

VENIZELOS OVERTHROWN IN GREECE

Prince George Is Expected to Succeed Alexander as King.

ATHENS, Nov. 16.—Two Venizelists were killed here today in riots following the general elections. With virtually all the returns complete, it appears that the Venizelos party has been defeated by the supporters of the monarchists.

LONDON, Nov. 16.—The cabinet led by Premier Venizelos has resigned, says a Havas dispatch from Athens this morning. Former Premier Rallis, who was in power under the old regime of King Constantine, has been called upon by Admiral Coundouriotis, regent, to form a new cabinet.

ALLIES WON'T AGREE TO CONSTANTINE'S RETURN

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Reports that Premier Venizelos of Greece has met defeat in the elections of Saturday was an unpleasant surprise to Paris newspapers, who agree that England and probably France will not agree to the return of former King Constantine of Greece.

PAY IN ADVANCE, WESTERN UNION TELLS STATE DEPARTMENT

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—The long standing controversy between the state department and the Western Union Telegraph company reached the stake of an open break today, when the latter refused to handle any further messages, except on the basis of prepayment of all tolls. Department officials stated today that the company's order, issued Nov. 10, ostensibly applied to all departments of the government, but that, despite this order, the other departments had sent messages, being informally exempted from the ruling.

The action of the Western Union is based, the company states, upon the delay of the department in making payment on cable messages previously handled.

Department officials believe that the attitude of the company in taking this stand is based upon a spirit of retaliation for failure of the department to permit the landing of the company's cable at Miami, Fla. The cable connected at Barbados with the British cable from South America.

The Communists held only 15,842 out of 190,000 votes cast. In Dresden and Leipzig, where the Communists supporters were supposed to be very strong, they polled only 1 per cent of the vote. Both moderate and radical wings of the Independent Socialists polled only a light vote.

EVEN WRECKS HAVE VALUABLE FEATURE; THEY ADVERTISE

A wreck is an unpleasant and costly matter for a railroad. Nevertheless it furnishes a certain amount of advertising as a by-product. And strangely, a wreck is nothing against a railroad, any more than a hold-up or killing is against a town, because they all have them.

A week or more ago two trains crashed on the Hamon line. Associated Press dispatches carried the story with the full name, Wichita Falls, Ranger & Fort Worth railway, throughout the country. It was printed from New York to San Francisco and some millions of persons probably heard for the first time that there was such a railroad.

In still another way the Ranger road is coming before public notice. Through arrangements completed last week by General Passenger and Freight Agent Strupp, 286 different railroads are now prepared to sell tickets direct from almost any point in the country through to Ranger. The dweller in Podunk and in New York have equal privileges. All they have to do is to buy a ticket bearing the magic word Ranger on the top-most section, and the gatekeepers and conductors will do the rest. They can't lose their way.

FUGITIVE LEAPS FROM TRAIN IN SHIRT SLEEVES; BULLET KNOCKS OFF HAT

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 16.—The country around Broken Bow, Neb., is being combed today for Benny Kester, arrested for the slaying of Miss Barton, a Kansas City society girl, while she was riding with her fiancé.

Kester escaped last night by jumping from a moving train when two of the three detectives who were taking him from the Pacific coast back to Kansas City left the compartment. He was in his shirt sleeves. The third detective fired at the fugitive, and one shot knocked off his hat.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Nov. 16.—It took a jury here just twenty minutes to award Mrs. Annie Louise Jones of Tulsa $75,000 damages against the Texas company for the death of her husband last May. This is said to have been the largest award ever made in an Oklahoma district court for the loss of a life, and the entire trial of the suit occupied less than an hour.

