Home Town Talk By Betty

Tomorrow—Independence Day.

As we review in our minds the multitude of new problems, new conditions, new joys and new dangers that confront the American people in 1931 that were not before them when the Declaration of Independence was signed in 1776. Many of us sometimes feel that the document which was the basis of a nation that would be of as much use to it after 155 years as it was then.

More considered thought always brings us back to the assurance that the men who framed that declaration and that constitution were wise. Wise enough to promulgate the basis of a nation that would be of as much use to it after 155 years as it was then.

They were as nearly prophets as uninspired men have ever become. The constitution they framed stands today as insoluble, as sturdy, as useful, as practical, as it was then.

The nation every state, every community has old problems today in new clothing. Hundreds of years ago human blood lubricated nefarious machinery that wrecked nations. Human passions vented into purely political as well as political-religious channels have brought terror to the human race since its inception.

We can, therefore, not become terror-stricken or pessimistic over the stupendous things that confront America now. Communism, it is true, casts its shadow over us at times. The nation has had much of the friendship of other people. It is termed imperialistic, cruel. We hold the whip hand over all other world powers except Japan, due to the war debt and reparations plans.

It is fortunate that the nation that happens to have that whip in its hand is one with the character that will prevent it from using it as an unjustly as other dominant nations have in times past.

Many of us grieve over weakening of the American home as a basic institution upon which the strength of the nation rests. But, if we look at the matter from all angles we find there still are a lot of homes where the folks know what their children are doing, where home ties are yet powerful and in whose shelter young Americans find more peace and contentment and love than they can find anywhere else on earth.

We often worry over influence of the "machine age" upon our educational system. But, get in your car next autumn and visit around in the rural communities and you will find brave, strong, intelligent young women conscientiously instructing young Americans. Yes, we still have thousands of our people who follow the profession because they love children, and have an overwhelming desire to do something on this earth really worthwhile.

The church, many of us fear, has been weakened. But influences that face the church today are no more difficult to combat than those of past centuries. Yes, you can still find thousands of "little brown churches in the vale" where Christianity is preached and where men and women strive daily to practice it.

Today's tools for helping to make the world a better place are far more efficient, potentially, than those of yesterday. They are now, as then, two-edged weapons. We wield them for good, or evil. But we always use them for one purpose or the other.

Yes, dig through the venerable discolorations, the corrosion and fear away the parasites that devitalize the nation and you'll find plenty left of that good old home-bun stuff called Americanism.

And, oh yes, Uncle Sam, Cal Coolidge, Ralph Rife and your humble servant are among those who will have birthdays tomorrow.

30,956 Daily Allowance In Field For July

June Output Well Within Schedule; Potential 73,953 Barrels

Daily allowable production of crude oil from the Howard-Glasscock county field for the month of July is set at 30,956 barrels in the prorated schedule issued Friday by E. E. Andrews, umpire representing the railroad commission.

Rate of production is 1,200-foot and 1,800-foot wells get 10 barrels per well plus potential allowance, the 2,200-foot, 2,500-foot and 300-foot wells get 20 barrels per well plus potential allowance. Total potential is 73,953 barrels. Decimal used is .255.

There are 296 wells in the 1,200 and 1,800-foot horizons, 84 in the 2,200-foot horizon, 94 in the 2,500-foot horizon and 51 in the 300-foot class—a total of 524 wells.

June runs from the field were well within the allowed schedule. The total was 87,784 barrels compared with 89,613 barrels for May. Total production of prorated wells in the field for the 31 1/2 months since prorating was invoked reached 27,795,217 barrels July 1.

Status of Mexican Divorces Gets Test

EL PASO, July 3 (AP)—The legal status of divorces granted American citizens in Mexico may be determined in a suit involving Charles G. Morris filed here.

Morris was divorced in Mexico three years ago after failing to obtain a decree in El Paso. He then remarried.

The first Mrs. Morris sought to compel Morris to pay her alimony, and after several court fights the case was tried before a jury and the jury disagreed.

Mrs. Morris now has filed a charge of non-support against Morris, and her attorneys said they would seek to show that Mexico divorces for Americans were not legal in the United States.

In his suit for divorce, Morris charged his wife neglected him and interfered with his work. She denied the charge.

Communities Seek To Pad Figures On State Traffic Count

AUSTIN, July 3 (AP)—Ambitious civic organizations have resulted in the state highway traffic count being called off in several instances, according to officials of the state highway department who recently completed the annual traffic survey on the state system.

The survey lasted four days, although it will require about four weeks of office work before the results will be known.

J. B. Early, chief maintenance engineer and supervisor of the traffic census, said the department was forced to maintain a strict watch to prevent communities from "padding" the census and that as soon as certain civic organizations learned that automobiles travel in the vicinity of their city was being counted they stirred up the local autoists with the result that hundreds of automobiles passed the census station where only a few passed normally.

When evidence of "padding" was discovered, the count was called off and taken later without the knowledge of residents of the community affected.

Truck Law In Danger From Court Action

Injunction Suit Set For Hearing In Houston July 10

HOUSTON, July 3 (AP)—The last legislature's much discussed "truck law" faces one attack and a companion assault in prospect.

The injunction suit of J. H. McLean and Company, cotton packers, to restrain enforcement of the statute is scheduled for trial July 10 in federal court here. Whether it will come up at that time depended, it was said, upon expediting services upon the defendants—the state highway commission, Highway Patrol Chief L. G. Phares and a number of county officers in the state and nearby counties.

The McLean petition attacked the constitutionality of the measure. An attorney for the Houston Cotton Exchange, after the action was filed, said the exchange had regarded the law "as very injurious to the cotton business in Houston and will intervene in the suit to have the law declared unconstitutional.

"The legislation," he went on, "is wholly unfair and is directed solely at transportation of cotton by truck. It seeks to make such transportation impossible, while it permits everything else to be carried without restriction."

The petition already filed alleged that the law was violative of the fourteenth amendment of the federal constitution and charged, specifically, that it was designed to cause all cotton to be compressed in the interior for the benefit of inferior presses.

It was alleged further that "the design and purpose of the act was to force them (the complainants) and all other buyers and shippers of cotton in the interior to have their cotton transported to the large cotton markets and exporting centers by railroad instead of by motor vehicles."

The act makes it unlawful to operate over public highways any vehicle carrying a load of more than 10 bales of cotton, unless the cotton has been compressed to a density of 22 pounds per cubic foot, or more. Likewise, special bodies are required for trucks having more than 10 square bales or 20 round bales of compressed cotton.

Three Ordered Under Bond On Prohibition Law Violation Charges

George Bowman and J. W. Gaudier were held over for grand jury investigation on a charge of transporting intoxicating liquor after an examining trial Friday. Bond was set at $1,000 in each case.

Deputy Sheriff Denver Dunn, Andrew Merrick, and Bob Wolf made the arrests—three miles east of Chabola, early Tuesday. A quantity of liquor was taken at the time, the officers testified.

Although the institution has grown to be one of the largest colleges for women in the western hemisphere and has increased its curriculum by placing greater emphasis on academy subjects, it still maintains its supremacy in vocational courses.

Depression And Heat Cause Nuptial Slump

CHICAGO, July 2 (AP)—Unemployment, the economic depression and the heat have caused marriageable Americans to go to the altar in fewer numbers during the past month than in any other recent June on record, according to a nation-wide survey completed today by the United Press.

Cities and towns throughout the nation reported that marriage licenses issued during June just ended slumped from five to 25 per cent below 1930.

There were fewer June weddings in large industrial centers, agricultural communities and mining towns, the survey showed, indicating that romantic young couples in all walks of life were equally affected by the depression.

The average of couples who obtained licenses to wed in many cities was higher than in 1930, the survey revealed. Also, the decrease was greater among employes than employers. It is not one of the many cities checked by the United Press did the statistics show that marriages increased.

Houston Chamber Members Will Eat Rice-Fed Turkeys

HOUSTON, July 3.—(AP)—When members of the Houston Chamber of Commerce meet next January for their annual banquet, they will be the first to eat the merits of rice fed turkeys.

This fall the Chamber of Commerce will purchase turkeys for the banquet. They will be fed on rice by-products under the supervision of an expert. A and M college is cooperating in the feeding experiment.

Sportsmen have long commented on the excellent quality of rice fed wild fowl. If rice feeding of turkeys improves the taste and quality of the meat the experiment may have a far-reaching effect on turkey raising.

key production in South Texas. Annually the rice mills of the Gulf territory produce 30,000 to 35,000 tons of rice by-products. Besides opening up a new market for rice by-products, the feeding of turkeys on this diet is expected to result in producing a fowl that will top the market from the standpoint of quality.

Mad Scramble To Produce Cotton In Texas Condemned

WEST, July 3.—(AP)—Appeal that agriculture be readjusted to the radical changes in conditions in the past few years was made here today by J. K. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture, in an address at the West Independence Day celebration.

McDonald condemned the mad scramble to produce cotton without attempting to reconcile the production with the consumption and the already huge carryover from last year. He cited figures to show the carryover by the end of the year would be between 8,500,000 and 9,000,000 bales, more than is consumed in a year.

