POLICE MISTAKE CAUSED BAN ON SUNDAY OPENING HERE, IS STATEMENT OF CHIEF COOPER

Men Misunderstood Instructions, He Says, and Were Over Zealous in Ordering Cigar Stands and Soda Fountains to Close on Sabbath.

"No drinks sold here today by order of the police department," was the wording of a sign printed across the fountain of one drug store yesterday morning. Many other places where soft drinks and cigars were sold had the same instructions. Police Commissioner A. Davenport made an effort to buy a cigar and failed. The Sunday "blue laws" were in effect for about two hours. Then the ban was lifted.

Act Not Sanctioned. Mr. Davenport this morning declared that he had no idea what brought the condition about and that no such instructions had issued from him. In a former interview given The Times the police commissioner stated that so long as he remained police commissioner the Sunday laws would not be enforced by the police.

Chief of Police George T. Cooper said this morning that some of his men took it on themselves to close the town yesterday. This, he said, was a misinterpretation of their instructions.

Shops Ordered Closed. Saturday night members of the police force asserted that their instructions were to see that the laws were obeyed, and Captain Tom Weeks said that he was notifying cold drink stand keepers to close their places at 12 o'clock and keep them closed over Sunday.

From these latter sources The Times obtained the story carried in yesterday's issue, in which it was stated "that if the police carried out the policy of seeing that all the laws were enforced as it said it would do, Sunday morning would find Ranger under the ban of the 'blue laws'."

Trial of Two Bandits Brings Militia Gunners

International News Service. HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Nov. 15.—A detachment of militia machine gunners arrived here this morning and deployed about the court house as the trial of Tom Slaughter and Fulton Green, alleged members of the bandit gang that killed Deputy Sheriff Brown, opened. It was feared that other members of the gang would make an attempt to free the prisoners.

Quick Trial for Negro Whom Mob Could Not Find

FORT WORTH, Nov. 15.—District Judge Hoseny has called back his grand jury for tomorrow morning and promises a quick trial for Robert Lowe, the negro who has confessed to assaulting 10-year-old Althea Shipper at Arlington. The negro has twice escaped mob violence through the vigilance of officers. Five armed men last night entered the county jail here and held two officers prisoners while they searched the jail for the negro. He was not found. They were calm and methodical in their search. Afterward they left the officers' weapons on a desk and forced them to accompany them a block down the street when they were told they might return to their duties. There is no clue to the identity of the five.

TRAIN ROBBERS TAKE REGISTERED MAIL IN HOLD-UP

Believed Millions of Dollars Stolen in Gold, Currency and Gov't. Bonds.

International News Service. OMAHA, Neb., Nov. 15.—Postoffice inspectors, department of justice agents and the police of Council Bluffs and Omaha, are today seeking clues that might enable them to run down bandits who robbed the Chicago and Burlington passenger train last night of a number of pouches of registered mail. The reports of the total cash lost in the robbery vary. It is declared by detectives that it will total $1,000,000. Ten pouches of mail were taken, six of them destined for Chicago banks. It is believed that the pouches contained bar gold, currency and stocks being sent eastward from California banks.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 15.—Federal reserve bank, subtreasury and mint officials here are inclined to minimize the reports of the large sum shipped by those institutions having been stolen in the Omaha train robbery. They agree it will be impossible to estimate the sum lost until the time locks on the safes of the institution automatically open tonight.

LONE MINER STAYS ON JOB WHEN FELLOW WORKERS WALKED OUT

CADDFE, Wales, Nov. 15.—A million of the coal miners of Great Britain participated in the strike, but there is at least one who did not obey the union call to quit work. He presented himself for work at a South Wales pit when 20 men were employed keeping the colliery in order. He went down for his seven-hour shift, out coal, put it in a tub and took it to the pit mouth single-handed.

TRAIL BANDITS SURPRISED WHILE THEY WERE IN BANK

By Associated Press. FORT WORTH, Nov. 15.—Officers today are trailing two bandits toward Waco who were surprised working Sunday on a safe in the Continental State bank at Crowley. They fled south in an automobile.

ODD LIFE BOAT IS USED BY DUTCHMEN

HOOK OF HOLLAND, Nov. 15.—An unusual type of lifeboat which operates by sucking water up from the ocean and blowing it back again, and so obtaining a speed of nine miles an hour, has been adopted by the life-saving crew which works in stormy waters along the Dutch coast here. The boat has a hole in the bottom, through which the water is drawn by an intake pipe which leads to a powerful centrifugal pump operated by a 140-horsepower steam engine. The water is then forced backward into the sea through two outlet pipes opening at the bottom of the craft. The boat is controlled by shutting off either wholly or in part, one or the other of these outlet pipes. If one is shut off it goes to starboard, if the other, it goes to port. If both are shut off, and the water diverted harmlessly over the sides while the suction goes on at the intake it is claimed the boat rests almost still in the stormiest of seas, the suction holding it firmly on the water. The Dutch life savers have found that this craft keeps steadier than any boat propelled with oars or by screws. It is 58 feet long and has a capacity for from 40 to 100 passengers, depending upon the state of the sea. It has been in use for some time and has saved many lives.

MAY BE HARDING'S SECRETARY IN CAPITOL

George B. Christian, Jr.

George B. Christian, Jr., for six years secretary to Warren G. Harding, is talked of to go with Harding to the White House in the same capacity. Christian was a Democrat years ago, until there was organized in Marion, O., the "Harding Democrats." Christian was assistant clerk and called the roll of delegates at the Democratic convention that nominated Wilson in 1912.

SEEK SLAYER OF ACTRESSES FOUND IN PARK

Believe Young Girls Were Hurlled From Auto After Fight for Life.

