CAPTURE MEN WHO SEIZED CASING

GOOD ROADS VITAL NEED IN COUNTY

Ranger Men Make Tour of Projected System and Find Need of Much Effort.

Dr. R. H. Hodges, chairman of the road roads committee of the Chamber of Commerce, spent Friday and Saturday on a tour of inspection of the Eastland county highway system now under construction. He was accompanied by Messrs. Fleming and Gregg of the contracting firm, and Mr. Cohen, engineer in charge of all dirt work on the roadways. The trip, Dr. Hodges admits, is enough to impress the value of good roads on anyone who will undertake it. On one occasion the party was compelled to push the car for half a mile through the sand in the southern part of the county.

Dr. Hodges is outspoken in his approval of the work of County Engineer Ecdolis and his staff in locating the roads. Not only have they cut much mileage from the roads now in use, but they have so located the roads that a minimum of grade has been obtained without the necessity for a great amount of cuts and fills. The largest example of this class of work is a twelve-foot fill and cut of equal depth through the solid rock on the Gorman-Carbon road. The hills, with which Eastland county abounds made the task of most effectively locating the roads very difficult. The inspection party went from Ranger to Dathan, in the extreme western part of the county, thence from Cisco to Gorman and Desdemona, spending Friday night at Gorman, then returned to Ranger through Carbon and Eastland. The grading work has been completed on sixty-five miles for which right of way has been secured. There are 2,500 teams and 1,700 men engaged in work on the system. Most of these are doing dirt work and building culverts and bridges. The remainder are at work on the rock crushers. Under an arrangement with the contractors, the county furnishes the location for the quarries and a road to them, and the contractors furnish the labor and machinery, which are substantially all the expense in connection with the rock.

Dr. Hodges reports that with the exception of the Ranger-Thurber road, the Cisco-Dathan road is nearest complete. About one mile of grading is to be completed on this stretch and seventeen of the twenty culverts have been erected. Between Cisco and Rising Star, thru Romney, more than half the grading has been done. But the culverts have been put in. Little work has been done between Rising Star and Gorman, and the Gorman-Desdemona road, which will be of the class A type, is about two-thirds graded, with no culvert work yet started. The road between Gorman and Carbon is perhaps one-half graded. This stretch of highway will be more expensive than the average B type road, because there is much clay nearby, necessitating an "overhaul" of several miles. Between Carbon and Eastland five miles have been graded, there being one place ungraded about midway between the two towns and another adjoining the south limits of Eastland. Work is proceeding on the ironwork of the bridge across the Leon river.

About three and a half miles extending from Olden west toward Eastland has been graded, but there are right of way angles between Olden and Ranger yet to be straightened out.

No work has been done on the roads from Ranger and Eastland to Desdemona, or on the highways extending northward from Cisco to Eastland and westward from Ranger through the Pleasant Grove district, which will combine to make a junction with the Stephens county system.

Dr. Hodges has posted a map at the Chamber of Commerce showing in detail the work that is completed on the highways. It will be kept up to date with colored chalk marks showing the various types of construction and their extent, and pins marking the culverts and bridges completed, under construction and to be constructed, also the location of rock crushers and other matters of interest.

GERMANY'S EXPORTS TO TOP HER IMPORTS THIS YEAR, SAY

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—Germany's exports will pass imports during the present year, if the record made by that country in May, as just announced by the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce continues throughout the year. The bureau, in explaining the large increase in Germany's imports and exports during the first five months of this year, as compared with the same months last year, explains that the value of the mark has depreciated in that time. The exports, however, increased from 251,000,000 marks, in May, 1919, to 644,700,000 in May, 1920.

MINISTER WHO KILLED MAN TO FACE CHARGE

Preacher Took Part in Raid on Inn and Killed the Keeper.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 8.—Whether J. Spracklin, minister and prohibition enforcement leader, must stand trial for slaying Beverly Trumbull, following a raid on the latter's inn Saturday night may be known tonight. The inquest in to Trumbull's death, begun Saturday night and will be continued after a recess tonight. The inquest was adjourned yesterday to permit officers to search for a man named "Smith," who is said to have been the shooting. He is expected to testify whether Trumbull was armed when killed. Rev. Spracklin is at Chatham, Ont., today where he was spirited when officers heard rumors of contemplated violence by the inn keeper's friends. Feeling ran high in border towns Sunday.

SEEK SLAYER OF PIANO MAKER'S SON

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—Police today were following clues of the nature of which they did not disclose, in the murder of Leeds Vaughan Waters, killed early yesterday morning by a male companion in a room in the Plymouth hotel, 257 West Thirty-eighth street, where both had registered a half an hour previously. The initials "W. H. A." were found on articles of clothing found in the hotel room and believed to have belonged to Waters' slayer, the police said today. They also declared that pawn tickets aggregating $1,400 were found in the pockets of Waters' clothing, all of which had been taken out in the last three months. With the identification of Waters' body it became known that he was the son of the late Horace Waters, wealthy piano manufacturer, and that he had been living for a week with his mother, Mrs. T. L. Waters, at the Hotel Gramatan, Bronxville. With his mother he had planned to sail for Europe soon, according to B. R. Vaughan of Crestwood, N. Y., a cousin, who said that Waters on Tuesday night had attended a dance at the Delta Kappa Epsilon club, 30 West Forty-fourth street, where he had played bridge until about midnight.

Nothing has been learned of his movements since then until he registered at the Plymouth hotel with the shabbily dressed young man who a few moments later dashed from the hotel leaving Waters' body, with the skull fractured, on the floor in his room. Waters is known to have had at least a small sum in cash when he paid the hotel clerk for the room. Only seventy cents was found in his clothing. A gold-headed cane he carried also is missing, but the valuable jewelry which he wore when he entered the hotel, including a diamond-studded wrist watch, a solid gold cigarette case, diamond-studded cuff links and an expensive wallet, were found in the room. It is believed, despite the fact that these articles were not stolen, that robbery may have been the motive as the murderer ran from the room precipitately when the clerk demanded entrance.

