

Farmers Here Favor Acreage Reduction

Talk by Betty

To say the least agitation in newspapers throughout the south, especially in Louisiana and Texas, has awakened the public, including the farmers, to quick action insofar as expressing sentiment on the cotton proposition is concerned.

To meet an unusual situation you've got to devise an unusual plan. To say that the Huey Long plan for a "cotton holiday" is unusual is putting it mildly.

However, if those most active in declaring something must be done at once—save the southern farmer from unprecedented hardships had started—he fight with a middle-ground or mild plan the eventually adopted plan, any would have been more liable to be too mild than not.

As it is, with thousands of farmers clamoring for a complete "holiday" in 1932 and reduction of acreage hereafter the chances are that if and when the legislature comes down to business on the proposition their final decision will be more liable to produce the desired results.

The people of Texas displayed a rare example of the fact when the public speaks loudly enough it can get action from its legislature a few days ago when with only hours left of the special oil session, they the same as told the senators they had to act—and they did act, agreeing upon a conservation law.

They can do the same thing with the cotton problem. If the people demand action strongly enough they will get it.

As to what specific plan ought to be adopted that is something that must be worked out by the legislature upon advice of farmers, bankers and business men throughout the state.

That it would not be practicable to adopt the Long plan for no number of provisions on how to handle this year's crop and just what method of acreage control would be followed after 1932 is obvious.

The big idea, the permanent thing is that the people should talk quick and decisively and make certain that their representatives do something about it.

The larger oil companies appear to be divided down at the production hearing in Austin. The Gulf opposes fixing a definite daily allowable for East Texas.

It is perfectly clear by now that the concerns that need the largest volumes of oil do not want any order entered that would prevent them taking as much of the high grade East Texas crude as possible.

And we contend that, differences in refining processes considered, West Texas sour oil ought to bring 75 cents if East Texas crude reaches a dollar. If East Texas crude is worth 85 cents now—two companies have decided—then West Texas crude is worth 45 to 50 cents instead of 35 cents per barrel.

Labor Comes To Assistance Of Employers

Each Man Agrees To Act As Voluntary Salesman For Company

SRRENE, Colo., Aug. 27. (UP)—Labor had come to the aid of capital today as 600 union miners of the northern Colorado field prepared to "finance" the battle of their employers, the Rocky Mountain Fuel company, against wage reductions.

The 606 announced yesterday they had voluntarily suggested postponement of payment of half their wages, during August, September and October.

In addition, each man agreed to act as a voluntary salesman for the company.

The miners thus declared war upon large non-union coal operators in the state who have instituted 25 per cent wage cuts.

"The time has come," the miners declared in a statement, "to defend our union contract and wage scale against a * * * systematic attempt of non-union operators to reduce wages and reduce coal miners to a condition of economic slavery."

"We therefore give notice * * * that we will mine and put coal in every market at prices which will meet any price made by non-union operators. . . ."

The miners indicated their action was taken at this time to aid their company through the slack period in the industry until the winter season with its usual demand for fuel.

The Rocky Mountain Fuel Company has consistently advocated high mine wage scales. The miners also indicated a willingness to continue their pay postponements longer should that be necessary.

Ex-Republican Senator Helped Bishop Cannon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (UP)—The senate campaign funds committee discovered a $10,000 contribution to Bishop James Cannon, Jr.'s anti-Spith campaign in 1928 by Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, former republican senator from New Jersey.

F. C. Ferguson, president of the Hudson County National Bank, of New Jersey, identified two $5,000 cashier's checks from Frelinghuysen.

It was previously learned that Cannon received $65,300 from E. C. Jameson, New York.

Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, has complained to the committee that Cannon violated the election laws by reporting expenditures of only $17,000.

Co-Op Slates Session Here

Field Representative Sets Out Objectives Of Organization

Business men, bankers and professional men, as well as non-members, are especially invited to the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association meeting in the court house here at 2 p. m. Tuesday, Sept. 1, according to Clyde Daniel, field representative of the association.

As receiving agents and members of the cooperative from places as far as 20 miles from here are bringing auto caravans to bring large numbers of out-of-town people to the meeting, it is expected to be one of the largest farmers' meetings ever held in the county.

Methods of handling the 1931 crop by the cooperative association, operations of the seasonal and price fixation pools in 1931 and other matters of interest to both farmers and the general public will be explained in detail by some of the best speakers in the cooperative marketing movement.

"There are three fundamental objectives of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association," declared Mr. Daniel. "The first aim is to establish a system of marketing that will pay each grower of cotton on the basis of quality he produces. The second is to obtain more profit for the producer by establishing a marketing system that will carry the cotton from the producer to the consumer at the lowest possible cost and with the minimum amount of waste and unnecessary handling charges."

"The third objective is the establishment of a marketing system owned and controlled by the growers of cotton themselves, and through which they can influence more effectively the merchandising of the entire supply of American cotton."

"Details of these purposes of the association will be explained and emphasis placed upon the resultant benefits to the nation in general. People more and more are coming to the conclusion that no permanent restoration or improvement of prosperity can occur until the purchasing power of the farmer is restored. When farmers are prosperous, people in the towns and cities are prosperous. Their interests are all bound together so intricately that when farmers cannot buy the things they need, people in the towns and cities cannot make and sell the things the farmers require, and there is consequent slowing up of business all along the line."

Missing Turfman Returns Unharmed

CHICAGO, Aug. 27. (UP)—John J. Lynch, wealthy turfman reported kidnapped Thursday returned to his home in Lake Geneva, Wis., today in his own car, unharmed.

He said his captors treated him like an old friend, keeping him blindfolded in an unknown locality. He said he heard nothing about a ransom demand nor did he pay any.