International News Service. CHICAGO, Nov. 15.—Chicago is being combed today by police and detectives for the slayers of two young actresses whose bodies were found on the shores of Lake Michigan, in Grant Park, within a few blocks of the city's most famous thoroughfare, Michigan Drive. Five men are being held as material witnesses in the cases and a vigorous search is being conducted for persons who may shed light on the killings. Meantime the bodies of the newly slain girls await the action of the coroner. The dead actresses are Miss Alma Marine Raney, a vaudeville performer, and Miss Lillian Thompson, both well known in theatrical circles. A single clue on which the police are at work is the track of an auto tire, clearly defined, leading into the park where the bodies were found. One of the girls appeared to have been thrown from the rear of the car. The theory of the police is that the girls were not slain at the spot where their bodies were found, but that they were killed elsewhere and the bodies transported. The spot is shielded by an embankment. Pools of blood nearby and cuts and bruises on the bodies indicated that the girls struggled for their lives.

REDS SHOW NO MERCY IN BATTLE

Wrangel's Army Annihilated When Red Horsemen Fight With Fury.

FLASH By Associated Press. PARIS, Nov. 15.—Sebastopol has fallen. The Reds occupied the city last night, according to official advice received by the French foreign office. By International News Service. CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 15.—The Red army under the personal command of Leon Trotsky, commissioner for war, has over-run all of the Crimea, following the crushing defeat of Gen. Wrangel's forces. The allies have blocked all entrances to the coast and Russian torpedo boats are on patrol. The report that fighting along the Crimea raged with terrific fury for days before the Reds broke through the front lines of Wrangel's army. They accused the Red cadets of showing no quarter. It is claimed that 30,000 Reds were killed in the taking of Wrangel's first line. Mrs. Hugh Wallace, wife of the American ambassador to France, is considered the busiest American in Paris.

Pretty Girls Needed to Boost Red Cross Roll Call

The Red Cross needs your help. It needs your membership in the organization and it needs volunteers to help secure and renew memberships in the order. This morning the fourth call began. Several teams of women workers are at work but they are not enough. Many others could be used if they would report to Mrs. Gifford Clegg at the Oil Cities Electric company office, which is being used as headquarters for the Red Cross during the membership drive. Success Depends on Workers. Leaders say that the success of the roll call depends upon the willingness of workers to go out and ask the residents for their memberships. The work the organization has done and is doing is too well known, they say, to doubt but what every one is ready and willing to respond to the call. Work for Soldiers. It is said that since the war the Red Cross has done more to save ex-soldiers and their widows from being fleeced out of their rights than any other organization, including the United States government. With publicity and through personal messages they have fought the slyster lawyers who have secured money from widows and ex-soldiers in return for an imaginary service of obtaining for them their war risk insurance and other benefits coming from the government. The Red Cross itself has secured these benefits for thousands of ex-servicemen and widows of ex-servicemen and always without charge. But their activities have not been confined to this class alone. Hundreds of relief cases in Ranger and elsewhere have been cared for by the order. To keep this and hundreds of other activities for the benefit of humanity going the Red Cross must have funds. These funds are being secured through memberships at $1 each. To secure these memberships workers are needed.

HOLD MAN ALLEGED TO HAVE POCKETED WAGES OF "STRAW MEN" LISTED ON TIME ROLLS

Padded pay rolls for an extra gang are said to have lifted several thousand dollars from the Hamon line's treasury into the pockets of conspirators. B. F. Harrison, foreman of the gang, is in jail, and warrants have been issued for two other men believed to be involved. It is said that through collusion between several white men employed on the extra gang, dummy names were put on the time books, time slips made out for them, and strange Mexicans hired to present these checks to the paymaster here.

Jelks F. Castellaw Elected to Place on Gas Co. Board

Jelks F. Castellaw, president of the Ranger Retail Merchants' association, has been elected by that body to a place on the directorate of the Sammie Oil corporation, in accordance with a plan announced Saturday by Senator A. E. Barrett, president of the company, in announcing his plan to give control of the local gas company to Ranger people. There will be a called meeting of the Chamber of Commerce directors this afternoon to select another director, and it is understood that the chamber has asked each bank to send a representative to the meeting, in order that they may get together and select a third member of the board.

Fall To Tell Harding About Border Affairs

POINT ISABEL, Texas, Nov. 15.—President-elect Harding will meet Senator Fall of New Mexico at Brownsville and will confer with him on Mexican border conditions, it has been learned. Members of the Harding party, however, profess to see nothing of special significance in the meeting. Fall is chairman of the senate subcommittee on Mexican affairs.

PETRIFIED BODIES OF EXTINCT IBIS FOUND BY SAVANT

PARIS, Nov. 15.—Thousands of mummified bodies of the sacred ibis have been found by the French savant, M. Lacan, in the underground necropolis under the famous ruined temple at Deir-Medineh, Egypt. Each bird was in an elaborately decorated vase of earthenware embedded in a sort of cardboard formed by a conglomeration of papyrus which totalled hundreds of thousands of written documents. M. Lacan said the find was one of the most important of the late discoveries in Egyptology. The work of deciphering the documents will take years. "It is the waste paper basket of ancient Egypt," said one of those charged with the work.

TUG BATTLES STORM ON LAKES TO RESCUE SHIPWRECKED MEN

By Associated Press. SAULT STE. MARIE, Nov. 15.—The tug Iowa is fighting its way today thru storm tossed waters of Lake Superior toward Pancake shoals in an attempt to rescue part of the crew of the steel freighter Frances Willard, which was wrecked during one of the most severe storms of the lake's history. Captain Arthur Forbes, in command of the stricken vessel, and some members of the crew, were picked up last night by the steamer Livingstone.

TURKEYS SENT BY CARLOADS FROM DUBLIN TERRITORY

DUBLIN, Nov. 15.—A local packing company has shipped four cars of dressed turkeys and will have about eight cars more, says the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. A car brings around $7,000, of which amount the farmers who raise the birds get the greater profit. No extensive turkey raising program has followed here, but it is pointed out that if this industry was intensified the turkey traffic would become the leader. Many West Texas towns are this year sending out trains of turkeys and the season will continue until January 1.

SNOW AT NEW YORK. NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—New York City was treated to the first snow fall of the year today.

