WASHINGTON By George Durso

Regulation—When Gerard Swope tossed his plan for self-government of industry into the hopper (and some think recent developments rushed his hand) he stirred up the animals.

And officials of the last-named organization are still debating off-stage whether the Swope formula actually would give the U. S. Chamber its much-needed blood transfusion.

Speakers for the many leagues and associations that flourish in Washington to see that we have good government and clean business also have been studying plan.

Most of them haven't said anything for publication yet but in private some are viewing the proposal cynically.

To them it's a backward step to the old order when industry regulated itself you know how—at the expense of the public, with dividends first and wages second.

At the White House, the spoke where code management and compliance finally be decided, it is insisted that the first President Roosevelt knew of the Swope plan was after its release to the newspapers.

Labor—Labor's passionate attachment to the present Blue Eagle step-up is equally understood. NIRA gives the union movement a great sounding brass.

Frankling General Johnson are the National Labor Advisory Board and the National Industrial Advisory Board. They do nothing but give advice and it's not always taken.

The Industrial Advisory Board has kept very quiet and done what borrowing it could from within. Not so the Labor Advisory Board.

Members of the labor set-up for the most part also are high officials of various unions. They are dependent on their memberships for reelection.

Hence whenever an issue came up before NIRA the labor men consciously or unconsciously stepped out of their roles as Advisory Board members and spoke to the public as union presidents.

You have heard a lot from them recently but NIRA publicity headquarters has yet to put out a single statement in behalf of either of the advisory boards.

Rotation—The impression has spread all over the country that organized labor is in the saddle at NRA and dictating to industry.

Much of the disaffection of smaller manufacturers and business men is traceable to this.

The decision to rotate the membership of the Industrial Advisory Board in part may have been inspired by this situation. By so doing the powers hope to get an ever-changing cross-section of industry down to the seat of operations to watch the wheels go round.

Farmers—The mid-West governors who conferred with President Roosevelt and administration officials here last week over the agricultural situation reported privately to their friends that a terrific war of activity of the farm uprising had yet to be conveyed to the public.

Newspaper reports, they insisted, have merely scratched the surface.

The farmers are fighting mad in many sections the Blue Eagle is anathema. A strong anti-administration sentiment is spreading fast.

The governors were a little at a loss to analyze their reception at the White House.

When they arrived they were marshalled into the President's office where Mr. Roosevelt, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Farm Administrator Peek and Credit Governor Morgenthau were waiting.

The governors' experts and economists were all armed with statistics and ready to argue the farm case—and were left outside.

After a long session with the President the State Executives were escorted to the cabinet room for further conference with Wallace, Peek and Morgenthau.

On a wing they were hustled off in waiting cars and the White House issued the only statement.

City Chorus To Rehearse This Evening

Mrs. Frazier Invites All Interested To Help Build Organization

First rehearsal call for members of the Community Chorus was issued for Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the Settles hotel by Mrs. Bruce Frazier, conductor.

"All persons interested in studying and singing good mass choruses are urged to attend the rehearsal," said Mrs. Frazier. "The success of such an organization depends upon the earnestness of its membership. Such a chorus will be of untold advantage to our community."

Already a call has come for the chorus to present music for Armistice Day. On many future occasions with such an organization be in demand for community programs said Mrs. Frazier.

The desire of the leaders is to build a chorus of 75 to 100 members, which will rehearse regularly and prepare a public program of excellent music for the pleasure of the public every ten weeks. Some of the programs will be sacred, others secular.

"If you like to sing, if you like to help build for culture and better things, if you like good music be present this evening at the first rehearsal," Mrs. Frazier urged.

More Land On No. 9 Highway Is Obtained

Less Than Dozen Have Not Reached Agreement With County

Howard county commissioners court is making steady progress toward opening rerouted highway No. 9 north.

In all there are less than a dozen property owners who have not yet reached an agreement with the county for right-of-way on the road.

The tracts not yet obtained are scattered at regular distances between here and the northern county line, preventing immediate opening of the roadway for any uninterrupted length.

Occasional frontage is being obtained on No. 1 east. Condemnation proceedings are underway on No. 1 west. Three suits have already been tried.

Mrs. K. S. Beckett Is First To Join Red Cross In 1933 Membership Drive

Mrs. K. S. Beckett, one of Mrs. J. C. Douglas' lieutenants in the annual Roll Call drive for membership into the American Red Cross, was the first person in Big Spring to join in the 1933 Annual membership drive, conducted each year throughout the United States, from Armistice Day, November 11, through Thanksgiving Day, November 29.