Newspapers had reported $250,000 had been asked for his freedom last night at Kankakee, Ill. A friend said over the telephone from the Lynch home that nothing was known there about a ransom payment.

Four Convicts Kill Selves After Frustration Of Attempted Break; Prison Physician Slain In Fight

MARQUETT, Mich., Aug. 27. (UP)—Dr. A. W. Hornbogen, acting prison physician, was slain and a guard and trusty wounded in an attempted break by four convicts who committed suicide when their attempt was frustrated.

The convicts were: Tony Germano, under 35 to 50 year sentence for wounding a Birmingham, Mich. policeman; Leo Duver, Charles Rosbury and Frank Hohfer.

The first three entered the prison hospital for treatment killing the doctor and probably fatally wounding the trusty, Frank Oligschlager.

Guards drove them into a building nearby and used tear gas. The trio shot themselves.

Hohfer, in another building, apparently planning to join them, shot at a guard but missed. He then killed himself.

Rosbury and Duver were serving life sentences. Hohfer was under 30 to 50 year sentence.

This branch of the state prison houses the worst criminals, including Fred Burke, notorious bank robber and killer and the trio who recently killed and burned two young couples in an automobile near Ann Arbor.

Gulf Opposes Allowable In Flush Fields

Basis For Appeal From Contemplated Order Read Into Record

AUSTIN, Aug. 27.—Ben C. Bell, geologist for the Gulf Production company told the railroad commission today that 250,000 barrels daily allowable is insufficient outlet for the East Texas field.

The Gulf company opposes setting of an allowable for the field. It set the basis for an appeal from the commission's contemplated order yesterday by reading into the record a long list of the company's wells with testimony that they had not caused waste.

Chairman C. V. Terrell said he would try to end the hearing today. Various companies were contending that it is illegal to set a field allowable, demanding that the commission determine waste in the operation on individual wells.

AUSTIN, Aug. 27. (UP)—Proposals to keep oil wells on different tracts 800 feet apart and wells on the same tract 640 to 660 feet apart were made known at today's session of the state railroad commission hearing on plans to prevent physical waste of oil in the giant East Texas field.

Former Gov. Pat M. Neff, member of the commission, asked practical operators if such a rule would not be a conservation measure. They replied that it would. At present wells may be drilled within 150 feet of a boundary line. A limitation of one well to 20 acres also was proposed.

Neff asked questions, too, about the advisability of adopting an oil and gas ratio for each individual well specifying how much gas may be used per barrel of production.

H. D. Parker, chief of the oil and gas division of the commission, then took a part in the questioning and brought a statement from Harry Reynolds of Houston that the conservation of gas can be obtained more practically by limiting production for the whole field.

To Waterline

Limitations on how close wells may be drilled to the waterline, requiring blow out preventers on all wells and reintroduction of gas into the field all were proposed as conservation measures. Reynolds declared the field too much divided for successful repressuring.

On cross-questioning Reynolds said the one actual waste he knows to exist now in East Texas is water encroachment. Fair methods of limiting production were then taken up.

C. P. Burton, an East Texas operator, advocated the same allowance for each well with a further provision that no well might be allowed more than its offset well.

Chairman C. V. Terrell asked if it would be fair to let a man with five wells on 20 acres take five times as much as the operator with one well on 20 acres. Burton said exceptions would have to be made in some cases.

Under former proration orders, a combination of well capacity and acreage has been used to determine the allowable flow.

Criticism of the reported holding of the state supreme court on property rights in oil under the ground and the up joiners with former Governor Dan Moody marked the testimony of W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls.

Moody vs. Hamilton Hamilton had declared no man had a right to steal his neighbor's oil nor the gas energy under his neighbor's land.

"Do you know what our supreme court has said about the rights to oil?" asked Moody, who took active part in the hearing for the first time today.

Defintion Of 'A Peddler' Under Provisions Of New Law Given; Three Licenses Are Issued Here

Who, what, when, and why is a peddler? All of these perplexing little questions have been continuously fired at County Tax Collector Loy Acuff since the peddlers tax went into effect Saturday.

Inquiries on the subject have been numerous, he declared, but to date only three bona fide peddlers have taken out licenses.

Great confusion has resulted from the measure, Acuff said. A number of the inquirers ask if they are classified as peddlers. Others want to know if they are exempt. Still others want to know who is a peddler if they are not. Some are reluctant to pay the tax because they are selling in the same manner as some person who is free from the act. The whole affair appears to them as a mist, the tax collector explained.

But here is the low down on the peddling business according to Acuff:

"A peddler is an itinerant trader in town or county who carries his merchandise or commodities from place to place or house to house. He may be a foot peddler, may use a wagon or cart, or he may carry his product about in a truck or delivery car."

"Exemptions are granted to (1) producers and growers of farm, dairy, poultry products, fruits, vegetables, livestock, meats, or any horticultural or agricultural products; (2) persons who sell any of the products immediately preceding to manufacturers, processors or curing or dressing plants; (3) peddlers of literature, newspapers, or periodicals; (4) manufacturers selling products manufactured by them."

304-H Club Members To Attend Meet

Thirty favorable replies have been received by County Agent J. V. Bush regarding the 4-H camp to be held for two days on the U. Ranch of George McKintie northwest of Sterling City, beginning Friday afternoon. Bush expects more as the deadline approaches Friday at noon.

Joyce Fisher has offered transportation to the river for the club members. Wolcott Motor Company has promised to return the personnel to the city Sunday. A nominal sum is being assessed each boy attending.

Bush expressed regret Thursday that the camp would make it impossible for him to attend the cotton meeting here Saturday afternoon.

Cowboy Flies Home After Marketing His Shipment Of Sheep

When the American Airways ship landed here Thursday from the east one of the passengers who stepped out of the big cabin was one of the most completely habited cowboys you ever saw.

