the villains. Also in the cast are Margaret Seddon, Carrie Clark Ward, Charles McHugh and Violet Kane. Millard Webb directed and Hope Loring and Louis Lighton prepared the scenario from the novel of Ruth Cross. The photography, and there are said to be many beautiful shots of rural Texas before the oil boom, was handled by Byron Haskins.

Electrician Weds In Handcuffs At French City Hall

HAVRE, France, May 27.—Handcuffed to a policeman, Antoine Secretan, a young electrician awaiting trial on a charge of burglary, was married at the City Hall here to Mlle. Aimee Courtaud, a young Parisian modiste.

They were to have been married in Paris but when the Havre authorities decided to hold Antoine here until his trial, Aimee came here to have the ceremony on the date set.

After the wedding, Antoine embraced his bride, holding her with his free hand. A policeman then took him back to the jail and Aimee took a train for Paris.

Rio Janeiro Bar Keepers Favor U. S. Law

RIO DE JANEIRO, May 27.—An unofficial poll of Rio bar and restaurant proprietors showed that all with but a single exception are opposed repeal of the liquor prohibition law in the United States.

The single dissenting vote came from the owner, bar-tender, waiter and porter of a small but popular hole-in-the-wall near the sea front, incensed because over thirty American sailors had wrecked his shop.

The rest of them, do not favor repeal of the Volstead Act because every thirsty American who lands in Rio contributes a considerable share towards the upkeep of Rio drinking shops.

Harding-Dempsey To Debate Merits Of 2 Ship Canals

DETROIT, May 27.—Under the auspices of the Detroit Union League club, former Gov. W. L. Harding of Iowa, and Congressman S. Wallace Dempsey of New York, chairman of the house rivers and harbors committee, tonight are scheduled to debate here the respective merits of the so-called New York ship canal, and the St. Lawrence waterway. Representing the middle west, Harding will defend the proposed Great Lakes-to-the-sea project via the St. Lawrence river, while Dempsey, a champion of the New York proposal, will argue for the co-called all-American waterway. Interest in the debate, which is prompted by a desire to clarify the atmosphere toward a solution of the water transportation problems of the great middle west, was expected to draw here many leading proponents of the two proposals.

Pacific Coast Athletes Are In Coming Meet

NEW YORK, May 27.—Eastern track and crew athletes are disconsolate these days, with their competitors on the Pacific Coast looking ahead genially to events scheduled for the next few weeks. Thus far the colleges along the Atlantic seaboard have provided dismal stuff for track and field enthusiasts. There does not seem to be a single university hexabouts which can hope to bring back the team championship which the University of Southern California took home last year. With the single exception of the Navy crew, the oarsmen at the eastern institutions also have failed to furnish anything of a startling nature and the outlook for Poughkeepsie appears dark and gloomy if the Western invaders measure up to standard. At first glance Yale would look to have the best chance of furnishing any sort of opposition for the westerners who go to Cambridge on May 29 for the Intercollegiate A.A.A.A. meet. However, the Eli's stars must supply better performances than they have shown to date. Captain Baynes Norton of the Yale team who amassed 13 points in 1925, is not sprinting as fast this season. Then, too, he will have worrier opponents, such as California dash experts, Barber and House, Francis Hussey of Boston College, Hank Russell of Cornell and Dartmouth's new star, Geoffrey Glendenning. Howard Paulsen, quarter-miler, Sabin Carr, pole vaulter, Mack Smith distance runner and Davison, the javelin, heaver, are other possible point-getters for Yale, but each will have to extend himself to get a first place. Harvard, although with a good

Narrowest Escape on Record

The two men who were riding in this auto at Strinestown, Pa., had just about the narrowest escape on record. Their car failed to make a turn and crashed through the side of the bridge. But one rear wheel caught in the wreckage and the car hung suspended over the side. The men stayed in the car and were rescued by firemen with ladders.

Hawaii's Champion Marble Shooter In National Contest
By United Press.
SAN FRANCISCO, May 27.—Hawaii's champion marble shooter, Francis Kau, swung aboard a trans-continental train today, bound for Philadelphia and the marble shooting grounds. Rotarians started him on his way. He will be similarly sped along at all intermediary points large enough to boost Rotary clubs, since his trip is sponsored by Honolulu Rotarians. Fourteen years old, Oriental in visage and birth, though an American citizen, the Honolulu school boy expressed his intention of smacking the other boys' marbles for "a row of coconut palms," in terms undeniably American. "I bet I beat those kids," he said. "There'll be some swell shooters at Philadelphia, I bet I beat them though." Kau arrived on the steamer Seirra.