Waters was a student at Columbia university with the class of 1890 and was forty-seven years old. He had lived in England the greater part of his life, twenty years, staying only occasionally at the family home in East Greenwich, R. I. He arrived there from abroad last summer.

CHINAMAN IS DRAWN FOR DUTY ON JURY

BOSTON, Nov. 8.—Ah Chin Coo has the distinction of being the first Chinese ever summoned for jury service in Massachusetts and one of the first in the United States. He will serve at the November term of the superior court for Suffolk county. Court Officer Charles Barnet served the court papers on Ah Chin Coo at his residence in Chinatown.

TWO TRUCKS STILL MISSING; DRIVERS PROTEST INNOCENCE

Contractor Says He Bought Casing From Man Who Also Is Being Held; Suspect "Juggling" Alibi—Owner of Casing Failed to Find Sheriffs Here.

Eight men are being held by the sheriff's department at Breckenridge in connection with the spiriting away of more than $5,000 worth of casing from two wells on the Lane lease, eight miles north of Ranger, early Sunday morning. Six truck loads of casing are in the hands of the authorities. Two trucks loaded with casing are still missing.

Sheriff Sears of Stephens county in speaking over the telephone today, declared that the men held, protest their innocence of intention to steal the casing, claiming that they had been instructed to bring the casing from the Lane lease to the Breckenridge townsite by a man who told them he had bought the casing. This man, a contractor at Breckenridge, is also being held, Sheriff Sears said. The sheriff also has in his custody a man who the contractor claims to have bought the casing from.

NEW PHONE QUARTERS TO BE PROVIDED

Announcement was made today by the Dallas headquarters of the Southwestern Telephone & Telegraph company that a lease had been signed for the second floor of the Post building on Marston street, and it is understood that the work of remodeling the property will be begun as soon as possible. The quarters obtained by the telephone company are about 75x125 feet, which will house an exchange of about 3,000 phones, together with offices, rest rooms for employees and other modern attachments. Mr. Poe is in Ranger today making arrangements to turn the building over to the telephone company.

UNEMPLOYMENT GROWS IN STATE, IS REPORT

AUSTIN, Nov. 8.—Unemployment in Texas is increasing, especially in the trades among skilled laborers, according to T. C. Jennings, Labor commissioner, who said that a number of men now are idle in the state and that he expected conditions to become worse as winter advances. The commissioner said that he thinks the situation is due to the fact that there has been a considerable slackening of all kinds of building and construction work, as builders think that prices of both material and labor will soon decline, and all possible work is being postponed. He added that the railroad situation is good, and that there is still a considerable demand for unskilled labor, due largely to the extensive employment of unskilled labor on farms at this time of year. Wages of skilled laborers have not shown an appreciable decline, the commissioner said, but unskilled workmen's compensation, especially those working upon farms and picking cotton, have been reduced somewhat.

CAMERA HANDY FOR CONTRACTORS WHILE ON BUILDING JOBS

CORPUS CHRISTI, Nov. 8.—The extent to which the camera has become available to contractors in recording their operations is attested by the very incomplete file of snapshots kept by the firm now engaged in constructing the breakwater project here. Every stage of construction work is recorded by means of a photograph which is incorporated in a special book devoted to the one project on which the firm is engaged. Frequent reference to these photographic files has been found invaluable, according to the head of the firm, in that it refreshes his memory on methods employed on other contracts and often will show the way out of difficulties that daily confront every contractor.

WILL ENCOURAGE THE SHELTERING OF COTTON

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 8.—The basis insurance rate on cotton under shelter, other than at gins, recently was reduced from $3.50 to $2 by the Texas Fire Insurance Commission in order to encourage the sheltering of cotton. The rate upon cotton exposed remained at $3.50. The charge of $500 on rice in stacks on plantations was eliminated and rice now comes under the following rates: on owners' farms, $2.15, and on tenants' farms $2.50. A number of other minor changes in rates of various kinds were made.

SLUMP IN TRAFFIC CAUSES DISMISSAL OF RAILROAD STAFF

CENTREVILLE, Mo., Nov. 8.—Owing to slack business along the entire line the Maryland, Delaware and Virginia railroad laid off many employees indefinitely in every branch of the division today. A slump in transportation is ascribed as the reason for the wholesale dismissals.

MURDERS OF BANK RUNNER ADMIT CRIME

Both Men Held Accuse Each Other of Killing the Messenger.

CAMDEN, N. J., Nov. 8.—Camden county officials today claimed jurisdiction in the case of David Paul, Camden county bank runner, who, according to police, Frank James and Raymond Schuck, of this city, killed. Police authorities announce that both James and Schuck confessed their implication in the killing of Paul. They are now in jail at Mount Holly, Burlington county. The prisoners accuse each other of committing the crime, according to their alleged confession.

LAW PROF. DRAFTING PUBLIC UTILITIES BILL

AUSTIN, Nov. 8.—Dr. G. C. Butte of the school of law of the University of Texas is now engaged, in addition to his regular instruction in the senior law department, in the drafting of a bill, to be submitted to the legislature in January, designed to regulate and in a degree control the operation of public utility organizations in the state. Members of the committee of twenty-one appointed by Governor Hobby, of which Dr. Butte is one, are scheduled to meet in Dallas Nov. 13 with a view to approving the proposed law as drafted. This bill was entrusted to Dr. Butte for final action in the matter of preparing the legal form prior to the committee's next meeting.

WILSON WORKS ON MESSAGE TO NEXT CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.—President Wilson today began work on his annual message to congress which will be transmitted either at the opening day of the next session, Dec. 6, or the day following. White House officials said today they had no information as to what recommendations the president plans to make to congress but administration officers expect among other things that he will urge enactment of a number of measures he recommended at the first special session of the present congress early last year.