MEXICAN BULL FIGHTING WILL START SHORTLY

International News Service. MEXICO CITY, Nov. 15.—Bull fighting fans here, whose status is similar to that of baseball fans in the United States, have been delighted by reports from New York telling of the arrival there from Spain of Rodolfo Gaona, a famous Mexican torero, who is one of the idols of Mexico City, and Juan Belmonte, champion bull fighter in Spain. Without Gaona a season of bull fighting would be state indeed, in the opinion of Mexican fans. Before his arrival in New York there were reports that he intended to retire, having amassed a fortune in the arena, but he is said to have denied these reports and announced that he had no intention of giving up the sport in which he is King. As a number of Spain's greatest bull fighters are here, or are on their way, to take part in the spectacular events arranged for this fall and winter, Gaona will have the rivalry of these Iberian celebrities to put him on his mettle when he again appears in the ring before Mexico City's multitudes.

Yeggmen Blow Two Safes At Abilene, Loot

Special to The Times. ABILENE, Nov. 15.—Yeggmen blew two safes in widely separated parts of the town here last night. The safe in the freight office of the Wichita Valley railroad was blown open and $2,557.66 was taken, $400 of that sum being cash. The safe in the grocery store of J. W. Cool was blown and $100 in liberty bonds and $100 in cash taken.

WARNING OF GULF STORM IS ISSUED

By Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—The weather bureau ordered a north-west storm warning at 10 o'clock this morning on the Gulf coast from the Bay of St. Louis on the Mississippi to Cedar Keys, Fla. Disturbances over the east coast are being increasing in intensity, according to an announcement.

HOMER BARNES TO PLEAD INSANITY ON CHARGE OF MURDER

FORT WORTH, Nov. 15.—The case of Homer Barnes, 19 years old, accused of killing James Acord, street car conductor, during an attempted robbery of a traction car, was called for trial this morning. Barnes signed a confession a few days after the killing. His attorneys, however, will attack this on the ground that Barnes was temporarily insane. The death penalty will be asked by the prosecution.

SEWING MACHINE WAS AWARDED MRS. C. E. LYON

Mrs. C. E. Lyon, 312 Cherry street, Ranger, winner of the sewing machine, which Ranger retail merchants Saturday afternoon donated to one of their patrons, claimed the gift Monday afternoon. Mrs. Lyon has lived in Ranger for a year and a half. Her husband is a hoisting engineer.

$5,000 Bond. Harrison was arrested by Thomas Pigg, special officer for the Hamon road. He is held under $5,000 bond, which he has not made, and Justice McFatter, in whose court the complaint was filed, states that no examining trial will be necessary, as the grand jury is now in session. In the event bond is not made, Harrison will be taken to Eastland tomorrow. Harrison is said to have come to the Hamon line from Fort Worth, where he was employed by the Rock Island.

Unaccompanied Children Barred From N. Y. Movies

By Associated Press. NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—A crusade for a stricter enforcement of a city ordinance forbidding motion picture proprietors to sell tickets to minors unless accompanied by parents or guardians was started today by the police as a result of a panic last night on the lower East Side, where six children were trampled to death in the mad rush following a false fire alarm. The proprietors and janitor of the theater were arrested after the tragedy and charged with manslaughter. Early today the charge was changed to criminal negligence. They were held without bail for arraignment this afternoon. Most of the twelve youngsters seriously injured were said to be in a critical condition early today. The panic occurred when some patrons noticed curling shadows cast on the screen and smelled the odor of smoke.

PAYROLL OF STEEL PLANT STOLEN IN TRANSIT BY TRICK

International News Service. PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 15.—Federal and private detectives today are hunting for $93,000 stolen in transit between a Pittsburgh bank and the offices of the Wieron Steel company at Wieron, W. Va. The robbery occurred last Thursday but was not announced here until last night. Newspaper clippings were substituted for the money in the package, destined to pay off employees of the steel company.

FINES LAST WEEK TOTAL $2,050; WORK FORCE NECESSARY FOR RIDDING CITY OF VAGRANTS

From Monday to Saturday night last, the police department collected $2,050 in fines. This amount represented 14 persons arrested and fined, and does not take into consideration the number of arrested persons taken for federal officers, those held for investigation, those out on bond and the number who were freed because they had no money and there was no street force where they could be put to work.

The total number of arrests would run beyond 200, the police say.

New Record. This is perhaps the greatest amount of money ever collected during one week by the local department. Several of the men of the force have been averaging working sixteen hours each day, Chief Cooper said.

About fifty of the arrests were made Friday night and included many women who paid their fines and were given notice to leave. Their male companions have also been given notice and the police say that they are going in droves.

This week the police will continue the work without let up, they say, until they have all the undesirable characters on the move. They began the drive several weeks ago on "dope-heads," a class said to cause nearly all petty thefts. Since that time about twenty of the number have been sent to Abilene for trial and several given notice to leave the city.

Need Street Force.

The department maintains that it is badly handicapped by not having a street force of some kind. It is pointed out that men are brought to the station daily who are known to be bad, yet no charge of violating the law can be brought against them beyond a charge of vagrancy. If they have money they pay a fine, if not they are usually released with notice to leave town. If they do not leave or leave and come back, all the police can do is follow the same procedure. The police say that if this class could be made to work they would not be here long, because they consider work their natural enemy.

TEXAS COTTON MISSION WILL VISIT MEXICO

DALLAS, Texas, Nov. 15.—With the approval and by the request of Governor W. P. Hobby, the Texas Chamber of Commerce will appoint a committee representative of all branches of the cotton industry, to visit the cotton growing districts of Torreon, Mexico, and make a careful investigation of the damage done by the pink boll worm during the past season. The results of this investigation will be laid before the people of Texas for their guidance in further dealing with this infestation.

Correspondence of the Texas Chamber of Commerce from responsible concerns either interested in, or who have recently visited the Laguna district of Mexico, confirms the report that the ravages of the pest has been very severe this year. Since the damage done to cotton in that district has been the basis of much of the apprehension over the appearance of the pink boll worm in Texas, the agriculture department of the Texas Chamber of Commerce has taken the lead in making this investigation.

The committee will assemble at San Antonio November 26, and the trip to Mexico will consume about twelve days. Five of the following organizations have already agreed to send representatives, while the other five have not been heard from:

Texas Chamber of Commerce, Texas Division of American Cotton Association, Texas Farmers' Union, United Cotton Growers' association, Texas Farm Bureau Federation, Texas Cotton Seed Crushers' association, Texas Ginners' association, Texas Cotton association, Texas Bankers' association, and Farmers' Protective association.