FARMERS ARE PROGRESSIVE IN MIDDLE WEST, BUT COUNTRY TOWNS DWINDLE AND DECAY

By Associated Press. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 16.—One of the outstanding features of a survey of social conditions in rural communities of the middle west by L. M. Birkhead, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian church of this city, is the decadence of the country towns. The survey is based on observations made by Dr. Birkhead in more than eighty towns in Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas, Nebraska, Colorado, Illinois and Wisconsin, while he was on a lecture tour. Dr. Birkhead, who is an active social worker, discussed community problems in each of the towns and made careful inquiry as to local conditions in order to make his lectures pertinent.

Country Towns Fade. Almost everywhere, Dr. Birkhead reports, the country town is either actually losing in population or is barely holding its own. Instead of being the capital as it were, of the surrounding farming district, leading in business enterprise, education and progress, almost everywhere the country towns are classed by the farmers.

Leadership is needed, Dr. Birkhead says, but there is nothing to develop leadership, no satisfactory opportunity for young people, and they go elsewhere. In one community 90 per cent of the young people went to the city. The country town merchant, according to Dr. Birkhead, conducts his business by time-worn methods and the mail order house takes his place. In addition, he says, the retired farmer is not an asset to the town, seeming to 'rot out' after leaving the activities of farm life.

Farmer Progressive. On the other hand, Dr. Birkhead says, the farmer is wide-awake and progressive so long as he remains on the farm. Co-operative enterprises are springing up everywhere. There are co-operative hardware and general merchandise stores. There are co-operative mills and elevators owned by farmers. The projects are in-

STATE HEADQUARTERS OF AMERICAN LEGION REMOVED TO DALLAS

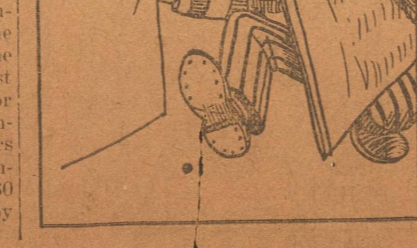

By Associated Press. SAN ANTONIO, Nov. 16.—The state headquarters of the American Legion will be moved from this city to Dallas Wednesday. The movement of headquarters to Dallas is in accordance with action taken at the state convention of the American Legion, which met in Houston a couple of months ago. At that time San Antonio put up a hard fight to retain them, but Dallas won, by reason of its being so centrally located and so equipped with rail communications with all parts of the State.

SAILOR HELD FOR MURDER OF TWO CHICAGO GIRLS

International News Service. CHICAGO, Nov. 16.—Hal Potter, an alleged deserter from the Great Lakes naval training station, was taken into custody last night in connection with the murder of Marie Graney and Lillian Thompson, the two young actresses whose bodies were found in Grant park Sunday morning. Potter was arrested in a cabaret. In his pocket was an empty bottle which police say had contained whisky. Witnesses have told the police that they had seen two women answering the description of the slain girls with a sailor. The coroner now believes that they met their deaths through poison or knockout drops in whisky. Potter admits running away from the Great Lakes naval station Saturday after being released from confinement in the brig.

INDIANS CRITICISE CONDUCT OF BUREAU

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 16.—Sweeping criticism of the conduct of administration of the bureau of Indian affairs was voiced and charges that Indians had been subjected to various abuses, including unlawful seizure and leasing of property by agents of the government, were made today by Thomas Sloan of Washington, president of the society of the American Indian.

His report charges that legislation of beneficial interest to the race was blocked in the last session of congress by the office of the commissioner of Indian affairs. "It is advised that as wrongs inflicted by the present administration of Indian affairs will be terminated on March 4, 1921, that we do not attempt to secure relief from them but wait until the new administration, to which we may make further complaint," the report states.

Hunting Party Has Big Time on Llano River

Charles Moore, with a party of Dallas friends has returned from the mountains near Junction City, where they have been on a fishing and hunting trip. Included in the party were Jennings M. Moore, W. W. Griffin, Red Ricker, and Milton Cantrell, all of Dallas.

It was a wild country the expedition visited and wild tales are being told by Mr. Moore. Tales of turkey that were bagged in their native haunts and deer that were shot and crippled (?) but could not be secured.