He wasn't of the drug store type or was he from Hollywood. He was an honest, stooped, ranch hand—Ralph Davis from the U. Ranch at Sterling City.

Davis was returning from Fort Worth, where he took several cars of sheep from the U. Ranch. It was his first air trip. He expressed enthusiasm for air travel and declared he felt as safe as if he were astride his best pony.

Vernacular newspapers continued to laud the fliers.

Meetings Held In Many Towns On Proposition

Howard County Farmers to Convene Here Saturday Afternoon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27. (UP)—Senator George, democrat, or Georgia, called upon senators of nine southern states, including Senator Tom Connally of Texas, to meet here tomorrow to discuss the cotton situation with the federal farm board.

Egypt today suggested a world cotton conference. A formal note on the subject was on its way to Washington.

More than a dozen Howard county farmers had expressed their views on plans for control of cotton production through questionnaires published in The Herald, while a larger number expressed their opinions personally to members of the newspaper's staff.

They were unanimous in their belief acreage should be controlled. They were practically unanimous in support of the Long plan for a year's "cotton holiday" in 1932.

Several, however, favored cutting the 1930 acreage in half, one man

NOTICE TO FARMERS

It is earnestly requested that every farmer in Howard county be present at a mass meeting at the court house, in Big Spring, at 2 o'clock next Saturday (August 29), for the purpose of deciding whether or not we shall support the plan of Gov. Long of Louisiana to raise the price of cotton by not growing any in 1932.

It is also desired to start a National Cotton Club in order that we may have an organization through which we may express our wishes collectively, and thereby secure for ourselves and families the benefits to be derived from united effort.

favorable the Long plan plus the holding half this year's crop off the market for a year and another favored a law that would allow a farmer to plant not more than one third of tillable land to cotton.

The Cunningham bill had not found much support here. It would prohibit the planting of cotton on the same land two years in succession.

Widely Discussed

Meanwhile general conversation on Big Spring streets centered on the Cunningham bill.

One had but to walk up Main street to learn from one group that the Long plan was the only salvation of the south while another would gleefully tell anyone who had expressed belief in the Long plan that he had lost all brains he ever had.

Meanwhile farmers in every part of Texas were meeting or had planned meetings to decide on their attitude toward the calling of a special session of the legislature as well as the various reduction plans put forth.

An Abilene newspaper reported that of 73 questionnaires returned to it and 215 blanks filled in at a Rotan co-op meeting—a total of 450—419 were for legislation and only 31 opposed. A total of 144 favored the Cunningham bill, 143 favored the Long plan, followed by the Cunningham measure and 113 for the Long plan and 11 other types of legislation.

Long Plan

The Long plan followed by the Cunningham bill was endorsed by a large majority of farmers in a meeting at Rotan that had been called by the Texas Cooperative association.

Chicken, Dove Season Opens September 1

Duck Season Reduced By Order of President of United States

Several local sportsmen are preparing to be on the firing line in the Seminole county Monday night for the opening of the four-day open season on prairie chickens, September 1-4.

The big push of runners will begin Tuesday, also, for doves. The dove season lasts through September and October. The bag limit is 15 per day and the birds may be shot 30 minutes before sunrise and 30 minutes after sunset and during the day. It is against the law to kill them from a road or from an automobile.

In accordance with President Hoover's proclamation of Tuesday the open season on duck geese, brant and coots in Texas has been reduced to the period from November 15 to December 15, inclusive, according to William F. Tucker, state fish, game and oyster commissioner.

Hoover's proclamation reduced the hunting season on these birds, whose ranks have been seriously depleted by the drought this year both in the United States and Alaska.

The season in North Texas on ducks had been October 15 to January 15 and in South Texas from November 1 to January 15. These are the dates printed on hunting licenses but hunters were warned by Tucker to disregard them.

Kathryn Sellers, Juvenile Judge, Stands By Boys

BY ALFRED T. NEWBURY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Children are "troublesome" or "irregular" but they are not "bad," according to Judge Kathryn Sellers, for 13 years in charge of Juvenile Court here.

"What does one mean by a 'bad' child, stealing?" she asked. "What is stealing but the irregular acquisition of property? Cut out the irregular and it's business."

"Children are natural. The spirit that makes the little boy turn in a false fire alarm is the very same that makes us run to the window to see the engines go by. Only he makes them go by. It's all the same principle fundamentally."

"Children's 'badness' is the result of habits that must be changed."

Concerning runaways she said: "Well, who hasn't wanted to walk out on things at some time in his life? I have myself and I deny it's evidence of any fundamental immorality."

"Where would Columbus have been if he hadn't felt the urge to see distant places?"

Judge Sellers became indignant when asked her opinion of Mrs. Dorothy Perry, a naval lieutenant's wife in Annapolis, Md., who had her four-year-old child, Roger Perry Jr., jailed in a police station all night two months ago "because he wouldn't mind."

"It only shows what some children have to put up with at home," she remarked. "Fifty percent of the cases brought before me can be traced to home influences."

"I often tell men that there is only one person to whom a father can be a hero, his boy," she continued. "I warn them that the child has a natural right to look up to his daddy and one which to deprive him of is a crime. Children are keen. They sense something wrong in the home and that is the explanation of many of our runaway cases."

Agent Explains Construction Of Trench Type Silo

J. V. Bush Thursday was preparing trench silos. Requests for technical information for the construction of a trench silo have already been made, Bush said.

"Trench silos are going to prove the most economical means of storing feed stuff for men who want to save forage and feed out cattle," he declared. He added that the affair was easy to construct and very adaptable to this section of the state.