This burdensome surplus disrupts and undermines the economic structure and if continued will result in financial and social bankruptcy, McDonald said.

"Our agricultural boat is launched on new waters. The machinery that has been propelling this boat is antiquated and it is going to require the combined efforts of every institution and agency to again make this boat seaworthy and its passengers happy and prosperous.

"A good many of us have seen four cents cotton when we were confronted with only two-thirds of a year's consumption in our carryover and when we enjoyed practice-city a monopoly of the cotton growing industry. It behooves us at this time to reflect and try to view on the excess of a whole year's consumption with no definite and positive means of regulating next year's production so as to protect this huge carryover.

"Apparently there are three ways to stop wasteful over-production: By voluntary cooperation brought about by educational campaigns, the means we have tried for a half century without success; by regulating production through utilizing the machinery of government and laws established to promote the happiness and welfare of our people; and finally to continue to produce cotton without unity of action or supervision until we impoverish our soil to the extent that we can't over-produce.

"We don't need to coerce the farmer; we do need to establish some method to give unity of action to his production." McDonald advocated passage of the Olsen cotton acreage reduction bill that died on the house calendar in the regular session. It will be re-introduced in event of a special session. He declared this bill or a similar measure was necessary if agriculture was to enjoy the same supervision enjoyed by other industries.

FEW TEACHING JOBS

AUSTIN, July 3.—(AP)—Teaching jobs are few and far between. At least this has been the experience of hundreds of graduates seeking positions in the public schools of the state.

All positions on the staff of the Travis county schools were filled with more than 1,000 applications pending.

The state department of education has been flooded with applications for temporary and permanent teaching posts. Large graduation lists of the State Teachers' Colleges have added greatly to the unemployment in the profession, education department officials said.

AUSTIN, July 3.—(AP)—Co-eds at the University of Texas are not daunted by tough courses like engineering.

Five co-ed students were included in the list of honor students for the spring semester of the College of Engineering. A boy, Arthur F. Hubbard of Austin, led the list of students with "A" in six courses.

The five girls on the honor roll were: C. Judith English of Dallas; Ellen D. Young of Laredo; Violet McLaurin of Austin; Meibis Shans of Beaumont and Margaret Wolf of Austin.

First Potential Thesis Presented Seminary If Canted Graduate Group

Midland Couple Married In Carlsbad Caverns

MIDLAND, July 3. (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Homer Crawley claim they gave their marriage "deep thought."

At least indications of the ceremony would lead one to think so. They were married in the King's Palace, 265 feet below the surface of the earth, in the Carlsbad Caverns near here while 15 state rangers sang "I Love You Truly" and 47 guests looked on.

Mrs. Crowley was Mrs. Cora Willoughby Ham before her marriage. Her husband is foreman of a ranch near here.

Classified Ad Asks Flute-Player To Stop

For once a Chicagoan pulled the unexpected—he didn't shoot when offended by a bothersome flute player. The recourse he did take would have been unusual anywhere as well as in the Windy City, for he used the want-ad medium. It read: "Will the flute-player in the 200 East Delaware block kindly cease and oblige neighbors?"

Mr. and Mrs. Don Cowlings and son, Robert Earl, of Ennis, are expected in tonight to visit Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rogers, of R. Bar. Mrs. Cowlings is Mrs. Rogers' sister.

More Powerful than Any Gasoline

ONLY three days after its introduction in Texas, Esso is duplicating the phenomenal success it has had in 20 foreign countries.

There can be only one reason for this. Esso is the world's leading power-fuel. Esso was designed to give more power—and does it.

In many cars Esso actually develops as high as 20% more power than ordinary gasoline.

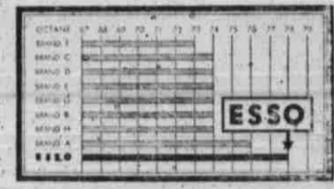

This is an increase you will notice instantly. It gives an entirely new "feel" to driving.

Look at the chart on the right. It shows how Esso compares not with ordinary gasolines, but with the leading premium fuels on the market today.

Try Esso in your own car. Fill up when your tank is as nearly empty as possible—and get the sensation of driving with Esso undiluted by any other gasoline.

Esso was perfected in America by the world's leading petroleum technicians. It contains Ethyl—but it is far more than an ordinary Ethyl fuel.

Make a ten-day test of this new fuel. Find out for yourself what your car can do with Esso. Then change back to any other type of gasoline—if you can.

"Octane Rating" is the new, exact way of measuring the anti-knock quality of motor fuels. Note how far superior to all other premium fuels ESSO's Octane Rating is. (Samples of premium gasolines picked at random from roadside pumps.)

HOW'S your HEALTH?

Treating eczema
The treatment of eczema is always an individual medical problem. Seldom a re two eczema cases alike as to cause, and treatment must be fitted to the individual requirements of each patient.

However, some general principles of care are applicable to all cases. These are: (1) strict attention to diet and to personal hygiene. Eczema is not infrequently associated with other diseases such as gout, diabetes, rheumatism, malaria, disease of the kidneys and of the liver, gastric disturbances and focal infections.

Even when the existence of other diseases is excluded, the patient must cooperate with his doctor in the effort to maintain a high level of well being.

He must make all efforts possible to avoid infectious disease; he should keep his teeth, gums and throat in good condition, and should avoid gastric disturbances and constipation.

Diet bears an important relation to eczema. In some cases, particularly in many instances of young children, sensitiveness to certain food articles is the primary cause of the condition.

But practically all cases of eczema of internal origin are benefited by a proper diet.

Eczema sufferers should eat sparingly. They should not eat severely except on instruction by their physician, but they should eat before they are full.

They should avoid excess sugar in their diet, and, in fact, should reduce it to an absolute minimum.

Most cases of eczema profit by excluding from the diet shellfish, oily fish such as mackerel, eel, salmon and sardines; meats that are hard to digest such as veal, bacon, pork, salt meat, rich game and goose; vegetables such as radishes, asparagus, rutabaga and unripe fruits.

Condiments such as mustard, pepper and curries should also be avoided.

Tomorrow—Chronic Irritation.

For a long moment, Pierre looked after his mother, then he turned back impulsively to Antonio as if he had come to an important decision. "I like you," he said with a smile so like his mother's that the man's heart leaped. "Do you like me?"

"I love you, Pierre," Antonio answered gently.

The boy nodded as if they had reached a satisfactory understanding. Then with the air of merely stating a well-known fact, he said, "You probably are aware that I have no father."

"Yes," said Antonio, "I know."

"You see, father ran away and so I had to take care of mother. I wish you were my father. I wonder why you weren't? You wouldn't run away from me, would you? I think I'll just take you for my father. I'm quite sure mother wouldn't mind, if you don't? I know she loves you. So you and I must love each other a lot. We will, won't we? I shall call you Father Tony, if that arrangement would be satisfactory to you."

Of course Orchard Hill believed the worst possible things of this man and woman upon whose youth they had frowned with such suspicion. They remarked this and guessed that and suggested the other as to the relationship of Harriet and Tony in New York. They wondered if she had really married Donovan, and, if she had, why did she still call herself Pierre Noel?

They wondered if Pierre really was Donovan's child, and why did the boy call Antonio "father." In short, they delighted to infect the wounds which Harriet had received, rather than heal them with kindly charity.

It was only natural that this attitude of the villagers should drive Harriet and Antonio closer together. Each in the other found a refuge.

Farmers To Burn Wheat In Stoves

FARNSWORTH, Texas, July 3.—Farmers of this section who hearted during a coal shortage last winter that wheat was good fuel are planning to burn it almost exclusively during the winter ahead.

A. L. Turner, living two miles north of Farnsworth, was one of the first to discover the heating qualities of wheat. He heated last winter that wheat at 60 cents a bushel was as cheap as coal when hauling was taken into consideration. At the present price of wheat, he thinks it is a cheap fuel.

B. L. Rogers, local community leader, said experiments were being made with different types of grates to determine the possibilities of burning wheat to heat school houses and other public buildings in Ochiltree county.

Hall County To Gin Normal Cotton Crop

MEMPHIS, Texas, July 3.—Hall county will produce between 80,000 and 90,000 bales of cotton this year according to estimates made by ginners of the county to The Memphis Democrat. The newspaper's estimate, based on the ginners' reports, is 80,000 bales.

The five-year average for the county is 62,000 bales, with the banner crop running around 90,000 bales.

Ginners estimated the price at eight cents, and probably lower, unless the federal board removes its surplus from the market.

SIMILARITY BETWEEN ROASTING COFFEE AND COOKING FOODS

"A Little at a Time" Is the Secret for Securing the Finest Flavor

Foods generally taste better when cooked in small quantities. For then the cook can mix her ingredients properly, also control the heat.

When coffee is roasted in small quantities, the same thing is true. But when coffee is roasted in bulk—as most coffee are—exact control is lost. Under-roasting and over-roasting very easily occur. This method being so unsatisfactory, caused Hills Bros. to look for some improvement—some way to roast their rare blend to uniform perfection. They experimented for years, and eventually invented and patented Controlled Roasting.