Administration Blocks Mitchell's Plan for Aviation

By WILLIAM J. McEVROY (United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, May 26.—Despite the tremendous following Col. William Mitchell acquired during his long fight for increased recognition of the air services which resulted in his court-martial, his recommendations for improvements and changes in the defense system have been turned down by the House.

Avoiding Mitchell's Department of National Defense plan, the House has passed three aviation bills which involve no great departure from the present organization of the Army and Navy.

The success of the administration in blocking Mitchell's plan at this session, according to the latter's friends, was achieved by a policy of postponement. Had the House plunged into the air controversy early in the session Mitchell's friends believe his single defense plan would have been accepted by an overwhelming vote.

Consideration of aviation legislation was put off in the House until after the appropriation bills were disposed of and when they came to the floor members manifested little interest.

Almost identical bills were passed by the House for the Army and Navy air branches. Both measures are based on a five-year building program but leave the status of the two services just where they are.

Mitchell's main fight was to change existing organization so that the air branches would have an independent status and a free hand in whatever they undertook to do.

In addition to the military aviation bills, another bill designed to give impetus to civil aviation has been sent to the Senate. This measure creates a separate bureau of aeronautics in the Department of Commerce and charges it with the responsibility of establishing a network of airways.

Rep. Huddleston, Dem., Ala., loudly criticizes this civil aviation measure.

"Under the civil aviation bill," Huddleston said, "a man owning a large tract of land could not take the air from his residence to a back field without getting a license from the Secretary of Commerce.

How To Avoid Divorce Courts Is Explained

By United Press.
DAYTON, O., May 26.—On the eve of his resignation from the domestic relations court, Judge Roland W. Baggott, drew up a list of rules which he has entitled "How to Avoid Divorce," and has offered them to every married couple.

The rules apply both ways — to both man and wife, the judge declared. Here are a few of them: Don't play with gin.

If there are children they should have an occasional bath.

If a husband is attracted by certain externals, it would be well for the wife to use rouge, lipstick, and short skirts.

If a wife is attracted by raccoon coats and derby hats, the husband should deck himself accordingly.

Nothing unless it falls within the province of the Almighty, that can be done in all the region lying above a man's head that Mr. Hoover will not undertake to regulate and deal with. Perhaps even a disembodied spirit will not be permitted to wing its way upward into a better world without petitioning Mr. Hoover and getting a pilot's license before he starts."

Dirt Farmer Tells Experts How To Save Pigs' Tails

By United Press.
OMAHA, May 25.—It took a plain dirt farmer to supply a remedy after agricultural experts of University of Nebraska had confessed they didn't know why many Nebraska pigs were losing their tails.

The tail losing amounted almost to an epidemic in eastern Nebraska and western Iowa. Then M. E. Greenslit, retired dirt farmer, came to the front and explained that he had found the remedy many years ago.

"We had been bedding our pigs on hay and in due time their tails became sore and fell off," Greenslit said. "We changed the bedding to straw. We had no more trouble after that."

"The hay is wiry and dusty and cuts the tender skin on their little tails. As soon as the pigs were bedded on smooth clean straw the trouble ended."

Nebraska farmers affected by the present "epidemic" have tried out Greenslit's idea and find that works just as he said.

Cool Summer Prediction Is Given the Ha Ha

By United Press.
ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 27.—Predictions that the summer of 1926 will be exceptionally cold are ridiculed by Prof. William J. Hussey, director of the University of Michigan Observatory, who asserts it is impossible to forecast weather conditions months in advance. A common belief that the earth is visited with a cold summer every thirty-nine years is a "myth," he said. Thirty-nine years ago, he said, we had an exceptionally warm summer.

Tour of Texas For Realtors At Tulsa Meeting

By United Press.
DALLAS, May 27.—A tour of Texas and on into Mexico is the invitation extended real estate men who will attend the convention of the National Real Estate Boards at Tulsa, Okla., June 8 to 11. The tour will be under the auspices of the Houston Real Estate Board.

Dallas will be the first city visited, according to the itinerary.

In Houston a tour of inspection of the ship channel has been arranged and the visitors will be given an opportunity to view the extensive cotton operations there. From Houston the party will motor to Galveston for a view of that city and the sea wall.

After Galveston, Corpus Christi will be visited and from there to Brownsville where they will be given a trip over the Rio Grande to Matamoros, Mexico. After a survey of the old buildings and wrecks in this section the party will return to San Antonio for a visit among the missions of this historic city.