As a plan to honor ex-students of the University of Wisconsin, who lost their lives in the World War, a campaign is under way to raise $1,000,000 for a war memorial.

Only about 6 per cent of the females in Spain are employed outside their homes.

GERMANY'S JINGOES TALKING OF REVENGE AGAINST POLAND AND FRANCE; PLANS IN MAKING

BY FRANK E. MASON, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, Nov. 15.—Germany's jingoes and chauvinists who are talking of a war of revenge against France and Poland receive scathing treatment at the hands of a German general staff officer, who ridicules the fairy tale victory which these armchair strategists win on paper or over their beer. It would be bad enough if this loose attitude of defeating the French like an amusing game of chess played on the map of Europe were limited to civilians, comments the writer, who regrets that any retired army officers are spreading the jingoism.

"On the day of the declaration of war between Germany and her former enemies, airplanes will appear over Berlin, Magdeburg, Hanover, Halle and Hamburg and bombard these cities and their railroads without meeting any opposition worth mentioning. The enemy will have unlimited mastery of the air from the very first. With their tanks, armored automobiles, their heavy artillery and their aircraft, the enemy columns will set in motion, breaking down any resistance like more play. This is the picture which the German general staff officer, writing anonymously in the Weibuehne, draws of the inevitable results of any possible attempt of Germany, in alliance with Russia, attacking the French to drive them from occupied territory.

After War Opened.

"The campaign of lies would immediately be reopened. The day after the declaration of war, the press of the world would be swarming with the atrocities the Huns had committed on the members of the entente missions in Germany. A few German radios shot into the air addressed to whomever would pick them up would be powerless to combat the propaganda.

"The enemy army would take their own sweet time pushing along the River Main to the Fichtel mountains to separate Bavaria from northern Germany. The army would push from the Rhine to the River Elbe; Hamburg and Bremen would be occupied, later on Kiel, Stettin, Danzig and Koenigsberg. The blockade would be carried out with a comparatively small exert of naval power.

"I would be thankful if someone would explain to me how all this is to be avoided," continues the officer. "The crop of amateur strategists who during the war opened their trades with 'If Hindenburg would simply do so and so'—is again causing mischief. The writing desk here of the Hamburg Volkszeitung announces that never has the situation been so opportune for a coalition with Russia to defeat German capitalism and entente militarism.

Fine Plans on Paper.

"These strategists develop gigantic plans. Arm in arm with Russia they attack the entente, of course, at first defeating Poland. They raise an army of millions by the simple process of striking several naughts from the census returns. The army will be armed and fed from—nothing—these are details unworthy of the attention of our wild strategists. An especially beautiful sentence these people love to use is: 'We must lend a helping hand to Russia.' That sounds so fraternal and rounds out the resolutions adopted at any meeting.

"It would really be worth while if these communists and pan-Germans, military as well as civilians, who couldn't successfully conduct a parade of eight men across a curbstone, but who use up endless paper with the operations or armies of millions, would investigate the subject a little more closely.

"Whether the army is called a red army or white, or even green, it not only needs money to conduct a war, but also men who must be trained, clothed, fed and armed. To be mobile the troops need airplanes and horses.

HAD NERVOUS BREAK-DOWN

But Health Restored to Texas Lady, Who Is Now Well and Strong, Able to Do All Her Housework And More.

Rosebud, Texas.—Mrs. Annie Lange of R. F. D. No. 4, this place, writes as follows regarding her experience with Cardui: "Some time ago I had a nervous break-down of some kind. I was very weak, and so nervous. It all seemed to come from trouble. For at I had fainting spells and suffered a great deal, but more from the weak, tremble, no-account feeling than anything else. I knew I needed a tonic, and needed it badly.

"I had began the use of Cardui, to see if I couldn't get some strength, as I knew of other cases that had been helped by its use. I felt better. I soon saw a great improvement, so kept it up.

"I used seven bottles of Cardui, and can say the money was well spent, for I grew well and strong. Now able to do all my housework and a great deal of work besides."

If you are run-down, weak, nervous and suffer from the ailments peculiar to women, it is very likely that Cardui will help you, in the way it has helped thousands of others, during the past forty years.

Take Cardui, the woman's tonic.—Adv.

Armies require roads and railroad that daily and hourly will be busy forwarding replacements, rations, ammunition and supplies of all sorts. Airplanes, radio, telegraph and telephone apparatus are required. Hundreds of factories must work day and night to supply the needs of an army.

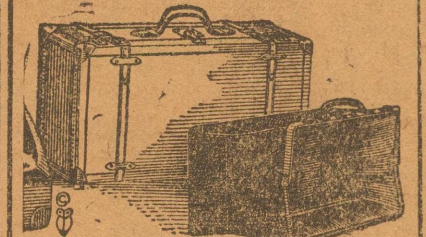

"Yes," says our amateur strategist, "that is nothing new. We have had all of that before. We only need to have the proper persons, just as Lenin called in Brussilow. It is all only a question of organization and a dictator would quickly have everything running smoothly."

"Nothing is weaker, however, than a comparison with Lenin. Just as they did in the days of Napoleon I, the Russians today can withdraw into their own land, whence it is almost impossible to follow them because of the length of the lines of communication. Russia is an impregnable power, thanks to her immense area. She has been unfortunate in nearly all of her wars, and still has increased in area.

Gigantic Task.

"But how do we stand? Let's take it for granted that the German government, whether red or white, whether radical or reactionary, has agreed to lend Russia a helping hand. The next step, of course, would be to keep the agreement a secret. Workmen, engineers, officers would be sent to Russia, to organize a base for an army. Then we would undertake in Germany to train all serviceable men between 20 and 50 years of age; which is in itself a gigantic task, even if the men are all of one political party. This must all be done under the eyes of the entente commissions.

which would soon learn of the plan. It would result in an ultimatum, followed by war. Through volunteers the German army would be increased to 300,000 men, possibly 500,000. These twelve to eighteen German divisions would be mobilized on the eastern border of Germany, where they would occupy the Polish corridor, amid the cheers of the population. They would be distributed for a war against Poland, and the Russians would attack Poland at the same time from the east. In the meantime the French have occupied up to the River Elbe or farther.