FARMERS URGED TO ORGANIZE TO HOLD COTTON, IS ADVICE

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas, Nov. 8.—Farmers of Texas and of the United States must organize, start campaigns for holding their crops and they must form associations for marketing their produce. This was the message of E. F. Roberts, president of the United Cotton Growers Association of America, told members of the local Kiwanis club. Mr. Roberts was describing the meeting of the agricultural representatives held recently in Washington, D. C., at which he was chairman of the cotton section. Mr. Roberts asserted that agricultural interests should not expect any aid from Secretary Houston but that they should work together and form their own plans to bring conditions back to normal. In many parts of the country movements of this kind have been started already, he added.

TEXAS MEN MAY NOT INVESTIGATE COTTON MARKET IN EUROPE

AUSTIN, Nov. 8.—Governor W. P. Hobby will not appoint a commission to go to Europe to study the cotton market there, as provided for by an act of the last called session of the legislature, he has announced, unless W. F. Ramsey, federal reserve agent at Dallas, later consent to become a member of the commission. Judge Ramsey has advised the governor that it might be undesirable for him to be away from the federal reserve bank for the next two or three months and that he cannot undertake the trip. The governor explained that he does not consider he is authorized under the language of the act to appoint a substitute for Judge Ramsey or to appoint any other member of the commission as the act specifically provided for the commission to be composed of Judge Ramsey and another member, and there is no provision for one member to go unless both go. Therefore, the governor said, the governor considers the act inoperative.

THIRD NEW RANGERITE IN CITY OFFICE CIRCLES

B. S. Dudley, city attorney, is the budding father of a son and a half pound boy, who arrived in Ranger Sunday. This makes the third baby in city office circles within the last few months. All boys and all husky. Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hemmington and City Judge and Mrs. Plewless are parents of the other two. But Dudley has the latest news and has taken the floor at the city offices.

BARTENDER THOUGHT SPOONING BEE WAS FREE-FOR-ALL SCRAP

"Only Amorous," Say Defendants When Bar-Keep Testifies They Smashed Buffet Glassware—Three-Cornered Mill. CHICAGO, Nov. 8.—Sentiment in a saloon has its drawbacks, two of which are bartenders and patrol wagons. "It was a three-cornered mill, and it looked like they would wreck the place," Miss Gordon said. The man and Miss Brown had been automobile with Davis and three other men who left them earlier in the evening. They were drinking in a booth at the time Davis is said to have made amorous advances. The girls resented, with accompanying damage to glassware about the buffet.

HARDING NOT TO CONFER ON MEXICAN CASE

Rumors That He Would Negotiate With Representatives Are Denied.

ON BOARD THE HARDING SPECIAL TRAIN, Nov. 8.—President-elect Harding today declared that he was determined to put thoughts of his coming responsibilities out of his attention and give himself over for the next two weeks to complete rest and recreation during his vacation at Point Isabel after the trying requirements of his campaign. He told friends he intended to stay off the front page of American newspapers. He will devote most of this time to golfing and fishing.

The fact that Point Isabel is only six miles from the Mexican border gave rise to whispers concerning the possibility of a conference between the president-elect and representatives of the new regime in Mexico. Those closest to Mr. Harding, however, were inclined to throw cold water on such reports. Harding himself declared that no such conference was in prospect. He declared he desired no negotiations with representatives of foreign powers until he actually came into authority.

LAMAR STREET BRIDGE OPENED ABOUT DEC. 1

The concrete bridge on Lamar street stands virtually completed today, but Mr. Gibson, superintendent of the McKenzie Construction company, announces that it will not be opened for traffic until toward the end of the month, to insure its setting properly. The bridge was built by the people holding the contract for curb and gutter work, and their activities were concentrated on it. The concrete spillway will be continued around the curve between the bridge and to a connection with the paving on Oak street. Curb and gutter work on Oak street between Lamar and Hunt streets and on Hunt street from Oak to the Hamon-Kell crossing, will be the next work undertaken. Work on Lamar at between Oak and the Hamon-Kell depot awaits the necessary legal action of publishing the assessments and hearing any protests of property owners. The city attorneys are at work on the assessment notices. Rusk street paving is now being extended northward toward Cypress.

BUTTON PEARL TAKEN FROM TEXAS RIVERS

AUSTIN, Nov. 8.—Texas mussels or fresh water clams in rivers of the western section of the state have been found to be suitable for manufacturing button-pearls. Work on Lamar at between Oak and the Hamon-Kell depot awaits the necessary legal action of publishing the assessments and hearing any protests of property owners. The city attorneys are at work on the assessment notices. Rusk street paving is now being extended northward toward Cypress.

PROMINENT BOWIE MAN MYSTERIOUSLY SHOT AT FT. WORTH

FORT WORTH, Nov. 8.—W. R. Kirby, a prominent resident of Bowie, was shot three times here on Sunday and is now in a critical condition. The cause of the shooting or who did it is not known here.

WHO IS TO PAY DAMAGES IN "BLACK AND TAN" REPRISALS, IS QUESTION AGITATING ERIN

DUBLIN, Nov. 8.—Taxpayers in Ireland are agitated over the question who is to pay for the damages resulting from reprisals committed by the "Black and Tans" or semi-military force, employed by the government to suppress Sinn Fein disorders.

The total amount of damage resulting from Sinn Fein disorders, and reprisals by Orangemen and government agents in Ireland, is estimated to be nearly 10,000,000 pounds. Already awards amounting to 5,000,000 pounds for damages inflicted by the Sinn Feiners have been assessed against the taxpayers.

The law prescribes that the taxpayer shall pay for all willful damage to property or life maliciously inflicted. The county judges who pass upon claims arising from damages in Black and Tan reprisals have granted awards to the claimants and attempted to make them a charge against the local authorities. They have, however, indicated by their judgments that they believe the government should make good the losses caused by its own servants.

Hits Unionists. The principal taxpayers in Ireland are for the most part unionists, who are vic-largest property holders and would be hardest hit if the taxpayers were compelled to pay these damage claims. While they are anxious to help the government put down disorder, many disapprove of the Black and Tan reprisals and are unwilling to pay for the consequences of them.