With the aid of a Fresno, plow and shovel, a trench silo can be made. Amount of grain wasted by storing the feed in the excavation is negligible, Bush thought. Grinding is not necessary under any circumstances, thereby making it the most desirable form of storage yet introduced here, he said. Grain and stalk alike can be stacked lengthwise in the trench cut away as it is needed with an ax. Further details of the plan are available from Bush.

300 FARM FAMILIES ASK FOR MORATORIUM

FORT MORGAN, Colo. (INS)—A year's moratorium on taxes is being requested by 300 farm families in the Rlaymer and Stoneham districts near here. A recent hail and windstorm practically wiped out crops in the area in which these families lived.

At a meeting of 150 farmers in Snyder recently a committee was formed to request the county commissioners and Governor Adams of Colorado to aid them. Federal aid may also be requested.

Three years of misfortune have struck the affected area. In 1929 early frosts caused heavy crop damage. In 1930 the crop was fair but growers spent all their earnings paying debts of the previous year. The hailstorms this summer caused farmers to give up hope of realizing anything on this year's crops. Last year farmers living near Snyder and Stoneham contributed a carload of food to drought-stricken farmers in Arkansas. Now the situation is reversed.

Learn what a difference six cylinders make

- in smoothness
- quietness
- flexibility
- handling ease
- riding comfort
- dependability
- economy
- long life

Step out of any other low-priced car, step into a Chevrolet, and you'll learn what a difference six cylinders make.

"Idle" the engine—and the whole car remains steady. Open the throttle—the power flows evenly. Accelerate—throttle down—go fifteen or fifty—and this smoothness stays with you whatever you do. For six-cylinder smoothness is built into the motor—and objectionable vibration never even starts!

Yet smoothness is only part of your six-cylinder experience. There's greater quietness, because noisy vibration is gone. There's greater comfort, because built-in smoothness doesn't tire the driver or passengers. There's greater flexibility, because the power-impulses of a six overlap. And response is more positive, performance more elastic. A six is much easier to handle!

And particularly, if you raise the hood of a Chevrolet and watch the engine running smoothly and steadily, you'll realize that six cylinders also mean greater dependability.

You owe it to yourself—to see and drive a Chevrolet today. And remember when you do—that no other car is so economical to operate as the powerful Chevrolet Six!

Mr. Hoover's Chickens

LATE has a funny way of raising up to smile a man in the face
after she has favored him with her smiles for years.

We have in mind something that has just happened to Herbert Hoover,
president of the United States.
While secretary of commerce Mr.
Hoover conducted, for years, a campaign for elimination of inefficiency in the government. He was highly successful in his efforts and his name is now a synonym for efficiency.

Recently Washington let it be known that one phase of the unemployment situation that is causing the president more concern
than any other is the type known as permanent.

Then came this significant paragraph:
"The business depression has demonstrated to industry that many employees and types of activities, heretofore considered absolutely necessary can be eliminated
without impairment of efficiency.
In some cases, the reduction of overhead and labor expense has increased efficiency."

Well, Mr. Hoover's chickens have come home to roost. He devoted some years of his official life to the task of educating industry in the art of cutting down overhead and saving labor expense by combining tasks or eliminating non-essential activities. He did his work to such good purpose that this very factor is now causing him
more worry in connection with unemployment than any other feature.

Men who set out to remake the world should be sure not to leave too many loose timbers lying around to trip them up.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

It Can Be Done!

New Orleans Item—
SEVERAL thousand people assembled at the Roosevelt hotel on Friday and in general convention adopted unanimously what is known as the "Long Plan" for the prohibition of cotton growing in the Southern States of America in the year 1932.

There was no lack of representation of all schools of thought on the subject of the world's cotton situation in the resolutions committee which debated and matured
the resolutions of the convention.

There can be no doubt that 25 percent of the leading Southern cotton producing states prohibit cotton-growing for 1932 through legislative enactment that the price of cotton now held by the farmer
will go to 15 cents a pound and possibly more.

There is no question today that ten million Southern cotton farmers confront the prospect of getting around five cents a pound for their cotton on the farm.

The difference between five cents a pound and 15 cents a pound to the Southern cotton farmer means a great deal more money in hand
this year and next year than would result if he sold cotton at five cents this year and planted cotton next year. The reason for this is that there is a great surplus of cotton in the hands of the farmers today. There is enough surplus to provide America with cotton if no cotton is grown next year. Consequently with this year's crop sold at five cents a pound the prospect is for destructive prices this year and next if cotton is grown next year.

The Sunday Item-Tribune heartily adds its endorsement to the so-called Long Cotton Plan.

Moreover we believe that the Legislature of Louisiana will pass a law to carry that plan out and put it in effect and additionally we believe that there is considerable probability that the action of Louisiana will be followed by the action of other Southern cotton producing states.

We are confident that it should be.

It may be a matter of some local interest to repeat here how the Item and Tribune came to endorse the Long plan. The first that we had seen of this plan was an announcement made by Governor Long through the press on Monday last. It was put forth as the Governor's proposition. It impressed the Item and Tribune as being the first sound proposition put forward by anyone in responsible political position for the solution of the present cotton situation. As everyone knows who has followed the policies of these papers, they have disagreed with the Governor politically and on a good many non-political matters which he has advocated but his proposition impressed us as something which would have vital bearing on the handling of the whole cotton situation in the South and on the economic welfare of the South. Consequently, we gave it our hearty and enthusiastic endorsement. Later we learned from the Governor's speech on Friday at the cotton conference that he gave credit to Congressman Sandlin of the Shreveport district for his having brought the proposition to the Governor.

Mr. Sandlin in turn in his speech said that his proposition had been brought to him by the cotton farmers of his district and that he had become converted and in turn had come to see the Governor to ask the Governor to sponsor the idea and to put behind it the weight of his official position and active support.