Mrs. Beckett joined early, and in so doing expressed her faith in the worthy aim of this organization. The Howard County Chapter of the American Red Cross is proud to give Mrs. Beckett this distinction and to have her name head the list in the 1933 membership drive.

With 100 workers ready and waiting to help launch this big campaign in Big Spring and Howard county on Tuesday, November 14, under the leadership of Jesse F. Hall, Roll Call chairman, assisted by Miss J. C. Douglas, chairman of the Residential section of Big Spring, and Edmund Noestine, chairman of the business district of town every indication points to a successful drive. A big rally will be held on the main floor of the Settles Hotel, Monday evening, November 13 at 7:30 p. m., at which time all workers are urged to be present. No banquet will be held for a send-off this year, but workers will go forth on the morning of the fourteenth with the aim of getting every adult in Howard county to become a member.

Everyone knows what the Red Cross dollar does. Just recall what it has done for the needy and it is still doing for them.

The American Red Cross in the past year has supplied ten and one-half million barrels of flour and 104 million garments to "needy and distressed people." The flour was obtained from 85 million bushels of government wheat, the garments from 844,000 bales of government cotton.

The flour has helped feed nearly six million families—more than 25 million men, women and children, suffers from the economic catastrophe.

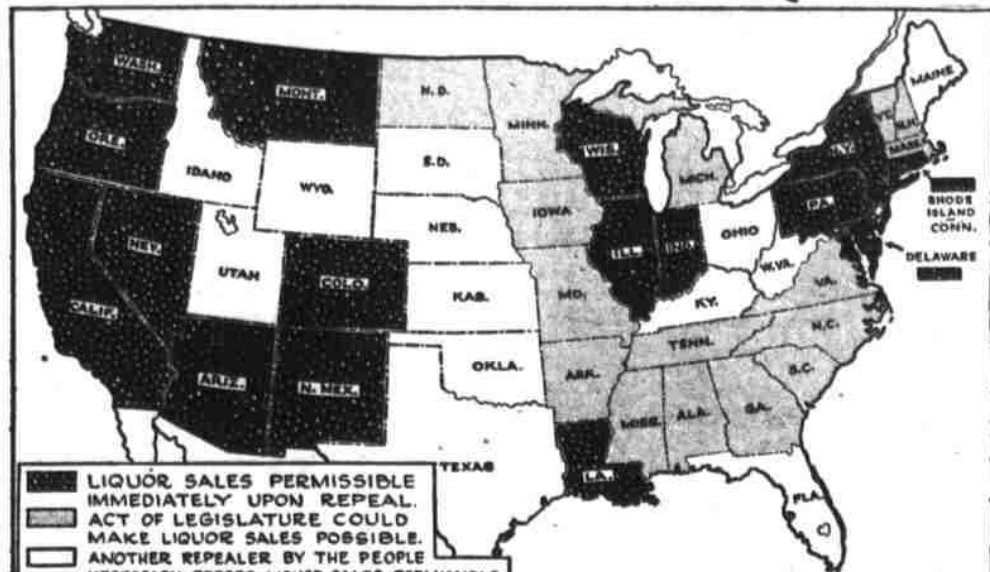

The cotton, made into layettes, rompers, underclothing, trouser-knickers, shirts, dresses and other garments, has helped clothe more than five million families—more than 20 million individuals.

Thousands of volunteers made 87 million yards of cotton cloth into 38 million garments; 66 million ready-made garments and sweaters were provided; nearly two million blankets and comforters were purchased.

Flour and garments have been distributed in all but six of the 3,072 counties in the United States by Red Cross chapters and branches and through other agencies, public and private. Thousands of employees in mills and factories were kept at work by the Red Cross program.

The Red Cross has expended $685,000 of its funds in this major relief task. The contributed services of volunteers were worth many thousands of dollars. The value of the flour and clothing is conservatively estimated at more than $60,000,000. Your Red Cross membership helped perform this real, direct, practical and humanitarian relief service.

HOW THE COUNTRY STANDS ON LIQUOR

Here is how the country now stands on the liquor question. The sale of spirits would be permissible immediately upon repeal in 19 states. Liquor sales may become possible by act of the legislature repealing or modifying existing statutes in 16 others. In the remaining 13 states another repealer by the people will be necessary before liquor sales are permissible. Of the 13 Ohio votes on the issue Nov. 7.