As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow... a little at a time... so the fine, uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously... a little at a time. Marvelous unvarying flavor results in every pound. For no berry is underdone nor overdone.

Hills Bros. Coffee is always fresh. It is packed in vacuum cans. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed and kept out of these cans. Ordinary "air-tight" cans won't keep coffee fresh. Order Hills Bros. Coffee today. Ask for it by name, and look for the Arab trademark on the can.

Needless Hurry

SOMEbody told the other day, with evident relief of his nervous features, the momentary under-observation of the narrator.

According to this observer, the youth came tearing down the street at forty miles an hour, screeching at the intersection and took the other an two wheels. The observer thought that surely this must be an emergency case of some sort, that the youth was going for a doctor or to a fire. But, no, nothing of the kind. After rounding the corner on two wheels, the youth proceeded back a block, put on the brakes with a howl that could be heard for blocks, and brought his car to an abrupt halt in front of the family domicile. Then the youth leisurely left the house, and collapsed lazily into an easy porch chair.

As soon as he left the wheel of his car, you see, he became human. He hadn't really been in a hurry at all—he was just showing off.

A good many of us are like that in our offices, at our work benches, on the sidewalks, in church, on our own front porches or anywhere else except at the wheel of a automobile we are perfectly sane. But once we get behind the wheel something happens to us. We lose all sense of proportion, and are seized by a frenzy of hurry.

A sure cure is to ride beside one of our fellow-sufferers from this malady. After a few minutes of breath-taking experience with a speed fiend at the wheel, we learn a valuable lesson in self-control and the folly of needless hurry.

Hollywood Sights

By ROBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The old stock "off-screen snapshot" of the screen vampire bending lovingly over her dupliant at home has been laughed to extinction, but some real things still are unreal.

Norma Shearer on the screen is a glamorous butterfly of smartness and sophistication—but at home she likes to play like a child with Irving Thalberg, Jr., rearrange the furniture, and plan new menus.

William Powell is a strong silent man of culture and dignity—the camera tells us—but he is, besides, a rollicking good fellow with considerable inventive humor.

John Miljan is an incurable screen meane—but he puts around in his garden and his hobby is birds.

Edward G. Robinson is the epitome of underworld heroes, un-couth and ill-bred—but his conversation is that of a well read scholar.

Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen chase over the world "squabbling over dames"—but no one does either ever "Sek you, Sez me" in conversations and both are much married.

Ramon Novarro is a dashing gay romantic—but he is a quiet, unobtrusive fellow who loves music and art and likes to discuss them.

Anita Page gained screen success portraying "wild youth"—but there never was a more completely, devastatingly chaperoned young lady in the world.

Barbara Stanwyck is a favorite exponent of screen looseness—but the old-fashioned way she idealizes that husband of hers!

Marie Dressler peaks a strong punch and slapsicks her way through film after film—but she likes to sit home quietly and knit. It's so restful.

Low Life High
Wallace Beery makes money from tough characters like "Butch" and "Scorpio"—but he confides his high-flying to his airplane and he likes to play the piano.

Myrna Loy is a wicked little siren with an oriental air—but she's a nice, rather plain, freckle-faced little girl.

Mitzi Green is a harum-scarum little peep—but she's a sweet child who talks like a grown-up and is precocious without being in the least unbearable.

William Haines is a clown off-screen and on—but he has his serious moments, is a collector and a commercial dealer in antiques and interior decoration.

EXIT

by Harold Bell Wright

SYNOPSIS Harriet Noel rejects young Tony Latour's proposal because of her theatrical career. Then Tony flees with the money from an amateur play in Orchard Hill. After her father dies, Harriet goes to New York to become an actress, there meeting Tony, already on the stage. Circumstances bring them together, but Tony quarrels with Harriet upon learning of her engagement to their manager, Roy Donovan, and returns to Orchard Hill. Later Donovan deserts his wife, Harriet, and their four-year-old son, taking his stepson, Bruce. When Tony, hopefully, visits Cleveland to see Harriet in a play with her son, he sees that her old fire as an actress has been submerged in love for talented little Pierre. Without pleading his love, Tony returns home.

Chapter 5
PIERRE'S INHERITANCE

It was just such a day in late spring as that other day, when the boy making his barefoot way across the pasture toward his home discovered the girl so that took behind the willows at the foot of the hill. From the trees along the banks of Cherry Creek red-shouldered blackbirds were calling to their mates that evening was near. The willows rustled with twittering, chirping tenants.

Antonio, coming slowly along the little path from his lonely old house on the hill, stood as motionless as if he had been turned to stone. Harriet was sitting on that familiar rock in their theater's little Pierre, with exclamations of happy wonder, was picking wild flowers and running with each new blossom to his mother. The boy was so intent upon his discoveries and the mother so absorbed in her son that neither had heard Antonio's approach.

At last he went forward—slowly, almost timidly—as if he feared the scene might vanish. She rose to greet him and smiled at the bewildered expression of his face.

Doubting, joyous, questioning, he cried, "Harriet."

"I thought perhaps Pierre and I would find you here," she said, gently freeing her hands from his. "We arrived early this afternoon."

"Pierre came running to her with a flower. 'Look mother! Here is another kind. Tell me the name of this one, mother.'"

"It is a violet, dear," she answered. Then to Antonio: "Can you realize, Tony, that my little Pierre has never before seen a wild flower?"

But with a quick burst of feeling, she added, "I want him to know everything that you and I knew when we were children, Tony—everything."

"Everything, Harriet?"

She did not reply to this but said to the boy: "Pierre, this is mother's old, old friend, Mr. Antonio Latour. Do you remember, dear, how I told you that Mr. Latour and mother were children together here in Orchard Hill, and about all the things we used to do when he was a boy like you, and I was a little girl?"

"Yes," said Pierre gravely. "I remember." With the characteristic poise of a child of the stage he offered his hand. "How do you do, Mr. Latour? I remember meeting you when we played Cleveland last winter. You came back stage to see us." He turned to his mother and, taking the flower from her hand, offered it to Antonio. "This is a violet. Are you fond of violets, Mr. Latour?" As he asked

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Air Mail, Here And There

Lubbock Avalanche:
While certain forces in Lubbock and over the South Plains are attempting to pile up enough air mail business to bring that service through this city and connecting with other lines at Amarillo and Big Spring, Captain Frank Hawke is working on a plan of such great import as to pale our own small problem. The fastest of his airplanes, Captain Hawke, in his new "beak," is championing an overnight service between New York and the Pacific coast.

Predating planes cruising at more than 200 miles per hour, the Captain points out that mail might leave New York in the evening, after the close of the business day, and be delivered on the West coast the following morning. Passenger service, he says, might eventually follow a similar schedule.

One doesn't need to elaborate on what such a service would mean to business. In times there would be speedy connections by fastest planes, between all large cities.

Then Hawke adds:
"If you won't think I'm speed crazy, I'll confess that this 200-mile figure is just a beginning; that there is where practical cruising speeds for commercial purposes begin, and that the development of planes and motors will bring faster and ever faster rates of travel."

In all probabilities, Captain Hawke is not speed crazy at all. In the light of past developments his predictions seem fairly reasonable. There are certain uses for such speed and the air is the place to achieve it.

Those of Lubbock's citizens who are beginning to fear that an air mail connection here is a long way off, may take heart from the plans and opinions of the aerial speed see. If a man of his experience has heart enough to plan such an east-west connection, certainly those of our people who seek the air mail for Lubbock will decide that their own goal is not impossible to reach.

By LEON H. HURST

Behind every great undertaking there always is a personality, a man whose unflagging zeal weaves the various phases together and gains the success or failure of the project. In world-circling records this holds true, and in seeking the story-behind-the-story of the breath-taking ride of "The Winnie Mae of Oklahoma" all trials eventually lead to Wiley Post.

A Texas born farm boy who whittled out models of airplanes in the days when flying was only something to read about in the newspapers, Post has kept his eyes on his goal as unerringly as he kept the "Winnie Mae" on the course plotted by Navigator Harold Gatty.

It is easy to follow the trail of Wiley Post, but difficult to unravel the ingredients which make up his personality. Stocky, brown-eyed, brown-haired and taciturn, Post has a heritage of several generations of Southwestern pioneers as well as an Indian strain in his blood.

Farming never interested him much. His mother, Mrs. W. F. Post, recalls that even when he was a small, bare-footed, freckled-faced youngster, he had an inordinate desire to tinker with things. He read adventure stories, showed a preference for mechanical toys, and only once developed sufficient enthusiasm for farming to indicate he could do it if he would. This was when his father gave him a small cotton patch. Wiley took the utmost pains in the development of his crop and when he had pocketed the profits, he found he had enough to set out for a school to train automobile mechanics in Kansas City, Mo.

The Wright Brothers' experiments during the first period of aviation development probably were responsible for Wiley's ambition to fly. He heard the story of their experiments and when he should have been hoeing in his father's fields he was more likely to be whittling out an "airplane" model.

Wiley was born November 22, 1908, in Van Zandt County, Texas, on an isolated farm, in the region where his parents were reared. While Wiley and Gatty were demonstrating a picture of "two young men in a hurry" around the world, Wiley's great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Post, both 90 years old, were in Van Zandt county reading of his achievements.