The Irish Times, the principal Unionist newspaper, demands that the government shall make a clear public statement "that the obligation to compensate for murder, arson and robbery committed by the servants of the government is acknowledged by the government and will be promptly met."

The government paid the bill of about 2,000,000 pounds for the damage suffered by the city of Dublin in the Easter week rebellion and this is pointed to as a precedent for similar action in the matter of Black and Tan reprisals.

It is expected that the government will also be asked to pay for the damage inflicted by the Sinn Feiners to which awards amounting to 5,000,000 pounds already have been made by county judges. Besides there is a bill for the damage done by Orangemen in Ulster towns.

WIDE SCHEME OF COERCION IN BUILDING WORK IS EXPOSED IN "BUILDING TRUST" PROBINGS

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—After another day of sensational testimony, the Joint Legislation Committee investigating the "Building Trust" late yesterday took an adjournment until next Thursday morning.

Developments at yesterday's hearing were: Testimony by William Waixel, house-recking contractor, that he paid $1,000 to William P. Brindell, president of the Building Trades Council, for the privilege of a working agreement with the council. He said he also paid another $1,000 to Brindell for a house-recking job.

Because he refused to "produce" $25,000 for Brindell, Jacob Fradus, a general contractor, testified he had been "bankrupted and put out of business by the labor leader," to whom he declared he had paid $1,000 for a job.

Charles H. Wallas, house-wrecker contractor, testified that his $400,000 annual business had "dwindled down to a $100 job," because he had refused to hire "Brindell's men."

Testimony by Arthur Greenfield, president of the Employing Metallic, Furring and Lathing association, that the members of the association at a meeting last Monday destroyed papers which "might incriminate" them in this investigation, including the minutes of the meeting of April 16, at which price-fixing is alleged to have been arranged.

Testimony that a group of metallic lathing contractors, building on school contracts for the city of New York, had formed a combine to "get better prices," and stifle competitive bidding.

James E. Trainor, metal lath contractor, testified that the Employing Metallic Furring and Lathing association had hired and paid a Mr. Murphy, president of the Lathers' union a salary of $55 a week, but didn't know what "he was expected to do."

No Testimony by Brindell. The aldermanic chamber in city hall, where the hearing was held, was crowded throughout the day with spectators, including many labor men and employers. Several times Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the committee, called for order because of the demonstration that followed testimony by witnesses.

Brindell, who was under subpoena, attended the hearing, but was not called to the witness stand, and made no effort to bring before the committee a denial of any of the testimony.

The only witness from the Building Trades Council placed on the stand was Roswell D. Tompkins, secretary-treasurer, who was questioned as to the disposal of money collected by the organization. He was unable to explain what became of $115,000 paid annually into the compensation bureau's fund. He was excused and will be recalled later.

Failure of Greenfield to recall what was contained in the papers destroyed by the Employing Metallic, Furring and Lathing association, brought a warning from Untermyer that the witness was liable for perjury if he made any false statements before the committee.

Says Labor Man Sought Meeting. Greenfield created a sensation when he testified employers had held the meeting at the request of John Taggart, business agent of the Fathers' union, and that it had been addressed by a "Mr. Keller" of the Building Trades Employees' association, who told them "to stand pat and together" if called into the investigation.

Greenfield when questioned by the committee's counsel, said he did not know that in destroying the papers a criminal offense had been committed under the laws of the state of New York.

During his examination, Fradus said he was now working for his son, and went to see Brindell about obtaining a $30,000 contract for the company.

"He says, 'see providing you will produce,'" explained Fradus. "He said, 'what do you mean?' He said, 'give me a thousand dollars and I will give you the letter.'"

Fradus testified he got the contract and offered the letter in evidence.

Charles Wallas, another contractor who declared that his business had been ruined by Brindell's organization, said he had been forced to "lock out" union men not affiliated with the Building Trades Council, and hire men designated by the labor chief.

Says Men Were Dishwashers. When he called for house wreckers, Wallas said, Brindell summoned twenty men who "did not belong to any union" and put them on the job, designating one of them as foreman, after telling them that they would have to pay "$50 apiece."

"I asked them what their experience was," said Wallas. "They said they had none."

"I found out I had among the twenty men, three that used to be dishwashers in restaurants; four were deck hands and the rest of them were all railroad strikers."

"It was a crime," Wallas added, "to send them on a wall with a crowbar. I could not use them and quit. Untermyer, in announcing the adjournment of the committee, said he did not think it fair to hold further sessions until after election, as a number of the committee members were running for re-election." He said the time was also needed to examine the "vast volume of evidence."

BRECKENRIDGE MAN AWARDED FIRST TRADE CARNIVAL GOLD WATCH

The gold watch, sixth prize in the Ranger Trade Carnival, was awarded Monday noon to E. D. Moose, a plumbing contractor of Breckenridge, who held the second number. Mr. Moose had 350 tickets.

The holder of the first number did not appear, although the Merchants' association waited six days before awarding the prize to Mr. Moose.

Four of the prizes were claimed the day the awards were made, the fifth two days later, and only the last one awaited its proper claimant throughout the seven days.

LOW RATES TO BE ASKED FOR GOODS FROM GULF COAST

By Associated Press. BEAUMONT, Nov. 8.—Directors of the Beaumont Chamber of Commerce recently voted to align themselves with the Mississippi Valley association in an effort to obtain lower rates for Gulf coast shippers. This action was taken following an address by J. B. Morrow, secretary of the Mississippi Valley association, in which he explained the purpose of that organization. The Middle West, Mr. Morrow asserted, pays tribute to the Atlantic states ports and suffers through their embargoes. To prevent this, he declared, the South must build up a big export and import business through its own ports. In this connection he suggests the establishment of a large bank capable of financing the district's business. The Mississippi Valley association, Mr. Morrow said, was seeking the improvement of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers in order to get a lower rate by water connection. The railroads should give a better rate to the South, he said, and as soon as they do, manufacturers, exporters and importers will be attracted by the combination of rail and water facilities leading to southern ports.