British Pay Part Of Debt As Parley On Topic Is Ended

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Roosevelt announced the end of British war debt negotiations without agreement but with payment of $7,500,000 of the December 15 installment.

The token payment will be paid in American currency in lieu of $117,000,000 due in mid-December.

The president said in view of the part payment, he does not regard the British in default. He said negotiations were concluded "without prejudice" and until certain factors in the world situation—commercial and monetary—become more clarified.

The payment means the British government continues to acknowledge the debt. The French government announced its debt default policy was unaltered by the British decision.

Teachers Of Area To Hear State Chief

L. A. Woods Scheduled For Address In Colorado Nov. 20

A joint meeting of all rural and city teachers, principals, superintendents, and school board members of Howard, Mitchell and possibly Nolan counties has been scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Nov. 20 in Colorado.

L. A. Woods, state superintendent, will be the principal speaker and will address the gathering on "Reorganization of the Curriculum." In substance his address will be the same as one delivered before the Oil Belt Educational Association recently in Abilene.

Since only principals and superintendents were present at the meeting, it was thought that another meeting be held to allow teachers to hear the important discussion.

Accompanying Woods will be either J. W. O'Bannon, chief supervisor or A. A. Bullock of the rural school division.

Woods has asked that all teachers attend the meeting.

Facts About Your Chamber Of Commerce

CHALLENGES AND REWARDS—Those who are deeply concerned with the welfare of this city—its commercial, industrial and civic future—will want to pool their efforts with others to make still more effective the work of the chamber of commerce.

Membership in such an organization is something a little more than support to a local business and civic agency. It is, in effect participation in a nation-wide movement for economic and social betterment. Again, such membership has two angles—the property selfish and the broadly social. During the past two years the chamber of commerce movement throughout the country and locally has justified the support given it from both standpoints.

Through these organizations men have labored with great effectiveness toward the aversion of commercial and financial disasters, and the preservation of our business structure; toward combatting a psychology of defeat; toward the maintenance of industrial operation; toward the selling of goods, the providing of employment, and the relief of need. Men have met such challenges through organization, and they have been rewarded by greater stability to the business structure and by the satisfaction of having done a good job against heavy odds.

There will be like challenges and rewards in the months and years just ahead. New policies will be in the making. New devices and changed programs will meet the demands of a changing economic scene. The chamber of commerce will be needed to stand in the vanguard. Men will still be challenged to serve their own interests and those of their communities and of society, by bringing their powers to bear upon the pressing issues of the day through the medium of collective effort. Such service is worthy the consideration of enlightened people.

Temple On Rampage

Temple, which with Amarillo shares the distinction of being rated an odds-on favorite to reach the state finals, continued to show the folks it had plenty in the way of pigskin ammunition last week by swamping Hillsboro, 45 to 0. This week the Wildcats are expected to hurdle another barrier in their district conquest when they invade Corsicana. The latter eleven, which recently surprised with a victory over Waco, may give the Temple lads a bitter fight, but it isn't in the books for Johnny Pierce's lads to halt the Wildcat offense.

District Jumble

Tyler, Athens and Longview continued to set the pace in District 10. It still looks as if the championship lies between Athens and Tyler, but the Hornets received a severe blow last week when Junior Craig, star end, incurred a broken leg in the 14 to 0 victory over Kilgore. Tyler won handily from Pampa, 27 to 6, despite a weakened line-up and Longview stayed unbeaten from a 35 to 6 triumph over Nacogdoches.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN
Money Policy

The relationships of gold and currency and credit and price are obscure. They are so obscure that one is entitled to suspect any one who pretends that money is the subject of an exact science, and that he knows that science. Mathematical equations and so-called economic laws do throw light on aspects of monetary situations, but in the framing of a particular policy there are no exact rules. For that reason it is best to keep continually in mind a few simple ideas. They are a protection against becoming a dogmatist or a crank.