One of the party, it is said, became lost and was gone from camp for forty-eight hours.

The local man, however, according to his father, Jennings Moore, determined that he would not get lost in the hills and canyons that all look alike in that country so he armed himself with a compass.

To find his direction, he placed the compass on a stump and went and left it there. But Charles has been in the woods before. He got back to camp at night, but he was hungry.

The party report lots of sport and an abundance of small game and fish taken from the Llano.

The driver claimed that his carburetor had become hung in some manner and not being familiar with the class of car he was driving, he tried to throttle it down as he would a larger car, instead of cutting off the spark. The plea was admitted.

JEALOUS CULLOD BOY CALLS ON RIVAL; TAKES SHOT THROUGH WINDOW

Revenge rested in the breast of one of the city's ebony lined residents last night. "If I show that nigh' hon' to com' triffin' about' his lady friend."

Armed with a pistol of a cheap but dependable make he went out seeking blood. His spirit was willing but his heart failed him when he knocked at the door of his enemy. He knocked on the door and was invited in. "Naw," he said, he believed he wouldn't come in.

But he was after blood, so he dashed around to the window and took a crack at the man he had sworn to kill. How over his aim was poor. He only nipped him in the right arm. Then he disappeared into the night. The police are seeking the would-be killer.

NO FIRE; 'T WAS ONLY LURID LANGUAGE THAT LIT THE HEAVENS

No, Phyllis, those weird cries last night were not emitted by ghosts trying to escape the vengeance of the devil. That was the sirens on the fire engines. The ghostly wail was caused by it being a still night and frosty.

There was not a fire, either. Some one had ignited a bursted gas main in Young addition and the neighbors thought it was a fire.

Of course you "cussed" because you were awakened by those ghostly screaming means, but what you said isn't even first reader knowledge of the language compared with the few well chosen remarks the department made when they discovered that they had been called out of warm bunks and there was no fire.

LOOKS FIFTEEN YEARS YOUNGER

Her Relatives Gave Up Hope of Mrs. Taylor's Recovery; Tanlac Proves Merit.

"A few weeks ago my friends and relatives didn't expect me to live much longer but now they are all telling me that I look fifteen years younger," said Mrs. Minnie G. Taylor, 310 21st street, Huntington, W. Va. During the past year I was so bad off I spent much of my time in bed and when I did manage to be up it was an effort for me to get around at all. My digestion was so extremely poor that I was almost afraid to touch a bite and when I did eat anything it was through force. I suffered untold agonies after eating and I felt so nauseated I could hardly breathe. I lost so much sleep I was on the verge of a complete breakdown. I tried so many medicines without getting relief, that I almost gave up hope. Finally one of my friends who had been taking Tanlac, advised me to try it and Tanlac has built me up from a nervous wreck to a well and happy woman. My appetite is just fine and I can digest anything I eat without the slightest trouble at all. My nerves are just as steady as can be and I am sleeping soundly every night. I have new life and strength and I will never be able to pay the debt of gratitude I owe Tanlac for it has been one of the greatest blessings of my life."

Tanlac is sold in Ranger by Phillips Bros. and in Eastland by Butler Drug Co.—Adv.

SEE WORLD MENACE IN NEGROES NOW TRAINED IN FRENCH ARMY

By FRANK E. MASON International News Service Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—Both reactionaries and radicals in Germany unite in the opinion that the military education of negroes in the French army is, in their opinion, a world menace. German propaganda busied itself during the war with tales of the outrages perpetrated by the negro troops. At the same time the condemnation of France could not be made sufficiently strong because she took these innocent aboriginal children and slaughtered them in a white man's war. General Mangin's article in the latest issue of the Revue des deux Mondes demands that France increase her black army and bring pressure to bear on Belgian military convention to conscript the 20,000,000 natives in the Belgian colonies. "This French colonial officer doesn't suspect the results which are already beginning to be apparent from the use of black troops in the world war," comments the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, the German government's official mouthpiece.