The gulf ports commission will visit Texas ports in January to obtain information for use in procuring legislation intended to aid gulf coast cities.

SENDS TON OF SWEET POTATOES IN MAILS

MARSHALL, Texas, Nov. 8.—"You may send me a ton of sweet potatoes by parcel post. Ship them in fifty pound lots." A message was contained in a letter received recently by the Marshall Chamber of Commerce from a resident of Ma a n. M. The writer explained that he had read of the difficulty Harbison county farmers were experiencing in disposing of their potato crop and a ton of sweet potatoes was ordered for 2,000 pounds. Inquiries at the postoffice revealed, however, that postal charges would amount to $2.12 on each bushel, leaving a profit of only 38 cents. Farmers say they are not interested in the offer.

PROGRAM

MAJESTIC—5 acts Loew Vaudeville and Mahon Hamilton and Lillian Rich.

LAMB—Viola Dana in Metro's "Blackmail."

OPERA HOUSE—Mary Miles Minter in "Peggy Rebels."

LIBERTY—Fred Stone in "Johnny Get Your Gun," also "Ruth of the Rockies," and Mutt and Jeff in "The Yacht Race."

TEMPLE—Marshall Neilan's "Go and Get It," also comedy and Selznick News.

CROWDED HOUSE IS PLEASSED BY BILL AT THE MAJESTIC

That Ranger folk appreciate good vaudeville was demonstrated by the unusually large attendance at this week's opening bill last night at the Majestic.

The acts consisted as follows: A spectacular and beautiful production, with Kathis the well known dancer and exponent of the back-to-nature and well known Oriental dances, assisted by two clever feminine artists who were featured for seasons with Bert Crossman and who play the saxophone and banjo and novel instruments, together with Stan McFarl, who directs the act and the orchestra.

Versatility personified is a fit description of the act played by Will and Irene Telask, a delightful young couple offering "Bits and Hits."

Howard and Lewis are a pair of character comedians entitled "Do You Like Me?" An act full of ginger, snip and zip.

Bradley Martin and Jessie Courtney in "Sparkling Bits of Travesty," intermingling songs.

Young and Francis in "From Reveille to Taps," a delightful act of clever dancing.

A brilliant and amazing picture production "Half a Chance," featuring Mahon Hamilton and Lillian Rich completes the bill.

TEMPLE Reporter Gets It.

There is a strong appeal in Marshall Neilan's mile-minute melodrama of newspaper life, "Go and Get It," for overgrown men who have or are contemplating returning to civil life in the adventures of the hero, Kirk Connally.

MAJESTIC Feature a Knock Out.

"Half a Chance," which began its three day engagement at the Majestic Theatre yesterday has all the virility, punch, drama and outdoor appeal of Jack London, Rex Beach and Robert Service.

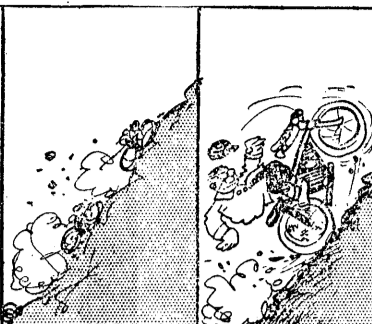

Jesse D. Hampton produced "Half a Chance" for the Pathe and labeled it a Robert Thornby Production, which means that the director is the star.

"Half a Chance" is an adaptation of Frederick S. Isham's novel. Scientifically, photographically, technically and artistically it is flawless.

PYRAMID PRICES.

Some months ago a strike of the cooks and waiters was inaugurated in this city. The Times deprecated this strike because of the belief that if the unionists achieved their demands the high level of downtown food prices would be further increased; that the strike itself furnished a reason which might be advanced for raising prices, at a time when this step would be harmful to the town.

The strike came to its conclusion Saturday. All restaurants in Ranger are now paying the same scale they were before the trouble arose. In fact, they should be at less payroll expense, because the employees are doing more work than formerly. Table waiters, for instance, are serving four tables instead of three.

Yet prices have been raised, at least in some instances. Not much, perhaps, only from 5 to 25 cents on each dish ordered. Nevertheless this is a percentage increase that is considerable.

Inquiry develops that blame for the increase is to be laid to the increased wages of employees. But since the employees are working for the same scale as formerly, and also doing more work, it does not seem reasonable to suppose that the increases can be justified on this ground.

The Times does not seek to dictate anyone's prices. It believes competition and costs will ultimately cut the costs in any business to their true value. But when an increase is made, and the cause assigned cannot possibly justify it, some reason should be given which the public can believe.

WHAT IS CALLED "DEMOCRATIC DAMAGE?"

When the war was in progress and expenditures of billions for the equipment of an army of 5,000,000 men were under way, we heard nothing about Democratic waste and extravagance.

It was not like that in the Olden Days. "Moving isn't what it used to be," sighed the Mid-Victorian Lady. "Why do you know I heard of a man the other day who hired a van at $8 an hour, and he couldn't get into his new apartment because the people hadn't moved out, and he couldn't get back into his old one because somebody else had already moved in. And the van was costing him $8 an hour."

crats, and we have no doubt that by tomorrow morning they will be quite as willing to subscribe to it. The day after an election sees notable changes in a partisan mind.

In his final statement Senator Harding parrots these accusations of profligacy as though he believed them. "We must stop the wild wastes which are still going on," he says, and we must not fail "to set forth a constructive program to repair Democratic damage."

As a general thing, when two women begin talking about another woman they don't stop till they have said something.—Dallas News.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

The Woman had thought the species was extinct, but she has met one of her, a left over specimen of the well nigh fabulous female of old, strayed into the hurlyburly of our time.