"Wiley never took much interest in school work," his mother says. "He was a good boy, but full of pranks. He always loved to read his history records. His father wouldn't let him read trash. He liked adventure stories best."

The record shows Wiley was not a good student in grammar school. He quit before he was 15 years old, but a few months after that he had acquired the cotton patch from his father and was proving to the instructors in the mechanical school at Kansas City that he could be a good student—if he was interested in the subject.

There are countless stories about Wiley Post's life on his parents' farms in Texas and Oklahoma, but in view of the fame he has just gained in aviation few have much point or bearing on his career. It was after he had won his diploma from the Automobile Mechanics School in Kansas City that Wiley began to devote his time to engines and his thoughts to flying. He was the third youngest of six boys and one girl in the Post family and he was not hampered in his pursuits. His parents, who live two miles north of Mayaville, Okla., where they raise truck and feed crops, believe in the doctrine of good sense and as long as their children didn't get into trouble they allowed them a fairly free rein. Later Wiley's father did object to his parachute jumping and hid his chute one day, but Wiley's friends say the tables were turned next time when Wiley carried the bulky chute down to the bank and deposited it so his father wouldn't find it.

Wiley left the Kansas City Automobile School and became a garage mechanic and oil field worker, and a machine shop laborer before he realized his ambition to fly. But once he got his chance he went for air travel with a vengeance and when he renewed his transport license March 3, 1931, he estimated he had more than 3,100 hours flying time.

(Tomorrow: A garage mechanic turns wing-walker and parachute jumper, graduating into a barnstorming pilot.)

County Begins Canning Program

COLEMAN, July 3.—(AP)—A canning campaign on a big scale has been inaugurated in Coleman county with the hope of salvaging surplus vegetables in numerous gardens that have been extraordinary profitable. The work will be carried on through Miss Gertrude Brent, home demonstration agent, and various 4-H clubs in the county. Arrangements have been made to supply cans for those who have products to preserve. Application is made through a club of Miss Brent. When 100 cans are furnished an applicant, 50 of the filled containers will have to be returned to Coleman to be stored for use this winter in feeding destitute families; 25 cans will go to the grower of the vegetables canned and 25 to women who do the work. The cans will not be furnished to people able to purchase their own. The idea primarily is to assist those who were furnished garden seed by the American Red Cross. But if there are others in the county who have gardens and are not able to provide their own containers they can advise with home demonstration club leaders in their communities or with Miss Brent and receive advantage of the arrangement.

Arrangements for the innovation were completed at a meeting at the Baptist church. Thirty-one women attended the meeting of whom 27 own their cookers and cameras. When Miss Brent came to Coleman county eight years ago there were only three pressure canners and cookers in the county. Two years ago she made a survey and found more than 600. At this time, she says, more than 1,000 are in use and the number is rapidly increasing. Some women in parts of the county are canning for their neighbors on halves or for reasonable fees and many farm homes have pantries with shelves filled with vegetables and meats of all kinds.

The original intention of the promoters of the "Cans for Canners" idea was to establish a small canning plant in Coleman, but the plan was changed when it was learned that many farm women are doing work of the same kind, and the arrangement as perfected, will not effect them in any way. Instead of bringing competition, promoters of the plan believe, it will aid those who are making money canning or supplying their shelves with their shares of the finished products.

Casinghead Plant Near Vernon To Re-Open

VERNON, Texas, July 3 (AP)—The casinghead gasoline plant of the Waggoner Refinery, located at Rock Creek, 18 miles south of Vernon, will be opened within a few days after being shut down for about two months. The plant will operate at full capacity, producing two cars of gasoline daily. Twelve men will be added to the refinery staff with the opening of the plant.

Physical Education Authority At College

CANYON, July 3.—(AP)—James E. Rogers, nationally known educator, and a leader in the movement for health and physical education instruction in schools, was in Canyon last week, speaking before the assembly of the West Texas State Teachers' College, and granting private conferences to individuals who wished help and advice in their teaching problems. Previously he had spoken at the University of Texas and at several teachers' colleges.

Rogers, who appeared under the auspices of the state department of education, at present hold the following offices: Director, National Physical Education Service of the National Recreation Association; secretary-treasurer, National Commission on the Enrichment of Adult Life of the National Education Association; chairman, Field Service, American Physical Education Association; secretary, Department of School Health and Physical Education of the National Education Association; associate national chairman, Physical Education committee, Parent-Teacher Association; secretary, Society of State Directors of Physical and Health Education.

"I want to congratulate the West Texas State Teachers' College on its facilities in health and physical education," said the educator. "With your swimming pool, your three fine gymnasiums and your athletic fields and intramural field, you have a real plant. As far as my experience as far has gone, you are as well equipped as any of the institutions to which I have been."

Visual Education Tests Watched By Superintendent

AUSTIN, Texas, July 3 (AP)—Results of the visual education tests being made by the federal department of education in Washington are being watched closely by S. M. N. Marrs, Texas superintendent of education, with the view of suggesting changes in the state system. The tests being made in Washington center about the talking motion picture as a medium of instruction in elementary and high schools.

The silent movie has been in use several years in Texas public schools and has met with fair results, Marrs said, because of the numerous advantages it enjoys over the stereopticon slides. The first medium of visual education used in the schools.

Marrs said considerable doubt existed as to the practicality of the use of talking pictures in the lower grades but expressed the belief they would prove of material benefit in the upper grades where the pupils would more readily grasp the significance of the scenes and could better understand the dialogue.

Texas sent two pupils and a teacher to Washington to participate in the talking picture tests. They were Miss Pearlie Tallman of Houston, teacher, and Miss Marjorie Hanson of Austin and Cecil Douglas Marrs of College Station, pupils.

San Angeloan, 77, To Ride Bicycle On 300-Mile Trip

SAN ANGELO, Texas, July 3 (AP)—Age will be no obstacle to a bicycle trip to the coast from San Angelo, says William Evans, 77, who is planning on leaving for a point near the mouth of the Guadalupe river. Mr. Evans, or "Old Bill," as he prefers being called, is now making preparations at his residence in the Lake View community for the more than 300 miles' overland journey.

man developed a strong body. Very few men in the thirties can outdo him on any physical task, he said. As if to prove his assertion "Old Bill" jumped into the air and popped his feet together twice before landing. "Now, who can do that, if over 30," he smiled. A journey made to Coleman by bicycle a little more than a week ago, showed no ill effects for him, he said. He termed the trip a mere jaunt. He is 72 miles from San Angelo, a round trip of 144 miles. He visited at Coleman, however before returning.

For his trip Mr. Evans has rigged two bicycles together, frame to frame and from wheel to wheel, so steering can be accomplished from either. The vehicle, so arranged with board connection that the entire belongings—property and lives, the now aged

Vacation rates for idle residence telephones

One solution (provided you're planning a vacation of 30 days or more) is to place your telephone on vacation half-rates while you are away. It's a convenient way to save money. And—this to folks who sometimes have their telephones taken out—it spares you inconvenience on your return.

- That's because:
1. You pay just half the regular rate.
  2. Service is reconnected quickly after you return—usually within 24 hours after you notify us.
  3. You keep your present telephone number. (You'd lose it if you had your telephone removed.)
  4. Your name remains in the telephone book.

If you wish, while you are away we will refer your calls to another telephone—that of relatives, for instance.

Vacation rates are available for periods of more than 30 days. They apply only to residence telephones—not to business or rural service.

To obtain them, mail the coupon below, or telephone the business office.

VOLUME XXVI

BIG, SPRING, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JULY 3, 1931

NUMBER 39

Special Session Call Expected Next Week

Buy your groceries Friday. The stores will be closed Saturday, Independence Day. This goes, too, for practically everything else you may need for Saturday and Sunday.

The public is urged to drive out to Mt. Olive cemetery Sunday and see how well the entire place has been cleaned.

One of the hardest civic problems of Big Spring has been proper provision for care of the cemetery. More water is needed before those having loved ones resting there can keep the lots beautified as they wish.

It is a sad commentary upon any community when its burying ground is not properly provided for.

Many cities care for their cemeteries through municipal appropriation. The existing method here, popular subscription, is unsatisfactory.

If some of the service or lunch clubs here want to do something very worthwhile they should get to work at once working out a dependable plan for financing the care of the cemetery.

John Wolcott, who has spent much time for a long time acting as general handy man in receiving subscriptions and looking after things generally for the Cemetery Association announced two five-dollar donations Thursday. They came from K. G. Hall and Mrs. C. Hines.

The fund is practically exhausted. Something must be done about it.

Much conversation has occurred within the past week on the general topic of "Why doesn't Big Spring have some kind of July celebration?"

With a holiday on their hands a great majority of residents cannot do not wish to take a long trip away from home for the day.

But they do wish to get away from the house and see something different.

We are in need of a site such as a race track, fairgrounds or something like that. Fact is, we ought to put on a good fair here every autumn. Begin in a comparatively small way and build the institution up year by year.

The more we think about it the more we believe there is here the foundation for a great industry—entertainment and recreation.