Perhaps the most important of these simple ideas is that there is no instantaneous connection between money and the price level. Any one, for example, who thinks that you can change the gold content of the dollar at 10 in the morning and produce a corresponding change in the price level by 3 in the afternoon is bound to be disappointed. The price level is a complicated average of millions of particular prices, for example, of cotton on a plantation in Texas, of a pair of shoes in Missouri, of a piece of land in Minnesota, of a tooth brush in Chicago, and so forth and so on. It is absurd to suppose that you can name a figure for the gold value of the dollar in Washington and automatically and immediately alter all the millions of prices of goods, and land, and securities. Such an instantaneous response can be produced only temporarily for a few things which are highly sensitive to speculation.

On the other hand, it is almost equally absurd to argue that a change in the value of money has no effect on the price level. There is every reason to believe that it has. But the effect is produced only over a period of time. If, therefore, we recognize the factor of time, we shall be bound to conclude that the effects of a change in the value of the dollar will be realized only gradually, and that, for example, with the dollar depreciated 35 per cent we have still to feel the full effects on our prices.

There is another important and simple idea. It is that no one can predict exactly how much the average price will rise or fall as a result of a certain amount of devaluation. Therefore, there is no point in pretending that the exact amount of devaluation can be scientifically ascertained. A dollar between 60 and 70 cents gold will probably raise most prices very considerably in the course of time. Nobody knows whether a 68-cent dollar will produce the exact amount of increase in prices that he happens to think desirable.

There are some who think there is a mathematical formula. "Thus last June, when I was at the London conference I wrote an article suggesting that a depreciation of one-third was as good a guess as any. The next day I received a tremendous cablegram from an organization of monetary enthusiasts in New York telling me to look out, and that the dollar must be devalued to 62 and a fraction cents. They had figured it out exactly. But only last week these same enthusiasts informed me that the dollar ought to be 50 cents. I gain they had figured it out exactly."

The conclusion I draw from these two ideas is that the administration will obtain all the benefits that can be had from a change in the value of money by proceeding now to fix an upper and a lower limit of devaluation. The benefits of devaluation will develop only over a period of time; the exact amount of benefit cannot be calculated in advance. In short, a de facto stabilization in relation to gold and to sterling within a fairly wide range will produce in the course of time an amount of price stabilization about all the rise of prices that can be induced by manipulating the value of the dollar. There are technical reasons why final stabilization is probably undesirable now, but fixing the limits within which stabilization will eventually take place will not deprive us of any of the advantages of devaluation, and will, on the contrary, contribute greatly to the feeling of certainty and confidence upon which an economic recovery unquestionably depends.

Advance! Not Retreat!

THE MEDICAL SCIENCES
REPORT ON ALCOHOL

By Dr. Haven Emerson

It is almost a hundred years ago that the man was born whose life work was destined to create a new experimental science out of what had since the beginning of time been a field of empiricism and tradition. I refer to Professor Oswald Schmiedeberg of Strassburg, the pioneer pharmacologist who put the knowledge of drugs on a new and permanent basis of precision and accuracy.

Not only is this great contribution to the cause of the sick throughout the world to his credit, but among the specific discoveries he made one which has revolutionized the attitude of the medical profession to what was once the most popular and widely used of all drugs, alcohol. It was Schmiedeberg, born in 1838, who in 1883 announced to the medical profession that alcohol was a depressant narcotic drug and not a stimulant.

It was Professor Emil Kraepelin the psychiatrist of Heidelberg who continued the revolution in opinion initiated by Schmiedeberg by experiments upon the effect of alcohol on the mind, conduct and emotions of man, with the result that alcohol is now universally recognized by men of science as the most widely used poison affecting the highest qualities and most important and precious functions of the human brain. Kraepelin was born in 1856.

America swung into its scientific stride with the publication in 1903 of what is known everywhere as the Hillings report, the work of such leaders as Welch of Hopkins, Chittenden of Yale, Bowditch of Harvard and Atwater of Washington, supplemented by Benedict Abel and others.

Schmiedeberg's findings were confirmed and the report containing as it does the first scientific approach to the question of the food value of alcohol brings modern physiology into action as a revealer of truth. The classical studies of Atwater and Benedict cleared away the cobwebs of tradition and placed alcohol where it should be as a possible but dangerous food, a food in the sense of being able to produce energy in the body but at a cost of damage to the organism which will always seriously limit its usefulness.

New Tests

In 1910 the new science of statistics was used by Karl Pearson of the Eugenics Laboratory of London when he entered the lists against ignorance and clarified our knowledge of the effects of alcoholic excesses upon the adult and the effects of alcohol in parents upon the offspring.