Africa for Africans.

"Appreciation of the effects is beginning to dawn on America, however," it continues. "As a result of the first meeting of the International Negro Improvement association in New York the slogan was adopted, 'Africa for Africans.'"

"The speakers at this convention await a new world war within the next twenty years. Then the African negro will fight neither under the banner of France nor of England, but under the banner of liberty to conquer the African continent for themselves, while the white races are otherwise engaged. In the meantime the leaders will continue their propaganda. In this connection it is to be remembered that at the beginning of this year their own publication, the African and Oriental Review, appearing in London, advised the co-operation of the Africans and the Asiatics.

"The French and the Belgians are arming and drilling the masses who will later turn their arms against them in the service of the African cause." Against Negro Troops. The German reactionary and militarist naturally opposes the presence of French negro troops in Europe, for they will be a serious foe should Germany's growing bitterness against France some day break out in a war of revenge. STUDIO PARTIES BY CANDLE LIGHT NOW UP IN DIVORCE SUIT

International News Service.

DOVER, N. H., Nov. 16.—Former Mayor Fred B. Beckwith, of this city wealthy clubman and overseas veteran was granted a divorce from Marion Taylor Beckwith, well-known Boston artist. The suit was uncontested.

Mr. Beckwith alleged that his wife had been unfaithful to him. He named Harold Galpin, of Belmont and Boston a leather salesman, as correspondent Galpin is married. A studio on Boylston street, Boston, figured prominently in the husband's charges against his artist wife. He fitted it up for her when they were married. Just before he sailed for France He spent more than $5,000 furnishing it. In his petition he declared the studio was the setting for gay "candle light parties," while he was away to war, and that it was a convenient spot for the development of the romance between his wife and Galpin. She was away from her home in Dover a great deal after her return from France, Beckwith charged. On one occasion the husband, accompanied by detectives, trailed Mrs. Beckwith with the correspondent to an inn in Jaffrey, where the door of the young woman's apartment was forced. Her husband took his automobile away from her at that time, and she and Galpin returned to Boston by train, according to the testimony. Mrs. Beckwith at the time of her marriage to the New Hampshire clubman was already a divorcee. Her first husband, Earl M. Selfridge, of Melrose. She has been well known in Boston as a patron of Bohemian tea rooms and lounging places, according to Beckwith.

The army transport Pocahontas which recently arrived in New York from Antwerp and St. Nazaire, carried the bodies of 2,185 American soldiers killed in France. Among the passengers were fifty-three "war brides" from Belgium, Czechoslovakia, England, France and Germany, eleven prisoners from the army of occupation in Germany and four stow-aways.

GIRLS WANTED.

Women and girls—pretty girls, ugly girls, old girls, young girls—any kind of girls who can muster up a smile and a cherry yet implacable air—can do worthy work in Ranger during the next ten days. They are needed, needed badly, in order to make the Red Cross roll call a success. And success for the Red Cross drive for Ranger means many things which will be of benefit to the community.

It means a Red Cross nurse, for one thing, who will look after the health of the community, seek out the weak and those needing succor and bring relief.

It means aid for ex-servicemen and their families in obtaining justice from a beneficent but red-tape ridden Uncle Sam.

It means that in time of stress and disaster there will be supplies at hand to relieve the victims of disaster.

The Red Cross has many and diverse interests, all summed up in the one word, humanity.

You—everyone—are anxious to do their bit by putting up the dollar or more which will entitle you to the little white button with the red cross bars on it.

Are you—remember, anyone, pretty, ugly, old or young—ready to do your bit for humanity by giving the rest of the folks a reminder that opportunity confronts them?

It's a worthy work for cheery women and girls, especially lonesome lassies who have the courage of their convictions and the sweet determination that lets no man escape without the button in his coat lapel.

Girls, opportunity awaits you. Not only can you contribute to community welfare, but you can satisfy that craving for adventure that lurks in every human heart.