We have one of the best motion picture theatres in Texas. We have hotels equal to any West Texas city.

We need to promote this business.

Baby Drowned Near Lamesa In Small Tank

David, Son Of Mr. And Mrs. J. L. Barrett, Resided In Fairview Area

David Barrett, two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Barrett of Fairview community near Lamesa, met death by drowning Wednesday in a small earthen tank.

The child escaped unnoticed from a group of older people and wandered about fifty-five yards to the tank.

He was missed and a search instigated. His body was found in the muddy bottom of the pond and it was supposed that he had accidentally stumbled, falling into the water.

This death marks the second by drowning in Dawson county within two months.

Alrx Stover, 36, farmer, living near Schulenburg, was drowned yesterday. A boat capsized while he fished with his brother and a neighbor.

Technicalities Of Cigaret Tax Law Causing Worries

AUSTIN, July 2.—(AP)—Technicalities in the administration of the cigarette tax law passed at the last session of the legislature are causing considerable worry to Charley Lockhart, state treasurer. The law will become effective at midnight, Aug. 21, with plans being made to start its enforcement on the stroke of 12.

One of the most troublesome details to be decided is the method of affixing the stamp to each package to show the tax has been paid. The law calls for a tax of three cents per package of 20. Ordinarily it would be a small matter to paste the stamp on the package but leading cigarette manufacturers, recently started using cellophane wrapping around the original package.

No stamp has been developed that will adhere to the slick cellophane, the government revenue stamps being affixed at the factory before the packages are wrapped in the substance.

The Texas tax law, however, calls for the stamps to be affixed by the person making the first sale of the cigarettes. The attorney general has ruled the stamps must be attached on the original package and not the wrapper.

Should the manufacturers decline to place the stamps within the wrapper their refusal would necessitate removal of the cellophane by Texas dealers before the stamps could be affixed.

It was believed likely, however, that the cigarette manufacturers would agree to attaching the stamp before shipping the cigarettes to wholesale and retail dealers.

The attorney general also ruled that the stamps must be affixed to each package in a carton and the wholesale stamping of cartons would be banned because of the opportunities for fraud such a practice offered. If the wholesaler makes the first sale in intrastate commerce, the wholesaler must affix the stamps before shipping the cigarettes to the retailer. If the cigarettes are manufactured in the state, the stamps must be affixed by the factory, the attorney general ruled.

The only limitation placed upon retailers is that they must not sell cigarettes without the stamp.

Manufacturers residing outside Texas who maintain warehouses in Texas will be required to affix the stamps from the distributing point, even though the shipment is invoiced direct from the factory without the state and delivery made from Texas stock.

In ruling on this point the attorney general made what is termed a "hair line" decision involving the rights of states to interfere with interstate commerce. If the transaction is held to be interstate, the state would have no authority to interfere. "Inasmuch as the cigarettes are shipped to a centralization point in Texas, owned and used by such manufacturer for the purpose of distributing cigarettes in intrastate business that they would be required to affix the stamps when such cigarettes are distributed from the centralization points," is the opinion said.

Wholesalers within the state who buy cigarettes without the state and place them in Texas warehouses for distribution to retailers beyond the state limits will not be required to pay the tax.

What effect the tax would have on the sale of cigarettes in Texas was a matter of conjecture. One-half the revenue will go to the free school fund and the other half to the general revenue fund.

Baby Sea Lion Will NOT GO NEAR WATER

ST. LOUIS.—At the St. Louis Zoo, a baby sea lion, born on June 5, and one of the few ever born in captivity, refuses to enter water.

The baby sea lion almost drowned recently when it was placed in a shallow pool of water. Since then, it has refused to enter the water, squealing and scrambling toward land everytime it is put into the pool.

Another freak of nature is found in the actions of a Plymouth Rock hen, which has been denied normal satisfaction of the brooding instinct because of a penchant for breaking eggs, and has adopted four puppies.

At mealtime the hen scratches the ground for them and appears puzzled when they turn up their noses at bits of grain. They have, however, eaten brain mash set out for other chickens.

Can Throw Stones AT THIS GLASS HOUSE

PARIS.—(INS)—One can throw slanders at the first glass house built in this city without disturbing the tenants.

Peeping Tom could station himself beneath the windows when they are lit up at night with opera glasses and see nothing but translucent glass.

Pierre Chareau, the architect, says glass will last longer than brick or cement and thus finds the most relatively cheap.

The unusual structure has three floors and looks like an igloo, striking an Arabic note in the Latin Quarter which already boasts a Mohammedan mosque, chalet and tumble-down shacks. It is easier to heat than an igloo, says Chareau.

Woman Finds Self "WITHOUT A COUNTRY"

PARIS.—(INS)—The well-known "man without a country" had nothing on a pretty English woman, Peggy Vere, who makes her home in Paris. Some years ago she married an American dancer, Oscar Mouvat and thereby took on his nationality. Later her husband died and now, on the eve of leaving for England, she has been told she must first obtain a Home Office permit.

After her marriage, she did not automatically become an American citizen, because she lived in France with her husband, and she would have had to live two years in America before being able to take out papers for her citizenship.

Her husband's country which will meet in Geneva early in July, is hoping to arrange a number of these perplexing questions which are ever arising for women who have married foreigners.

Heiress, Here's Chance TO WED JOBLESS KING

The announcement appeared in the papers of this capital, and aspirants to the honor of financing his claims were told to call at a cottage in a suburban town.

There the prince himself, 64 years old, answered a knock on the door.

He said he needed money for living expenses as well as for suits which he proposes to file against Hungary and Austria. He recently divorced his second wife.

FRANCE, LAND OF WINE, INSTALLS DRY PRESIDENT

PARIS.—(INS)—France, one of the greatest of wine growing countries, has elected a water drinking president.

Paul Doumer, who has succeeded Gaston Doumergue in the Elysee Palace, is an abstainer. Water is his principal beverage.

Doumer is not setting a precedent, for Raymond Poincare, former president and several times prime minister, also is an abstainer.

Gotham Gives World Fliers Big Reception

NEW YORK, July 2.—(AP)—Cheering sirens and ticker tape marked this city's welcome today to Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, back in town after circling the globe in less than nine days.

Crowds jammed the streets about the Ritz Carlton hotel long before the fliers awoke. Police held the throng back when the aviators finally appeared and entered an automobile for a ride to the North River.

There they boarded the city tug Macon, which took them to the battery for official ceremonies.

Mrs. Gatty, delayed by bad weather, arrived during the night and awoke her husband with a kiss in the morning.

The two couples had breakfast together.

The fliers landed here last night at 8:46 p. m., Texas time. Their total time on the world flight was eight days, 15 hours, 51 minutes. The Graf Zeppelin's round-the-world mark is more than 21 days.

ROOSEVELT FIELD, N. Y., July 2.—Cutting the round-the-world record from almost 22 days to a little more than a week, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty landed at dusk yesterday on this field which they left at dawn less than nine days before on an earth-girding race against time.

The section accorded them was so boisterous that the fliers fled the field, but only after near riotous scenes in which police struggled to preserve order and fliers were swung in angry altercations which threatened to dev "up into a serious disturbance."

It was dusk before Post and Gatty arrived and the west was painted in rich pinks as the big white plane shot with the speed of a giant arrow out of the sunset. At 7:44 p. m. (Eastern Standard Time), the fliers were first sighted and three minutes and a half later, after their lights glowing against the purple eastern sky, they set the plane lightly down half a mile from the administration building.

Elapsed time of the 18,000 mile flight around the world, a flight which famous aviators today called the greatest achievement in the history of aviation, was just eight days, 15 hours and 51 minutes. The previous world girdling record, established by the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin two years ago, was almost 22 days. Post and Gatty although they took almost nine days to get around the world only spent four days, 10 hours and eight minutes of this time in the air.

When the round-the-world plane Winnie Mae touched the turf the crowd broke into motion, yelling and whooping. There were 150 police on duty but they were powerless before the combined strength and determination of the several thousand enthusiastic witnesses of the completion of aviation's latest achievement.

The press was so heavy there, however, that police had to rescue the fliers from their admirers and place them again in a car, which moved off the field with half a dozen policemen standing on the running boards with sticks feeding off the frantic crowd.

Post and Gatty gave every indication that they would have liked to continue to accept quiet hotel haven in New York but they still had the formalities to comply with so they circled around outside the field in an empty hangar. The crowd soon found them, however, and stormed the doors. There were new scenes of wild excitement in the hangar, reporters and cameramen fighting for their lights and general public purchasers in pursuit of their determination to see all that happened.

Return Once More Again Post and Gatty, with the former's wife, fled the field, but remembering a promise made by their representatives here that a general interview would be given the press, they returned again.

For half an hour more they talked as best they could with almost 100 reporters, each of whom wanted an answer to his question. It was almost 9 o'clock before they at last really got away for New York and the first real night's sleep they have had since they lifted into the air on their great adventure in the rainy dawn of last Tuesday.

As soon as the plane stopped rolling Gatty and Post climbed from the cabin, turned their backs over to a police guard, and entered an automobile which carried them half a mile across the field to the administration building.