In 1915 came the now world famous monograph by Dodge and Benedict of the Carnegie Institution of the psychological effect of alcohol used in small doses in men and women engaged in ordinary occupations. They evolved new techniques and tests and not only confirmed the work of Schmiedeberg and Kraepelin, but went much farther by showing that alcohol modifies the accuracy, speed, duration, fatigue, endurance and reliability of those delicate reactions upon which our every voluntary action depends to protect us against accident and make our work effective.

And even more important in the social sense was the fact that they used alcohol in such moderate amounts in the men and women was lounging on a bed near by and beside her was Miss Nona Woolley, sister of Mr. Woolley.

Believing the gun to be unloaded Mr. Woolley was cleaning the gun barrel with an oil cloth when he touched the trigger, causing a single shell to discharge.

Grief stricken and in a highly nervous condition from shock, Mr. Woolley was placed under the care of a private physician.

The shot apparently killed Mrs. Woolley instantly. She was dead on arrival of emergency ambulance. An inquest was held and a verdict of accidental homicide returned by Justice of the Peace E. John Baldwin.

The couple had been married only since last August, having recently moved into their new home on Ellsworth avenue. Mrs. Woolley was a native of Cameron, Milam County. She was educated in the public schools of her home town and at the University of Texas. For the last five years she has made her home in Dallas.

Surviving are her husband, her mother, Mrs. Esther Joyner, a brother, R. E. Joyner, all of Dallas, and two uncles and aunts, Mr. and Mrs. Alec Beasley of Salina and Mr. and Mrs. Huling Means of El Paso.

Funeral services were held at the residence at 2 p. m. Monday, Dr. L. N. D. Wells officiating. Burial followed at Restland Memorial Park.

American Education Week Designated As November 6th to 11

WASHINGTON—Meeting the Emergency in Education is the theme of American Education Week which is being observed throughout the United States during the week of November 6 to 11.

While industry and trade are emerging from the crisis, America's largest "industry" is suffering from its most serious depression, according to Dr. George F. Cook, United States Commissioner of Education. He said recently, "The condition facing education is certainly as dark as it is painted. It is wide spread, and it shows no signs of immediate improvement."

Attention will be concentrated during this 13th annual American Education Week on finding means to keep the schools open, on cutting down overcrowded classes, on saving 100,000 children from total deprivation of schooling and on paying $40,000,000 back salary to teachers.

From Commissioner Zook's headquarters, the Federal Office of Education in the Department of the Interior, come significant statements about the present conditions in the American schools:

One-fourth of the total population of the country is engaged either in seeking an education.

Enrollment in small city schools last year was 1,400,000 in the past two years, while income decreased $34,000,000.

In city schools there was an increase of about two pupils per teacher between 1930 and 1932. In one state the average class size is 44 pupils.

One-fourth of the Federal Office of Education declines to accept schools from 12.6 to 43 per cent in the past two years.

Education in the United States is a study in extremes. Wealthy towns spend 50 cents a day on each pupil; poorer towns spend as little as 10 cents. Wealthy school districts collect millions of dollars for education. The maximum that one poor Arkansas district could collect under the law to run the schools for a year was $14. No teacher is highly paid; many receive very low pay. Many hundreds of teachers will this year receive less than $25 per month.

Seymour Wins In Supreme Court On Electricity Rate

WASHINGTON — The Texas Electric Service company was refused a review by the supreme court Monday of a decision by the fifth court of appeals sustaining as valid an ordinance by the city of Seymour, Tex., fixing a minimum rate for electricity. The Texas Electric Service company, serving approximately sixty-five cities in Texas, including Seymour, was brought into active competition with the municipal electric light plant in August, 1929. The municipal plant operated on a service rate considerably less than that charged by the Texas Electric Service company. Rate Was Cut After losing more than half its customers, the company instituted rates approximately ten per cent under that charged by the city. By this cut it claimed to have obtained the greatest amount of gross and net revenue possible under the circumstances. The city council of Seymour enacted an ordinance fixing a minimum rate for electric service, applicable to all furnishing electricity.