"Attacked from both sides, let us grant that the Polish are vanquished, Warsaw falls, and the union of the Russian and German armies is complete. But then the war really begins. The Russian-German army would require, to complete recruiting, organization and arming, at least two years under the most favorable circumstances; that is, with absolute order in Russia, to arrive at anything compared to the entente troops.

"But the entente wouldn't permit time for this, and the Russian-German commanders would be faced by the alternative of either leading their poorly armed troops against all the modern equipment of the entente, or of retreat. The Russians would consider retreat the right solution. The German would desire to reconquer Germany.

HARDING PARTY IS MAROONED WHEN BIG STORM SWEEPS GULF

By Associated Press. POINT ISABEL, Nov. 15.—With his vacation broken up by the worst storm that has been experienced in the history of this part of the state, President-elect Harding and his party today are making plans to rough Brownsville to spend in comfort the remaining two days of his visit to Texas. He had said good-bye to the trail seaside structures which has housed him during his stay here. An effort to get away from here last night came to grief when the narrow-gauge gasoline propelled train, the only avenue of exit from here since the highways were made impassable by heavy rains, when the tiny engine broke down just outside of Point Isabel. Another attempt to take the train out will be made today.

ROUGH ACTING FEMALE TOPS MAJESTIC BILL

Four blitheome teams of talk, song and dance artists, winding up with a knock down and drag out matrimonial quest, and supported by five maidens in a song and costume performance, make up the vaudeville bill at the Majestic this week.

McCoy and Walton, a tall dark man and a slim but active blond, enter with a fling and leave with a crash. An irate female whose wrath cannot be appeased by the motif. She's rough, gentle, she's rough, and the six-foot-four is heckled into falls which cause excruciating airtight to the gang down below the footlights. There is no long workup to a climax, and the audience has to be on its toes or it will miss something.

Earl and Lewis are a clever pair with the stringed instruments. They play everything and sing some, and even jazz this Hawaiian music, and make it pleasing.

Olive and Mack have a singing and talking a spooning act based on the adventures of a hotel clerk, bell hop, elevator boy, with clever legs, and a striking-eyed actress whose room rent is in the red.

Clayton and Clayton open with a stage cartoon act. Mr. Clayton draws pictures and talks about 'em—gives us the real inside dope about 'em—while he smears paint on paper and winds up by presenting a finished picture. He draws one of a gent whom he styles the boob, to the accompaniment of a parody on Kipling's "The Vamp" or whatever the name of the "even as you and I" poem is. It draws a big laugh, and a lot of little ones. He concludes with drawing a perfect circle at one sweep and then filling in with the picture of a snow covered house among the pines. It was particularly appropriate to last night, and drew an unusually good hand. Miss or Missus Clayton—the program doesn't say—sings well.

The five Melody Girls in song and dances wind up the show. There are a couple of girls who dance with spirit.

MAJESTIC

"The Country That God Forgot" is a story of the Western wastes and a man's love for a woman.

What is "The Country That God Forgot?" The barren desert with its perils and privations.

A strong story of the country that spares no one, and where the mightiest survive.

The survival of the fittest is the keynote of "The Country That God Forgot."

Fate cuts merry didos in "The Country That God Forgot."

Red-blooded manhood, honest self-sacrifice, intrigue, crime and sincere love—and all in the Great Solitude of "The Country That God Forgot."

In the end a great awakening came to Helen Brant, who had never been outside of "The Country That God Forgot."

The excellent direction of Marshall Nolan, the wonderful portrayal of Tom Santschi, Mary Charleson and George Fawcett makes "The Country That God Forgot" a truly great picture.

Playing at the Majestic today and Tuesday.

PROGRAM 10c
DAILY

Following the exchange of telegrams Harry Morris boarded a train for Brooklyn and he has been reunited with his mother and brother and the home is now a scene of general rejoicing.

The long separation was due to a mixup in names. And because of the error Harry Morris, growing up as Harry Morrison, drifted around the world until he grew to manhood and was able to shift for himself. He always supposed that he was an orphan and never knew who his parents were or where they lived.

Was Sent West.

Harry Morris was placed in the care of the Children's Aid society by his parents when he was 8 years old. The family was poor, there was three children and it became necessary to do something to make ends meet. So Harry was placed in the care of the society for a few years, at the end of which time the family hoped to be able to take him back again.

The boy, with twenty-four other children, was shipped to Nebraska. There, in a country Nebraskan town, the children were lined up against the side of a store building and farmers came to town and picked out whichever boy they chose, to take back with them on the farm for work in exchange for board and keep.

Harry Morris was selected by a farmer and a few weeks later was doing the chores around a Nebraska farm. He says the next few years was a life of hardship. A city boy, unused to farm work, he was worked hard from daybreak until nightfall, and says that once he was lashed with a blacksnake whip until he could not stand. He secured but little schooling. It was a case of never-ending work, farm labor of the kind to break the back of a growing boy, and Morris, meanwhile, was told that he was an orphan and "no account" so many times that he finally grew to believe it. From farm to farm he was "bound out," and they were nearly all the same—farmers who were chiefly concerned in seeing that they exacted a good measure of the boy's labor in exchange for board and keep.

But the spark of life was strong in Harry Morris. He grew into a husky youth under the rigorous treatment and finally was big enough to go his own way into the world. "He drifted into Lincoln, Neb., when he was not quite 17 years old, and from there to Kansas City."

There he entered the United States navy and served five and a half years, rising to the rank of quartermaster first class and receiving an honorable discharge at San Francisco in 1914. He went back to Nebraska and took up farming, later securing employment in Hastings, Neb., where he was married and then moving to Beatrice, where he has been a field agent for the Singer Sewing Machine company. He has been married four years and has two children.