How often have you passed that busy chap in leather puts which adorned the hero of two years ago? How often have you wondered if the rich timbre of his voice matched the sparkle of youth and joyousness in his eye? How often have you wished to stop him and see for yourself?

Now here's your chance. The Red Cross is your sapperone. Under its guidance you can stop him without brazenness. You can find out what kind of a man he is by his response. Maybe he'll ask what church he should attend. And he will never ask unless you stop him.

Seriously, the Red Cross needs your help in soliciting contributions. After the dishes are washed, after the typewriter desk is locked, after the last key in has departed from school, or before that bridge party, see Mrs. Gifford Clegg at the Oil Cities Electric company. She will give you your stock and start you out.

WHEN TO ARISE.

Many persons during the last few days have lain and pondered what would happen if they threw back the covers and subjected themselves to the tender mercies of an icy morning. Will I perish before I can drap daylight apparel around my shivering form, is the burden on their thoughts.

There is a sign, confided to us by Willie Tellit's par, by which you may determine. Reach up cautiously from underneath the life-saving covers and feel the nose. If it is stiff with cold, do not arise. Let the wife do it.

This rule, of course, is valueless to fresh air cranks who open wide the windows and then sleep with their heads underneath the covers.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

Fulfillment.

The Woman went the other day to have tea with two friends—an artist and a singer—who occupy connecting studios. She found the artist waiting to receive her, while from the adjoining room came a volume of unbearably frightful sound as the pupil ran up the scale.

"Good gracious, Dolly," the Woman gasped "how terrible." Surely Marcella isn't going to waste time trying to train such a voice.

"It is awful," conceded Dolly, "and when I first heard it and then heard Marcella going on with the lesson, I prepared to deliver her a lecture on the sin of taking money for encouraging people to sing who can't. But I changed my mind when I saw the singer. Wait a bit; they are just finishing."

Presently Marcella brought in her pupil. She was a little lady, past middle age, who when the Woman made an effort to draw her out, spoke of her singing with beaming eyes. "Oh!" she exclaimed, breathless with enthusiasm, "I am so interested in it. You see, I always wanted to take lessons when I was a girl, but I never had the time and the money both at once, so I never could, and now that Uncle Ben left me a legacy I'm doing so many things I used to dream about, and I am so happy."

And she was happy; no one looking at her could doubt it. Her eyes were as bright as if she were sixteen instead of sixty and her countenance was as fresh as that of a child. She chatted gaily about the little trips she had taken to see places and things she had read about. Niagara Falls, the Liberty Bell, Banker Hill Monument had loomed large in her girlhood eyes, and she desired to see them had never vanished. Her uncle's bequest—three thousand a year, it seemed—was wealth to one of her simple tastes and she had set out to do the things of her dreams—set out with an eagerness as fresh as if its fulfillment had not been delayed through many hard years. She had all the pretty frocks she had not been able to have in her youth; she was going to lectures and to the theatres to art exhibitions and to a painting class.

Her enjoyment of it all was so thorough, so genuine, so unexpressed by any shadow of realization of its tardy arrival, that the Woman succumbed to the little lady's charm and would have hated Marcella had she spoken the slightest word of discouragement.

It's an Ill Wind.

The Woman was eating that noon at the three minute luncheon club of the soda fountain and enjoying herself hugely. In spite of some one's ham sandwich intermittently in her left eye and somebody else's hot chocolate poised perilously near her right ear, she snatched her own sandwich, edged a little away from the sharp elbow in the pit of her back and its owner's equally sharp remarks about folks who took all day to eat thirty cents' worth of food, and gazed heed to the mosaic of conversation all about her.

"Say, Jennie, what do you think of this her three hour luncheon club?" demanded the pertly dressed girl at her right.

"Now," thought the Woman in some alarm, "for the deluge! The hot chocolate will spill as we listen to the sentiments of the loneliest working class about the idle rich! And my suit has just come home from the cleaners."