'Lady For A Day' Favorably Received A Tuesday Preview

Parents who recall enjoying Seth Parker in "Way Back Home" shown here at the Ritz about a year ago, will enjoy "A Lady for a Day" which the Ritz will bring here late this month. At a preview Tuesday morning the ministers of the city and several prominent men and women were invited to look the picture over and recommend it. Among them were Rev. W. H. Martin, vicar of St. Mary's Episcopal who was impressed with its suggestion of doing for others and Father Francis of St. Thomas' Catholic who heartily recommended it. In the same box with these sat Shine Phillips. His chuckles were such a recommendation that no question from him was needed. The title of the show tells what it is about. The plot concerns an apple vendor known as "Apple Annie," who has a daughter in Spain whom she is educating. The girl has not seen her mother since babyhood days. Apple Annie has a friend, an employee in a luxuriantly-furnished hotel who gives her sheets of the hotel's stationery on which Annie writes letters to her daughter, pretending she is a great lady in society. The daughter comes home unexpectedly to visit her mother with her fiance and his father who

What has become of the SERVANT PROBLEM?

HAVE YOU ever considered that the average wife of today gets along better with one servant than the average woman of the '90's could manage to do with several?

You may jokingly say, "She has to." But the real reason is, she can. The real answer is the electric refrigerator, the modern stove, the washing and ironing machine, the vacuum cleaner, the countless labor-saving devices that actually replace servant power.

It is the many improved staples, the convenient packaged goods, the glassed and canned foods, the prepared foods that save so much time and labor.

It is better marketing facilities—convenient stores with a wide variety of merchandise, including fresh, healthful foods, in season and out.

It is modern advertising—cramped with usable news for the woman in the home—making possible rapid progress by developing new markets for goods, and new goods for markets. Advertising, that tells you what to buy, and where to buy it.

Advertising makes it easier to live, more healthful to live, pleasanter to live. Yes, and more economical!

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS
(By Madame Miriam Lovine)

Q—What must I do about the way my husband is doing? E. M. P.
A—The crystal reveals your husband to be extremely worried over finances. In fact it is a serious state of mind your husband has to endure. As it appears to me you have been hindering not helping him for you have misunderstood his absences from you as unfaithfulness. How could he be interested in other women when his mind is so upset with business worries. I advise you to begin encouraging your husband and try tenderness instead of nagging. He needs your love more than he ever did.

Q—Do you see an immediate marriage for me to the girl I am now engaged to? J. R. C.
A—A marriage is indicated for you to M. J. S. the 26th day of December, 1933. It will be a very successful and happy union.

Q—When will a certain piece of property be sold that I am interested in? L. C. W.
A—The settlement of this property will be made shortly after its sale in January 1934 and to your satisfaction. Demand your share.

Q—Will my husband make any money while in Mexico? R. L. C.
A—The crystal reveals your husband is spending money in Mexico but not making any. I am sorry but your husband is really enjoying a vacation on his business trip.

Q—Will my future be more successful than the past has been? R. S. M.
A—My friend you lack a strong and positive approach in business, as well as in social life. The magnetism is within you but you do not draw upon your storage keeper—your inner self. Wake up! Start the little energy within you to work. It will attract the things you most desire—wealth, happiness and success. 1934 will be a successful and prosperous year for you.

Q—Shall I remain in Big Spring or go to Chicago? F. R. R.
A—A trip to Chicago is strongly indicated for you before 1933 is over. I advise you to go by train and not in your own car. That will be best.

Q—How long will I remain a bachelor? A. A.
A—You will remain a bachelor indefinitely it appears to me to save the extra expense of marriage.

Q—I have some oil shares. Will I receive anything from them?

A—The crystal reveals that you will be highly pleased with the remuneration you get from your oil shares. You will not realize a profit until March 22, 1934.

Q—Will I have any children? M. R. S.
A—You will be given a son in the seventh month of 1934. I advise you to be careful of your health especially during January of 1934.

Q—Is my wife true to me? L. H.
A—It appears to me that your wife is true to you at the present time, but you are fast driving her away from you by your jealous feelings.

Q—Will my son ever get over his infatuation for a married woman? L. M.
A—It appears to me your son will recover from this malady. Most young men your son's age have this difficult experience to go through before they marry and settle down. There is nothing you can do about it, except to wait and see this affair gradually die and fade away. The married woman will not divorce her husband.

Q—Please tell me where my son is at the present time. I haven't heard from him in several weeks. Is he quite safe? R. A. D.
A—The crystal reveals your son to be in Fort Worth. He is quite safe and in good health. He will write to you soon.