Ramblin' Round' In Ranger

Chief Justice L. H. Flewellen was glimpsed pushing a recalcitrant Ford which had come to a stop just two doors from a garage. After a few soothing words by a mechanic, the flivver went merrily onward.

"A tin you love to touch" was painted on a small car of popular make that went through town yesterday.

Barney Carter was seen in Ranger's business district yesterday. The energetic operator, though living in Ranger, spends most of his time these days in fields 50 miles or more away where he is operating.

Mills Davenport, well known operator, has returned from Erath county.

Apparently, something in the way of an adjustment to the skylight was necessary at the Lamb theatre. Any way, a young and active worker was noticed last night as he did the "human fly" act, clambering from the roof down by taking hold of a few steel supports to the big sign and then dropping to the top of the metal awning.

The street salesman, with his truck, his glib talk and his wares that he sells at such low prices, we have always with us. However as a concession to progress, the flaring gasoline torch has disappeared and electric lights are now used by the itinerant salesman. Last night, a crowd that almost blocked the street listened to the eloquence of one of the wandering spellbinders at Main and Rusk.

He sold quite a few of his fountain pens and razors which indicates that Ranger is "flush" financially.

Paraffin And Asphalt Base Oils Discussed

It seems impossible to discuss the properties of crude petroleum without sooner or later coming to the question of so-called "paraffin base" and "asphalt base" crude oils, states A. J. Kraemer, in Information Circular 6006, recently issued by the Bureau of Mines, Department of Commerce. There seems to be a great deal of confusion due to the use of the term "asphalt base," which, usually, though not always, means naphthene base. Naphthenes are a class of hydrocarbons which have the property of remaining liquid at much lower temperatures than corresponding members of the paraffin series of hydrocarbons. These naphthene compounds seem to predominate in the crude oils usually designated as "asphalt base" oils. The asphalt content of a crude has no apparent relation to the content of naphthene compounds, although the two types of substances, naphthenes and asphalts usually occur together. So-called "paraffin base" crudes are those in which the paraffin series of hydrocarbons seem to predominate. This series of hydrocarbons is solid at temperatures at which the corresponding naphthene compounds are liquid.

These naphthene compounds seem to predominate in the crude oils usually designated as "asphalt base" oils. The asphalt content of a crude has no apparent relation to the content of naphthene compounds, although the two types of substances, naphthenes and asphalts usually occur together. So-called "paraffin base" crudes are those in which the paraffin series of hydrocarbons seem to predominate. This series of hydrocarbons is solid at temperatures at which the corresponding naphthene compounds are liquid.

Paraffin And Asphalt Base Oils Discussed

It seems impossible to discuss the properties of crude petroleum without sooner or later coming to the question of so-called "paraffin base" and "asphalt base" crude oils, states A. J. Kraemer, in Information Circular 6006, recently issued by the Bureau of Mines, Department of Commerce. There seems to be a great deal of confusion due to the use of the term "asphalt base," which, usually, though not always, means naphthene base. Naphthenes are a class of hydrocarbons which have the property of remaining liquid at much lower temperatures than corresponding members of the paraffin series of hydrocarbons. These naphthene compounds seem to predominate in the crude oils usually designated as "asphalt base" oils. NEIGHBORS' WIVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY
John Milburn, partner in the advertising agency of Graham and Milburn, hails the birth of a baby girl as the turning point in his and his wife, Fay's, marriage.

While Fay is in the hospital, John is invited to a swimming party by Pat Forbes. There he meets and is attracted to Nell Orme, who, Pat hints, is having trouble with her husband.

Pat, who has a wife and three children, leads John to think that he is tired of his own marriage.

Fay and John spend weeks looking for a house to buy, but only one appeals to them and that is priced $3,000 higher than Fay thinks they can afford.

Nathaniel Graham, John's partner, sees a chance of landing an important advertising contract with the Milltown Tool Company, and he and John and their artist, Briggs, work furiously for weeks, preparing a campaign. When it is completed, Graham departs with it for Milltown and Briggs and John celebrate by getting drunk.

Faul Davidson, lawyer, amateur actor and libertine, calls at John's office to try to persuade him to attend a wild party with him, but John refuses. Late that day a telegram comes for John, which causes him excitedly to jump for the phone and call Fay.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X
"I bet I know what is it," Fay's voice said over the phone.

"What?" asked John.
"Nat Graham got the contract, didn't he?"

"He sure did!" exclaimed John.
"Isn't that great! Boy, oh boy! I'm coming right home. Get your things on, and we'll go out."