But her alarm was without foundation. "I think it's grand!" exclaimed Jennie. "I got a new hat bought yesterday. I looked at a lot of tricot dresses the day before, so that now I can make mine without any trouble at all. It makes it fine to know that you can depend on your boss being late every day, don't it, Ann?"

Undaunted. The mother of one of the Woman's Bobby was teaching him the names of the white keys upon the piano. She explained their relative positions to the black keys and Bobby successfully picked out A, E, F, and others. Finally she struck a note high in the treble.

"What note is that, son?" Bobby cocked his head to one side sagely and pursed his lips. "I think that must be 'E, mother!' said he triumphantly.

"Tinker Bob" Stories by Carlyle H. Holcomb

THE KING SEES THE FOREST TERROR

Tinker Bob and The Beautiful Creature of His Desire were not long on their way to the cave of the Forest Terror. Just outside the entrance Tinker Bob stationed himself to watch for the Master of the cave. Things in the Forest develop in strange and peculiar ways. The King did not have to wait very long in hiding places till he saw a large, shaggy creature approaching. His hiding place till he saw a large, shaggy creature approaching.

The sound of the growl from within kept growing louder and louder.

It wasn't long after the first whine from this creature, when there came an answer from inside the cave. It wasn't a whine—it was a growl. The creature outside paid little attention to this growl, but kept right on whining and pawing the dirt. The sound of the growl from within kept growing louder and louder as the creature inside came closer to the entrance.

"Now," said Tinker to himself, "we'll soon find out what the Forest Terror is about to do." It was true for the King had no more than spoken these words when Mr. Wolf thrust his nose out of the cave.

The fellow outside had been out looking about the Forest and had come back to tell Mr. Wolf what he had seen. Says he: "Mr. Wolf, there's a great fuss in the Forest. All of the creatures seem to be hurrying as fast as ever they can as quickly as possible."

"I'm afraid," said Mr. Wolf, "that something terrible will happen if the great spirit that I saw does not come to me again, I shall keep watch tonight in the open to see if the great spirit will come again. But if this King of the Forest comes to the cave to see me today, we must be ready to capture him so he cannot get into the Forest again. You must watch from the mountain side all day for I shall be in the Forest. I must not be here when the King comes."

These words were enough for Tinker Bob, King of the Forest, and he decided at once to return to the palace that he might tell Chief Pokey and Major Pole Cat what to do next. In his own mind he had decided to return to the cave again that very day. So he tapped the Stone of Knowledge and the Beautiful Creature of His Desire was soon carrying him on the way to the palace. Watch closely, for the King will soon return.

Tomorrow—The King's Visitors.

BUSY MEN.

Some of us are gifted speakers and we make the welkin sound, fading all the lesser shriekers who may argue and expound; and one grace you'll be allowing when we come before you bowing, but the farmer with his plowing makes the old world's wheels go round. Some of us are famous fighters, with our guns and butcher knives; and a lot of us, as writers, buy the fodder for our wives; others on the stage are playing, through the lines of "Hamlet" straying—but the farmer with his haying is the man who saves our lives. Some have all their lives devoted to the well known public weal, and in congress, silver-throated, you may hear them ably spout; and they have our admiration, our applause and adulation—but the farmer saves the nation, when he feeds the calves their meal. Some are patting gorgeous pictures destined to a deathless fame, and despite the critics' strictures, they will get there just the same; some are preaching public morals, some are gaining singers' laurels—but the farmer with his sorrels, or his claybanks, plays the game. And the farmer isn't yawning as he goes his dusty way, and we do not see him stooping, yelping for a six-hour day; when the early dawn is breaking he goes briskly to his raking, and his honest bones are aching when at night he hits the hay.