It was a matter of interest to note at the cotton conference on Friday that Louisiana was represented in that conference regardless of past factional divisions. We mention this matter at this time because a state governorship campaign is already underway and Louisiana will necessarily align itself politically between various factions. Governor Long's proposition would necessarily be one which can succeed in enactment only if supported along political lines although political agencies must be used to make it effective.

WE note with regret some opposition expressed to it by those who are actively opposed in a factional and political way to the Governor. Doubtless a number of people who have supported him politically in the past may be dubious about this plan. We believe a consideration of the plan on its merits and we speak in turn from all who believe in the plan that they support it regardless of local political divisions. We particularly commend a serious consideration of this project from the daily newspapers of the South. For at least 30 years past the newspapers of the South have been carrying news of various efforts made to solve the cotton situation. It is the proper function and the duty of a newspaper to carry new ideas to the people and to interpret those ideas for the benefit of their readers. There is no doubt in our mind that the newspapers of the South can be of invaluable assistance in aiding to educate the people of the South and the legislators of various Southern states of the merits of the so-called Long plan.

The scheme is bold, yet what the New Orleans convention proposed unanimously to do is something that has been advocated by numberless writers on cotton and by numberless farmers and farm interests for a generation. All of us know that the South has virtually a monopoly of the raising of good cotton in the world. All of us know that in spite of this monopoly millions of people depending on cotton raising have lived in almost economic slavery during the greatest part of the last 90 years. There is no student of this subject who will deny that the way to get rid of a year's surplus cotton production is not to produce cotton for a year. A great conference of earnest people has passed on the question of the impracticability of taking half year measure in this situation. There is little to be gained by the cotton surplus timidly or with the idea of getting out part of the cotton surplus.

ALL of us who have had experience know that powerful financial interests will oppose, not directly but by indirection, the idea of cutting out a year's crop in the South on our present cotton holdings to three times their present price. The reason for this is that farmers and buyers of the world will rather buy in a market
where they get their own price than to buy from those that buy from producers who are getting rid of the surplus and who have something to say about the price of cotton. The interests of New Orleans and of the South are with the cotton crop and the cotton farmer.
We are proud to see New Orleans and Louisiana identified with a plan now endorsed by representatives of many states to aid the Southern cotton farmer.

And to the man who says that it can't be done, we answer that the argument is ridiculous. The Southern States are not without resources to put up a fight for the protection of their own people and of their own interests. They can win this fight if they dismiss faint hearted counsel and follow leadership of the Long resolutions. There were plenty of people in Louisiana who said that the flood control fight couldn't be won. The answer to this is that it was won, by disinterestedness, courage and sticking to it. Cotton price control is

MOON OF DELIGHT
by Margaret Bell Houston

SYNOPSIS: Juanita, a Basora, veiled cigarette girl, follows Jason Davitt's orders and returns to Mrs. Belaine's necklace he had stolen from her in his gambling parlor. Introduced as Senorita Flores at the Belaine house, she refuses the proffered reward, but
Mrs. Belaine's grandson, Kirk Stanard, later persuades her to take his mother's ring. On the same evening that Juanita is angered by unwelcome kisses
from Eric Ledbetter in the courtyard of the parlor, Davitt introduces her to Marquessa Cabron, her chaparrone. Davitt knows that this woman, his companion before he married Nelly, can, while trailing the unsuspecting Juanita into homes of wealth, uncover prospects for robberies. At the Comus ball, Kirk, their escort, invites them to Mrs. Belaine's summer home at Ploox.

Chapter 16
A PERSISTENT DEVIL

THE black Mephisto who came forward when Juanita's name was called was a tricky dancer and she found it not easy at first to follow him. When they fell into step his voice came gratefully.
"I thought for a moment Senorita
that we were not made for each other. Made to dance together, I mean. . . Do you speak French, Senorita?"
Juanita said no, though she could read it. English imperfectly, and Spanish, of course. That was all.

"Your eyes speak any language."
"If I had known that," she told him, "I shouldn't have studied English so hard."
"I would have told you, had I
been there."
"And I might have believed you Then how would I explain my giances that I prefer chocolate to coffee, for instance, and that I like it at nine o'clock?"
"You should not have to give such orders. They should all be administered by those who have intuitions."
"Intuitions are rare, Senor. As it is, I have to drink a good deal of coffee."
Mephisto was silent, tightening
his arm about her as the symbolized. They returned to the seats, finding the marquessa taking leave
of a pirate.
"I sit next to you at supper," Mephisto breathed, kissing Juanita's hand. "You shall have chocolate." Mephisto and the pirate were the marquessa spoke to Juanita in Spanish. "Is not the devil heavenly?"
"Everything is beautiful, and I am proud of you, Yael. But you must not say that you have never been to dance like this, for we have them at the carnavals in Spain."
Juanita danced with the pirate,
with an Indian in a red, and a sultan. Then Kirk came for his second dance.
"It's gorgeous," Juanita told him.
"Too bad we've got to take those nice faces off," Kirk said. "That pirate, for instance, with the fierce black whiskers, is a mild blond, really, with a simple in his chin."
"That's a lie," said Juanita. "Suppose I'd fallen in love with his whiskers?"
"Then there'd be a pirate missing, dimple and all. . . I'm not feeling particularly merciful toward my fellow Comuses right now. If you knew how they've pushed and tried to beat me out of the ones
I've got myself. . . Yes, Blixot, I know now why Blixot was created. I'm going to take you to Blixot out of their reach. Don't tell me you'd rather stay here and

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By HERBERT PLUMMER
WASHINGTON—Random notes
in a Washington Day Book:

Horsee Albright, director of national parks, steadfastly refused to be commensured as "air-minded."
Unlike other high government officials such as Pat Hurley, secretary of war, Secretary of the Navy Adams and others, he declines the use of a plane when he goes inspecting.