"Where are we going?"
"Never mind. Wait till I get home."

He hung up the receiver and turned to Briggs and Miss Knisely. "You two take the rest of the afternoon off. I guess that contract ought to call for some sort of celebration." He grabbed his hat and was gone.

"Well, where are we going?" Fay asked as he mounted the steps.

Twenty minutes later they stopped before the little house that had captured their fancies.

"Now," said John, "we're going through that house from cellar to garret—or from garret to cellar—and when we get through, you're going to decide once and for all whether you still would like to buy it. And if you do, we're going to buy it. There'll be no further argument about not being able to afford it. The Milltown contract settles that. Come on, I'm going next door and get the key."

Fay smilingly followed him, and kept appraisal was in her eyes as she inspected the kitchen, with its mammoth porcelain sink and its vast cupboard and its breakfast nook and its disappearing ironing board.

"I'm satisfied with the kitchen," she proclaimed.
The dining room was small, intentionally so in order that the living room might be large, and this feature also pleased her. "Dining rooms are going out of fashion, anyway. We'll eat just one meal a day there, and the other two in the breakfast nook."

The living room ran the full width of the house. Fay approvingly inspected the fireplace, the polished floor, the many windows and the numerous electrical connections along the baseboard. There were such connections all over the house—in the bedrooms, in the hall, the bath, even in the screen-in side porch.

The bath had a square set-in tub and shone mightily of nickel. There were three bedrooms, a master bedroom over the living room, and two smaller ones. In addition, there was a sewing room. "All the bedrooms are light," said Fay. "John, I think I'm crazy about it. I know I am. I wouldn't be happy in any other house, now that I've seen this."

"Then we'll buy it," he declared. "Come on, let's look at the cellar."

Coming up the cellar steps he said, "And there's a peach of a back yard. Be just fine for Judith. First

"I wish you wouldn't flare up at me like that," Fay said to John.

"How perfectly adorable!" she exclaimed, and John and Fay escorted them through the house.

"It's a peach," said Dick Menefee. "How would you like one like it, Margaret?"

Margaret blushed, and John loudly demanded, "Yes, when in thunder are you folks going to get married?"

"Keep still, John," Fay reproved him, and Dick Menefee said, "Sooner the better for me. I think I'm past the real rough stage of the medical game. I'm building up a practice now and seeing daylight."

"Sorry you don't go in for obstetrics, or you could have collected a nice bill from us when Judith was born," said John.

"By the way," asked Menefee, "show did you like Dr. Baker? I recommended him pretty highly to you. I hope he was satisfactory."

"He was O. K., Dick, O. K. Come on, let's shoot some bridge."

John went for a table. While they were cutting the cards Margaret said, "Dick and I are thinking of getting married real soon."

"Oh, are you? When?" asked Fay. "Well, we'll tell you, won't we, Dick?"

"Sure will," agreed Dr. Menefee. "Well, don't forget me for best man, Dick," said John. "Remember, I gave the job to you at my wedding."

"The honor's yours," laughed Dick. "I didn't think people went around seeking the job. I had a bad case of stage fright in my only attempt."

"I bid a heart," announced John, who had dealt. He was playing opposite Dick Menefee, it being to their liking to play against the women.

"Did you hear about John's firm landing a wonderful new contract?" asked Fay, who sat at John's left.

"Come on, dear, rich," he told her. "Let's not talk shop; I've got a good hand."

"No, let's hear about it," said Margaret, ignoring John.

John put in, "Oh, we landed the advertising business of the Milltown Tool people. Biggest thing we've got so far, and it means a nice little piece of change. Come on, Fay—"

"It's the company," said Dick and Margaret had offered their congratulations.

"I bid a diamond," she said.

"Isn't that a woman?" John asked disgustedly. "I already bid a pair—Fay. You'll have to bid two diamonds."

"Two diamonds—and don't be so crabby."

John finally won the contract for three hearts, and was set one trick and had to listen to Fay while she explained how he could have made it had he "used his head and finessed his queen."

"Well, what's the difference," said John. "We're not playing for money."

"When Menefee and Margaret left, Fay said to John, 'I wish you wouldn't flare up at me like that for forgetting your bid.'"

"I didn't flare up at you. I just get impatient to have somebody talk about something else when I'm playing cards."

Fay was silent. She was gazing absent-mindedly at the lamp near her. Finally she spoke.

"John," she said, "I've been thinking. I'll tell you what we ought to do."

Their Health and Happiness In After Life Depends on Successful Change From Girlhood to Womanhood.