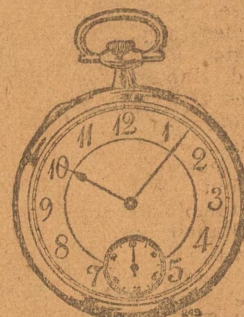

A few years after he had left his parents the family, in more comfortable circumstances, sought to locate him to have him returned to them again. But due to the error of names the boy could not be located. The family and the society did everything possible to locate him but without success. In March, 1919, the father died, but the mother kept up the search. A few months ago a sister died, just when trace of him was gained, but the mother and a brother, George Morris, who has devoted all his spare time to the search, were

FAKE PROMOTERS GET THE 'GOFF' IN WEST TEXAS NOW

STAMFORD, Nov. 15.—Fake promoters are receiving the guff in many West Texas towns following warnings sent out by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. "The towns of Clarendon, Childress, Dalhart and others are wary of the men who come with specious propositions that will not stand up under close investigation. The result of the organization's warning has been to save numerous communities from subscribing to the stock of ephemeral companies. "These men usually start a proposition, secure a commission of 15 per cent, blow up and hike, leaving the subscribers with the bag," says the organization.

MOTHER REUNITED WITH SON AFTER MANY YEARS' LOSS

International News Service.
NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—There's a mother smiling through tears of joy over in Brooklyn today. She is Mrs. Etta Morris, of 1580 Eastern parkway, and she is happy because her "lost boy," Harry Morris, had returned to her after an absence of twenty-three years. He left home when a boy of eight years, and although a countrywide search had been made for him for years, it was not until a few weeks ago that trace of him was found. To the little town of Beatrice, Neb., went the telegraph message which told Harry "Morrison," as he was known, that his right name was Morris, that his mother and brother were living in Brooklyn and that he was of good parentage and bore a good and respected name.

AND YET ANOTHER CLEANUP.

Now that Ranger has been cleaned up morally, or is in the process of being so cleaned up, with the view to attracting worth while citizens, it might be well to further make the town attractive by a physical cleaning up and brightening up as well.

Ranger—any town for that matter—can attract workers by offering sufficient remuneration. But unless other conditions also are met it will not attract married men, or at least the families of married men.

Thousands of homes have been built in Texas and other states of the Southwest by money earned in Ranger. These homes might just as well have been built here had conditions been morally and physically attractive.

Other thousands of homes will be built somewhere with money earned in Ranger. They will be built here if we make Ranger a desirable place to live. Admittedly it is a vast project to make a city with all conveniences and desirable features. It cannot be done in a day, certainly, but the work is progressing fine. The big things, such as schools, paving and other construction are being taken care of. But the little cogs without which there is nothing, how about them?

Cleanliness is an attraction. Prospective residents cannot be expected to form an instant attachment for a slouchy and frowsy town any more than they would for an individual of the same type. What boots it to have a pavement if a stranger cannot tell the paving is there? They must see it to believe it, and they cannot see it unless it is cleaned and properly lighted.

These things are among matters to be promptly attended to. Physical charm must go hand in hand with moral character if the desired result is to be attained.

Now, viewing the matter dispassionately, it would seem that retail business, including the hotels and show houses—all lines that make their money through sales to individuals—are the ones that will receive most benefit through clean and well lighted streets. Therefore it would seem that they can well afford to attend to these matters themselves until such time as the city is able to take them over.

Consider a budget for these purposes: Clean streets can be obtained for about $150 a week, or $7,500 a year. That fact can be proved by Mr. Hopkins of the Ranger Storage & Transfer company, who lost some hundreds of dollars in demonstrating that the streets can be kept clean, and was forced to quit because he could not obtain the co-operation of merchants generally.

Lamp posts and their installation, it is believed by those in a position to know, can be obtained for $150 each, or $600 for four posts to the block. Four lights to the block would give a presentable "white way" effect, at least for a time and perhaps permanently. There are four blocks on Main street, one on Marston, two or three on Austin, the same of Rusk, possibly two on Commerce and the same number on Pine, in addition to the one block already in operation there, on which this system should be installed.

Seven blocks would make a good start on properly lighting the business district. At $600 a block this would make a total of $4,200.

This sum, added to the $7,500 needed for cleaning the streets, would total around $12,000.

There are said to be some 200-odd business establishments in the business district. Assume that each place of business, including both stock and real estate, is worth $20,000, which is a conservative estimate. That would be $4,000,000 valuation in the downtown district.

Recently merchants went before the city commission and asked that the tax rate be made $2 instead of $1.75, the additional 25 cents per $100 to be used as a street cleaning fund. That would have meant the downtown district would have paid $10,000 in additional taxes this year. The city commission refused, not believing the higher rate was justified.

However, there is nothing to prevent the merchants taxing themselves for civic improvement. If there are 200 business men, there are also 200 landlords, or a total of 400. Three-fourths of this number, or 300, should have enough civic pride, to say nothing of business acumen, to want clean streets as business bringers. If those 300 will contribute $1 per week each, that will mean a total of $15,000—more than sufficient to establish a permanent lighting system for the city and keep the streets clean for one year.

It's a simple matter, if properly organized. And it has been suggested that if one business man on each block would take the matter up with his neighbors, and the representatives from each block get together, there would be little trouble in obtaining unanimous agreement to appropriate the one million each week.

Turn on the lights, and let the bricks reflect them.

THE WOMAN WHO SAW

In the Midst of Alarms.

With her friend, the Little Designer of stage costumes, the Woman stood chatting the other evening at the Christopher street subway entrance. The weather was so unseasonably stifling that they had enjoyed a laugh over the longevity allotted to their pet blue cotton dresses. And, because even the thinnest of dresses is more comfortable above than below, they were inclined to protract their parting. After a whole summer spent hundreds of miles apart, there was so much news, so many opinions to exchange.

"How did you vote?" began the Little Designer. "Things are in such a turmoil—" She broke off with a shudder. Boom, boom, boom, sounded above them. Then crashing, redoubled crashing, even as they had heard people describe the terrible explosion in Wall street some time since. The Little Designer stood pale under the subway domes, her hand on her throat, while the Woman gripped the post. Both felt that their hour had come, until a chorus of boots wrenched them back to life. A string of urinals on the rail just opposite were peering delightedly down the stairway marked "Exit," where a huge metal garbage can, after a thunderous onrush, was reluctantly quieting down on the concrete landing below.