"I'd like to fly," he has said often, "but I cannot take the risk because of my family. This is particularly true of Alaska where a forced landing would mean either death or weeks lost in the wilderness."
Now they're chuckling at the interior department.

For the other day Albright suffered an attack of appendicitis while at McKinley national park in Alaska. A plane rushed him to Fairbanks and a hospital. He could not take the risk of staying on the ground.

By the time he recovered he had missed the heat boat home. His friends suggested to him:
"Why not fly to Seattle?"

AMONG THE 'EXES'

The capital numbers among its residents hundreds of men and women, once holders of positions in the government service ranging from the highest to the lowest.
There are retired admirals, generals, secretaries to Presidents, ex-members of congress and just plain government clerks one encounters every day.

Some of them pursue jobs different from the ones at which they spent the greater parts of their lives. Others actually cease all activity.
There's Joe Tumulty, for example—secretary to President Wilson and acclaimed by some as the shrewdest man in recent times to hold such a post. Tumulty now practices law in Washington and is as active as ever.

And there's that doughy old sea dog, Admiral Cootze, once high in command of Uncle Sam's fighting ships.
Since his retirement he has turned to writing and has already turned out a "best seller" in which he describes his experiences "From Mississippi to the Sea."

YARNS AND LASTS

All of which leads up to saying that old Michael Coffey, in the playground gangs of the capital a yarn spinner and repair man without peer, has retired.

"Old Mike" has been a familiar figure in Washington for the past 15 years. He was a cobbler in the marine corps officially, but to the thousands of Washington children the man who could make baseballs, basketballs, ropes and other gear last longer than any other.

At 76 he is too old for the marines.
Always the center of an enthusiastic group of youngsters, "Old Mike" entertained them by tying intricate knots and spinning equally as involved, but wholly as thrilling, yarns.

FOREIGN BODIES

The wrong things are sometimes liable to go the wrong way and thus get into the air and food passages.
In a study made by Dr. Chevalier Jackson of 1800 cases of foreign bodies lodged in the food and air passages, it was found that carelessness was the chief responsible factor, carelessness in cooking, eating, playing, nursing and in putting inedible substances in the mouth.

Dr. Thomas McCree cites a number of cases to illustrate how carelessness may be responsible for such accidents.
A mother, for example, was holding her child three months of age in her lap when a small open safety pin insecurely fastened in the mother's dress fell into the infant's mouth and passed into the larynx.
The pin was removed 36 hours later, the child being none the worse.
Another case cited is that of a man who standing on a ladder and holding a staple an inch long in his mouth was asked a question. In answering it the staple disappeared.
If one put into one's mouth nothing but food, foreign body accidents would be rare.
The habit of holding pins, tacks

The finest tobacco quality plus throat protection.

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for trees, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

Swimmin' Hole O.K. For Brother Of "Cinderella"

FOXBORO, Mass. (INS)—Three square meals a day, a couple of pals, and the of swimmin' hole are enough to satisfy the simple wants of 16-year-old Eddie Scanlon, brother of the modern "Cinderella," 18-year-old Editha Pierce, who inherited a fortune upon the death of her adopted mother.

And while his sister, who he has not seen in 13 years, sits in her Lynnfield castle, Eddie goes about in a pair of shorts, battered rubber shoes and suns himself on the banks of a quiet pond here.

It was thirteen years ago that Mrs. Adelaide Pierce, wife of the radiator millionaire, John Bartlett Pierce, went into an orphanage asylum, and adopted the daughter of a Boston waiter. Recently, Mrs. Pierce was drowned while boating in Sautaug Lake. Her will left her entire estate to her adopted daughter.

Editha, following the adoption, had changed her name to Pierce, but Eddie, and an older sister, Violet, kept their family name of Scanlon, even after they went to live with Mrs. Agnes Smith in Marshfield. She is the mother of Mrs. Ethel Marsh, housekeeper at "The Acres" Pierce estate at West Peabody and Lynnfield.

Only a few miles separated the three children but Editha never saw Eddie or Violet during all those years.

Mrs. Allgood's Weekly Letter

Urges Howard County Girls To Prepare For Fair Which Will Be Held In October

Dear Club Girls: Did you read the prize list in last week's letter? I hope so, and that each one of you will make every effort to take home some of the awards. There is a prize offered on each article of required work done this year, and you should have an entry in every class for the year's work you are doing.

Come to me for any help you need about your canning. Some good stories are coming to me, of what a number of you are doing. Two weeks ago Thelma Holcombe, of the Elbow club, had canned three hundred cans of vegetables. She is doing the first club work she has ever done, and using a canner for the first time.

Ruth Lynn, of the Lomax club, who is also doing first year work, has canned 400 cans of peas and corn, besides putting up 5 bushels of peaches and pears. Both of these girls have the cooperation and help of their families, but the girls started making plans for this work early in the spring and are responsible for the work being done.

Ruth Rigby of Center Point club has been canning with a pressure cooker and tin cans, but she has not sent me a record. Send in your reports when you have the chance.

All active club girls are putting up at least 20 containers of their own, but this year more attention has been paid to gardens, and a high percentage have put up one hundred or more.

Remember, girls, your vegetables and fruits, with the exception of the 2 No. 2 cans tomatoes in second year list, must be canned in square glass jars with glass tops. Girls competing for the trips to the Dallas fair will show their exhibits at the county fair.

The Howard county fair will be October 1, 2 and 3. Gladys Walton, Eadie and Merle Robinson attended the girls' encampment in 1929 and last year Neva Hale and Mildred Patterson won the trips. Ask these girls if the trip is worth looking for.