The surroundings of this serene survival are a reflection of herself. Pass within her door and the noise of the city is shut out. Of course she is not old enough to have known the days of stage coaches, but so perfectly has she preserved the spirit and atmosphere of the training inculcated by that father and mother whose pictures, in thick, oval frames, gaze from the wall above the square piano, that it was easy for the Woman to imagine her, a prim little girl in small bonnet, tight jacket and flaring skirt, cloth shoes and pantalettes, waiting at the end of the lane with her correct little box for the "Rocket" or the "Dart" to carry her away on a visit to an elderly maiden aunt.

She served tea one day recently for the Woman. She heated water in a kettle over the grate and took the leaves from a brown canister decorated with the colored semblance of a flat-bedded Chinaman. There were cookies with seeds in them and small buns that an ancient maid brought in, and while she and the Woman talked the latter noted the books on the little table near the wall.

There was an edition in brown cloth of Anna Ledgin Harshard's poems, one in blue and gold of Lady Mantague's Letters and "Poems by Eminent Ladies." And the Woman thinks she saw "Captain Riley's Narrative." Also there were three or four weekly papers whose covers she had sometimes noticed on the most conservative of stands—noticed but to wonder what strange beings were their editors, their contributors, their readers.

Then the Woman left and came back into the present. She feels that she must have dreamed her call. Surely if she looks for that place again it will have vanished.

A Lesson on Critics.

They may have been a bit young for orchestra chairs at "Mecca," if one applied old fashioned standards. But both little damels are remarkable dancers, and Mother, a modern mother, the Woman assures her readers, wanted them to see the marvelous ballet. So their pink and blue bows fluttered with excitement all afternoon. On the way out there was a delay in the foyer while Uncle Ned hunted up the car, and so it happened that a gentleman standing near by noticed the children and felt interested in hearing what they thought of the performance.

With a word of apology to Mother he bent over the little girls and asked how they had enjoyed it. "Very much," said Ellen, the younger, eight nine, with her best courtesy.

"And what did you like best?" persisted the stranger, "the Chinese woman?" thinking that he might get more spontaneous expression from the two.

Then Uncle Ned breezed up with news that the car was waiting, and Mr. Morris Gest went away chuckling and probably thinking that if more theatrical critics were to pattern after Marjorie their verdicts would be more reliable. For it was he who had interviewed his small patrons, and the Woman had guessed as much as she looked on.

It Was Not Like That in the Olden Days.

"Moving isn't what it used to be," sighed the Mid-Victorian Lady. "Why do you know I heard of a man the other day who hired a van at $8 an hour, and he couldn't get into his new apartment because the people hadn't moved out, and he couldn't get back into his old one because somebody else had already moved in. O POSSUM SITS ON THE MOON

All the Forest Creatures came out on the bank of the river to see O Possum swinging by his tail on the Moon Jack the Rabbit was there, and so were Billie Mink and Bobby Hoot Owl. Mrs. Night Hawk was there, too, to tell the story of the night before when she sailed above the clouds and saw O Possum with his arm around Mr. Moon.

He Took Mr. Moon By the Nose.

Tinker Bob sent for Lady Duck so that she might see the sight of Old Man O' Possum sailing with the Moon. Dr. Glad O' Possum said that he was glad O' Possum had left the Forest. Mr. Chuck said that he hoped O' Possum would never come back.

Well, while they were each telling the other what he wished, a strange and startling thing happened. The ropes that held the swing seemed to lengthen. Longer and longer they grew until O' Possum came closer to the bottom of the river, and there he swung back and forth, hanging by his tail. Now and then he would touch the surface of the water. Jack the Rabbit was so startled that he stood up on his hind feet and shook with fear. Said he: "That fellow is crazy, or I'm seeing strange things."

THE LOSERS

On the bosom of Salt River sluggishly their vessel floats, and their dismal digges quiver on the air. In sobbing notes, we can hear their weary chorns? "Chorny skies are bending o'er us, and there is no hope before us, for we've lost our William (Gats). Ah, there is no joyous ditty, from the passengers or crew, and my eyes are wet with pity, as a lawn is wet with dew; it is sad to see them sailing, it is tough to hear them wailing, as they lean against the railing for a last and long view. Up Salt River's weeping waters they must sail for years, perhaps, just because some finhorn rosters voted for the other chaps; they must sail while autumn mellow, they must sail while winter bellows, knowing that the other fellows gather in the public snaps. Oh, it is a ship of sorrow that proceeds upon its way, and the beefing done tomorrow will be louder than today; for each landmark will remind them of the snaps they leave behind them and the scalding tears will blind them till they hit the starboard hay. But the ship will be returning with its passengers and crew, and their bosoms will be burning with ambitions fine and new; and for office they'll be gunning, and for votes they will be gunning, on a platform simply stunning, and a nice fresh rag to chev.

him and questioning him as his first wife had done. "And my husband would come home and actually boast of his associations with other women. One night—or rather morning—he told me every detail of a party in the apartment of his friend, Bill Brown. It almost broke my heart. "Then once he told me about a friend at whose home there was always a hot bath ready for him. I remarked playfully that the friend must have thought he was pretty dirty. He shouted out he wouldn't let me 'insult his friends' and knocked me to the floor—and kicked me. "Once he told me he was seriously considering selling everything and becoming a Mormon. "In August, 1919, we were discussing a woman he had met and whom he said he loved madly. Here he threw one of his clocks at me. It was an alarm clock. "I said that I was sorry he hadn't met her first. Then he threw a bottle of perfume at me and cut my ankle."

WORTH MILLIONS. HE STICKS ON FARM TO FINISH HAY HARVEST

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—One of the favorite plots of the novelists has become once more a fact. Romance, scooped and belittled by sceptics, has come into its own again, and with a vengeance. It has reached its magic wand down into the sweet-scented hayfields at Boylston, Mass., and touched—well.

His name is the most ordinary sort of name in the world, David Nicoll Cant, a Scotch name, as a matter of fact. His brow is furrowed with healthy wrinkles, not of age, even though he is close to 47 years old, but with the wrinkles of the weather, of long years' toil under the sun in the open.