The time when girls are developing into womanhood is one of the most important periods in their lives, because of the bearing it has on their future years. It is at this time that girls should be happiest, and the lasting friendships of life are made which so often ripen into love.

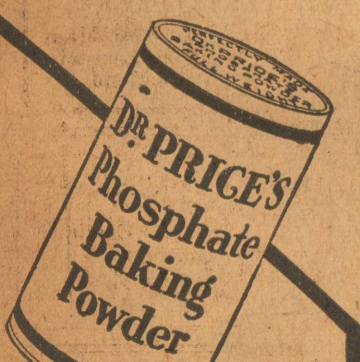

Irregularity, cramping spells, headaches, backaches, and that awful feeling of depression and listlessness at this time are sure signs that the delicate female organs are not coming into their functions as nature intends they should.

If something is not done to restore these organs to the proper condition, the unfortunate girl will certainly suffer much unnecessary pain and embarrassment, besides the loss of much valuable time from school and other duties. In addition there is real danger that the state of weakness, bad health and pain which starts at this time will continue through many years of her after life.

A condition known now as catarrh of the generative organs has fastened itself on the delicate organs of the girl and is slowly but surely dragging her into a miserable life.

That is the reason for the phenomenal success G. F. P. is having in building up women and restoring them to health, with plenty of vitality, energy and youthful buoyancy. It quickly and surely overcomes and stamps out that dreaded enemy of women—catarrh of the generative organs.

Women Now Depend on St. Joseph's G.F.P. To Restore Their Vitality

THE FOLKS BACK HOME

of Season Tickets for Big Chautauqua On

With committees hard at work, the sale of season tickets to the Redpath-Horner Chautauqua which will be held in Ranger next week is progressing well.

The greatest array of amusement and educational numbers ever presented in a Chautauqua in the oil belt is the way that the week's program is heralded and the great saving that is effected by purchasing a season ticket instead of paying regular admission to each attraction is aiding the season ticket sale.

One of the big numbers is "Applesauce," which is described by the New York Evening Post as that "gay and happy play with a message of sunny skies and silver linings."

"Applesauce" is appearing on Chautauqua before its season's run is completed on Broadway. It is a three-act comedy of American life. The New York World says the play gets its name from the blarney of a lovable, good-looking, semi-worthless youth who wants to marry the heroine. The play scintillates with comedy and there is lots of wit such as the declaration by the central figure that "happiness is just like a kiss; the only way to get any good out of it is to give it to someone else."

The smallest things on earth may be parts of the atom, but the two smallest are tight shoes.

Conservation Board Will Hear Petroleum's Side

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The American Petroleum Institute today will attempt to clear up for the record of the federal oil conservation board, before it is submitted to President Coolidge, some of the charges that have been made that the oil industry is the "bad boy" of the American conservation movement.

Charles Evans Hughes, former secretary of state, was to appear today at a special hearing called by the board to present the institute's case. It is alleged that the oil resources are being spent faster than the supply can stand for future needs.

The president's oil board held hearings last February and has been constantly at work compiling the mass of testimony and data pertaining to oil resources and the necessity for drastic conservation.

It was pointed out at the hearings that "the wastes in the petroleum industry are of shocking magnitude." Just what must be done to check these wastes and at the same time assure the country of its petroleum needs are among the problems confronting the board in its determination.

EUROPE HIT BY CYCLONE AN DFLOODS

MOSCOW, Russia, May 27.—Thousands have been driven from their homes by a flood which has moved down the Volga river in the past few weeks and is sweeping over parts of the lowlands lying near the river towns and surrounding country, dispatches from Saratov report. The flood reached its greatest height at that city, surpassing the record flood of 1819. Because the flood developed and moved slowly, casualties were few, although losses in destruction of homes, property and cattle that were drowned, were estimated at millions of rubles.

It was proposed today that the population of Pokrovsk, evacuate as there was danger the whole town might be submerged. The collapse of an embankment rendered conditions dangerous in this small city.

Australia Now Land of Promise, Industrial World

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Australia will be the future "land of promise" in the industrial world ranking with the United States as one of the primary producing countries, Trade Commissioner Elmer G. Pauly has advised Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

Fauly bases his prediction upon the sustained output of crops and other raw products. The wheat and wool yields have been satisfactory there for the past four seasons, he said.

Australia is making strenuous efforts to expand its manufacturing industries, Pauly stated, but limited population now estimated at 6,000,000 and the consequent limited domestic consumption, render it impossible for manufacturers there to compete with this country in mass production.