Farmers and farm women who want to start bringing in products to the clubhouse market, or to continue doing so, are requested by the market committee to bring in samples of every product they want to sell, prepared ready for the market Tuesday morning, September 1st. Deliver them to Mrs. W. D. McDonald, at 210 Johnson. Articles will not be accepted at the market after that date unless they have been standardized by this committee. Sincerely yours, 'OUILLE ALLGOOD.

New Code of Business Ethics Has List of Ten Golden Rules

SAN FRANCISCO (INS)—A new buying and selling code has been submitted to the business interests by the California State Chamber of Commerce.

The ten points of the code are as follows: 1. To buy and sell on the basis of value, recognizing that value represents that combination of quality, service and price which assures greatest ultimate economy to the user.

2. To respect our obligations and neither expressly nor implicitly to promise a performance which we cannot reasonably expect to fulfill.

3. To avoid misrepresentation and sharp practice in our purchases and sales, recognizing that permanent business relations cannot be maintained only on a structure of honesty and fair dealing.

4. To be courteous and considerate to those with whom we deal, to be prompt and business-like in our appointments, and to carry on negotiations with all reasonable expedition so as to avoid trespassing on the rights of others or the time of buyers and salesmen.

5. To avoid statements tending to injure or discredit a legitimate competitor, and to divulge no information acquired in confidence with the intent of giving or receiving an unfair advantage in a competitive business transaction.

6. To strive for simplification and standardization within the bounds of utility and industrial economy, and to further the development of products and methods which will improve industrial efficiency.

7. To recognize that character is the greatest asset in business; to give it major consideration in the selection of customers and source of supply.

8. To adjust claims and settle disputes on the basis of facts and fairness, to submit the facts to arbitration if a mutual agreement cannot be reached, to abide by the decision of the arbiters and to resort to legal measures in commercial disputes only when the preceding courses prove ineffective.

9. To provide or accept no gifts or entertainment in the guise of sales expense, where the intent or effect is to unduly prejudice the recipient in favor of the donor as against legitimate competitors.

10. To give or receive no bribes.

Washington, Farseeing In Most Things, Forgot Seal For U. S.

WASHINGTON (INS)—The name of George Washington is associated with almost everything connected with this nation at the time of its first years of independence, except perhaps one.

In connection with the bi-centennial celebration next year in honor of his birthday the commission in charge of this undertaking made known today that the first President had nothing to do with the first seal of the United States.

It is known he had designed the first flag for his army at the siege of Boston, and had a part in planning the Star Spangled Banner. During the siege of Boston he instituted the first attempt at a United States Navy. West Point owes its being to him. He seemed to have thought of everything that goes with the birth of a nation, but he overlooked the seal.

The bureau of information of the commission points out that this accounts for the curiously twisted and backward history of that indispensable adjunct of national sovereignty.

It is an historic fact, perhaps lost to sight, that hardly was the signing of the Declaration of Independence out of the way, that the Continental Congress, on July 4, 1776, appointed a committee to design an arms and seal for the United States. In spite of the fact that this committee consisted of Benjamin Franklin, John Adams, and Thomas Jefferson, all men of rare judgment and taste, the design they submitted to Congress was discarded and the matter of a seal for the United States was dropped for four years.

In 1779, Congress appointed another committee to reconsider the discarded design only to discard it again. Finally, in 1782, a third committee was appointed to settle the matter of a "great seal," and William Barton, A. M., of Philadelphia and Lancaster, an expert in heraldry, was employed to draw up a new design.

Charles Thomson, secretary of Congress, suggested a few improvements, and from these, Barton designed the "Arms of the United States," adopted on July 20, 1782.

Such is the story of the "great seal of the United States," so-called because a "lesser" seal was also authorized but never executed.

On the adoption of the constitution the great seal was placed in the custody of the secretary of state, and ever since has been under his guardianship. On application, Americans on sight-seeing visits to the national capital may see this symbol of the mighty authority of their government, among the exhibits in the department of state.

Three times in our history it has been necessary to replace the great seal, as the result of wear. The first replacement occurred in 1841 when Daniel Webster was secretary of state. On this occasion the engraver was guilty of a curious blunder. In place of the thirteen arrows that belong in one of the eagle's talons, he engraved only six.

In 1884, when again it was necessary to engrave a new seal, this error was corrected and the seal became a slight enlargement and sharpening of the original design of the Continental Congress. In 1909, the seal was again renewed. In close adherence to the original Barton design, the authorities having decided that any change would break the historic continuity of this emblem of our sovereignty.

Rifle Used By Texas Warrior Finally Found

LAREDO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Jim Bowie's old rifle, which the patriot used during the Texas war for independence in 1836, and which has been sought by a grandson, has been located in the possession of Alfredo Garcia Pelligrin in Laredo, the gun having been handed down to the Garcia and Pelligrin families through several generations.

Recently a grandson of James Bowie started a search for the old rifle, which had been lent by the Garcia family to the Alamo museum up to 1926. The old rifle was taken by a Mexican soldier after Bowie was killed. It has been in possession of the Garcia family for many years and they refuse to part with it, considering it a priceless relic of early Texas history.

Extortionist Being Sought

GRANDVIEW, Aug. 27. (AP)—A writer of extorting letters, believed to have been wounded by one of his intended victims, was sought in hospitals today. It was also believed his body might be found in a trap by creek bottom.

As the man fled yesterday from a tree where he directed Alton Talbert, local farmer, to deposit $500, he was fired upon by Talbert and his negro farm hand, Pat Frazier.

A bloody trail led from the big tree along a road to the creek bottom. The extortor was fired upon as he was examining a can stuffed with paper, that Talbert had placed by the tree as a trap.

Officers believe that the extortor is the same one who once June fired three buildings belonging to H. W. Martin, another local farmer, from whom he attempted to extort some $10,000 from $200 to $2,500 at intervals since April.