And this man, who has been wielding a pitchfork, and lugging milk pails in from Stark's barn and doing up the chores for the past nine years, has suddenly become a millionaire. Just overnight, as it were, as Lord Byron who woke up and found himself famous, so "Dave" Cant woke up one morning a few days ago, and he has been pinching himself ever since to see if it's really true.

David Nicoll Cant, farm hand, wanderer over the face of the earth for nearly a score of years, left his home, his brothers and sisters and parents with but a five-pound note in his pocket and the blessing of his home circle.

He had been educated in the best schools of Dundee, Scotland, but he was the younger son, and he had come to despise the job of clerking in a commercial house where his father had placed him.

For a few years he wandered about New England, kept in touch with them by means of an occasional letter. Then thirteen years ago he ceased communication. He dropped from sight, and when his father died six years afterward all efforts on the part of his family to find him availed nothing.

His sister Isabelle, however, did not give up hope. She held to the opinion that David could be found, even when the lawyers advising of the heirs were frank in their scepticism of ever locating him.

Up in Boylston a farmer's wife saw the notice in a Worcester paper. She called up Mrs. Stark where Cant was employed and called her attention to the similarity of the names. "Dave's" employer got busy, with the result that within another twenty-four hours David Nicoll Cant was proven to be the long-lost son and was informed that he was now able to take off his overalls whenever he wanted to drop his hay fork and forget the milking of cows. For the fortune to which he is an heir amounts to $2,000,000.

Only David isn't that kind. He merely nodded and smiled a shrewd smile, did David. Money doesn't worry him, not by a good deal. He just stuck to that hay job, and said that when the last haycock was off the fields, and the last 'ot had been tramped, and that "things were straightened up a bit, along of next month, he'd look into the matter," and think about returning to Scotland to fork with the deftness of the expert, lay claim to his inheritance.

So there he is today, wielding his hay probably the most wealthy hired hand at work in Massachusetts.

"LAUGHING JACKASS" HAD JOLLY VOYAGE FROM AUSTRALIA; NOT SO THE MENAGERIE SHIP'S CREW

NEW YORK, Nov. 8.—He didn't say it in so many words, but the men of the Laughing Jackass, convicted newspapermen who boarded the Bell Buckle today, that the craft's voyage from Melbourne, Australia had been a jolly one. To Captain A. N. Swanson, the skipper, however, the Kookaburra's sources of merriment are a mystery.

"It's been a most awful voyage," admitted the skipper today, "what with the three Poms breaking into the ship's galley and eatin' up our best cutlery."

Then the broad grin on the Laughing Jackass caught the captain's eye and he shook his head sadly, murmuring the meanwhile:

"It's that way the best smiled when all the crew but the third officer, a cook and the ship's carpenter were down with material fever."

The Laughing Jackass was only smiling broadly when he was led from out his native haunts to board the Blue Buckle shortly before it sailed from Melbourne on August 17, with a passenger list that rivalled Skipper Noah's navy. But his grin shifted to high when he saw the Mindrill strutting aboard.

The Mindrill, without a doubt, was a gay and haughty bird for a few minutes his pink nostrils turned toward heaven, while a fever crop of black whiskers finished off his facial decorations. But his eye for one fatal moment caught the Laughing Jackass's ear-to-ear grin and he fled.

They Were the Gay Devils.

A detail from the ship's crew located the Mindrill in the crow's nest this morning, when debarkation of passengers began at the foot of Fifty-ninth street, Brooklyn, preparatory to moving them to the Branz Zoo.

Ellis S. Josephs, an Australian bushwhacker who rounded up the menagerie, alone had a warm spot in his heart for the unbeloved Kookaburra, the Laughing Jackass.

A detail looked sourly at him as they recalled the night he laughed loud and loud, while the sailors chased Tasmanian Devils all over the ship. The devils had loosed pegs on a dozen or more cages and, in fact, were gay devils, and certainly the life of a party that waxed lively when a couple of Galahs, some fancy-colored cockatoos, a newly extinct species of parrot, the Scarlet Drossieris and a lot of their pluvianus dashed out of the cages unlocked by the Tasmanian wild dogs.

Said one of the crew: "It's only glad I am they didn't turn loose the death adder."

The adder, incidentally, is said to be the deadliest in the world.

The Cook a Happy Fellow.

Glad the voyage is over is the special cook, hired to supervise the varied diet for the zoo-bound passengers.

"Can you imagine a stiddy diet of grape fruit and bananas for the Horn Bill?" he complained. "O' course that was easy. But the Koola, he's awful, fur 'is only the blue gum from the eucalyptus tree he'll eat."

Four hundred pounds of gum were brought from Australia for the Horn Bill's diet. It was explained. After that he gone his three squares will have to come from California.

A passenger, entirely satisfied with the voyage was the Australian stock. The cause was carried in the ship's records, which showed that while 3,800 specimens for the Bronx zoo were loaded on board the Blue Buckle last August, slightly more than 4,000 were accounted for this morning when the roll was called.

DENVER AND RIO GRANDE RAIL HAD HISTORY OF TURMOIL AND TUMULT DURING VIVID PERIOD

By Associated Press
DENVER, Nov. 8.—Sale of the Denver & Rio Grande railroad to the highest bidder by order of the United States circuit court of appeals marks the close of a tumultuous chapter in the history of the road founded by Gen. William J. Palmer in 1871.

Millions of dollars a year in wages were paid in the prosperous period of the road's history and other millions were used in numerous efforts of various financial interests to gain control of the railroad. From the time the Jay Gould interests caused the retirement of General Palmer from the road in 1883, it was the object of financial campaigns of rival interests until the receivership caused by default of the road in payment of Western Pacific railroad bonds in 1918, bond payments having been guaranteed by the Denver & Rio Grande.

The bond issue was for $50,000,000, and when the Equitable Trust company of New York brought suit and obtained judgment in 1918, this had been reduced to a little more than $36,000,000—the amount of the judgment. On Jan. 26 of that year Edward L. Brown, president of the road, and Alexander J. Baldwin, vice president of the Western Pacific, were named receivers by Judge Walter L. Stribling of the United States circuit court of appeals. A month later Brown was named sole receiver to comply with regulations of the United States railroad administration during the war. He was delegated agent of the administration.