As they left the automobile the crowd cheered again and attempted to break through the police lines, but were largely unsuccessful. Friends and admirers of the fliers grabbed them up and carried them to the last stage on their shoulders as flashlights boomed in the falling darkness.

The governor favors a law to combine oil, water and soil conservation in a single board.

Independence Day Program Given At Club

Flag Etiquette Studied; Declaration Of Independence Read

An Independence Day program under direction of Dr. C. W. Deats, was given at Thursday's meeting of the Kiwanis club, at the Crawford hotel.

Dr. Deats read the Declaration of Independence, Carl Blomfield, assisted by Halbert Woodward, one of the city's "top hand" Boy Scouts gave a lesson on flag etiquette, Walter Deats, Jr., accompanied by his mother, played as a saxophone solo a medley of patriotic airs. The club sang "America," "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "The Star Spangled Banner."

Guests were Mrs. Deats and Walter, Cecil Thompson of El Paso and Halbert Woodward.

President Porter named C. W. Deats, Ben Cole, Taylor Anderson and Raymond McDonald on the July program committee.

Mr. Blomfield asked individual members questions on uses of the flag of the United States of America. The first, as to when the flag should be flown, had to be answered by Young Woodward. He said "sunrise to sunset except over the Senate business office, the house business office, both ends of the national capitol and over the grave of Francis Scott Key, composer of 'The Star Spangled Banner'—over these places the flag is flown all the time."

Other questions brought out that the American flag is to be carried center and front when in procession with other flags; at the top when flown from a mast with other flags at the same elevation as flags of other nations when in procession; behind the speaker when draped on a speaker's stand; with the stars or union, upper left when draped on a wall; with the union pointing north or east when hung from above a street; with the union over the left shoulder of the body when draped over a casket in a military funeral and from a standard at the minister's right when shown in a church.

Excerpts From Evidence Presented For Application To Build T&PN

Excerpts from the abstract of evidence relied upon by the Texas Pacific Northern in its direct testimony at the Lubbock hearing in December follow:

J. L. LANCASTER, president of the T&PN and the T&N, proposed a line to traverse a level, fertile plateau. For the first 150 miles north of Big Spring the country is a rich, sandy loam, which produces in abundance cotton, corn, various varieties of Egyptian maize and sugar cane. The territory lying to the north is a sandy clay, admirably adapted to the growing of wheat, Egyptian maize and sugar cane.

The present rail lines within the territory are: A branch line of the Santa Fe, extending from Stanton to Lamesa; branch line of the Santa Fe extending from Lubbock to Brownfield; the Santa Fe from Lubbock to Levelland; the Santa Fe extending from Lubbock through Littlefield to Farwell; a branch line of the Fort Worth and Denver City, extending from Stanton to Plainsboro; the Santa Fe from Stanton through Hereford, thence westward to Farwell; a line of the Rock Island from Amarillo through Vega, thence westward to Tucuman, all of which lines extend generally in an easterly and westerly direction.

Decision On Building Site Being Sought

City Manager V. R. Smitham Saturday was expecting to receive information from the postoffice department at Washington as to whether the building will be placed on the old central Ward school property, Fourth and Sedley and Gregg streets.

Smitham telegraphed for the information and expected a reply either Saturday or today.

If the postoffice department does not select the site, the city commission immediately will start negotiating with the school board in an effort to purchase the property as a site for the new city hall, central fire station, jail and auditorium.

According to Smitham the tract is a desirable one for the building.

Should the postoffice department decide to purchase the building, Smitham said, it is possible the commission will buy the remaining strip for the city hall and central fire station.

V. R. Smitham To Meet Fort Worth Council Monday

City Manager V. R. Smitham will leave Sunday for Fort Worth where he will confer Monday with the city commission in regard to the vacancy existing in that city, due to the resignation of O. E. Carr, he announced today.

E. McAdams, Waco, Georgia; D. Fairbrother, Wichita Falls, Texas; H. Bothwell, Sweetwater; Paul H. Millard, Beaumont; A. R. Leah, Oklahoma City; Adam R. Johnson, Austin; and Smitham.

Smitham had no statement to make other than that the Fort Worth body had written him asking for the resignation of Carr.

FORT WORTH, June 19. (UP)—Mayor William Bryce of Fort Worth was in Dallas today looking over the names of applicants for the job as city manager there recently. He hopes to find additional information on some of the applicants for the job as manager here to succeed O. E. Carr.

Carr resigned recently to become city manager at Oakland, Calif.

Suspect Is Arrested In Stonewall

Young Divorcee, Mother Of Two, Falls As Gun Is Fired

(Special To The Herald)

MIDLAND, June 27.—Mystery surrounding the fatal shooting of Mrs. Charlie Buckle, 28, divorced, and mother of two children, had not been thinned tonight.

Mrs. Buckle fell mortally wounded last night in her mother's home here.

A high school girl, who was sitting on the porch in front of the duplex apartment in the dwelling, said she heard a shot fired from the door and saw Mrs. Buckle fall, then saw a man run by the side of the house and disappear down a dark alley.

Tonight Sheriff Bailey Eingham was holding a man in jail at Aspermont, Stonewall county, who had been arrested earlier in the day at Pecos as a suspect.

When the arrest was made the suspect, a Midland man, said "I guess you have me for that cold check. I thought I straightened it up."

Shown a copy of an Abilene paper of Saturday morning containing a report of the death of Mrs. Buckle, he exclaimed, "My God! We were to have been married in a month. She and her husband and my wife and I all received our divorces the same day during the February term of district court in Midland."

The suspect, who was to be brought here Sunday for questioning, said he had a "perfect alibi," that he had attended church services in Pecos Friday night and was seen there by at least 50 persons.

The suspect declared "I will find the killer. It was a woman."

Survey Terms War Debt Plan Constructive

Psychological Effect, If Plan Successful, To Be Helpful

The immediate and enthusiastic response of financial markets to the announcement that the United States Government would favor a one-year moratorium on all international debts, including the operations obligations, suggests that this step, if the negotiations for its execution are successful, should be a powerful influence, psychologically, at least, working toward world-wide trade recovery, states the Guaranty Trust Company of New York in current issue of the Guaranty Survey, its monthly review of business and finance, which has just been published.

"The actual economic significance of the war debt is a controversial subject," The Survey continues. "Some authorities point out that the yearly service charges on account of the debt constitute a relatively small item in the international balance of payments, which others maintain that the tax burdens and transfer problems arising from the settlements are much more important than their actual magnitude would suggest."

Optimism Created

"The comment of business leaders and public officials in this country has been almost unanimously favorable. Typical of the general attitude of approval was the statement of a prominent industrial executive, who said he regarded the proposal as 'the first great constructive move we have made for the world's economic recovery.'"

"The most important immediate effect of the proposal is psychological. It has served to revive hopes for economic recovery and political stability where widespread doubt and pessimism were acting as deterrent influences without regard to actual facts or real values. The economic effects of a restoration of confidence will be great, even if the processes of readjustment move slowly and actual business improvement does not come rapidly or in appreciable volume."

It would be a mistake to over-emphasize this proposed debt adjustment as an economic factor in itself, but as a stimulant to constructive effort and thought, both here and abroad, it carries great weight and may well mark the beginning of a business revival, which precedes and helps to verify business recovery.

Effects On Markets

"The publication of the government's plan was followed by sharp advances in values in all the financial markets of the world. The New York Stock Exchange rallied strongly in the heaviest trading in several months, and similar movements were reported from the financial centers of Europe. The condition on the Berlin Bourse was described as a buyers' stampede. Optimism in this country was reflected also in commodity markets. The day's advance in prices of four major farm products was estimated to have added $300,000,000 to the aggregate value of these crops. Export sales of copper at New York reached the highest daily total reported so far this year.

"Preliminary estimates by United States Treasury officials placed the total amount of German payments at approximately $400,000,000, of which $246,000,000 would be scribbled by the United States, $87,000,000 by France, $120,000,000 by Great Britain, $9,000,000 by Italy, and $14,000,000 by other countries. These payments, of course, would not be cancelled, but merely suspended for a year, so that the amounts actually sacrificed would be equivalent to one year's interest on all future sums payable under the various debt agreements."

American business has passed through the first half of 1931 at a practically unchanged level of activity. Such variations as have occurred have been mainly seasonal in character and have failed to show any convincing sign of a fundamental change in trend. The expansion of industrial operations during the first quarter brought some encouragement, but its possible favorable implications were surrounded with a good deal of doubt, due to the fact that the revival was accompanied by no indication of price stabilization. Subsequent events have proved that doubt to have been justified.

"Although no definite improvement has yet become visible, there is some basis for the growing belief that the lowest level of depression had been reached and that recovery should manifest itself during the second half of the year. The very fact that six months have passed without bringing further significant recession can reasonably be regarded as a sign that the process of readjustment is nearing completion. Moreover, the general level of activity appears to have reached approximately as low a point, in comparison with what is generally regarded as normal as it ever did in the course of past depressions. The recent behavior of security and commodity markets has also been considerably more reassuring than it was during the earlier part of the year. Many corporation statements for the first half year are certain to be unsatisfactory and will have some depressing effects, which will, however, be lessened if the returning faith in future development grows stronger, as seems likely. The importance of looking forward, rather than backward, is now being realized.