"You little villain!" panted the Designer, the first to reach the scene of the crime.

"Aw, we ain't the kids you done it; they beat it, you bet," retorted one scornful witness of six summers.

"Heavens, just think of the poor girl—own these!" As though nerves weren't raved enough anyway these days. The Little Designer waved her hands about in the interest of humanity, but the Woman was at last yielding to an attack of giggles as an elderly and immaculate gentleman, careless of ribbon and glass like, and utterly oblivious of the over-urged can, clatching the rail and wild-eyed, kept three steps at a time for freedom and the open air.

Casting No Stone.

"Well, Mary Judd, I declare I don't believe I've seen you since we used to sit together in Freshman Bible," declared a lively lady to another of much the same type, as she dropped into a bus seat.

Then came a burst of "Don't you remember," which the Woman found more easy to follow than her hobnobbing book.

"Dear Miss S., she went on, now she did chuckle over our Freshman frailties, particularly in the line of spelling.

"I darsay I was one of the worst," remarked her companion. "Spelling never was my strong point. Miss S. had a collection of our mistakes that she used to use when she went about the country lecturing. I'll never forget my mortification the first year I taught at my very first teachers' institute, where she happened to be speaking. 'I had a pupil once,' she remarked by way of anecdote, 'who invariably spelled Judea, with two d's, but then I always forgave her, for her name was Judd.' And my superintendent and all the high school faculty in the audience, too! It was awful. But I went up and made myself known afterward and we had a good laugh over it."

"Apropos of Bible knowledge," she continued, "when I was buying a new suit the other day I selected one that had a button missing. 'Oh, that's all right,' said the saleswoman, obligingly snipping a button from another suit on the rack. 'I'll rob Peter to pay Paul.'"

Just Human—That's All. "Now, you wouldn't believe it, but I take a 38. I know I don't look more than 33, but the width is all in my shoulders. Some folks, tall thin ones, 'an put on most anything and look classy—but me, with my small, fat figure, gosh, nothing looks good on me."

"I wouldn't say that. Little figures look snappier to my mind. Why, there used to be a friend of mine who had the same kind of a figure you have, and believe me, he looked good in anything. I tell you he could put on overalls and there wasn't anyone had more class than he did. Now, you take me, I wear a 44 size; of course I weigh 230, but the kind of clothes, etc., etc., etc."

They slung off the bus as it turned in at Fifty-seventh street, two men who were as much concerned about their clothes and figures as any frivolous female. And now the Woman is just waiting to hear some boastful male say, "Fashions—oh, boss—that's verjan's sphere."

Painless Franchising. The Business Girl was standing in line waiting for a table at her favorite downtown Child's, and bits of conversation floated to her ears—some wise and some otherwise.

JAPAN: "NOBODY LOVES ME—I'M GOING INTO THE GARDEN AND EAT WORMS."

COPPERS' NEW UNIFORMS TO BE 'DEDICATED' AT OLD-FASHIONED BALL; REG'LAR DANCES, TOO

None of the Ranger police force can do the "shimmy" they say, but when the fiddle cuts loose on the Virginia reel, those boys are at home. And among the number are several who have not forgotten how to stand on a soap box and in a voice that can be heard, shout the old, old formula of "now yo' right, now yo' wrong, swing yo' pardner and move along," all of which is an introduction to the statement that the policemen are going to give an old-fashioned dance at the Summer Garden some night during the latter part of the week.

Oh, You Uniforms! In new uniforms, adorned with brass buttons and a white military stripe down the leg of the trousers, they will show the younger generation how their fathers danced. Not, however, that the policemen are so old—many of them are not, but they are all old enough to have been taught the art of square dancing and waltzing.

The formation of Republican Women's National Motor Corps was recently announced. The organization of women of fered their passenger cars and personal service during the remainder of the Presidential campaign to transport speakers for parades and for other services in the 4,000 counties of the United States.

JUDGE LANDIS' NEW JOB.

Rewards of merit are bestowed so unexpectedly and in such strange ways at times that they often appear capricious. Here is Kenesaw Mountain Landis, for example, at the age of fifty-four, in receipt of an offer of $50,000 a year for seven years to act as Chairman of the new Board of Control for professional baseball.

Since 1905 this favored son of fame has been administering justice in Chicago as a United States District Judge, stipend $6,000. In that time he has presided at many important trials and by his devotion to the public interest has gained more than local reputation. But during this long period of devoted service he was unconsciously laying up treasures of which he knew nothing. Being an admirer of the national game himself, an attachment for him was forming in the hearts of owners, players and fellow-spectators that needed only an occasion to express itself as the public generally never dreamed of showing its favor to a mere Magistrate.

When Mr. Landis mounted the bench he doubtless hoped to win the approval of his countrymen by the probity of his life and the sincerity of his judicial conduct, but he could not have foreseen that splendid recognition of character and service would come at last from the grand stand and the bleachers. With a salary as Chief Justice of baseball more than three times that paid the Chief Justice of the United States, Judge Landis may be congratulated on the fact that while the citizen may be indifferent, the fan appreciates and remembers.—New York World.

PUTTING DENT IN PROHIBITION.

By strict construction the United States Supreme Court now finds nothing in the Volstead law forbidding the storage and transportation of intoxicants lawfully in the possession of private persons. It has been held by the prohibition officers, supported by a Federal judge in New York, that no matter how or when acquired, liquor owned by an individual was contraband everywhere except in his home.

This is the same Supreme Court which in June practically ignored the second section of the Eighteenth amendment, giving the states concurrent power, and with only one dissenting vote upheld the Volstead act in all its parts. In those decisions, the most notable example of loose construction, aside from the nullification referred to, was the ruling that under the authority given it to prohibit lawfully interdict non-intoxicants also.