Open Beaver Season Sought In Big Bend

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 27. (AP)—Residents of the Big Bend country are trying to get a 30-day open season on beaver this winter. There are so many of the flat tailed animals now that there will not be enough for them to eat, it is claimed. They are seen often in large numbers on both sides of the Rio Grande, famous strapping grounds for the mountain men in the early days of the Southwest.

Beaver slides are numerous around Presidio, Candalaria, Rosquilla and Rudova.

Negro 'Bad Man' Shot By Officers

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 27. (AP)—Lamirum (Adligator) Lewis, negro, was removed today from the roll of "bold bad men" of the Southwest.

Lewis was shot to death in a fusillade of police bullets as he cowered in the basement of a negro church here yesterday. He had effected a temporary escape from officers Saturday night in a gun battle which seriously wounded Detective Fred Grant. Grant and three other officers were attempting to arrest the negro.

He was wanted in the slaying and robbery of a negro bank messenger here. Negotiable securities totaling $9,000 were stolen.

ENNIS CHILD KILLED

ENNIS, Aug. 27. (AP)—Betty Joe Wilkerson, 6, who was killed yesterday when she was run over by a truck driven by a negro, will be buried here tomorrow. She is survived by her parents and a sister, Nancy Jane, 8.

Traces of 'Lost City' Seen On Padre Island

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, Aug. 27. (AP)—The mystery of a "lost city" on Padre Island which has created much speculation in this section during the past few weeks has apparently been solved.

The mystery came about recently when Charles Hardin of Brownsville found some old United States army awards, which so far have not been identified as to time, some army uniform buttons, pieces of plate, coins from foreign countries, and other objects at a point on Padre Island where there had evidently been a considerable settlement.

Theories advanced were that it was an outpost of the Union army during the Civil War, an outpost of Zachary Taylor's army during the war with Mexico, the old Siger ranch estate, or the lost city of Santa Cruz.

The settlement has apparently been definitely placed by Rafael Cowan of Brownsville as Los Tres Corrales ranch, established soon after the Civil War by the King and Kennedy ranch interests as headquarters for their activities on Padre Island.

It had about 50 inhabitants, Cowan said, and was washed out by a tide in 1866. Descendants of the two founders of the camp, Juan Torres and Jose Saldana, live in Brownsville now and substantiated the statement, Cowan said.

Add Warren, whose boxing exploits have carried him up and down the ladder the past two years, will desert the ring temporarily to become boxing coach at the University of North Carolina.

Unlabeled. Foreign bodies which are lodged in the windpipe, bronchus or esophagus will usually prove fatal.

German Chancellor Presents His Opinions On Path Nations Must Take To Regain Financial Stability

EDITOR'S NOTE—A portrayal of Germany today and his views on how the world might solve its economic crisis was given by Chancellor Heinrich Brüning in an interview with Frederick Kuh, chief of the United Press Berlin bureau. Chancellor Brüning received Kuh in his Berlin home or apartment, and for an hour talked with him freely of the path the nations are likely to pursue in seeking a solution of the great international economic and political problems now besetting them.

BY FREDERICK KUH
United Press Staff Correspondent
Copyright 1931 By United Press
BERLIN, Aug. 27. (UP)—Chancellor Heinrich Brüning voiced a spirited appeal today for international co-operation to check the downward trend of prices as the "only solution" to the world's economic ills.

The chancellor, scholarly, earnest, unflinching, looked with confidence on the future. He said the coming winter would be trying, but was optimistic.

"I am optimistic," Dr. Brüning said, "because the German people have self-control when aware of the importance of cool-headedness. This, I think, is reassuring for the impending deal this winter."

Not Ended
He admitted that the world economic crisis was not ended, and that it might even assume greater severity, but refused to permit this to disturb his optimism.

"I believe the only solution," the chancellor said, "is the closest possible international co-operation aimed at checking the downward trend of prices."

His firm mouth, unsmiling, closed over teeth clenching the inevitable cigar. He smokes 20 a day. The "iron chancellor" passed a moment, then said:

Customs Union
Asked whether Germany and Austria would go ahead with their customs "Anschluss" or union project which has aroused the relentless antagonism of France, Brüning replied:

"If the verdict of the Hague court now considering the legality of our plan is favorable, the world will realize that Germany has moved the world's tariff problem nearer a solution. Having stated declared Germany's readiness to negotiate with other powers for similar customs unions we would then expect other governments to propose a constructive solution."

arena of international debate. He indicated a conciliatory German naval policy.

"Germany, at a slow pace strictly within the provisions of the treaty, is gradually replacing obsolete warships, 25 and 30 years old," he said. "Our financial situation permits replacing them more rapidly."

Battleships
I recall that Wilhelm Groener, defense minister, in the Reichstag proposed laying the keels of six new "pocket battleships" by 1928 and two others by 1930. Chancellor Brüning, in a significant response, said:

"The Reichstag surely desired to create the eternal hanging over these ships but the government of the Reich I may say does not feel they should any date for the construction of new naval units."

The chancellor touched briefly on the vital subject of Germany's reparations payments.

"The future of reparations," he said, "depends on the United States. We would be impractical if we formed our opinion only coming winter would be trying, but was optimistic."

However, we expect decisive developments before Congress convenes in Washington in December. In response to a query, Dr. Brüning praised the report of the international bankers committee headed by Albert H. Wiggin, of New York, which met recently at Paris and recommended reduction of reparations payments.

The Wiggin report was good, he said. "It was clear, but it had been circumscribed on some important problems."

The chancellor said Germany planned a federal system of bank supervision similar to the system in the United States. He denied, however, that this meant "even a partial turn to state capitalism."

Refining Company Files Bankruptcy Petition