"The financial situation has been strengthened by the elimination of certain weak spots, notably in the Middle West. The wave of bank failures in Chicago, while neces-

Gold Thief In Raids On Two More Offices

Dr. Huppel And Dr. Hardy Lose Quantity Of Precious Metal

Thieves in the city continue to prospect for gold. Friday night they made a raid on the office of Dr. C. D. Huppel and obtained a quantity of the yellow metal valued at $85. Saturday night the robbers again went "prospecting."

This time they visited the offices of two other dentists, Dr. E. H. Huppel in the West Texas National building and Dr. Wofford Hardy in the Petroleum building. Dr. Huppel had feared such a move and secured his valuables in a better place. However he did not take the entire stock of his gold and the thieves were successful in "panning" a meager amount of the "pay dirt."

In Dr. Hardy's case he was dug out about $40 in gold and an additional sum of three or four dollars in stamps. The gold thing about the job was that the thieves only made off with the gold scraps Dr. Hardy had in his laboratory. The "gold diggers" overlooked a key in the stamp box that would have given them access to the store room and a rich strike.

Two Men Carry Same Name; One Is Barber The Other A Plumber

One of those misnames where two men have the same name came to light here Monday when the Herald was asked to say that the Fred Campbell who was given a diagnosis of a complaint charging burglary, when examining trial was held before Justice of Peace C. W. Collins several days ago is not Fred Campbell, local barber, but Fred Campbell, a local plumber.

The plumber's attorney also informed the Herald that inaccurate news carried in the brief report of the dismissal published last week in the door to an apartment in which Campbell's personal property was located was not "broken down," he said. A bar nailed across it was torn loose and a key in Campbell's possession used to enter the place he said.

"Our teachers are Ph. D. college professors. We take courses in Natural History and Biology. Our work is under the direction and supervision of the University of Wichita and it is done by the lecture method. We have out lectures usually on the side of some old battle field, or some other historic place.

"Our tour will last seven weeks and we will have covered twenty-six states and two Canadian countries in the East, and have been some interesting places by the time it is over.

"We have already spent five days in Washington, D. C. We visited the White House, capitol and other interesting places. We are now spending eight days in New York after having stopped in Memphis, Chattanooga, Asbury Park and Philadelphia.

Fliers Describe Hardships Of Siberia-To-Alaska Trip

NOME, Alaska, July 1.—Weather so bad it was impossible to see outside the cockpit of the plane... The flight from Khabarovsk to Nome was the most dangerous and hardest trip of the entire world flight, Post declared.

New Air Schedule To Speed Service To Eastern Cities

MARSHALL MCCREA

Through a change in the schedules of American Airways, Inc. and the National Air Transport connecting plane at Fort Worth...

All the way across the Bering sea we saw miles and miles of ice floes moving steadily northward into the straits. The gold and haze prevented us from going up to a higher altitude.

Our course was a little north of Nome in a semi-circle and for the last 200 miles to Solomon we flew above the clouds.

When we came down underneath them we were about 10 miles from the field at Solomon.

Wiley, said Gatty, 'you are sure some pilot.

We made it and you certainly know how to fly that plane. I thought we were gone once, but now know that when you are at the stick we are going to pull through.

My, but we are glad to put our feet on good American ground. This was the first remark of Post as he stepped from the plane.

Sixteen hours in that bloody plane over water and no man's land is enough for us.

He shivered a bit in the chill Alaskan wind and added:

'It's colder than a son-of-a-gun up here.'

Appreciates Soviet Aid Post expressed appreciation of their treatment by the Soviet government during their hop over Russia and Siberia.

The Soviets are O. K., he declared.

'They did everything possible under the sun for us and tried to spend it along as fast as we could go, hoping that we would break existing records all to ourselves.'

After eating a large meal of American cooked food, Post, in evident enjoyment, declared:

'This is the first we have eaten of any good food since we left Moscow. We ate only a few mouthfuls of black bread each day and drank a cup of tea since we left that city.

'This fried chicken is fine. I'm as hungry and dry as a fish. Say, this coffee is the best I've had to drink in a week.'

Gatty joined his companion in complimenting the food, both men speaking of the privations they had gone through.

After taking on 100 gallons of gasoline the fliers took off for Fairbanks at 5:30 p. m. (7:30 p. m. Pacific Standard Time).

Plane sticks in Sand After getting into the plane and started to turn around they found the wheels were stuck in the sand, but finally they got the ship moving and taxied down to the end of the field to turn into the wind.

As they reached the end of the field the wheels of the plane sank into the sand and the ship jerked over, the propeller catching in the sand. It was bent on both ends.

Post immediately cut the motor, got out of the plane and began slithering the propeller with a wrench and a hammer, striking him on the elbow and paralyzing his left arm, although no bones were broken.

He finally declared he was 'all right, and with a mechanical 'no bones broken' pumped into the ship and they took off.

Their landing at Solomon gave them a second disappointment when it occurred in the past five years.

In 1928 the citizens of Nome were all set to welcome the Mitchell dirigible Norge upon the completion of its polar expedition but the dirigible landed at Teller, 40 miles north of Nome, and was dismantled there.

Many residents of Nome had hoped to see the Norge in town, but because of shifting and subsiding of the 'Winnie' Mass, they not only failed to sight the globe circling monoplane but had no opportunity to extend Nome hospitality to the fliers.

George Thomas Coyne, Thomas Richard Thomas, Bill Thomas, John Pickle and Thomas Joe Williamson will return tomorrow from Madras canyon where they have been attending the council camp for Boy Scouts of the Buffalo Trails Council.

How to Rid the Place of Swarms of Summer Flies

A good way to rid the house and milking pens of flies, which are very bad at this time of the year, is given by the Home Demonstration Agent, Mrs. Loucile Allgood, quoting an article from A. and M. College.

This may be used on a small or large scale: Pointing out that summer feeding of beef cattle on pasture grass or other good pasture has proven relatively profitable on Texas farms if flies can be controlled.

A. L. Smith, beef cattle specialist in the A. and M. College Extension Service, calls attention to an effective method of combating flies in the feed lot as suggested by J. N. Wheeler, county agent in Jackson county.

In a feeding demonstration last spring with 40 calves on a good pasture, the loss of weight was put out every morning for a week, and once a week thereafter.

Formaldehyde was mixed in about half with sweet milk at the rate of one ounce of poison to one pint of milk. Bread crumbs were placed in the pens for the flies to light on, and the pens put on boards around the bars high enough up to be out of reach of stock.

Brownsville, During Irish potato blight increased the yield of potatoes 25 bushels per acre in a demonstration conducted by Will Cabler, Cameron county farmer, in cooperation with H. L. Ayrey, county agent.

Texas & Pacific Has Largest Levy On Intangible Assets Of Any Road In State; 1930 Levies Are Lower

AUSTIN, June 29.—(AP)—Texas railroads will pay intangible assets taxes on $99,300,000 this year, according to figures released by the state tax board.

The largest intangible assets tax levy on any Texas railroad will be paid by the Texas & Pacific Railway, $11,091,670. This was the same as the total on which the road paid taxes last year.

Reduction of $1,000,000 in the total on which the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe will pay was granted, bringing the total to $10,090,670. The Fort Worth and Denver City was assessed at $6,693,000 and the G. H. and S. A. at $7,945,180.

The intangible assets tax is added to the regular property tax as a levy on earnings computed over a five-year average.

Levies on the intangible assets of bridge operating companies have not been completed because of the request made of the attorney general to investigate the intangible assets of the Red River Bridge Co., operators of several toll bridges between Texas and Oklahoma.

All assessments against the railroads have been completed. The Texasians and Fort Smith Railway, which last year accepted an intangible valuation of $1,750,000, this year reports an increase in valuation at this figure. Last year this railway claimed it should be allowed to prorate Texas earnings over loan mileage in other states.

This contention was overruled in the assessment agreement made last year. The board in making its 1931 assessments cut the Texasians and Fort Smith assessment to $1,300,000.

Four railroads were relieved of assessments. They were the Brazos, San Lake and Western, assessed last year at $300,000; Kansas, Oklahoma and Gulf, assessed at $40,916 and the Wichita Valley, assessed at $345,879.

The following assessments and decreases were ordered: Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe, $10,090,670, decrease, $1,000,000; Fort Worth and Denver City, $6,693,000, decrease, $500,793; Houston and Texas City, $7,945,180, decrease, $248,517; International Great Northern, $1,900,000, decrease, $1,000,000; Missouri-Kansas and Texas, $7,500,000, decrease, $500,000; Dayton-Goody Creek, $99,960, decrease, $50,449; Galveston, Harrisburg and San Antonio, $7,966,180, decrease, $717,937; Houston-East and West Texas, $991,070, decrease, $5,930; St. Louis-Southwestern, $208,823, decrease, $295,134; San Antonio and Archer, as Pass, $2,149,950, decrease, $57; Texas and New Orleans, $2,023,221, decrease $63, 374; Texas Midland, $188,295, decrease, $111,705.