Prohibition as we have it today does not rest upon the mutilated amendment. It derives its force altogether from an oppressive act drawn by Anti-Saloon League attorneys, registered by a subservient Senate and House, passed over a Presidential veto, and drastically interpreted by the Internal Revenue Bureau and its agents. It transcends the power conferred by the amendment in a dozen ways. If the court had been disposed in June to regard the measure with the same exactness it now exhibits in the

BAR ROOM OF JAP IMPERIAL THEATER TURNED TEA ROOM

International News Service. TOKIO, Nov. 15.—The great desert of America has cast its shadow far across the Pacific ocean. In the sake-laden land of old Japan, penetrating clear into the capital city of Nippon, in Tokio, there is a spot where the cocktail glass and the Kirin beer bottle are personae non grata.

But a scant few nights ago there were few places in Tokio where the wine glass and the whisky-soda were handled with such dexterity as in the barroom of the Imperial theater. The beautiful oak bar on the second floor of the handsome white brick building, said to be a copy of the Opera of Paris, was a place where the well-known man-about-town in Tokio might be found most any night. Ak-san, the barkeep, had mixed drinks in America, he knew the knack of it and he boasted of his ability to please the taste of the keenest connoisseur of Tokio's capital.

Of a sudden came the fire of the big convention hall, where 1,000 delegates to the world Sunday school convention, many of them from dry America, were about to begin their meetings. Then came the hurry and scurry at the Imperial theater, in the domain of Ak-san, the barkeep. Cognac bottles, private stock far down in the right-hand corner of the bar, whisky, gins—they all were bundled together in pretty wicker baskets. The bar was cleared of the alcoholic properties and a sign was painted which read: "Tea, mineral water and cakes served here." Needless to say, Ak-san, in high rage, left for a ten-day vacation. His mixing duties for a time were over.

The Sunday school delegates came in hundreds. The beauties of the Imperial theater were commented upon, long talks were made in which the evils of drink came in for their share of attention. One upon a regular visit to the theater dropped in for his noonday tiffin. "A whisky and soda," he suggested to the waiter. It was the thrill of the whole ten days to the boy-saw whose duties had undergone a change and his life had settled into a quiet, peaceful, sake-free existence.

On Oct. 16, one day after the convention crowds from America had gone, the temporary desert made in Tokio out of respect to the delegates to the eighth Sunday school convention, was wet again. The crew of "mixers," headed by Ak-san, returned, cleared away the empty mineral water bottles, the deserted teapots and started life all over again.

MOVEMENT TO SAVE NATIONAL FORESTS TO FIND FAVOR WHEN NEXT CONGRESS MEETS, REPORT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 15.—When congress meets in December a bill will be introduced for a national forest program including better fire protection for the forests. "This step, following an agreement by all the industries interested, marks the first united move in this direction in this country," says Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Forestry association, which announces the outline of features to be embodied in the proposed legislation. The plan calls for national appropriations of at least $11,000,000 a year. The provisions of the proposed measure are two-fold—for a considerable extension of direct federal activity in forest ownership and production, and for the development with federal aid and encouragement of systematic policies in the several forested states to bring about adequate forest production and reproduction.

The program provides specifically, through co-operation between the government, the states and owners of timberlands, for adequate protection against forest fires, for reforestation of denuded lands, for obtaining essential information in regard to timber and timber lands, for extension of the national forests and for other steps essential to continuous forest production on lands chiefly suitable for this purpose. The following legislation is proposed:

Authorizing the secretary of agriculture, after consulting appropriate local agencies, to approve an adequate policy for each state, covering fire protection, reforestation, cutting and removing of timber crops. Not less than $1,000,000 annually available for such co-operation with states.

A survey of forest resources, forest production and forest requirements of the nation.

Provision for studies and experiments in forest reproduction methods, wood utilization, timber tests, wood preservation, development of byproducts and other steps to bring about the most effective use of the nation's forest resources.

Provision for a study of forest taxation, to assist states in devising tax laws which will encourage the conservation and growing of timber. Also methods of insuring against forest losses by fire.

Provision for more rapid replanting of the vast areas of denuded lands within the national forests.

Appropriation of $10,000,000 a year for five years for the purchase of lands, which should be added to the national forest system, whether or not on the headwaters of navigable streams as such purchases are now limited.

Authorizing the addition to national forests of lands now in other forms of government ownership but found chiefly suitable for permanent forest production.

"The very great importance of this program and the suggestion outlined cannot be overestimated," said Mr. Pack. "They affect every state in the Union and the business interests of every state which means that every man who wants to build a home, who wants to get along, will be affected by this important legislation."

"It so happens this united move for a national forest policy," continues Mr. Pack, "comes at an opportune time and its importance to the welfare of every citizen cannot be overestimated. The plan ties up with water power development and the coal situation. When we put the millions of waste power to work, the coal situation will begin to right itself. Water power development and reforestation should go hand in hand. We are at the door of great commercial development. Let us open that door."

The meeting which decided upon a national forest policy was attended by John Foley, representing the Association of Wood Using Industries; Charles Lathrop Pack and P. S. Riddsdale of the American Forestry association; Elbert H. Baker of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, and S. P. Weston, representing the

Near East Women Are 'Fed Up' With Domesticity, Say

LONDON, Nov. 15.—The congress of eastern peoples which was held at Baku in September decided to undertake a campaign of agitation and propaganda among the Mohammedan women of the East says a wireless dispatch from Moscow quoting the Russian newspaper, Pravda. Women delegates to that congress are declared to have urged a convention of another congress to be composed exclusively of women of the East. Soviet Russia would be represented in such a congress by delegates from Astrakhan, Turkistan, Daghestan and Azerbaidjan.

American Newspaper Publishers' association; George W. Sisson, Jr., D. A. Crocker, W. E. Haskell, R. S. Kellog and C. H. Worcester of the American Paper and Pulp association; Colonel William B. Greeley, the United States forester; E. W. McCullough of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States; George S. Long, National Lumber Manufacturers' association; E. P. Perry, National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' association; E. T. Allen, Western Forestry and Conservation association.

The purpose of the proposed campaign as defined by the newspaper, would be to induce Eastern women to "take their places in the ranks of the strugglers for the liberation of the East."

To attain that object the congress of eastern peoples decided to organize women's guilds so as to carry on agitation among them and induce them to become associated with public life and to draw them away from the narrow interests of domestic life.