New Deal For Health Made By State Officer

AUSTIN—In speaking of New Deals, Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer, suggested that every one should declare a New Deal for their health. Many persons overdid the annual vacation and instead of relaxing and giving the body a chance to recuperate tried to see how much they could do in the time allotted to them. As a result many such persons are now complaining about their tired condition. Vacations spent in such a fashion would seem to need a repeat dose at this time of the year.

In making this statement there is no idea of suggesting that one quit work and do the whole thing over. The point is to give the body a new deal. With the crisp autumn days it would be to everyone's advantage to make the most of them. Instead of staying in an over-heated room, step out into the open each day for a walk. It may be that a few less bridge games will be played or fewer movies seen, but your body will not miss them. On the contrary it will be benefitted by the fresh air and exercise.

It may be advisable to give the stomach a new deal. Not that any starvation diet is being advocated; only that if one has been habitually over-eating or under-eating, then to return to normalcy. It will be wise to give the body its eight hours of sleep each night of which it has likely been so consistently deprived for a long time.

The beauty of this new deal is that it will not cost any money and at the same time make up for the vitally building opportunity lost during the summer. Such a program is quite worth while. TRY ONE.

West Texas Sport Hash

There are a few grudge battles in West Texas high school football that have drawn five to fifteen thousand customers each season for a long time. The latest and newest of these annual grudge affairs to get into the 3,000 or better class is the Big Spring-Sweetwater affair.

District 3 as it exists today is only in its third season. Thanks to the presence of one Tack Dennis, most publicized player of 1931 and one who deserved every line of it, and a colorful, powerful herd of Sweetwater Mustangs, the Steer-Pony game netted about 5,100 paying fans the first year of the district's life.

Last year, with Big Spring considerably weaker than the Mustangs, the largest crowd ever attracted here for a high school game, saw the underdogs deal the visitors fits through a great exciting exhibition, only to lose 13 to 0.

Reports from Sweetwater and the amount of interest shown locally in the game to be played in Sweetwater Friday afternoon indicate a new attendance record will be established. This year the Steers again are distinctly underdogs. If you have any other idea about it you ought to get rid of it.

The Steers tied San Angelo all right. But the more we see and hear of the Bobcats the more we fear the tie resulted as much from a decline in strength of the Bobcats as from improvement on the part of the Steers. Right now Sweetwater would take San Angelo to a terrible licking.

Dogged determination, based on the things Bristow and Brown have taught the boys, is the only hope they have against Sweetwater. The Mustangs, individually and as a team, have a great advantage in experience. That means plenty for a high school team.

There are evidences of a subtle campaign on the part of writers in other towns of the district to try to get the Steers to thinking.

The next meeting will be a joint meeting with the Birdie Bailey Society in observance of a Week of Prayer for the colored school in Georgia and hospital work in China. The two societies will meet at the church at 10 o'clock in the morning and will hold a covered dish luncheon at noon.

First Methodist Woman's Missionary Society Holds Regular Business Session

The W.M.S. of the First Methodist Church met Monday afternoon in a business session. Mrs. Stripling gave the devotional from John 14. Mrs. Russell Manion presided.

The treasurer reported $20.50 in dues collected. Mrs. Pickle, Bible study chairman, said that with the completion of the present Bible course the society would have finished all required study courses for the year. Mrs. Fleeman, chairman of supplies, told of a letter of thanks from the Virginia Kate Johnson Home for a box of clothing and announced that the society would send a box to the Wesley House at Ft. Worth next week. All members were asked to bring articles for the box, which would be the last box of the year.

Mrs. McDonald reported visiting the jail for services and that clothing had been given away to the extent of $40 and that the society had worked every day with the Red Cross. She said that the Red Cross was in need of warm clothing for the needy of the city.

Mmes. Miller, Gates and Talbot were named on a committee to meet with the Birdie Bailey committee to appoint officers for the merged societies, after the Birdie Baileys had accepted the invitation of the older society to unite with it.

The members named Mrs. Flewellen and Mrs. McDonald to head two teams whose purpose would be to raise money until the end of the year.

Present were: Mmes. C. A. Schutt, Frank Powell, Pete Johnson, S. P. Jones, Joe Faucett, Russell Manion, G. S. True, W. D. McDonald, V. H. Flewellen, Cliff Talbot, W. A. Miller, J. B. Pickle, G. E. Fleeman, Fox Stripling, J. B. Hodges, Sr., C. M. Watson and Hattie Crossett.