Hearings were held before a United States master in chancery and on Sept. 25, 1920, an order was signed by Judge Sanborn for the sale of the road, over the protest of a stockholders' committee, who asked postponement for a month. The road was advertised for sale for thirty days and Nov. 20 set as the date of sale.

The road was built originally as part of Palmer's dream of a line running from Denver to El Paso. Development of the mining enterprises in the western part of the state resulted in a change in the direction of the road's development, and extension of branch lines westward into the mining communities became a part of the contest between the road and Union Pacific for control of the Rocky mountain region.

Among the prominent railroad men connected with the road in various capacities were George Gould, Benjamin F. Bush and H. C. Mudge.

SCANDAL AND ACTRESSES ARE ONLY DRAWING CARDS NOW OF FRENCH THEATRES, ASSERTION

PARIS, Nov. 8.—M. Lunge-Poe, a well known French actor-manager, publishes in the Paris Eclair a remarkable tribute to the German theatre, contrasting it with the French to the marked detriment of the latter and declaring that within a few years Germany will supplant France in the leadership of the drama. M. Lunge-Poe charges that France is no longer interested in the theatre for itself but only in the actresses, the scandals and the green room gossip. Germany, on the other hand, he finds, takes the theatre and the drama seriously, putting its whole heart into it and striving in every way to lift the German drama into the highest place among the arts.

"A short visit to the Rhine cities which I have just made," he writes, "gave me opportunity to renew my acquaintance with several of its theatre directors and, above all, with that admirable theatre personnel in which, from top to bottom, one meets artists of the finest type, men who love their work and who are forever reading and experimenting in order to improve themselves and the art to which they have consecrated their lives."

"The artists and artisans of the theatre, like the men and women of every other profession in Germany, work day and night to bring back the theatre to the position it occupied before 1914. The German loves work for its own sake, and esteems effort and sacrifice in that work. This esteem he emphasizes in the theatre by respect for his director, by his professional solidarity, and by the simplicity of his admiration for the play itself."

"My visit to Germany impressed me with the necessity of plain speaking. In a very short while the German theatre will take first place in the Old World and its personnel will supplant ours on all the stages of Europe. With us no one interests himself truly in the theatre, but only in the side-shows, in the actresses, in theatrical gossip, etc. Our splendid milieu, for example, came to the theatre solely with the idea that it is a place for unthinking amusement, and for no other reason; that intimate sentiment compounded both of knowledge and curiosity which is nourished in the German heart from its tenderest infancy is as little known among us, as are hygiene and cleanliness in our little villages or farms."

"Is there not then in our race that fine desire to know and to understand which is the flame of happy and joyous peoples? Why is it that I saw at Treves an admirable matinee performance of 'Freischutz,' mounted as operas are mounted in Paris at the Opera Comique, before an audience composed entirely of children?"

"Even the emulation between the theatres of the different small cities, each trying to outdo the other in the presentation of the works of art, is an active force by which the country and the public profit. For instance, Titten, the director of the theatre at Treves, confided to me that he was not saying anything about it to the director of a neighboring town, but that he counted on being the first in Germany to give a new piece by Paul Claudel.

"Go and see the theatre of Germany for yourselves, Messieurs artists, machinists and authors. You will then understand what is in store for you!"

Hunting Bargains in Ranger

Bargains discovered in trips through Ranger shops and department stores are here presented briefly, for the benefit of Times readers.

I.

The serge dresses on sale at the Boston Store for $12.75 are splendid bargains and should not be overlooked if you are in need of a practical wool dress. IF WOMEN VOTE FRANCE LIKELY TO GO DRY, IS CLAIM

PARIS, Nov. 8.—France may become as dry as the United States when the French women get the vote, Madame Maria Verone, president of the French Woman Suffrage organization and well-known lawyer, told the International News Service today.

"Certainly the French women are out and out for the prohibition of whiskey, brandy, cocktails and all the heavier alcoholic drinks," said Madame Verone. "They might tolerate light wines and beer, but even that is doubtful."

All the suffrage leaders in France are watching closely the manner in which the women of the United States acquit themselves in the presidential balloting, Madame Verone said.

"We believe that giving the presidential vote to women in America has done much toward helping us to obtain our rights right here in France," she said. "The chamber of deputies has voted in favor of woman suffrage and I know of no reason why the Senate failed to ratify that action. One of our best known senators had no reply to make except that 'women are made to love and he loved only.' Perhaps the real reason is that members of the Senate know they would lose their jobs if women are given the ballot. They know too well that women consider them too old and would cast their votes for men younger and more energetic."

"There is an instance to prove that we need women in Parliament. A few months ago the deputies voted themselves large increases in salary. They also voted to increase the salary of the president from 1,200,000 francs to 2,000,000. At the same time they passed a number of laws to encourage French women to have more children. They decided that women who fed their babies themselves should receive a pension of fifteen francs a month (a little more than a dollar at the present rate of exchange). Had there been one woman in Parliament she would have laughed down such a ridiculous proposal."

The day all the women of the world get the ballot war will virtually cease, according to Madame Verone.

"This, of course, applies to offensive war," she added. "Should France have to face another defensive war, as in 1914, the women of France will take the same stand as they took the last time."

Mrs. McCauley, wife of Lieutenant Commander Cleveland McCauley, of the United States Navy, now stationed in Chinese waters, has been admitted to practice law in China. She is the first woman to be admitted to the practice of law in the Far East.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

New Elixir, Called Aspironal, Medicated with Latest Scientific Remedies, Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons to Cut Short a Cold and Prevent Complications.

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to Refund Price While you Wait at Counter if Relief Does Not Come Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up.

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir, so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to step into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspironal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.—Adv.

Neglecting That Cold or Cough?

Why, when Dr. King's New Discovery So Promptly Checks It?