HOLY ROLLERESS ENGAGED IN STREET MELEE SAYS A CLUBBY STRANGER FORCED HER TO DRINK

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 16.—Mrs. Adelle Perry, 26, a deaconess in the Holy Roller church and the wife of Thomas Perry, an apostle of that faith, who conducted a Holy Roller mission in St. Louis for several months, is in the city hospital today suffering from alcoholism, and possibly a fractured skull as a result of an inexplicable "free-for-all" that is said to have transpired on North Nineteenth street last night.

According to Mrs. Perry's story, she was on her way to a store late yesterday afternoon, when she was accosted by a young man who asked her to accompany him. She stated that inasmuch as she had no desire to accompany the young man, or any other, she refused and proceeded on her way.

Then, according to her version, the young man seized and pushed her into an alley, where he swung a right and knocked her to the ground. She attempted to get up, but he restrained her, handed out a bottle and offered her a drink. She declined with thanks, whereupon the young man, apparently feeling elbowed and having no able and thirsty drinking partner, determined to improvise one, insisted that she drink or he would kill her. She drank.

Mrs. Perry told the police that she must have drunk whisky, as she became dizzy after imbibing and didn't recall just what happened. Veteran members of the police force who faintly remember the days of whisky say that beverage frequently affected people just as Mrs. Perry described and determined that she must have consumed a goodly portion of the potent liquid.

After drinking, Mrs. Perry said she lost all idea of what she was doing and was unable to explain events following.

Walter Schwandt, 29, arrested with Mrs. Perry, stated that he had taken a wee drop or two of liquor and was on his way home when he saw Mrs. Perry stagger and fall in the alley near Chambers street. He said he attempted to lift her to her feet and another woman whom he had not observed previously, hit him on the head with a brick, whereupon he lost interest in his mission.

Sergeant Woodling, who arrested Mrs. Perry and Schwandt, said they were engaged in a fast and furious fistie encounter in the alley when he came upon them and that both appeared to be enjoying themselves unrestrainedly.

Both were severely scratched about the face. They will be held on charges of disturbing the peace.

Hungary will have the largest family of heroes in the world by the government measure just introduced for the allotment of land to soldiers. The beneficiaries will be limited to men who can prove they fought in the world war and opposed the Red government, and they are permitted to incorporate the word "hoss" (hero) in the family name. Thus Varga Jan will become Hoss-Varga, Jan, or John Hero-Varga.

FROZEN PIPES MAY NOT BE THE REASON YOUR HYDRANTS WON'T RUN

About this date in the month, if the householder awakes and his water pipes do not function, the line might be frozen—or he might not have paid his bill. Either could cause the water not to run at about this date of the month. One thing is certain, however, if the account has been paid then the time of frozen.

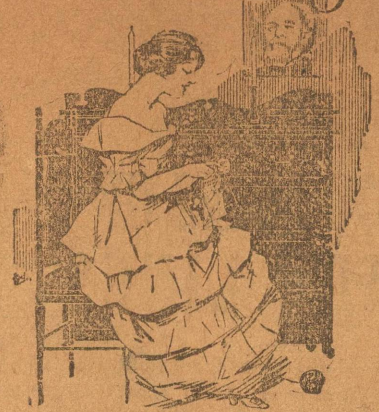

R. R. Nelms, manager of the water company, said this morning that if customers would cut their water off during these freezing nights they would save themselves considerable trouble. Unless it is unusually cold the pipes will not freeze if cut off at the meter.

50 Years Ago

A young man who practiced medicine in a rural district became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce who afterward moved to Buffalo, N. Y. He made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and he put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state in the Union. For fifty years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has sold more largely throughout the United States than any other medicine of like character. It's the testimony of thousands of women that it has benefited or entirely eradicated such distressing ailments as women are prone to. It is now sold by druggists in tablet form as well as liquid.

HOUSTON, TEXAS.—"Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription is an excellent medicine. I have taken it for kidney troubles and when run-down, weak and nervous, and it was very quick in building me up and relieving me of my trouble. I always felt better."—MRS. H. E. WILLIAMS, 2424 Freeman Street.