No changes were made in the assessments of the following roads: Texas and Pacific, $11,091,670; Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf, $2,825,000; Fort Worth and Texas City, $2,280,000; Abilene and Southwestern, $100,000; El Paso and Northwestern, $600,000; Fort Worth Belt, $23,900; Galveston, Houston and Henderson, $227,545; Quannah Acme and Pacific, $250,000; Rio Grande, El Paso and Santa Fe, $110,902; Rio-Grande, Snyder and Pacific, $100,000; St. Louis, Brownsville and Mexico, $1,650,000; Stephenville North and South Texas, $71,412; Weatherford, Mineral Wells and Northwestern, $79,580; Wichita Falls and Southern, $75,000.

Fliers

Suddenly the police lines gave way and the field became a bedlam with excitement rilling pipes and numerous flat flights breaking out as police, with night sticks in their hands, attempted to force a way for the fliers.

As soon as police were able to force a passage through the crowd the car bearing Post and Gatty and the former's wife, drove rapidly from the field under a heavy escort of motorcycle policemen.

Mrs. Gatty, who was flying from the west to greet her husband, had not yet arrived when the Winnie Mae got in.

Among noted persons in the crowd to greet the world fliers were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and his wife, William Brock, who flew almost around the world in 1927, Clarence Chamberlin, who flew to Europe soon after Lindbergh, and Bert Acosta, who flew there with Admiral Richard E. Byrd in the same summer.

Aid To World Business Likely To Offset Payment Loss

WASHINGTON, June 27.—(AP)—Reduced to its direct cash effect on the pocketbooks of American taxpayers, President Hoover's proposal for a year's debt and separation holiday is but a drop in the American financial bucket.

Measured by the indirect effect an economic or political collapse in Germany might have on individual Americans, the possibilities of the holiday are staggering.

What Mr. Hoover has proposed to Europe is that the United States forego for a year annual payments from France, Italy, England, Belgium and other former allied countries concerned, aggregating something like a quarter of a billion dollars.

In return these countries would forego for the same period equivalent reparations payments from Germany.

The theory is that Germany, given that aid, can weather not only the economic crisis which makes her the greatest national victim of the world depression, but also the internal political chaos which threatens her middle-of-the-road republican government.

She Start of World Up-Swing If Germany can start up full again economically, then world recovery of business and industry may be considered definitely begun, many officials feel.

What The Moratorium Means

and the treasury now determining policy as to national debt reduction. They also could be deferred for a year, in which event, waiver of debt payments would have no immediate direct effect on taxpayers.

Indirect effects of the situation in Germany and the possible repudiation of war debts received at home are far more important, and not subject to any definite computation.

It has been pointed out, for instance, that private loans made to Germany since 1919, although in that period the total reduction in the national debt has been more than nine billions.

Quarter Of Billion Due America For Year By Other Nations

The interest income from these securities plays a part in American purchasing power at home. Any political upheaval in Germany that upset those interest payments would have a direct effect on business conditions in the United States.

Would Destroy A Customer Similarly such 'developments' in Germany would, for a time at least, destroy Germany's power to buy in the American market. She is chiefly a customer for American farm products and other raw materials.

Added to the possibilities of a collapse of the German government would be the effect on American overseas trade, due to items which might be taken by countries surrounding Germany to meet the situation.

What those might be or how they might further limit or organize existing American overseas markets, already at low ebb in consuming power, is merely a matter of speculation.

Added disruption of trade here would almost certainly be the beginning at least, of a period of mass unemployment in this country.

Crisis Changes Aspect All these factors and many others enter into the picture which the Washington announcement is attempting to adjust through the proposed debt and repudiation.

Baron, 30, Rich, Sighs, Wishing He Were Poor

PARIS (INS)—Marcu Empain, thirty-year-old Belgian heir, one of the richest young men of the world, says that he would give anything to be poor.

Visiting the French capital not long ago he declared that he is really only happy when in camp where nobody recognizes him. In Paris or Brussels the Baron can not walk into a restaurant without the head waiter bowing him to the best table and inquiring about his health and ailments.

"The worst of it all is that I have no desire for anything," was the sad tale of the rich man. "It is terrible. If a friend wants a house I can buy it for him. If I want a million pounds cash for myself tomorrow I can have it. You see? It is really terrible."

He has given up gambling because he finds no fun in it. If he wins $200,000 francs, it does him no good, he doesn't spend a cent of it. If he loses he is sorry for several days afterward.

He reports the best time he ever had in his life was when he was quarantined with his father and came to Paris to live on ten dollars a month.

He was a poor bank clerk. But at the end of the year his father forgave him. The father of this poor little rich man amassed his gigantic fortune as a public works contractor and electrical engineer in Belgium, France and Egypt. The son is continuing his work and eight o'clock every morning finds him at his office, the director of sixty-five companies and chairman of twenty-five.

The big thirty cow punchers and cattle men can laugh all they want to when a Basque sheepherder hears the name Paulino. When a shepherd wants to see a fight, he can't tell the boss he has a sick grandmother and take the day off. The sheep have to stand at attention and say to be tended to. It's just possible

Floating Islands

"We spent an afternoon at the Floating Islands. They cover an area of about 20 miles. Some of the islands are larger than others. Trees have been planted thick on them to anchor them. Mexicans in picturesque native dress take you around in flat bottomed boats. We imagined we were in Venice. At the end of the main canal, is a resort. Like everything else in Mexico, it is very romantic. We bought many flowers from the Mexican children.

Mexican Pyramids

"We spent yesterday at the Pyramids. It is one of the most historical places in Mexico. I am enclosing pictures of them. There is the pyramid of the Sun; of the Moon and pyramid of the Wind. We went through the sacrificial grounds and the amphitheatre, viewed the sacrificial altar which was hideous. We climbed to the top of one pyramid. It was awful. I can hardly walk today but I would have not missed it. They are larger than the Egyptian pyramids. In a museum close by, were all sorts of Aztec relics.

I feel always as if I were starting a new adventure. I am, for everything is so different.

1,000-Mile Gas Pipe Line To Chicago Nears Completion

By HARRY BERGMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO, June 27.—One of the greatest engineering feats of modern times—a natural gas pipe line nearly 1,000 miles long—is nearing completion and will furnish Chicago factories and homes with the subterranean fuel within the present year.

"We hope to have natural gas in Chicago by the fall or winter of this year," was the statement made to International News Service by a high official of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company.

The best known award in the fine arts class, which the F. W. W. line, longest in the world, is most constructed from the rich gas fields of Amarillo, Texas, to the Chicago metropolitan area. A contract for the construction of the last section of the line from Rockford, Ill., to Joliet, where it will be connected with the city's system of pipes, is being completed by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke Company.

The construction is proceeding as rapidly as can be expected, said the Peoples Gas official, "but we cannot at this time give any definite statement regarding the date of completion."

Representing an investment of approximately $100,000,000 the line is being constructed at 24-inch diameter, especially built to withstand the terrific pressure of natural gas. More than 200,000 tons of steel were purchased for the project.

Completion of the project is expected to result in lower prices and enhanced efficiency of the gas consumer. It is planned to use the natural gas with the most efficient of the modern gas turbines, which are now in use. Other than that, we are making no difference between the gas as it is produced and the gas as it is used.

The proposed line for Chicago is expected to be completed by the end of the year. It is planned to use the natural gas with the most efficient of the modern gas turbines, which are now in use. Other than that, we are making no difference between the gas as it is produced and the gas as it is used.

It is understood that the company will institute a campaign to encourage use of gas for domestic purposes, particularly for heating and hot water. The industry is expected to represent an investment of $100,000,000.

Natural gas is produced in Denver and Pueblo, Colo., by a pipe line from Amarillo, which required eight months of construction and involved an estimated investment of $25,000,000. With a capacity of 200,000,000 cubic feet per day, this line rises to a height of 7,000 feet above sea level at Denver.

Other cities being served by natural gas are Houston, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Corpus Christi, Louisville, Cincinnati, Kansas City, Birmingham, Atlanta and Salt Lake City.

Rogers Had No Politics to Help Him, As Did Hoover, Coolidge at Marion

By WILL ROGERS
Well all I know is just what I read in the papers. A wild lot in the papers last week, or so about Mr. Hoover and Mr. Coolidge joint appearance at the Harding Memorial. Mr. Hoover put over the best speech he could give and said something, told how Mr. Harding had been imposed upon by his friends, which of course was the absolute truth. But Mr. Coolidge you couldn't get him out of his place anything so definite as that Hoover said a good deal of things, just what you would expect a politician to say of any of his own Party, touched on Politics of course, and told what the Republican Party had accomplished under Mr. Harding. Hoover in a dignified way to give the Grand Old Party credit.

But Mr. Hoover really touched on his emptiness, and then when he brought out an strong about how his friends had imposed upon him, that was a fine and rather a brave thing for a politician to do. He really said what a man in that line would say. But when you are in politics and you are somebody to keep you in, you are not able to act like a real life. It must have been a mighty nice affair.

Marion is a pretty little city. They say the atmosphere was there. They say the atmosphere was there. They say the atmosphere was there. They say the atmosphere was there.
